There's no putting off until tomorrow the assignments due today, and there's no putting off until next summer or next year or post grad day the job, or art, of living. Students try to wedge into their lives a four year hunk of days and texts and notebooks, or of relaxation and absorption, with admirable intentions of approximating the ideal citizen as soon as the door to Life is opened by that great key, the Diploma. It can't work. Even in the modern whirr, we learn by doing. Getting along with people, using leisure time, giving orders; doing these things well makes living an art.

Ask any grad to tell you about his college days, and you'll find his fondest memories linked to the hard work of decorating for a play or working on the year book. From cooperation toward some goal is born the precious intangibility known as school spirit. Last Wednesday night we saw that the campus is not by any means devoid of spirit. And school spirit is contagious.

WELCOME

A world of welcome to returning veterans. More than your dates and basketball games have been missed in the past three years. You have an important place on Maryville campus, and we want to see you take it.

CONGRATULATIONS

Now, Coach Honaker need no longer tour the country for work, finding plenty to keep him busy in his own back basketball court. Nice work, Coach. If you and the fellows were too busy with the action on the floor to hear the cheers and yells, they spoke most eloquently of the enthusiasm with which Maryville greets the return of intercollegiate sports to the Hill. May all you engagements be wreathed with laurel!

1946—a new year, a new semester, new faces, new classes—have I missed anything? Why, of course, the Women's Student Government Association of Maryville College has been voted and approved. Officers to set it in motion were elected Friday.

What does this mean for Maryville College? It can mean much. The responsibility for its success rests on each individual member of the association. Was it Lincoln who said, "a house divided against itself . . . ?" As we begin this new adventure, it will be wise to keep that in mind. This may well be just the beginning of a series of adventures into the opportunities afforded by the student government.

Months of tireless planning and hard work have preceded the written constitution recently voted upon. The initial aim which motivated the plan will be achieved when those who have agreed to inaugurate this association accept the challenge it presents and act accordingly.

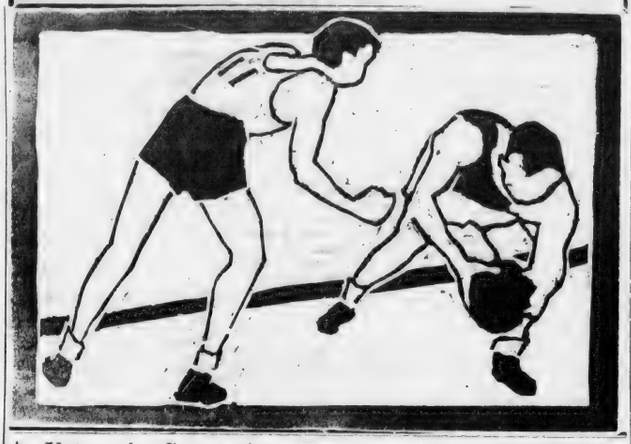
The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Vacation came and vacation went, with the desired paper weights and now scene yet decorating the department store shelf, but other campus girls were not so unlucky. Amidst the plentiful assignments Christmas seems like a dim past, but we must mention Janie's red mittens from Ken and Julie's bracelet from Fred . . . . Ethel Brocker and Esther Cornelius received " good good times" from previous overseas visitors, and the only reason the boys aren't to visit Maryville and possibly the girls is because they are working their fingers to the bone in feeble efforts to pay for the holiday expense. . . . Sarah Enloe was blessed with an overflow of the Chattahoochee River, which kindly ousted her from the possession of her bedroom. . . . Ruth Plyler isn't plotting the quickest way for a letter to reach Pensacola because of a dull vacation. . . . We've heard that Mitch Woolridge has returned so dreamy that she failed to notice the fish pond the other day.

The second semester brings a new year and several "new" interests. Those masculine figures (We understand that Miller has a feature on this. We offered to trade with her, but—) seen on the campus now and then at least boost the morale of this heretofore practically "Eve" world. The report is that the "Romeo" of the campus lives in 204 Bartlett and his favorite story is about his "Pullman" teeth, one upper and one lower. His first name is Bill . . . Becky Davis, Ray Schwartzbach, and Ab Richard were overheard discussing the possibility of forming a club. Any other eligible prospects? . . . Nick Carter sits in biology and wants to know if that man in the white coat is Miss Onifer's assistant. . . . We hesitate to associate certain names in the same sentence, but, when we see two people together at least twice we feel it is our official duty to publicize the fact. That's just offering an excuse for mentioning Elizabeth Crawford and Irvng McArthur. We've only seen Rosemary Barber and Bob Hunter together once, but when we see them the second time we'll be sure to let you know. Looks as if Janet Miller and Jim Black are classed in this category, too. . . . .

There are several girls back again. Offhand, we can't name them all, but welcomes go out to Sandy Blanton, Barbara Wells, and Evelyn Bunch. Miracle—a new fellow, and it isn't pronounced as you'd think—discovered Barbara first thing. Better watch Dinges, old boy.



Then there are those couples who surprise us and walk the circle drive for two consecutive semesters. We're speaking of June and Tom, Ann and Matt, Mary Jane and Jim, and Martha and Bob.

There was an interesting game and an interested crowd in the basketball gym the other night. Bouquets—can't think of a masculine gift—to Renfroe, Spears, Miracle, Hollingsworth, House, Lenoir, Kemp, Secrest, Breazeale, Carter, and any others we might have left out. Everyone agrees that it is a "thrilling thrill of a thrill" to have the opportunity to yell onself hoarse . . . . As we said, the crowd was interested, usually in the ball game, but a few scattered souls held other interests—speaking of Purifoy, who had a date with Betty Lou King. Other noticeable couples were Nita Hinson and Scapellati, Betty Saint and Merle Grubbs, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, Edith Merle and Bill, and Dot Lehman and Schwartzback. . . . We just can't figure out WHY Bob Hill is continually allowed to attend things ALONE . . . . . Buffie Carver and Carl Lazenby were there—for awhile.

Congratulations to Helen Smith and Earl Martin on their engagements, not to each other . . . Smypathy to Edgar Potts and Jim Martin, who pretended embarrassment over the fact that they were compelled to hold forms for the length of main street. . . . Rejoicing with Helen Sorrenson who received that call she has been expecting from California for the last twenty-three months. . . . Comments on Nan Wooten's and Christine Gilreaht's enrollment in Coach Honaker's football coaching class. . . . Voice of several girls, "Missing Paul Myers, now a sailor." . . . . Assistance to J. T. in his search for his glasses. Poor boy, he didn't realize he was wearing them. . . . . Handkerchiefs to Sandy Blanton, who forgot hers when she went to "Rapsody in Blue" . . . . Wondering when Joan's and Tommy's "year-and-a-half" anniversary will be . . . . . Warning to all girls—Rogersville calls EVERYONE "dear."

Oh my! We hear clicking receivers. Someone must have our gossip. Maybe for safety's sake we'd better "hang up" with a cherished hope that we will never be "hung up."

TALK OF THE WEEK..... .... BY JEAN ALMY

A Veteran's Suggestion For College's Policy Toward Vets

TO ANYONE INTEREST:

As the already re-renowned Ssapellati would say, "Let's face it!" Maryville today is a girl's college.

It is a satire of sparkling eyes, bright smiles, and slightly frayed feminine nerves, with a Max Factor backdrop and a Dubarry Success Course cast.

To deny that changes must be made is to deny the meaning of a Liberal Arts education—to approximate the truth.

The answer, of course, lies in more male students, and that means, inevitably, veterans. Otherwise, a four-year period of reconversion—until a normal enrollment of freshman boys can become seniors—must result.

But the college should want, and should have, a good representation of returning veterans next September—in spite of the added burden it will place on Ralph, who must have had a rather boring time of it withal.

University rolls will be quickly filled for the fall semester, if they aren't already. The veterans must turn, and return to the smaller colleges for their education. Maryville can have its pick of the best, from both groups, IF it acts in time. But former students, and new one, will prefer the universities, unless they are made aware of the advantages of attendance at the good small college. And if Maryville doesn't try to take the best, it may end up with the worst.

Only the present student body, with some help from the administration, can advertise these advantages and encourage adequate reflection on the part of the veteran.

There will be men wishing to go to college with the several abilities requisite to the administration of all student body functions. If they are to enter into campus life whole-heartedly, they must be made to feel that they are needed. But how?

It is suggested that only veterans be considered for and elected to the offices normally held by men for the year beginning September 1946, and class officers should not be elected this year until the fall semester begins. No man will want to enter into college life feeling that his vote was not counted and his influence will not be felt. That means also that the Editors and Business Managers of the ECHO and CHILHOWEAN should not be chosen until fall. Other organization should adopt the same principle.

If anyone has doubts whether the ability will be there, don't kid yourself! If it is made known that the ability is needed and desired, it will be forthcoming. If the need for sportswriters, feature writers, and columnists is advertised, there will be a response. If the need for men with imagination, character, and executive possibilities—not to neglect athletic ability—is broadcast, they will gladly come. For in this type college, Better than in a university, they can rapidly regain the individuality they missed in what is euphimistically referred to as "the Service."

Therefore, each class and organization should immediately adopt a resolution to elect only veterans to the male offices in September. The Public Relations Office could then prepare an inexpensive prospectus setting forth that and other facts about the advisability of attending Maryville College and advertising for capable men to fill its offices and run its teams. Such a publication, limited as it might be, could be sent to churches, former students and separation centers' Information and Education officials. A few could be distributed to the students for mailing to personal friends.

Maryville needs the veteran; and at least through next year, the veteran will need Maryville. Rechoice, but only if there are plenty of applications to choose from.

So, if the student body wishes, Maryville can become once more a men's college where women will be tolerated for their gentle influence only—and a place where a girl can again refuse a date.

Don Kent

P.S. As a senior with intentions of graduating in May, I am not out for an office. And as a married man, I'm not worried about losing my Best Girl.

D.K.

P.P.S. The compulsory physical education requirement for vetermember, Maryville can take its ans, with its calisthenics and "left-face "right-face" nonsense should be abolished. That's the pay-off!

Rev. A. L. Roberts To Talk on Missions

The Reverend A. L. Roberts of New York will be the chapel speaker on Friday morning, February 1st. He is the secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions. His central responsibilities deal with the recruiting and nurturing of potential national missionaries, but Mr. Roberts is prepared to meet the broader interests of the Student Volunteers which include both home and foreign service. The Reverend Roberts will remain on the campus all day for interviews with students who wish to speak with him.

Athenians Meet

For the first program of this term, the Athenians presented a musical program. Harold Kidder at the piano and on the trombone, Charles Huffman on the bass fiddle, Harold Hunter on the trombone and Roy Smith on the drums.

Antiquated Antics

By BETTY HARTE

"Many students think there ought to be some good place on the campus for dates in winter time. Why not remodel the men's "Y" store, put in booths, serve sandwiches and hot drinks," states the January 25, 1936 issue of the Highland Echo. Another 10 or 20 years of perseverence 'n we may have 'em.

Freshmen! Maryville's rules and regulations may seem stiff, but there was a day when men on the way to meals at Pearson's had to stop and wait at the Post Office until a bell rang that allowed them to enter the dining hall.

Remembering the Scotties' recent basketball triumph the following 1936 article is a beeyootiful compliment—"Theta Epsilon sisters will relive the fascinating life of their "sister" of long ago when Mrs. E. Martin reviews the popular book, "Mary, Queen of Scots."

The 1936 Leap Year Party with a reception in Carnegie Hall was quite a success. Each gal asked her man for a date; called for him; and brought him back to his dorm. The Wealky Filbuster (a column) listed the following helpful suggestions for inexperienced females:

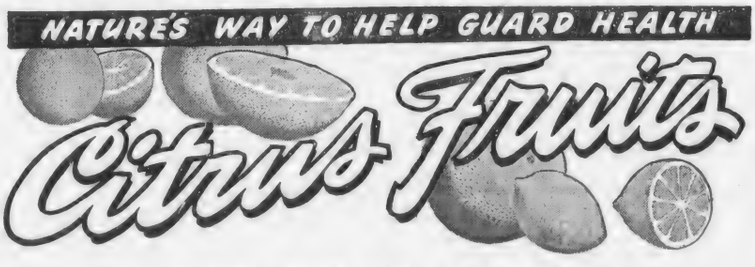
1. Call for your date on time, and don't look at the clock when your date comes down the steps.

2. Apologize for being late—even though you were 20 minutes ahead of time 'n your date a half hour late.

3. Elbow thru the crowd and grab refreshments for three. Eat two, ask your date if he isn't reducing, and eat his.

"Moonshining" today means that a "steady" couple has had to sever communications because of a misdemeanor. "Moonshining" 10 years ago meant dating a girl steady. How did the word originate? A 1936 featurist tells us . . . . .

"It happened one night. A full moon riding high in all its silver splendor created a night for youth and youth recognized it. Certain brave fellows called upon Mrs. Bartlett who ruled with an understanding heart all the women residents of the one and only girls' dorm. These young men asked her in carefully rehearsed phrases, if on this particular night they could escort her charges to a Christian Endeavour service in town. "Let me see how the moon is," she hesitated. The moon played its part well, bathing the earth in brilliance. A flickering kerosene lamp, burning weakly in the room, seemed pale and insipid compared with the luminous night. Thus it was that she made her momentous decision. It was nearly as bright as day out there. "Yes, the girls could go. . ."



"But would it ever happen again? Was the memory of one glorious night ta be the sole outcome of their efforts? Mrs. Bartlett was again made acquainted with their problem. Her answer made history. It became the very first rule of social privilege at Maryville college: 'One Sunday night a month, on the occasion of the full moon, or on the Sabbath nearest to that date young men may escort young women to church.' "

"On such nights she would greet the young men by asking, 'Is the moon shining?' 'Yes' "

"We have had 'moonshining' ever since" (in one form or another.)

MARYVILLE WINS BASKETBALL OPENER

SCOT SPORTS

BY TOMMY PARKINSON

Maryville college is once again on the intercollegiate sports map! That which we longed for so is now upon us, and having sports once again at M.C. is just as good as we knew all along it would be. The year of 1942, which was the last season this college had inter-collegiate sports, seems like ancient history to most Maryvillians; much has happened since then certainly. Among other things there was the slight, or not so slight, matter of an all-out world war which took with it all possibility of intercollegiate sports for us. But now that is history and the Highland Echo is once again burdened with a sports column.

They Call Him Mike

So, to get started let's take a closer look at the personnel of that basketball team we all saw defeat Hiwasse Wednesday night in our initial and official opening of M.C.'s post-war sports. The big gun in the Maryville scoring attack in that opening game was Justice "Mike" Miracle with the "i" pronounced "i" please . He is a sceond semester freshman from Norris, Tennessee. This clever shooting forward stands 5' 11" and is 17 years old. He was in the A.S.-T.R.P. at Clemson College one semester, but is not classified as a veteran; he may have to re-enter that Army program sometime this next summer. Mike learned his basketball playing on the Norris High School team, which for the past couple of years has been one of the classiest high school outfits in this part of the state.

House at Forward

Playing at the other forward position is Max House, who is a sophomore from Cato, New York. Max is the only player on the present starting outfit who was in school here last semester; he is a pre-ministerial student. House is one of the two left-handers on the first five. He is 6' 1" and played three years of varsity basketball at Cato-Meridian High School before entering the college. He was also a footballer in high school.

Navy Vet at Center

Spenser Renfro is the other southpaw on the starting team. He is pivot man for most of the offensive play from his center position. Renfro is a navy veteran; his home is Maryville. He attended Everett High School, and between high school and entering the service he attended Tennessee Wesleyan College two years and M.C. one. His main sport has been football; he earned two grid letters at Wesleyan, and played with the powerful navy team at Bainbridge, Maryland. Spence is a married man and has a young son. He lives off campus. He is scheduled to graduate at the end of a summer session next summer.

Oliver Spears is Back

Oliver Spears, who is the nearest thing to "Mr. Football" on campus right now, is capably holding down a guard position for this edition of the Scotties eage squad. He has been in the army three years and is in the same classification as Renfro in that he also is married and has a boy. Before going into the army Oliver starred three years for the M.C. gridders, playing a brilliant quarterback and being elected co-captain of the season he didn't return to school. Like Renfro also he is "scheduled" to graduate at the end of this summer. Oliver stands only about 5' 7", but is a valuable man on the hardwood. Despite his height, or lack of it, he is good at getting the ball on backboard rebounds, and he is a dangerous long shot. He is a local product, lives in town, and attended Maryville High School where he participated in both football and basketball. He doesn't have any college experience in the cage sport.

Hollingsworth at Guard

The other guard is Harvey Hollingsworth, another army veteran. He hails from Alcoa; he attended Alcoa High School. Harvey entered M. C. and earned a football letter during his first semester before going into the Army Air Forces. He is 5' 10½" tall, and a valuable defensive player.

Other men on the present basketball squad who have been seeing service and who are working for one of those starting berths are:

Abbott "Squire" Kemp, junior army vet from Acworth, Georgia. Squire played high school ball in Acworth. He is about 5' 9½" tall and plays guard.

Will "Wegie" Lenoir is another one on the squad who was here before Christmas. He is a second semester freshman from Norris, Tennessee. He sees considerable service at a forward position.

Leroy Secrest of Meridian, Mississippi. He's a veteran and he played two years basketball at Meridian Junior College before going into the service. Secrest, who has been working hard to get into shape, has the nice basketball height of 6' 3".

Another 6' 3" player is I. G. Breazele. He is a married vet, living in one of the Carnegie Apts. He attended Maryville before going into the service, and he was on the varsity basketball squad one season.

College Team To Battle Local Independent Basketeers Tonight

Tonight at 7:45 the Maryville basketball team meets Amos and Andy, a local independent team in Alumni Gym. The program of basketball is to be a doubleheader with another independant team, Gulf Refining, meeting a team from Oak Ridge at the conclusion of the College team's game.

The game with Amos and Andy should prove to be close with the Scotties standing a good chance to win their second straight game this week. Amos and Andy crushed a college team in a pre-season game before Christmas, but the personnel of the M. C. eam is almost entirely different now.

College students will be admitted to both games free.

Girls in Point System Practice Basketball

The opening meeting of girl's point system was held in the Bartlett gym on Tuesday, Jan. 22. The girls are practicing basketball in preparaton for future games. Teams will not be picked for several weeks.

VIT. C FROM THE GOLDEN TEASERS DIRECTLY, OR NOT

Cries of 'Hey, wait for me' were heard from almost every corner of the dorm; doors slammed; and our end of the hall took on that peculiar silence common only at meal time. Hastening with last minute prepartions so that we would not be the last out, we rushed from the room, slammed our door, and, like the rest of the inhabitants of that floor, stampeded for the dining hall. In mid-air on the second flight of stairs, it occurred to us that it was rather unnecessary to rush, for food doesn't go that fast. Upon reaching the hall we observed other tables before reaching ours, noting with a slight tremor that halves of grapefruit were reposing on the tables. "Oh well," we thought, this dress needed cleaning anyway," and plodded on to our gastricly pre-determined destination.

It all depends upon personal taste as to when you desire to eat YOUR grapefruit. To keep peace (and piece) in our family, we save it until last. The meal proceeded with the customary calm until some eager beaver just couldn't restrain himself any longer. SPLAT! Grapefruit juice facial! Until this time I had never known that one of our members was of Indian descent, but she grunted. "Ugh" with all the vehemence she could muster (which was plenty). With this incentive, we all took up our spoons enthusiastically and dug into our halves of unusually unripe grapefruit. These certainly were the juciest foxholes ever; we had never realized what a blessing glasses could be in such a crisis. Milk baths have had national fame but grapefruit showers are still a juicy problem.

Swish......"Ouch, now you stop!"

"Why I didn't do a thing," was the innocent reply.

"Nothing but blind me," was the caustic answer. Taking a firm grasp on our grapefruit we determined to try our luck at the game and jabbed viciously for just a taste. The fruit yielded nothing..... but the juice. Slowly, slowly, the sticky, slimy half slipped out of our grubby fingers. Re-grasping, we decided to try again but, by the time our spoon had reached the place where the grapefruit was supposed to have been, it had simply disappeared. Though not for long, because a few seconds later, a tablemate on the opposite side gently lifted the recalcitrant "dessert", fruit-side down, from her lap and handed it back to its one-time owner. Finally finishing, we leaned back, retiring from our struggle, with a smug and satisfied look.

Rising from the table, we wended our way out and watched others in this curious race of trying to eat that golden teaser. In the midst of one of our most glamorous smiles toward you-know-who (we wish we did), some sweet soul with a perverted sense of humor attacked that rich and healthful source of Vitamin C with more vigor than necessary. OOOhhhhh!! Vicious character—"IT". For once, glasses were of no use. Groping blindly, we tottered feebly that last mile to the door, fervently wishing for a seeing-eye dog. Some one behind us laughed and said, "Ow, they got ya." Our dearest friends had tears in their eyes, too, but it wasn't from sympathy. (Grapefruit eye-washes were never recommended by the American Journal of Medical Science.)

Never again will we eat grapefruit unless it is dehydrated and already cut. Even then we will insist upon being furnished with a blindfold and a laboratory apron. If anyone had an idea for a sprayless grapefruit, we're right behind you and we do mean behind!

Physical Ed Major Offers New Courses

Beginning with this semester Maryville college is offering courses that will constitute a physical education major. The degree for those graduating this enlarged field will be B. S.

Two advanced courses are being given this semester by Coach L. S. Honaker, who is head of the department of physical education. These courses are Physical Education 327 and 328. The Theory and Technique of the Major Sports. The 327 course deals with football and basketball, and 328 concerns baseball and track.

Next year the new program is going to be set up on a more complete basis with additional courses in the conducting of calisthenics, various games and minor sports, as well as related courses is psychology and anatomy. There has been no definite list of requirements set up yet.

Coach Honaker in revealing the details of the physical ed major stated that the program should prove to be of special interest to veterans who would like to go into the field of coaching.

Steps to Trim Heavy Taxes Are Outlined

U.S. Economy, Balanced Budget, Debt Slash, Are Recommended

By James Preston

WASHINGTON — Even greater cuts in the Federal budget than President Truman contemplates, strict economy in government, a balanced budget and sizable reductions in the huge public debt as immediate measures to reudce John Citizen's taxes . . .

And a halt to deficit spending—these are essentials to remove the dangers to the security of the people's war bonds, savings and insurance, according to Lewis A. Dible, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers' Committee on Public Spending.

Five recommendations are made by the committee:

1. The budget should be balanced as soon as possible, and every effort should be made to accomplish this in the next fiscal year. Deficit financing is fiscally unsound and should be discontinued as a peacetime policy.

2. After we achieve a balanced budget we should begin to retire the Federal debt promptly. A major reduction in Government expenditures is essential.

3. The refinancing and refunding program should be revamped along lines to place a much larger portion of the outsanding public debt in the hands of permanent or long-term investors.

4. The interest rates on the Federal debt should not be arbitrarily lowered and held at a level which would discourage private investors outside the banking system from purchasing and holding a larger percentage of the debt.

5. The management of the public debt in the future should be predicated upon the idea that banks should not be expected to absorb any large portions of the debt, and that is should be made possible for them to reduce their present holdings as soon as possible.

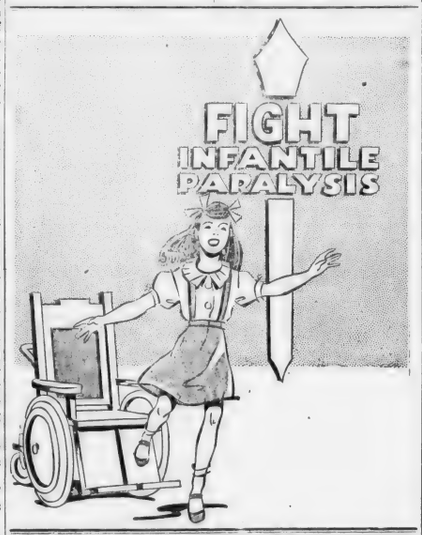
Got $2,000 Handy?

The U.S. national debt will total $275,000,000,000 by July 1 of this year, according to Secretary of Treasury Vinson, who ought to know. This would be about $2,000 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

Scotties Conquer Hiwasse Tigers 39-29 In First Intercollegiate Sports Competition Since 1942

Maryville emerged victorious over Hiwasse College by the decisive score of 39 to 29 in the opening game for this the first post-war edition of the Scotties basketball squad, played in the Alumni gym Wednesday night, January 23.

From the opening minute of the game when "Mike" Miracle slipped through two points with a nice one handed shot, the home team showed unexpected ability in both scoring and defense to overcome the favored Tigers from Hiwasse. With that opening field goal the Scotties gained the lead never to lose it, although the score was close through most of the contest At halftime it read 16-13, and at one point in the last half Hiwasse pulled up withn two points of tying the score, 25-23, only to fall behind again in the closing minutes of the game.



Justice "Mike" Miracle, smooth freshman forward from Norris, Tennessee, led the Maryville attack. He was high-point man of the game, getting the good total of 14 points. Oliver Spears played a sterling floor game for the Scotties, taking the ball off the back board on rebounds numerous times despite being the shortest man on the floor. He also scored 7 points, including a couple of long shots.

Sixty Students Sign For Semester Of Parish Project

Sixty students have signed up for the Parish Project this semester.

This is an increase over the number of workers last semester and brings the total for the year up to 65.

The Parish Project helps four country Sunday schools as well as three in town. Four students are sent to Keeble Chapel and New Castle Chapel every Sunday morning and fourteen students are sent to East Mountain View Chapel and Cokerhill Sunday school and church every Sunday afternoon. Ten workers assist the Home Avenue and Sunny Brook Mission and Lamar Chapel on Sunday morning. In addition to the Sunday workers twenty-three students visit five public schools during the week to conduct Religious Education classes. The school are Chilhowie View, Forrest Hill, Six Mile, Christi Hill and Walland, which are elementary public consolidated schools. This year is the first year workers have gone to Walland school. Six girls help in regional Girl Scout troops and other workers help week-days in the Religious and Recreational program at the Sunny Brook Mission. A group also goes week nights to help various young people's groups in planning their social program. The station wagon carrying Parish Project workers to their appointments covers approximately 150 miles a week.

The Rev. Floyd R. Watt supervises the work done outside of Maryville, making arrangements for the Sunday schools and the public schools. The Rev. Philip Eval has charge of the three town missions.

Problems of Workshop Discussed At Meeting

Writer's Workshop met in 213 Thaw on January 23, 1946 to discuss membership election, methods of criticism, and varied composition.

Miss Nathalia Wright was appointed a committee of one to answer questions concerning the technical aspects of composition. Betty Anne Showalter and June Gowanlock were appointed to assist Dr. Hunter and Miss Heron on the membership committee.

First readers of this semester will be Louise Corbett and Miss Heron.

was attended by 70 of the class members.

President House announced the class' new executive committee as composed of Janet Miller, chairman, Tom Wheeler, and Marjorie Dickinson.

The 200-member freshman class elected Vera Lusk its new secretary to replace Suen Chin who is returning as soon as possible to her home in China.

The new freshman Student Council representative, as determined by class election, is Mildred Miller, who fill the office vacated by Shirley Oshana, now a first-semester sophomore.

Collection of dues and a treasurer's report concluded the freshman business at the meeting, President David Campbell said.

Freezer Locker Advice Given

Raleigh, Jan. 1.—Robert S. Curtis, cattle marketing specialist with the State Department of Agriculture, advises farmers and others planning to invest funds in a freezer locker plant to "look into the situation carefully before taking the plunge."

He said that farmers should have satisfactory slaughtering equipment on the farm, or available at a convenient distance, pointing out that this service should be made available in some satisfactory manner.

Farmers should have satisfactory arrangements made with the locker plant to have meats properly culled out, cut into standard cuts for use at home or for sale, and should be able to have his meats salted, cured, seasoned, and smoked according to his wishes.

Millions for Mines

Owners of the nation's soft coal mines will spend about $200,000,000 within the next five years to mechanize their mines for safety and efficiency.

Average annual earnings of the miners during 1945 was $2,750 per miner, despite a strike which developed in an attempt to unionize mine foremen and caused a 16-million ton production loss.

VOLUME 31 — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 4, 1946 — NUMBER 12

Three Firsts, Four Seconds Won By Maryville at Speech Tourney

With two firsts and a tie and three seconds and a tie, Maryville college speech teams rated high in the Tennessee Speech Tournament held January 31 and February 1 at T.P.I., Cookeville, Tenn. Individual ratings will be received later.

Miriam Wickham, Audria Stinger, Judy Turk, and June Garland, composing the senior women's debate team, tied with T.P.I. in women's debate, having won six of six debates. John Briggs and David Campbell placed second in men's debate; it can be noted that in individual debating, they won over the T.P.I. team which placed first. Janet Nisbit, Mary Mitchell Woolridge, Geneva Robinson, and Sara Jo Kiger, all freshmen, composed the second women's debate team. The national debate question is "Resolved: That the policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world."

In individual speech work, John Briggs placed first in the Impromptu group, and Miram Wickham tied for second. The impromptu speakers were given 20 minutes to prepare a speech from an editorial handed to them.

Mary Annis Beals rated first in the After-dinner Speech group with a talk on "Marriage by Mail," and second in the Oration group with a speech entitled "New Lamps for Old."

Audria Stinger was second in the Extempore contest, which had as its general subject, "labor problems in the United States."

Four other colleges besides Maryville and T.P.I. participated in the event. They were, Murfreesboro State Teacher's College, Bethel College, David Lipscomb College, and Carson-Newman.

At the time of the meet, the State Forensic League was organized, with Herman Pinkerton of T.P.I. elected president, and Dr. David H. Briggs, debate coach and head of the division of education and psychology here, vice-president.

Five Cheerleaders Chosen For M.C.

At the Pep Meeting of the student body Friday night, February 1, five cheerleaders were elected from a group of 18 who were trying out for the positions. The squad of two boys and three girls is composed of Billy Vogel, Fred Richardett, Julie Pancoast, Lottie Lavendar, and Vera Lusk.

Richardett is a freshman from New Jersey, was a high school leading experience in high school. Vogel is a junior from Maryland. Pancoast, a sophomore also from Ne wJersey, was a high school cheerleader. Lavendar is a junior of Tennessee. And Lusk is the third member of the five from New Jersey. She is a freshman.

These cheerleaders are elected to serve only the remainder of this year. Next fall there will be the regular tryouts and election for the whole year. Cheerleaders are eligible for re-election.

The newly elected leaders go into action for the Scotties for the first time tomorrow night when the Tusculum team invades Maryville.

All-Girl Choir Sings In Vespers Feb. 3

The all-Girl choir under the direction of Mr. Curtis Hughes, sang for the first time this semester on February 3, for the Vesper service. The two anthems sung were "Lift Thine Eyes" by Mendelssohn and "Lead Me O Lord" by Peery.

The choir was not robed for the appearance because several new students have been added and new robes had to be ordered for them.

New members are Margaret Eddy, Mary Batchelor, Georgia Kelly, Katherine Carpenter, M. G. Merlanti, Josie Hale, Carolyn Kaye, Ernestine Hutchinson, Bea Weyland, Janet Nesbett, Virginia Wood, nad Betty Absher.

Balch and Bishop Will Play Leads

"Angel Street," which has been chosen by the Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies as their annual play, will be presented in Voorhees Chapel on March 16. Mrs. Nita Eckles West, dramatics professor, has announced that Jean Balch and Jay Bishop will play the leading roles. The supporting cast will consist of Bob Thompson, Charlotte Proffitt and Elsie J. Cotton.

Edgar Potts will serve as business manager, Edith Earle as Assistant Director, Lottie Lavander in charge of costumes, and a committee composed of Mary Batchelor, Carl Lazenby and Kitty Johnson will be in charge of the publicity.

"Angel Street" is a melodrama in three acts written by Patrick Hamilton. The title of the play was formerly "Gaslight."

Dr. George Davies Is Vesper Speaker

"Tattling the Gospel" was the theme of the Rev. Dr. George Davies, who has spoken at Vespers before. He is retired from the ministry. At present he and his wife are making their home with Miss Katherine Davies, their daughter, who heads the music department at Maryville.

Mr. Davies was former pastor of the Tarentum Church in Pittsburg, Penn.

Dr. Luther E. Stein, as ueader of the February meeting will speak at the service on February 10.

Student Vols Hold Candlelight Service

A candlelight service was held by the Students Volunteers in the Y.W.C.A. rooms Sunday night, January 27. The rule of silence was observed immediately upon entrance of the room, each person receiving a candle at the door.

Evelyn Johnson began the program with a piano prelude, followed by a musical Call to Worship," Into My Heart," sung by Mary Batchelor, Betty Hall, and Barbara Blair. Bill Vogel gave a scripture reading and prayer, after which Bob Dubois sang the solo, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus." In keeping with the theme, Virginia Miller read the story, "The Church of the Lighted Lamps."

The lighting of the candles was begun by a leader at the end of each row of seats. As each person held his lighted candle, June Garland read a poem, "Hold High the Torch." Dismissal followed the closing prayer and the dedication in music, sung by the trio.

Dr. Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the New McKendree Methodist church at Jackson, Missouri, will lead the songs at the February Meetings this year for the 24th time.

Experimental Theater Tonight

Experimental Theater will present two one act comedies Monday evening at 7:30 at the Bartlett Hall Audiorium, according to Mrs. Martin Badgett, director.

Cast in the first of the two plays, "For Distinguished Service," will be Virginia Davis and Kitty Johnson.

The second, "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet," will include in its cast Virginia Miller, Bernelle Crowder, Maran Pope, Mary Kent Harriet McKeen, and Virginia Davis.

Stage Manager for both plays is Nell Louise Minear, and the commentator, Ella Mae Thompson.

All students are invited to at tend.

Pictures Sought By Annual Staff

Jane Shouse, editor of the Chilhowean, stated that the Chilhowean Girls has been chosen. The "Girl of the Year" is a new feature for the yearbook. The name of the girl will not be revealed until the book comes out. This outstanding senior girl is judged according to: character, service, scholarship and leadership. Miss Shouse also said that snapshots of returned veterans whether in uniform or civilian clothes, are wanted. A few snapshot of YM Rereat or something to do with YMCA would be welcomed to complete that page.

Recital Postponed

Because Mr. Rchard W. Vine had an attack of larngytis, his recital scheduled for Saturday night was postponed. To be presented February 16, it will be th first faculty recital of the year.

Dames' Diamonds Dazzle Campus

Does your roommate act different lately? Do even the rainy days seem like beautiful summer days to her? NO, she isn't wearing colored glasses (nor even a rain coat for that matter) but she may be engaged. Yes, it seems everyone is doing it; for with the return o Maryville students to the second semester many diamond rings have been flashing (plus the never-ending smiles of the wearers) all over the campus.

Since everyone is always smiling over his interesting subjects such as history (of that certain Man—not mankind) it may be hard to tell who is engaged and who isn't. Here are just a few hints: Earl Martin in almost every class pulls out a pink envelope with feminine hand writing and stare intently at a certain picture in his wallet after reading it. You aren't kidding us, Earl, so Congratulations. Then the other day a few of Carnegie's girls were havink a discussion over some birds (in the trees, not Memorial) right in front of the dorm. Who should come tripping out but the one and only Helen Smith. The girls were trying to distinguish the bird by the bill. Helen said breathlessly, "Isn't he wonderful?" Of course she was thinking about her Bill Toliver. Then someone told me that Katherine Franklin carries that great big history book to class every day. In her daze she even forgets that almost everyone "forgets" his book and looks on with his neighbor. I also heard that Eleanor Stout has made it a practice to attend all the weddings even when they're way up in Pennsylvania. When her time comes (which I also heard is not far off) she'll know all about it. But why does she keep whispering, "I Don it." Congratulations Eleanor and Don.

The gallant boys were continually kept on their toes during mealtime of last semester singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." So, boys, keep your voices in tune; the future looks promising for the "Maryville Melody Makers." If the present rate keeps up it will only prove one thing—Maryville students prefer Ponds (which reminds me, does your roommate slosh right through the ponds or should I say over-sized puddles without rubbers?)

Dr. V. M. Queener Will Return To Campus Next Fall

Dr. Vernon Queener, professor of history and chairman of the Division of Social Sciences, will return to his work at Maryville college next fall, President Lloyd announced today.

Dr. Queener has been on a leave of absence in service with the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Washington since the summer of 1943. Mrs. Queener has continued her work as assistant professor of physical education at the college. During part of one year, their son, George also was in Washington working as a page in the House of Representatives.

Dr. Queener, a graduate of Maryville college, received his Ph.D degree from Indiana university, and has been on the Maryville faculty since 1927. He will resume his work at the college with the opening of the fall semester.

Alpha Sigmas Hear Romberg Program

Alpha Sigma spent a "Night with Sigmund Romberg" in the Fine Arts Studio on February 1. Selections from operettas that Romberg composed were presented. Among the operettas from which excerpts were taken are: "Desert Song," "Student Prince," "NewMoon" and "Viennese Nights." Katie Sisk performed the soprano solos; Frances Grosh (who substituted in the Messiah) sang the alto solos; Bob Dubois, the tenor solos; and Jay Bishop, the bass solos. Irma Jean Benedict was pianist. All persons interested in music were invited.

"Y" Program Planned By Inter-Racial Council

Professor Commodore Fisher spoke on "World Relatedness" at the joint meeting held by the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A., Sunday afternoon, February 3. Miss Carol Crosby, of the University of Tennessee, read the scripture, and speciel music was provided by students from Knoxville College.

The program was planned as a result of an Inter-racial Council. Students of Knoxville College were Maryville guests for the afternoon and evening. They were entertained at a supper in the Y.W.C.A. rooms, and they later attended Vespers and Student Volunteers.

The long-awaited student government plans for the self-government of Carnegie, Baldwin and Pearsons went into effect February 1. Committee meetings were held in the dormitories the evening of January 30 and house meeting were held the evening of February 1. The purpose of these meetings was to explain the rules and duties of the monitors and to answer and clear up any questions that the girls might have. In general ,the rules will remain the same with minor changes. Student government in the women's dormitories will be a stepping stone to further student government.

Activities Planned For B. G. Members

At the business meeting of the B. G. club Monday night, the members planned their activities for the year with Zenobia Bernadini and Joanne Hart in charge of the social activities during February. Members will take turns planning activities for the coming months. The members expressed the hope that, since gas is no longer rationed, they will be able to plan more trips.

The next edition of The Highland Echo will be published Monday February 11

Closing Date Now Changed to 14th

The first service of the seventieth series of February Meetings, at the college will be held Thursday morning, February 7, at 9:45 o'clock, and the services will continue through the following seven days, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd has announced.

The closing date of the 1946 Meetings has been changed from February 15, as recently announced, to the 14th, as had originally been scheduled, it was stated.

Rev. Luther E. Stein, D.D., of Philadelphia, Pa., Secretary of the Division of Christian Relatons of the Presbyteran Board of Christian Education, will lead the Meetings. He is expected to arrive in Maryville by plane Wednesday night from Detroit where he completes his appointments at noon that day.

Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, D.D., present pastor of the New McKendree Methodist Church at Jackson, Missouri, and song leader at the Meetings this year for the 24th time, plans to drive from his home, arriving in Maryville Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

Dr. Stein will room at the President's home and Dr. Stringham in the Baldwin guestroom, it was announced through Dr. Lloyd.

Afternoon class schedule will not be affected by the February Meetings. The daily morning schedule, which is the same as that followed last year, is as follows:

a period:	8:00-8:45
b period:	8:50-9:35
Chapel:	9:45-10:40
c period:	10:50-11:35
d period:	11:40-12:35
Lunch:	12:35

The 9:45 o'clock chapel service will be held each week day, including Monday. The 7:00 o'clock evening service will be held each day, including Sunday, with the exception of Saturday.

On Sunday morning Dr. Stein will preach at the New Providence Presbyterian Church and Dr. Stringham may preach at one of the Methodist churches.

Faculty-student committees on arrangements have been appointed, and special prayer meetings are in progress, Dr. Lloyd stated. As in former years the president will preside at the chapel services, and students and faculty will lead in the public prayers. Special forums can be arranged after the Meetings begin for certain evenings after the regular services, it was stated.

"No other period of program in the college year at Maryville has attained the place or importance comparable to that of the February Meetings," Dr. Lloyd stated. "One of the great privileges of 1946 will be the experience of the eight days beginning Thursday," he added.

Vera Lusk Wins Bendix Washer

"St. Peter and The Pearly Gates" was presented by the Bainonian and Athenian societies on February 2 at 6:15 p.m. in the Chapel. The play was a light impersonation of the faculty. Further details can not be disclosed.

Blueblooded Green Hornets announce that they have received 45 answers to the question, "Why is M. C. good to the last drip?" The winner and receiver of the beautiful Bendix washer was Vera Lusk.

Her prize-winning letter states: "Maryville College is good to the last drip because it is made up of Grade-A beans which are grown in the best part of the world. In no other college will you find such a combination of stimulating variety, because the roasting process (especially at exam time when the heat is intensified!) brings out that flavorful aroma which is unequaled in any other college.

Carnegie 340
Wouldn't you know!

IF YOU WANT TO BE A LANA, LISTEN, LEARN, AND LIVE !

On the night of an important engagment when the rain has gently pitter-patted all the curl from your hair, or the cleaner has returned your only really decent dress, minus a sleeve, what is your reaction? Can you make the best of this trying situation or do you wish you were somebody else, some glamorous somebody with beautiful clothes and rain proof hair? Or suppose you are wading along a muddy road in a pair of dainty play-shoes, hoping a Sir Walter Raleigh will chance by instead some twerp races by in his one-cylinder car, splattering mud in all directions, mainly yours. Do you grin and bear it or do you find yourself longing for the good old days instead of the present daze?

If you ever do find yourself with an intense desire to be someone else, there is a place for you. Step upstairs in the chapel and sign up with Mrs. West for Experimental Theater. As a part of this organization you will be initiated into the mystic art of play production. Under expert guidance you can learn to be someone else. You will forget all your little troubles when you assume the greater ones of Lady Macbeth or John's Other Wife, or perhaps even Superman, although at the present there has been no call for anyone to fill that role.

As part of Experimental Theater you may be able to do something you've always wanted to do and never had time. If, for example, mountain-climbing is your sport, you may be cast as the hero of a Chinese play who climbs a huge mountain to rescue his heroine. Since a mountain obviously won't fit on a stage, the Chinese allow the hero to climb over a chair, which symbolizes the mountain.

If you have trouble learning lines, you may still find yourself popular in this theater. Impromptu plays are given, in which you may take up your lines as you go along.

You may wonder if some of these experiments are not a bit rough on the audience. Perhaps they are, but Experimental Theater was not created for audience approval but for would-be actors. However, students, once they become audience, are part of the group. They are encouraged to turn in any criticisms, suggestions, or comments to Mrs. West's room.

Among suggestions received has been one for a Greek play (which might prove interesting), another for a children's play (which should prove amusing), and a third for a melodrama (which should prove something, but I'm not sure what).

Series on Prayer Precedes Meetings

It has been announced by James P. Martin, on the committe for campus prayer meetings, that there will be no meeting on Friday, Feb. 15 because of the February Meetings.

The meeting on Feb. 8 will be lead by Bob Dubois, sophomore Greek major. His talk is the second in a series on "Prayer," which has a special thought toward prayer for the February Meetings.

Sec. of Board of Missions Speaks

The Reverend A. L. Roberts, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, was the guest speaker on February 1, in Voorhees Chapel. His theme was "We Must Be the World We Want."

An interesting fact stated was that in colonial times only 5% of the people were affiliated with the Church, but today the membership is 50%. "But salvation can come only through a knowledge of God, revealed through Christ," Mr. Roberts stated. "To help create fellowship we must stir up the gifts of God," was the concluding statement made by the speaker.

STUDENT BODY STATEMENTS DOWN "VETS ONLY" SUGGESTION

The Highland Echo published a letter written by Don Kent, a veteran in the senior class, in the issue which was cirulated Monday, January 28.

Much sentiment has been expressed on the campus both for and against this letter. We asked several old students, several veterans and a few of the newer students what they thought of this letter. The people who were willing to make statements concerning this article were those who were most violently opposed and those who wanted to make clear that Mr. Kent's letter did not express the views of all the veterans. A great many of the students I talked with agreed that Mr. Kent had the essence of some good ideas, but they did not like the suggestions put forth in the letter.

We are taking this privilege to print a few of the statements written by students.

I am certainly in favor of reserving at least a part of our offices to be filled by returning veterans. For those who have offered their lives as sacrifice for the cause which to us seemed right, this sacrifice, in return seems rather insignifcant.

Maryville may be a girls school, but I doubt if there is a girl present who doesn't wish it actually had its pre-war ratio of men and women students.

Eleanor Kelly

Every vet has his own opinions. Mine do not coincide with those printed. Of course, it's O.K. to make the school attractive to vets, but hardly necessary to turn so much over to them to accomplish that purpose. Anyway I believe everything will work out all right without a lot of hullabaloo over "the poor unfortunate veteran."

Abbott Kemp

It is a pity that the reaction caused by the editorial in last week's Highland Echo has caused such a splash. I am prone to believe that the average student is broad-minded enough to realize that editorials, especially such hastily construced ones, are the opinion of one and only one individual. I will not make the same mistake—this is my own opinion—namely, to treat the "veteran" as any other student, for in my associations in the army I contacted many men whom I should not like to have for leaders. Most of the veterans are such because they had to fight a war—their's is a gain as well as the men who were fortunate enough to avoid it, so they should be willing to share the gain and not play on past experience for recognition. Just my opinion.

Ray Swartzback

Mr. Kent has made us stop and think if nothing else. But I wonder if he has been quite fair to us adn himself in his presentation of the returning service man and college affairs. In the years he has been away from college life, others . . . "women . . .tolerated for their gentle influence only," perhaps . . . have shown the sterner stuff they are made of in the handling of student life. It is not fair to ask them or college men who, for one reason or another, were not able to serve their country in uniform, to abandon their efforts and training for places of leadership to men who are still in the adjustment stage. They want to get back into the gear of college life again, of course; and they will if they prove themsedves better equipped than those who have worked for their leadership positions. Not so fast

Lonnie Richardt

Concerning the statement that only veterans should be elected to student offices at Maryville College. It is my opinion that this Independence or Nothing?

Think for a minute how it would be if you were suddenly wafted into another world, devoid of the "things" of this, but with the same potentialities. You are to figure out the problems of sustaining life and protecting yourself from the elements. Already you are several jumps ahead of the prehistoric man who had never seen a picture of a house or a plough. Our culture and way of living has been developing since the beginning of civilization. No one could attain it from the beginning in one life time. Such a fantasy is absurd.

And yet, absurd as it is, that is the attitude of many young people today in regard to philosopsy and religion. "Independence" in thinking is the thing. Figure it all out for yourself; accept nothing from any foggies.

At Maryville most of us have unconsciously assimilated a good deal of sound philosophy from our homes and many have gone on from the philosophy of a sixteen-year old in thinking things out.

Dr. Luther E. Stein, is a comparatively young man and one who has been in touch with young people. For a week, he will present two sermons daily. Sermons devised to touch upon the religious problems and concerns of youth. Students are encouraged to work out their troubles, to ask questions, to meet with the speaker in private conferences. Here is guidance in thinking from one who has made it his life work to know the problems and solutions of religion. One who has at hand a wealth of facts gleaned from study and experience. Those who have thought on these things will have problems; they will be interested. You always get into difficulties when you begin to THINK. Those who have not begun will have no questions, no enigmas, no problems—as a blade of grass has none.

CROWDED GYM

Over forty girls are enrolled in point system this semester. There has been a constant interest in the girls' sports groups since before the war. The program has had a definite place in providing relaxation and exercise for Maryville coeds.

Now, the girls, who are practicing basketball for the approaching tournament, are frequently moved to the smaller court in Bartlett in order that the intercollegiate cagers—some twenty men — may use the big gym. Far be it from us, in any way to undermine the efforts toward intercollegiate sports. Everyone is glad to see that return. But in former years, the fellows practiced nights twice a week so that the girls' program was not interupted. Why can they not do so again?

Many people at Maryville are unaware of the existence as well as the purpose of the committee on inter-racial problems to which our school sends representatives. There were a number of the representatives from Knox college and from the University of Tennessee here over Sunday to participate in the "Y" program. They're cause is important enough, and exciting enough to be of interest to everyone on our campus.

There has been, since the first trans-oceanic flights, a realization that all nations and races are members of the same neighborhood. Christians realize that worship to God is meaningless without recognition of human brotherhood. But how are we to overcome the century-old patterns of prejudice, selfishness and aggressions?

It is necessary to understand a people's background and culture before you can understand that people. Some more adventurous persons are intrigued by cultural variatons between peoples, and would taste of and savour these differences. It is a narrow person who fails to see that just because a way of doing things is different from his way, it is not, therefore and thus, the wrong way.

The inter-racial council, whose wider interest is in world-relatedness, is concerned with the forming cultural and interest ties between races right in this area. The groups meet regularly for discussion and entertainment. Immediate plans include mutual interests in a community project to be worked out on Saturdays.

Opinions expressed in signed letters and articles do not necesarily represent those of the paper or the college.

Nothing which is thought to be detrimental to the welfare and interests of the college has been, or will be printed.

Homecoming, Barnwarming, The Messiah, Christmas reading before the fireplace, February meetings, Easter sunrise service, May Day, the daisy chain—all red letters on Maryville College calendars. Traditions usually attach themselves to colleges.

February meetings, a part of Maryville College for seventy years, hold an important place in the lives of many students of the college. A time of spiritual emphasis for renewal of previously made decisions for Christ and the making of new ones is an essential part of the busy schedule of most individuals.

The college administration selects the leader with careful consideration of his capabilities with regard to work among young people. Spiritual insight, personality, speaking and counseling ability are merely a few of the factors essential to one who is to drect the thoughts of the student body and faculty throughout a week of special services.

For ths reason, the February meetings have come to assume a major importance in many a student's life. Graduates of Maryville are often reminded of one certain speaker or a particular message heard when they were attending the meetings. Decisions for Christian service have sent many former students to seminaries and training schools, foreign and home mission fields in addition to those who are giving consecrated leadership in their home communities.

The February meetings for 1946 will begin Thursday, February 7 and will close Friday, February 15. For one week will have the opportunity of hearing messages prepared especially for us. May we not consider it a burden or a bore to attend the services but rather open our minds and hearts to receive that which will be of most benefit for the Christian growth of our individual personalties.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Occasionally, with the emphasis on OCCASIONALLY, our better self attempts to speak and we consider writing a paragraph of "apologies." At no other time is such a feeling stronger than when we find ourselves sitting beside some innocent victim in Sunday School, and our mind wanders into expectations of what might be—and usually is—said to us at the Monday evening meal. We think of making a list of the "harmed" and publicly saying, "We're sorry." But when it comes right down to doing it; when it comes right down to writing, "Horst, Hunter, Carver, Schwartzbach, Lazenby, Hunter, Pancoast, Schwartzbach, Dr. Williams, Hunter, Miller, Schwartzbach, etc." somehow we just never can do it. As usual, we take up the pen and continue as we always do.

Then we recall the happenings we've seen and heard during the week, which reminds us to add Gwen and John to the second semester circle drive couples. Tom Horst noticed their absence from the list last week . . . . Also an addition to the Earl Martin engagement story. It is said that after the gave her the ring, he ran out of the house and up a hill until he met a sailor and his girlfrend, (the sailor's girlfriend, not Earl's). Earl grasped the sailor's hand, and pumping it, he yelled, "Yippee! I'm engaged!"

The high-powered binoculars were passed around the table the other night to better view the incident across the dining hall. Even then it was difficult enough to believe that Mary was sitting at one end of the table, and Bob at the other, but eight pairs of eyeballs popped out when Charley moved next to Mary, and Martha (Mary's sister, too!) walked out with Bob.

We'd like to personally citate Squire Kemp for buying the least amount of supplies and demanding a receipt so that "Uncle Sam" would pay for it. We're sure Miss Henry enjoys handing out those nickles.

Remembering . . . . that Kitty Johnson's Tommy of China named his boat "Kitty" . . . a famous biological quotation (courtesy of Kidder), "Someone should tell this worm about Lifebouy" . . . . Various girls talking at various hen parties about various "Its" . . . . to congratulate Katherine Franklin on her engagement . . . .seeing Mitch Woolridge and Justice Miracle, Vera Lusk and Charlie Huffman, Tinyfoot Moser and Red Black . . . . Marietta Ball and her blankety-blank "Chicory Chick" . . . a new girl's club in Carnegie. Theme song, "We hate men." . . . . to give farewells to Ken Boram, whose table gave him a party in the Y rooms» Mr. and Mrs. Breazeale chaperoned.

Nothing like ONE girl taking TWO sailors away from THREE other girls. We're speaking of the two sailors who came to visit Laverne, Audre, and Margaret and who may return to visit Charlotte . . . Speaking of visitors. A couple of weekends ago a sailor came to visit Betty Harte. Next Betty, who says, "Just call me Cupid," was handing over Margaret Weaver's address and a new correspondence began.

There are a few things entirely typical of our college . . . little things . . . . like the ice falling from the trees in front of Carnegie. . . May Short giving her remarks . . . . the shadow of the Anderson flag moving back and forth . . . not knowing the number of Thaw steps . . . . everyday seeing somebody you've never seen before . . . wondering about the Chevrolet that is parked in front of Memorial at least five days a week . . . . the click, click of Harvey Overton's shoes on the library floor . . . . the turning of heads when somebody coughs in the library . . . . the full moon hanging above Pearsons . . . . . the scattered green benches usually so intimately acquainted with the never ceasing rain . . . . the circle drive . . . . and the frequent "hellos."

We know you've heard it often, but because we feel it so strongly we'd like to repeat that one should:

Say it with flowers;
Say it with sweets;
Say it with kisses,
And say it with eats.
Say it with diamonds;
Say it with drink,
But whatever you do,
Don't say it with ink.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR . . . .

Editor:

I am in need for a place to go at some time during the day or early evening where I can be all alone to think and to pray. In all the campus there seems to be no place that can be used for the purpose.

I want to know if there are not others who feel as I do and if there are, is there not an abandoned classroom or the like that could be used for that purpose. It seems a necessity to me.

Editor:

Maryville survived World War II. There weren't many men left around here, but we found ourselves taking over the responsibilities the men had left behind—and doing it well, too—for there was some "ability" left on the hil. And so Maryville kept going—without the majority of men. There were a few men here—a few who couldn't go, a few who were not yet 18, and a few who felt their call of duty toward preparing for God's work—all men with strength of character if without complete strength of body, and all worked hard for Maryville in wartime, doing all they knew to do for the boys in the service. They worked hard to keep Maryville going with the same high standards so the boys wouldn't be disappointed when and if they could come back.

Now they are coming back, and every fellow and girl who has been here all along wants to welcome them with open arms—figuratively speaking, of course. We're very glad to see them come back, and in line with the suggested plan, we think letters might be written to various churches telling the ministers of the advantages Maryville offers to any of their interested young veterans.

But, we don't think it necessary or desirable to bait them—bribe them, really—to come to Maryville to be president of the junior class, or business manager of The Highland Echo. If they have minds of their own, they don't wnat to their own they don't want to ver platter just because thy've done what thy've considered all along simply their duty. No, they don't want to be coddled or babied, or bribed into coming to college. If they are the kind that do, they aren't the kind for Maryville.

These fellows right here who have worked so hard all along can't be disregarded either. Incidentally, they have ability too. Don't you kid yourselves about that point. And did it ever occur to you that the work of the Chilhowean editors starts on that election day in the spring? And that the Echo editor gets out an issue the first week after school starts? And that the Student Council organizes one of the opening week functions—the Student Mixer, and the Community Sing? And that the constitutions of most of the organizations on the Hill state that elections should be held during the spring semester? Do we upset all that to allow men who have been out-of-touch so long with the tasks—that undergo some change each year—and abilities necessary for these tasks to elect someone incapable? No thinking person would want to wait several months each fall after the opening of school before anything could get under way. But evidently this point of view is hard to see.

The feeling wrought by one man's opinion is completely undesirable because of the tension it causes between veterans and other students. None of us want that. We want to—and do—include the veterans in our college life, but the veterans who are thinking don't want us to bow down to their every whim. Tell me why they should be the only ones allowed for the male offices on the Hill? Are we setting up a caste system? And if it's because they won't feel wanted or welcome, f they don't have an office, I certainly do feel sorry for about 350 people on this campus who hold no office and must feel very unhappy and unwelcome.

Remember, too, if you will, that Maryville has been a co-ed college for some years now, yes, even before World War II—and if there comes the time when "women will be tolerated for their gentle influence only," it will be because Maryville College once again enrolls only boys.

Ancient Man Had One Advantage

Ancient man had one advantage over modern man. He didn't have a chair: in fact, he probably never even heard of them. But somewhere along the way toward what is the so-called civilization of today, someone took their revenge on man by inventing a contraption called a chair. No doubt, that's how they got the name, for all of us have seen these well-upholstered chairmen.

There are really only two types of chairs to begin with: th euncomfortable and comfortable. Let us think about the uncomfortable first. These chairs seem to be the de-light of college professors, else why would there be so many? The uncomfortable types are usually wooden. We first have contact with these in high-chairs, then we progress to the wooden baby-chairs which are about a foot high and keep on going until we reach the type of chair used in a college chapel. These are particularly uncomfortable when you have been sitting on your fifth vertabrae for an hour or so. This also explains why so many college graduates have permanent curvatures of the spine.

The comfortable chairs include rockers. The kind that have that sweet squeek (swim out from under that one) which reminds us of a white-haired grandmother softly singing Swiss lullabies. There is also the comfortable wing-back chair perfect for complete relaxation when you wish to listen to good music and dream. These are also nice to sprawl in—legs over one arm of the chair, food on the floor on a plate and a good book. Upon reflection, we realize that classroom chairs can be comfortable IF the lessons are done for that particular class.

Yes, there are many types of chairs: Big, little, wide, straight-back and upholstered which include wing-backed, stuffed and over-stuffed. An over-stuffed chair is one which contains an occupant after a Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner. And then there are the sofas or love teats . . . . need we say more?

Antiquated Antics

By BETTY HARTE

"Maybe it's an inconsequential thing to bring up and a little rough on certain persons, but the truth must out—blondes have bigger feet than brunette," taunts the February 1, 1936 issue of the Echo.

Another fact-finding, space-filler laughingly tells us that politeness in Tibet requires you when greeting a stranger to grasp your right ear with your right hand, and then stick out your tongue as far as it will stretch. (Wonder if you say "Hey" at the same time.)

A few students doubt the inference in a recent article that M. C. once was pretty much a boy's school. One has only to compare the gossip column of 1946 with that of 1936. 1946: Lulu Belle is dating joe Jenkins; and Maisie Foster and Toots Matthews are rushing Bill White. 1936: Dr. Bradshaw settled a couple of his fidgety men in a chemistry class by saying in the midst of a lecture—"What are you doing, having a Ladies' Aid Society?"

The other night a lad was overheard recommending "the shadow of that tree over by the post-office" as a good place to escape Ralph's eagle eye. Evidently "Mr. Dorothy Dix" agrees with the 1936 frosh who cracked, "A beautiful girl to behold is not half as tempting as one to be held."

Little everyday dramas on campus were the material upon which a former teacher based many short stories — which she published. (Fantastic tales about such things as ham and eggs being fried illegitimately on third floor Pearsons.)

Pittsburgh makes the headlines! Dr. Louis H. Evans, Pittsburgh pastor, led the 1936 February meetings.

We note with interest a new column of book reviews written in letter form from one Pyramus to one Thisbe. "Christopher Morley's 'Rudolph and Amina,' a short sappy, pleasantly vulgar novel which I read when new, I have reread again. Read it, Thisbe, if you haven't. One of Morley's tidbits: 'Man sometimes guesses truth, but woman is truth; and man's duty is to embrace it.' I enjoyed the book tremendously and know you will."

If the humor seems slightly rugged, remember—1936 was strictly masculine.

Smoky Mountain Tourney?

Some of the colleges of this part of the country are planning very definitely on there being a Smoky Mountain Conference basketball tournament this year. When our squad made the trip to Carson-Newman last week they found plans for that tourney posted in the gym of that school complete with date, place, entries, and even pairings. The tourney is supposed to be held in Johnson City, Tennessee February 21, 22 and 23. The pairings put Maryville up against the excellent outfit of Milligan College in the first round.

Coach Honaker reports that the announcement of that tournament has beeen made prematurely. According to Coach, there are several little items, such as securing a gymnasium for those dates, that have not been arranged, and it is not definite that there will be a tournament this year.

If the tournament is held East Tennessee State Teachers' outfit will be the heavy favorites to win it. They have the hottest thing in a basketball way among the Smoky Mountain teams this year. According to their record they should breeze through the tourney without too much trouble. They have beeen defeated only once this season, and that one defeat was in a close game with the U-T Vols.

Conference To Be Re-Organized

There are definite plans afoot to re-organize the Smoky Mountain Conference, which has been inactive during the war years. That was Maryville College's conference before the war. A constitution is being drawn up at present for the group, and it is hoped that the conference will have been officially set up by next fall for the football season. The colleges included are: Maryville, King, Tusculum, Carson-Newman, East Tenn. State, Milligan, Emory and Henry, and Lincoln Memorial University. In past years these schools have been the chief opponents for M. C. athletic squads.

Spring Football Scheduled

Coach Honaker is definitely planning on having a football team next fall. And if there are many veterans back the size of Al Chambers, who was visiting the campus last week, the Scot grid team will be a formidable bunch. Chambers weighs 240, and he is planning on being in school for football next fall. The first step toward fielding a grid team is to be spring football this semester. Coach reports that football practice will start the first week in March.

"Some" Baseball Maybe

Coach also has revealed that there is a possibility of having some baseball this spring. He said that he doesn't know what baseball material we have, but if there are enough fellows interested we will have "some baseball." It probably will not be a regular intercollegiate squad because there will not be enough colleges in this area with baseball teams to play this year. But there are numerous independent teams that the Scotties will be able to meet.

More Basketeers

There are two players who have made the basketball squad who were not included in last week's write-up of the players. They are both veterans who entered school late this semester. Bill Largen is one of the two. He did his high school playing out at Greenback High School, which is near here. He was in the Naval Air Corps.

James Newman is the most recent addition to the squad. He stands about 5' 9". Newman played basketball for Alcoa High before going into the service. He was also captain of the Alcoa football team.

Speaking of Newman's height reminds us about a mistake we made last week. It seems as though Oliver Spears' hefty build had this writer completely fooled about his height. It was stated he is 5' 7" and that he was the shortest man on the floor against Hiwassee. It seems that he is three inches taller than that. Oliver quotes U. S. Army measurements as his reference.

Beefy Managers

At the beginning of basketball practice last semester the basketball team didn't look much like it does now. The squad just didn't have much weight. At the time Coach Honaker commented that if he could not have any heavy players he could get some weight in his managers; he really did. Willis Pribble tips the scales around the even 200 mark but Roy "Slim" Smith, the other manager, usually weighs within a pound or two of 230. Certainly no college around here has "bigger and better" managers."

Both boys are going to put their beef to better advantage when football season rolls around. Both mean to try out for that team.

Hiwassee Tigers Edge Out Scots

Hiwassee's Tigers emerged victorious over the Scotties in a fast and closely contested basketball fray on the Hiwassee court Thursday night, January 31. The final score was 41 to 39. The winning basket was tossed in by Beverly in the closing seconds of the game.

The Highlanders got off to a good start holding a 5 point lead after about 5 minutes of play, only to lose the lead and trail at half time 23-18. Hiwassee held the lead until the last five minutes of the game when the lead changed hands several times before Beverly's last shot and the final whistle, which found Hiwassee holding its two point advantage.

Derrick was top scorer with 16; Beverly also of the Tigers, got 11. Spears and Renfro were Maryville's best.

Most of Scapellati's six field goals were on long shot. He was trailed by Chandler who got 11 points and by Bob Hunter of the losing Sharpshooters with 10 markers. would be going a little too far in favoring the veteran, that they can be made to feel welcome in other ways. The guy coming back from the army doesn't want to feel that he's been elected to office just because he's a veteran. Service men coming back to college really prefer for a time to be reasonably free from resonsibility and allowed to get back into the ways of a student gradually.

Bob Hunter

Please let me make this clear before I start that this is strictly my own personal feeling, not meant to contradict anything said or to be said, but I was asked for a statement.

As far as I am personally concerned I want to be the same as I was when I entered Maryville in September 1941. I'm just another student. Everybody's in the ball game together, let the best man win. As far as the question about officers, etc., in coming elections, personally I wouldn't want anywhere that work would be extra as studies have me loaded down now. Think it would be more thon most guys want.

Just remember this is only my opinion and only written by request.

Harvey Overton

It would take several paragraphs for me to adequately express my dissention with these views for encouraging returning veterans to come to Maryville. Briefly stated, however, my opinions are these: (1) that the author has not sufficently readjusted himself to civilian life to realize and appreciate the fact that it is the normal characteristic of all men (including non-veterans) to develop between the ages of 18 and 24 the abilities and capacities which seem to have so impressed him about veterans; (2) that his plan would not only deny the principals of democratic government by discrimminating against non-veterans, but would defeat the object of helping the veterans regain their individuality, since it would classify them in a privileged group, immune from the competition of free elections; (3) that the recent election of three veterans to class offices is sufficient evidence that veterans need no special attention in order to make their abilitities evident to their classmates; (4) that the college could not advertise such discrimminatory statements against non-veteran, prospective students without contradicting some of its demoncartic, liberal arts education; and (5) that he has much (yes, very much) to learn about the appreciation of women and of their part in the co-ed college (much could be said in a positive way to prove that Don's "tolerance of women" is a warped sociological view.)

Tom Horst

Now that the war is over and men are being released from the army, Maryville college has a wonderful opportunity to regain its men students, which it lost when war broke out December 7, 1941. The men who are just being released from all the branches of service—many of them—want to take advantage of the educational opportunities offered by the government, and many of these have not made any choice of school as yet.

To properly advertise Maryville College, there are three ways in which veterans can be reached to the best advantage; (I) at the separation center, (2) through the Presbyterian church, and (3) through students by encouraging them to advertise the opportunities offered by Maryville in their home areas.

There seems to me to be two main problems involved in dealing with the veterans, one of which I have already discussed, the problem of advertising M.C., in order to direct men here and for its educational benefits. Then I think there is a problem of formulating a policy for dealing with the veterans after they do come. Veterans must be given consideration since they may have special problems. They should be encouraged to take an active part in all activities of the college, however, I do not agree that veterans should be given preference over non-veterans in offices open to men. They should be judged and selected on their merit for that office.

T. E. Henderson

First, in points of agreement with the Veteran's suggestion for College Policy toward vets—it is obviously true that in order for Maryville College to reach norm again it needs an additional number of male students, a large percentage of which will be veterans; it is also true that the small college will not enroll a very large percentage in comparison to the universities, but—

(Now for points of disagreement) If Maryville (or any small college) cannot offer more in "advantages of attendance" than the opportunities for holding an office in the administration of student activity then it is rightly so that the universities should have a larger percentage.

It seems to me that the veteran would desire to take his place in college not as a person who must have special provisions made for him, but as one who make a place for himself because he has abilities and capacities. After all, is that not the type of democracy that has been fought for?

The student body could not surely wish for such digression in progress as to return to the status of 1866 when Maryville was only a men's college. My suggestion is to let Maryville continue to be co-ed where women will be cherished not only for their gentle influence, but also for their ability to go 50-50 with men in making Maryville College "good to the last drip."

June Garland

An apple to Don Kent for his article, because it started us all thinking. The only point on which I disagree is that of having strictly veterans for male offces. The boys here did their job also.

Edie Earle

I don't agree with everything he says and I'm sure the veterans don't either. I do think he deserves a lot of credit for having enough nerve to start something. Everybody gripes and does nothing. It's about time somebody did something. He sure did.

Julia Pancoast

Congratulations on getting a little student action through an article in the Highland Echo. First time anything like this has happened in quite some time! If veterans can arouse a little more student action, I agree with you that elections should wait until next fall. Since I have been here, there has been very little "class spirit," and if "vets" who are coming back can add a little new and spirited life to the campus, the student body of Maryville will, I think, welcome them back to take offices in the college organizations.

However, I do think that the boys who have helped keep the college organizations going during the war, should be given an equal chance to have offices. Some of them have worked real hard and deserve the chance.

Here's to more and better articles in the Echo and to more student interest and action on campus!

WRITER'S WORKSHOP

Miss Jessie Heron and Louise Corbett were the readers at Writers' Workshop, which met Wednesday afternoon in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Miss Heron's composition, a short story enittled "Sweater Set," was criticized by Virginia Calbough, who is considered to be one of the organization's more fearless and competent critics.

Miss Corbett's essay, "A Would-be Critic Reflects," was a general evaluation of music in relation to the other fine arts, in which the writer attempted to place music at the head of the esthetic scale.

The paper roused discussion and differences of opinion among the members. Her critic was June Gowanlock.

Mildred Waring and Ann Anderson have been announced as reader at this week's meeting. New members will also be elected to the organization.

VOLUME 31 — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 16, 1946 — NUMBER 13

Famous Writer, Lecturer Will Speak at Vespers

DR. COFFIN

At chapel on Saturday morning, Feb. 16, and perhaps at Vespers the following evening, Maryville college is to have another distinguished speaker. He will be Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, President Emeritus of Union Theological Seminary, New York, one of the most widely known ministers in all Christian countries.

Dr. Coffin, a graduate of Yale University and Union Seminary, has studied in several foreign universities and holds many honorary doctors degrees from this country and abroad. His books and articles have long been influential. Dr. Coffin was pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York for twenty-one years. After this he became president of Union Theological Seminary, New York, where he remained until his retirement last year. He was also Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1943.

Dr. and Mrs. Coffin will be on the campus Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, following the February meetings, as guests of President and Mrs. Lloyd. The Coffins will come from Duke University where Dr. Coffin is to give a number of lectures.

Dr. Stein, leader of the February meetings, will be the speaker at Vespers on Feb. 10th.

Miliza Korjus Will Sing February 23

Contralto Remembers Unhappy Childhood Debut in Sweden

Miliza Korjus, lovely Swedish coloratura will appear at Maryville college Saturday evening, February 23, under the auspices of the Artist Series committee. A product of sixteen European conservatories, she is widely acclaimed by leading voice critics everywhere.

On her first public appearance, her father considering her still a child refused to let her cut her long braids or wear a sophisticated dress. She cried and she pleaded, but she had to wear a short dress and braids. The next day a critic spoke of her as a mere child. After "weaping steadily" for two weeks, her father against his "better judgment" allowed her to have her "terrible braids" cut. In her next appearance, she dressed as a prima donna should dress and felt like one. She made her operatic debut as Guilda in "Rigoletta." Her first great success, however, was in the role of the Queen of the Night in Mozart's "Magic Flute."

Committee Considering New Recreation Site

Location of a new recreation center is now under the consideration of a Student Government committee. This step is being taken because the influx of boys will necessitate their use of Bartlett Hall.

Edgar Potts is chairman of the committee which consists of Harold Hunter, Betty Ann Showalter, Anna Sakaizawa, and Elsie Jean Cotton.

Seven Compete In Oratorical Contest

T. T. Alexander Prize Goes to Men This Year

The preliminaries for the T. T. Alexander Oratorical Contest will be held around April 1, Dr. Horace E. Orr, Professor of Religion and Philosophy and Chairman of the Division of Bible, announced on Wednesday. At that time the contestants will speak before a staff committee. Two of the contestants will be chosen to present their orations before a staff committee. Two of the contestants will be chosen to present their orations before the student body, at which time they will be judged by an appointed committee. The prize of $80 will be divided on a sixty per cent and a forty per cent basis, according to the decision of the judges. No date has yet been set for the final presentations.

The T. T. Alexander Prize Fund was established by an anonymous friend in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries, and it provides prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of first and second place. The subjects chosen for the contest are the following: The Deity of Jesus Christ; Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection; and Salvation Through Faith.

It has been the custom to use the plan of alternation, men students entering the contest one year and women students the next year. Men who have indicated that they will participate this year are Tom Horst, Fred Wilson, Harold Hunter, Merrill Grubbs, David Campbell, Max House, and Lloyd Chandler.

Theater Group Presents Plays Friday Evening

Experimental Theatre will present two regular one-act plays and one children's play on Friday night, February 22, at 7:30 P.M. in Bartlett Hall auditorium.

The one-act plays, directed by Mrs. Martin Badgett, are "Sparkin' " and "The Bishop's Candlestick". Taking parts in "Sparkin' " are David Campbell, Lois Thomas, Sandy Blanton, and Rita Ketchum.

The cast of "The Bishop's Candlestick" will include Ann Thornton, Jim Black, Ray Swartzback, Margaret Cross, J. T. Anderson, and Ray Osborne.

The children's play, "The Unhappy King", is being directed by Nell Louise Minear and Mary Kent. The cast, made up of boys and girls between the ages of 8 and 13, includes Edward Briggs, Buddy Biggs, Billy Howell, David Ramsey, Peggy Fisher, Ruth Orr, John Williams, John Crawford, Ellen Gail Crockett, Sara Ann Nash, and Ann Albright.

The stage manager for these plays will be Bernell Crowder. Becky Walton will be the announcer.

Next Issue of the ECHO is scheduled for Saturday, February 23.

February 28 Set For Chilhowean Deadline

It has been announced by Jayne Shouse, editor of the Chilhowean, that all engravings have been sent to the engravers, and that February 28 is the deadline for all printing.

Due to certain shortages, the staff may not be able to order more covers for extra annuals, although some unbound copies may be obtained.

Miss Shouse also announced that any club wishing to have special material on its page may turn their copy in to her.

Ancient Heidelberg U. Dedicated To Free Learning

The influx of G.I.'s into colleges and universities all over America is being matched by the return of students to universities all over the world.

Ancient Heidelberg University, Germany's most famous and colorful university, re-opened on January 8th, according to a statement received by Rebecca Davis, from the World Student Service Fund, whose work in world student relief is liberally supported on this campus. Heidelberg University is located within the American zone of occupation and falls under the supervision of the American military authorities.

In the presence of Lieutenant General Geoffrey Keyes, commander of the 7th Army, the new Rector, Dr. Karl H. Bauer, who is also Dean of the Medical College, gave a notable address, which was applauded by the students in the traditional way by stamping with one foot. Among the students are the first Jewish students from concentration camps, admitted to German universities since Hitler expelled them a dozen years ago.

"Without tolerance there is no democracy and without democracy no German future," said Rector Bauer. The Third Reich, he said, "has shown quite clearly that political interference with science is equivalent to decay. With the whole fervor of our hearts we join the struggle for the German mind and soul, the struggle for a completely new attitude toward the nation."

Accounts from all the war ravaged countries of the world tell of students and professors who are returning to their work, but living in deprivation, without sufficient food, clothing, books, laboratory equipment, or buildings.

Sakaizawa Elected to Student-Factulty Senate

At the meeting of the Student Council on Thursday, February 7, Anna Sakaizawa was elected to fill the vacancy on the Student-Faculty Senate. Anna replaces Fred Wilson who left a vacancy in the Sophomore section when he advanced to Junior rank. The council also elected Elsie Jean Cotton to serve as its new secretary-treasurer.

The Recreation Center, which is unders the supervision of the Student council, will not be open after supper during the February meetings.

March 16 Is Date For "Angel Street"

The Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma play, "Angel Street," which will be presented March 16th, in the Chapel, is now in rehearsal.

"Angel Street" was first presented under the title "Gas Light". It played on Broadway in the 1941-1942 season and was well received by the New York critics.

The difficult role of the terrified Mrs. Manningham is to be portrayed by Jean Balch. Jean is a Dramatic Art major from Detroit, Michigan. She is best remebered for her leading role last semester in "Guest in the House".

Mr. Manningham, a treacherous, clever, man-of-the-world, will be played by Jay Bishop, who was also starred in "Guest in the House".

A newcomer to the Maryville audience will be Bob Thompson, taking the part of Rough, the detective of the play. Bob is from New York City, where he was active in amateur dramatics in his church and school. He is a pre-med student, coming to Maryville after three and one-half years in the service.

An interesting character contrast is presented by the two maids, Elizabeth and Nancy. Elizabeth, a faithful, kindly servant, is played by Elsie J. Cotton. Nancy, portrayed by Charlotte Proffitt, is a sly, vain young woman who knows no loyalties. Elsie Cotton, a sophomore from Pittsburgh, Penna., was in the cast of "Hour Glass". Charlotte Proffitt, who is from Maryville, played in "Overtones".

Acting as stage manager for "Angel Street" is Lloyd Shue, who has returned to Maryville this semester after four years in the service. Lloyd was a member of the stage crew at Maryville in the years 1939, '40, and '41. He was stage manager for such productions as "Winterset", "Mr. Pim Passes By" and "Pure as the Driven Snow".

Roland Reagan will act as business manager. Properties will be handled by Marion Scott with costume supervision by Lottie Lavender. Leonard Schieber is electrician.

Mrs. West has chosen as her assistant Edith Earle.

Three From MC Go To Nashville For Student Meeting

Anna Sakaizawa, Ruth King Wood, and Fred Wilson left February 15, at 5:30 a.m., for the Tennessee Student Christian Conference at Nashville. The conference will last from February 15 through the 17. Upon arriving on the 15th, the conference will be addressed by Dr. John Irwin on the topic, "Our World Situation," and following this speech will be the Get-Acquainted hour.

Saturday morning Dr. Irwin will talk on "The Christian Message for These Times," and the Rev. Harold B. Ingall will speak on the topic, "The Student Movement Faces the Challenge of Today." Then a business session in which the constitution will be voted on and a discussion of the values derived from the conference will be held. In the afternoon the Student Movement hour will have a discussion of the ways and means of doing a better job on campus, responsibility of the state program, campus program, and significant campus experiments in 1945-1946. Following, there will be a meeting of committees.

In the evening the topic will be "The Church—the Channel through which Youth may Work more Effectively," and there will be another business session with reports of committees and the election of officers.

Sunday morning Dr. Irwin will give the closing address.

Poetic Romanticisms Read To Bainonians

"Candlelight Reflections" were presented by Virginia Miller at the Bainonian meeting on February 9. By candlelight and with a musical background, Miss Miller reread such selections as, "I Made A Vow," "Marriage," "The Parting," and "Love Letters."

Valentines, Hearts, Candy, Crushes Features of Eternal February 14

Valentine's Day brings back memories to most of us—memories of valentines received and given, valentine boxes, heart-shaped candy mottos, cupids, parties, and grammar school crushes.

Remember the valentine boxes in grade school—the ones covered with red hearts, cupids, and darts? And how favored was the pupil chosen to decorate it! The buying of valentines was certainly an occasion. Each one had to suit the receiver's personality. Especially the teachers which far too often was one of those comic affairs not designed to flatter. Remember how Johnny always paid more for Susies' than for all the rest, and took hours to pick it? The opening of the box was the climax. Each valentine was carefully counted to see who had the most, and evaluated to see whether you'd spent more than the other fellow. How jealous you were when Tommy gave Betty a prettier valentine than he'd given you.

In Junior High you had a crush on that cute little seventh grader, and sent an unsigned valentine because you were so bashful. You bought it was silly of brother to send such mushy ones to his girl, or sister to gush over the one from her current boy friend. And then you got to be in senior high and cuddid both of them. You waited anxiously to see just what kind of valentine Mary had chosen for you, or how big a heart-shaped box of candy Bill would bring. It didn't seem silly or mushy or anything but sweet. How dare Junior laugh at you!

The years roll on, and you grow older, but Valentine's Day remains as ever, a day for sweethearts the world over to send remembrances to each other. Silly? Well, not to the young in heart. And to them I say, "Life begins at love."

"This Business Of Living" Is Theme Followed By Dr. Stein At February Meeting Talks

Miss Nathalia Wright Will Read Poetry at Vols

Sunday, February 17, Miss Nathalia Wright, Assistant Librarian, will read poetry, and special music will be provided at Student Vols. February 10, Dr. Stein, leader of our February meetings this year, was the speaker.

Mr. N. Dupres Will Open W. S. S. F. Drive Wednesday

At the Wednesday chapel service on February 20th, attention will be centered on Mr. Huntley Dupre, who will be the guest speaker. He is the University Secretary of the World Student Service Fund movement, sponsored by the YWCA and the YMCA.

The W.S.S.F. has a twofold purpose: to educate the students here to the conditions of students over the world and to raise money for students overseas less fortunate than ourselves.

Margaret House, World Student Relief worker describes vividly one of the best student centers.

"I had been warned that it was sordid, but I was not prepared for the atmosphere of hopeless depression among the students themselves. There was no handrail up the stairs. The first room was a study, where perhaps thirty students found places at the unplaned unfinished desks; pale, gray students who had no bright smile for a visitor. I felt I was intruding, as so many of them seemed to be relaxing in pajamas, until I realized that they were being worn to preserve their only pair of trousers. The dormitories had beds, with two blankets each but no sheets. Perhaps it was better so, as there was no laundry. A room for six people had two chairs. One nail on the wall near each bed was enough for a boy's whole wardrobe.

"The bathroom was just a doorless, windowless landing. The kitchen had no furniture exceptin a sink and a copper, but on top of the copper was a log fire, and on it a pan of something wholesome, out of tins, of course. Theoretically, the pan contains enough to yield 2000 calories all round, but it is all eaten at midday, and the students never quite believe that they are 2000 calories better off at the end. In any case, 2000 is not enough."

Funds contributed to the W.S.S.F. help maintain a student center at Kunming (one of the fourteen centers in China.) Filipino students who have suffered grievously during the war and Czechoslovakian students are resuming studies because of the aid of the Student Fund.

Special pledges to the support of the W.S.S.F. may be made by Maryville college students throughout the day of February 20th. The money will be used for the betterment of conditions in world wide schools.

Dr. Barker Speaks At Faculty Club

The college Faculty Club held its first meeting of the new year Monday evening, February 4, in the Home Economics Department, Fayerweather. Dr. H. E. Orr, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

Speaker for the evening was Dr. Lincoln Barker, associate professor of psychology and education, who read a paper on "Phases of Early Education in Utah." Prior to the program, salad and dessert courses were served to the faculty group and special guests by the home economics department.

The college Faculty Club has two more meetings scheduled this school year to complete the annually-held series of five, it was stated.

Lincoln Is Theme Of Frosh Party

The freshmen will present Maryville college a play in honor of Abraham Lincoln on February 16. "Four Score and Twenty-Six Years Ago" has its scene at a trial in which Ma is supposed to have murdered Pa and who is the culprit? Abe is the judge. Many of the happenings are true-to-life episodes taken from the life of "Honest Abe."

The social committee in charge of the play are Jim Black, Grace Ellen Cross, Helen Smith, Bill McGill, Mildred Miller, Marion Scott, Bea Hohnberger, June Montgomery and Fred Richardette.

Mr. Vine Adviser to Knox Opera Co.

Mr. Richard W. Vine, instructor of music and director of the Vesper choir at Maryville college is among the members of the advisory committee, which consists of musical and dramatic personnel of the civic opera co. of Knoxville. The advisory committee handles musical details including selection of cast.

The company is staging Franz Lehar's "Merry Widow" on May 1 in the University of Tennessee's auditorium. Tryouts for this operatic comedy were held February 14.

Recently organized, the Civic Opera Company is headed by the Executive Committee of the Knoxville Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Robert Claflin is the general director while Mr. Edward Hamilton is directing the choral work. Directors of the dramatic and dance divisions have not as yet been selected.

Miss Hunter To Speak at YWCA

It has been announced by Eleanor Stout, program chairman for Y.W.C.A., that as Sunday, February 17 is the World Day of Prayer for Students, the program at the Y.W.C.A. service will have that subject as its center. The service is based on a program prepared by the United Student Christian Council. Miss Nancy Hunter, secretary to Dr. Lloyd, will present the meditation.

Special music will be provided by Betty Absher, singing "Oh Sacred Head Now Wounded."

Waring, Anderson Read at Workshop

Original pieces of poetry and essay were presented at the regular meeting of Writer's Workshop on February 6, when the group met in Dr. Hunter's classroom. Mildred Waring, president of student council from New Bedford, Mass., read a reminiscent essay entitled "Fulfillment", about a summer vacation spent on Cape Cod. Ann Anderson, junior English major from New Jersey read "Cupid and Psyche", an eleven stanza narrative poem. Critics were Jean Tarwater of Chattanooga and Betty Wells from New Jersey.

"Prayer," Topic At Prayer Meetings

Prayer meeting was held last Friday evening at 6:45 P.M. in the YW rooms. Ruth Kaye was the speaker, and her subject was "Prayer." Tom Wheeler led the singing, and Bob Dubois sang a special number.

Jim Martin will lead the meeting next Friday night. His subject will also be "Prayer." It will be the last in the present series of talks on that subject.

Evening Sermons On Questions We Have Right To Ask

Rev. Luther E. Stein, D.D., of Philadelphia, Penn., and Secretary of the Division of Christian Relations of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, began the services of the seventeenth series of college February Meetings Thursday morning, February 7.

Dr. Stein announced the general theme of his morning sermons as "This Business of Living." The evening series of sermons revolve around a number of questions which we as Christians have a right to ask, the February Meetings leader stated.

SEEKING BASICS

Since the beginning of time, said Dr. Stein as he introduced his first sermon Thursday morning, man has been seeking basic things other than base necessities, which will satisfy the mysterious yearnings within him.

This unrelentless search for satisfaction from those inner hungerings has led man to discover power, to multiply continually by his feeble strength new ways of securing and administering that power.

But with all the power-giving scientific discoveries — all the means of harnessing nature to man's will, Dr. Stein stated that man's inner desire has never been satisfied. For the challenge to discover, the urge for power, reaches beyond the things of the world and becomes focused upon the eternal things of the spirit. They are still looking for marvelous gardgets that will develop the art of communication between God and man. They are still, amid the present struggles of human relationships, looking for divine relationship and its place in human affairs.

This business of living, said Dr. Stein, demands that we today see if we can become able to discover those things for ourselves—to find what all past generations have been seeking: that power to do, to see, to talk, to love, to live according to the laws God has made for us. "God giveth power to the faint; and to him that hath no might, he increaseth strength"—(Isaiah 40:29).

KEEP CHRIST REAL

In his sermon Friday evening, February 8, Dr. Stein used his text, the fourteenth chapter of the Gospel of John, as an answer to another question we have the right to ask ourselves: "How can we keep Christ real?"

Dr. Stein, in his introduction to this topic, pointed out the many things that we today regard as bare necessities which the New Testament apostles never knew.

But with all our modern conveniences, said Dr. Stein, we don't have the one all-important thing that these ancient apostles did have: that new sense of the radiant reality of Jesus Christ.

Dr. Stein then progressed to point out three ways by which we today can make and keep Christ reeal to us:

First, said the speaker, is REMEMBER. Remember His promise of always being with you, of revealing Himself to you through the scriptures. Then remember that Christ is counting on revealing Himself through you to others.

But along with remembering, stated Dr. Stein, we must BELIEVE. In times of trouble and gladness we must believe that God is able to communicate with and help us in an unexplainable way that requires faith.

Remember, then believe: then PRACTICE, the leader urged.

Christ has said, Dr. Stein pointed out, "If you want the contemporary presence of Me, find what I want you to do and do it—then you will find Me He that hath My commandments and doeth them, I will manifest Myself unto him."

We Have So Much . . .

We have so much. Americans have for so long that it no longer seems so much. Not until someone makes comparisons. But World War II that has added to the American jackpot has drained the countries of Europe and of the East of many of the "necessities" of our life, and the comparisons are being made.

They are not just quaintly dressed peasants in some remote field, these starving, shivering people. There are students in universities similar to ours—learning the same facts, struggling with the same conjugations, perhaps a little more earnest in their leaness, more avid in seeking out the mysteries of the labs, more impatient in their arguments, more eager in their day-by-day existence, to get the most from the little offered, and on.

Ambition anywhere is a wonderful and terrible thing. Without it, civilizaiton would stagnate. But those who have it pay a dear price. They pay with the strain of effort, with the tears of disappointment, with the agony of self-reproach. And these students must be ambitious, with the drive of their very souls behind them.

They are not just quaintly dressed peasants in some remote field; they are the people the students of our universities will deal with when they are no longer college kids, the representatives in United Nations projects. We'll need them in another ten years.

And they are hungry—always hungry. We can buy steaks again. Since daddy got his raise, we know that glorious abandonment of paying twice the price for a new hat. They are shivering. These are not sentimental pictures concocted in an editor's enthusiasm. They are facts from reports from USF representatives who went to the universities. But you all have read someplace of the need overseas.

And we have so much.

We Were Mistaken

In the last edition of the Echo we stated that before the war the varsity basketball players practiced at nights to avoid conflict with the girls' point system groups. We were mistaken. Last semester the fellows did practice at night.

A schedule has been worked out which gives both groups access to the big gym, and certain adjustments are being made in order that the girls may play their tournaments on the large court.

Next year the growing physical education program will make the situation more crowded. This inadequacy presents a real problem.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

It is understood that the editorial stall members of the CHILHOWEAN have put their heads together and come out with a brainstorm. Seems that in this year's edition of the yearbook there will be a "Girl of the Campus," or "Best All-Around Girl," or something similar. That constitutes the entirety of our information, the four staff members being the only ones who know the name of the girl, who, incidentally, has already been chosen. Frankly, we have a sneaking suspicion that "she" will be a senion, but, as to just WHO she is, we don't have the slightest idea. Now if we saw a feminine student with Betty Ann Showalter's or Jeanette McCamy's hair Shirley Oshana's dark eyes Marion Lewis' smooth complexion Lottie Lavender's nose Joy Stewart's clothes Janet Nisbet's enthusiasm Ruth Broadhead's friendliness Judy Turk's friends Vera Lusk's smile Marion Scott's near-sighted gaze Mary Case's grades Olinde Ahrens' sincerity Betty Wyrick's figure Kitty Johnson's accent Skip Jamison's tiny feet Lois Thomas' dramatic ability Somebody's pretty teeth and Betty Ann Ward's hands, then it wouldn't be so difficult to decide, but we've never seen such a person. Have you? If anyone discovers anything, don't fail to let us know. Maybe, before long, they'll decide to pick out a "Boy of the Campus," too.

If, some Saturday afternoon, you have that homesick longing to see a few Maryville students, then don your boots and go downtown for a while. Last Saturday we wormed a path through a confabbing corner crowd and discovered Mitch Woolridge, Eloise Gaston, Judy Heath, and Betsy Click on the other side, discussing the best frontal attack. Overton and Seymour were seen in hte bakery, refusing cream-puffs. They want to keep their school-boy figures. Never come back to the campus without visiting Byrne Drugstore, where you're likely to find Marion Wiegel with Bill Magill discussing something over cokes, and Harriet Perry and friends watching something over cokes. Ellen Duncan might be found patiently listening to the stories of a group of local kids, and undoubtedly John Ruian will enter to engage the clerk in a lengthy conversation. Eventually Purifoy will amble in, and by that time the watch will say that it's time to stand on two feet and leave.

In case you didn't know, Lloyd Chandler passed the test published in the February "American" one-hundred per cent. Nine points out of ten is excellent for mos tpeople, but Lloyd made ten out of ten. Ask him about it.

Jinny Peters didn't want any questions asked, so she informed certain people that the letter addressed to the New York State Penitentiary was going to the warden's son.

Can't understand why Miss Johnson insists that Merle and Marion Henderson always sit in designated chairs..... Third week for Mitch and Mike..... Third month for June and Tom.....Third year for Katie and Kidder.....Wishing for Jean Keen's musical ability.....Welcome to the MacDowels, recently moved into Carnegie.....Compliments to Laura, Kitty, Lois, Harriet, Mary Marion, Virginia, and Bernell, Experimental Theater players.....And what was the matter with Edgar Potts last Thursday, February 7, at exactly 7:30 A.M.?

One wouldn't want to seem prejudiced, but because we did see a "few" Theetas and Alpha Sigs scattered among the audience, we feel free to comment on the Bainonian-Athenian production of last Saturday night. Some people definitely deserve credit and this department wants to give it to them. Angels Secrest and McArthur didn't exactly look or act their part, but one musn't say that about Kribbs—head of the other place, rightly named "You Know Where." St. Peter portrays the part of Schwartzbach more naturally, but Lovers Barbara and Jim were typically typical—especially when he decided to wander in another direction Other characters, such as Mr. Wilson, Mademoiselle Wilkinson, Mr. McCurry, Mr. Wilhelm, Mr. Barker, Mr. Gillingham, Miss Heron, and Miss Meiselwitz, were undoubtedly at their best. Dean Hunter greatly resembled himself, and we feel that a certain professor might soon be forced to relinquish his title or the "only man on campus who can make perfect question marks with his eyebrows." To keep the school going as well as it is, Kidder should be nominated, but not elected as its next president. Coach Honaker must be congratulated as the only person with a record to make the grade. His slogan, "Early to bed and early to rise, and your head will never feel three times its size," was a strike for him. He married the two Maryville students and Mr. Kidder felt that it would be a convenient time to make an announcement, appropriately stating, "This is the end."

It's doubtful that Dr. Stein included this in any of his sermons, so here's personal advice from me to thee that you might keep in mind. "If you have not a good memory, don't attempt the art of lying."

Scotch Broth

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Scotch Broth is going to toss a few bouquets your way this week. Progress is advanced by applause and appreciation given at appropriate moments.

To men on Maryville college campus (vets and non-vets, bachelors and benedicts) boutonierres for chivalry and courtesy—seldom mentioned but often recognized by those usually designated as the fairer sex. Simple things like being there before her to open the door, giving her a helpful hand when she is struggling with her coat, pushing in her chair at meals: these all chalk up points for you! "For courtesy wins woman all as well as valor may."

Lest the girls feel neglected, Scotch Broth hastens to commend them with a colonial nosegay for the splendid spirit of cooperation that has given W.S.G.A. such a noteworthy beginning. Monitors have accepted and are maintaining a high degree of responsibility as they perform the duties assigned them. The sense of freedom accompanying the privilege of turning out one's own lights has not cost anyone her month's light cuts as yet.

Because it is so much a part of life on the "hill", the perennial friendliness of students is seldom acclaimed. However, were it to disappear most certainly all would note its absence. Newcomers on the campus surely recognize the charged atmosphere immediately and appreciate the gay greeting and friendly grin. A partner to this friendliness is the sincere helpful attitude cultivated and practiced by many discerning persons. Friendships are often strengthened by some thoughtful act of kindness done for another. Therefore, a mixed garden bouquet for all!

Carnations to those behind the scenes at plays, concerts, sports activities, Saturday night programs. Let's not forget those whose efforts keep classrooms, halls, chapel, dorms, and walks clean and attractive. Too often carelessness causes busy minds to forget these essential people. May we not be guilty.

The hothouse would soon be empty of its loveliness if this column were to continue this list. We can all think of other links in this chain of what makes our college good—(should we add: "to the last drip"?) Would you like to hand out the bouqets now?!!

TALK O F THE WEEK..... .... BY JEAN ALMY

Student Is Not "Warped" (He Says)

To Anyone Still Interested:

It was indeed a revelation to this humble individual to discover that his attitude toward women shows that he is suffering from a "warped sociological view." It has probably leaked out by now that I beat my wife regularly and spend my spare time putting thumb tacks on girls' chairs. Tut, tut. What I'm really suffering from is a perverted sense of humor, and not That Other Thing. I actually believed that the crack about women being "tolerated for their gentle influence only" would be taken for the joke it was intended to be. Boy, am I dumb!

Careful readings that seditions letter will reveal that three points were stressed:

1. Maryville college needs more males (i.e., veterans, unless someone can suggest where 300 other young men are immediately available) than it has.

2. The present day "trade school" university with its trailer camp conditions is inferior to a good liberal arts college as a medium of education.

3. Suggestions were made that might help the college to reach the veteran—now, when the need is greatest. The suggestion was made for the year beginning September 1946 only, as stated. It is felt that the situation will clear itself up after that period.

Notice especially that no reference was made to "poor unfortunate veterans," and none should be inferred.

I do believe that there are men and women who are not veterans that are better qualified for positions on the campus than any veteran. But I further believe that more than one office will be filled this spring by a veteran simply because he is a veteran and not because he is better qualified than any non-vet on the campus. That being the case, and since many offices will probably be filled by veterans anyway, it does seem fairer to give those entering, and returning, in September a chance to take a full part in campus activities, too, instead of filling the offices this spring when the choice is more limited.

As for the difficulties attendant upon such a procedure, they are many, yes. But there are none that are unsurmountable. To say there are, is to say that each person elected in the spring is indispensable, which I am inclined to doubt.

Well, that's all. The editor says this is my last letter on the subject. I'm rather sorry, because I've been having a wonderful time; and I can tell by the happy expression on everyone's face that you have, too. Amen.

Dr. Stein Tells All At Echo Interview

Habits, Hobbies and Courtship Revealed

The Reverend Dr. Luther E. Stein, the familiar figure in the Chapel pulpit during the recent February Meetings, became known among Maryville students because of his engaging smile and informal manner, as well as for his remarkable ability to hold the steadfast attention of the student body while giving a sermon. He was not only willing to assist others, but at the same time was found to "confidentially" admit to all that he has been forced to cope with problems of his own. His problems, he said, have varied from the endurance of listening to long-winded preachers to the seeking of a proper way of proposing to a girl from whom he was separated by an ocean.

As a boy, Dr. Stein spent most of his life in Hastings, Nebraska, where his mother is still residing. He later entered Hastings College, just before World War I, a college where his course included economics, which in itself might not be too interesting. The professor, however, was a firm believer in alphabetical seating; consequently, a charming young lady whose last name was Simms and a bashful young man whose name also began with an S became acquainted. They later had other classes together, one of them being Advanced Composition, where he "realized her ability" (which she later used in correspondence). Eventually he reached the point of carrying her books.

But the World War interfered, and he was sent overseas for three years with the 1st Artillery Division. "I was the kind of a guy who never spent a dime on the gal," he admitted unashamedly. "Then I got engaged to her by cable after I was overseas."

She accepted his proposal by return cable, in spite of the fact that he had never asked her for a date. "I don't recommend this as a method of courtship," Dr. Stein emphasized, smiling broadly.

Mrs. Stein, who remained in Philadelphia, has a career of her own. She is a consulting psychologist with many clients each day. She has talked with people whose ages range from ten years of age to that of elderly adults.

Dr. and Mrs. Stein have two children, a married daughter who now lives in Pasadena, California, and a twenty-one year old son, who is in the army. The son was a flame-thrower operator in Patton's infantry, and is now awaiting passage home after spending two years in France.

Not unlike other men, Dr. Stein has his pet peeves, consisting of "newspaper reporters", railroad travel, alarm clocks, and long-winded preachers. His favorite recreation is bowling, a game which he usually plays at least once during each week.

Among the circles of ministers with whomhe is associated, he is known as "Luke," the result of his own habit of calling other people by their first names.

When asked about his favorite food, he said with a meaningful sigh, "Nice, big thick juicy steaks done rare, with french-fries and smothered in mushrooms." (He last had one in 1941.) "But I always eat enormous quantities of anything that is set before me, as Mrs. Lloyd well knows."

His hobby is photography, which he has just "picked up" by "reading and asking a lot of dumb questions." He has a nice "darkroom for two, but the second one has to get in on a shoe horn." Mrs. Stein also likes photography and assists him in it.

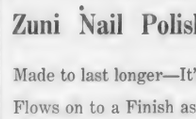
Dr. Stein left for Philadelphia following the close of the Meetings on Thursday. He stated that he hoped the president wouldn't breathe two sighs of relief when he put him back on the plane. His presence was especially appreciated since it was not known until a late date that the Rev. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour of Knoxville could not lead the Meetings as originally planned, which allowed Dr. Stein only a short time for preparation.

ALPHA SIGMA

Virginia Miller will give Valentine readings this evening in Alpha Sigma hall at 6:15.

On February 8 a general business meeting was held.

The celebrated soprano was singing a solo when Bobby said to his mother, referring to the conductor of the orchestra:



"Why does than man hit at the women with his stick?"

"But he isn't hitting at her," replied the mother.

"Well, then, what's she hollerin' for?"

Susie: "I'm afraid I can't afford that operation now."

Sailor Friend: "No, it looks like you'll have to talk about your old one for another year."

SPORTS

SCOT SPORTS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Last semester the sports situation reached what must have been an all-time low at Maryville college. It couldn't have been much lower in that only one (1) fellow on campus was the possessor and wearer of the Maryville M. And that one, who is this writer, could hardly boast of a varsity letter; his was earned by being intramural manager during his sophomore year when there weren't any seniors around to get the job and letter.

This semester it is mighty good to see some real varsity M's on these men coming back to school after their sweaters being in the mothballs three or four years. We've already mentioned a couple of those lettermen now on campus in this column in previous issues, but just for the record, let's see how each of these fellows, who wears a letter, earned his.

LETTERMEN ON CAMPUS

Jeff Breazele wears his letter by virtue of two seasons as varsity center on the football team. He played in the years '41 and '42 as freshman and sophomore respectively. He does not plan to be around for football next fall as he plans to enter U-T School of Pharmacy before that time.

Harvey Hollingsworth, who is playing a lot of steady guard during the basketball season of 1946, was around Maryville as a freshman the fall of 1942 and was letterman on the football squad. His position as a gridder was wingback. He is planning on another football season at Maryville next fall.

Bob Hunter is a tennis letterman. He played during the seasons of 1942 and '43. The latter year was when the Scottie squad won the state championship.

Don Kent got his M way back in 1940. He was distance runner on the track team, specializing in the two mile run.

John Rogerville, who is fast becoming Maryville's Number 1 Ladies' Man, was another of the football lettermen back in pre-war days. Before he got his four-year job with Uncle Sam he was a hard charging tackle for the Highlanders.

Oliver Spears, the other guard for the present Maryville cagers, has three football letters to his credit. His years of M.C. football competition were '40, '41, and '42. In his sophomore year, when Maryville won eight and lost only one contest, Ollie was spearhead of the Scottie offensive. An ECHO sports writer had this to say about Oliver in the September 20, 1941 issue of the ECHO:

"The Highlander attack centers about 160-pound Ollie Spears, a triple-threat sophomore whose spectacular runs have caused railbirds to gasp at every workout this year. Spears is also a fine passer and a good punter, and is being hailed as one of the best all-round backs in this section, none excluded." Oliver is a senior and he MAY be back next fall to finish up his college career. He is about 20 pounds heavier now than he was when that article was written, and this is certainly one person on campus who is hoping that he is back next fall. Right now Ollie doesn't know whether he will be able to graduate at the end of a summer session or if he will be here next fall to play another football season. . . maybe with his brother, Arthur, who also played with the Scotties as a freshman in '42. Artie is due back next fall.

Curtis Wright is the owner of two letters. He earned one in the swimming sport in 1940; he was a distance man. The other was awarded for being senior intramural manager.

Another letterman seen on campus these days is Nig Wilburn. He lettered in football three or four years before leaving school in 1938. He is only a part-time student now, dividing his time between school here and teaching and coaching at Alcoa High school.

NO TOURNEY FOR SCOTS

Coach Honaker has announced that definitely there will be no Smoky Mountain Basketball Tournament action for Maryville this year. The Athletic Committee has voted not to participate even if the tourney is held as scheduled. And from what we read in the papers, there is going to be one for sure. But that's not the point. Maryville is going to stay home this time.

DR. LLOYD, GOOD FAN

This department would nominate Dr. R. W. Lloyd, local college prexy, as No. 1 supporter and fan for the Highlander basketball squad. He attends all the games, home and otherwise. Dr. Lloyd even made the trip to Tusculum with a car-load of nine persons. It's 90 miles up there, and anyone taking that many that far must be pretty darn interested.

They say that Miss Heron knows more about which men will and will not be at M.C. for football next fall than even Coach does. During their stay in the service Miss Heron has maintained a voluminous correspondence with many of the Scots-in-the-service. She has really kept up with the fellows and as they come back, they report that her many and lengthy letters have been muchly appreciated. Without Miss Heron it would have been much more nearly impossible to get a Maryville cheering section reorganized. She is a long-time member of the Pep Committee.

Maryville Outpoints Wesleyan Five

High School Basketball Tourney Scheduled For Alumni Gym

Coach L. S. Honaker recently announced that the annual Seventh District High School Basketball tournament is to be held at Maryville college again this year. The games which will probably be played on the evenings of February 25, 26, 28 and March 1 and 2, will be played in Alumni Gym.

The Seventh District is composed of the nine high schools in Blount County and one from outside this county. The following ten schools will take part in the tournament: Maryville, Alcoa, Everett, Friendsville High, Friendsville Academy, Townsend, Walland Porter, Lanier, and Greenback.

There is to be both a boys' and girls' tournament. All play will alternate, first playing a girls' game and then a boys' contest.

Coach Honaker is the tournament director.

Admission for college students will be 30 cents.

Tonight the Scotties journey to Harrogate, Tennessee, to engage the highly-touted and favored Rail Splitters of LMU.

Monday night the Scots have a return engagement with the Tennessee Wesleyan five on the Wesleyan court.

The Spanish Club held open house for new members on Thursday, February 14 in the Y Rooms. Games were played and the members learned to La Conga. The program was planned by Eva Toro and Nellie Cuellas. Refreshments were served.

Chilhowee Team Rolls Over Scots

Maryville's cagers received a thorough going over at the hands of the Chilhowee Lions Saturday night, February 9, in the Alumni Gym. Final score read 36 to 56.

It was a case of the independent outfit having too much height for the college squad and too much scoring ability in the person of E. Wolf, who could not be stopped. Wolf personally accounted for 26 of his team's score. Huskey helped in the defeat of the Scotties with his work as pivot man; he also was potent on the offense, getting 13 points.

Renfro led the scoring for the losers with 10 tallies. Kemp and Miracle both scored 8 for the Highlander cause.

The game was very lopsided during the first half with the Lions taking a lead that was never threatened. But during the second half the Scotties played considerably better ball both offensively and defensively to keep the contest from becoming any more of a run away.

Scots (36)	Pos.	Lions (56)
Miracle 8	F	J. Wolf 6
Renfro 10	F	W. Perry 4
House 2	C	Huskey 13
Spears 1	G	E. Wolf 26
Hollingsworth 2	G	Porterfield 2

Subs: Maryville—Lenoir 3, Largen 2, Kemp 8, Newman, Breazele, Slater; Amos & Andy—York 7, Erwin. Referee: Toots Blazer.

INTRAMURALS

In intramural basketball competition since the last issue of the ECHO five games have been played. The Junior Celtics is the only undefeated team at this point, and therefore holds the top position in the standings.

SHARPSHOOTERS TRIM CLIPPERS

Yesterday afternoon, Friday, February 15, the Sharpshooters won easily over the Clippers in an intramural game in the big gym by a 33 to 18 score. The Clippers were handicapped by having to play with only four players. In the last half with a comfortable lead the Sharpshooters dropped one of their men, and the remainder of the game was played with each team using only four players. Huffman was outstanding for the winners with 16 points. Also for the winners Ken Kribbs had 9 and Van Blarcom 6. Anthony dropped in 8 points and Dinges 5 for the losers.

CELTICS TOPPLE BLACKBIRDS

Monday afternoon, Feb. 11, the Junior Celtics downed the Blackbirds by the score of 41 to 24 in the big gym. Mathias had 18 points and Scapellate 13 to lead the scoring for the winners. Schieber and Smith had 9 each for the losers. There was a total of 45 fouls called in the game. The Junior Celtics now hold undisputed lead in the basketball standings with three wins against no losses.

SHARPSHOOTERS WING BLACKBIRDS

In a low-scoring contest on Friday, Feb. 8, the Sharpshooters overcame the Blackbirds 14 to 8. The score at the half was 5-5. Huffman had 9 points for the winners to lead the scorers for the afternoon. The Blackbirds have been hampered by injuries in all their games thus far. Cardella has been virtually one-handed throughout, and Schieber has recently had a hand injury.

JUNIOR CELTICS TROUNCE CLIPPERS

On the afternoon of February 6th the Junior Celtics routed the Clippers 40 to 20. Captain Scapelleti and Anderson had 12 points each for the Celtics while Anthony garnered 9 points to lead for his team. The first half was fairly close, but Scapelleti's crew pulled away in the last half to win easily.

CLIPPERS OUTSCORE BLACKBIRDS 32-27

In a tight game on Monday afternoon, Feb. 4, the Clippers defeated the Blackbirds 32 to 27 in the Alumni gym. Cover led for the Clippers with 15 points. Schieber had 15 and Wheeler 11 for the losers. Most of the scoring for the game was done in the first half. The score then was 23 for the Clippers to 19 for the Blackbirds. Ken Kribbs and Fred Richardett called the game.

FUTURE EVENTS

Max House, intramurals manager, says that in addition to continuing the present basketball schedule a doubles ping pong tournament will be started soon. A notice will be posted in Memorial Hall for all the fellows who wish to take part.

Point System . . .

A group of 50 girls is quite a group and 50 girls slinging a basketball around is a worthwhile spectacle. The point system girls number approximately 50 strong. They are just about evenly divided into two groups which meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3:30 and 4:30. The girls have been practicing basketball skills for several weeks to develop into future basketball stars—well at least they try. Two teams will be picked from each group and the best players will be chosen while those who are not quite as good will become substitutes. The girls are working quite hard to make the teams and if some of them dust up the floor in an over-anxious effort occasionally, it is well worth the while. Some of the girls have played basket ball before; others are just apprentices. Those novices do very well for beginners and it won't be long until they will be giving the veteran players a pretty good run for it. The Chillie and Howie teams will be picked during the practices of the 19th and 21st and the first games will be on the 26th. Good luck girls!

Scots Come From Behind To Win

Last night in Alumni Gym the Scotties got hot in the last half of the game with Tennessee Wesleyan to come from behind and carve out a 40 to 32 victory in a game that had the big crowd on its feet and screaming during most of the second half.

Parkinson and Jones, center and guard respectively of the visiting team, were the high point men, scoring 11 points each.

Squire Kemp, who entered the game as a substitute guard, led the Highlanders to their victory, sinking 10 points as well as doing brilliant defensive work. He was followed by Miracle and Renfro who both got 7 markers for the Scots.

Jones opened the game with two points on a long shot for Wesleyan; Lenoir tied it up with a quick field goal for M.C. From that time until late in the last half, the Scotties trailed the fast-moving visitors. However, the score was never very lopsided throughout the game. Half time score found Wesleyan leading by three points, 17-14.

Kemp connected to pull up within one point of a tie, 29 and 30, with about five minutes of play left in the ball game. Then Ollie Spears dropped in one of his Long Toms to put the Scotties in the lead for the first time. Spears added a foul throw to make it 32 to 30. Then in the last four minutes as the crowd and Tennessee Wesleyan both went slightly wild, House, Renfro and Kemp cashed in on free throws; Perkinson sank a onehander for Wesleyan; Renfro and House scored crip shots, and Kemp sank another free throw before the final whistle sounded. Final score, 40-32.

Scotties (40)	Pos.	T-W (32)
Miracle 7	F	Perkinson 7
Lenoir 2	F	Brakebill
Renfro 7	C	Parkinson 11
Spears 5	G	Shaw 3
Hollingsworth	G	Jones 11

Substitutions: Maryville—Kemp 10, Largen 6, Newman, House 3; Wesleyan—Dillard.

HIGHLANDERS OVERCOME TUSCULUM FIVE, 37-34

Maryville came out on the long end of a 37 to 34 score against Tusculum Tuesday night, February 5, to win a tight ball game and to end a four game losing streak the Scotties had started. The game was played on the Maryville floor.

Tusculum went ahead at the opening whistle by getting a quick two-pointer, but before they scored again Maryville had taken the lead, which did not change hands again, despite several spirited rallies by the visitors from Greeneville. At one time in the first half the Tusculum outfit pulled up to within one point of a tie score, 15-16, but the Highlanders scored several times before half time, when they were ahead by the score of 21 to 16.

Mike Miracle was top scorer for the game with 12 points. Renfro, center, was also valuable in the Scot cause with excellent work under the backboard. He also accumulated 10 tallies.

Lady was best for Tusculum getting 11 markers.

In this contest the Maryville five evened things up with Tusculum, this being the second time the teams have met this season. Maryville was on the short end of the score in the first engagement.

Maryville (37)	pos.	Tuscu (34)
Miracle 12	F	Barker 4
House 1	F	Lady 11
Renfro 10	C	Walsh 7
Spears 8	G	Justis 2
Hollingsworth	G	Leonard 3

Substitutions: Breazelle 2, Leonoir, Largen 2, Kemp 2; Tusculum: Anderson, Emmons 2, Brooks 1, Kendell, White 4.

Referee: Stratton.

Reverend Philip Evaul To Address YMCA

The Reverend Philip Evaul, assistant pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian church, will address the Y.M.C.A. group in Bartlett Hall on Sunday, February 17. He will have as his topic, "Standing in the Gap." Ed Anthony at the piano will provide the special music.

MINISTERIALS TO CHOOSE ADVISER

A business meeting will be held at the next meeting of the Ministerial association, February 21, at 6:45 P.M. in Athenian Hall. An adviser for the organization and committees for the year will be appointed. There will be no speaker.

Virginia Garrett Becomes Bride of Chester Phillips

Virginia M. Garrett, ex'46, became the bride of Chester W. Phillips, ex'46, Wednesday, January 30, 1946 at Miss Garrett's home in Miami, Florida. The Rev. Mr. Willis Garrett, graduate of Maryville and brother of the bride, united them with a double-ring ceremony. There were no attendants.

The couple motored down the coast to Key West for a wedding trip and are now at home at 340 N.E. 14th Terrace, Miami. They plan to attend Maryville's commencement this spring.

Mrs. Phillips was a member of the Spanish Club while here in school and Mr. Phillips was a member of the Vesper choir. He has just returned from twenty-three months service in the China-India-Burma theater.

THETA

On February 8 Theta Epsilon was serenaded by tenor Bob Dubois. Among other songs, Bob sang all of those presented in the musical, "State Fair."

February Meetings

WHY WORSHIP?

Sunday evening, February 10, Dr. Stein spoke on another in a series of questions that we have a right to ask: Why worship?

The first reason why we should worship, said Dr. Stein, is because God seeks it. Just as man possessing unlimited material wealth cannot be satisfied or happy in the absence of true human love, so God, who has all the created universe, longs above all for the love and comnanionship of finite men and women.

We should worship God in the second place, said Dr. Stein, because man's made for it. His many human capacities are given to him not only to contact and understand and absorb the sounds and sights of the world, the fellowship of human relationships, but also to be used to live intimately in spiritual fellowship with God.

The third reason for worshipping God is because we need it, said the February Meetings speaker. In the hustle and bustle of modern times we need to let our souls catch up with our straining bodies.

CHRIST'S MIND OURS?

Dr Stein spoke on another evening question Monday evening, February 11: Can we have the mind of Christ?

We do have the mind of Christ objectively, stated the speaker, because we have the Scriptures. But subjectively possessing that mind —making it a dominate, dynamic, motivating, controlling force within us—is another thing, a thing that cannot be gained until we learn to look at life as Christ did.

One finds three outstanding characteristics of Christ's mind through Biblical survey, said Dr. Stein.

First, one notes His mind's sensitivity to human needs, to the hidden potentiality within man, and its responsiveness to human needs and hidden values.

Second, Christ's mind was comprehensive, able to grasp the significance of life in any predicament and make Him master of every situation.

Third, Christ's mind was courageous which enabled Him to tackle any type of problem in spite of any obstacle.

By looking at the records of what and why and how Christ did what He did, said Dr. Stein, we learn His mind and somehow its characteristics begin to permeate our beings and dominate our actions and thoughts. Then we will indeed "Have the mind that was also in Christ Jesus" (I Cor. 2:16).

"YE SHALL BE WITNESSES"

The February Meetings leader spoke Tuesday morning on the last commandment Jesus gave His disciples before His ascension: "Ye shall be witnesses unto me." (Acts 1:8).

This same commandment applies to us today, said Dr. Stein. But to be witnesses, he continued, we must make testimonies, offering what we know and feel to others through the help of our deep and abiding knowledge of Christ himself.

But to have that knowledge which enables us to be witnesses we must experience close fellowship with Christ—a friendship that is genuine, versatile, and continuous—a friendship that grows tighter, closer, deeper, and eternal as a result of obeying that command of long ago: "Ye shall be witnesses unto me."

THAT'S FOR ME

"I know what I like, and I like what I see, and I say to myself, 'That's for me,' " said Dr. Stein in opening his sermon Wednesday morning, February 13.

"This business of living, said the speaker, demands that we teach ourselves to become capable of choosing where to put the emphasis on what we do—to be able to choose what we must do and say unhesitantly, "That's for me."

Running away from God only opposes one's progress and destroys one's chance for joy—That's not for me. But the opposite is for you and me, said Dr. Stein. Swinging open the rusty hinges of our hearts, making Christ welcome in the entire mansions of ourselves which should first have been cleansed and made ready for Him —That's for me. Answering the call of the future to which each must believe he has something worthwhile to contribute, be it one talent or many—That's for me. A new desire to have the fire of the spirit of God falling upon each of us and kindling the Christian church into new, everlasting flames—That's for me.

—THEN WHAT?

With the first of his series of "questions we have a right to ask," Dr. Stein presented the querie, "What happened the morning after the night before?" at the first evening meeting, Thursday, February 7. Using the story of the prodigal son as found in Luke 15 as his text, Stein presented four factors which "stay." One who has yielded his life to Christ will not be able to get away from himself, must face the discipline of a job to be done, must stand up to "human relationships where people distrust him, must take the place of integrity of the Father . . . " "get right" in the human-divine relationship. "There is no day we do not have to orient ourselves," Stein said: "our first business is to God!"

THE REALITY OF CHRIST

"How can we keep Christ real?" was the second question of the evening series. Dr. Stein used as his text John 14. Although Bible Christians did not have colleges and seminaries, young peoples' societies, or constitutional rights to free worship, they had one thing many do not possess today, Stein said. That is a deep, abiding experience of Jesus Christ: they had been so close to Christ that His Reality stayed with them. He proposed three steps that modern Christians might take to keep Him a Reality today: remember, believe, practice. To be remembered is the promise that He would not leave them, but would send them a Comforter, not only for Sunday, but for every day of the week. Remember is not enough: one must believe and practice also. "He that hath my commandments and doeth them is He that loveth me . . and I will manifest myself unto him." "In the moment of obedience," Stein stated, "the Reality of Christ is manifested."

THE BODY OF CHRIST

"Look at your church!" Dr. Stein advised Saturday morning. "Only as you understand what it represents will you realize what the business of living involves." "Growing Up and Building Up" was his topic with Ephesians 4 as his text. The Christian, beginning his new life with an individual commitment to Christ, is born into a family of Christians, which are characterized by four things. The first two, oneness of faith and diversities of gifts and functions, discover one body and on espirit with many types of workers. These can be held together only when Christians remember their teamship which demands harmony, with no one a law unto itself. The last two reflect progress and the purposes of the church: individual growing up to the Christ-like level, and group building up of the body of Christ . . . the co-worker with God.

SALVATION

On Monday morning, "This business of being alive" tokened complete commitment to Christ. Salvation, explained Stein, is a long-time process: Christ sets man's feet on a rock and says "Ye are not your own." "He is not saving us from something, but to something!" he stated. "Why don't we do it? Because, for one thing, perhaps we had never thought of it; then, too, because we had the wrong idea about God." He explained God as a God of beauty, of wholeness or completeness, of power. "It's the obvious thing to do!" he said. A man takes his watch to a jeweler, not a butcher or a doctor, to be repaired; he yields the mechanism to the only power that can make it work. So men are to do with themselves; God is the great power which alone has complete power of the mechanism of man. Christ is the great soul-physician.

GOD'S WILL FOR LIFE

With his text as Romans 12 and the Sermon on the Mount, Dr. Stein spoke at the evening meeting February 12, on "Can we find the will of God for our lives?" "There are four sources," he said, "to which we have access as we seek the will of God." The Bible is a veritable encyclopedia. Other people . . . parents, friends, pastors, teachers . . . can be a source; we have access to their experiences. Our own experience to the present, and prayer and worship —"an infinite spirit enveloping us"—are the other two sources. Belief that "He is a rewarder of them that truly seek Him." Preparation to make the effort when His will is seen, patience for the unpredictable and the time element, and obedience to the will are the basic requirements as we go seeking the will of God. The will of God, Stein stated, can be proved as the task which is good —benefitting fellowmen under the providence of God— accepting or pleasing, and perfect or complete . . . " bringing out unutterable melodies in the soul which will go everything we know here, is a victory, for the only imperishable thing in us is that thing called Christ which shall meet itself at death. "Thanks be unto God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!" Stein ended.

THE LOVE OF GOD

"This business of being alive in Christ" gives Christians the assurance that Christ is able to give a knowledge of the love of God, Dr. Stein concluded in the Thursday morning address. Using as his text Ephesians 3, he set out to describe the love of God, in breadth, in length, height, depth. So comprehensive it can surround men of all ages, so long as eternity—from everlasting to everlasting—, so high as heaven, so deep it is beyond the eye of man.....so that when it is built upon, nothing can shake what is built.....deep from the depth of God to the deep of men: this is the love of God. The God who "is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we do or think through the power that worketh in us" is able to make us know this love, to make us alive beyond our highest dreams, if we but commit our beings to him, he stated. Not like the barnyard ducks that vainly struggle for a few minutes to rise up to fly with the flight of the wild geese overhead, but with His power men shall "rise up with wings as eagles." He is able. We can bring our "utmost to His highest!" he concluded.

CHRISTIAN MAINSTAYS

In answer to the question "What shall I do when life shoves me around?" Stein used the fourth chapter of II Corinthians as his text on February 13. Like Ahab or Elijah, man deserves to go down in defeat if he is in the wrong. He should take the detour and make the best of it, for it may be the doorway to the discovery of the greater calling God has, as successful man in the past have. Discipline may be wrought from being shoved around; "unless your religion helps you meet and face and conquer your basic problems, it is of no importance," he said. Death, dwarfing by comparison,

Dr. Lloyd Attends Canadian Meeting of World Church

President Ralph W. Lloyd, who recently attended the meetings of the Southern Area Council of the YMCA in Atlanta, will spend next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in Niagara Falls, Canada, where he will represent the Presbyterian USA denominations at sessions of the western section of the Alliance of reformed churches throughout the world. Sunday he will be chapel speaker at Westerr college, Oxford, Ohio. He will travel by train and plane and is expected to be back at Maryville the following Friday.

Dr. Lloyd is a member of the Southern Area Board of Directors, the Blue Ridge Board of Directors, the Southern Area Committee on Interracial Services, and he is chairman of the Area Committee on Student Week.

NOTICE
Senior Measurements

Senior measurments for caps and gowns are being taken at the Bookstore. These measurements must be sent to the company within the next week. Seniors are reminded to give this matter their immediate attention.

Writer's Workshop Elects Four; Leave Granted Hunter

Writers' Workshop elected four new members to the organization last Friday and accepted the request for leave of absence from another. Newly elected were Peter Van Blarcom and William Grosh, returned veterans, and Alma Lancaster and June Garland. Dr. E. R. Hunter was granted leave of absence for the semester.

At the Wednesday meeting, Ruth Freeman read a short story, "The Park", and Tom Parkinson read a narrative "Road Trip."

Olinde Ahrens, in criticizing "The Park", pointed out the many excellent bits of "picturesque speech" in the story and commented favorably on Miss Freeman's presentation of her chief character.

Mr. Parkinson succeeded in creating an extended mood of apprehension in his narrative by repetition of thought and attention to individual mannerisms. William Robarts was critic.

CONFERENCE REPORT

Anna Sakaizawa, Fred Wilson, and Ruth King Wood will report on the Tennessee Student Christian Conference at Student Vols Sunday, February 24. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin was the speaker at the meeting February 17.

M.C. Gives Over $550 to W.S.S.F.

The World Student Service Fund was received with much enthusiasm by the Maryville student body, with contributions amounting to $580.23 at the counting on Thursday evening, February 21.

Dr. Huntley Dupre, a former history professor at the University of Kentucky and now Campus Secretary of the WSSF, opened the drive Wednesday, speaking at the morning chapel service. Dr. Dupre presented the cause of millions of people in many countries of the world. He began by quoting a Russian girl, who has been helped by this movement and who is now studying medicine at Yale university, as saying, "This enterprise is inherited by the agony and tragedy of this war." He said that twenty million people are still homeless in Europe, badly needing attention, and he reminded Maryville students of these people, in spite of their remoteness from the United States. "It is my task," said Dr. Dupre, "to introduce you to your fellow students in the war ravished lands."

He gave examples by telling the stories of a student from each of four war-torn countries. "Our task is to save lives and restore health," Dr. Dupre stated. The WSSF is endeavoring to make possible sanitary care, rest, and establishment of Student Centers, fourteen of which are now in China. It also is providing supplies and support for student self-help projects.

Dr. Dupre gave the three-fold purpose of the WSSF in closing his address. They are the following: (1) To help them, for otherwise they will not be helped, (2) to help them as an investment for society, and (3) to educate American students out of their indifference.

The college committee composed of Rebecca Davis, Marky Cross, Bob Dockendorf, and Harvey Overton, provided tables over the campus and opportunities for students to contribute throughout the day. Pledge cards to be due on March 10 were signed by many Maryville students. "We have been very pleased with the response of the students," Miss Davis said Wednesday evening. "All who gave, gave freely and seem to realize the need."

New Library Books Discuss Religion, Science, Mexico

Several new books in Lamar Memorial library are of general interest and worthy of mention briefly. A subject much discussed today is the atomic bomb; its scientific research, development and production. Henry D. Smyth gives a detailed report in his book Atomic Energy. This might be called a textbook on nuclear physics tracing the history of radio-activity.

The well-known Jewish writer, Sholem Asch (The Apostle. The Nazarene) writes an "epistle to the Christians" in which he reviews the history of anti-Semitism and pleads with Christians for their recognition of "the destiny" for the Jews.

To the fiction shelves Alice Tisdale Hobart has added a moving novel of modern Mexico in which democracy struggles against deep-rooted tradition. The love story of Concha Navarro, Mexican beauty, and James Buchanan, American, provides the theme behind which moves the conflicts among the church, foreign business interests and the government's liberal reforms in Mexico. This book is entitled The Peacock Sheds its Til.

As a minister acquainted with the problems of a small church, James Street writes The Gauntlet, the novel of a young Baptist minister struggling to rise above the petty disputes of narrow and selfish church leaders. After suffering within his family and factions in the church, London Wingo at last discovers what is the true faith.

Fred Wilson Chosen As First President TSCC at Nashville

Fred Wilson, junior from Pennsylvania, was elected the first president of the Tennessee Student Christian Conference at Nashville on Saturday, February 16. Mr. Wilson was one of one hundred twenty-five students from ten colleges who met in Nashville for the three-day conference, February 15-17; he represented the Maryville YMCA. At the meeting, he served as chairman of the Constitution Committee, presenting the proposed constitution on Saturday morning. The constitution was temporarily accepted, to be added to at a later date. Saturday night Mr. Wilson was selected by the nominating committee and was unanimously elected by the conference.

Other Maryville representatives were Anna Sakaizawa of the Student Volunteers and Ruth King Wood of the YWCA.

Lt. George O. Beal Killed in Action

Lt. George O. Beal, Jr., the husband of Ethel Hanners Beal of the class of '45, has been officially reported dead according to word received by Dr. Lloyd recently. Lt Beal, ex, 44, who suspended his preministerial training after two years at Maryville to enter the Marine Air Corps, failed to return from a mission against Yap in the Caroline Islands in October, 1944.

A memorial service was held at the North Presbyterian Church at his home in Port Dickinson, New York on February 18.

NOTICE, SENIORS

All seniors are urged to be present at the special class meeting to be held following chapel Wednesday, February 27, at which time Mr. James R. Smith, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, will explain the series of recommendation forms to be filled out before graduation. These recommendations are of great importance when requests are made by prospective employers concerning college background. An explanation of the living endowment fund will also be made at that time.

Coloratura of The Decade Will Perform in Season's Final Program Which Closes 1945-46 Artist Series

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock the Swedish coloratura soprano, Miliza Korjus, under the management of Charles L. Wagner of New York, will be presented in a song recital in Voorhees chapel sponsored by the college artist series committee.

"The Marvelous Miliza", as TIME magazine describes her, had an international background of training at sixteen continental conservatories before launching upon her musical career in Europe as a concert singer and operatic coloratura. The international audience applauded her sensational performance as Gilda in "Rigoletto", Violetta in "La Traviata", and the Queen of the Night in Mozart's "Magic Flute."

Attracting America by her recordings, Madam Korjus accepted a Hollywood contract with M.G.M. for a starring role in "The Great Waltz," produced six years ago. This production was an overnight hit and another "star was born."

American Concerts

Madam Korjus' United States concert debut, postponed because of injuries suffered in an automobile accident, was made October, 1944, and since that time American voice connoisseurs have compared her favorably with Lily Pons and consider her one of the best coloraturas United States concert-goers have heard in a decade.

Since her debut, Madam Korjus has made coast-to-coast tours, singing with symphony orchestras and in song recitals.

Her singing career is hard pressed by her zest for living. She dislikes singing in opera houses; prima donna screams, stagehand shouts, and she doesn't like having to look over the tenor's head. (She's five feet, seven inches in her stocking feet.)

The tall, blond singer, who speaks fluently 6 languages, comes to Maryville in a song recital with flute and piano accompaniments. Her selections from a brilliant and exciting repertoire will bring out her sheer muscianship, her marvelous technique, her striking upper and lower reaches, her characteristic effortlessness, and the beauty of her appearance.

Tonight's Program

The concert program this evening, with Glauco L'Attili, pianist, and Dirk Keetbass, flutist, will include Mozart's "Alleluia", "Aria" from "Norma" by Bellini, "Aria" from "Lucia de Lammermoor" by Donizetti (with flute obligato), "Villanela" by Delaqua, and "Pizzicato" by Delibes; "Lo, Hark the Gentle Lark" by Bishop and "The Gypsy and the Bird" by Benedict also with flute obligato; and selections from "The Great Waltz" by Strauss, sung by Miliza Korjus. Glauco D'Attili's selections are "Organ Toccata" and "Fugue in D Minor" by Bach-Tausig, "Sonata in D" by Clementi, Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso", and "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11" by Liszt.

Maryville Alumnus Given High Post

Meade Johnson of Stamford, Conn., a graduate of Maryville college, has been appointed marketing manager of the Stamford division of the Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company. He will be responsible for developing the merchandising program of the Stamford company, including all cataloguing, sales-training, sales promotion, dealer displays, and supervision of advertising.

After graduating from Maryville, he worked with the aluminum company and with Chandler Co. in Knoxville, as a hardware salesman.

The Dollar's Across The Deleware; The Hatchet's In His Hand

"Yes, Mother, I can not tell a lie," and bending gracefully (as possible in such a position) over his Mother's knee, little George Washington received his due for such a misdemeanor as cutting down his Mother's favorite cherry tree. By some perverse act of Fate, he would cut down a cherry tree and by the same sign, his mother would pick a cherry tree as her favorite. What was wrong with a maple, ash, beech, pine, or spruce; and if it had to be a fruit-bearing tree, how about apple, peach, pear, plum, nut, (don't be self-conscious, I'm still speaking of trees) or prune? Now, as far as we can see, Fate just played Georgie a nasty trick. Born in 1732, this young man (he was at that time) was designed to go down in history as a great man for honesty and leadership. He ruined his Mother's favorite horse, cut down her precious cherry tree, and threw money around—or was it across—the Delaware River. George never did play mumbly-peg, tic-tac-toe, or tiddly-winks for fascinating leisure time recreation. NO! He had to play with hatchets and horses. And even today grown people who couldn't take a tip from history are playing with hatchets and horses. You don't believe me? Just look how many people lose their scalps on the races!!!

George certainly missed a lot of excitement by being born as soon as he was. Two World Wars in twenty-five years is a pretty good average, and he had to miss it all by being born so early in our history. Of course, he rather started all this mess because he was the General of our Army in the fight for independence. As long as we are blaming him this far, why not finish the job? If we hadn't won our independence, we might not be heading for the horrible economic disaster that we seem to be sliding toward.

What to do??? All we can think of to say is, Keep your hatchets, horses, cherry trees, and precocious children separated from one another and you will be so involved in this task, you will never have time to become great. Then school children won't get any more holidays. Catastrophe!!!

Over 4000 Nurses Wear Unitorms From Maryville College Maid Shop

College Maid Shop labels have circled the globe. Some 4000 nurses wear made-to-order uniforms from Maryville College Maid Shop. The shop has been in existence for 24 years, and through those years has helped many girls finance their college work.

Today there are approximately thirty girls working in the shop. At one time there were two hundred ninety-eight — one hundred fourteen using the power machines and the rest doing hand work in their rooms. There are definite advantages in this work. The girls work when they please and just as long as they like. For the first fifty hours they receive an hourly wage. As soon as they have attained sufficient skill they are paid by the garment. The girls learn to sew by making gym suits for use on the campus. Then they advance to the nurses uniform. Their work must meet rigid standards as it must compete with that of other manufacturers.

Before the war the shop made choir robes and mill clothes. At present the only garments made are uniforms for government nurses. The shop has on file the measurements for over 4000 nurses, many of whom have been buying uniforms over a period of years.

At the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor there were 59 nurses wearing Maryville uniforms. Four of the nurses captured on Guam were Maid Shop customers. All the nurses on board the hospital ship "Relief" wore them. Often a personal contact is maintained between the shop and the uniform wearers. The progress of many nurses during the war could be charted as their orders came from different stations. It is not unusual for a pleased customer to send a dollar to the girl who made her uniforms.

The shop operates under the direction of Mrs. McMurray with Mrs. Williams in charge of cutting and Mrs. McKelvie teaching newcomers how to operate the power machines. The shop is financially independent of the college. Any profit made remains in the Maid Shop fund. All payrolls are met by the shop itself. All machines have been donated.

The girls who work in the shop may use the machines for their own sewing free of charge. However, they are not allowed to use them to sew for other people. Any girl who knows how to operate a machine may rent one for ten cents an hour.

The Stick

"I hope we see a bear!" The little girl sat up on the edge of the back seat so every one would hear her.

"No bears in those woods," jeered her cousin with the superiority of a two-months older male.

"Might be a bear or two still," her father grinned at her in the rear view mirror. "But they're mightily fierce this time of year. Mean enough to eat up a little girl."

"Now, Lewis," her mother cautioned.

"I'm not afraid of any ole grumpy bear." The little girl stood up and hung over the front seat, bragging loudly. "If I saw a bear, I'd just get a stick and point it at him, and he'd think it was a gun and run away, scared to death!"

The car rattled off the highway and stopped at a thick woods. The group got out with much bustling of baskets and bags, and walked over the thick carpet of slippery, pungent pine needles that made the sound only dry pine needles can make to a clear place near the river. The little girl and her cousin slid and rolled and shouted while the fire was started and her mother went in search of a suitable log.

"What's that?" Her father said suddenly in a terror-struck stage whisper. There was a great deal of rustling and dragging just behind the trees. "It sounds like a bear. It is a bear!"

The little girl knew stark, keen terror; she couldn't move. It was like a nightmare when something dread and unknown was after her, and she was rooted, unable to even scream. But her cousin, with a hoarse, almost dignified statement, "I'm going to the car," was darting toward the road, and concentrating on his fleeing back, she caught up with him. Breathless and fumbling, they scrambled in and locked the door.

As they drove through the twilight, later, after eating and playing and watching the river, the little girl remembered the intensity of her fright, her horror as she had seen the non-existent bear plunge through the undergrowth after her, and, still ringing in her sleep-dulled ears, the shout, "Where is your stick?"

My stick indeed!

The Party Line

"The time has come," the student said,

And roommates' sufferings."
(With apologies to Lewis Carroll.)

Have you noticed those pink clouds hovering above the campus the last two weeks? Four of them were havens for Mary Batchelor, Helen Sorenson, Lettie Sunday, and Elaine Kern, who are boisterously singing "My Guy's Come Back". The single cloud that has been here all semester belongs to Ruth Lloyd, and if you'd look in a chapel seat in the left section on about the junior level at one Frank Kramer, you'd know why.

Several optimistic girls have declared themselves the possessor of the CHILHOWEAN GIRL OF THE CAMPUS title, but, with all due respect to their biased opinions, we're still in the dark. Our only discovery since last week is the fact that the already chosen girl herself does not realize that she is so honored. By concentrated mental exercise we've added other girls to the possibility list published last week.....Joyce Jones for her even teeth.....Mavis Sykes (wearing her fur coat).....Eleanor Struble with her skill for making costume jewelry.

Loretta Nunn's mathematical mind.....Eleanor Stout and her confidence in the family.....Janet Locke for her personality. By the way, in spite of the fact that the CHILHOWEAN hasn't decided on it, how about giving some contributions to this department toward choosing a "Boy of the Campus"?

At least one member of the basketball squad was self-conscious during one of the past games. Says Hollingsworth, "I could almost hear Coach say, 'Kemp, get in there for Hollingsworth before he gives them the gym.' "

The recently organized Davis-Richards-Swartzback club is rapidly gaining popularity, with a bid for membership from a prominent curly-haired senior girl, as well as from others. If it may be allowed, we've heard of a few underclassmen who also wish to apply.

It is strongly felt that another organization should be formed—one which could claim as many members as the above mentioned one. But ours would be solely for those misunderstood, those constantly suffering, those pitiful souls, who are and ever shall be visiting the realms of the "near-sighted". Ours is the fate of being accused of snubbing, when honestly we don't even see. Ours is the fate of wearing those despicable horn-rims. For such a club, charter members would naturally be Marion Scott, Betty Harte, Janet Wilson, Janet Miller, Bill Vogel, Martha Barnwell, Helen Sorrenson, Jane Shouse, Mary Smith, and Ella Mae Thompson. Except for Bill, it might rightly be given another name.

The opportune time for gala noise-making is the abrupt pause between two loud chords of the organ. It is also a simple road to embarrassment. That is the explanation of why two holes were stared into the back of the chapel floor, and why a particular row of seats in the same vicinity is loose, the result of several shaking shoulders. For details, question Gwen and John.

"I think," said Chemistry Major Ross, "that I figured this wrong. I have over 100% yield."

For a few days we had the pleasure of believing that Overton had taken the taps off his "resounding" shoes, made especially for library use, but to our dismay we were informed that he had merely bought a new pair. It took no time for him to buy new taps.

Bells Versus Bulovas Versus Radios Creates Consternation On Campus

Ding-dong, ding-dong (ad infinitum). The incessant sound reverberated upon the hammer, anvil, and stirrup causing our inner ear to vibrate violently. This vibration spread throughout our entire "Protoplasm". Inspiration seized us and we jumped from our warm bed of eiderdown, for in our bed you are eiderdown or up. In a split second, the zephyrs of East Tennessee came hurtling through the open window. Diving for the recently deserted bed, we snuggled under the warm blankets. The clock said quarter of seven. EGAD! And our face was yet unwashed. Determined to make it to breakfast by 7:15, we struggled out of bed throwing the covers back with a gesture of finality. During those finishing touches one of which is applying lipstick, we glanced at the clock wth one eye and its smug face revealed its hands.....only 6:58. We sighed with relief and, grabbing our coat, started for the dining hall. We reached Pearsons to find that everyone there was partially through with breakfast. As yet, the seven o'clock bell hadn't rung. Talk about the Independence Bell, our's is as independent as any. It rings for chapel when the radio is calmly and efficiently stating that "The correct time is 3 minutes and 20 seconds before 8 o'clock." Perhaps it rings early for chapel but it makes up for it during class periods. Invariably, a minute or two late in our worst class, it gives the professor a chance to assign more than the usual amount of homework.

Does the first bell for supper ring at 5:45 or 5:50? Now there's a question! Usually we found that it rang in between these two. Remembering Johnny Mercer's warning, "Don't mess with Mr. In-Between" we'd like to illustrate that last remark by recalling a statement once made within our hearing that a watch ultimately reflects its owner's eccentricities. So now let's synchronize our watches for it is exactly—time to cease. In conclusion, we rather wonder if perhaps our "Angels" haven't lost their watches.

(Don't be angry, fellows. We had to write about "sumpin'.")

TALK OF THE WEEK..... BY JUNE GOWANLOCK

What About Military Training?

By ABBOTT KEMP

Compulsory military training—had you forgotten about it? The "talk of the times" only a few short months ago has taken a back seat today. Congress is busy with things which they think and the people think are more important. Maybe so, but the time will come when a decision or legislation of some kind will have to be made on this subject. Or we can simply drop the question and refuse to deal with what was obviously a problem during the war and which remains so whether the majority of the people realize it or not.

There have been many arguments both pro and con on this important subject. In the armed forces and among the veterans I believe you will find that the commissioned officers, for the most part, are in favor of this compulsory training, whereas the non-commissioned officers will be against it. The reason for this difference it seems has been brought about by the different experiences of these two groups in the military service. Usually an officer has gone through a period of concentrated training both physically and mentally. This training usually was enjoyable as well as beneficial, and upon completion of it he emerged as an individual commanding the recognition and respect of all the members of "the service." He was to a high degree free to conduct his own life. On the other hand the enlisted man although also having had much physical and some mental training upon completion of that training received very little added freedom, reemaining as a part of a group regulated by commissioned officers and having many less privileges than they. The result was definite class distinction, which was and is very dstasteful to the enlisted man, since in ordinary American life this situation does not exist to any noticable extent.

This writer, though not a former member of the commissioned-officer group, believes that some form of compulsory training should be set up, but which should have very little resemblance to the training given during the war. Rather than one continuous year of training it should be made to require two or three months training per year for men between the ages of say sixteen and twenty with its program to include, among other things, information about other nations and peoples, about international problems and agreements and, of course, instruction and training in the methods of war.

"The guy who threatens to kill himself if the girl turns him down generally lives to be happy that she did."

These are just typical remarks from the gay old days of 1936. But speaking of typical remarks, the gals in Carnegie are following the pattern of their predecessors who described Carnegie as "Old Andrew's gift" which is becoming a disappointment of worn and splintery floors, dark halls badly in need of bright paint, and "slightly" battered doors, furniture, and window sills.

We note with interest that the college had a permanently scheduled period for broadcasting over Knoxville's radio station, WNOX. Called "College Broadcast," the program consisted of a one act skit. 'Twould be good experience for all our would-be radio performers if today . . .

During the year 1936 Miss Clemmie Henry centered her efforts on raising and establishing the rotating student loan fund from which so many of us benefit. More and more we get the idea that Maryville is a vitally alive and changing concern!

In springtime a young man's fancy turns to—men and women both enjoyed mushy valentine readings this year. We won't turn our noses too high at the mush; but the 1936 February meetings brought forth this poem describing love on an even keel. Interested?

My heart will never, never be
your's alone
Too many things I love to speak that lie:
Red tides of sunset breaking on the sky,
Slow twilights and the first rose blown
To fiery splendor of a day in spring;
Cold mountain water passionate and strong
And wild with music, and the sharp sweet song
Of birds when day has folded like a wing.
There is a love that worships
God alone as King
A service that to Him alone I bring
If thou shouldst kill that love that is my God's by right
How could I love thee as I might?
But cherish that and bid me live for Him
Then shalt thou know that I would die for thee;
Both close to him—close unto each other we will be.
And I shall find you fair beside me
And swing the gates to Heaven in my sleep
And tho my lips shall always seek your own
My soul will never, never be yours alone.

SCOT SPORTS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

LET'S CHANGE THE TRANSORTATION SITUATION

Several years ago this college had the unfortunate experience of having a truckload of students and a professor go crashing off a mountain while on a pleasure trip from the campus into the mountains. It was a terrible thing; with death included. We all know that the college does not want another such catastrophe and that the administrative officers of the college take all possible steps in preventing another such happening.

But in keeping with that desire this writer would like to see the present Athletic Station Wagon disposed of in favor of a new and better vehicle by the time there is another season that necessitates use of it. The present station wagon, although it is checked over often, is of retirement age we are sure. During its years of service at Maryville it has certainly seen much hard use. It's old, shackled, and worn out to the degree of being unsafe for the rough and mountinous roads to the various colleges near here. That fact was shown all too clearly last week on the trip to Harrogate. The small accident which happened then was not bad in itself, and the thing which went wrong with the station wagon will not happen again probably—but if it should, it could well prove to be much more of a catastrophe than it was last week. The brakes failed completely, there happened to be a car ahead to run into, so the college vehicle rammed into it.

The college does have athletics which is good and desirable. However that necessitates transportation between Maryville and other colleges. The thing that the Athletics Department should have is a very small bus or one of those elongated cars that the government has been using. With either of those, the need for taking a car along with the station wagon would no longer exist. The one little bus or extended car should carry the entire basketball squad or the whole wrestling team.

A larger automoible is desirable, but we are of the opinion that a newer one is imperative for safety's sake. As soon as the college can acquire a new or even newer vehicle for the sports dept., it should —and the sooner, the wiser.

GOOD CROWD AT ATHENS

There were approximately 75 Maryville students at Athens to see our basketeers conquer Tenn. Wesleyan on their home floor. That shows mighty good school spirit on the part of those Maryvillians, and we like to think that the excellent cheering that the group did there was at least a small factor in the result of that game—our team winning by its largest victorious margin of the season.

Let's keep that up. Especially do we want to have a big and noisy crowd out when the Scot attempt to get revenge for a defeat they suffered up at Carson-Newman. That game is scheduled now for March 6, and it should prove to be a good 'un.

OVERTON BREAKS THE ICE

It's too bad that when Harvey "June" Overton did finally get into a basketball contest, it had to be away from home. The Maryville fans at that Wesleyan game were overjoyed, but it's unfortunate that the great majority of "his devoted public" had to miss his initial performance.

The fellow really has hard luck. It wasn't enough to go out for the squad late and not see much action this year, none on the home court yet, he had to get in the way of his roommate's elbow during a spirited basketball practice. If you don't believe it was spirited, look at Harvey's beautiful black eye.

HIGH SCHOOLERS PLAY GOOD BALL

That high school basketball tournament that begins in our gym Monday should prove to be interesting. If the brand of play is as good this year as it was last, it will be worth while to attend some of the games if one is at all interested in the basketball sport. Personally that game between Friendsville High School and Friendsville Academy in the finals last year was the best high school basketball that we ever saw played anywhere.

All of the players were good; two of the Academy players last year, the Gregg twins, were good enough to go to UT and make the frist team there early this season—that was until they flunked out of the university.

COACH'S SON BACK

Coach's younger boy, Ross Honaker, got home from overseas last week. He was enrolled as a student here in 1942 and played some backfield with the gridders, and some third base with the baseball team. Let's hope he decides to get back into school next fall.

INTRAMURALS

In intramural competition last week three games were played and the standings are now as follows:

The score at the half was lop-sided with the Celtics far ahead at 19 to 9. Then in the second half the Clippers, led by Ed Anthony, came to life and scored 22 points to 7 for the Celtics, thus giving a final score of 31 to 26 in favor of the Clippers. Anthony was the top scorer for the afternoon, getting 17 for the winners, 14 of which came in the last half. Mathias and Scappellati were best for the Junior Celtics with 10 each. Chillies, Howies Begin Basketball Games In Point System Competition

By BUFFIE CARVER

After several weeks of intensive practice, the Chillies and Howies girls' basketball teams have been chosen. The best players of both groups have been divided into two teams of equal strength. They will play each other for five weeks within their own groups and in a final game the winner of the Chillie group and the winner of the Howie group will play off for the final victory. At that game the best of the four teams will be merged into two top-ranking teams and two captains will be chosen.

The girls played their first game as a team Thursday and except for a little difficulty of short guards with tall forwards and a slight tendency towards giving the floor a free mopping, they played a good game. In the Howie group, the team captained by Janice Lindsay, lost to the team captained by Doris Vinton by a score of 18 to 31. In the Chillie group, Edith Delaney's team beat Marion Henderson's team to the score of 26 to 24. As the girls learn team play and improve their game, the watching should become really exciting. A few well-wishers in the grandstand to cheer them on would be a big help. All are welcome to the games which will be played at 4:30 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The teams are as follows:

HOWIES—
"A" Team
Janice Lindsey, F, Capt.
Rosie Garges F
Devida McGaha F
Jean Balch G
Jinny Wood G
Audre Monteith G
"B" Team
Doris Vinton, G, Capt.
Mary Jane Mackey F
June Hamilton F
Christine Gilreath F
Lonnie Richardt G
Merle Henderson G

CHILLIES—

Jinny Weest F
Mary Jane Blizzard F
Margaret Rock F
Loretta Nunn G
Merle Henderson G
"B" Team
Marion Henderson, F, Capt.
E. J. Cotton F
Mae Short F
Barbara Bertholf G
Janet Miller G

Score and time keepers for today's games were Joy Stewart, Bill Stewart and Mary Jane Blizzard.

Meat Treat

"Domestic rabbit is on the American menu for keeps," say countless Americans who first tasted rabbit during the recent meat shortage. "Domestic rabbit will remain high in American food favor not only because it is delicious to eat, economical, and easy to prepare, but because it ranks high among all meats in protein value," says Miss Elspeth Bennett, foods authority in charge of the Nutrition Service of the Ralston Purina Company.

"Fried rabbit is easy to prepare and attractive to serve," advises Miss Bennett. "Dip pieces of a two pound rabbit, cut for frying, in a mixture made of one slightly beaten egg, 1½ teaspoons of salt, and ¼ teaspoon of pepper. Roll pieces in fine, dry bread crumbs. Brown rabbit in ¼ inch hot fat, then reduce heat, cover, and cook slowly 30 minutes, or until tender. Garnish with parsley, and serve on a bed of boiled rice with brown gravy."

Rail Splitters Conquer Scotties

Maryville's cagers met defeat at the hands of the Lincoln Memorial quintet, 46 to 37, on the LMU court Saturday night, February 16.

The favored Rail Splitters found the Scots a much tougher opponent than was expected. It was a close fray, throughout. LMU had an eight point lead at half time, 28-20. With about five minutes left in the game the Scotties put on some real steam to pull up within four points of tying the score, 40 and 36. However, at that point two Maryville regulars, Spears and Miracle, left the game via the foul route, and LMU widened their lead once again.

Groves, giant 6'6" center of the winners, was the leading scorer of the contest, getting a total of 15 points. Renfro, Scot center, was best for the visiting team. He did yeoman-like defensive work, keeping Groves from scoring even more and slipping in 12 points himself.

Scots 37	Pos.	LMU 46

Things That Can Happen - -

When Dr. Stringham was here, he left us with us this story:

"Things than can happen when three radio stations come in on the same wave length is said to be the experience of a man who had just installed a radio and had not learned all the fine points of eliminating cross currents. He tuned in, getting three stations on one wave length. One was a minister, one was a man telling of the conditions of the roads and the third was a lecture on poultry. This is what he heard:

"The Old Testament tells us that baby chicks should detour one mile south of Salina and listen to the words of the prophets—be careful in the selection of your eggs, and you will find hard-surfaced roads on to Garden City. We find in Genesis that the roads are muddy just west of the henhouse and clean straw is essential if you would save your soul.

'After passing through Leavenworth, turn south of Jericho. Three wise men bought a large-size incubator on account of a bad detour. The baby chicks were troubled with the pip and bond issue is talked of in the Holy City. Keep the feet clean and dry, live a life of righteousness and turn south one mile west of the schoolhouse. Much care should be used in commanding the sun to stand still, as there is a bad washout at the bridge at Poala and the road to salvation is under repair, making it necessary for 70 degrees in the brooder house at all times.

'When you leave Winfield, unless you do these things the wrath of the Lord will cause the pin feathers to fall out and detour one mile south. Many are called, but few have any luck unless the gravel is mixed with the feed. Out of 500 eggs one should get roads from Coffeyville to Tulsa, and the Lord commanded Noah to build the ark just one mile west of Wichita. It rained forty days and forty nights and caused an eight-mile detour west of the brooder house. Many tourists from the House of David are trying the Plymouth Rock mixed with concrete and a desire to do right."

Balmy Breeze, Warm Sun, Birds, Showers; And It Isn't Even Spring

Spring is icumen in
Lhude (loudly) sing, cuccu!
Spring is here, the bird is on the wing—
Whatsa da matter with ya, I thought da wing wuz on da boid.
Spring, the sweet spring, is the year's pleasant king—

Turning off my radiator and settling myself in that comfy rocker, I open the morning paper to see "NORTH SHIVERS AS SOUTH GETS WARM RAIN." Is it possible that there can be unpleasant weather anywhere? Why, looking through the open windows, I can see that bare tree outside looking as if it were getting all ready for the spring rush of birds. And speaking of birds, what's that chirping I hear outside by window? Hail, blithe spirit, merry harbinger of spring! But where's your family? One bird doesn't make a spring. Which brings us to the crucial question—is this spring or a mere forecast of that season? You know, something like Indian Summer—only this comes before, not after. It has all the earmarks—a balmy breeze, a warm sun, birds, a blue sky, even dashes of rain.

Balmy breezes—hey, kids, no coat, only a sweater or a jacket. Ah-h-h-h kerchoo! Oh, mama, where's my coat? This can't happen to me in weather like this!

A warm sun—sure, he has to get hot, after hiding so long. He ought to be ashamed, paying no attention to us for such a long time. Now he's got a job to do—drying up all these lakes around here. Serves him right.

Birds — not sparrows, either. Well, some people never cease being fooled, why should birds be different? He'll learn..... this sort of weather can't last until May.

A blue sky—why shouldn't it be blue? It can't turn green or pink or orange overnight, you know. (Oh, please, I didn't really mean it.)

Dashes of rain—when it rains for ten minutes and then stop for ten, what are you to call it but dashes?

And above all, there are the symptoms of that strange malady called (guess what?) spring fever. But it can only be pre-spring-spring fever, because this isn't really spring (as I'll probably find out tomorrow), take it from a Southerner born and bred. Don't put away those winter clothes yet, you'll be needing them before May rolls around.

At last we have discovered what the yellow traffic signals are for—they give the Scotch motorist a chance to start their engines.

LOCAL STUDENT GIVES BLOOD TO DYING CHILD

Jeanette, a little six-year-old girl, was deathly ill because of blood poisoning. She needed a blood transfusion badly, but her blood was a rare type and the hospital had none on hand. A search was immediately started throughout the town to find some one with the same type blood. The search reached the college, only a few hundred yards from where little Jeanette lay sick, her only hope for life depending upon blood transfusions. In that college there was a recently returned veteran of four years in the army who had this same rare type of blood, and he was asked if he would give his blood that this little child might have a chance to live. The question which he gave in reply was not—how wealthy are her parents, or, is her father a member of the labor union, or, is she from a well-educated family, or, are her parents recognized in society? Such matters were not even considered at such a crucial moment. His question was simply, "When do you want me?"

So on the following morning the transfusion was performed, and today Jeanette has a much better chance to live.

On visiting the patient it was found, through her mother, that she had started to school only a few months before and had liked it very much. She is fond of colors, as shown when she asked her mother, who sat near her bed, "Where are my cards?" Her "cards" proved to be three brightly colored shiny valentines, which she handled fondly.

And so because one person was willing to give so little another is allowed to gain so much. Little Jeanette may possibly run and sing and play and shout again. She may go back to school, back to her color books, yes, back to life.

You ask, "Could it happen here?" Yes, it could and did only recently. Her name is Jeanette Capps; his is Rogerville.

Writer's Workshop Hears Cuellas Play

"Damned to Freedom", a three act sociological drama, was read by Nellie Cuellas at Writers' Workshop Wednesday afternoon.

The story of the play is concerned with a modern young lady's daring efforts to free herself from the conventional Latin-American customs of courtship, and with her "old-fashioned" father's stubborn insistence on maintaining the good name of the family.

In the last scene, the young lady, Patricia Casellas, states the theme of the play by insisting that none of her actions should bring discredit to herself or her family; but, she continues, her father wouldn't mind if she were "to become a prostitute as long as no one knew and the family could keep up its appearances." Patricia's angry father orders her to leave the house; however, as she goes, her mother sympathetically assures her that, in leaving, she is "damned to freedom".

One of the most ambitious compositions presented this year, the play met with the approval of the members of the group for its consistent characterizations, its natural dialogue, and its steadily advancing action.

Next week's readers are Miss Johnson and Olinde Ahrens. Tom Parkinson and Miss Heron are critics.

FRANCO ON SKIDS—

Francisco Franco, under-the-skin brother of the late, deflated Benito Mussolini, has closed the French-Spanish border because the French were going to do it anyway. He's sent more strong arm boys to the frontier, while down on the Mediterranean coast it has been reported that anti-Franco Spaniards have already seized a couple of cities to begin what they hope will be a bloodless revolution. Franco seems to be on the way out.

PERON BACK ON TOP—

But down in Argentina, another Pro-Axis politician, Juan Peron, is going great guns. In Sunday's election, which is said to have been genuine, he was returned to his position as head of the Argentine Republic, and No. 1 Pet Hate of the State Department south of the border.

QUIT STALLING, SAYS VANDENBURG—

Senator Vandenburg, US-UNO representative said the US must talk to Russia as plainly as Russia talks to the world. "The situation calls for patience and good will but not for vacillation", he told a thunderously applauding Senate. UNO will meet again in September in NYC.

OK, SAYS BYRNES—

Secretary of State Byrnes answered the next day stating that this country will use force to uphold UNO's principles, "the only road to peace". Mr. Byrnes' speech was definitely directed at Russian help-ourselves policy.

RACE RIOTS IN TENNESSEE—

END OF GM STRIKE IN SIGHT—

Rumors and hopes of the end of the long, costly GM-UAW strike are in the air. GM has offered 18½ cents an hour raise. UAW had refused to settle for less than 19½ cents.

TIME accompanied its story with pictures.

Betty Wells First MC Student Elected To Sigma Delta Pi

Miss Betty Wells was initiated into the Alpha Psi chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, national honorary Spanish fraternity Thursday, February 27, at a formal ceremony held at the University of Tennessee. Miss Wells, the first Maryville student to receive this recognition, was taken into the group with a number of neophytes from Lincoln Memorial University, Tusculum, Carson-Newman, and the University of Tennessee. Election to the fraternity is based entirely upon scholastic standing. Its purpose is to encourage a study of Spanish, to bring about a better understanding and a greater cooperation between English-speaking and Spanish-speaking countries, and also to make suggestions for Spanish club programs.

Miss Wells, a senior Spanish major from Cranbury, New Jersey, has maintained an honor roll average throughout her college years, and is now doing honors work in her major on "Costumbristas" and the Romantic Period. She is the president of Spanish club. Miss Wells expects to continue work in her field after graduation, anticipating a career in some Latin American country.

Student Council To Request Suggestion At Open Meeting

Committees on Cuts, Offices, Recreation Will Propose Topics for Council Action

Students will have an opportunity to express their views before the student council at a special meeting after chapel Wednesday morning, March 6.

Among the questions to be discussed is the revision of the cut system. Student council members John Shell, Betty Anne Showalter, and Tommy Parkinson have been studying the problem and will have changes to suggest.

A "point system" for distributing offices on the campus will be presented. Members of the committee believe that such a system will assure that there will be no "monopolizing" of offices and that officers will thus be enabled to give more time to their duties.

A location for the recreation center next year must be found and suggestions will be submitted.

Merrill Grubbs, Ann Anderson, and Anna Sakaizawa have been studying the idea of fire drill for the dormitories.

Other topics may be presented by students as well as council members at the Wednesday morning meeting.

Artist Series Completes Season With Milizi Korjus

Miliza Korjus, coloratura soprano, presented the last of the 1945-46 artist series last Saturday night, February 23.

Madam Korjus, dressed in a glittering flesh-colored gown, rendered four encores in addition to her announced program, but there was a general feeling that she did not give her best performance to the group. The program, itself, was on a lower level than most of the series.

Her accompanist, Gluco D'Attili, was also an artist. Considerable pleasure was evinced at his rendition of "Claire de Lune."

Dirk Keethas, flutist for Madam Korjus, presented no solos, but the obbligatoes were well received.

The artist series committee has announced that Egon Petri will be here next year for a return recital. In addition, he will again conduct seminars.

The seven members of B.G.'s and their sponsor, Miss Suzanna Ware, met in the Y rooms at 9:30 on Thursday, February 28 for a waffle snack. The snack was in charge of Zenobia Bernardini and Joan Harte who were on the social committee for February.

The B.G.'s meet once a month for a program which is under the direction of the social committee for that month. Last month the group attended a movie in Knoxville.

Y Shower Planned By Theta Epsilon

Theta Epsilon will meet tonight for a short business meeting and a truth and consequences program. Buffie Carver and Marian Monteith, who are in charge of the program, will recruit their contestants from the audience for an unplanned contest.

Theta is also planning a kitchen shower for the Y rooms, which will be held soon in the Y rooms. The social committee is planning an all-musical program for the occasion. Each girl will be asked to bring a small gift for the kitchen.

New Lewis, Stein, And Ullman Books Added to Library

New additions to the bookshelves of Lamar Memorial Library are eye-catching. Sinclair Lewis has presented the reading public with his nineteenth novel, Cass Timberlane, "a novel of husbands and wives." Satiric and realistic, true Lewis characteristics, this romance of Judge Timberlane and young Jinny Marshland is one which will be much discussed and widely read.

Famous for her stream-of-consciousness technique, Gertrude Stein is usually avoided by the common reader. However, Wars I Have Seen is distinctly comprehensible and gives a clear on-the-spot description of the trials endured by the French people during the war years. The evident excitement during the battle for liberation and the coming of the Americans is apparent. The fact that the book was written nearly before the eyes of the Nazis is even more remarkable.

A rare achievement is a novel of action which is, at the same time, a novel of ideas. Yet, James Ramsey Ullman has painted such a picture in The White Tower. Five men and a woman, a strange composite of personalities, are all engaged in the steep ascent of the Swiss mountain peak. The heights and depths of the human quest for the spiritual are an integral part of this gripping novel.

Dr. Robert Speer Speaks On "Worlds Unknown Great Men"

The great work of the world is done by men and women whose names are not attached to their accomplishments. Dr. Robert E. Speer made this the theme of his address before the student body Wednesday morning, February 27. He proposed the unanswerable questions "Who first baked bread? who first domesticated wild animals? and who invented the wheel around which the whole system of industry has revolved?" Those unseen, unheard, and unpublicized persons have given invaluable gifts to mankind.

Dr. Speer pointed out that the great and lauded deeds in history and life are not the real greatness. Many have thought that those of obscure origin minus advertisement are prevented from achieving greatness. However, the real distinction lies in those years when characters and convictions are being formed. "The destinies of great men are in the hands of mothers and schoolteachers of the world." Our futures are dependent on the little things we do. Dr. Speer cited several examples of great Christian missionaries whose lives were of more influence than any political strategy.

"We must turn from the noisy ambitions of the world to the place where our Lord found the pathway of power and glory." he stated.

Dr. Robert E. Speer is well known as a great Christian, the author of many books, and an eminent leader in the ecumenical church. He has been formerly moderator of the Presbyterian church, U.S.A. and also executive secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions in the same church.

Active in student volunteer work as a young man, his interest has grown with him. During an interview, he stated his belief that the mission fields were indeed "white unto harvest", for the mission fields closed by war are opening as soon as political roads are clear. Dr. Speer mentioned that mission boards of other churches were also recruiting candidates. "Many former missionaries, now eligible for retirement, are returning to the field because of their acquaintance with the language, cultures, and customs of the people among whom they have worked. Doors are opening in Japan, Korea, China, and Thailand especially." When informed of the activities and size of the Maryville Student Volunteers, Dr. Speer said, "You must be the largest group in the United States." He was pleased at the evident interest in the missionary enterprise.

New Members Elected To Echo Staffs Yesterday

Five persons who have been trying out for the editorial staff of the Highland Echo since the beginning of the semester, were recently elected to positions on the staff. They are Don Kent, Abbott Kemp, Dorothy Vawter, Mary Keeley and Ilda Mosby.

These were voted in at a meeting of the faculty committee on student publications, the student council committee on student publications, and the editor of the Echo, held in the chemistry lecture room in Fayerweather Hall, Friday afternoon, March 1. Margaret Blanton was named as an addition to the business staff at the same time.

Don Kent, majoring in English, is a returned veteran, a senior, whose home is Kingston, New York. He served on the Echo his first two years at Maryville, dropping off the staff to edit the 1941 Chilhowean. As a lieutenant in the Army Air Force, he served as public relations officer in Corsica. Kent is renovating his pre-war column, EcHO-HUMor.

Abbott Kemp, a veteran returning to Maryville as a junior economics major, has had no previous newspaper experience. He is serving as a sports writer.

Dorothy Vawter is from Maryville, where she attended Maryville high school and worked on the school paper, The Red and Black, serving as music editor. She is majoring in music.

Mary Keeley, second semester freshman from Pleasantville, Pennsylvania, worked as a substitute reporter on her hometown newspaper.

Ilda Mosby is a first semester freshman from Massilon, Ohio, where she has had three years experience on her high school newspaper.

Maryville Among First to Offer "Angel Street"

Regular rehearsals for "Angel Street", a Victorian thriller in three acts by Patrick Hamilton, the play chosen as the Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma production of the year, are being held in preparation for presentation in Voorhees Chapel on Saturday, March 16. The roles of the frightened wife, the overpowering husband, and the suspecting detective are to be played by Jean Balch, Jay Bishop, and Bob Thompson, respectively.

"Angel Street" is familiar to the American audience as a movie named "Gaslight," in which Ingrid Bergman, Charles Boyer, and Joseph Cotton dramatically portrayed the leading roles. The play, long a popular one on Broadway and described by the New York Mirror as the biggest dramatic hit in New York, has only recently been released for college production. Maryville college is probably one of the first colleges to present it, as Mrs. West, drama department head, had the publisher wire immediately upon its release.

One costume, worn by Miss Balch, is an authentic 1880 dress, having been in a bride's trousseau at that time.

Other actresses in the play are Elsie Jean Cotton and Charlotte Proffitt. Edith Earle is assistant director; Marion Scott is in charge of properties, and Lottie Lavender has costume supervision. The business manager is Roland Reagan, and Leonard Schieber is the electrician.

Lloyd Shue, a former stage crew member, is acting as stage manager of the production. The stage crew is already at work on the scenery.

Reporter Reveals "Rags To Riches" Recipe Behind Recreation Hall Rise

Soft radio music, or loud if you prefer, magazines, including "Life", "Look", and "Atlantic", on the table, books, decorative flowers, card games, ping pong, shuffleboard, volley ball—all these make up a first impression of the Recreation Center in Bartlett Hall, the only impression that most students ever receive. But there is a story behind the Rec Hall, and behind that story are the names of the people who are responsible for it.

The project was begun by the YWCA and the YMCA during the last school year, since that time providing an opportunity for many, who otherwise would have no place to go for recreation. As many as 230 students have been in the Rec Hall in one evening, the period from 6:25-7:10 P.M. being the busiest of the day. Afternoon hours are 12:55-1:20 and 3:30-5:30 on weekdays, and 12:55-5:00 on Saturdays.

Hostesses and hosts are on duty during all onen hours, their main task consisting of checkine equipment in and out of the office. If one cannot slip in the door, the person on duty can always be spotted through the pigeon hole of the office; occasionally the unsuspecting worker will be seen aimlessly throwing darts, but always willing to pause to help a customer. The hostesses and hosts may volunteer for duty through the Y's, or by signing the blank sheets provided once a month. The schedules are always posted.

But who arranges the schedules? Who buys the furniture when they can stretch the money far enough? Who picks up the pieces of the broken flower vase that some student has carelessly knocked over? Who sees that the place is cleaned regularly? One might answer that the various class members who donate their time and services are responsible, and it would not be entirely wrong, but even they would not know exactly what to do if it were not for the industrious committee behind them. That committee, the members being Edgar Potts, chairman, Marion Monteith, Social Committee chairman, Jack Craig, Y.M.C.A. representative, E. J. Cotton, sonhomore representative, and Harold Hunter, freshman representative, have done and are doing a wonderful job of keeping the Hall going.

Modern Academic Regalia Comes From Hoods And Robes Of Monks

There has been some discussion lately as to whether the seniors should adopt the policy of wearing hoods along with the other academic regalia which is so symbolic of commencement. Since very few students are well acquainted with the origin of the cap and gown it seemed that some study should be made and presented to the student body. It is generally felt that before any question is decided on, full information should be held by those making the decision.

Our modern Commencement day activities have borrowed a touch of ancient pagentry from the hoods and robes which were originally used by teachers in cold medical buildings. The mortar boards or Oxford caps as they are called today evolved from the skull caps with which the scholar-monks covered their heads.

Academic hoods are of the same material as the gown, but they differ for the batchelor's, masters, and doctors. The body of the hood may be of either mercerized or silk poplin or wool serge. The facing is made of velvet and is of the faculty color. (The faculty color is a color from the intercollegiate code which designates different colors for different fields of knowledge.)

The hood is lined with satin, usually, and in the colors of the school which confers the degree. If there are two school colors a chevron of the second is used. The batchelors hood is small and has only a narrow velvet edging. The ordinary length is three feet. The master's hood is a little larger, with a wider velvet facing and the doctor's hood has an added panel, usually edged with the lining color.

The Maryville college hood would have a lining of orange with a chevron of maroon.

It may be interesting to learn the colors of some hoods other than our own. Montana University proudly wears her copper, silver and gold; Harvard, the traditional crimson; Yale, blue; Princeton, orange and black; Dartmouth, green; Carnegie Tech, Scotch plaid and Ohio State, gray and scarlet.

Some of the different faculty colors decided on by leading American college in 1894 are maize for

In the time of your life, live—so that in that good time there shall be no ugliness or death for yourself or for any life your life touches. See goodness everywhere, and when it is found, bring it out of its hiding-place and let it be free and unashamed. Place in matter and in flesh the least of the values, for these are the things that hold death and must pass away. Discover in all things that which shines and is beyond corruption. Encourage virtue in whatever heart it may have been driven into secrecy and sorrow by the shame and terror of the world. Ignore the obvious, for it is unworthy of the clear eye and the kindly heart. Be the inferior of no man nor of any man be the superior. Remember that every man is a variation of yourself. No man's guilt is not yours, nor is any man's innocence a thing apart. Despise evil and ungodliness, but not men of ungodliness or evil. These, understand. Have no shame in being kindly and gentle, but if the time comes in the time of your life to kill, kill and have no regret. In the time of your life, live—so that in that wondrous time you shall not add to the misery and sorrow of the world, but shall smile to the infinite delight and mystery of it.

By LORRAINE SWIFT

We're convinced of one thing. College wouldn't be so bad if there were just some way to get rid of exams. Even exams wouldn't be at their worst if it wasn't for such characters as Olinde Ahrens, Margaret Cross, Edgar Potts, Jane Trotter, Grace Ellen Cross, Barbara Eggleston, Sara Jo Kiger, Don Kribbs and Katherine Theda. Those nine persons pulled down grade point averages from 8.0 to 8.8. Now we're asking you, you of the majority, what are we going to do about it besides just envying? The first person who suggests more studying will —will be correct.

Concerts mean that a first-rate opportunity for "gawking" is available, and such was the case last Saturday night. Among others, we saw Betty Alverson and John Briggs, Ruth Williams and Ed Anthony, Marion Scott and Max House, Louise Lloyd and Lloyd Chandler, Alma Lancaster and Merle Grubbs, Mr. Hughes and his fiancee (Isn't she darling?), Mr. and Mrs. Breazeale, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Dowell, Buffie Carver and her sailor visitor, Jean Almy and Ed Voorhees, Ab Richards and Squire Kemp with two girls from Montreat, who were visiting Alma Lancaster and June Garland.

Al Smailer came Sunday—Al Smailer left Monday—Al Smailer returned Tuesday. Reason? Don't know, but Jean Cobb could have had something to do with it.

"I'm not a gossiping women," says Mrs. Worley, "since I can't find out anything."

After sending her two identical pictures and calling her, Paul Myers is coming to see Harriet Perry in a couple of weeks.

Like we mentioned last week, we've wanted to publish the characteristics of a "Boy of the Campus," since the CHILHOWEAN has so graciously chosen a girl of that rank, who is still unknown to us. We have had several contributions for the list, which make it go like this—He will have—Spence Renfroe's hair—Edgar Potts' initiative—either Dubois' or Bishop's voice—Shell's dependablity—Overton's sincerity—Magill's eyes—Bill Stewart's permanent wave (Where did he get that?)—Bob Kribb's smile—Rogerville's infectious laugh—Shieber's nose—Houdeshel's bashfulness—Secrest's eyebrows—MacArthur's speaking voice—Ken Kribb's sense of humor—and any boy who might have the same amount of helpfulness as Elaine Kern, who assisted greatly in gathering information for this paragraph.

Come friends—Victor to see Anna. Come engagements—Betty Vineyard's and Joyce Jones' recently announced. Come weddings—Faye Gaddy's and Monty Montieth's in June. Faye has chosen several bridesmaids from the college and they'll be going home with her in May.

Room 225 in Garnegie is now commonly known as "The Nuteracker Suite." The explanation is simple, though puzzling enough. One evening some girls heard a noise close to their window. Frightened, they cautiously investigated, and outside, sitting calmly on the sidewalk, was Margaret Hennemuth nonchalantly cracking nuts.

Does anyone else know that certain fellow who finds the opportunity to eat two meals in one evening quite pleasant?

In spite of the fact that he graduated last year, Jack Ross still finds a means of entertaining Arline Whiting. He cuts up his letters and mails the pieces.

People who became acquainted with Jim Black's brother Dick, a discharged corporal, hated to see him leave. Maybe he'll return and bring some pickles with him.

Earl Martin, poor fellow, has a weakness for finding his way into this column. But he shouldn't be so sure of the little woman back home. What does he do? Nothing less than writing her and demanding that she make an appearance at Maryville; furthermore, he boasted to Marilyn, Gelola, Janet, Footsie, Jim, Will and Tom that he was positive of an affirmative answer. Well, as one might guess, it was emphatically negative. Our discouraged hero now sadly breathes, "I just wish I could take her into a dark room and develop that negative answer."

Even one of Jim Martin's little Sunday School class pupils takes notice. He saw Jim and his date at the ball game Wednesday night. He looked—then gaped with eyes popping. "You mean you've changed again!" he exclaimed.

Items of Interest: Phyliss Rainard's brother will be here in a couple of weeks—The walls of 215 Carnegie display the talent of Hohnberger—Belated greetings to Mrs. Snyder, whose birthday was celebrated yesterday—E. J. Cotton and Ellen Duncan received some lovely roses—Johnson and Barbour are making a twosome—Josie can knit socks, or was it a sweater, Josie?

In case you've ever wondered about the distinction, "an optimist sees an opportunity in every calamity; a pessimist sees a calamity in every opportunity."

MILITARY TRAINING, A STEP IN THE WRONG DIRECTION

By DON KENT

There is a respect for Force in the world today that we as a people must either share or combat. There is an awe for power that we must accept or reject. If, as a civilized nation, we must reject and combat this worship of Force, compulsory military training in the United States would be a step in the wrong direction.

A large part of the world is looking toward us today for salvation and leadership. Let it not be the salvation of suspicion and the leadership of fear. With the spirit of mankind universally crying out for change, let our nation rather lead the world away from these age-old evils. Let the change we offer be for the better, not for the worse.

Members of the House Military Committee has suggested that attempts should be made to banish by international agreement all compulsory military training. It is true that international agreements have been made before and were easily broken or forgotten. But does one failure, or do ten failures, mean that such agreements will invariably fail?,Is there no hope?

But let's be realistic about it. Let's face it! It's the Soviet Union we are worried about, isn't it? It is folly to think that a year of any kind of military training for every man would mean anything to a totalitarian state if she were intent on destroying us. We can not point a stick at the Bear and naively expect him to turn and run. Such preparedness would not prevent war with her, would not save money for us, and would not certainly save lives for us. It would only delay such a war until the USSR felt ready to attack (assuming our own motives will always be the best). In the meantime, ten, twenty, thirty years of honest, open, gigantic preparation on both sides would only make the holocaust so much more terrible, so much more devastating, when it finally came.

Let's give UNO a chance before we start our program of distrust. Or, if Force is the only realism and threats are the only truth, let us re-mobilize now, drive the Reds out of Manchuria, atomize the Kremlin, and crush Communism while we have the chance.

Let's really be realistic. Which should it be? War now? Or do we dare to hope?

TALK OF THE WEEK ..... BY JUNE GOWANLOCK

Six-Weeks' Exams Have Come, or Le Professeur's Final Revenge

"Into each life some rain must fall; some days must be dark and dreary," so penned wise old Longfellow. And what days could he possibly have had so vividly in his mind but those never forgotten days of yore when his rain fell in torrents in the form of college exams?

Applicable indeed are those words of wisdom to the period through which we have recently managed by main strength and awkwardness to remain alive. But now that those forboding questionnaires have been sweated thru we find ourselves inspired to talk about them as one does an operation.

As a matter of fact, the actual time of gazing blankly at the blackboard is only a fraction of the mental torture connected with the affair. Much, much worse by far is the preliminary period of intellectual anguish, dating from the discovery of that exam date to the moment when we see le professeur close the door, that destroys our last desperate means of escape. Oh, if only some humane scientist would invent a kind of anesthetic or laughing gas to be used, as for tooth extraction, to deaden the pain of that mental anticipation.

Let us say the exam date is Tuesday, and now it is only the Thursday before. Ahhh, with what casualness we think of that far-off date!!!

Then its Friday, and there is that twang of uneasiness as we begrudgingly admit to ourselves that perhaps that book should be opened. But, after all, there's a long week-end ahead, and so plenty of time to begin that studying.

By Saturday, we are quite reconciled to the idea of going ahead, but first one thing happens and then another, and we begin to reason that perhaps Monday is really the logical time to begin studying. After all, the first of the week is the logical time to begin anything.

Ten it's Monday morning, but, gee whiz, there's always Monday afternoon, and almost anything can happen between now and tomorrow. Perhaps the test will be called off because the teacher has a bad cold and look at the hours of studying just wasted. But, just to play safe, perhaps we'd better dash by the teacher's room and glance casually in to see if he is looking a little green around the gills. A hasty glance quickly shows us that he is enjoying perfect health—doesn't even have the sniffles.

Now we're desperate!! It's really too late to start studying now—after all, how can we be expected to learn that material when we haven't even read the chapters?? The only thing to do is to call him up and say that we are sick—deathly sick—and couldn't possibly get to class tomorrow. Oh, but maybe he'd say deathly sick isn't sick enough, and if we managed to wabble to the telephone we can wabble to class. No, we'd better just say that we've killed a man and they're taking us to jail and so we can't possibly be in class tomorrow.

Oh, but what's the use!!! No excuse could deceive him. We might as well go to class. Perhaps he will tell us that he didn't have time to make out the questions and will have to put the frightful thing off. Ahhhh, blessed thought!!!

The hour approaches, and with vitality at the "O" point, we enter the building, taking a gasp of fresh air with the desperation of a drowning man and taking one last glance at the happy people ambling along behind us. How carefree they look—how happy—what do they know of life???

We climb the stairs, our last ray of hope gone, and we know without a doubt that no one could be worse off than we. The professor nods pleasantly, There should be some law against people being so pleasant. We smile feebly, stumble to our desks, sink into the seats, close our eyes, and wait for the blow with an air of martyrdom about us.

"Most worthy member of Theta Alpha Phi, I am a worm," a low bow, and the young 1936 Theta Phi initiate continued sweeping the walks of the campus. These occasional breaks in the monotony were climaxed with forced participation in a very entertaining program given on the P.O. steps at noon. A Communist rally! With all the trimmings of red flags and ranting soap-box speeches! the crowd was finally dispersed with the arrival of a lone mounted policeman.

1936 news flashes: The laundry completed last Saturday in the basement of Baldwin; construction of the circular drive around the campus is now making rapid progress; the vote taken on the question of motile dining-hall seating was overwhelmingly in favor of retaining permanent arrangement; a historical skit entitled "Aluminum" was presented Sunday evening over station WNOX, Knoxville, by a group of Maryville students under the auspices of the Aluminum Company of America. The sketch was in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of Aluminum.

Quoting "the Melting Pot," a column: If a man thought he left of his pocket to see if he had time to go home and get it, I'd call him absent-minded; In Japan a man could buy a wife for 50 cents. Well, a good wife is worth every cent of it; women are so generous —they just love giving one another away.

SCOT SPORTS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Maryville's first post-war basketball season is about over. The Carson-Newman game Monday night is the last one. So let's look back at the Scotties' record this year.

Perhaps the M. C. cage outfit was not up to standard. We're sure that Maryville has fielded better teams in the past. But with the conditions the team has faced, with the material there has been in school, the 1946 Scottie basketball team has done well It has been successful. The record against college opposition at present stands at five wins and only four losses. According to our figures the Maryville scoring record shows a total of 339 points made by the Scots in the nine college games against 330 points by the opposition. That is disregarding the two games againsth independent teams that the Maryville boys played and lost. If you insisting on counting the independent teams in the season record, that will make five wins against six losses—with a good chance of evening that up to six and six when we meet Carson-Newman.

Yes, considering that only two of the present squad got any basketball practice before Christmas—the others, ex-service men who entered school after Christmas—and considering that no man on the squad had any college basketball experience, the Scotties have done well. Coach Honaker can well be proud of the improvement the squad has shown through the season.

Starting out with an impressive victory over Hiwassee, 39 and 29, the Scotties got everyone in the mood for a victorious season. Then in short order they dropped the next four contests: Amos and Andy, 39-30; Carson-Newman, 44-31; Hiwassee, 41-39; and Tusculum, 42-35. About then things were getting at least, slightly discouraging, so the men of the Highlands came back to trounce Tusculum on the home court, 37-34. Next the powerful Chilhowee Lions came back to Maryville and went away with a 29-point victory under their belts—Maryville's worst defeat of the season by far. Then the Scots whipped Tenn. Wesleyan in a close contest, 40 and 32; lost a hard fought one up at L.M.U., 46 to 37; ran up a good score in the second Wesleyan game, 43 to 29; and then they took the vaunted L.M.U. Rail Splitters to the cleaners in the most recent game of the season, 39-33.

That outing was certainly the climax of the season for the Scotties so far. According to the dope bucket the men from L.M.U. were supposed to have an easy time of it in winning their second over Maryville, although they certainly did not have an easy time of it when the teams met at L.M.U. But the Rail Splitters were fresh from winning third place in the Smoky Mountain Conference Tournament, being edged out by Milligan by only two points in the semi finals. The L.M.U. record, games before and since Christmas, this season stood at something like 14 victories and four losses. So you see what an upset it really was. That enlongated center of theirs, Groves has often scored as much as 28 or 30 points in contests through the season. He got a total of 28 against a team as good as Carson-Newman. But Renfro held the guy to 15 points up at Harrogate, where refereeing looked pretty rotten to every one present, including L.M.U. folks; and Renfro held him to only 10 points in the game here, while getting 17 for himself.

BEAT CARSON-NEWMAN

Now let's everybody get pepped up about this last encounter against Carson-Newman. We stand a good chance to win it. They beat the Scots 44 to 31 at Jefferson City, but during the first half of that contest the two teams looked very evenly matched to this correspondent. And the Scotties are an improved bunch of ball players; when they played C-N last time they had only about 10 days of practice—or less—and now they have another month of play together, which should make a difference.

Carson-Newman has often been Maryvill'e prime enemy in all sports years past. The cry, "Beat Carson-Newman" is certainly far from a new one on this campus. But still, let's revive it Let's all be there Monday night to see the fireworks. Beat Carson-Newman!

FRIENDSVILLE MEETS ACADEMY TONIGHT IN TOURNEY FINALS

Tonight Alumni Gym is scheduled to see a record crowd. The attraction is that for the second straight year Friendsville High meets Friendsville Academy for the Seventh District High School Basketball championship in the boys' division. That game is slated to begin in the college gym at 8:00 p.m. At 7:00 the championship game in the girls' division is to be played between the sextets of Townsend and Porter High schools. Tonight is to be the climax of the tourney action which opened Monday and has been played every night this week except Wednesday.

Last night before a crowd which jammed every available inch of space in the college gym, the four semi-final games were played. In the boys' division Friendsville High came from behind in the second half of their game with Alcoa to gain their victory. At the opening of the game Alcoa took a big lead getting 8 points while Friendsville was getting their first two. However, the second half scoring and the superior backboard ability of Friendsville High told the tale in the latter stages of the game and the final score stood 35-28 in favor of the Friendsville lads. Friendsville High met and defeated Lanier High in the opening round to gain its place in the semi-finals.

Friendsville Academy disposed of Maryville High in the other semi-final game in the boys' division. Despite spirited play on the part of Maryville, Academy did not have too much trouble in outscoring their last obstacle before the finals. After the first few minutes of play the Academy outfit took a good lead and during the remainder of the contest MHS never got within four points of the lead. Final score of that game was Friendsville Academy 31, Maryville High 25. Academy eked out a thrilling victory over Townsend in opening round play.

In the girls' competition last night favored Townsend overcame Everett in their semi-final game. This fray was a close one up until the final minutes when Townsend widened its lead ot have the game ended with a 28-25 score. Previously Townsend defeated Maryville High girls to get past their first round foe.

The other finalist in the girls' tournament is Porter High, which conquered Walland in an extremely close contest. Until the last couple of minutes Walland led Porter, but the lassies from Wildwood really put on the steam to come from behind, and they held a three-point lead at the end of the game, 41 to 38. Porter's first round opponent was Lanier High girls.

Additional bleachers have been set up in the gym to the extent that the gym now has an estimated capacity of 2000. And unless something unexpected happens there will be a capacity crowd to see the final games tonight. From the crowd last night and the crowd last year at the finals, every indication is that there will be an over-capacity crowd in the college gym. Every person who can be squeezed in will be there to witness it.

Last year Friendsville High outpointed Academy in the district finals. Walland was last year's girls' champs.

25 Enrolled In Life Saving Class

Swimming Class To Be Organized

Approximately 25 persons have qualified for the Red Cross senior life saving course and are enrolled in the class being taught by June Townsend, senior from New Jersey. The class, which has been organized about a week, meets each Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening from 7:00 until 10:00 at the college pool. There have been no meetings of the class this week because of the basketball tournament, but meetings are scheduled to resume next week and run until a minimum of 17 hours of the instruction has been concluded.

Membership of the class includes college students and persons from town who meet the requirements.

Upon completion of the senior course, Audre Montieth and Marion Henderson are to conduct a "pre-instructors" course. That will be open to swimmers who are qualified senior life savers. In April a repersentative of the Red Cross is scheduled to be at Maryville to give the Red Cross Instructor's course.

A class of beginning swimmers is to be organized soon under James Newman. Announcements concerning that will be made later.

Dr. R. H. Haralson Talks To Pre-Med On War Surgery

Dr. Robert H. Haralson, Maryville medic and veteran of the CBI theater of war, spoke on "War Surgery" at a meeting of the Pre-Med Club on February 28, in the second floor chemistry lecture room.

Illustrating the organization of medical units by tracing a man from the time he is hit, he pointed out the significance of each soldier's personal First Aid equipment which enables him to apply temporary remedies until a medic arrives. The medic's duty is to stop the flow of blood and apply any other first aid treatment possible. Then litter-bearers carry the victim to the field hospital where broken limbs are cared for and emergency operations performed. When the patient is able, he is taken ten or fifteen miles behind the lines to the evacuation hospital. Here he remains until he has recuperated enough to journey to the general hospital. If a great deal of hospitalization is necessary, the ferry command flies the boy home to the States.

Dr. Haralson stated that in the field of preventative medicine, antitoxins have drastically reduced the danger of yellow fever, typhoid, malaria, meningitis, infectious jaundice, and other virus diseases. He also revealed that though there has been little success in performing nerve grafting operations, there has been great success in grafting skin. Surgery was further lauded when Dr. Haralson revealed that thorax specialists can remove shrapnel as big as a walnut imbedded in heart muscle or the heart cavity.

Chillies Outscore Howies, 28-25, In First Girls' Basketball Game

By Buffie Carver

It seems that there was a slight misunderstanding as to the set up of the games in the girls point system basketball games which should be cleared up. The best players of both the Chillie and Howie teams were divided into two teams of equal strength, but they will not play each other within their groups for five weeks. After their preliminary game the two Chillie teams were merged into one and the two Howie teams were merged into one: they will play each other for the coming weeks.

The girls played their first tournament game Thursday and quite a few spectators were on hand to watch the contest. The teams are very evenly matched and the game moved along at a rapid clip. At the beginning of the third quarter the Howies were ahead by three points but the Chillies pulled together and won the game by three points in a fast, exciting fourth quarter. The final score was 28-25. The next game will be Tuesday, March 5 and all those interested are welcome to come. The referees for Thursday's game were Miss Eddins and Ruth King Wood. The officials were Bill Stewart and Wilbur Seymour. Those new teams that will play off the tournament, with their positions and scores for Thursday's game are as follows:

Chillies	Pos.	Howies
Henderson 21	F	9 Lindsay
Short 11	F	14 Gilreath
Blizzard 3	F	2 Mackey
Heaps	G	Monteith
Berthoff	G	Vinton
M. Henderson	G	Richardt

Howie substitutes were Loretta Nunn, Katherine Carpenter, Janet Miller, Edith Delaney, and Jinny Weest.

Chillie subs were Rosie Garges, Marion Monteith, Devida McGaha, and June Hamilton.

INTRAMURALS

The intramural basketball schedule was interrupted last week by the high school district tournament which is now being held in the Alumni gym. However, the Blackbirds and the Sharpshooters did manage to get in an exciting game yesterday afternoon in the Bartlett gym. The Sharpshooters came out on top by the score of 26 to 23. Bob Hunter led the scoring for the Sharpshooters with 9 points. Van Blarcom had 8 markers for the same team. Seymour was outstanding for the losers accumulating 13 points.

Shrpshtrs 26	Pos.	Blackbds 23
Hundeman 3	F	Schieber 3
Grosh 2	F	Seymour 13
Huffman 2	C	Smith 3
B. Hunter 9	G	Cardella 2
Grubbs 2	G	Stewart

Subs: Sharpshooters: Van Blarcom 8, Kribbs, Pribble; Blackbirds: Wheeler 2, Motsinger.

PING PONG TOURNEY BEGINS

The four teams of Black and Vogel, Lenoir and Harold Hunter, Kemp and Parkinson, and Grubbs and Houdeshel were awarded byes for the first round.

In the only matches played thus far Mathias and Anthony eliminated House and Chandler by the scores of 21-13 and 21-16, and Smith and Kribbs beat Motsinger and Richardett by the same scores, 21-13 and 21-16.

The next meeting of the club will be held on the eleventh of March. The entertainment for that evening will be a musical program.

C-N Here Monday

Monday night at 7:30 in Alumni Gym the Scotties meet Carson-Newman in the last basketball game of the season. Both teams are reported to be at top strength for the encounter.

Renfro Shines In Win Over Favored Rail Splitters

Maryville's Scotties upset the Rail Splitters from Lincoln Memorial University 39 to 33 in a hard played, rough and tumble basketball game on the Maryville hardwood Wednesday night, February 27.

Center Spence Renfro led the way to victory for the home team scoring 5 field goals and 7 free throws for a total of 17 points, as well as playing a bang-up defensive game. He guarded Groves, 6'6" center of LMU and held him to 10 tallies. Although that total is well below the point average Groves has built up through the season, he was high point man for his team with 10. Substitutes House and Kemp each contributed 7 markers to the Maryville cause to tie for second in scoring honors.

LMU got the first two points of the game only to see the lead change hands three times during the first 10 minutes of play. At that point a field goal by House and a free throw by Kemp put the Scotties in the lead 8 to 7, and the home five never lost the lead from that point. The score at half time read 14 and 9 in favor of the Highlanders. At one point in the second half Maryville was double the score of LMU, 29 to 14.

The contest was featured throughout by rough play. There were a total of 47 fouls called by Referees Wilburn and Stratton. Of that total 28 were against Maryville and 19 on the LMU players.

Maryville 39	Pos.	LMU 33
Miracle 2	F	Myers 5
Largen 2	F	McMahan 5
Renfro 17	C	Groves 10
Spears 2	G	Pratt 8
Holl'worth	G	Darnell 3

Substitutions: M.C.—Kemp 7, House 7, Lenoir 2, Newman, Slater; LMU—Crowley 2, Dean.

Referees: Wilburn and Stratton.

RAGS TO RICHES

They are the people who go to the faculty members to ask for permission to experiment with new ideas; they are the people who search for mysteriously disappearing articles; they are the people who are making $65 last a marvelously long length of time, and they are the people who took time out to choose the two new maple end tables, and the five new card table coverings. They are trying to purchase new lamps, and even this year are earnestly working to find a new home for the Center in case Bartlett will not be available next year.

Potts has particularly worked toward the success of the project. He is nearly always on hand and often takes the place of the host or hostess who does not appear. He sees that arrangements are made for the upkeep of the rooms, and that all in general is going well.

Donations for the Center have amounted to $10 from the YWCA, $50 from the college, and $5 from an anonymous donor, which has been added to the balance of $6.30 of last September. Since September $56.85 has been spent for improvements. A few donations of card games have been made by students.

It is time to realize what the students need and can find at the Rec Hall, and it is time to realize what cooperation the Rec Hall needs from the students. Carnations to the committee with orchids to its chairman for their splendid job.

STUDENT VOLS

At the Student Volunteers on Sunday, March 3, a report on the Tennessee Student Christian Conference will be given. This will be discussed by Ruth King Wood, Fred Wilson and Anna Sakaizawa.

CAPS AND GOWNS

Agriculture, white for Arts and Letters, brown for Fine Arts, purple for Law, green for Medicine, pink for Music, blue for Philosophy, sage green for Physical Education, golden yellow for Science and scarlet for Theology.

Apart from traditional warrant most of these colors have been selected because of the hoods of Oxford and Cambridge graduates, and designates the Batchelor of Arts degree. Scarlet symbolizes the burning faith and zeal of the church. The Law take the royal purple of the king's courts, and Philosophy takes the color of truth and wisdom, blue. The green of medicine, like the green stripe of the army surgien's uniform is associated with the color of medicinal herbs.

In past years, here at Maryville the only distinguishing marks on of caps and gowns of graduates have been the yellow tassels worn by Home Economic students on their caps.

Besides providing for the faculty colors the intercollegiate system provides that the batchelor shall wear a black gown with open or closed front and long pointed sleeves, the Oxford style of gown being most popular in the American colleges. The master's gown is made with an open front. Its long closed sleeves have squared ends which fall well below the knee and have a slit for the arm near the elbow. The gown worn by the doctor has the open front but the sleeves are full and bell-shaped. The fronts are faced with velvet, and the sleeves have each three bars of velvet-black, or the color of the trimming on the hood. The mortar board cap, worn off each degree, is black cloth and has a black tassel, although the doctor's cap may be of velvet with a gold or partly gold tassel. Tassels are worn over the left temple, like all "honors," unless local custom decrees otherwise.

Miss Wilkinson, who is the faculty adviser, supervised the banquet.

ATHENIAN CLUB

U.S. SAYS—
"PLEASE LEAVE IRAN"

A formal protest has been submitted to the Soviet Union by the U.S. regarding the Iran question. The USSR has failed to withdraw from Iran as agreed. Secretary of State Byrnes told Moscow that the only satisfactory answer would be the immediate withdrawal of Russian troops and expressed the "earnest hope" that Russia would do its part "to promote international confidence".

GOOD NEWS?

Reports that Russia may be pulling out of Manchuria have persisted. Twenty-two troop trainloads have left Mukden since Thursday. However, no troop movements have been heard of from Changchun, Manchurian capital.

FUNDS FOR ALL

Russia, Poland, China, Czechoslovakia, and the Netherlands are now in line for loans from Uncle Sam's piggy bank. Russia requested a billion last August. U. S. officials have said O.K.; so it's up to Congress and Russia.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Washington Democrats are red-faced these days. Mr. Truman reportedly insists that Ed Pauley should continue his fight for the Assistant Secretaryship of the Navy; but most Democratic leaders say he can't win because of Mr. Pauley's dubious connections with oil interests. For Pauley to be beaten on a vote would cause the loudest Republican trumpeting since the pre-FDR era.

HONORS WORK

Joan Crawford, Ray Milland, and James Dunn received the annual Academy Awards for their performances in the 1945 movies, "Mildred Pierce", "Lost Weekend", and "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn". The "Oscars" are small but they're solid gold, in case you didn't know.

Farm Bureau Holds Banquet on Campus

More than 450 members of the Blount County Farm Bureau attended the annual banquet held last evening in Pearsons' Hall dining room. Maryville college cooks and waitresses prepared and served the meal.

This is the second time in recent years that the banquet has been held on the hill. Originally the banquet was scheduled to be given at Alcoa high school, but Mr. Charles Proffitt, secretary of the organization, and a graduate of Maryville college, requested permission to use Pearsons because the high school is not as practical and attractive as desired.

The Bureau holds its annual picnic each summer here on the campus; it was attended by more than 600 adults and children last year.

Myriad of Articles in Personnel Office Wait to be Claimed

Forgetful Students Leave Jewelry, Money, Pens, and Even Floss

One of the most interesting desks on this campus is the desk in the Personnel Office which contains the items forgetful students have somehow mislaid. These paradoxical students lose the oddest and, at the same time, the most normal things one could imagine.

The two things most often lost (to judge from the number turned in) are pieces of money (nickels, dimes, quarters, and dollar bills) and fountain pens.

Gentlemen on campus might make a case of the numerous definitely feminine articles which were lost and found. These include a pocketbook containing the usual lipstick and handkerchief, kerchiefs, gloves, compacts, one box of mending floss, change purses, necklaces, rings, bracelets, and costume pins.

The ladies in turn might retaliate with the wallets (with very little money in them, incidently), erasers, and the one slide rule. One wallet, however, could belong to a lady, as it contained that lady-like article, the bobby-pin!

Articles which might belong to either a boy or a girl include glass cases plus glasses (or perhaps you're from a section where they are known as spectacles), empty glass cases, sun glasses, combs, keys, and one exposed roll of film.

The desire of freshmen to get away from those dreadful books is clearly apparent in the mute evidence offered by a first year history book, and a first year English grammar.

Just in case you've lost something, why not drop in at the Personnel Office? Miss Lightfoot wouldn't mind a bit!

Dr. G. L. Robinson, Noted Theologian, To Speak in Chapel

The Reverend Doctor George L. Robinson, professor emeritus of Biblical Literature and English Bible at McCormick Theological seminary, is to be our speaker at the Wednesday chapel service on March 13.

Dr. Robinson, a noted theologian and archeologist, is in this area as leader of series of Lenten meeting at the Fourth Presbyterian church inu Knoxville.

A man who has attended several foreign and domestic universities, Dr. Robinson took his A.B. at Princeton university in 1887, his A.M. there three years later, his Ph. D. at Leipzig university in 1895, and his S.T.D. at Toronto in 1915. He has had conferred upon him a D.D., at Grove City, an LI.D. at McAlester, and a second LI.D. at Wooster.

YWCA Plans To Remodel Kitchen

The kitchen of the YWCA rooms is to be rebuilt, beginning Monday, March 15, and will not be available for use at that date, or for the following two weeks. A new entrance way is being built, and the kitchen will be moved to the lobby. The work is being done by college labor.

On Saturday, March 23, the women of the college will give a shower, and all will be given an opportunity to contribute to the supplies there. Patterns for glasses and new dishes will be selected in advance by a committee so that all gifts will be uniform. The rooms are to be cleaned before that time by members of the YW, and new shelves will be built as soon as the material is available. A latch lock will be put on the kitchen door. All this is made possible by the YW building fund.

The YW rooms may be used for meetings during this time if the group does not need to use the kitchen.

Ahrens, Johnson Read at Workshop

"Something Borrowed, Something Blue", four humorous imitative sketches, and "The Reconversion of Jack Stewart", an experimental short story, were read at Writers' Workshop Wednesday afternoon.

Olinde Ahrens' sketches concerned incongruities of the wedding ceremony as depicted in the manner of four humorists, Lewis Carroll, Artemus Ward, Tom Masson, and Frederick Swartout Cozzens. Miss Ahrens' sustained humor was well received by the group. Miss Heron, in criticizing Miss Ahrens, pointed out how faithfully the imitations had followed the style of each writer.

Miss Johnson's experimental short story had one leading character but used three different settings and periods of time. It was built around a letter received from a native woman in the Philippines who conducted a mission school for children. Tommy Parkinson criticized the story.

Juanita Hinson and June Gowanlock will read at next week's meeting.

D.A.R.'s Meet for Annual Conference

Mrs. R. W. Lloyd and Miss Clemmie J. Henry attended the three day annual state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Knoxville, March 7-9. More than 300 delegates attended, among them Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, the national president.

The primary discussion of the conference was of the educational program of the organization. Maryville College has recently benefited from this program, receiving $2,000 which was approved at the meeting of the National Board in Washington, D. C., February 1.

A dinner given by Mrs. Albert Lyon Craig for the members of the state executive board was the opening event on Thursday, March 7. State chairmen and officers reported Friday, and a business session was held today.

E.T. Librarians To Discuss Careers In Library Field

Qualified Students Offered Variety of Attractive Positions

Three members of the East Tennessee Library Club will visit Maryville College on Wednesday morning, March 13, for a conference with students on library service as a career. All students interested in library work are invited to attend the conference to be held at 8:30 a.m. in the Library of Thaw Hall. Mr. William H. Jesse, Librarian of the University of Tennessee, Miss Frances Coykendall, of the TVA Technical Library, and Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, of the Lawson McGhee Library, of Knoxville, will be available to talk with groups of students about the preparation given at library schools and about the opportunities in college and university, special, and public libraries throughout the United States.

Young men and women who are attracted to books and who are genuinely interested in people and in public service will find in library work personal satisfaction and intellectual stimulation. Librarianship offers an unusual variety of positions which appeal to individuals of diverse backgrounds and special talents. Qualities necessary for success in any profession have particular signficance in librarianship—good physical and mental health, ability to work harmoniously with others, initiative, resourcefulness and alertness to changing conditions.

American libraries exist to provide the best books for the enlightment and recreation of the American people. They serve children, young people and adults, community groups and organizatoins, and they cooperate with other educational, recreational and social agencies having similar purposes.

Press Notices Say "Angel Street" Is "Don't-Miss" Show

Mrs. West thought that previous publicity notices from different well-known papers might be of interest to the campus about the play, "Angel Street". Some of the more interesting press notices are:

"The critics call it the biggest dramatic hit in New York"—New York Mirror.

".....There is particular reason for welcoming with open arms the excellent new melodrama—It really can keep you anchored to your seat bolt upright—a work that is everything one could hope for"—New York Herald-Tribune;

".....there isn't a moment when you can afford to let your attention wander."—Brooklyn Eagle;

"A masterpiece of ... suspense."—New Yorker Magazine.

A few of the better-known persons have commented on the play. Alexander Woolcott said. "Not in ten years at least have I seen an audience, including myself, so spellbound by a melodrama."

"The most talked-of play in New York is 'Angel Street'," comments Louella Parsons.

"In the evening we went to see 'Angel Street', which I recommend to anyone who wants to be absorbed and taken out of his daily round of interests. You sit on the edge of your chair most of the time and it is really a grand mystery story."

"The handsome villain is so well played that the audience hisses him, and the old detective is a joy. But the part which seems to me incredibly hard to play is that of the wife, who is slowly being driven insane by her husband—a very fine piece of acting," says Eleanor Roosevelt.

"It's a play to put on your list and take the whole family."—N. Y. Sunday News.

Those are a few of the press notices of former presentations of "Angel Street". Saturday night, March 16, it will be presented in Voorhees Chapel.

Student Council Gets "Go Ahead" Signal From Students

The college student body in a group meeting yesterday morning after chapel showed their approval by secret ballot for the Student Council to begin work toward correcting problems of various phases of student life here.

Voting on three specific problems under the general improvement plan, the students by a majority showed their support of the ideas of point system for offices, dormitory fire drills, and cut system revision. The vote does not mean, however, that any definite plans have been accepted, only that the worth of the ideas have been officially recognized, council members pointed out.

These questions have been given extensive study by student council members, and reports of their conclusions were aired to the student body at a special meeting of the group Wednesday morning, March 6, at the usual chapel time.

Student Council member John Shell pointed out to the students the arguments for and against the point system idea, the purpose of which being not to exclude capable students but to bring out abilities of students heretofore unrecognized. This plan, although calling for much work in changing the student constitution and working out the system, will prove more democratic, Shell said.

Ann Anderson, Student Council member, reported on the study made on the idea of fire drills, to partially limit the recognized fire drills in dormitories. Specific rules for efficient fire drilling will be drawn up and reviewed for student approval as the plans progress, Miss Anderson stated.

Tommy Parkinson voiced the opinion of the entire student body when he stated the need for a revision in the present cut system. A plan presented for student consideration included, in effect, limiting the number of individual free cuts and giving each student an unlimited number of emergency cuts. Number of free cuts allowed under such a plan would be over half as many as one has hours in a particular course, Parkinson revealed, instead of the equal number of cuts and hours in the present system.

Parkinson explained, upon inquiry, that the college faculty will not allow unlimited free cuts to students as they feel a certain responsibility to students which keeps them from agreeing to such an idea.

Much student sentiment was voiced at the meeting on these subjects and suggestions given which will be taken into consideration as specific plans are worked out, said council members.

All topics mentioned were open for general discussion at the Wednesday morning meeting. Mildred Waring, council president, presided at the session.

Theatre Group Will Present 3 Plays in Bartlett Tonight

Experimental Theatre will presen three plays tonight at 7:00 in Bartlett auditorium. One will be given by school age children under the direction of Margaret Cross. The other two are "The Bad Penny," a serious play, and "The Eligible Mr. Bangs," a comedy. Those appearing in "The Bad Penny" are Jean Childress, Ruth Ellen Crews, Kathryn Holden and Carol June Hall. The Cast of "The Eligible Mr. Bangs" includes Margaret Eddy, Betty Harte, Abner Richards and Robert Hunter. The stage managers for the plays are Josephine Carringer and Eloise Gaston.

Grads Informed Of Activities by Alumni Magazine

Present students at Maryville may look forward to the time when they will be receiving the Alumni Magazine, a bulletin published twice a year by the alumni office. Through it the college keeps its graduates and former students in contact with each other and with the college.

The bulletin is usually published in the fall and spring. Due to adverse conditions, the fall issue for 1945 was delayed and has just been distributed.

The magazine is sent to all graduates and servicemen and to any other ex-student who requests it. The mailing list contains names of graduates residing in Australia, India, Africa, China, and Central and South America. Since the war, Europe has been added ot this list.

All available information regarding births, deaths, marriages, and occupations of former students is printed. The book also contains news of the faculty, homecoming, college calendar, February meetings, and any other item which would be of interest to its readers. This material is obtained from the correspondence of the office and from anyone who has information concerning former students. For this reason, it is important that a student keep in touch with the office after he has left the campus.

The next issue will be due in April.

Kent Is Managing Editor of 'Echo'

Don Kent, who recently resumed reporting for the Highland Echo after serving in the Army Air Forces since 1941, has been appointed managing editor of the paper. Kent is a senior English major from Kingston, New York. He wrote for the Echo his first two years at Maryville, dropping off the staff to edit the 1941 Chilhowean. He is a married man, and his wife, the former Mary Wintermute, who began with the class of '44, is back attending classes, too.

Kent replaces Helen Marie Wilson, who resigned the position the first of the semester because of the weight of her many other responsibilities.

Students Give Reasons For Voting Pro Or Con On Point System

Students were given an opportunity to express their views on the suggestions made by the Student Council on Wednesday, March 6 at a special meeting of the student body. Among those things discussed was the idea of a point system for distributing offices on the campus. Such a system would assure that there would be no monopolizing of offices by a few students and also that the officers elected would have more time to put on their duties.

The students have been discussing the possibilities of such a system as suggested by the meeting and to get the ideas of a few more students, the Highland Echo has made another poll. The question asked of the students whose thoughts on the matter are printed here was: What do you think of the Student Council suggestion for a point system to distribute offices on the campus?

I consider the suggestion a good one for it enables more people to share in the leadership of the school and the leadership thus distributed creates a more progressive attitude in the student body.—Norman McDowell.

The idea of putting more students into authoritative positions on the campus is indeed good, but capableness to fill these positions should determine one's eligibility, not how many more offices he holds. The simple fact that a capable person has been honored with one official position should not for that reason alone be excluded from other offices.—Mary Annis Beals.

After hearing many discussions both "pro" and "con" upon this subject, I have drawn the conclusion that this system would certainly be for the advantage of the student body. Since many students as freshmen become elected to offices without the student really knowing their ability, the following years they seem to rely on these same students when they find no one else at the moment to fill the position. There are many instances where the same student is elected to several offices. Therefore, by introducing the "point system" it would eliminate any one person from having too much responsibility and give other capable students an opportunity to use

"Living in Christ" Theme of Frosh Program at YWCA

"Living in Christ" will be the theme to be presented by a freshman group at Y.W.C.A. Sunday, March 10. Participating in the program will be Sara Jo Kiger who will read poems illustrating Christ's life and our own pattern for living. Special music will be given by Katherine Carpenter. If the weather permits, the group will meet on the steps of Thaw.

Richard Talks to Pre-Ministerials

Pre-Ministerials will meet on Thursday, March 14, for a short business meeting, followed by a talk by Abner Richard, who is president of the organization.

It has been announced that plans for the Ministerial banquet are under way, under the direction of Ray Swartzback, chairman of the banquet committee.

Experiences Of A Scatterbrain In Scattering Scatter Rugs

Lately, that is, lately in the history of mankind there has appeared a new and growing menace to human life and limb. As though the man in the street does not have enough to fear from atom bombs and run-away horses—he is now threatened in the home by scatter-rugs. These are small bits of cloth the prime function of which is to slide out from under the unwary, preferrably breaking an arm, leg or neck. We don't know how other people feel, but we've always had misfortunes when in contact with the darn things.

Take for example the time last year when we came rushing in the door of our room with an armful of books, all set and enthusiastic about doing our homework right then. Now in front of our door was a little scatter-rug just waiting for our footstep. We flung the door open and stepped on the rug. Books went flying out of our arms and by some amazing reversal of the law of gravity, the floor came up to meet us. Crash! Bang! Splat! Mess production!

And then there is the age-old situation which actually happened to us. We were just getting into the bathtub when the phone rang. Hastily seizing our housecoat, we dashed for the phone. Now at the head of the stairs is a vicious piece of textile goods whose favorite hate seems to be us. Our foot hit the rug at full speed. Have you ever wondered how an aviator felt when both wings of his plane were clipped off? We know. Our feet regained terra firma in the form of the sixth step from the top. Being wet, they decided they liked air better and accordingly slipped off. Seconds later we picked ourself off the floor and went to answer the phone. The conversation which followed was a spicy one. The operator wanted a number. All we knew was that the phone had rung. In desperation we said, "Operator, this phone just rang."

"Sorry," came the placid reply. "Will you excuse it, pull-ease?"

We returned to our bath murmuring those words of our vocabulary which we did not learn in English class.

Let us say just this one thing about scatter-rugs. Now that our armies have conquered Hitler and Hirohito, don't anyone offer their skins to us as scatter-rugs!

PUT POLITICAL PLUMS ON RATIONED LIST—

At the amazingly-attended meeting of the student body last Wednesday morning, a suggestion was presented whereby a designated number of points would be given to those students elected to the various offices of campus organizations, and a limit would be set for the number of points accumulated by one student in one semester. Twelve points, according to tentative plans, will be the maximum number a student may acquire in one semester; major offices on the Hill will carry eight points—thus eliminating from other major nominations any student who has been elected to a major office for the same semester. The number of points is to increase with the prominence of the office.

Offer a stick of candy to a little boy, and even though he is already feeling the effects of overeating, he has a natural reluctance to say, "No, thank you." The same psychology is found among college students who, hesitating to decline an honor, or due to an honest miscalculation of their own capacities, find it difficult to say "No, thank you" to any nomination. Thus it is not an uncommon thing for a naturally aggressive leader to find himself with an amount of responsibility that he is unable to keep up.

What are the effects of this over-eating of campus political plums on the student, on the organizations, and on the school?

The office gourmet, who upon his inevitable discovery that the primary purpose of college is learning and that the measure of his success is to some extent at least taken from a small white card with SEMESTER REPORT across the top, may suffer from the extreme pains that are due to insufficient digestion of facts. Even in these days of progressive education, we know only one person who has seriously considered the plan of dropping all classes and assignments for duties incidental to some extra-curricular activity — say getting a weekly paper on and off the presses.

There is an alternative for the student who has seemed to eat his plum pie and have it, too. That of slip-sliding over responsibilities—a lick here, a promise there. The advantages for an organization under such management is at best, not best. A student body must not be resigned to the second-rate results that will necessarily follow. There are students who spread their efforts thinly over their activities, with more or less satisfactory results; the more the activities, the thinner they must be spread, and the flavor of satisfaction fades more and more to the LESS.

Better it would be to spread the offices. Fairer it would be to the less aggressive of our number, in giving them an opportunity to win a prominent position. There are students who can manage more than others, but how can we know which students? Safer it would be to eliminate the word "indispensable" from our collegiate vocabulary.

The student council will be working out the details of such a plan for point system in the coming weeks. It is the duty of every Maryville student to take an active interest in the affairs of his school. Take your ideas and suggestions to your student council representative. He is there to present your side, to maintain your interests.

This is one of the major issues of our college generation. Its significance must be realized and handled if the importance of holding any office is to last beyond the victory feasts of election.

Let him be kept from paper,

So may he cease to write,

The above suggestion has successfully been ignored in view of the fact that easily acquired information outweighed dear old Prior's advice. Information like finding out that Bill Largen tried to keep Edith Merle Delaney from giving a speech on "Pre-Wedding Days", and Kidder helpfully taking Katie's meals to her the day she was on telephone duty.

Christine and Nan absolutely refused to even discuss bowling last Tuesday night. Reason? They had a test on baseball under Coach on Wednesday.

It seems to be uniformly agreed that the This story rightly deserves a full paragraph, and we cross our fingers in sincerest hopes that the "injured" gentleman does not protest too strongly The man of the paragraph is Tom Wheeler. The moral is "Do Not Commit Strong Acts for the Love of Cake." Tom has a shoebox, which he keeps in the dining hall until his occasional lucky days when we have cake, then he practices a beggar's habit of going from table to table—obviously begging. But last Wednesday night he was astounded when he opened the box in preparation for his rounds. For three days Betty Wells and Phoeba Oplinger had awaited with surmounting anticipation the coming of the great event, and they were sufficiently rewarded when Tom's eyes literally popped at the sight of a box full of twigs, and grass, and a note saying, "Surprised?" Our story does not end. Determined to obtain his cake, brave Wheeler marched to the kitchen and dumped the contents into a nearby garbage can. But he was caught in the act of leaving. Being firmly informed that pigs could not eat "grass, and twigs, and paper," he dutifully returned to the garbage can and removed aforementioned "trash", empty-handed. His never-ceasing courage outweighing obstacles, we of the student body later beheld Tom approaching our various tables, and we utterly crammed our rightful pieces of cake in our mouths.

By the way, Tom and his roommate dispose of twenty-two pieces of cake in two days.

Your heart-rending letter reached me this morning and I sat down to answer it right away. Oh, the tragedy of an uneducated mind! But it is evident, my child, that you have a heart that beats with love of service to your fellow-man. You can cook and sew. Ah, what priceless knowledge!

I would advise you then, Bedelia, to register for a course with a good correspondence school. May I suggest Lickem and Sealem, "The School With the Stickiest Stamps!" After one of their guaranteed college courses you can compete with the best-dressed debutantes.

The above bit of advertising, taken from this column of November 4, 1939, is presented as an example of what we shall try to avoid in the future, as we never want to hurt anybody's feelings. We recall that ten minutes after the ECHO was distributed on that day, there came an angry knock at our door. The West Virginia delegation had arrived in force. He accused us, with a baseball bat, of deliberately vilifying the name of his fair state, something that had never crossed our so-called mind. Everybody knows that West Virginia is one of the more glorious states in this glorious Union and that from the gilded shores of California to the hide-bound coast of Maine, no state is more progressive than is the Panhandle State. Pan-handle, that is.

TALK OF THE WEEK..... BY JUNE GOWANLOCK

Chatterbox Weathered Shortages, Always Home for Your Last Nickel

The dictionary says a chatterbox is an incessant talker and a thesaurus gives the synonyms such as a babbles, ranter, proser, windbag, gossiper or sermonizer. We feel that sermonizer is not quite the right word. Even though a ministerial manages the place it should be simonizer. How many times have we been lured to the Chatterbox to spend our last nickel and then later wish fervently that we had that nickel back?

The Chatterbox is a YM-YW store managed by one of the men on campus. This year Tom Horst is managing it with Judy Turk, Evelyn (Andy) Anderson, and Audre Monteith helping. Everyone knows Judy (aside from the fact that it's printed on her apron) by her height and pleasant, helpful patient attitude; Andy by her gleam in her eyes, clever retorts, and wavy brown hair; Audre (usually called Monty) isn't behind the counter much but she's lovely and she's engaged; Tom is known for his grades and his girl.

The reason there are insufficient soft drinks and candy to suit the campus' appetite is because there is a sugar shortage, according to Horst. When asked about the milk shortage, it was made clear that the reason we get very little milk is due to the perversity and independence of the local dairies, not because the cows are lazy or undernourished. The Chatterboxites make only one request of its patrons. Instead of gawking and then, upon being waited on, ask what kind of ice cream they have or dashing over to lift up and slam down the lids on the coolers, please use what college education you have and read. It's not hard, really. Just lift your eyes above the ice cream freezer to it's left and your right and decide upon the flavors and whether or not drinks are listed.

One of the girls said, "There was a slight bit of unpleasantness after one of the games. It was an all-campus program but not Saturday, so the Chatterbox did not stay open for girls. There have been complaints from authorities about the fellows starting to wait outside the Chatterbox 15 or 20 minutes ahead of time. This may be a college of Liberal Education but it's NOT that liberal. Also, the girls may not realize it, but 5 of 10 is the warning bell for admittance. That means that the fellows can come in, the girls leave. Only library assistants may enter after ten, or faculty members or "Soapie."

They have everything from crackers to razors in that place, (the razors are for means other than protection) even ice cream. That reminds us, it's almost time for the Chatterbox to open. Think we'll run over and spend our last nickel for a cone.

Bainonian Offers Thrills and Chills

A "bloodcurdling radio drama with thrills and chills" is to be presented at Bainonian tonight under the direction of "Millie" Miller and "Snuffy" Smith. The play was an adaptation of Edgar Allan Poe's horror classic, "The Fall of the House of Usher."

Antiquated Antics

By BETTY HARTE

"Let there be spaces in your togetherness," says a Syrian poet. The Highland Echo of March 7, 1936 is little more blunt and to the point—"A man doesn't necessarily have to be a bigamist to have one wife too many."

If a kiss speaks volumes, I'd like to start a library; I call my rich relations 'the kind I love to touch'; the athletes' song is 'The Broken Record'. These crax of 1936 remind one somewhat irrevelantly of Petie Johnston who is entering a hog-calling contest and asks all her friends to come out and root for her.

Speaking of song titles, the 1936 composer suggests — "I started paying her attention and now I'm paying her alimony" and "It always pays to be good but it doesn't pay much."

We note with interest that the Senator in his Weakly Filibuster thinks that "it would be a good idea if someone would organize a group to be called 'The Saturday Night Players' or 'Little Theatre' and present short entertainments on these Saturday nights when the calendar is open and no money is burning holes in our pockets. Since the gals can't leave the campus, let's bring more activity to the campus. What do you think?" Evidentally someone agreed 'cause we have Experimental Theatre now.

Not to be outdone, the boys have started a new sport. The first fencing premiere took place in 1936 against the Knoxville YM. "Former college and university men as well as independents will be and are on the opposing team so it will be a severe test for the Scots."

In this week's issue there is also an announcement that the Student Council wanted the opinion of Maryville students regarding the desirability of an Honor System in Maryville college. A census of opinion was to be taken.

The sound machine used by the chemistry and other science departments was purchased in 1936.

YWCA kitchen utensils were obtained when the YW gave a housewarming and asked everyone to bring a 10c gift for the kitchen.

The late Dr. Fred Hope wrote that the need for missionaries was tremendous. While in 1936 the U.S. had 10 million people without work to do—Africa limped along with one teacher-preacher for 7000 people scattered over an area about a third the size of the state of Tennessee.

Graham Speaks on "Soul Erosion" in Prayer Meets

The Rev. Mr. Thomas A. Graham, minister of the New Providence Presbyterian church, gave a brief message on "Soul Erosion" at the first Lenten prayer meeting held at the regular time, 6:40, in the YW rooms Friday evening. Stressing the three main causes of soul erosion, Mr. Graham named business, forgetfulness, and the oppression of the world and gave as solution Christ's "Take up thy cross and follow me."

Following the singing led by Robert DuBois, with Mary B. Jamison at the piano, the scripture was read by Thomas Wheeler. Peggy Howell sang "My Task" accompanied by Mary Barnwell.

It's worth shouting from the "Rooftops" about our complete line of notions, those extras that you really need!

ORCHIDS AND OTHERWISE—

It seems to us that a whole lot of credit and praise is due Maryville's five cheerleaders. They took over this semester and despite difficulties have done a fine job. They have not only organized themselves without the usual aid of an experienced head cheerleader, they have also organized the student body, the great majority of whom had never had any opportunity to hear or learn any Maryville yells before this basketball season.

The Maryville cheering has been excellent. Especially was the cheering good Monday night when it looked as if Carson-Newman was about to defeat Maryville. That was the most serious, the most heartfelt yelling this writer ever heard at a basketball game, and it didn't require much effort on the part of the cheerleaders to make it that way that time.

Something other than orchids are in order for any Maryville student who is seen sitting on the Carson-Newman bench. They are our traditional enemies, and no true Maryvillian can get away with cheering for C-N for all he is worth. When C-N played here, a student was doing that. It was disgusting to most M.C. people; it just didn't look good at all. Maybe it would have been different if it had been some other opponent, but that simply does not go when the Scots meet the Carson-Newman outfit.

DOBY NELSON TO ENTER M.C.

Remember that big rotund player who attracted so much attention playing basketball with the Amos and Andy team when they beat the Highlanders? That was one Doby Nelson who has also been coach of the Porter High School basketball teams this season. Doby has signed up for spring football; he plans to be in school here next fall and play football. That is good not only in the sense that he is big enough to make a real football player maybe, it's also good for this writer in the sense that Doby is the kind of guy who always furnishes something interesting for a sports writer to expound on in a column like this. He's good copy.

RENFRO TAKES SEASON SCORING HONORS—

According to the latest statistics released by the unofficial Bureau of Sports Statistics of the Highland Echo, Spence Renfro compiled the best scoring record for the Highlanders basketball team during the recently completed season. In the total of 12 games, including the two independent teams, the players accumulated the following records:

First Renfro, 133 points for an average of 11.1 per game; Miracle was next with 112 points and a 9.3 average; then Spears, 55 point total, 4.6 average; House, 44 total, 3.7 average; Kemp, 37 total, 3.1 average; Largen, 24 points in ten games for a 2.4 average; Lenoir, 17 total, 1.5 average; Hollingsworth, 13 total, 1.1 average; and Newman, Breazele, and Secrest each scored 2 points to round out the Maryville scoring this season.

It is interesting to note that not once this season did the Scotties lose a college basketball contest on the home court. With two games with each college opponent, M.C. beat each team at least once, winning the home games and losing all the games away from home except the one at Tennessee Wesleyan. No team beat the Scots twice.

Seniors Call Class Meeting for Wednesday

Because Mr. James R. Smith, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, was unable to be present last Wednesday morning, the special senior class meeting has been postponed until Wednesday, March 13 following chapel. This meeting is for the purpose of explaining procedure concerning the recommendation forms to be filled out before graduation by all seniors. It is urged that all seniors plan to be present at the meeting.

Athenian-Alpha Sig Bowling Match Set

An Athenian-Alpha Sigma bowling match between chosen teams of the two societies will be played off tonight at 6:15 at the Maryville bowling center, Kenneth Kribbs, Athenian program chairman, has announced. This program, formerly scheduled last Saturday night, was postponed until this evening, Kribbs stated.

There will probably be no Athenian meeting next Saturday, society members say, because of the Theta-Alpha Sigma play production, scheduled that evening.

Highlanders Conquer Carson-Newman

Chillies Overcome Howies in Point System Basketball

For the third consecutive time the Chillie girls basketball team triumphed over their Howies opponents. The winning of this game, which was played on Tuesday March 5, makes the Chillie team the winner of the girls basketball tournament. Originally the plans for the tournament play-off were that five games would be played and the team that won three games out of the five would win the tournament. However, since the Chillies have won the first three games there will be a consolation game played next Tuesday instead of the last two remaining games.

The second game was played on Tuesday March 5 and for the second time the Howies lost to a Chillie three point lead. In Thursday's game the final score was 31 to 24. High scoring forward for the Chillies was E. J. Cotton with a total of 14 points. Christine Gilreath was the high scorer for the Howies with a total of 12 points. The line-up for Thursday's wining game is as follows:

Chillies	position	Howies
Henderson, capt	F	Lindsay, capt.
Short 4	F	2 Mackey
Cotton 14	F	1 McGaha
Bertholf	C	Richardt
Henderson	G	Wood
Heaps	G	Montieth

The Chillie Subs were Weest, Rock (4), Blizzard (5), and Miller. The Howie subs were Gilreath (12), and Vinton. The officials for the games were Miss Eddins, Ruth King Wood, Betty Lou King and Melba Holder.

PLEDGES DUE MONDAY

Of the $1,148.45 pledged to the Fred Hope fund, $692.64 has already been paid. Monday, March 11 is the closing date for the payment of pledges. A table will be placed outside the Student-Help office during the day for the convenience of students.

Maryville Five Takes Thriller To End Season

Maryville ended its basketball season in a blaze of glory Monday night, March 4, against Carson-Newman, scoring a 36-34 victory in a thrilling game.

Leading the Highlanders in this game, which was cinched by a foul shot after playing time had run out, was Spence Renfro, who was top scorer with 4 field goals and 7 important free throws, a total of 15 points. Mike Miracle also sank 4 field goals for the Scotties but only got 2 free throws for a 10 point total.

Durham was the chief threat of the Eagles from Jefferson City, high point man with only 8.

In this game which reached an all-season peak of excitement in the last few seconds, Maryville completely outclassed the visitors for the first half. The Scots got 13 points while the C-N boys were getting their first 2 points, and the first half ended with Maryville having double the Carson-Newman score, 22-11.

Second Half Different

Then during most of the second half it was a different story. Carson-Newman began pouring in the shots, and with 8 minutes left in the ball game they took the lead, 27 to 26, on a bucket by Substitute Jarrard. Durham of the Eagles made it 28 to 26 with a foul shot. Then Miracle put the Scotties back in front, scoring a beautiful two handed shot from the side while being fouled, and adding his foul shot to make it 29-28 with five minutes remaining.

M.C. Regains Lead

Immediately Mason, another C-N sub tied up the score, 29-29, with a free throw. Kemp regained the lead for M.C. with a one pointer from the free throw line, and House got a two pointer, before Jarrard shot another basket for the Eagles, making the score 32 to 31 for the Scots. Renfro scored his sixth point via the foul shot route, Miracle got another basket; then Wyatt of C-N got a free throw, and Hicks of C-N sank a two pointer to make the score 35-34 in the Scots favor with time running out fast.

Renfro Comes Thru

The Scotties held possession of the ball during the remaining seconds of the game, despite frantic attempts by the Carson-Newman five to get it. Just as the final whistle blew a double foul was called on Renfro of M.C. and Mason of C-N. That entitled both players to one foul shot, affording a possibility for the Eagles to tie up the game, which would have called for an overtime period. At that point most of the crowd thought the game was over and that Maryville had already won. However Renfro shot his free throw first; it bounced on the rim and dropped in to put the game on ice for Maryville, and give the Maryville team revenge for a defeat they received at Carson-Newman earlier in the season. Mason missed his throw, leaving the final score Maryville 36, Carson-Newman, 34.

Throughout the game the refereeing was loose and the action tended toward the rough variety with quite a belligerent spirit prevailing among the players.

Maryville (36)	pos.	C.N. (34)
Miracle 10	F	Roden 5
Largen 3	F	Durham 8
Renfro 15	C	Wyatt 3
Spears 1	G	Hicks 4
Hollingsworth	G	Carroll 2

Substitutions: Maryville—Kemp 3, House 4, Lenoir, Carson-Newman—Hamblen 5, Jarrard 6, Mason 1.

Referees: Jones and Thornton.

Gridders Begin Spring Football

Coach Honaker has announced that Maryville's first spring football practice since 1943 officially begins Monday afternoon, March 11. For the past week most of the fellows who will report Monday have been going out each afternoon for running and conditioning exercises.

At the beginning of this past week Coach announced spring football and issued football equipment to the men who intend to take spring training. An encouraging total of 40 men reported for uniforms. That group is composed mainly of students who are now enrolled in M.C., but there are also several high school seniors and some ex-service men who intend to enter Maryville next fall.

Coach Honaker is to be assisted in spring training by Coach J. D. Davis, who plans to return to Maryville next fall.

Tentative plans schedule spring football to run for four weeks.

INTRAMURALS

By ABBOTT KEMP

the past week featured two basketball games and four doubles ping pong matches. The basketball season has progressed very nicely thus far. The fellows have cooperated almost 100 per cent so that no game has yet had to be forfeited. But, unfortunately, the same cannot be said of the doubles ping pong tournament. For some time there was a shortage of ping pong balls which held up the various scheduled matches, but now that this shortage is no more some matches are still not played off. There is a general lack of interest and cooperation among some of the entries, and the intramural manager has thus far failed to exert the pressure upon them which it seems necessary to do in order to get certain matches played off and keep the tournament running smoothly.

SHARPSHOOTERS ROUT CLIPPERS 30-13

On Wednesday afternoon, March 6, the Sharpshooters defeated the Clippers to the tune of a 30 to 13 score. The first half ended with the Sharpshooters holding a 9 to 6 advantage. In the second half Grubbs and his Sharpshooter teammates got hot to win the game going away. Grubbs' 15 points was high for the winners. Anthony was the mainstay of the Clippers with 10 of his team's 13 points. The Clippers were handicapped by having to play with only four players against five of the Sharpshooters.

Monday afternoon, March 4, the Junior Celtics outscored the Blackbirds 47 to 30. The game was played in the Alumni Gym. Capt. Scapellati led the scoring for his Junior Celtic team with 19 points. Mathias had 18, also for the winners. For the losers Schieber was high scorer with 11 markers. Cardella and Smith each had 9 for the Blackbirds. The score at half-time was close at 23-19 in favor of the Junior Celtics. Ken Kribbs refereed the contest.

Wilson 2	G	Stewart
Scapellati 19	G	Cardella 9

PING PONG—

Doubles ping pong competition this past week found Grubbs and Houdeshel eliminating Smith and Kribbs by the scores of 21-13 and 21-18. By virtue of this win Houdeshel and Grubbs advanced to the semi-finals of the tournament. Wilson and Wheeler took what was probably the most exciting match of the week from Doyle and Cardella by the scores of 21-19, 14-21, and 21-15. Will Lenoir and Harold Hunter beat Mathias and Anthony in consecutive games 21-15 and 25-23. Overton and Voorhees were too much for Cover and Schieber winning by 21-19 and 21-15 scores. Swartzback and Bob Hunter won by a forfeit from Miracle and Dinges.

POINT SYSTEM POLL

their abilities.—Laura Crawford.

I think a program of this kind would be an improvement over our present system in that more students would run for office. This would benefit both the individual and the group.—W. R. Grosh.

Point system is an excellent idea as there are only a few on the campus holding the offices. I think this causes some students to have a lack of interest in many of the organizations on campus.—Jean Magill.

I do think that the students who have the most to do and are most capable are in and really doing things now. They have started with the little jobs and worked up showing their ability. This campus might possibly profit by such a system but as things now stand and would under any system the only way is for a person to prove his worth first.—Miriam Wickham.

I think it's a very good idea, not only from the standpoint of one person getting too many large offices, but also with the idea that one person may be elected to do a job larger than he can handle.—Virginia Miller.

The point system for electing officers is a very democratic system. I definitely think that some such system should be accepted by the student body.—Frank Kramer.

This plan will give the students who are less popular, but who have the ability, a chance to serve in some of the offices of student organizations and keep other students from holding too many major offices. It is democratic and I think it would be successful.—Charlotte Loster.

Some of us are able to administer more than one office and carry our subjects easily while others are not quite as capable. Why should we eliminate these capable ones when they are perfectly able to administer these offices just because there are some who have no offices? This may unearth some new talent, but if we find it does not work, we can return to the present system. I say let's try it.—J. M. Leister.

21 Volume Poetic Work Among New Books in Library

Music Master of the Middle West by Leola Nelson Bergmann is the story behind the famous St. Olaf Choir in Minnesota and its dynamic vigorous director, composer F. Melius Christiansen. Described by a former member of the choir, the book is full of amusing anecdotes as well as technical and musical details. It is also of interest to note that Richard W. Vine of the college faculty was formerly a member of St. Olaf's choir.

J. B. Priestley outlines the lives of three men: three returnees ready to begin civilian life who had come home after the blitz to security. What they heard and saw and the disappointments they faced is the problem of the book. Three Men in New Suits will start many discussions.

Of special interest to those whose field is the study of English literature are the twenty-one volumes of Chalmer's English Poets, published in 1810, this recently acquired anthology includes unabridged most of the works of the English poets from the time of Chaucer to Cowper. Criticism of poetry and poets is also a part of this valuable reference source. In the process of being catalogued at present, the books will be available soon.

WILL INDIA BREAK APRON STRINGS?

Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee yesterday announced to the world England's offer of complete independence to India. Another significant step taken since India's newly-developed sense of nationalism, this announcement places in Indian hands the right to decide whether she will be a completely self-governing nation or remain a part of the British Commonwealth. A ministerial delegation leaves London Tuesday for India to await the "free vote" decision and work with Indian officials in carrying out that decision.

RUSSO-IRANIAN-TURKISH CRISIS DRAWS NEARER!!

On the heels of Russian official news agency's flat denial of troop movements in Iran, the Iranian American-equipped army of 100,000 men are significantly being mobilized for a "last-ditch battle" if Russian troops threaten its capital, Tehran.

Meanwhile unconfirmed reports say Russian troops are concentrating on the Turkey-Bulgarian frontier with a possible aim at isolating Turkey.

CAPITOL SPLITS OVER SPLIT ATOM!!

The atomic bomb continues to cause political explosions as a control battle in Washington rages. Truman strongly advocates control by a civilian group responsible to him. Opposing presidential views on the matter are the War Department, the House Military Affairs Committee, and Senate Atomic Energy Committee, the last two groups having this week approved the bill embodying army's major voice in the atomic program for national defense phases.

GM CRANKS UP AGAIN!!

General Motors strike, after 16 weeks and one day, has been settled. Responsible for termination of idleness was management's acceptance, among other terms, of a total average hourly pay increase of about 19½ cents, as demanded by UAW-CIO officials.

Howard D. Gress Is Chapel Speaker

The Reverend Howard Dewey Gress, chairman of the Board of Christian Education of Florida, will be the Wednesday chapel speaker on March 20. He is a graduate of George Washington college and Franklin Marshall seminary. He is the pastor of the Crescent City Presbyterian church and is the ex-moderator of the synod of Florida.

The Reverend Doctor George L. Robinson, professor emeritus of Biblical Literature and English Bible at McCormick Theological seminary, was the chapel speaker on Wednesday, March 13. He selected as his topic, "The Originality of Jesus".

"Originality is rare and this makes the Christian religion unique," said Dr. Robinson.

In his sermon, he emphasized three points:

1. Jesus is original in personality and character. Jesus' prayer life, obedience and sinlessness gave Him all glory.

2. Jesus is original in His message.

3. He is unique in His methods.

Dr. Robinson's closing phrase was as follows: "Jesus said, 'Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls.' —Jesus spake as never man has spoken."

Thomas Horst Leads Prayer Meeting

Thomas Horst was leader of the second in a series of prayer meetings for the Lenten season on Friday, March 15. Following the theme Mr. Graham began last week with "Soul Erosion", he took as his topic, "One Cure for Soul Erosion".

Harold Kidder led the singing of the hymns, and Catherine Sisk sang a solo, accompanied by Mary Evelyn Jamison at the piano.

On Friday, March 22, William Vogel will speak, continuing the Lenten theme.

Hinson, Gowanlock Read at Workshop

"Blues", a narrative in poetic prose, and a short story, "No Time to Live", were presented to Writers' Workshop by June Gowanlock and Juanita Hinson last Wednesday afternoon.

Robert Whitford, who criticized Miss Gowanlock's "Blues", pointed out its excellent use of words and some of its many expressive figures of speech.

A portion of her composition follows:

"Across the tilted porch, geraniums spill their brightness and lie upon the dark like deep wet pools of blood. A lamp's light flickers through the open door, plays across the scarlet blossoms, turns the silver moon flowers into misty pools of light. Inside, too, the light shines back from a small, cracked mirror, from an expanse of bright gold teeth, from a black boy's frightened eyes.

"Hear the wind, Ma! Hear the wind? It's moanin' like a spirit. Like a spirit from the dead."

"..... The wind's thin lonely wail loses itself in the muted light and becomes a part of the swaying negro's song."

Miss Hinson's short story, "No Time to Live", tells the story of a young, hard-working college man whose whole world of study and endeavor explodes when he loses his mother, whose love has been his compelling force. Rather than try to face a new and pointless existence, he takes his own life.

Among her expressive phrases were, "his mind tripped and shied"; "seeing (his friends) strangely for the first time—their expressions, their haircuts, the way their noses fit....."; "behind the shutter of his mind, he could hear the conversations continue"; "his dark eyes moved about anxiously for a safe place to rest"; "the shout hung in the empty room."

Vera Ross was critic.

Readers for next week will be Miss Ross and Miss Wright.

Dr. Lloyd Elected Area "Y" President

The Southern Area council of the YMCA at its recent annual meeting in Atlanta elected President Ralph Waldo Lloyd of Maryville college as President of the council for the ensuing year. Vice presidents elected were Mr. Macllin Smith of Birmingham, Alabama, Mr. M. V. Watson of Kentucky, and Mr. Alfred Nielson of Florida.

Covering ten southern states and related to the National and International councils of the YMCA, it is associated with approximately one hundred and twenty-five city YMCA's, more than one hundred college and university YMCA's, and over four hundred Hi-Y clubs in southern high schools.

YM, YW TO HOLD JOINT MEETING

Sunday, March 17, there will be a joint meeting of YWCA and YMCA. The theme of this program will be "The Life of Christ in Music," starting with His birth, and going on through His youth, ministry, crucifixion and resurrection. Ginny Miller will give a reading; a quartet composed of Katherine Franklin, Peggy Howell, Bob Barlow, and Bob DuBois will sing; and there will be an interpretation of hymns so that when hymns are sung, a new meaning will be added to the song. This program will be held in the chapel at 1:30 p.m.

St. Patrick's Snake-Charming Act Began A Great Day for The Irish

For many eons now men have been celebrating Saint Patrick's Day. In fact, since the time of Jupiter, eggnogs, Dick Tracy, or Maryville College; in other words, since time eternal this great event has been observed. Usually those who possess a calendar, have excellent memories or last names such as O'Houligan, Rafferty, McCrory or O'Riley (Oh, really? No! O'Riley!) to remind the forgetful persons of this anniversary.

Once upon a time, in the state of Ireland, there was a superfluity an abundance, an excess uh well, anyhow, there were just TOO many snakes. One day, brave Patrick took it upon himself to rid his land of this menace and thus, he drove the snakes out. He was sort of a second Pied Piper only Patrick wasn't pied. His countrymen were so delighted with his daring and valor that they made him a saint and decided to celebrate his birthday. However there arose a dispute among the people as to the exact date of his birth. This dispute must have arisen after his death or else he was being

Recommendation Forms Given Seniors Wednesday

Seniors anticipating graduation in May received preliminary recommendation forms to be filled out before diplomas will be granted them. Mr. James R. Smith, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, described the procedure required. Those who did not receive blanks are requested to obtain them at the alumni office immediately.

The Living Endowment plan was also presented for consideration. Pledging of a certain sum annually which is regarded as the interest on a normal permanent endowment is the means whereby graduates may participate in the training of future students. As an example of the worth of this project, a yearly gift of $5.00 for five years represents the interest for one year at 4 per cent on a permanent endowment of $625. Seniors are asked to consider this thoughtfully and to pledge as they see fit.

Donald Grant to Speak Here Again On World Affairs

World Traveller and Lecturer to Present Series of Nine Talks

From the Institute of International Education, the well-known British lecturer on international affairs, Mr. Donald Grant, will be here on campus March 27, 28, and 29. A graduate of the University of Edinburgh, he did relief work after the first World War in Austria, the Balkans, France, Germany, Russia and Switzerland. He has also spent several years in Australia and New Zealand.

Mr. Grant will probably speak three times each day; at chapel, at 3:30 each afternoon, probably in Bartlett auditorium, and at 7:00 each evening under the sponsorship of I.R.C. again in Bartlett if it can be arranged.

"Mr. Grant has been here twice before and has made a very favorable impression both for the scope and fairness of his views, and because of his pleasant and kindly personality," is the statement made by Dr. E. R. Hunter.

The lecture subjects listed by Mr. Grant for this visit are: 1) From Churchill to Attlee. Why Britain went Labor. 2) Position and Place of Britain in the Post-War World. 3) Britain, Soviet Russia, Europe. 4) Central Europe—facing West or East. 5) From Weakness to Power: Soviet Russia, 1922-1946. 6) Aftermath of War in the Orient; New Orientation of Powers. 7) Europe 1946—Is it a new Europe? 8) Vienna's achievements 1922-1934 High Point of Democratic Civilization. 9) Four Turning Points of World War II; and Points that will turn the Peace.

WSSF Committee Thanks Students For Fine Spirit

The WSSF committee announces that $600.47 has been pledged to the fund and that all but a very few pledges have been paid. They also urge those who have not paid their pledges to do so as soon as possible.

Miss Becky Davis, a member of the committee said, "We wish to thank those who have participated in spirit and in money, especially for the fine spirit that most of the students have shown."

A letter has been received from the National Committee in New York thanking the college for the gift and telling of the work that this money can help to accomplish.

The WSSF committee consisted of Bob Dockendorf, Becky Davis, Margaret Cross, and Harvey Overton.

FACULTY MEMBERS TO SPEAK AT U.T. PHILOLOGICAL MEET

Dr. E. R. Hunter, Miss Nathalia Wright, and Miss Elizabeth Jackson will attend the Philological meetings which will be held at the University of Tennessee on March 29 and 30, for teachers of language and literature and those who are interested in these subjects. They will read papers which they have prepared. Dr. Hunter's paper is entitled "The Language of Poetry"; Miss Wright's paper is "The Morality Tradition in the Poetry of Edward Taylor"; and Miss Jackson's paper is "The Study of Some Noun-Verb Relationships in English."

REV. DALSTROM SPEAKS SUNDAY

The Vesper speaker on Sunday, March 17, will be the Reverend Edwin F. Dalstrom from Knoxville. He is the pastor of the Shannondale Presbyterian church in Knoxville.

The Vesper speaker on March 10, was the Reverend F. Revell Williams. He told of his experiences as an Army chaplain to a railroad battalion which served in France and Germany during the war. He was a chaplain for sixteen months and received the rank of captain. Before entering the service he was the pastor of a church in Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

Opinion Is Evenly Divided On Value of Commencement Hoods

The seniors have been discussing for several weeks the possibility of adopting hoods to wear with their caps and gowns. This is a step, which if taken, will affect all graduating classes of Maryville college in the future. For this reason the Highland Echo made a poll of both juniors and seniors to determine what the opinions of the students are. When this idea is voted on, only the senior class will vote, but they may be influenced one way or another by what students other than seniors think.

Students who gave opinions were asked whether they thought the idea of wearing hoods was a good one or not. The majority of those who were well enough informed to answer thought that the hoods would add color to the exercises, but some were inclined to think that they would be too expensive for the short time they are to be worn.

They would be attractively different. I can't decide whether that is enough reason to justify the extra expense of having them when we have so many other expenses at graduation time.

Marky Cross

Hoods will make our graduation more colorful and more distinctive. Even if we can't wear them until we have our degrees, I think they will be a worthwhile addition.

Ethel Brocker

I think it's a good idea. It's something new and would add color to the procession. It is the only chance some of us will have to wear the hoods.

Mary Lib McKnight

Wearing hoods would probably make the graduation exercises more formal and colorful, but as far as I am concerned, I would rather not have them.

Robert Dockendorf

I think the hoods would be a colorful and distinctive addition to the commencement program.

C. C. Hodges

I think that perhaps these hoods will be a lot of extra expense and aren't a necessity for the real purpose of the commencement program.

Jeanne Heaps

I understand that hoods are a graduate privilege. It would be fine to add more color to the pageantry of graduation since most of

Fred Hope Fund Reaches $824

It has been announced that $157 were paid on pledges to the Fred Hope Fund on March 11, which was the last day for payment of pledges. However, this is $278 short of the $1102 pledged during the time the founder of this fund, Fred Hope, was here last November. So that the full amount of the pledge may be collected, students are asked to pay the remainder of their pledge in the Student Help Office as soon as possible.

Council Works on Discussed Plans

Since the Student Council received the go-ahead signal on the general improvement plan from the student body on March 8, extensive study by the committees has gone underway. The problems which are being considered are point system for offices, dormitory fire drills, and revision of the cut system. By way of learning more about the point system for the election of officers, John Shell is writing to several schools which have instituted this plan and have found it successful. Thus by studying other schools the committee can prepare a recommendation as to how we can utilize this system and institute it in our student constitution. A great deal of work on all the points in question has yet to be done before the committees can report their finds. Mildred Waring, Student Council president, said that the suggestions made by the students were proving very helpful and that the Student Council would welcome suggestions from any of the students.

Also under consideration of the Student Council is a "Keep the Campus Clean" campaign. The committee in charge of this program consists of Catherine Sisk, Mildred Miller, Curtis Wright and Bob Robinson. The plan is to distribute more trash cans throughout the campus and to ask the cooperation of each student in keeping our campus clean and neat.

The condition of the golf course was also brought to the attention of the Student Council members at the last meeting. Plans were discussed to have the golf course renovated for use in the spring.

Theta, Alpha Sig Cast Brings New Stage-Screen Hit

"Angel Street", Patrick Hamilton's three-act Victorian melodrama, only recently made available for college dramatics, will be presented by Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies this evening at 8:00 o'clock in Voorhees chapel, with Mrs. Nita Eckles West, director.

Coming from the Great White Way as the "biggest dramatic hit in New York" and from the screen as a "masterpiece of suspense", "Angel Street" is to be presented at Maryville college tonight in one of the first productions of it in United States colleges.

With Jean Balch in the incredibly difficult role of Mrs. Manningham, Jay Bishop as the treacherous villain-husband, and Bob Thompson as the hero-detective, the characters of this super thriller are "satisfactorily portrayed, with the cast doing quite good re-creations," according to Mrs. West. Elsie Jean Cotton and Charlotte Proffitt complete the cast.

The plot of "Angel Street" centers around a wife who is being slowly driven insane through various diabolical means by her maniacal husband, but who is saved from her fate by an intervening detective, Sgt. Rough.

The time for the play is around 1880, and the scenes take place in the Manningham home. Under the direction of Lloyd Shue, stage manager, and his assistants, Bill Cover, Ruth Broadhead, Jessie Lou Brunson, Rebecca Davis, and Willis Pribble, the stage scenery has been worked out very effectively, according to the director. The room scenes, showing painted walls of panel effect and antique furnishings, prove to have an effective Victorian setting.

Costumes for the cast have been minutely copied from pictures of Victorian styles by the costume crew, Lottie Lavender and Doris White. Two gowns to be used are authentic dresses of the 1880's.

The publicity agendum for "Angel Streeet", handled by Carl Lazenby, Kitty Johnson, Bea Hohnberger, and Becky Walter, has included posters on campus and in town display windows, newspaper articles, announcements, and public presentations of play excerpts.

Assisting the publicity committee have been Julie Pancoast, Virginia Weest, Miriam Bell, Mary Jane Blizzard, Carolyn Bowman, Claris Hopson, Bob Barlow, Lil-

CROWDED BARTLETT

General interest in experimental theatre has picked up with its post-war membership. It provides an opportunity for would-be actors to acquire stage experience and try out their most unorthodox ideas before a sympathetic audience. Students seeking entertainment enjoy these informal productions. Last Saturday night the group presented the only scheduled all-campus program for the evening in the small auditorium in Bartlett, which seats only a fraction of the student body. The luckier of the late-comers found seats in the windows, or at least standing room inside, but there was a sizeable number clustered out in the hall who had to be satisfied with the scraps of action and dialogue that they strained to catch. It the experimentalists take charge of another all-campus entertainment, perhaps they can present their plays in the big gym or the chapel auditorium.

SPRING HOUSE-CLEANING

Spring housecleaning has come to the attention of the Student Council. With new leaves on the trees, fresh grass on the ground, bright blossoms covering the shrubs, our campus is a lovely place. It's a campus to be proud of. Let's cooperate with Nature, Brownie, and the Keep-the-Campus-Clean Campaign, to keep it that way for spring visitors.

BUSINESS MANAGERS WORK

Not the least bit in the mood at this moment to belittle the editorial end of the two chief positions in connection with a campus publication, we wondered at the decision assigning the post of business manager to the list of secondary offices. In all other matters, the two are rated equally. In view of the amount of work and responsibility which is upheld by the business end of the staff—without which there would be no editorial end—it seems the position of business manager of a college paper should be ranked among the major offices.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

The masters' rimes having left our home,
We decided, alas, to write our own.
So quieting the twins in 311,
And beginning to pen at half-past seven,
The things we've often heard about—
Yes, some to believe and others to doubt—
Have entered our mind score by score;
Pray listen to this, our strange folklore.

Miss Tedford, who's known as Mademoiselle,
A story she gave for us to tell.
With Council's wishes she will comply;
"To those in Pearsons," she paused to sigh,
"The time will come for fire drills
And you outside will have your chills,
But I'll be here in 4th floor tub."
(Ahah! We'll hear your blub, blub, blub!)
While speaking of Pearsons, its second floor
Has handed to us another chore.
About a "drip" they each complain;
Now would a plumber fix the same?
Also a Carolyn and one B.A.
Recited to us some words to say;
Their "Frank and Bob are in doghouses".
Oh come now, boys, men or "mouses"?
Oh man! It's time to blow a clarion;
We know at last Merle from Marion.
With that we think of Hollingsworth,
So recently forced to miss the mirth
Revealed in a speech by the former twin,
Who refused his presence, disappointing him.

And welcomes go out to Sailor Paul,
Especially sent from Carnegie Hall.
(Oh, Lonnie, please stop those screaming twins!
That Radcliffe and Junior! Their silly whims!)

A limit was reached by Josie Hale,
Who told to us this woeful tale.
In writing letters, she mixed the date,
And put it by her own home state.

Miss Eddin's faith in exercise
Is making us sore, but not so wise.
Don Kribbs is living a lonely life.
For Florida has claimed his wandering wife.
While making our list a trifle longer,
We'll add the name of Louise Monger.
We like to hear—we're tellin' you—
Her version of George's "Rhapsody in Blue".
And have you seen poor Vera's scar,
Result of Hennemuth's peanut jar?

Because the twins, who live next door,
Are yelling in tones quite like a roar,
We're forced to stop our poetry (?);
It's time for prose——necessity.

Feeling more at home with this type of writing, we wonder how many of you have heard the song, "My Guy's Gone Back"? It's the favorite melody of Joyce Jones, Betty Emory, Betsy Click, and Katherine Boyer.

Laughmiller gave several couples basis for envy the other day by telling of his former years at Maryville. It seems that his wife was a town student, and after seeing a movie they would chance to stroll through the campus, causing a nightwatchman a considerable amount of consternation. Don't know who the nightwatchman was, but Mr. Irwin has been here several years, and Laughmiller isn't aged.

It seems to be uniformly agreed that the CHILHOWEAN GIRL OF THE CAMPUS will be one of the fifty-three seniors. If that be the case, the choice will be one of the following: Ahrens, Batchelor, Baxter, Bradshaw, Brocker, Callahan, Corbett, Cross, Cuellas, Davis, Dunk, Freeman, Garges, Glymph, Gomez, Gowanlock, Hinson, Hodges, Holder, Jamison, Johnston, Justus, Keen, Kincaid, King, McKnight, Minear, Neal, Oplinger, Ousley, Payne, B. Proffitt, E. Proffitt, Reaves, Sisk, Sitler, Stinger, Stout, Thornton, Toomey, Toro, Townsend, Trotter, Vineyard, Waring, Watts, Wells, White, Wickham, Wilson, Woodward, Wright.

FUTURE SCOOP! Olinde Ahrens has faithfully promised to tell us immediately after she decides to say "I do." Don't jump at conclusions, though.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: Why does Virginia Wood plan on cashing in a class ring one of these days? Why does Seymour read his chemistry experiments on the Science Hall steps? Does everyone believe that Ab faithfully characterized his role in the last Experimental Theatre? When will the case of Josie, Gwen, Marietta, Joyce, and Devida (for defacing property) appear in court?

There's a story told that Haaf is going to tell a second story of threats to Snuffie Smith and Mildred Miller if they tell a third story which he doesn't want told, because in the second story he insists that if the third story were told it would be untrue, and the possibility of the second and third stories being told has given us reason to print this first story—which all adds up to a little bit of everything and not much of anything.

When the students quiet down now and then we become amazed with Miss Horne's faith in mental exercise worry with Mr. Fisher about the peace watch Miss Jackson put those Tuesday morning Honor Slips listen to the organization of Mr. Graham's sermon, noticed as a result of Miss Johnson't systematic discourse realize the similarity of Dr. Robinson's Wednesday address to some of Dr. Orr's lectures laugh with Dr. Williams tell the student body that the social committee did try to have a formal dinner tonight, but they found it impossible.

Leaving you with this thought. "Remember that if people laugh with you, it's a compliment. If they laugh at you, it's an insult."

ECHO-HUMOR

By DON KENT

The following quotations are taken from "Ligeia", a Poe short story. Poe was America's first modern ad-writer but didn't find it out until he died. Then he couldn't do anything about it.

What products was Poe plugging in the quiz below? Count 10 (if you can) for each correct answer. Successful completion of the quiz will give you 20 grade points. Are you ready?

QUESTIONS

1. "The raven-black, the glossy, the luxuriant and naturally-curling tresses." .....

2. "The skin rivalling the purest ivory." (Catch question deLux) .....

3. "the teeth glancing back, with a brilliancy almost startling, every ray of the holy light which fell upon them in her serene and placid, yet most exulting radiant of all smiles." .....

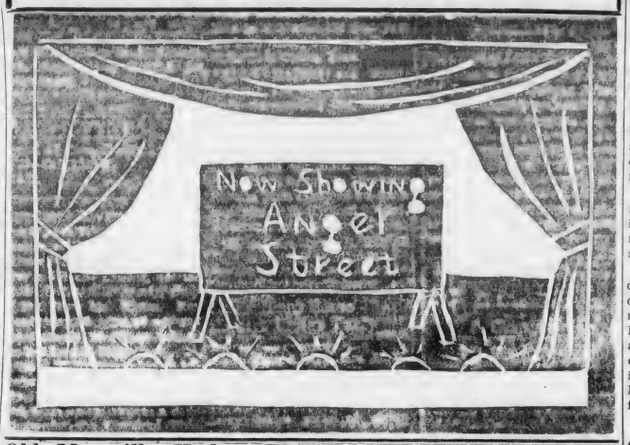
4. "The expression of the eyes of Ligeia! What was it.....which lay far with the pupils of my be loved? What was it?" .....

5. "the almost magical melody, modulation, distinctness, and placidity of her low voice.....and the wild words which she habitually uttered." .....

ANSWERS

1. The correct answer is "Drene" but give yourself 5 points if you answered with "Halo". Subtract 5 if you replied "Buick".

2. You were warned this was a catch question. "Ivory soap" is the correct answer. If you said "Lux" give yourself a kick.



3. "Holy light" is the key word here. Give yourself 10 if you said "Eveready flashlight batteries". No points for "Ipana".

4. My guess is "Murine". But your guess is as good as mine. Give yourself 10 points.

5. "Systematic discourse" gets you 10 points. Nothing else is acceptable.

Now add up your score. If it's 10 or over, you are entitled to 20 grade points. Go immediately to the Personnel Office and tell Miss Lightfoot. And see what Miss Lightfoot tells you.

TALK OF THE WEEK..... BY JUNE GOWANLOCK

Old Maryville Had a Farm, Ee-i-Ee-i-oh---Those Cows

Get out your ole straw hat and a pair of overalls and let's talk about the college farm. You know that that ambrosia you've been drinkin' in the dining hall doesn't go under the brand of Pet or Bordens. Uh-uh. It's Maryville College Farm Special. It's true, the supply is limited; but after all there are only twenty-one cows and production is still not up to its pre-war standards. By next spring Mr. Dairyman says the herd ought to be up to thirty.

These bovine Elsies are 3-4 Holstein and 1-4 Jersey, so you see they're practically blue bloods.

These cows are living in almost as much luxury as we are. (I'm not kidding.) Do you know that the barns are cleaned out twice a day and some people around here do not even get their rooms cleaned up once a month? And all the land is devoted to Elsie and Beulah. The rich green fields are used for pasture. Then the rest is sprinkled with little seeds and the results are oats, barley and corn, which are equivalent to the steaks and pork chops we eat. All the cows feel quite classy because they've been told that the milking shed and the cooling plant are the best in the county. To further add to the comfort of Elsie, the maintenance people are working on a plan to install a pasteurization system. Of course, nothing is definite, as things like that take time and money. So, we've asked Elsie to be patient and to keep up the good work.

We'll briefly turn the limelight on the pigs. No wonder the pigs are so porky. They eat the food from the dining hall that we don't devour. When hog killing time comes I'm afraid they won't be so snooty. Their eating days will be over and it will be our turn. Say, stop licking your chops. Speaking of cows and pigs, couldn't they get a good meal out of this corn?

Antiquated Antics

By BETTY HARTE

"Our pastor says that the lay members of his church are the old hens," one freshman reports.

These folk of 1936 seem to be quite cynically minded when it comes to marriage—the paper is peppered with such sardonic statements as: "Last words—Wifie, I'm thinking of adopting a baby girl! She'll be twenty-one next month" ..... Marriage is the banana skin on the door step of romance..... Man is a worm. He comes along wiggles about a little, and then some chicken gets him."

Why you'd actually think those folks prized celibacy! "The best excuse a man has for not getting married is that he was born that way." Probably they're all related to the guy mentioned in the same issue who wrote to Washington, D.C. for a patent on a wonderful idea for cutting the expense of honeymoons in half—by leaving the bride at home. People like that remind one of the fellow who had a bit part in a 1936 play. He had to say, "Hail, hail" when the heroine came in, but he got all balled up—he forgot which "hail" came first. (Has anyone noticed the rapid increase in the marriage rate in the past 10 years?)

Pul-lease—don't complain about the food! Our 1936 featurist tells us that in the first World War, Maryville had an influenza epidemic. The military, who were on the campus at our president's invitation, ordered that everyone on campus should get nothing but tea, toast, and milk for breakfast, lunch, and supper!

A majority of seventy voices approved the honor system. Three hundred students voiced no opinion at all. We have yet to get that lost vote—cheating on tests, notebooks and such isn't quite in line with the good ole Maryville spirit.

A. R. Gaul's "The Holy City" was sung by the choir in a special musical program. This oratorio was the chief constituent of the vesper services of Easter music immediately preceding the Spring holidays.

Maryville was well represented at the annual meeting of the Tennessee Philological association. Dr. Hunter's paper on one of the Shakespearean plays was well received and Miss Jackson's paper, "Some Remarks on Dictionary Making" was the most discussed paper at the meeting.

The College Glee Singers presented the comic operetta, "Captain Van der Hum," at Everett high school. It is a "piratical tale in two rope's length" by Rhys-Herbert. Why not an operetta for the entertainment of the college student body? Sure would like to see what such folks as Bishop, Wheeler, DuBois and Howell, Blair and Lewis can do in such a production.

GERMAN CLUB

The German Club held its regular meeting on Monday, March 11, in the German class room. Speeches were given to acquaint the members with German customs. John Briggs spoke on "Science in Germany." Marion Lewis spoke on "The Religion of Germany." Florence Housch spoke on "The Music of Germany," and Robert DuBois spoke on "Education of Germany."

Refreshments were served.

Celanese Rayon Representative Visits Campus

Miss Florence Sweitzer, a representative of the Celanese Corporation of America, one of the top manufacturers of acetate rayon in this country, visited the campus Wednesday afternoon, March 13, and gave a lecture to members of the home economics department.

Miss Sweitzer is a home economist, and has had much experience in the merchandising field as a merchandising specialist for Marshall Field in Chicago.

Included in her presentation of celanese rayon was a brief history of the acetate rayon industry, mentioning the two prominent Dreyfuss brothers, Doctors Henry and Camille Dreyfuss, Swiss scientists who started the industry in England at the request of the British government during the first World War.

The lacquer was first made for the purpose of coating airplane wings with a solution to protect them from fire hazards and dampness. Dr. Camille Dreyfuss was brought to the United States to establish a plant for war purposes. But soon the end of the war came, and there was no more work to be done on the planes. So the experts hit upon the idea of making this glue-like solution into a fiber for making fabrics. Thus the acetate rayon industry was born—an outgrowth of the world war.

This industry does not seek to replace the natural fibers such as cotton or wool, but rather presents something new and different to the consuming public.

Miss Sweitzer had many new samples of celanese to display. She gave to her audience some of the "behind the scenes" work which went into the designing of all the samples.

A very interesting feature was her interest in her field of work, and in helping anyone who shared her enthusiasm.

Present with Miss Sweitzer were Miss Lillian Keller and Miss Inez Lovelace, extension specialists at the University of Tennessee.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

Spring football is under way, and the material as nearly as we can tell at this early point, is "fair." But what has been seen on the field here this spring does not tell the true story about our football prospects for next fall.

War veterans are going to play a large and all-important part for sure in Maryville's first post-war grid combine. But most of those vets are not back in school as yet. A great many are not even out of service yet. Let's take a look at some of the men who are not in school now but who are due to be back at Maryville, and who will probably be cavorting on Wilson Field come next fall.

14 Lettermen Due Next Fall

Our information is, of course, not definite. We have no positive way of knowing just who Uncle Sam is going to fire and who he is going to keep for an unexpectedly long time. But there are about 14 or more ex-G.I., or G.I.. football lettermen who are fairly certain of being back by next fall; naturally that is barring another war or anything else equally unforeseen.

The tenative group includes 5 backfield men, 2 ends, 3 tackles and 4 guards. Besides being experienced players these men are now, almost without exception, bigger men than they were when they were in college before the war. If they are successful in getting into playing shape for football in a short time next fall after such a long absence from the sport, the Highlanders will be a formidable team. That group along with the bunch of 40 odd who are working out in spring training, including a couple of lettermen, should compromise not only an excellent team but also a big one both in numbers and weight.

Backs Due To Return

Among the backs due here next semester is Wayne Davis. He is a one letter man, having played wingback.

Ross Honaker is already out of the service and is to get in some practive this spring. He is going out for spring training as soon as he returns to Maryville from a trip to Chicago. Ross earned letters in '41 and '42.

Although at present he is still in the marines somewhere in the Pacific, Bob Morton, rugged little back, is planning on playing for the Scots next season. He has made two football M's.

Another wingback returning is speedy Charlie Pepper.

Artie Spears is already home in Maryville and has signified his intention of getting in some spring training here soon. Artie is Oliver's little brother, although he is now bigger than Oliver. He has put on so much weight—he tips the scales at about 190—that Coach Honaker says he may be a lineman next fall.

Two Ends Coming Back

One of the two ends lined up for next fall is Winton Enloe, who is also still in the Pacific right now. He's about 185 lbs.

Gordon Webb is already out of the service. He weighs approximately 180 and has played for the Scotties two years.

Three Hefty Tackles

Marvin Mitchell, better known as "Big Mitch," will really fill a lot of space at tackle. He always was big and has played three years with the Scots. He is reported to have reached the tremendous weight of 260, which will have to be reduced a whole lot before he gets into playing shape. He's supposed to be out before fall, but last we heard Mitch, he was with the U.S. Army in Germany.

Al Chambers who tips the scales around 240 will definitely be back, having already gotten his discharge. He has had two years of play with M.C.

Joe Guffon is the smallest of this trio, wheighing only a few pounds over 200. He's also a letterman.

Four Letterman Guards

Ken Andes is a one year man who carries around 200 lbs. He is already out of the service and ready to enter Maryville come fall, but he has a bad arm that may keep him out of action if it doesn't heal quickly.

Cotton Easter, 190, is definitely scheduled to re-enter Maryville next semester. He has two letters at the guard position.

Bob Herzberger is planning on more schooling at M.C. next fall. He is a one letter man.

And Mac Wilson is scheduled to be out of the marines back here with his weight, around 184 lbs. of it. He has one year of experience.

We think that prospects are shining brightly for Maryville football next fall.

Practice Begins For Tennis Team

Bob Hunter To Coach Netters

Under the direction of Bob Hunter, who is to serve as a playing coach this season, 13 aspiring and perspiring racqueteers have been taking daily workouts for the past week in preparation for the coming tennis season. Maryville is definitely to have a tennis team this spring, although a full schedule may not be played because many of the colleges in this vicinity have not resumed that sport since the war.

Since the college does not have a tennis coach, Bob Hunter, senior of Maryville, is serving as coach for that sport this season as well as going out for the team. He was on the team in 1943, the last tennis team at Maryville, and earned a letter in the sport.

Hunter is the only letterman trying out for the team this year. However, along with him, two likely looking prospects in the opening workouts this week have been Harold Kidder, who won the college intramural tennis tournament this past fall, and Abbott Kemp, who won the intramural championship the previous year.

Following is a complete list of those trying out for the team: Ed Anthony, Jay Bishop, Bill Dinges, Bob Hunter, Harold Hunter, Abbott Kemp, Harold Kidder, Justice Miracle, Dale Motsinger, John Runion, Pete Van Blarcom, Tom Wheeler, and Fred Wilson.

Practices have consisted mostly of indoor workouts so far. However with favorable weather and additional work on the courts, the players are expected to round into a good team. According to Coach Hunter the candidates will soon play a tournament among themselves to determine their rating on the team.

No matches have been definitely scheduled as yet, but there have been negotiations with some schools concerning possible matches and the season should open sometime around the first of April.

Ed Voorhees of the winning team was high pin man of the evening. He rolled a series of 154 and 184 which took top honors for high series and high single game. Bishop of Alpha Sigma and Lenoir of Athenian tied for second high honors, both having a 128 game average.

Participants from both sides reported enjoying the match to the fullest degree, and a growing interest in bowling was expressed.

Scots Face Tough 1946 Schedule

With Spring football has come the announcement of the 1946 football schedule. Coach Honaker has an ambitious array of opponents lined up for next fall for the Highlanders' first post-war grid outfit. At present the card calls for 8 games with at least one and possibly two more to be added.

Highlights of the season are to be contests with the Praying Colonels of Centre College of Kentucky and with the University of the South (Sewanee). Both of these schools have been widely-known football powers in past years, and they should continue to produce strong teams despite the fact that now they are resuming football on a "no-subsidation" basis. That is the policy that Maryville follows.

At present the schedule for next fall lists four home games and four games away from home. Attempts are being made to get one more home game.

Following is the schedule as it now stands:

Sept. 21—Hiwassee—here.
Sept. 28—Tenn. Wes.—here.
Oct. 5—pending.
Oct. 12—Centre—here.
Oct. 19—E. Tenn. State—there.
Oct. 26—Emory-Henry—Bristol.
Nov. 2—Middle Tenn. State—here.
Nov. 9—Sewanee—there.
Nov. 23—open.

Howies Win Consolation Game In Point System

In the last girls' basketball game for this season, the Howies triumphed over the Chillies by a score of 31 to 20. This game which was played March 12, was the consolation game which took the place of the remaining two games of the tournament. In a fast game full of splendid team work on the part of the winners, the Howies won their only victory of the season. The Chillies are still the tournament winners, however.

Chillies	Pos.	Howies

Blizzard 4	F	Alverson 2
Rock 2	F	Lindsey 14

FOUL-SHOOTING CONTEST

After the championship basketball game between the Junior Celtics and the Sharpshooters, a foul-shooting contest will be staged, according to intramural manager, Max House. Participation in this contest will be limited to those players who have taken part in intramural basketball this season. Each shooter will be given a total of 25 shots none of which will be consecutive. Intramural points will be awarded the winners.

44 Turn Out For Spring Training

Each afternoon for the past week there have been workouts on the athletic field for spring football training. Under the direction of Coaches Honaker and Davis a total of 44 fellows are out for football. Work thus far has dealt almost entirely with conditioning and fundamentals, including charging, blocking, and tackling, with much emphasis on dummy work.

So far there have been no scrimmages and until there is some scrimmaging it is difficult to name players who appear to be outstanding prospects.

Of the total of 44 aspirants 30 are now enrolled in college, and the other 14 are planning on entering Maryville next fall by virtue of graduating from local high schools this spring or having gotten out of military service recently.

The following is a list of the men out for football: Those now in college—Don Barbour, John Briggs, Mat Cardella, Nick Carter, Lloyd Chandler, Bill Cover, Bill Dinges, Hubby Doyle, Merrill Grubbs, Bob Hill, Harvey Hollingsworth, Frank Kramer, Will Lenoir, John Mathias, Bill McGill, Mike Miracle, Carl Murray, James Newman, Harvey Overton, Willis Pribble, Mac Purifoy, Bob Robinson, John Rogerville, Ray Swartzback, Wilbern Seymour, Bert Slater, Roy Smith, Bob Thompson, Richard Tolerico, and Ed Voorhees; those not enrolled in college at present—Billy Archer, Marvin Boring, Rupert Boyatt, Jack Campbell, Pi Garner, Dick Hamilton, P. Librarians Offer Careers to Grads

Mr. William H. Jesse, librarian at the University of Tennessee, and Mrs. Robert Mitchell of the Lawson McGhee Public library staff conducted a seminar on Wednesday morning, March 13 in the YW rooms for students interested in librarianship as a career. Discussion was centered on the rising demand for library workers, with and without a degree in library science, the comparative salaries received, and the various types of libraries needing staff additions. Mr. Jesse expressed the opinion that no graduate of the current year would be without a position next fall if he desired one.

The guests were served refreshments following the meeting at which Miss Ruth Grierson presided. Miss Grierson is chairman of the college committee of the East Tennessee Library Association which is connected with the national group, The American Library Association. This committee is working in conjunction with the national program of the A.L.A. to present librarianship as a career in the schools and colleges of the United States.

Grubbs, Houdeshel Take Lenoir, Hunter For Ping Pong Championship

By ABBOTT KEMP

Merrill Grubbs and Bill Houdeshel copped the doubles ping pong crown yesterday afternoon, March 15, by defeating Harold Hunter and "Wegie" Lenoir in three out of four extremely fast games. The scores were 21-12, 17-21, 22-20 and 21-19.

In the first game Grubbs and Houdeshel had an easy time in winning 21 to 12. It looked as if they would have little trouble in taking the match. But in the next game Hunter and Lenoir showed plenty of spark by coming back to win 21 to 17. The third game of their match was probably the most exciting of the entire tournament. The score reached 20 to 16 with Hunter and Lenoir leading. At this point Bill and Merrill settled down and took the next 6 points and thereby emerged victorious 22 to 20. It was truly a fine exhibition of cool and calm playing when the chips were down. The final game was far from a pushover for the victors. They held a slight lead until "Wegie" and Harold knotted the score at 14-all. From this point the score see-sawed back and forth until each team had 19 points apiece. At this point Grubbs and Houdeshel took the next point to hold a 20-19 advantage. Grubbs was serving to Hunter at this point. He served a scorcher, and Hunter likewise returned a hot one to Houdeshel. Houdeshel barely managed to reach it and get it back over the net. Lenoir slapped a hard one back to Grubbs who tapped it back just over the net. The ball hit the top of the net and fell over. Hunter made a lunge for the ball and fairly pushed the ball back over to Houdeshel who had to make an excellent play to return the shot. Lenoir then dropped one over the net which bounced just a bit too high for safety. Grubbs pounced upon it and slammed it past Hunter to establish himself and his roommate, Houdeshel, as the doubles ping pong champs at M.C.

In the semi-finals the winner had a difficult time in overcoming the team of Parkinson and Kemp. After dropping the first game in their three-out-of-fice match by the score of 21 to 15 they came back to take the next two games 21-18 and 21-16. In the fourth game, however, Kemp and Parkinson completely outclassed them to win by the overwhelming margin of 21 to 10. In the deciding game however Grubbs and Houdeshel played steady ping pong to win 21 to 18. They had previously beaten Kribbs and Smith. Kemp and Parkinson had eliminated Anderson and Hundeman by scores of 21-19 and 21-15.

Finalists Lenoir and Hunter had beaten Swartzback and Bob Hunter in their semi-finals by the close scores of 21-17, 21-19 and 21-17. Previous to that match they beat Black and Vogel 21-17 and 21-18, and Ray and Bob had beaten Wilson and Wheeler 21-15 and 21-19 to gain their places in the semi-finals. Black and Vogel had eliminated Overton and Voorhees 21-16, 16-21 and 21-19.

INTRAMURALS CONTINUE

With basketball season and the doubles ping pong tourney now practically over, it has been announced that the future intramural program will include volley ball, a singles horseshoes and a doubles tennis tournament, and probably a few softball games.

SHARPSHOOTERS OVERCOME JUNIOR CELTICS 34-27

Last Saturday afternoon, March 9, the Sharpshooters pulled into a tie for first place with the Junior Celtics by defeating them 34 to 27. It was a closely fought contest in which most of the scoring was done in the second half. The score at the half-way mark to 10 to 8 in favor of the Sharpshooters, Bill Grosh was the big gun of the Sharpshooters' attack, racking up 14 points. Mathias was high scorer for the Junior Celtics with 13 markers.

Sharps (34)	pos.	Jr. Celtics (27)
Van Blarcom 6	F	Mathias 13
Grubbs 7	F	Chandler 2
Grosh 14	C	Robinson
K. Kribbs	G	Scapellati 6
Hundeman 4	G	Wilson 4

Substitutions: Sharpshooters—Pribble 2, B. Hunter 1; Junior Celtics—Miller 2.

Other behind-the-stage workers include Marian Scott and Tucky Thomas, in charge of properties; Ronald Reagan and Melba Holder, business managers; Leonard Schieber, electrician.

Edith Earle, assisting Mrs. West in directing "Angel Street", pointed out the difficulty of producing this type of play with its intense dramatic scenes. "There is not a moment free of suspense and not one lull in the acting," she commented.

us, because of war prosperity, are able to afford hoods; but will future students think it worth the added expense?

Bill Robarts

There is no doubt that they would look nice. I think they're too expense. $1.50 is a lot to pay for extra weight on a hot day.

Ruth Broadhead

The wearing of hoods by the graduates at commencement would add color and an extra touch to the occasion. To me it seems like a very good idea.

John Shell

I think it's an excellent idea. After all, a college graduation will probably happen only once to most of us, so why not make it as impressive as possible. Besides, a little added color would create a more cheerful atmosphere, and place more dignity on the whole service in general. Then, too, most seniors won't ever get the chance to graduate with a Master's Degree, so why not give them the opportunity to wear this distinctive hood now?

Critic Sees "Angel Street" Well Done

by Helen Marie Wilson

Approximately 725 persons attended the Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma production of Angel Street in Voorhees Chapel on the evening of March 16th.

This three-act psychological drama provided spectators with two hours of suspense, emotion and even moments of horror.

Performances showing praiseworthy attention to detail of action and character analysis were given by Jay Bishop and Jean Balch, in the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Manningham. Miss Balch presented a convincing picture of a wife tortured by her husband into a state bordering on insanity. Facial expressions and a well-modulated voice portrayal of emotion were the outstanding factors of Miss Balch's interpretation of the difficult role.

Bishop's voice accompanied by gestures was noteworthy in his performance. It revealed the melevolence of the character he was expressing.

An excellent supporting part was played by Bob Thompson as Sergeant Rough, the police detective. The contrast of his kind treatment of the unhappy Mrs. Manningham with that of her villian-husband was well shown. It might be said, however, that Thompson's enunciation was not distinct to the entire audience. Thompson shows promise of becoming one of the stand-bys of the Maryville stage.

Elsie Jean Cotton portrayed a true English family servant, acquainted with the troubles and griefs intimate to her mistress. Her precise English accent was well done.

Pert and saucy are the adjectives to describe Charlotte Proffitt's role as a maid flirting with her master. It was seldom that Miss Proffitt did not remember to use the Cockney speech she adopted for the play.

Lighting effects were excellent. The "gas" lights were singularly convincing. The stage set pictured an 1880 drawing room. Those directing stage crew, properties, make-up and costumes may well feel rewarded for their exhausting efforts. Angel Street was received by an appreciative audience which included Malcolm Miller, dramatic critic for the Knoxville Journal.

In accordance with the custom of having the junior members of the staff edit an issue of the ECHO each spring in preparation for the ECHO elections, Tommy Parkinson is editor of the paper today.

Mary Elizabeth Hunt will edit the next issue of the HIGHLAND ECHO two weeks from today, April 13.

Marvin Minear To Return to Campus After Discharge

Following his discharge on April 4, Mr. Marvin D. Minear is expected to resume his services as Assistant in the Treasurer's office here at Maryville college. Mr. Minear received his B.A. degree from Maryville college in 1939. Before entering college he had considerable business experience, including service in a bank, and throughout his student days he was a student assistant in the college treasurer's office. Mr. Minear served in the business offices of the Chicago YMCA, but returned in 1942 as Assistant in the Treasurer's office. He entered the navy in June 1944 where he was assigned to office duty.

His wife (Catherine Pond '39) and son and Mr. Minear's mother have continued to live in Maryville during most of the time he was away and his sister is now a senior in Maryville college.

Room 902

Maryville, Tenn.
April 1, 1946

Dear Squeaky,

We sure miss you at dear ole' Maryville. The place has really changed. Remember those happy days when there were so many girls on campus? Now there are 10 boys to every girl, but we must buoy up our spirits, old bean!

Breakfast was early this morning, as we ate at 8:30. We had bacon, eggs, waffles, and toast with butter and jam, as usual.

Dr. Lloyd gave a long talk in chapel this morning—about one minute—urging us to attend the formal dance tonight which will be held in the big gym. I don't know whether our orchestra or one from Knoxville will play. The student body doesn't seem to enjoy dancing; they seem to prefer to study. Miss Heron was aggravated about the whole thing.

Some excitement was created by Janet Miller this morning. There was a mouse in her room and well, you know how timid Janet is! She screamed and Sir Galahad on his white charger in the person of Art Haaf rescued fair Janet from a fate worse than death.

There were no classes today. All German students attended Mr. Wilhelm's class anyway. They're so conscientious!

Went to town this afternoon and all I saw was nylons, Kleenex, '46 cars, refrigerators, and so on.

Tom Wheeler looks as if he lost 20 pounds. He hardly eats a thing!

Heard Cas Walker's speech today. He tossed bouquets to Mr. Morton and the News-Sentinel throughout the entire speech. He's the most popular man in the South—sort of a small town Huey Long.

M.C. Hears Donald Grant Lecture On World Situation

Donald Grant, famous British traveler and lecturer on international affairs, was college guest speaker last Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday through the auspices of the Institute of International Education.

Mr. Grant, who graduated from the University of Edinburgh and did relief work after the first World War in European and Asiatic countries, came to Maryville College for the nine-lecture series with a store of authentic information and plausible theories on the motivations and results of international current events.

British and United States lecturer in colleges and high schools for the past 12 years, Mr. Grant has during that period made five trips to the United States, doing extensive lecturing in all sections of the country.

Arriving in New York last December aboard the Queen Elizabeth, the lecturer had, prior to his visit on the campus this week, traveled in the north and west on speaking tour.

An enthusiast of golf, our "golden west" and world events, Mr. Grant has also four other chief interests: his wife, living in London; a daughter, 23, now taking her medical finals in London University; a son, 21, who is an RAF pilot in Malaya; Donald, Jr., 18, a medical student at Cambridge University.

The British lecturer, choosing widely-varied topics of current interest, spoke three times each day during his visit on the campus. His morning lectures were at the regular chapel time. Afternoon and evening lectures were held in Bartlett auditorium under the sponsorship of I.R.C.

Four Turning Points First

At his initial address Wednesday morning, Mr. Grant spoke on the four turning points of the second World War. The first turning point, the Battle of Britain in the summer and fall of 1940, was such, said the speaker, mainly because if Britain had not endured that crisis all else for the Allies would have been relinquished.

Turning point number two came with the German change of strategy and consequential attack on Soviet Russia in June, 1941, bringing another great power into the struggle.

The third turning point, according to the speaker, occurred with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, an act which brought the whole world into fighting action.

The final turning point came with the synchronized Allied victories at strategic world points of conflict, such as New Guinea, El Alemein, Stalingrad, which were chief contributing factors leading to the V-E Day conclusion.

Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Grant led a discussion of the factors giving rise to Nazism; of France's failure as an organized government, its future national and international policies, and its promise as a future great power; of the Spanish and Italian political setups giving rise to overpowering Fascist elements.

Changes in British Gov't.

In his first evening lecture in the series, Mr. Grant traced the gradual steps leading to the political shift last summer from the Conservative to the Labor party in Britain. Ousting the Conservative group after their holding almost complete governmental control since 1918, Attlee's socialist party proved the definite British swing to the "left" as a result of

YMCA To Hear Curtis Hughes Speak Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 Mr. Curtis Hughes will speak at the YMCA meeting in the Bartlett auditorium. His subject is to be "Church Music."

Last week Mr. C. B. Fisher spoke to the group using as his topic, "A Guide for Days Ahead."

Debate Slated For Chapel Wednesday

A 50-minute intramural practice debate on the official 1945-46 college question will be held in chapel Wednesday morning, April 3, Dr. David Briggs, debate coach, has announced.

The question, "Resolved: that the policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world," will be confirmed by June Garland and Judy Turk, affirmative speakers, and denounced by negative debaters, Audria Stringer and Miriam Wickham.

Each of the four constructive speeches will last eight minutes. The two rebuttals, handled by Misses Turk and Wickham, will be five minutes each.

These four debaters have had extensive competitive training through practice debates and wide-range tournaments, Dr. Briggs stated. This chapel debate is included in their preparation schedule for the Pi Kappa Delta tournament to be held in Georgetown, Kentucky, April 18-19.

The main affirmative points in the advocation of the United States free trade policy are as follows:

1. The policy is sound in theory, for it is
   a. the next logical step in trade expansion,
   b. logical basis for removing one of major causes of war,
   c. a working basis for economic and political stability.
2. The policy is practicable, for
   a. the trend is toward world cooperation,
   b. it offers relief for the demands of the nations of the world for markets and raw materials,
   c. it has worked to the degree that it has shown its benefits.

The negative side of the question involves the following chief issues:

1. Free trade will not fit the needs of the world, for
   a. countries need protection,
   b. free trade lowers the standard of living,
   c. it makes for free migration of labor,
   d. it will cause mass unemployment.
2. Free trade is impracticable, because of the
   a. lack of economic equality,
   b. lack of unity of opinion in United States and other countries.

At the close of the debate Wednesday morning, the audience will have a chance to designate their positive and negative stand on this question as altered or strengthened by the persuasive factors of the debate.

Echo Staff Visits Knox Newspaper

Members of the editorial and business staffs of the Highland Echo held their annual banquet in Knoxville on Saturday, March 23.

Before dinner, the group visited the offices and building of the Knoxville News-Sentinel, which is one of the 19 Scripps-Howard papers in the United States. Here they were shown the process of publishing a daily paper, from editorial room to circulation department. In the editorial rooms, they watched the news being collected and prepared for publication. After the news has been collected, it must be written into a story, proofread, headed, and checked.

In the composing room, the group was shown the linotype and stereotype machines, which set the stories up on plates ready to be sent to the press room. Following these plates to the pressroom, the group watched them being locked to the presses. White paper is threaded through the press, and at the other end, a stream of papers rolls out.

This group picked up several odd and interesting facts, among them that approximately 600 papers come off one press per minute, that a large metropolitan daily uses nearly 200 rolls of newsprint daily. Each roll contains about six miles of paper and weighs 1500 pounds. This same news paper uses about 375 gallons of ink each day.

Approximately 20 people attended the banquet held at the S & W cafeteria after this tour. Junaita Hinson, as editor of the Echo, gave a short speech, followed by Dr. F. A. Griffitts, who is faculty advisor for the Echo.

New members of the staff, Don Kent, Ilda Mosby, Betty Harte, Mary Keeley, Dorothy Vawter, Kitty Johnson and Abbott Kemp, were required to give a thirty second biographical sketch and a two minute talk on an assigned subject.

Short Stories, Poems Presented at Workshop

Two short stories and two poems have been read before Writers' Workshop in the past two weeks.

Miss Wright read a poem, "Ghost of the Deep Draw", (four variations on a theme) and Robert Whitford read a poem in five parts, "Les Abattus Contraires". Critics were Nellie Cuellas and Miss Wright.

Vera Ross read a short story, "The Basketball Game", and Betty Wells read an untitled whimsical short story whose scene was laid in a journalistic heaven and whose characters were somewhat Runyonesque angels. Juanita Hinson and Ann Anderson were critics.

YW National Student Secretary Discusses "Y" Work On Visit Here

Miss Rosalie Oakes, National Student Secretary of YWCA was a visitor on the campus Monday and Tuesday, March 26 and 26. On Tuesday she held conferences during the morning; and in the afternoon from two until five she led discussion groups interested in Y work as a career.

Miss Oakes was born in Winchester, Virginia, and attended West Hampton College for Women of the University of Virginia. She did graduate work at the Crozer Theological Seminary and finished in 1942. She has been the National Student Secretary since that time. From 1942 to 1944 she was also at the University of Kentucky as resident Y secretary. Last year she traveled for the USO Campus Services division of YWCA.

Miss Oakes' office is in Richmond where she works through the Regional Office of Student Division of Y. Her job is a supervisory one and she works with 170 associations in a region. A region consists of the ten southeastern states. Her colleague, Miss Irene Harris, negro staff member, works with her to run a series of area meetings in different states and publish the regional news letters. They also make as many campus visits as possible and sponsor regional summer conferences.

Miss Oakes said that the conference this summer would be at Camp Highland Lake, Hendersonville, North Carolina, from June 2 to 8. This is the main training program in the regions for the summer for both YM and YW leaders. "World Relatedness" will be emphasized this year. The speaker on Christian faith will be Mr. Scotty Cowan of the Community Church of Norris, Tennessee. The usual program of music, forums, etc., will also be held. There is no limit to the number of Y members attending the conference.

While talking, Miss Oakes brought up the topic of the project sponsored by the National YM and YW which is the Students-In-Industry project. Students secure regular jobs, work regular hours for pay, live cooperatively, and meet two or three times a week with community leaders. A trained director is in charge of the group.

Projects are open to men and women of all racial backgrounds, upon application. These projects are situated in Chicago, Minneapolis, Hartford, and Pittsburgh.

YM Needs A Change

Numerous times in the past this college has been criticized for having "too much Sunday" on the Sabbath. Certainly most persons do have a point of "religious saturation"; that is, after a certain number of services have been attended in a day, going to any more tends to deprive all the services of their full value.

The service that regularly suffers the most from that situation is the weekly Sunday afternoon worship service of the YMCA. When there are four other services in a day, Sunday School, Church, Vespers, and Student Vols, most men seem to think the YM meeting in the afternoon is superfluous. That is proven by the fact that the men of the college stay away from the meetings in large numbers. And quite a few who do attend, do so with the motive of supporting the meeting rather than for the good they might get out of it—therefore defeating the purpose of the meeting although they do attend. There were 16 present last Sunday and no one said anything about it being a smaller crowd than usual—it was actually more than there have been there on other occasions.

Perhaps the situation will improve some when there are so many more men on campus, as we expect soon. But the larger the group, the smaller the percentage going to any given religious service is going to be—especially "Y". There are twice as many men now as there were on campus last semester, and the attendance at "Y" has not increased at all.

What, then, shall we do about it? Indeed it is necessary to do something. We advocate one of two possible courses. One is to abandon the plan of the weekly meetings of YM—say have one a month—that would help the "too much Sunday on Sunday" problem and should also increase the attendance considerably. Many more persons would go regularly to a good meeting if it were only once a month. And certainly the YM organization has enough other functions and activities that it will not weaken the Association by eliminating some of the worship services.

Another plan would be to have the meetings some other time—if they are to continue as weekly—say a week-day night. It has been suggested that YM and YW hold a big and well-prepared joint service each Friday night at the usual prayer meeting time. That has been tried other places and it does seem to work.

We're not saying that all these problems that YM faces are also problems of YW. They tell us that the attendance there is good. Maybe woman's innate capacity for religious services is greater, maybe it is because their programs are better, maybe it is because there are many more girls on campus than men. Probably all these are factors. But still we believe that YW, too, could benefit from having their regular worship service on some other day along with YM.

Something has to be done about YM however. If the present plan is because of tradition—even well established tradition—we say it is high time to break that tradition!

Grant Was Good—

Maryville College has been privileged these past three days to be host to Mr. Donald Grant. "Privileged" is without doubt the correct word to use. There just are not many men with knowledge comparable to his who can and will present so many facts so clearly and almost completely free from hidden prejudices to a college audience.

All of us benefitted from hearing Mr. Grant. He certainly did have an unusually wide range of facts on international affairs. In these days it is wise and expedient to learn all one can about world affairs.

We believe that much credit should go to those students who availed themselves of this opportunity to hear a lot of what is, and has been going on in the world. Students who take such an interest are definitely the kind who make good citizens; they are the kind that make democracy a successful thing. The people who "endured" the lectures they were required to attend, and who did not attend any of the ones not required are not the kind, it seems to us, who show much promise of good citizenship.

A most peculiar thing happened yesterday morning. He was yelling to Vinton in 322 Baldwin, insisting that she "tell her" that he was ready. Vinton gave him the "vamoose" sign, and, still wondering at the incident we prepared to go to breakfast. There we questioned Dockendorf, Secrest, Slater, and Stewart about the character, and Stewart revealed some strong suspicions, which were verified with the sudden entrance of the said individual. He was carelessly swinging a fish from a string and he triumphantly handed it to Short, a waitress, who backed halfway across the hall. We curiously followed him from the hall, discovering that he went straight to Carnegie and rang for Mavis Sykes, but another girl collared him, and the last we saw of them, Barbara and Seymour were strolling across the campus, Seymour slightly handcuffed. AND—if you believe this story, among other distorted incidents related in this column, indeed you are an APRIL FOOL!!!

"Collegiate Flashes of October 1935:

"Berlin—The Koesener Student Corps, the foremost and one of the oldest 'fraternities' in Germany has decided to dissolve rather than submit to the new ruling which calls for the ousting of all active members not of pure Aryan stock and alumni with one Jewish parent or grandparent.

"This demand is a prerequisite of the Student Corps' membership in the Nazi Students' Union which is designed to include all German students. Only members of this organization are eligible for teaching or government posts after graduation."

A feature writer in a later issue of that month interviewed Professor Collins who had visited the University of Munich. Notable points presented were: every institution of higher learning is a state owned school; no summer vacation—first semester from November to March, second semester from May to August (ONLY five months vacant); when a popular teacher enters the classroom there is a terrific stamping of feet for everyone who loves his teacher stamps his feet loud and long; no scheduled tests, written lessons or pop quizzes; when students think they have gone to school long enough they take a comprehensive examination and get a degree; no roll is taken in class—no such thing as overcutting. "Yes," continues our featurist, "but there is one factor that has not been reckoned. Every class, every direction, in fact every spoken word is spoken in German." Only one objection?

"There were a great many boys in the building up to the last minute. Will you please notice whether there is any one missing at your table." That was the sober announcement in the dining hall at noon on April 12, 1916, Carnegie Hall had been completely destroyed that morning after only six years of service.

Theta Alpha Phi Society Revived

Mrs. Nita Eckles West held a banquet at her home Thursday night, March 28, for the new members of Theta Alpha Phi, the college dramatic fraternity. Lloyd Shue, president of the society, was very active in starting it up again, since for the past few years, it has been a dormant society. The new members included Jean Balch, Rebecca Davis, Virginia Miller, Ann Thornton, William Cover, Max House, and Leonard Schieber. Each one of the neophytes represented some species of the worm phylum as part of their initiation and they had to give parts of plays, and when spoken to, they had to quote Shakespeare to President Shue.

SCOT SPORTS

BY TOMMY PARKINSON

(Due to the fact that Tommy Parkinson is editing the paper this issue, the Scot Sports column today is written by ABBOT KEMP.)

Tennis Team Completes Tourney

Tennis activity during the past week among the thirteen aspirants to the Scottie tennis squad was confined mostly to the singles tournament set up by Coach Bob Hunter.

In the upper bracket H. Hunter took his match from Anthony in two out of three sets by the scores of 6-4, 3-6 and 6-2. Both players were slowed down somewhat by the dampness of the court and the consequent lack of bounce given to the ball.

Dinges overcame Motsinger in straight sets by the identical scores of 6-3, 6-3. Dinges concentrated on just getting the ball back and therefore counted on his opponent's mistakes to win for him.

Mike Miracle gave Tom Wheeler somewhat of a scare in their first set although he finally lost it by a 7-5 count. Miracle's hard serves and long drives were the main factors which kept him in the game during the first set. But in the second set Wheeler settled down and won easily 6-2, to take the match.

In the lower bracket Van Blarcom bested Bishop in two sets 6-2 and 7-5 in a match which saw both contestants playing very cautiously. Van Blarcom's steadiness and Bishop's reluctance to usé his backhand were pointed out as the outstanding factors which led to Van Blarcom's victory.

In the other first-round match in the lower bracket Wilson won from Runion by the scores of 6-2 and 7-5. He took the first set easily 6-2, and then stymied the valiant efforts of Runion to take the second set 7-5.

In the second round Kidder, who drew a first-round bye, played H. Hunter, Dinges met Wheeler, B. Hunter engaged Van Blarcom and Wilson was to play Kemp. But at this time Wilson was called home by the death of his father, and after the other second-round matches had been played it was decided not to hold up the tournament; therefore, Kemp was automatically advanced to the semi-finals. This decision, however, in no way reduced Wilson's chances for making the tennis squad.

Kidder, H. Hunter Stage Thriller——

The match between H. Hunter and Kidder was probably the most exciting and definitely the longest of any in the tournament, and the outcome was regarded as a major upset. H. Hunter emerged the victor in two out of three hard-fought sets by scores of 3-6, 9-7 and 12-10. Hunter took the match quite seriously as indicated by the fact that he got eleven hours of sleep on the eve of the event. To say a little about the match—Kidder won the first set without too much trouble, 6-3. He was playing a good net game and Hunter was having difficulty getting the ball back past him. But in the second set Hunter was having more success with his lobbing game. With Kidder at the net he was lifting the ball high above his head and it was dropping in the back court. Many times Kidder managed to get back and return those lobs, but there were other times when he didn't. The third set was played much as the second with Kidder running from the net to the back court many times to retrieve Hunter's lobs. At one time in that third set Kidder had Hunter at match point with the score standing at forty-love, but Hunter steadied to take the next five points to tie up the set and go on to win the set and therefore the match.

Also in the second round Wheeler and Dinges had a close match which Wheeler took in consecutive sets 7-5 and 9-7. The difficulty in this match lay in the fact that both players use strictly defensive tactics in their games. Wheeler proved to be the better man and thus advanced to the semi-finals.

Bob Hunter was too much for Pete Van Blarcom in their second-round match, winning decidedly 6-2, 6-1. His low-flying, low-bouncing, cutting shots which were dropping usually very near the sidelines and his effective net action were the highlights of his play.

Wheeler Stops H. Hunter In Close One—

In one of the semi-final matches Wheeler beat H. Hunter in two out of three sets by scores of 5-7, 6-3 and 7-5. H. Hunter won the first set by virtue of his hard serves and many drives to Wheeler's backhand in deep back court. But in the second set Wheeler was warmed up to win without too much difficulty. In the third and deciding set both boys settled down to cautious and determined play. Wheeler outlasted Hunter in that set to the tune of 7-5.

In the other semi-final match B. Hunter again was too much for his opponent in beating Kemp in straight sets 6-4 and 6-2. In the first set Hunter's net game was a little off which was the big factor in Kemp's getting 4 games. In the second set however, Hunter's net game and his low-bouncing drives were more than Kemp was able to cope with.

Bob Hunter Wins Finals—

Bob Hunter was the victor over Tom Wheeler in the finals in two out of three games 7-5, 4-6 and 6-3. Hunter was highly favored and Wheeler surprised most everyone by taking the second set.

Basketball Lettermen Named

Spring Football Produces Results

Progress Pleases Coach Honaker

Rounding out three weeks of intensive spring training, the squad of around 50 gridiron aspirants is a very much improved bunch of football players. Since March 11 daily drills have been in order under the watchful eyes of Head Coach Honaker and Coach Davis, who spends most of his time with the linemen.

Coach Honaker reported that he was encouraged with the progress and improvement shown in spring training. He stated that the men who are out have learned a whole lot of football and that there are more and better prospects taking part in spring training than it looked like there were going to be at the beginning of spring football.

Most of the time so far has been devoted to the fundamentals of football, such as blocking and tackling, and learning plays. There have been two intra-squad scrimmage games thus far. All yesterday afternoon was devoted to scrimmaging and likewise the previous Friday afternoon. In both scrimmages a lot of good football was shown as well as the sloppy play that is expected that early in the season.

The following are some of the players who have shone well in practice and are definite prospects for next fall. Pie Garner is definitely one of the best, if not the best, prospects on the field these afternoons. He is being changed to the end position where he handles his 205 pounds admirably. Pie was a center before the war when he was enrolled at Milligan college. His home is in Maryville. Jack Campbell, another end prospect. Frank Kramer is classy at the guard position. Butterball Young is also good looking at that slot, as well as Cover and Swartzback. Good looking tackles are John Rogerville, Don Walker and Dean Stone, the latter two inexperienced but powerful. Roy Smith at 220 also promises to develop into a valuable lineman. The center prospects are Earl Valentine, Harvey Overton, Bill Dinges, and Don Barbour.

But most of the good looking prospects seen in spring football are backfield men. Some of these look extremely promising. Included in that group are Artie Spears, Harvey Hollingsworth, Doby Nelson, Carl Murray, R. O. Smith, Bert Slater and Merrill Grubbs.

This is not by any means an exhaustive list of the good prospects; it merely points out some of them.

Coach Honaker stated that football would run at least one more week.

SOFTBALL SLATED FOR POINT SYSTEM

Three softball games are scheduled for the Chillies and the Howies on April 16, 19 and 23. Practice for these games is now underway and will end April 4. Then on April 9 and 11 there will be a test and team practice. The teams have not been picked as yet but it is probable this will be done on April 2.

Twenty Awarded Swim Certificates

Pre-Instructor's Class Now Offered

Under the instruction of June Townsend the Red Cross senior life saving class terminated last week and certificates were awarded to 20 members of the class. Those that passed are Margaret Ledbetter, Ed Anthony, Katherine Stidham, Lois Thomas, Madelyn Willis, Janice Lindsay, Bette Alverson, Sarah Enloe, Mary Estes, Charlotte Harris, Joanne Hart, Eleanor Hawley, Max House, Justice Miracle, Joan Liddel, Ed Miller, Dick Lane, Don Spears, Wilbern Seymour and Melvin Malone.

Audre Monteith and Marion Henderson are teaching a course in advanced swimming. The class began on March 25, and will run for two and one half weeks. It is the same as a 15 hour preliminary instructor course. The instructions are on the seven basic strokes and their variations.

James Newman is currently teaching a beginners' class in swimming which will probably run indefinitely.

On April 27, a representative from Nashville will visit here. On alternate nights he will give the instructors' course in swimming and instructors' course in First Aid. The classes will be three hours a night and will last until 15 hour courses in First Aid are standard and advanced first aid.

Baseball Begins

Work on the baseball field has begun in preparation for the baseball season. But as far as real baseball practice goes, there hasn't been much on the campus thus far.

At the meeting of all potential baseball players 10 days ago Coach Honaker announced that baseball would begin at that time on a limited basis, not really getting underway until after the football spring training has been completed. Since that time there has been a small group of diamond aspirants who are not out for football, taking daily workouts. Most of the work has been inside and consisted of throwing and fielding.

Eight Players To Receive Awards

Coach L. S. Honaker recently announced to the Highland Echo the names of the eight lettermen of the recently completed 1946 basketball season. The group of 2 seniors, 1 junior, 1 sophomore, and 4 freshmen includes the following players: Spencer Renfro, Oliver Spears, Abbott Kemp, Max House, Harvey Hollingsworth, Bill Largen, Will Lenoir, and Justice Miracle.

This list of lettermen was made official at the meeting of the Faculty Committee on Athletics on Wednesday morning, March 27. This is the first time varsity letters have been awarded to men at Maryville college since 1942. This first post-war basketball squad had a somewhat limited schedule, including only 12 games, of which 6 were victories. The number of lettermen is slightly shorter than in previous years, with no manager being awarded a letter.

This is the first basketball "M" for every player on the list. Five of the eight are war vets. And only two of the lettermen were enrolled in Maryville before Christmas.

Spencer Renfro, resident of Maryville, was the high scorer for the season, doing most of his play from the center position. He is a veteran of the navy, having been stationed in Bainbridge, Maryland, most of his stay in the service. Spence graduates before another basketball season rolls around.

Oliver Spears, the other senior letterman, is an ex-Army Air Forces officer, having seen action over Europe. His home is in Maryville. Oliver played first string guard for the Scotties.

Abbott Kemp, junior from Acworth, Georgia, who also served with the Army Air Forces, was a second string guard, seeing action in every game.

Max House, lone sophomore, hails from Cato, New York. House is a pre-ministerial student, majoring in English. He saw action at the forward and center positions.

Harvey Hollingsworth, another AAF veteran, is classified as a second semester freshman. Hollingsworth, who calls Alcoa home, was the other first string guard along with Spears.

Bill Largen, of Greenback, Tennessee, is an ex-naval officer. He was a flyer in the naval air corps, attaining the rank of lieutenant, j.g. He did his basketball playing this past season at the forward position.

Will Lenoir is a 17-year-old freshman from Norris, Tenn. He played forward, too.

Mike Miracle is also 17, in the freshman class and from Norris, Tennessee. He was a first team forward throughout the season. Mike is not technically a veteran although he has served time in the A.S.T.P.R.

According to Coach Honaker it is very indefinite when the lettermen will receive their award sweaters because of the scarcity of materials of the various sporting goods companies who handle sweaters of that type.

SHARPSHOOTERS TRIUMPH IN CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

On Saturday afternoon, March 16, the Sharpshooters became the intramural basketball champs by winning over the Junior Celtics in an exciting game 26 to 22. The two teams have ended the regular season with 5 wins and 2 losses each and for that reason the play-off game was staged. The game was close throughout, and the crowd was on its feet for most of the tussle. Bill Grosh, who joined the Sharpshooter outfit late in the season, was the leading scorer for the afternoon with 14 markers to his credit. Mathias was high scorer for the losing Junior Celtics. He had 10 points. The Sharpshooters held a 16-12 advantage at half-time.

Shrpshootrs 26	Pos.	Jr. Celts 22
Huffman 5	F	Mathias 10
Hundeman 2	F	Wilson 2
Grosh 14	C	Robinson 2
Van Blarcom 1G		Chandler 2
Grubbs 2	G	Anderson 1

Subs—Sharpshooters: B. Hunter 2, K. Kribbs, Pribble; Junior Celtics: Miller, Scapellati 5.

ALL-STAR INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL TEAMS CHOSEN

Recently all the intramural basketball players voted to determine the first and second all-star teams for this just-concluded basketball season. Ken Kribbs directed the balloting. Enrico Scapellati of the Junior Celtics was named the outstanding player for the year. Of special interest is the fact that he received a first-team vote from every player. No other player received this honor. The champion Sharpshooters placed three men on the first team and the runner-up Junior Celtics provided the other two. On the second team the Sharpshooters placed two men, the Blackbirds two and the Clippers one. Voting results were as follows:

FIRST TEAM—
Scapellati	Junior Celtics
Huffman	Sharpshooters
Grosh	Sharpshooters
Mathias	Junior Celtics
B. Hunter	Sharpshooters
SECOND TEAM—
Cardella	Blackbirds
Van Blarcom	Sharpshooters
Anthony	Clippers
Grubbs	Sharpshooters
Schieber	Blackbirds
OUTSTANDING PLAYER—
Scapellati	Junior Celtics

VOLLEY BALL GETS GOING—

Two intramural volley ball teams have been formed and competition has begun. The teams have been named the Aces and the Knights. Leroy Secrest is the captain of the Aces and Curtis Wright rules the roost for the Knights. Members of the teams are as follows:

ACES	KNIGHTS
Secrest	Wright
Campbell	MacArthur
Keeley	House
Schieber	Anthony
Vogel	Hundemann
Richardett	Kribbs
Motsinger	Scapellati
Anderson	Doyle

ACES HOLD EDGE—

In the first intramural volley ball games on Thursday, March 21, the Knights won two games from the Aces by 21-18 and 21-8 scores. But on the following Tuesday the Aces came back to even the count by taking two out of three games 18-21, 21-14 and 21-18. Then on Thursday afternoon, March 28, the Aces were again victorious this time in consecutive games 22-20 and 21-19. Thus the Aces now hold an edge over the Knights with two out of three matches to their credit and a total of four games to only three for their opponents.

Grant Lectures ...

growing national antagonism for conservative governmental policies.

With Britain at the present time weaker than ever before in relation to the United States and Russia, Mr. Grant pointed out the fact that the Labor government is now facing its supreme test as it handles its country's problems and policies and determines its country's future.

Reveals Optimism

At his second morning address, Mr. Grant, dealing with a survey of Great Britain, Soviet Russia, and Europe over the past 25-year period, expressed personal optimism over the present world situation, near-future peaceful solution of current difficulties, and an extended period of international cooperation.

The speaker, in this address, divided Europe since 1918 into three distinct chapters, divided as such by historic events. The first chapter, 1918-1932, saw wide extension and development of democratic principles throughout Europe. The second chapter, 1932-1945, had its beginning with the failure of the armaments conference, Germany's consequential successful march through Europe, and the breakdown of continental democracy. The third chapter began V-E Day, May 8, 1945, with the overcome of the Nazi menace but the surviving percussion, the speaker stated. The defeated forces of the second chapter are now coming forward into positions of leadership; the great powers are more developed than ever before; and a long creative chapter is surely in the making, said Grant.

The speaker's Thursday afternoon address, based on audience questions, dealt with the Polish, Hungarian, Bulgarian, and Turkish situations between the two world wars—their rebellions, places in the wars, industrial possibilities, politics, governments, reactionary forces, and part in future international affairs.

Talks on Russia

At his second evening lecture, Mr. Grant centered his address around the geographical extensiveness, nationalistic policies, and war contributions of Soviet Russia; the personalities of its populace; the rise and power of Stalin and the Communist party; and the country's future promise as a cultural nation.

Expressing no serious apprehension over Russia's present failure to cooperate fully in an international set-up and denouncing current theories as to her imperialistic policies, Mr. Grant counseled patience, scrutiny, and understanding on the part of all countries in their present and future close dealings.

Yesterday morning in lecturing on the Orient, Mr. Grant spoke specifically of the religious, political, and economic policies of the Japanese nation in their 50-year preparation period prior to December 7, 1941. Believing themselves shaping their country's rightful destiny as world conquerors, Japan shaped instead a war aftermath of poverty, disillusionment, and complete loss of power, said Grant. The speaker's Oriental lecture also included the future prospects of China and the Pacific islands.

Tells of Pacific

Friday afternoon Mr. Grant gave a survey picture of the Pacific islands and Asiatic provinces, stressing their geographical locations, their peoples and standards of living, their economic possibilities, and their forward movements. This lecture was, as were the other afternoon addresses, conducted in an informal manner, opportunities for questions and discussion being given to the audience.

At his final lecture last evening, Mr. Grant spoke on Vienna, Austria, "the high point of democratic civilization." Living in Vienna for eight years after the first World War and doing relief work there, Mr. Grant was personally connected with this example of what the world could achieve if it, like Vienna, strove for perfection.

A city of two million people, poor financially but rich in culture, Vienna's home, economic, and educational life are closely integrated into a progressive community of the highest cultural standing, the speaker pointed out.

Leaving the college campus today, Mr. Grant's speaking schedule takes him directly into Mississippi and Georgia. Following a teaching program at the University of Kansas in June, Mr. Grant hopes to sail for England in July.

"If all goes well, I hope to come back again to the States in about two and a half years," the lecturer stated.

Council Committee Sets "Clean-Up Day"

After much discussion on the subject in Student Council meetings and in the Student Faculty Senate, the committee to make arrangements for a day for general cleaning up of the M.C. campus, headed by Jessie Lou Brunson, has announced that Saturday afternoon, April 16, has been set as GENERAL CLEAN-UP DAY. This project is designed to make the campus more beautiful by collecting paper which is scattered about the campus, and to be successful the cooperation of all students is necessary, was the thought stated by Miss Brunson.

Other members of the committee include Frank Kramer, Laura Crawford, and Tommy Parkinson.

Thetas To Present Music by Gershwin

Theta Epsilon will feature a program of Gershwin music tonight in the Y rooms. The girls voted for their favorite composer and George Gershwin was selected. Among his other famous compositions, Gershwin's famous "Rhapsody in Blue" will be played. A joint meeting in the form of a shower was held by Theta Epsilon and Bainonian on March 23. A wide variety of kitchen gifts were brought by the members at the meeting which was also held in the Y rooms.

"Squares" Only Allowed At Senior Spring Prom

Saturday night entertainment for March 23 was given by the senior class with the presentation of the "Senior Spring Prom." Harvey Overton was the master of ceremonies in a variety program which was based on reminiscing over the happenings of the last four years at Maryville college. Members of the class took part in special music, dances, and other features.

Mr. Thomas A. Graham had charge of the second half of the program which featured a square dance. Prizes were awarded the two best square dancers by McArthur's department store. Elsie Jean Cotton won a pair of nylon hose, and Ray Swartzback won an Arrow tie.

Miriam Wickham was in charge of the program. Jane Callahan and Billy Ruth Wright were in charge of the refreshments. Mr. Curtis Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Fisher were chaperones for the evening.

Alumni Receives High War Department Award

M. B. Duggan, who graduated from Maryville in 1912, recently was awarded the Certificate of Appreciation, the War Department's highest civilian award. Only nine of these certificates have ever been awarded. During the war Duggan supervised and administered routing of troop traffic in all Fourth Service Command states south of the Ohio and Potomac, and east of the Mississippi river. He formerly resided near Knoxville.

Turk, Wilson Are Elected YM-YW Presidents For 1946-7

Judy Turk, junior religious education major from Thomasville, Georgia, was elected president of next year's YWCA at the annual election held last Tuesday. Ruth King Wood, also a religious education major, was elected vice-president, Ann Anderson, secretary, Marilyn Hartpence, treasurer, and Elsie Jean Cotton, Nu Gamma leader.

Miss Turk is a well-known campus figure, having been active in many offices and clubs on the campus. She is president of the junior class, treasurer of the YW, program chairman of Student Volunteers, a member of the affirmative debate team and winner of the debate held in the chapel Wednesday, April 3, a member of parish project during the past three years, a member of IRC and Bainonian society, and a worker in the Chatterbox. She was treasurer of her sophomore class.

Miss Wood, from LaFollette, Tennessee, is chairman of women's athletics, a YWCA cabinet member, having represented the "Y" at the Nashville Convention, treasurer of the M Club, a member of the all-girl choir, and Bainonian society, a parish project worker during the past three years, and manager of the point system.

Miss Anderson, junior English major from Woodbridge, New Jersey, is program chairman of the YWCA this year. She is a member of the Student Council, B.G.'s, Bainonian society, and the Vesper choir. She is assistant business manager of the CHILHOWEAN, a parish project worker during her sophomore year, Nu Gamma leader last year, and manager of the 1944 M Book.

Miss Hartpence is a sophomore Home Economics major from Xenia, Ohio. She is a member of Bainonian.

Miss Cotton, a sophomore English major from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, is a member of the Student Council and Theta Epsilon society and serves on the program committee of the French Club. She was vice-president of her freshman class.

Elections of YMCA officers took place on Tuesday, April 2, with the following candidates being chosen to lead the association next year: president, Fred Wilson; vice-president, Ray Swartzback; secretary, Thomas Wheeler; treasurer, Bill Vogel, and freshman representative, Burt Slater.

President-elect Wilson is a sophomore English major whose home is in Fairview, Pennsylvania. He has served as treasurer of the YM during this school year. The other candidate for the presidency was Thomas Horst.

Swartzback, new vice-president, is a junior biology major from Baltimore, Maryland. Merrill Grubbs was the other nominee for this office.

Wheeler, elected to fill the office of secretary, is a sophomore and an English major from Peekskill, New York. Abbott Kemp was the other candidate for secretary.

New treasurer, Vogel, is a junior English major and his home is in Baltimore, Maryland. Irvin McArthur was his opponent.

Slater, who was elected as representative for the class of 1949 in a run-off election after the first election resulted in a tie, is also an English major and hails from Bloomfield, New Jersey. The other candidate for the position was David Campbell.

Formal Essay and Short Story Are Read at Workshop

Jean Tarwater and Peter Van Blarcom were recent readers at the Writers' Workshop Wednesday afternoon meetings.

Miss Tarwater read a well-organized formal essay, "Summum Bonum", concerning mankind's eternal search for "the good life", as expressed by philosophers and religious thinkers through the ages. William Grosh, critic, pointed out several colorful words and phrases in the composition and commented favorably on the style of the paper.

Peter Van Blarcom read a short story, "The Faultless Painter". The plot concerns an aging Italian artist who saves a masterpiece from a Nazi officer intent on looting the Florentine art gallery where it was kept. Mr. Van Blarcom's description of life in Florence proved especially interesting and well-done, and high-lighted the story. Alma Lancaster was critic.

Attention Seniors!

All seniors who have not turned in their senior recommendations are instructed that it must be done immediately.

Teachers who are writing recommendations are also urged to complete them as soon as possible as requests for recommendations have already been received.

HUNT EDITS THIS WEEK

Mary Elizabeth Hunt, junior editor, is editing this issue of the ECHO, in keeping with the paper's yearly custom.

Debaters Attend Georgetown Meet

Seven students will represent Maryville college next week at the Pi Kappa Delta Inter-Provincial Meet in Georgetown, Kentucky, Dr. David Briggs, debate coach, has announced.

Maryville representatives will be June Garland and Judy Turk, affirmative debaters; Audria Stinger and Miriam Wickham, negative debaters; David Campbell and John Briggs, the college men's team which will debate both sides of the question; Mary Annis Beals, who will enter the oration and after-dinner speaking divisions.

Campbell will also enter the oration and after-dinner speaking meets, Briggs the impromptu and extempore contests, Miss Wickham impromptu, and Miss Stinger extempore, Dr. Briggs said.

Leaving Wednesday, April 17, the Maryville speaking group at the tournament the following two days will be pitted against Pi Kappa Delta speakers from colleges in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisana, Florida, Georgia, Missouri, Arkansas, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, New York, New Jersey and other eastern coast states.

At the intramural debate in chapel Wednesday morning April 3, the decision, based on an audience vote, went to the affirmative team of Misses Garland and Turk. Miss Turk, second affirmative speaker, was selected by the student body as the best individual debater of the four.

Comprehensive Test for Seniors Given

All seniors expecting to be graduated in May were required to take comprehensive examinations Thursday and Friday of this week. Each major division prepared an examination covering the entire four years of study in a given field.

Various seniors expressed a desire to have the comprehensives given in the morning hours. A class vote was taken following a discussion of the matter at student council meeting. The subject was then referred to the Student-Faculty Senate which met Friday, April 5. That group decided to make a compromise by giving the examinations on Thursday morning and Friday afternoon at 8:30 and 1:30 respectively. Seniors were not required to attend classes on those two days. Classes regularly meeting during the examination hours were not held.

Sophomore Cooperative examinations were given at the same time for all sophomores.

M. degree from the McPhail School of Music, Minneapolis. He also studied in New York.

TRADITIONAL DAISY CHAIN IS SELECTED

Virginia Miller, vice president of the junior class has announced the names of the fourteen junior girls chosen for this year's Daisy Chain.

Lottie Lavender, Home Economics major from Washington College, Tennessee, is a cheerleader.

Ola Harwood, Home Economics major from Robbinsville, North Carolina.

Jean Messer, Biology major from White Pine, Tennessee, was in the cast of Junior Miss presented last year.

Betty Lou Boyatt is a Home Economics major from Maryville.

Joy Stewart is a Biology major from Birmingham, Alabama.

Audre Monteith, Biology major from Pottsville, Pennsylvania, is Chilhowean business manager.

This group will play a traditional part in the graduation exercises in May. Dressed in pastel gowns and bearing a chain of white and yellow field daisies, they will form two lines to lead the processional into the chapel, where they stand on either side of the aisle while the seniors march between them. After the service, the seniors with their diplomas will walk down the aisle between them again, and the chain will follow the processional out to the middle of the campus and form a large M C.

Swartzback And Miller Cast In 'Pygmalion' Leads

The cast of characters has been announced by Mrs. Nita Eckles West for the Athenian-Bainonian play, Pygmalion. They are:

Liza, Ginny Miller; Higgens, Ray Swartzback; Mrs. Higgens, Nan Wooten; Doolittle, Jim Black; Freddie, Max House; Mrs. Hill, Lois Thomas; Clara Hill, Becky Ruth Walton; Mrs. Pierce, Marky Cross; Pickering, Bill Grosh; maid, Harriet McKeen; and bystanders, Dave Campbell and Bill Vogel.

Miss McKeen is also assistant director. The practices have not started yet, but Mrs. West predicts that the play should be a great success with such a talented cast.

"No Summer School" States Dean Hunter

Dr. E. R. Hunter, dean of curriculum, states that there will be no summer school this year. The main objective in having a summer school was to help the veterans who wished to attend, but since there were not enough students interested to make it worthwhile, the plan has been dropped. There is a faint possibility that a few classes which are in great demand might be offered provided there is enough interest to make it feasible.

Theater Group To Present Plays in Bartlett at Eight

Theater-goers tonight in Bartlett Hall will be entertained by the Experimental Theater group in the presentation of a children's play, three versions of one scene from Romeo and Juliet, and a one act play, "A Slave with Two Faces".

Jean Balch is coaching the play to be given by children from the first and second grades, and Ann Thornton is coaching a chorus of fourth and fifth grades. The play is to be a version of "The Sleeping Beauty".

Bob Thompson and Virginia Davis are playing in the classical scene from Romeo and Juliet, David Campbell and Mary Mitchell Woolridge in the scene in the manner of Booth Tarkington's Seventeen, and Jim Black and Ilda Mosby in the Negro version.

"A Slave with Two Faces" will be presented by Margaret Andrews, Martha Grace Brindley, and Janet Nisbitt.

MAY DAY KING IS SELECTED

Jean Keen, senior music major from Buckhorn, Kentucky, elected as May Day queen by the senior class, announced that Ab Richard will be her escort and will rule as king of the May Day exercises. Richard, a sociology major from Norristown, Pennsylvania, returned to Maryville this semester to graduate after having spent a year in Western Theological Seminary. He is president of Ministerials and a member of Athenian.

The queen's senior attendants are Catherine Payne and Jane Callahan.

Partners chosen by other class attendants as announced by Joy Stewart and Mary Ruth Barber, YWCA committee members in charge, are the following: Virginia Miller, junior dramatic art major chosen by Bill Vogel; Ray Swartzback, junior biology major chosen by Jessie Lou Brunson; Elizabeth Crawford, sophomore biology major chosen by Carl Murray; Max House, sophomore English major chosen by Janet Rich; David Campbell, freshman English major chosen by Grace Hildebrand.

The YWCA sponsors the May Day program presented in the amphitheatre each year. A faculty committee, of which Mrs. Nita Eckles West, Mrs. Verton M. Queener, and Miss Hazel Eddins are members, is working with the Y committee in preparation for the annual program. Mrs. Queener is in charge of all dances, including the traditional Maypole dance.

The Recreational Center will be open tonight after the Experimental Theater plays.

Five Elected To Membership In College Honor Society

At a recent meeting of the Alpha Gamma Sigma, college honor society, five new members were elected, who with Carol Titus (who was elected in December) will comprise the membership quota for the class of 1946. Those who were elected were Olinde Kay Ahrens, Catherine Steelman Sisk, Margaret Moore Cross, Laura Jane Trotter, and Mary Elizabeth Wells.

Miss Ahrens, a philosophy major from Osborne, Kansas, had a four-year average of 8.1. She was a member of the Echo staff for two years, Writers' Workshop, member of the Student Council, acting as vice-president this year. She is also president of the Pearson's Student Government Association, a member of the Parish Project, elected to Who's Who, and doing honors work.

Miss Sisk is a senior music major from Maryville. She has been a member of the student council for four years, a member of student-faculty senate for two years, a member of the social committee, a soloist in the choir, and a member of the Disc club. She has served as president and vice-president of Bainonian, an officer in the French club, and as chairman of Pi Gamma. Her average was 6.8.

Miss Cross, a sociology major, has been a member of "Y" Cabinet, Student Vols cabinet, has held two class offices, is a member of Bainonian, has taken part in dramatics, acting in one play, and helping with the publicity for two more. She has also worked in the College Maid Shop. Miss Cross is from Birmingham, Ala.

Another Maryville resident, Miss Trotter, interrupted her college days long enough to take a course in engineering at Purdue. She has had an average of 7.5.

Miss Wells, recently elected to Sigma Delta Pi, is a member of Writers' Workshop, president of the Spanish club, a member of Bainonian, and is now doing honors work in Spanish. She is a resident of Cranbury, N.J.

In the thirteen years of Alpha Gamma Sigma's existence on the campus, there have been one hundred and forty-four members. Nineteen of these are now students, and fourteen of them are teachers. There have also been twelve ministers from the group. There are also six scientists and five government workers. Since this is based upon a certain percentage of the senior class, there have been a few years when as many as twelve have been elected.

Washington College President To Speak At Vesper Service

Dr. B. B. Lavender, president of Washington College and former pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian church in Knoxville, will be the speaker at Vespers Sunday, April 14. Dr. Lavender's daughter, Lottie, is a member of the junior class.

The All-Girl choir sang at the service April 7. This was their first appearance since the completion of their new robes. Dr. Paul E. Davies of McCormick Theological seminary was the speaker.

Black, Wheeler Win Oratorical Prize

Tom Wheeler and Jim Black were the winners in the semi-finals for the T. T. Alexander Oratorical contest. They spoke on "The Resurrection".

The T. T. Alexander prize of $80 is divided on a sixty-forty per cent basis according to the decision of the judges. The prize is given by an anonymous donor in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries. The men and women students alternate annually.

The winners in the semi-finals will present their orations in chapel before the student body before commencement.

Bishop Kern Will Be Wednesday Speaker

Dr. Paul B. Kern, bishop of the Methodist church in Nashville, who will be in Maryville during Holy Week, will be the chapel speaker April 17. Bishop Kern has written several books, among which are: A Methodist Church and Its Work, The Miracle of the Galilean, The Basic Beliefs of Jesus, and Methodism Has a Message. There was no chapel speaker April 10, because of comprehensives.

Council Discusses Fire Drills, Comps

The regular meeting of the Student Council was held Thursday evening, April 4 with council president Mildred Waring presiding. There were no Town Night violations reported. Ann Anderson presented further details of the proposed system of fire drills to be held in the dormitories.

Main business of the meeting was the discussion of a possible change in the time set for comprehensive examinations. A desire to have the exams given in the morning was expressed by many seniors. The council decided the matter should be brought to the attention of the Student-Faculty Senate which would meet April 6. The seniors were also to hold a class meeting to vote on the question.

Red Cross Drive Held

Arrangements were made so that college students could contribute to local Red Cross drive Wednesday, April 11. The total amount donated during the drive was $31.00.

Clothing Students To Present Style Show

On Wednesday, April 19, at 8:00 an Easter style show will be presented in Pearson's Hall. The Easter Parade is a product of the ingenuity of three classes: the Textiles class; the Costume designing class; and the Clothes Survey or Brides' course.

The entire college is invited to view the array of suits, formals, made-over dresses, and afternoon dresses.

Special music will be provided by the music department and commentators are dramatic art students.

Pearsons' Girls Suggest

It has recently come to the attention of some of the more alert members of the student body that something must be done in order to improve the general campus manners. In an effort to make improvements, someone suggested that one evening each week be set aside as a time in which students would plan to dress for dinner. This suggestion reached the upper-class women who discussed the problem at their recent house meeting. All of them seemed to feel that it was a good idea, and well worth trying. As a result they voted to try the plan by taking part in it themselves, and by using their influence to get other students to dress semi-formally one evening each week.

Because most students belong to one of the clubs which meet then, Thursday night was suggested and accepted by the group. It was decided that the plan would go into effect next Thursday night, April 18. All students are urged to join in this effort to improve campus manners and dress by appearing at the dining hall Thursday evening on time in semi-formal array. —M.E.H.

Clean-up Day

Today all of us have been hearing about "clean-up day", and many of us have taken part in this plan which has been sponsored by the Student Council. Each has had an opportunity to help our fellow students in this spring cleaning so that Maryville might continue to have one of the most attractive settings in this part of the country.

But a "clean-up day" is not sufficient. All of us are now faced with the responsibility of helping keep it clean. We must be careful to see that we do not drop candy wrappers, old pieces of paper, or particles of food on the grounds.

All will be going to the woods for picnics, May day, and Easter services, to say nothing of occasional walks. When we take papers with us to the amphitheatre and picnic grounds, let us be careful to see that we do not leave them lying around where they will be unattractive. We must also be careful to drop our paper in the waste baskets instead of dropping it with the hope of a nice breeze carrying it far away.

Each of us has the responsibility of keeping "clean-up day" every day if we want the hill to remain one of the most attractive spots of the city. —M.E.H.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Dear Friends, Enemies, and Neutralites,

Some enterprising assistants have told us that the campus is swarming with gossip daily issued during the past two weeks, but those same helpers have failed to give any good tips. So if you fail to find your choiciest bits, kindly place the blame on others.

Strolling through the woods the other day, we noticed some barefooted individuals peering anxiously at the creek. We recognized Gilreath and Wooten, with that devilish gleam in their eyes, still correctly shoed, but Ginny Miller and Vogel were searching high and low for the footwear, which they thought they had hid in the bushes. Ginny found a couple of said objects in a tree and wore them home, but they happen to belong to Lottie Lavender, who found it convenient to be carried home by Schieber. Margaret Rock and Jim Martin found one of Jim's No. 15's, but Margaret misjudged a distance and it landed in the creek. Poor Vera Lusk and Bob Dockendorf discovered theirs in the garbage can with other aromatic fumes. Strangely enough, Ginny and Vogel heard that four little articles (well, two were little) had made their way to the personnel office in a bread box. No, we aren't certain about the responsible persons, but someone told us that Professor Walker didn't blow soap bubbles all the time, and certain victims saw that Christine Gilreath stepped into the fish pond the following day. Haven't heard just what price Wooten and Plyler had to pay. We noticed that Gwen, John, Vera, and Rupert weren't blamed. Can't imagine why. As we said once before, we're thinking about taking a course under Professor Walker next year. Sounds like fun.

We couldn't write to you without telling you about Edith Merle and Bill. (By the way, Miss Johnson, Edith Merle's last name is now Largen.) They say that the smile on the bride's face was there because her father threatened that if she didn't walk in right he'd make her go down the aisle again.

Once in awhile, we hear of an occasionally enforced campus rule. Anyway, we were told that the editor of a weekly college publication and a music major, as well as a Carnegie resident and a Bartlett resident are familiar with the exercise of its power. Which reminds us to wonder about Alverson and Briggs.

Lazenby to the rescue. A defenseless man got himself locked on 4th floor Carnegie the other day and brave Carl saw that he was released. Speaking of Carnegie, they certainly boarded off the basement from the rest of the hall, or maybe it's the other way round.

And then, there are those students who greet Miss Jackson and Miss Henry with "Top of the mornin' to you!" when they are taking their early Sunday morning walk.

One industrious Carnegie wife, named Mrs. Brazeale in the last few days, has begun a sweet pea garden behind the dormitory.

A number of hungry kids are gratefully thanking the refreshment committee for the food after last Saturday night's hike. This remark was inspired by watching that waiting line composed of Mary Annis, Lloyd, Mary, Bob, Lonnie, Peewee, Cobb, Onifer, Barbara, Seymour, Lil, Ab, Judy, Will, Mitch, Miracle, Corky, Bob, Kitty, Don, Bobby Jo, Pribble, Libby, McArthur, Gwen and Dale.

Noticed that Eleanor Hawley has found her way out of the hospital. Please, Eleanor, don't stay out in the sun too long again.

Mary Gene Lawson had a sailor visitor ....So did Mildred Jones ....Lil and Ab did not date this past week.....The choir sang to Mrs. Walker for her birthday.....The freshmen have our sympathy in that they were not given full holidays on Thursday and Friday.... Evidentally, Will Lenoir sleeps all the time..... Smith and Shay certainly fixed Gress' and Barber's room on April 1.....We see Mary Estes and Ed Voorhees together ....Grace Hildebrand's Bernie is now a civilian....Lugie's friend named "Jeep" is a persistent friend of Betsy's now ....And if you want to know the new method of getting Tuesday night dates, ask a certain Carnegie girl .... Mae Short is well instructed on how to have light feet while running bases in a softball game.

Dr. Briggs has seen the height of something; he isn't sure just what, but on one vote handed in at the debate he found these words, "Why insult our intelegence with so many summeries?"

As Kidder has aptly put it, "It's either real love or insanity when people begin walking around the circle drive before breakfast." Methinks, "Ditto!"

If you see some new people wandering around you can guess it to be one of the following persons: Alex to see Buffie, Dan to see Janet, Charlie to see Gertie, Malcolm to see Jean, or Dixie's sister.

On the check-out slips in the Rec Hall there is a place to sign the date, so Peewee obediently wrote "Lonnie."

Well, dear readers, that's the sum total of our gossip for this letter. The roommate, having been a bit peeved with us this week, has stubbornly refused to lend her helpful weekly suggestion. (Honestly, we didn't know that Janet put her hose in that pan under the dresser, or we wouldn't have used the pan to keep the dead frog in the formaldehyde.) Here's hoping that by next week she will reconsider. Until then

Snoopy

P. S. If for no other reason, we hope the CHILHOWEAN will be on time so we can find out who is the GIRL OF THE CAMPUS.

ECHO-HUMOR

SIGNS OF SPRING: Poetry yet! (By an English major)

Spring Comprepensives

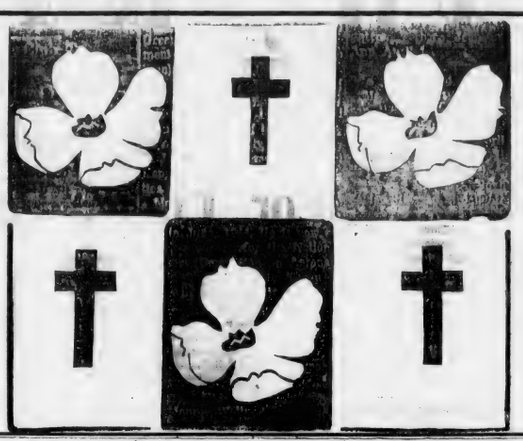
Chaucer and Cowper, Caedmon and Cook,
Call for a long and a lingering look.
Browning and Bunyan, Byron and Burns,
Bow to the student and springtime by turns.

Dryden and Pope?
Or Crosby and Hope?
"Utopia" by More—or the Road to it?
To cram Johnson (Sam)?
Or pretend that I am?
To look at a skylark—or the Ode to it?

Priestley and Pinero, Parker and Poe,
Peer over my shoulder when I'm at the show.
Strachey and Sandburg, Smollett and Sterne,
Serve me an ace Budge couldn't return.

Spenserian stanzas,
Italian romanzas,
The "Merchant of Venice"—and the source of it?
Or stroll in the sunshine
For a tan (I've begun mine),
The Chatterbox—or Chatterton?–in the course of it?

Jackson and Johnson, Hunter and Heron,
When my paper is read, will start demurrin'.
The reason's as plain as I am red-hairy:
Springtime, Sunshine, Movies, and Mary.



Observation for Sophomores Completing the Ninth Annual National Cooperative Sophomore Examinations to be Given at Maryville College

The ninety-ninth percentile is a Fool's Paradise. But nice.

Prayer

Lord of the universe, the atom, and me,
Make my soul humbler when I get my degree.
Guard me from pedantry, insolence, guise;
Don't make me smart, God, but please make me wise.
Keep me from vainglory, snobbishness, show;
Make me aware of how little I know.
If I can contribute with facts or with fun,
Let it be honestly, gracefully done.
Let me give credit where credit is due,
And furnish a footnote when the source, Lord, is You.
One other thing, I respectfully pray,
Lord, help me to get my diploma in May.

TALK OF THE WEEK..... By JEAN ALMY

Various Contests Planned for Club

At Bainonian this evening the group will be divided into several sections each of which will be given a fairy tale to dramatize. They will be allowed five minutes to prepare. The winning group will be decided by applause and will receive a prize.

An inter-dorm contest for the programs of the next three weeks is to be inaugurated Saturday, April 20. The dorm presenting the best program will receive a prize.

Last Saturday, April 6, Bainonian and Athenian had a joint meeting in the chapel at 6:15. The theme of the program was "A Dull Evening At Home", which centered around a mean, little brat and his antics which included the family and the radio. Dick Scruggs took the part of the little boy, Art Haaf as his father, Katie Carpenter his mother, Harvey Overton his grandfather, Ginger Clabough was next door neighbor's little girl, and Milly Miller and Ab Richard were her parents. Jim Black and Bill Vogel from Athenian wrote the program in cooperation with Ginger Clabough, Snuffy Smith, Milly Miller and Janet Miller. Bill Cover set up the radio apparatus for the program.

Jane: All extremely bright men are conceited.
Jack: Oh, I don't know—I'm not.

Faculty Members To Attend College Meet

Dr. Lloyd and several members of the faculty will attend the Tennessee College meeting, April 18. Dr. E. Derryberry, president of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute and vice president of the Tennessee college meeting, will preside over the sessions. Dr. Francis Brown, staff associate of the American Council on Education, will be the main speaker on the general theme of Veterans' Education in Tennessee Colleges. Other speakers will be members of the faculty of Tennessee College and the Veterans Administration. This will be the first meeting since November 1943.

Students Attend Intercollegiate Christian Forum

Twenty-nine students representing YWCA, YMCA, and Student Vols attended the Intercollegiate Christian Forum held at Knoxville College Sunday, April 7. The theme of the meeting was "Social Responsibility". This was a joint session of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville College, and Maryville College. The group went to Knoxville by special bus with Dr. and Mrs. Case as chaperones.

Rev. T. E. Cowan of Norris, Tennessee, was the afternoon speaker using race relations in regard to social responsibility as his topic. Special music was provided by Betty Absher of Maryville College. An hour of fellowship and refreshments followed this program.

At seven o'clock there was a panel discussion on social responsibility in four particular fields: political effectiveness, economic justice, race relations, and in the community. Thomas Parkinson represented Maryville and spoke on political effectiveness. A short worship service concluded the program.

The next program has been tentatively scheduled for May at the University of Tennessee in Knoxvillle.

SPORTS

SCOT SPORTS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

The Highlander baseball team, which is very definitely still at the "in-the-making stage", is being helped a lot by Scot Honaker, or more formally, Lombe Scot Honaker, Jr. Scot, who is still in the Army Air Forces now on terminal leave, is assisting his dad with the coaching of the baseballers; and he is doing a good job at it. Scot knows a lot about baseball. In fact Scot knows a lot about just about all the sports that Maryville takes part in. Not only does he have the advantage of having been the MC coach's son all his life, but he had a brilliant sports career while enrolled in Maryville College. He graduated in 1941 with the following record: football 1, 2, 3, 4, co-captain 4; basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; and baseball 1, 2, 3, 4. He also was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Scot served as assistant baseball coach here in 1942.

Coach Davis Has Good Record—

The Maryville coaching staff got its first post-war addition this year with the return of Coach J.D. Davis for spring football. He will be back at Maryville full-time next fall.

The past two years he has had a leave of absence from the college, which had no sports. He has been at Central High of Knoxville where he has made an enviable record. There, with the assistance of Coach Honaker, who could not find enough to do in Maryville, Coach Davis's Central Bobcats only lost two games in the two years he was in charge. That is an excellent record, considering the tough high school competition his team met. The season of '44 Central dropped one to Knoxville High by one touchdown. This past season they lost one to Male High of Louisville, Kentucky and let Knoxville High tie them.

Two losses and a tie out of 18 or 19 contests!

That's all right for any coaching staff.

Basketball Shaping Up—

We realize that it is extremely early to start thinking in terms of next year's basketball prospects, but even at this stage it looks as if Maryville will fare well in cage competition next winter despite the loss of seniors Spence Renfro and Oliver Spears.

Ray Lillard, one of the Highlanders' brightest pre-war stars is home from the service and will be back in school here next year. Hoyt Mull, who played well enough for Maryville High last season to make the district tournament all-star team has signified his intention of entering school here next fall by going out for spring football. Jack Campbell and Frank Valentine of the Everett High cagers last season have both been out for spring football here and are due to enter this college come next fall. Campbell was captain of the team. Artie Spears plays a pretty good brand of basketball as well as shining on the gridiron. They tell us that Pie Garner is also a basketball player of no mean ability, and he is likewise supposed to be entering MC next fall.

All those along with the six lettermen of this year who are not graduating and may be back in school here next year combine to make things sound encouraging to us.

Brother Against Brother—

And we're not referring to the war between the states. Spence Renfro's recent selection to the job of head coach at Everett High school for next year puts brother against brother in local high school coaching circles. His brother, Jim Renfro, is already coach at Maryville High; he also attended MC and was an outstanding athlete while he was a student here. Incidentally those two high schools are the traditionally hated enemy and arch rivals in local high school sports. And having the two teams meet with their coaches being brothers really affords an added interest next year.

M.C. Baseballers Suffer From Rain, Lack of Numbers

Small Squad Shows Progress In Daily Drills

About 20 fellows have been turning out for baseball practice each afternoon this past week under the watchful eye of Coach Honaker and his son, Scott. Rain during the week, which kept the baseball diamond too wet for practice prevented the squad from making the progress it could have made on the diamond. Practice sessions on wet days are held in Alumni gym. Coach Honaker also reported that the scarcity of experienced players is discouraging, and if the number of diamond aspirants, either experienced or not, decreases there will be no intercollegiate baseball for the Highlanders this year.

However, at present Coach is going forward with plans for "some" college games this spring, and the small squad is definitely showing improvement. Most of the drills during last week, which was the first week of organized practice for the baseballers, were devoted to work on fielding and throwing with some time spent on batting.

The following is a list of those going out for baseball: Pitchers—Charlie Huffman, Melvin Malone, Dave Miller, Roy Smith, John Sanders, and Jay Bishop; catcher—Mat Cardella; first base—Harvey Hollingsworth, Tom Parkinson, and Bill Cover; second base—Squire Kemp, Bob Bird, and Ed Voorhees; shortstop—Bill Largen and Lloyd Chandler; third base—Bill Stewart and Burt Slater; and outfielders—John Mathias, Don Barbour and Leonard Schieber.

Two tentative games have been scheduled with LMU, E-T Teachers, and Hiwassee. The dates are still pending.

Hughes to Play at Y.W., Y.M. Program

A special program for Palm Sunday will be given in the chapel on April 14. An organ recital will be given by Mr. Curtis Hughes. This will be a joint meeting of members of Y.W. and Y.M.

On April 7, the Reverend C. P. Hardin spoke to the members of the YWCA, taking for his topic, "Marriage".

Bob Hunter Leads Green Net Squad

Maryville College's first intercollegiate net team since the spring of 1943 swings into action this afternoon against the netters of Lincoln Memorial University on the LMU courts at Harrogate, Tennessee.

Bob Hunter, who is serving both as coach and number one man on the squad, is the only member of the team who can boast any college experience in the net sport. He was a member of the MC netters in 1943, having served in the army since that time.

Others on the squad at present who went to LMU today are: Abbott "Squire" Kemp, number two man; Tom Wheeler, number three; Harold Hunter, four; Bill Dinges, five; Harold Kidder, number six, and Pete Van Blarcom, alternate or number seven.

The match today is scheduled to consist of five singles matches for the first five men on the team and two doubles matches. The number one doubles team is Bob Hunter and Squire Kemp, and the number two doubles outfit was tentatively set as Harold Kidder and Tom Wheeler.

The basis for giving the players their respective ratings was largely their showing in the recent intra-squad tournament, according to Coach Hunter.

The team left for Harrogate this morning at about 9:45 in the Athletic station wagon and plans to return to Maryville tonight.

Intra-Squad Game Ends Highlander Spring Football

Four weeks of intensive spring football practice was ended Friday afternoon, April 5, with a full length intra-squad scrimmage game. At the conclusion of the contest, Coach Lombe Scott Honaker stated that he was pleased with the prospects shown for next fall in the spring training period. The squad was divided into the Oranges and the Garnets for the final practice with the Garnets barely edging out a victory in a very closely contested game. The Garnet team converted an extra point in the final quarter to gain the victory, 7 to 6.

The Orange team, sparked by Artie Spears, B. Mull and Carl Murray tallied first after three quarters of close play by both teams which found neither having enough of an advantage to push across a score. On their fourth try at the goal line from the 10-yard stripe, the Orange team scored their T.D. on a pass from Spears to Bob Mull. The extra point try by E. Prevost was blocked.

Five minutes before the end of the game Ross Honaker let fly with a 35 yard pass to Hollingsworth who raced 40 yards for the Garnet six points. Honaker also converted for the extra and winning point.

Chillies Trounce Howies in Opening Softball Game

After two practice periods and one practice game, the Chillies and Howies, girls' point system softball teams, played their first game Tuesday, April 9. In this first game, the Chillies won over the Howies by a score of 12-1. The girls in the respective groups voted on their captains and their managers and they in turn selected the two teams. May Short, captain of the Chillies, pitched the winning game, however, both the pitchers pitched good games; most of the scoring was done in the third inning. Barbara Eggleston was voted Chillie manager while Melba Holder was elected captain of the Howies with Corky Monteith as manager.

Scorers for the game were Betty Lou King and Dot Justus. The next game will be played Tuesday, April 16 and all those interested in witnessing the game are invited.

Students Attend Persian Tea At Fisher Residence

Mr. C. B. Emert, editor of the Maryville-Alcoa Daily Times, will be the speaker at I.R.C., April 15.

I. R. C. was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Fisher, and Miss Peggy Fisher, at a Persian tea April 1. The maid, wearing a chaddur (lit., a tent), greeted guests at the door with the greeting, "Befairmaid", and after annointing their hands with beetmish (pussy-willow perfume) from an oriental cruet, ushered the guests into the living room where the host and friends were seated on oriental rugs. Augil (roasted salted pumpkin seeds), rice cakes, candy, and little glasses of tea placed in silver cups were served as refreshments. After the third glass of tea, the host and hostess were thanked, and the guests departed, as is the custom of polite visitors in Persia.

Dr. John Trimmer Speaks on Atomic Energy Wonders

Dr. John Trimmer, physicist from the Oak Ridge "Manhattan" project, addressed a group in Bartlett Hall on Monday, April 8 on atomic energy.

Dr. Trimmer opened his remarks with the statement that, "This is an age of scientific wonders." To prove his point, he cited the message to the moon and the atomic bomb. One can more easily imagine the message to the moon because it is exciting, imaginative, real—a distance little more than ten times the circumference of the earth. Whereas the atomic bomb is real only to the people it affected directly. It is difficult to imagine the very large, the very small, or the far-away.

Dr. Trimmer went on to give a short history of the development of atomic power. Fifty years ago the Frenchman Becquerel discovered radioactivity. This led to a new concept of the atom—that of the atom as a miniature solar system, with planetary electrons and a nucleus. This new conception began a new series of experiments from 1919 to 1932, when the neutron was discovered. So in 1932 a new scientific field was opened—that of nuclear physics or the science of the neutron. This new field of research culminated in the atomic bomb and hopes for future development of new fields.

The nucleus of the atom carries a plus charge and the electrons a negative charge. Since these particles carry an electrical charge, they are easily detected. The neutron, however, carries no charge, and thus cannot be detected. The mass of a neutron is equal to the mass of one proton. If an extra neutron is shot into the heart of an atom, the internal structure is changed. Three possibilities may result from this action, depending on the speed of the neutron and the type of material. (1) Energy may be taken from the neutron, which has the effect of slowing it down. (2) The element may undergo a transmutation. In this case, if U-238 were bombarded with neutrons, a beta particle would be given off and the element would change to neptunium; another beta ray is given off, and the neptunium is changed to plutonium. (3) Fission may occur. Here the nucleus is split into two roughly equal parts. Plutonium and U238 will undergo fission from neutron of any energy.

Dr. Trimmer closed his discussion with a few reassuring and admonitory remarks. He said that good things were bound to come out of the science of neutrons [atomic energy], but that these must not be kept a secret from the world. "Science, as opposed to war, feeds on free dissemination of knowledge. War feeds on secrecy . . . atomic science should be treated as any other science . . ." These remarks were concluded with the statement that "freedom of science is fundamental and important."

Clyde, who is a senior, recently won a $1000 Board Fellowship for advanced study in theology, either here or abroad. He competed against students from ten seminaries in the examination given by the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education in theology, philosophy of religion, church history, Biblical studies, and Greek and Hebrew, to bring in top honors. He is, at present, president of the Student Presbytery government at Western.

Joseph Brown, who is on the staff of the monthly Western Seminarian was elected president of the Middle Atlantic Regional Conference of the Interseminary Movement. In the three years of Western's active participation in the program, Joe Brown is the first president to come from Western.

The evening meeting will be held in place of the regular Sunday afternoon service on that date, Miss Stout stated.

YWCA, in accordance with the yearly custom, will not hold any Easter day meeting, out-going president, Becky Davis, has announced.

Last Sunday's meeting consisted of a joint YW-YM Lenten music program in keeping with Palm Sunday. Organ arrangements of appropriate selections from Bach, Franck, Clokey, Weinberger, Malling, and Gaul were played by Mr. Curtis Hughes, instructor of music.

Miss Davis has announced that the annual Retreat will be held this year April 27 at Montvale Springs. As is the custom, all new and old YW and YM cabinet members and Nu Gamma leaders will attend this all-day meeting.

Nu Gamma leaders for next year have not yet been announced, it was stated.

GIRLS' CHOIR SINGS FOR CHURCHES

The All-Girl Choir, under the direction of Mr. Curtis Hughes, appeared at the First Methodist church Friday evening, April 19. Their anthems were "The Lord's Prayer" and "Alleluia." Bishop Kern was the speaker. The choir sang also at the Union Service at New Providence Presbyterian church Friday, April 19. The next appearance of the choir will be in the May Day program.

Writers' Workshop Hears Poems, Play By Clabough, Kent

Virginia Clabough and Don Kent presented readings to members of Writers' Workshop at the Wednesday afternoon meeting.

Miss Clabough read five poems on spring themes, "Melody in Spring", "Reverie", "Rain on a Spring Night", "A Harlot, on Seeing Daffodils", and "Meditation". Louise Corbett as critic noted the several picturesque words and expressive lines in Miss Clabough's poems.

The following passage is quoted from "Melody in Spring":

Golden shadows ever falling,
Filtering warmth through icy blue,
Catch man's soul and draw it upward
As the morning draws the dew;
Sounds, immortal in their beauty,
Emanate from every part,
Let us join in silent rapture as we glance into the heart!

"The Picture", a one-act play, was presented by Mr. Kent. Ruth Freeman, critic, pointed out the merits of the plot structure and presentation, and called attention to some dialogue weaknesses.

The play was based on the story of a young business man whose consuming personal ambition blinded him to all other life. His wife, a talented artist, had long desired a child, but her husband brought home a dog, believing, he said, that all she really wanted was "something alive" to keep her from lonesomeness. While her husband was at work the following day, she painted an insane picture of a dog's body with the head of a human baby. Her husband came home to find that she'd then strangled the little dog and poisoned herself.

The stage scenes were written to be done as a series of flashbacks with special lighting effects.

Next week's readers are Bill Grosh and June Garland.

Carnegie Members Entertain Bain'ians

Saturday, April 20, Bainonian will have a program by the inhabitants of Carnegie.

Bainonian meeting on Saturday, April 13, was a business meeting and the members decided various questions about rush week and the way in which they hope to redecorate the hall. Dues and other monetary matters were discussed and the meeting was adjourned.

Easter Parade Features Date Bait With Side Drape To Black Crepe

By BETTY HARTE

Smiling vaguely, I accepted a program and began to ooze down the long avenue between the two dining halls. Pearson's Dining Hall, April 17, 8:35, the style show—Late again.

A dignified princess ushered me to a front seat—next to Mr. Hughes. "George!" I felt like exclaiming, but didn't.

After Kitty Johnson had finished a few words of introduction, Peggy Howell, clad in a ruffled white gown that accentuated her red hair beautifully, sang "All the Things You Are."

The rest of the evening was a maze of all the things women are. While music was played in the background, the Freshman Projects were modeled. Of the suits that followed I noted that Nellie Cuellas had saved $24 by making her green bolero suit and that the dark, softly vertical lines of Ginny Beier's navy blue linen suit were the fairy godmother's answer to any chubby girl.

I also was pleasantly surprised at what June Burns and Jane Callahan did with bottle jackets. Tommy Parkinson slithering in his seat as he peered at his program distracted me. I looked at my program too and found Tom's vitamin pill—Jo was modeling soon!

Miss Meiselwitz's gray shoes and matching purse satisfied my craving for ultra-vogue styles and the heirloom buttons (brought from Europe in 1855) served to concentrate the historical tone of the gray museum print.

Special clarinet music was supplied in an interim by Beverly Muetzell, Emily Leety and Marion Swift. Among the made-over dresses paraded, I was attracted to Miss Lane's blue and brown crepe. It had been madeover from a man-tailored dress of Miss Meiselwitz that had been ruined at the cleaners, plus a remnant of brown material of Miss Eddins. Plaid hat and purse were made by a friend. The "Remember Me?" dress, Bobby Jo Reed's light blue polinaise made over from a "tired dress" was stunning. Kitty's adjectives made a pleasant ripple on the brain.

Modeling was interrupted by that old favorite "The Easter Parade" sung by Peggy Howell. The Easter parade revealed many interesting items: Does your rayon jersey slip when you sew? Shirley White when making her aqua and white jersey basted tissue paper into the seam with a large stitch. Alberta Kerr isn't afraid of jersey she experimented with the open-

He has been writing in Writers' Workshop this year.

Ruth Williams was appointed business manager by the faculty committee on student publications and student business management and by the student council committee.

Miss Williams has been a member of the business staff for two years and at the present time is serving as sophomore assistant to the business manager. Miss Williams is now a sophomore.

The three committees electing members to the 1946-1947 Echo promoted Miss Mary Elizabeth Hunt, Elizabethton, Tennessee, and Abbott Kemp, Acworth, Georgia, to the position of staff editors. Janet Miller, Elsie Onifer, Lorraine Swift, and Dorothy Vawter were advanced to junior associate editors. Rising sophomore reporters are Grace Gugger, Betty Harte, Naomi Hoffman, Mary Keeley, and Ilda Mosby.

Appointing committees also voted to maintain all of the other present members of the business staff to serve as junior assistants next year. They are Joy Stewart, Marian Monteith, Katherine Johnson, and Margaret Blanton.

The members of the committees that are constitutionally required to participate in the promotions and elections are: the senior editors from the Echo staff who are Juanita Hinson, Don Kent and Helen Marie Wilson; the student council committee on the Echo whose members this year are Curtis Wright, John Shell, and Anne Anderson; the faculty committee on publications composed of Dr. F. A. Griffitts, chairman, Miss Almira Bassett, Dr. R. T. Case, and Miss Elizabeth Jackson. On the selection of the business manager Dr. L. L. MRS. WEST READS AT FACULTY DINNER

Monday evening, April 15, the faculty held a dinner in the tea rooms. With pranks such as missetting the table, the home economic planners found out how much the faculty knew of correct methods. Mrs. Nita Eckles West gave an Easter reading.

Prompt Arrival of Annual Predicted

There is a good chance that this year's Chilhoweans will be received on time, Dr. Griffitts recently reported. He has talked with the publishers who believe it is possible to rush the Maryville work to early completion.

However, all students who have not yet done so are requested to leave their home address and twenty cents at the bookstore to cover the cost of overtime payments for the publishing company.

Dr. F. A. Griffitts recently asked the student body to vote on whether they wanted the printing company to rush the order and try to deliver the Chilhowean before May 20, or whether they preferred to let the printing company take its time and mail it from the company office.

It was decided to take a chance on getting the Chilhowean before May 20, since the extra cost would be so small.

College Groups To Meet in Atlanta

Miss Viola Lightfoot, assistant to the Dean of Students, will attend the annual meeting of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars April 22-25 at the Atlanta-Biltmore Hotel in Atlanta, Georgia. This nation-wide group will attend lectures on some of the problems now facing the colleges, and what can be done about them. This is the first meeting that the group has held since April 1944, and the first year that Miss Lightfoot has attended the meetings.

Mr. Louis Black, director of maintenance, will return today from a meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities Business Managers which has been held in Atlanta, April 18-20.

He believes that freedom of the press is necessary for world peace and should be included in the peace treaty.

College To Offer Four New Majors

Change in Phys. Ed. Requirements Planned

Three new majors will be offered, a discontinued major will be resumed, and a new physical education program will be inaugurated in the 1946 fall semester. The new majors are physical education and health, school music and business administration. The Art major will be the same as that offered in previous years. The revised physical education program will affect all students.

During the freshman year every student will be required to take a two-hour-a-week course in calisthenics and conditioning exercises. In addition there will be a series of twelve lectures and discussions on personal hygiene. The remaining three years all students are required to participate in an organized intra-mural program including at least four types of work during the six semester. As at present each student will have a yearly physical examination and any corrective work needed will be provided.

The physical education major will be under the direction of Professor Honaker, Assistant Professor Queener, and Miss Eddins. This major is designed to prepare for three fields: (1) public school physical education programs and athletics, (2) playground and community recreation organization and supervision, (3) the advanced physical educational training provided in universities and professional schools. General courses for both men and women will be given with specialized work in the fields of men's and women's sports.

Students majoring in school music will include public school voice and instrumental methods and the study of the techniques of stringed, wood-wind, and brass instruments in their programs.

Two majors are available in the third curriculum addition, Business Administration and Economics. Thirteen courses are included; among them are Cost Accounting, Government and Business, Business Law, Marketing, and Labor Problems. The faculty members are Associate Professor Fisher, Assistant Professor Wilson, and Mr. King.

Full description of the courses provided for each major are posted on the bulletin board in Anderson.

Brownie, The All-American Boy Well, We at Maryville Think So

By JANET MILLER

At one time or another, everyone has heard of sprites, elves, and brownies. These creatures of the imagination are supposed to be useful and helpful, generally, and the Brownie that we all know on campus certainly fits that description. Brownie's family was associated with the college "way back when", when in 1869 his great-uncle helped raise money for the college. At this same time his family bought a farm and here Brownie was born and reared, the oldest of a family of nine.

This farm is now known as the college farm and was sold to the college 15 years ago. Both of Brownie's grandfathers were blue-stocking Presbyterian ministers. His mother and father went to school at Maryville and his father directed the band. Brownie can remember as far back as 1894 when they built the annex on Anderson and he has seen the college grow from just Baldwin, Memorial, Anderson and the Book Store to it's present size. He attended school here for 5 years, starting in the seventh grade. He met his wife here at college and can relate incidents concerning the various members of the faculty and their antics. One of them is that Miss Green used to tease Brownie's girl and ask her to describe the Brown alone. During the summer months while he was a student, he helped build the chapel. He recalls how they used to chase "Whiskers", the nightwatchman, swipe class pennants, accompany the botany classes to the mountains and carry "bug-boxes" for Miss Green, the intra-class games, when there were fights between classes, and when at one such baseball game Professor Walker turned loose a greased pig, and he especially recalls the time when the sophomore class went to Proffitts to Barnwarming with three hayloads of students. Miss Green was the chaperon. Upon returning the wagons had to be stopped to remove brush-piles from the roads and while the wagons were standing still, from the cliff above, the freshman class threw three or four dozen eggs down on the occupants of the wagons which caused a general riot. As Brownie said, "We had a gay old time in those days."

The first play ever given in the chapel was presented by the Athenian Literary society of which Brownie was the treasurer. They put on "A Western Evening," and all day Saturday the members got their fathers' horses and paraded the street (s) of Maryville with 36 horses and their rides dressed as cowboys and Indians. That night the chapel was crowded to its capacity, and the admission was fifteen cents or two for a quarter. It was a big success and the proceeds

Easter Sunrise Services Begin At 4:56 a.m. In College Woods

Easter Sunrise service beginning at 4:56, Sunday morning, April 21, will be held in the amphitheater of the college woods with President Ralph W. Lloyd officiating. Special music will be sung by the College Vesper Choir directed by Richard W. Vine. The service will consist of appropriate scriptural readings, responsive readings and the following selections by the choir:

Christ is Arisen — Hirsch
Solo by Robert DuBois Choral Reading
Vistas of Song — Christiansen
The Lord's Prayer
Alleluia! The Strife is O'er — Palestrina
Alleluia! Christ Is Risen — Kopolyoff
Regeneration — Christiansen
Christ the Lord is Risen Today — Williams
Praise to the Lord — Sohren, 1668

Forming especially for this occasion, the college band will play in Anderson Tower and by the book store light at 3:45 a.m.

Easter Vesper service at 7:00 p.m. will be the presentation of Sir John Stainer's "The Crucifixion." Mr. Vine will direct the Vesper choir. Solo parts will be taken by Robert DuBois, Robert Barlow, Edward Henderson, and Harold Kidder. Miss Katharine C. Davies will accompany at the organ.

Following the usual custom, four faculty members led the Good Friday devotional services in the morning chapel service.

Dr. Orr read the scripture story of the crucifixion and Miss Grierson, Professor Fisher, and Dr. Hunter presented brief meditations based on the words of Christ on the Cross.

The college choir rendered two well-known compositions, "Were You There" and "Go to Dark Gethsemane".

The benediction was led by Dr Orr.

The noon Lenten service today concluded a week of pre-Easter prayer services begun on Monday, April 15, commonly called the "Day of Authority". Fred Wilson was chosen to begin these meetings. Robert DuBois gave the special music. On Tuesday, the "Day of Controversy", Bob Dockendorf led the group in thought. Special music was provided by Jay Bishop. Bill Grosh led on Wednesday, the "Day of Silence", with special music by Peggy Howell.

On the "Day of Fellowship", Thursday, Harvey Overton spoke and a duet was presented by Mary Margaret Robarts and Katherine Franklin. The service on Friday, the "Day of the Crucifixion", which was combined with the regular Friday night prayer meeting, was led by Ray Swartzback. Catherine Sisk sang a solo as special music. Today's meeting was led by William Vogel and marked by the return of Bob DuBois as soloist.

So You Don't Read This—

We read the other day, with a certain amount of awe and wonder at our own precise correctness in the matter, that editorials are traditionally the dullest part of all college newspapers. The reasons for this unfortunate state of things? Among a group of vivacious young college undergraduates spending a good deal of their time in getting away with everything they can conceive of themselves getting away with, who is interested in reading the "preachments" of column-and-a-half trivia? And yet there is the column-an-a-half of empty inches, awaiting the deep conclusions arrived at after many, many hours of concentrated reflections on the part of the editorial writer. And that's no joke. It does take time and mental gymnastics and hot pencils to write an opinion of any controversy, real or imagined, that can be run off the presses as a part of a newspaper's policy.

We were particularly interested to note that almost every paper comes out at sometime with an editorial column on finding a topic every week that will serve as the basis for some ten to twenty inches of worthwhile opinionating.

For many other last minute editorials have been written on the woes of editorial life, and most of the inches are taken up with the complaint that no matter what the topic, how much the time consumed, how successful any attempt at humor, philosophy or truth, it all might as well go into the waste paper basket as it comes off the typewriter instead of waiting until the readers have finished the gossip column.

"It would be encouraging," says one college editor, "to get some sign of interest, disagreement, or downright criticism. But instead all attempts are just ignored."

As for us, whether you are reading this or not, enough is enough. Because we just filled up that last inch.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Digging out last summer's bonnet and finding no hose in either Maryville or Knoxville, we have been forced to politely bow out of the fashion show beginning at 9:00 o'clock tomorrow morning. But others will be there sporting their new "outfits", and Carnegie, Baldwin, and Pearsons girls will compete for the "Best Dressed Girl at Maryville" title. Naturally, we wouldn't want to seem presumptious, but we've heard of some slick looking costumes. Harriet Perry's gray dress sounds good, and you'll have to notice Ann Anderson's. We understand she made it herself. Marge Dickinson won't be here, but, as usual, she has saved her pennies, and used her fingers. Result? A good-looking gray dress trimmed in white, and it has a peplum. But most of all we're looking forward to seeing Eugene Norton in his yellow sweater.

Yes, Easter's coming—and so is Esther! Haven't you seen Art bouncing around here excitedly? Another northerner is arriving on the premises. Her name is Janie. Of course, we realize that Margaret has been here a week tonight. Bob doesn't wear that smile so constantly every week. Thelma Richardson is here. Then there is Art Rowan who left seminary in Pittsburgh to visit a Baldwin sophomore, known as Corny. Beam! Beam! Beam! Art spent many long months overseas, and Corny spent just as many in these eastern states. We remember the night he hit the states just before Christmas. No studying was done in 315 Baldwin after that call from California. Mary Jane Mackey hopes that a sailor will find his way to Maryville again this weekend. Frankly, we didn't know it was possible to have a visitor more than once a semester. Her sister will be here, anyway. George may be here to see Elaine. Bunny's here and we don't mean an Easter bunny. Parents may visit on Easter, too. For proof, campus newcomers are the Baiers, the Kells, and the Thompsons. Malcolm Heans and Trevor Williams are here to see—let us think; who could they be seeing? Maybe it's Jeanne Heans and Jean Messer? By the way, we heard that Jean and Trevor are going to see that those wedding bells will be ringing on May 25. Marion Swift has some visitors. And then there are others.

ECHO-HUMOR

By DON KENT

NOTES FOR A PSYCHIATRIST: Suffering and Self-pity.

The other day downtown, I happened to see a pint-sized individual in a warm discussion with an overgrown hulk of a man. As the discussion developed into hot argument, and argument into sizzling quarrel, the midget became more and more bellicose as his vocabulary decreased. (That is an unhealthy attitude that we who are sub-standard in stature often affect as a result of psychological maladjustment, you know.)

Finally, his patience gone, the man mountain dropped one tremendous first flat on the pest's head and the mite struck the sidewalk with a snap.

As I stood there watching him bounce, it reminded me of the time when I was a freshman in high school on the intramural basketball team. I was even smaller at that time than at the inconsiderable present, and so thin that from the side my head looked like a big red balloon on a bamboo stick.

Anyway, during one particularly peppy mix-up, a team-mate, mistaking me for the ball, dribbled me rapidly down the floor by the head, bounced me expertly off the backboard, and sank me neatly through the hoop.

Luckily I managed to grab the net on the way down and thus save myself from what might otherwise have been a nasty fall. But there I hung, dangling fearfully over space until the local fire department could be summoned to rescue me.

I flatter myself that I've suffered no ill effects from the experience, but there are those who wonder—aloud.

For example, there was that Army doctor who was examining me. He asked me my weight.

"One hundred twenty," I apologized.

"Height?" he demanded.

"Sixty-four inches," I told him.

"That's five feet four inches," he said. "Why don't you say 'five feet four inches'?"

"I don't think it's worth mentioning it in feet, do you?"

He looked at me, spat contemptuously into the corner cuspidor, and said, "No."

Is it any wonder I disliked the Army?

For a long time now—oh, several years, in fact—I've had an aswer ready for the giants who make wisecracks in a superior way.

"Look," is my repartee, "it's ninety-three million miles from here to the sun. Do you think twelve inches on top of your head makes any difference?"

I've had that answer all ready, as I say, for years, but nobody stays around long enough for me to get the point across. It really should be shortened some. Maybe I should use the distance to the moon instead.

Seems as if gifts—big gifts—are in order lately. An important addition to the Easter Parade. Ruth Lloyd was given a bea-u-ti-ful diamond by Frank Kramer. You know him. The guy with a brown sport jacket like everyone wants. We've been expecting the diamond incident for some time, but it was nice that she could receive it for her birthday. Engagements are catching, for Charlotte Proffitt received her glittering stone from Kenneth through the mail last Wednesday. We always wondered why she had already picked out her silver pattern.

With so many people coming, the law equilibrum proves that oodles are leaving for a few short days, or should we say "hours"? Several of them are: Charlotte Laster to Birmingham; D. Cockerhan and Jean Wilkinson going home with Katie Holden; B. Rogers going home (as usual); Billie Jean Wright also is honoring the hometown; lucky Audrey Dear flew to Florida yesterday for her sister's Easter wedding; Margaret Galbraith left for Chattanooga this morning; Jeanette McCamy went to Georgia.

Four fellows decided to make their Easter trip a bit early. We're speaking of Bill Stewart, Merrill Grubbs, Matt Cardella, and Bob Robinson, who were kindly offered invitations to Fort Oglethorpe this week.

Easter—Easter eggs—chicks—and Jeanette Wemmer, Carolyn Scruggs, and Janet Locke. Jeanette and Carolyn spied the chicks down at the J. and K. store and decided to adopt a green one for a pet. They even bought a pound of food for the "dear little thing", and while gone to class they left the pet in the custody of Janet. But the creature peeped—and it peeped—AND PEEPED! The desperate Janet picked up the chick and food, slipped out of the dormitory, and dashed across the street to a house. There she shoved the armload into the willing hands of a proud little boy. Needless to say, the boy is pleased with his gift.

Speaking of chicks, let's change our train of "thought" and think of tadpoles for a minute. Janet Miller had an occasion to think of one for quite sometime; thanks to her table. In her answer to them she included these words:

I drank some milk, set the glass down,
And, then, upon scrutinization—
I thought I saw—oh no! Not this
But it was—inner habitation!!
Can't think of anymore to say,
Except when "Curdle" dies,
If you find him in your glass,
I'm just trying him for size.

If, as it seems, gifts are in order, we'd like to give a few Easter corsages. Few jobs are more obscure on this hill than those of the members of the ECHO business staff, and few have greater responsibilities. It is their work that makes your paper possible. So to you, Miriam, and to your staff, Williams, Stewart, Johnson, Monteith, and Blanton, we say, "Thanks and hats off to you for doing a hard job well."

The editor thinks enough space has been taken so here's closing with a few disconnected items. Ella Mae Thompson believes it is time for her to quit going to gym. Jim Black can give explicit directions on how to go to the wrong church. Mary Smith was 22 last Sunday. Betty Harte hasn't recovered from a bicycle ride. Justice Miracle wants his name in the paper. Couples seen recently are M. Eddy and B. Kribbs, Carver and Bird, A. Childress and Malone. Thanks for the "go-ahead" signal from Louise Walker who says, "I don't care. You can put in anything you want." A HAPPY EASTER TO EVERYONE!

TALK OF THE WEEK..... By JUNE GOWANLOCK

Spring Cleaning a Contagious Business; Beware of the Bog

Has the bug bitten you? Have you dragged out pails, rags, mops, etc., etc.? Have you slaved at a back-breaking task for a whole afternoon? In other words, have you been spring cleaning?

Well, it bit US. We dragged out all the paraphernalia necessary for the job of giving our room that unheard-of thorough cleaning. We slaved in back-breaking labor for one whole afternoon. WE have been spring house cleaning!

After collecting our equipment, we began first of all on the windows. After all, we do have to be able to see what we're doing! And from the encrustment of dirt on our windows, one could clearly see (or could not see at all) why we had to clean them first. All I can say is that now the sky looks blue and the grass looks green.

Then for the floor. It was quite a job to move all our furniture out into the hall, and when we did get it out, the hall looked like an auction hall full of junk just waiting for the highest bidder. Later on, after the bug had flown, bit, and bit, again and again, and the hall had become fuller and fuller of odd pieces of furniture, anyone going the whole length of the floor at a pace faster than that of goo spreading over ice cream at the supper table, looked like a pleased 2-year-old who had just completed a tough obstacle course.

"I absolutely refuse to sweep out that closet! I swept it only a month ago and it surely doesn't need sweeping again so soon." Thus we decided that only the corners and middle of the floor needed sweeping. But try as we could, the dust simply would NOT come out of the radiator. At long last we found a hand broom that must have been made just for us to use to clean our radiator, so swift was its action.

"Since we've cleaned the radiator, we may as well dust the pipes and the top molding." No sooner said than done.

After sweeping AGAIN, we were ready to mop. Run get the bucket! Oh, it leaks, run get a pan to hold the excess! Run get some of the soap Len uses! Run get the mop! My poor tired roommate! Gee, is our floor clean!

Pushing all that heavy furniture back in was some job but finally the room, in arrangement of desk, beds, and so forth, was just as it had been. And we were ready to dust, clean and rearrange drawers, and put clean sheets on our beds.

It's a strange thing—although those nice clean sheets are already rumpled, our stuff is still dusty and our clothes are still crammed into the drawers.

Oh, well, maybe later . . . .

Antiquated Antics

By BETTY HARTE

ANTI ANTICS

Don't be dogmatic! Don't set your time machine back so far. Be modern!

Okay.....okay.....Speaking of change, folks in March of 1942 were talking about the stringent recreational set-up. "We need something—but I don't know what," one perplexed student said. A more concrete suggestion was offered by another. "The faculty should present its version of a model entertainment for students; only the faculty should participate. Then the students should present their program, according to their viewpoint. This would stimulate interest and closely together." The reason why town night is on Tuesday becomes evident when we note that one girl specified that there be unchaperoned dating one night a week—"not on Saturday when all the mountaineers take holidays. We don't want to see cowboy thrillers either." Several persons believed that "two modern popular motion pictures a month could be successfully presented in the chapel. Regular admission should be charged."

Ahh, but in November 1942, a novelty was initiated. A date bureau! Thirty-three erstwhile, lonely males from the Johnson Bible college sent a picture of their choir along with their names and heights. The day the picture arrived the Maryville 'middle man' endured a mad attack as the gals scrambled to sign up for the handsomest and tallest. There was a program in the Christian church and then an hilarious and unlonesome-ish party in Bartlett gym. Hmm....a date bureau.....Maryville.....1942.....why not 1946?.....those first six weeks.....food for thought.....and fun!

"Have you signed my Chilhowean yet?" asks the autograph-seeker. Smile and say, "No, I don't believe I have"; take his pen; write something like "I'll never forget the time we got stuck in Knoxville without a ride"; sign your name; and go your way. So far so good. The 1942 featurist goes on into more detail about how to dismiss the scrambling springtime autograph-seekers. Here we are with an avid desire to have cause for having them around!

Not to be satirical or anything—Teacher: Are you using crib notes on this exam? Student: No, sir, I'm copying out of the textbook. Teacher: Oh, I beg your pardon.

"One Night in Carnegie" is the title of a 1942 feature describing Carnegie when the fellows had it. As the curtain rises, we see two fellows in their room, busily engaged in the art of studying, chewing gum, and telling each other about the swell time they had that night they went to well-you-know-where, and many other articles too numerous to mention.

"First student: Wonder if we will have to hand these papers in?

"Roommate: Sure you will, what do you think you're writing it for? Where the heck is that paraprapph that tells about the hair on the honey bee?

"First student: Hair on a honey bee—it's on that page somewhere and speaking of hair, have you seen the freshman strawberry blond? MMMMmmm.

"Roommate: Sure, I've seen her, I've got a date for the show tomorrow."

"First student: Boy, are you lucky to get a date with her. Bob is looking after her pur-tee well.

"Roommate: I didn't mean with her, but just give me time and then watch my dust.

Change the gender and conversation is just about the same, eh what?

Daffynitions—

Strike: Something that always catches business with its pants down.

Dope Ring: A bunch of morons standing in a circle.

Arabia: Where everybody dances sheik to sheik.

Drunkard: One who attempts to pull himself out of trouble with a corkscrew.

Old-Timer: One who remembers when a strike use to be called only by a baseball umpire.

Spring Is Here and We Have Two Sports at M.C.

In the spring time a young man's fancy turns to . . . well, besides what he has been thinking about all year, his thoughts on these beautiful spring days (the days it doesn't rain) turn to sports.

It has been a long time since this college has had two sports going at the same time. Of course until this past winter it had been a long time since this college had had any intercollegiate sports at all. But at present it seems mighty good to be having both tennis and baseball under way. This program manages to keep most of the athletes or would-be athletes on campus plenty busy these afternoons. And as one fellow put it, this is the time of year a fellow needs to keep busy—to keep his mind off the approaching formidable exams.

Practice Baseball Game

Yesterday the Maryville baseball team saw its first competition in the practice game with the local independent outfit which calls itself the Vets. The final score read 8 to 4 against the college. But Coach Honaker was really fairly well pleased with the showing. He said he expected the team to make a lot of mistakes, but it was the dropping a couple of easy fly balls in the last inning that hurt the M.C. baseballers worst.

In the game yesterday which was only a five inning affair some of the Highlanders were seeing their first real baseball competition. And others were seeing their first baseball in three or four years. So it was easy to see why Coach was expecting a bunch of mistakes. Another thing that hurt the college team was the fact that a couple of the players were at Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia taking army physicals while the game was in progress. Mat Cardella, the only catcher on the squad, was one; and Bill Stewart, third base, was the other. Burt Slater filled Stewart's position very capably, but Lloyd Chandler who subbed for Cardella is definitely not a catcher.

The college team meets the same independent outfit this afternoon on the college field, and we predict that the Highlanders will make a better showing. The game today is scheduled to begin at three o'clock.

The opening college game which was scheduled with East Tennessee Teachers at Johnson City this Tuesday has been cancelled or postponed due to the conflicting choir trip and the general lack of readiness of the team. The Scotties will open the college competition next week with a game with Hiwassee College.

Maryville Stays Out of Conference

Several weeks ago we mentioned in this column that plans were afoot to reorganize the Smoky Mountain Conference, which was the athletic conference which Maryville belonged to before the war. The conference has been reorganized, and several of the schools which were in it before the war have gotten back into it. Maryville is one of the colleges which did not get into it. They tell us the reason for M.C.'s staying out of it was that there is too much subsidizing going on in some of the colleges who were foremost in reorganizing it.

There has been some talk of Maryville getting into a conference with schools which have the same policy that we do of no athletic subsidization, such as Centre and Sewanee. No scholarships for football is a new course for these two schools, but they definitely have committed themselves to that policy. However it is most likely that Maryville will not enter that proposed conference. Coach Honaker says that "at present" Maryville is not going into a conference.

College "9" Loses Practice Contest To Independents

Thursday afternoon on the college field the Highlander baseball squad met the Vets, a local independent team, in an abbreviated practice game and lost by the score of 8 to 4.

It was the first competition for the Maryville team. The game played for experience was also for the purpose of seeing how the college talent looks in competition. The substitutions were numerous for the Scotties. Malone started the game as pitcher for MC. Huffman, Miller, and Smith all took their turns. Chandler and Slater were the Highlander catchers. Stinnett and Hanlon were the opposing hurlers.

The Vets started the scoring with two runs in the first inning and added two in the third and four in the final inning for their total scoring. The college men got two each in the second and third.

Scot Netters Drop Match To L.M.U.

Highlanders Open Season With Loss

On Saturday afternoon, April 13, the Scottie tennis squad engaged the Lincoln Memorial University netters on the LMU courts and came out on the short end of a 5 to 2 score. The only two matches which the Maryville lads won were the number one and two singles matches. They dropped number three, four, and five singles and both doubles matches.

Bob Hunter in his number one match played steadily to win in two straight sets by scores of 6-4 and 6-2. At the same time in the adjoining court Abbott Kemp was winning his number-two-man match by scores of 6-3 and 7-5. But from then on it was all LMU. Tom Wheeler dropped his match in two sets 6-4 and 6-2. Harold Hunter was outclassed by his opponent 6-2 and 6-3. His opponent was the number-one-man on LMU's 1942 tennis squad. Bill Dinges lost his match after taking the first set easily 6-2. Second set score was 6-4 and Dinges finally dropped his last set 9-7 after having his opponent at match point several times.

Doubles competition was lacking as far as the Scotties were concerned. Bob Hunter and Tom Wheeler teamed up against LMU's numbers one and four men only to be decidedly defeated 6-1 and 6-4. The story runs "ditto" for Harold Hunter and Kemp against their numbers two and three men. Final scores were 6-1 and 6-4.

Coach Bob Hunter wasn't too displeased with the performances of the team in their first intercollegiate competition. He thinks the experience will be good for them and that before the season ends they should improve a great deal.

Athenian Wins In Volley Ball Match

Last Saturday evening in Bartlett Hall the Athenians gave the Alpha Sigs a sound thrashing in three straight volleyball games. The scores of the games were 21-6, 21-7, and 21-8. There were only seven players present for Alpha Sigma while the Athenians had enough players for about three teams and substituted freely.

Sam Kribbs refereed the games.

Dean McClelland Speaks to Association

Dean Frank A. McClelland spoke at the twenty-fifth meeting of the Tennessee College Association in Nashville Thursday afternoon, April 18. His topic was "Problems in the Admission of Veterans." He attended the meeting with Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, who was president of the Association at its last meeting in 1943. Dean Fred C. Smith of U-T and two officials of the Veterans Administration were among the speakers at this meeting, the theme of which was "Veteran's Education in Tennessee Colleges."

The Association is made up of approximately 35 colleges and universities in the state which meet certain requirements.

The Association predicted at this meeting that next year would see more students enrolled in colleges than ever before.

GERMAN CLUB

The German club picnic of Monday, April 15, was postponed until a later date and the next meeting will be Monday, April 29.

C-N Netmen Edge MC In Close One

Outcome Determined By Last Match

Thursday afternoon, April 18, on the Memorial courts the netters from Carson-Newman College barely eked out a victory over the Maryville tennis team, winning four of the seven matches. The score was tied at three each when the final doubles match was played and taken by the visitors from Jefferson City.

In single competition Bob Hunter dropped his match to "Liddie" Cullum. These were the number one men of both teams. Scores were 5-7 and 1-6.

Abbott Kemp, number two man, took his singles match from Clark in two easy sets 6-3 and 6-2.

Tom Wheeler was trounced in the number three match by the scores 0-6, 1-6. His opponent was Gibson.

Harold Hunter lost his match to Johnson by the scores of 5-7 and 2-6.

Bill Dinges in the number five position was victorious in his singles match. Dinges took the first set handily, 6-2, but had to extend himself to take the other set finally by a 10 to 8 score.

In the doubles competition Bob Hunter teamed with Kemp to win the number one doubles match over Cullum and Clark, 6-8, 6-4, and 6-3.

Then with the score standing at three matches for each squad the number two doubles match was the deciding competition for the whole match. Harold Hunter and Tom Wheeler met Gibson and Johnson. The first set was extremely close with the home boys coming out on the small end of a 10-12 score and then dropping the next one 2-6.

Sports activity for today includes a tennis match between the M.C. team and the squad from East Tennessee Teachers on the Memorial courts at 1:30 and a baseball game on the college field at 3:00 between the Scots and the Vets, local independent team.

PRE-MED CLUB

ing at the back of her dress, with delightful results. Mary Estes wore a yummy light green nylon and rayon dress with unusual side drapes and draped sleeves. Jean McCall's blue-green print was heralded with "Dress for your man!" Was P. D. in the audience? Betty Ann Ward in her aqua and white crepe looked so dignified I didn't know her. Margery Dickinson's creation in gray spun rayon with white piping to accentuate the shoulder lines and pepulum was exquisite. Noted Miss Meiselwitz 3-4 length part-mink coat; Lottie Lavender's Adrian sleeves; the three oriental prints ..... Mr. Hughes interrupted my train of thought at this point by asking where and what the oriental print was. It took five minutes but we won.

The next group of dresses was entitled "For Someone One Else." Ruth Lloyd's yellow dotted Swiss with its multitude of buttons for decoration struck the latest note in fashion. Donna Smalley's military belt (ROTC) was equally fascinating. Among the summer dress group Mary Ruth Barber also emphasized the new button trend by accentuating the sideseam of her coral spun rayon with white dollar buttons.

All three formals were striking. Miss Meiselwitz modelled a sequined black crepe hostess gown with a slit drape. June Burns fashioned a bodice from an old black velvet dress and a skirt from yellow net. A lace formal from the 1920's, a little ingenuity, a lot of work, some off-white marquisette—presto! Mary Ruth Barber's enchantingly different evening gown.

Teddy bear in one hand, candle in the other, Jo Liddell in a flannel nightie bade us, "Good night, folks!"

'Dreams' is Subject of Noted Bishop's Talk to Students

Paul B. Kern in Wed. Chapel Stated "Only Dreams are Enduring"

The leader of our Wednesday chapel service for April 17 was Bishop Paul B. Kern of the Methodist church. Rev. E. E. Wiley, of the First Methodist church, read the scripture and Rev. C. P. Hardin of the Broadway Methodist church, gave the prayer. An introduction to the speaker was made by Dr. Lloyd who mentioned that Bishop Kern was a native of Virginia, graduated from Randolph-Macon university, and saw his first service in the Orient in 1930.

Bishop Kern chose his text from the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. Using as his subject dreams, the bishop said that dreams make visible the invisible and although we may dream at night or during the day, dreams that appear to us silly are "the stuff of which life is made." Men and women live where they are able to create the visible out of the invisible, he stated. He mentioned Martha Berry, Jane Adams, Booker T. Washington, and Woodrow Wilson as examples of dreamers who made their dreams become realities. Bishop Kern stated further that we should never be ashamed of our dreams because they are ourselves at our best, and added that ideals are the only ultimate realities of this world. He said, "Life has no challenge greater than showing the redemption of the world and ushering new worlds in. Put your life in the hands of a great dreamer—God."

The world waits for men and women to dream and believe in peace and victory. "Peace is the structural reality of the world," he said.

"The most enduring thing in life is dreams. They are the stars that hold us steady in our course and bring us home. Dreams are not fragile. Nothing else endures save only dreams," he concluded.

were used to buy a piano which is now being used above the treasurer's office in Anderson as a practice piano.

Brownie has been working here since 1905 and his first jobs were those of operating and caring for the electric dynamos, that furnished electricity for the buildings, firing the boilers, and tending the gas engines that pumped water from the college creek to the campus. After five years of that he was elevated to, as he terms it, "Engineer and Scapegoat." The yearbook lists him as Ernest Chalmers Brown, Engineer, but that isn't the whole story. Brownie's day starts at seven a.m. and he is responsible for heat, light, and the grounds and that covers a lot of territory. He does just about everything one can imagine according to Dr. Griffitts, and his quitting hours are "anytime Mr. Black isn't looking", but he puts in a full eight hour day. Besides all this he was once assistant nightwatchman and as he says, "I've done everything but sit in the president's chair."

At present, besides his work on campus, Brownie is Acting Mayor of Maryville while Mayor Gamble is on his vacation, a member of the City Commission, a Ruling Elder in the New Providence Presbyterian church, a one-time assistant superintendent of the Sunday school there, and he has been on the church board for thirty years. And to top off the job, he has raised two children and has been a grandfather for two and one-half years.

VOLUME 31 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 27, 1946 NUMBER 21

"In Step With Him" Is Theme Of "Y" Retreat At Montvale

"In Step With Him" has been chosen as the pivotal theme for the annual YM and YW retreat held today at Montvale Springs. Approximately one hundred students and advisors attended the all-day program. Rev. Mr. Philip Evaul, assistant minister of New Providence church, directed the three worship services using variations of the central theme, opening with "Marching Orders" at nine a.m. at the foot of Look Rock. The scripture was read by one of the members. This message on the compulsion of Christian service was followed by a business meetings of old and new cabinets of both organizations.

Nu Gamma leaders met at the same time with their chairman, Elsie Jean Cotton, to discuss plans for the welcome of incoming freshmen and transfer women.

A picnic lunch and supper were prepared by the following committee of cooks: Lucile Sitler, Edith Earle, Sarah Enloe, Jessie Lou Brunson, and Abner Richard.

Recreation took the form of a mountain climb up to Lookout Rock where the second worship service was held at 3:30 p.m. "Daily Rations" or the essentials for Christian service was the theme. Bob Dockendorf read the scripture.

A campfire program of a humorous nature followed the picnic supper. The concluding worship service, "Establishing Beachheads" described the means of service. Ray Swartzback read the scripture. Special music numbers were also a part of the three services.

Installation of the new officers for YM was then held as Bob Dockendorf gave his duties as president to Fred Wilson, president-elect. Other officers are: Ray Swartzback, vice-president, Thomas Wheeler, secretary, and Bill Vogel, treasurer.

Dr. R. T. Case, Mr. Commodore Fisher and Dr. H. E. Orr attended as representatives of the YM Advisory board. Mrs. D. H. Briggs, Mrs. Verton M. Queener, Mrs. Commodore Fisher, and Mrs. H. E. Orr represented the YW advisors.

Shift to Eastern Time Effective at Midnight

Maryville college students and faculty members will lose an hour of sleep tonight when all the clocks of the town of Maryville and the college are set up one hour in observance of the change to Eastern Standard time which is effective at 12:01 Sunday morning.

Church time will remain the same for services Sunday morning. It will simply mean moving watches and clocks forward one hour Saturday evening, and coming to Sunday school and church at the usual hour.

Two Short Stories Read at Workshop By Grosh, Garland

Two short stories, "Familiar and Troublesome" and "Thy Will Be Done" were presented at the Wednesday meeting of Writers' Workshop.

William Grosh's story, "Familiar and Troublesome", was the account of a naval aviator who dreamed his plane had crashed in the Pacific Ocean. In the dream, he saw himself on a life raft, covered with oil embedded with bits of windshield splinters, and wondering if he would survive. Weakened from his dream to go on combat patrol, he took off with his division, and came across enemy aircraft. In the ensuing action his plane was hit, and in the instant before he jumped he caught a glimpse of himself in the mirror. His face was black with oil, thick with splinters of the shattered windshield.

The story was amusing and cleverly told. Several small natural details of carrier pilot life and good word choice added to its interesting effect.

June Garland, in her story, "Thy Will Be Done", told of the problem that faced a young field worker as Director of Religious Education in the mountains of North Carolina. The critic, Don Kent, pointed out how well the theme of the story, faith in God, was carried through the story and made it possible for the girl to succeed in face of seemingly insurmountable difficulties.

Next weeks' readers are William Robarts and Alma Lancaster. June Garland and Peter Van Blarcom will criticize.

The S.S. Maryville Is At Sea Again— In Peace Time, She Is A Freighter

The S.S. Maryville Victory has gone to sea again. The ship, which was launched the 22nd of February, 1945 and named for Maryville College is no longer a troop ship but has been reconverted and is once more a freighter. It was last fall in Mobile, Alabama that she first became a troop ship. Her first trip was from Mobile to Marseille, France and then to New York carrying 1554 troops. The second trip took her first to Nagoya, Japan then to Jinsen, Korea where a load of approximately 1500 homeward bound troops boarded her and came to Seattle, Washington. This information is taken from letters received by Dr. Lloyd from E. L. Bloomfield, chief radio officer of the ship. In the letter written April 2nd, from Seattle, Mr. Bloomfield says, "We are now in the shipyard undergoing reconversion and the 'Maryville' when she comes out will be a freight ship again. We expect our next voyage to commence sometime around the middle of this month. We probably will go to Canada and pick up part of a cargo of grain and from there to Cuba to finish off with sugar and then over to Europe via the Panama Canal-Caribbean-Atlantic route of travel."

Mr. Bloomfield also sent a copy of the souvenir edition of the "Maryville Monitor", a daily paper published by the troops aboard the ham: 3000 pounds of bacon; 1500 on the ship itself some interesting comparisons were made concerning its capacity and facilities. The capacity of the fuel oil tanks is 13,000 barrels giving a cruising range of 15,000 to 16,000 miles at 15 knots. Enough of this fuel is used each day to heat your home for two years. The refrigeration equipment on board is canable of a cooling effect equal to about 10 tons of ice melting every day, which is the amount that you would use in 13 months in your home. The total capacity of the electrical facilities is sufficient to handle about 200 homes of average requirements. As the writer of the article so aptly put it, "She is some baby! The pride and joy of the California Ship Building Company!"

Another article in this same paper was about the food aboard the ship, in which the writer says, "We must admit that the food has been far above average—for army chaw." The amount of food consumed by the troops alone in thirteen days was sixty-five tons (13,000 pounds), eight pounds per man, or a "little over the weight of a GI duffel bag chock full of clothing, blankets, a Jap rifle and 3 Samurai swords." Stated in plain figures, some of the specific items include 800 pounds of soda crackers; 62,000 packages of cookies; 1600 pounds of dry cereals; 5000 pounds of beef, pork, chicken and ham; 3000 pounds of bacon; 1500 pounds of veal; 12,000 pounds of potatoes; 2500 pounds of butter; 54,000 eggs; 1000 gallon jugs of Avoset (stabilized milk); 21,500 ice-cream filled Dixie cups; 3000 pounds of jams and jellies; 140 crates of apples; 76 crates of oranges; 4500 pounds of sugar; and 3000 pounds of coffee. Multiply these figures several times, and you can easily see why some foods were especially scarce during the war.

Having celebrated her first birthday only two months ago, the S.S. Maryville Victory is still a very young ship, but she has already found her place and helped do her part. She has sailed in both the Pacific and the Atlantic, touched four of the seven continents, and brought several thousand American boys safely home again. She is a clean, fast ship, and the ship's log shows she has withstood all kinds of weather. She's a ship to be proud of, and we here at Maryville hone she will continue to give satisfaction to those who are depending on her.

Fete Is Dedicated To Miss Green

Processional at 2:30, College Amphitheater

May Day Festival, dedicated this year to Miss Susan Green, head of the biology department, will be held on May 1, at 2:30 p.m. in the college amphitheater. First the Processional of attendants and the queen who are: freshman attendants Grace Hildebrand and David Campbell, Ouida Newman and James Black; sophomore attendants Janet Rich and Max House, Elizabeth Crawford and Carl Murray; juniors Virginia Miller and Bill Vogel, Jessie Lou Brunson and Ray Swartzbackk; senior attendants to the queen are Catherine Payne and Jane Callahan. The theme of May Day is the story of Rip Van Winkle. The part of Rip Van Winkle is done by Bob Thompson. In the first episode the scene is the village green at Laughing Waters with Rip Van Winkle and his friends. The villagers dance and other villagers sing. Then a dwarf enters. The second episode changes the scene to the Katskill Mountains and Rip Van Winkle enters, the men of the mountain bowl, and thunder is heard. There is a dance by the elves of the mountains done by nine little boys; the song of the mountains is heard and Rip Van Winkle falls asleep. The third episode is May Day on the village green of Laughing Waters twenty years later. Rip Van Winkle wakes up; the villagers sing. Rip and Old Men do a dance and Rip Van Winkle makes himself known to old friends. Again the villagers sing and dance the Maypole.

This program is sponsored by the YWCA of Maryville college with Mrs. Nita Eckles West as general director, music under Curtis Hughes, dance under the direction of Mrs. Queener and Miss Hazel Eddins in charge of costumes. The YWCA committee in charge consists of Jean Messer, Joy Stewart, Lottie Lavender and Mary Ruth Barber.

'Ittle Bittie Baby Want His Bottle? Or, Why Miss Ware Doesn't Milk Cows

Green leaves teased the feeble rays of light that dawned on the sleeping farm. Bleary-eyed she sat on her three-cornered stool in the middle of the dewy meadow. Twenty-one cows to milk—all by herself. Her fingers ached but she wearily worked on. Painfully the hours dragged on until five o'clock a.m. Then, with a pail on her head, one on each shoulder, one in the crook of each arm, and one hanging from each finger, she cautiously picked her way to Pearson's hall.

After depositing the pails where the sun could sour them, she picked up a huge bushel basket and began to peer under each blade of grass. It was hard on the eyes but she liked to collect bugs for the macaroni and was willing to work strenuously to put this delicacy on her tables.

Cackling chickens distracted her for a moment. Featherless chickens—just bumps of skin with a gigantic liver in the middle.

Ignoring them, she continued to work until six, when she returned to the kitchen porch. The milk, setting in the sun, had soured just enough. She carried it inside.

Deliberately she got out a teaspoon and mixed the cauldron of oleo so that it would be streaky and uneven. Then, she meandered over to a damp, dark corner to see if the cocoa was moldy enough.

It was almost time for the waitresses to come, so she got out her sun lamp and began to dry the bread.

The ice cream man came with a ton of ice cream sandwiches. She was so glad. She liked nothing better than ice cream sandwiches.

* * * * * * *

Is this your idea of what goes on in the preparation of our meals? It's someone's idea.

The following anonymous postcard was received: "Dear Miss Ware. The food situation is deplorable. The macaroni is buggy consistently: the cocoa has tasted of mold; the chicken dishes are all skin and liver and overdone; the bread is dry; the milk is an insult to any cow; and ice cream sandwiches ??"

We, the waitresses, forward the following to our ardent admirer: Lamb chile, a long, long time ago when you were too young to remember, there was a war and a war-torn world. And meat was so scarce your Mommy couldn't get any! But Miss Ware was so lucky she got more than the stores got. And honey, your Mommy couldn't have dessert twice a week, let alone twice a day! What's more when we had this war and post-war period that you don't seem to recall, folks all over Europe were starving—so your Mommy and

'Encampment For Citizenship' Will Recruit 200 Youths

A recruiting campaign has just been launched for 200 young men and women of varying races, creeds and social and economic backgrounds, who are outstanding in their community's civic and social affairs, to participate in the "Encampment for Citizenship"—a practical workshop on citizenship sponsored by the American Ethical Union as part of its 70th Anniversary program.

Opening on July 1 at the 14-acre Fieldston School in Riverdale, New York, for a six week period, the "Encampment for Citizenship" is a five-year plan which each year will bring together two hundred youths from 17 to 22 years of age in a program of self-government and cooperative living. "Encampment for Citzenship" headquarters are located at 2 West 64th Street, New York City.

Youths, recommended to the Encampment by churches, schools, farm groups, clubs and unions throughout the United States as having shown interest and leadership ability, will together study such problems as will affect their communities in the years ahead. They will share in planning education and recreation programs and perform necessary "squad details" that go with group living.

Studies of natural resources and how increased knowledge can promote a higher standard of living,

JUST A REMINDER

Maryville is traditionally well-known for its pervading atmosphere of friendliness. No one could be so presumptious as to give students on the Hill directions for flashing warm smiles or instructions as to dropping friendly greetings around the campus. From the first day as a freshman we can remember the happy words of welcome from returned students who were eager to help us find the registration lines or an inexpensive up-front chapel seat.

And yet last homecoming we received a request to write a word about the treatment of campus visitors. Presumably there was some cause for such a suggestion.

This then, is just a reminder that visitors to the campus do notice and appreciate little courtesies. Favor your friend's parents with the same acts of recognition that you found on your first day.

And please be reasonable about the chapel seats.

LATE FOR CRUSADING?

There is no piano in the big gym, unless you choose to name that battered wreck that boasts some twenty-odd unbroken, if untuned, strings a piano. Furthermore, there seems to be no provision for making a piano available for those occasions requiring one.

Obviously a large, drafty gymnasium is not an ideal place for a piano. The college has found it a problem to keep one there: they just wear out. It is difficult for the music department to keep their much used intruments in satisfactory condition without risking their already numbered days in being hauled from one end of the campus to another. There are any number of arguments and reasons for not having a piano in the gym.

But think back. How many programs can you remember which required no piano? Most of them do. The program chairmen bring their own. Which means they beat their heads against a stone wall of indifference until they find someone from whom they can borrow.

Perhaps it is rather late in the semester to start a "Bigger and Better Piano in the Gym Campaign," but it is something for an organization or group of organizations to consider as a worth-while project for next year. It is something that is drastically needed. It is something that will benefit the entire student body. The music department and the college have expressed a willingness to cooperate during this crisis until pianos are again available. Bigger miracles have been worked.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

There is simply this about the situation. There comes a time in everyone's life when writing is more difficult than usual. The roommate continues to refuse to assist us; so, dear readers, after trying and being dissatisfied with numerous opening paragraphs, we decided to merely admit that we can't find any; consequently, we'll use none. (Pretend with us that we usually have them.)

Well, that settled that. Now we can launch out into the ocean of gossip, which, incidentally, doesn't seem too plentiful. Maybe it's the fact that most of the Easter visitors have gone, and the campus is unwillingly settling down to those last weeks of cramming and longing for those homeward-bound trips. But some visitors are still arriving on the scene. Mrs. Wilson is here visiting Helen Marie and Fred. . . . Margaret Moore came to see Judy Turk . . . . Then, too, Sonny Campbell was here this week. Sonny is living at home and attending the New Jersey State Teacher's College this year. She plans to marry in June of '47. . . . We heard that Ada Huffman was around and that she and husband Harold will probably be back at Maryville for the senior year next fall. . . . Eva Toro's mother will be here for another week. . . . A prospective visitor is Miriam Gutzka, who is now cadet nurse in Atlanta. She will be visiting Agnes Peterson, and that reminds us! Does everyone know that Peter is engaged? We don't know too much, or how much of that we're supposed to print, so you can ask her all the questions when she makes an appearance on campus. Pardon us, though, while we let our personal feelings show, and mention how lucky the fellow is. We offer our warmest congratulations to both of them.

Even though Easter has become a thing of the past, let us not forget the orchid list. The hill fairly looked like an "orchid factory." We're not attempting to present a complete list, but some of the lucky gals are Lettie Sunday, Marianna Hayes, Ginger Clabough, Jean Heaps, Lonnja Richardt, Ginny Miller, M. J. Long, Henrietta Turner, Buffie Carver and Marie Baxter.

Last Saturday night was a gala event at "Club 47." Especially entertaining were the performances of Sandy and Roy Smith (You know the Smith Bros.). Sandy proved his ability to pounce on a piano as well as Roy can make a drum talk. Equally good were the waitresses, ushers, and cigarette girls (with cookies). In fact, the juniors deserve a lot of credit for a grand Saturday night program.

We can't help but think that perhaps we'd better make a trip down to see Dr. Burchfield soon, specificly to have the two eyes examined. There just doesn't seem to be an explanation for the sights we've been seeing lately. Three boys around here ar getting mixed up on the girl friend deal. Bob Robinson mistook Carol Fuller for Barbara Blair; John Briggs thought Shirley Oshana was Belle Alverson and Don Barber allowed Mae Short to substitute for Kitty Johnson. Hope you notice that the rivaling girls room with each other. But Barber deserves the cake along these lines. While the ever-popular Johnson was announcing something-or-other, Barber managed to get himself and Kitty Stidham moonshined. Congratulations to the two Kittys for not acting "catty" to each oher.

Competing with the Carnegie girls and their chicks, Marky Cross was given two little ducks for Easter by a thoughtful Dick Scruggs. The ducks are now in the custody of Dr. Briggs' family, and Marky and Dick see that they get their daily swim.

Lib Baird's father is "on the beam." Noticing a classring around her neck during his recent Maryville visit, Mr. Baird said, "Well, as one bathtub said to another, 'Whose ring are you wearing now?'" He might have found out: we didn't.

Peewee Reagan's twin brother may be here before long. He's a six foot edition of Peewee. . . . Heard that Rush Lester may be back next year. . . . We saw a little incident the other day that we'd like to write a feature on, but next year's Editor Parkinson said we wouldn't have a job if dared to do such a thing.

Just wondering . . . if the choir had a nice trip . . . about Argyle King and Bill Houdeshel. . . when Mrs. Snyder's son and daughter-in-law left. . . about the wedding of Jo White's brother in Boston. . . if all the juniors and seniors will get a room in Pearsons if they really have enough sophomore girls to fill Baldwin. . . why June Garland ate at a different table while the choir was gone. . . how many people we should speak for in thanking the girls' choir for affording the music these past several mornings. . . why Professor Walker is always so right in his weather predictions. . . whether or not Burt Slater will enjoy his work in Oklahoma this summer. (Speaking of Oklahoma, we're still angry with Lloyd Shue for telling us about the fellow who left Texas and went to Oklahoma and raised the intelligence level of both states.) . . . if anyone knew that Claude Brown won a scholarship at Edinboro . . . if the comp grades will be as high in '48 . . . if the remaining 23 days will ever pass. . . if a certain professor really did say, "Now the whole campus knows," following a Sunday incident. . . how "Flash" is getting along in Brooder's room. . . if Winnie Wallon is still fighting the "Battle of the Bulge" . . . why Rogerville took a chance on shooting the moon . . . what in the world made Ruth Williams speak about eats in her extemporaneous speech . . . if it's time to end this rattling.

ECHO-HUMOR

DANCING NOW PERMITTED AT AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

(From Knoxville News-Sentinel, April 16, 1946)

DECATUR, Ga., April 16—For the first time, students at Agnes Scott College, Presbyterian school for girls, are permitted to dance.

In commenting on the new rule of dancing on the campus, Dr. James Ross McCain, president, said:

"We do not expect to have formal dances, but when dates come to visit, dancing will be permitted among the many other forms of recreation and entertainment such as ping pong and other games.

"The dancing last Saturday night, which was an experiment, was initiated at my suggestion. The experiment was successful so far as I could see but we are an old-fashioned school and do not want to encourage dancing among the girls."

It is a revelation, of sorts, to discover that dancing is no longer considered a sin at Agnes Scott.

Although it probably can't honestly be proved that manipulation of the feet in pre-arranged patterns and in a definite cadence has actually contributed to the betterment of society, neither can adequate evidence to the contrary be presented in sufficient force to warrant its being expunged entirely from the long list of honorable, civilized amusements. In fact, the past-time seems to be gaining an ever-stronger place on the roster of national sports, along with such related items as ping pong, divorce, and multiple homicide.

Actually, of course, there is no need to enlarge on the newspaper article quoted. It is a humor column in itself. One reads it and laughs—heartily or hollowly depending on one's environment.

The experiment—noble in purpose—will undoubtedly be watched with interest by other colleges—especially those which are coy-educational.

Agnes Scott's prexy doesn't want to encourage dancing among the girls. But dancing just among the girls isn't much fun, anyway.

"Have You Found Out Yet? You can get a Bradley sport sweater any size or color by saving 25 Bunte Tango Wrappers!"

"Just Name Your Game! You will play it with added zest in Break-a-Way pique sports frocks. $1 in Proffitt's big cash bargain basement." (Dresses took about 5 yards of material in those days. Pique sells for about 69c a yard or more now. Multiply for yourself.)

"You'll be bright-eyed, wide-eyed, sad-eyed, glad-eyed—Shirley Temple in "The Littlest Rebel" at the Park Theatre." (Gorsh!)

Among these sample advertisements from the April 18, 1936 Echo, some tempting advertisements for summer help read $5-$10 per day!!

Three Scotchmen were sent out by their father to find a country that would equal Scotland. Leaving their home, they journeyed through Ireland, where they were entertained by Irish songs and an Irish jig; through France, where they had some difficulty avoiding the purchase of a cow at a French market; and to Spain, where a bull fight and Spanish dancing thrilled them. (By Eva and Violetta? MM-mmm La! La!)

Pleased with the Hollander's songs and dances, they also enjoyed a Norwegian wedding, a Russian ballet, and a Japanese tea party. In Hawaii they were greeted with flowers, music, song, and laughter. From that land of sunshine they journeyed to the land of ice and snow, Alaska. Finally they became the guests of Maryville college where they investigated samples of her friendliness, scholarship, and recreation. Maryville proved to be the land of their Heart's Desire. May Day pageant via 1936!

Projects of particularly practical importance were the concern of various departmental NYA workers during that school year. One of the most valuable was a bacteriological study by Clyde Powell which ascertained the source of an unusual pathological condition among some of the children in Maryville. First Clyde had to determine the cause of the skin disease that had occurred on several members of families living in a given section of Maryville. Three sources had to be considered; the air, the water, and the soil. The most plausible seemed to be the soil which was chosen to be analyzed first. Samples of soil were secured from around the homes of those persons infected. These samples were analyzed in the laboratory by petri dish cultures, fermentation tube tests, and bacteria counting chambers to determine approximately the number and kinds of bacteria present. After much microscopic study and many culture plate examinations two soil forms not usually found in other common soil samples, were discovered. They were spore forming and therefore more resistant to heat than ordinary vegetative organisms. The original samples were heated to 80 degrees C., in order to kill the vegetative forms. Then nutrient agar plates were made from them giving a culture with the two types. The government took it from there.

Weekly programs were presented for the benefit of the CCC camp near Lenoir City, under the auspices of the Expression department. For the week of May 2 the program consisted of a one act play, "The Wedding".

Edmond Rostand's immortal heroic comedy, "Cyrano de Bergerac" was presented by the senior class. The play has a rich tradition since its first presentation in Paris in 1897. Walter Hampden and Sara Bernhardt starred in the New York presentation.

Dean McClelland Optimistic About College G. I.'s

Dean Frank D. McClelland expressed an optimistic outlook in his recent address to the Tennessee College Association in Nashville concerning "Problems in the Admission of Veterans." "Most of us will agree," he stated, "that maturity, experience, and determination will each compensate to a degree for deficiencies in educational background, and even deeficiencies in aptitude."

In Dr. McClelland's discussion he divided the veterans who seek admission into colleges into three groups.

First, those who attended college before entering military service. In general this group will be good college material. They will know the meaning of college and will readily make the readjustments.

Second, those who have not attended college but had planned to do so—men whose entry into college was delayed by their military service. Those who have graduated from high school before entering military service will not have difficult admission problems. Some will have to finish their high school training. Others will be unwilling to return to high school, and will look to the colleges to assist them in meeting entrance requirements. They will include those who were graduated from high school upon making a satisfactory score on the General Educational Development tests; those who were graduated after three years of high school, with the Legislative War Diplomas. There are five tests, requiring two hours each. The Southern Association adopted the recommendation that a score of 35 or more on each of the tests, or an average score of 45 or more over the five tests, be an approved basis of admission to college in lieu of high school diploma.

The third group may be considered to consist of those who would not have considered attending college, had not the veterans' laws made it possible. In this group are the two most serious admission difficulties, namely, inadequate preparation and low college aptitude. Those veterans with evident college aptitude who lack educational foundation present a real problem. Veterans' high schools, or night schools are probably the best solutions.

But maturity, experience, and determination will help make up for poor educational background and inferior scholastic ability.

FACULTY HEARS EINSTEIN THEORY

Dr. Archibald Henderson, noted lecturer, will be the guest speaker at the faculty dinner Monday, April 29, at 6 o'clock in the home economics tea room in Fayerweather. Dr. Henderson is the head of the mathematics department at the University of North Carolina; his subject will be "Einstein and Relativity". This will be the last faculty dinner this year.

SPORTS

SCOT SPORTS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

AMONG OTHER THINGS, EDUCATION is especially needed at this college in the field of sports. The obvious reason for this ignorance of our sports heritage at Maryville is the war time lack of sports, still something should be done about it. For example: What do you know about Maryville athletics in the past? What kind of schools did we play, and what was the M.C. sports reputation and record before the war knocked out the sports program? Of course we did have basketball this winter and we are now having tennis and trying to have baseball, but none of those teams are up to the Maryville pre-war standards by any means. Maryville has usually had winning teams in all sports, and that statement is not just for the pleasant sound; the records back it up.

Perhaps you have heard that Maryville used to engage the University of Tennessee in football. That is not just a false rumor; it is quite true. However, it has been quite some time since Maryville met Tennessee in a football contest. In fact it was in 1934 when those two schools last met in a football game; the score read 34 to O in UT's favor. We do admit that UT is out of our class as a football power, and the admission is not even grudgingly made. Maryville has played the University of Kentucky since UT. It was in 1936 and despite the fact that the Highlanders absorbed a real beating that afternoon, they did score a touchdown on the first play after the opening kickoff. Nevertheless, most of the football opponents for the Scot footballers have been squads from schools somewhere in this general vicinity and somewhere around the same size as Maryville College; colleges such as Carson-Newman, Tusculum, and the other schools on the 1946 football schedule. Some of the colleges we have met in football that are not on our none of these teams are up to the Maryville pre-war '46 schedule are St. Xavier, Cincinnati, Roanoke, Mercer, Newberry, U. of Chattanooga, and Milligan.

Baseball—Maryville's Best Sport

Down through the years baseball and wrestling have been the most emphasized and the most successful sports at Maryville. During the 25 years that Coach Honaker has been at Maryville, his baseball teams have earned an average of approximately 75 per cent victories in all of the games of that period.

Besides the regular opponents of the Smoky Mountain Conference, the Honakermen have encountered and conquered teams from schools such as the University of Indiana, which was a yearly opponent back during the 1930's. One of the times that Maryville outscored Indiana was in 1938, the year that Indiana was Big Ten champion; they split two encounters with Maryville that season. Other universities that the Highlanders have met and usually beaten are Michigan State, U. of Cincinnati, Vanderbilt, and the University of Tennessee. There has been an exceedingly close rivalry between UT and M.C. in years that UT has fielded baseball teams. The most recent rivalry was in 1942 when Maryville took an 8-7 game from UT on our field and went to Knoxville to triumph by a 17 to 4 count.

Honakermen Go To Big Leagues

Coach Lombe Scott Honaker is generally recognized as one of the best baseball coaches in these parts. Not only does his excellent record of wins and losses emphasize that fact but also the list of 12 or 13 players who got their baseball start under his tutelage and who later played in the big leagues. The following are the men sent up by Coach Honaker: outfielders Art Ruble, who played with the Detroit Tigers, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati, and Bernie Acton, Yankees; Baxter Williams, who caught for the Yankees; Earl McCall, St. Louis Cardinal shortstop; first baseman Pat Shores for the old Boston Americans; Joe Woodard of a more recent edition of the Brooklyn Dodgers, thirdbaseman; and the following pitchers: John Stone, one of Coach Honaker's very greatest athletes, who went to Detroit and later to Washington; Jack Gabbard of the White Sox; Elmer Gray, who Coach terms the "greatest potential college pitcher" he ever saw; Jack Matthews, who was with the Pittsburg Pirates; and Hod Lisenbee, who only last season worked with the Cincinnati Reds.

Excellent Wrestling Record At M.C.

In the past few years Maryville has been exceedingly successful in the wrestling sport. Scot teams have been state champions "usually." Coach J. D. Davis is the wrestling coach, and under his guidance perenially winning squads have been turned out. UT was regularly on the Maryville schedule before the war (every year since 1932) and they have beaten Maryville only once! That one time was one of the two meetings in 1943, while Coach Davis was in the army. In that same year Maryville met and was defeated by Kansas State, one of the top teams of the nation; met and defeated Georgia Tech and Georgia Pre-flight. In 1941 Maryville wrestled Oklahoma A. and M.

Yesterday's Game Called In Fourth

Rain Ends Tilt With Vets Ahead

Yesterday afternoon on the college field the Highlanders baseball squad played four innings of baseball with the Maryville Vets, an independent team, before being halted at that point with the score standing at 4 and 1 in favor of the Vets.

In the four innings of play, which were hampered considerably by intermittent showers, the Vets garnered seven hits and the college men got five. The Vets started the game with 3 runs in the first half of the first frame on 3 singles and 2 walks. The Scots got back in the game with a run in their half of the first on a round tripper by first baseman Spence Renfro. The Vets added another run in the second on a couple of singles and a walk to end the scoring for the afternoon.

Dave Miller, southpaw, opened the game as pitcher for the college and gave way in the fourth to Roy Smith, hefty righthander. Cardella caught for the Scotties.

Alan Russell was the only Vet hurler pitching good ball and driving in 3 of his team's 4 runs. He got 3 strikeouts. Wheeler at catcher rounded out the Veteran battery.

The same two teams met in an eight inning practice tilt last Saturday, April 20, and the Vets overcame the college nine to the tune of 9 to 4.

Following is the lineup for the four innings played yesterday afternoon:

INTRAMURALS

By ABBOTT KEMP

Play ball!! If you have even glanced at a sports page in any paper lately you are no doubt aware that the 1946 baseball season has recently been inaugurated. Such is not the case however, with the intramural program on campus, but baseball's offspring softball, has recently gotten underway in the intramural league composed of three teams, the Little Giants who now lead the league with two wins and no defeats, the Redwings who have won one and lost one, and the Sluggers who have dropped their only two contests thus far.

REDWINGS OUTSLUG SLUGGERS—

In the second game of the season last Saturday, April 20, "June" Overton led his Redwings to a 17-5 victory over the Sluggers. Overton pitched for the Redwings besides clouting a home run to aid in their cause. Curt Wright held down first base for the Redwings. Tolerico was on second, Hundemann on third and Russell and Leister patrolled the outfield. For the Sluggers Anthony pitched and was backed up by Seymour, Lehman, House and Proffitt.

SLUGGERS BOW TO LITTLE GIANTS—

Tuesday afternoon, April 23, the Little Giants handed the Sluggers their second straight setback by a 15 to 5 score. Both teams played without full teams, the Little Giants having five men and the Sluggers only four. Richardett, Miracle, Anderson, Scapellati and Motsinger composed the Little Giants' team while Anthony, Lenoir, Proffitt and House played vainly for the Sluggers.

Next week will find the Little Giants versus the Redwings, the Sluggers against the Redwings and the Sluggers against the Little Giants.

DOUBLES TENNIS TOURNEY

In the slowly moving doubles tennis tournament now in progress there have been only two matches played. Ed Anthony and Ed Voorhees took the measure of Gus Hundemann and Dick Tolerico in two straight sets by scores of 6-2 and 6-1. Mike Miracle and Will Lenoir had little trouble in defeating Seymour and Pribble 6-2 and 6-4. These two teams of Anthony and Voorhees and Miracle and Lenoir will now meet in the quarter-finals of the tourney. It is hoped that the remainder of the entrants will get together and get their matches played off. Max House is urging that they play at the first possible chance.

There Will Be Rooms!

There are false rumors going around that there isn't enough room for all the Carnegie girls next year. No student now enrolled at Maryville college will be denied re-admission because there isn't room. If anybody is turned away, it will be new freshmen. Any arrangement for certain rooms made through the drawing of numbers in the dorm is valid if $10.00 is paid before May 22. No student can pay for a room a year in advance.

Next year Carnegie will again be the men's dorm and Memorial will be the freshmen women's dorm.

The a, b, bx, and B Tuesday classes will meet Wednesday and those same Wednesday classes will meet on Tuesday because of the long chapel Tuesday.

Athenian-Bainonian To Stage Pygmalion May 18 In Chapel

George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" will be presented May 18 in Voorhees Chapel by the Athenian-Bainonian societies. Virginia Miller and Ray Swartzback will play the leading roles. The whole production is under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West.

G. B. Shaw, who is 90 years old and still writing, considers this play one of his best works. He conceived the idea from a story in Greek mythology. Pygmalion was a Greek sculptor who made a statue of a woman that was so beautiful he fell in love with it. When Venus saw that he loved it, she brought it to life. The Galatea (the name of the statue) of Shaw's play is a little "guttersnipe" named Liza Doolittle, played by Virginia Miller. She is figuratively brought to life by Professor Higgins who changes her from a dirty, little urchin to a well-mannered, poised lady. Higgins, a phonetics professor, is played by Ray Swartzback. Shaw says that this change wrought in Liza by Higgins is neither impossible nor uncommon.

Virginia Miller is a junior from Kennet Square, Pennsylvania. She has appeared twice before on the Maryville stage, in leading roles in "Junior Miss" and "Guest in the House."

Ray Swartzback is a junior from Baltimore, Maryland. When a sophomore here in 1943, he appeared in the leading role in the production of James Hilton's "Lost Horizon".

The other members of the cast are: Mrs. Higgins, Nan Wooten; Doolittle, Jim Black; Freddie, Max House; Mrs. Hill, Lois Thomas; Clara Hill, Becky Ruth Walton; Mrs. Pierce, Marky Cross; Pickering, Bill Grosh; maid, Harriet McKean; and bystanders, Elsie Onifer, Ruth Williams, Bill Vogel, and Dave Campbell.

Lloyd Shue is stage manager, and his crew includes Willis Pribble, Ruth Broadhead, Jessie Lou Brunson, Carl Lazenby, Bill Cover, Becky Davis, and Mildred Miller. Tom Horst is business manager. The publicity committee includes Virginia Clabough, Harold Hunter, and Janet Miller. Electricians are Leonard Schieber and Fred Richardette. Make-up committee includes Nell Louise Minear, Ab Richards, and Bob Thompson. Elsie Onifer, Betty Absher, and Martha Brindley are in charge of properties. Jean Cobb, assisted by Jane Witt, is in charge of costumes. Harriet McKean is serving as Mrs. West's assistant.

When Dr. Archibald Henderson, who is G. B. Shaw's recognized biographer, was here, he talked to Mrs. West about the play and wished her every success with its production. Mrs. West herself says that she is perfectly satisfied with the way it is progressing and is quite sure that it will be a success.

Ole Rip Awakes At May Day Festival

By JANET MILLER

Wednesday, May 1, was a cloudy, uncertain day and everyone was hoping fervently that the rain would hold off until the May Day exercises, so well-planned ahead of time, could go on. About 2:15 p.m. the music began to come over the loud-speaker system and at 2:30 Grace Hildebrand and Dave Campbell appeared in front of an eager audience, with Ouida Newman and Jim Black as the next couple. The two freshman girls wore light blue gowns and carried colonial bouquets of spring flowers tied with pink ribbon; all the men were in tuxedo's with boutoniere's of white carnations. Next came Janet Rich and Max House followed by Elizabeth Crawford and Carl Murray. Miss Rich and Miss Crawford were dressed in lavender and carried colonial bouquets of spring flowers also. These were tied with yellow ribbon. Junior girls Virginia Miller and Jessie Lou Brunson, accompanied by Bill Vogel and Ray Swartzback respectively, chose pink for their dresses. Their colonial bouquets of spring flowers were tied with blue ribbon. Senior attendants to the Queen, Catherine Payne and Jane Callahan, wore yellow. Their bouquets were tied with lavender ribbon. Crown-bearer Thomas Ramsey and Flower Girl Mary Etta Biggs diligently followed. After a few moments of hushed and expectant waiting, the lovely Queen Jean Keen and good-looking King Ab Richard appeared. The Queen's train was carried by Graham McArthur. As soon as the Queen was seated the King took the crown and placed it upon Miss Keen's head, thus signifying that the program was to begin. Harvey Overton presented Miss Green to whom the program was dedicated. Miss Green wore a fuschia dress and white accessories, and had a corsage of white gardenias. The story of Rip Van Winkle was then unfolded with Bob Thompson as Rip Van Winkle. The girls' choir sang three numbers, the dances directed by Mrs. Queener, especially the dance of the nine elves, and the Old Man's dance, were very good. The traditional Maypole dance was done and the program ended with the Queen and her attendants recessing. Directors were Mrs. West, Mrs. Queener, Miss Eddins, Mr. Hughes and the YWCA committee was composed of Jean Messer, Lottie Lavender, Joy Stewart and Mary Ruth Barber.

Choir Finds Southern Hospitality, Sings At Best On Recent Trip

By FAYE GADDY

Leaving soon after chapel on that long awaited May 23d, the choir was shoving off for the first tour in several years. Appreciating the grand send off from the student body, we felt we could hardly do anything less than give folks our best wherever we went. A hardy cafeteria dinner at Chattanooga restored our vim, vigor, and vitality to survive further traveling on to Huntsville.

Now we know true southern hospitality. The basement of the church was all arrayed in wondrous beauty of rich, red roses which, in adorning each table, sweetened our tired, worn dispositions to an inspired, fresh, new luster of quality, tone and pitch. The high school auditorium was well filled. Never was a crowd more appreciative—especially the first row of girls who clapped when the male sectios appeared and swooned at the entrance of Mr. Vine. The high school students the next morning did enjoy even the most serious numbers. And it was then that we discovered that we had a quartet.

After a good night's rest on feather beds plus a super deluxe breakfast of ham and eggs, coffee, rolls, fresh strawberries, and buttered toast, we motored on to Birmingham, the "Pittsburgh of the South". The church there is so huge and beautiful that we were truly thrilled to have a part in its sanctuary. To an audience of approximately 600 we sang our best. Going to private homes again many kind attenders said, "I was taken out of this world—spellbound." Ensley High school did love our quartet; the quartet did love their roses, too.

It was a little harder to get up on Thursday morning—not because the feathers weren't as soft, or the eggs as well done, but because in general we were very weary. Oh! But nary a soul complained—we were loving every mile of the way, and disliking every tick of the clock. Upon reaching Chattanooga, we found this large, quaint old church whose platform had been decorated completely in white by a dear old lady. And because she never once heard a pitch being given, she exclaimed, "Why, that choir has ab-

About Maryville Elections—

Perhaps nothing could be more trite or commonplace than an editorial on elections or an election, but nevertheless quite often nothing is more needed. With our spring elections coming up next week it seems to us that a reminder is in order once again—just as all through grammar and high school—that votes should be cast for a candidate because of his qualifications: his experience and capability must be considered rather than his popularity in general or his proficiency in some irrelevant field.

Generally speaking, our campus elections do not have an earth-shaking importance. However in the sense that these elections and the way we handle them are more or less an indication of the way politics will be handled after college, it behooves us to do our best, which means each of us voting soberly and conscientiously in all elections, but above all, voting.

Another thing that prompted this little sermonette was the way one of the campus elections—the most important campus election—almost resulted last spring. And anyone who is going to be on the Student Council, when it has its election soon, please note. Last year there were several tie ballots for the presidency of the Council which is also the presidency of the Student Body. One of the persons getting a high vote each time was a person who only the day before had been elected to the Council for the first time! She had no idea of what the council did or how it functioned. What is more, she was a town student and had little comprehension of the campus problems; for example she didn't know that Sunday afternoon dating is "verboten". This is not to blast that candidate; she was not to blame that she was nominated and almost elected. She had distinguished herself shortly before the election in another field—so without thinking the voters voted for her. Fortunately a person who had been on the council and active in it was elected, and she has served well.

This is not to criticize anybody. But let those who have a vote as class representatives to the Student Council learn a lesson from what almost happened last year. R.T.P.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Now that we're nearing the end of the year, we decided to take ourself over to the newspaper office in order that we might look over the files and acquire a complete over-all view of what has been included in this year's columns. But we were suddenly affronted with what had not been included—little things, big things, incidents, and people that are seldom brought to the lime-light simply because they don't push themselves into it. Now and then we've commended various individuals and groups for certain performances on stage and off stage, but this is going to be one time when the entire column will be devoted to saying the better things we think about people.

Just wandering over the campus. Seeing the different kids. It's so easy to see what's wrong with everyone, but, come to think of it, there's something right with everyone, too. Clarabella may have baggy hose; she's wearing those dspicable rayons and giving a speech in systematics. But did you ever notice the twinkle in her eye? And Percival has a purple sweater clashing with blue trousers, but he'll open the door for you..... Just sitting here thinking—writing—giving ourself a sermon, but you could need it, too.....We admire so many things about so many people, but somehow we seldom get around to complimenting them. There's a long list in our mind.....including.....Jinny Miller's self-control.....Mildred Waring's inexhaustible supply of energy.....Dean Hunter's endless enjoyment of literature.....the way Jim Black slightly nods his head just before saying, "Hi".....the comradeship of Betty, Mary Annis, Barbara, and Carol. .....the roommate's tolerance.....the helpfulness of the library assistants, Soapie, Lil, June, Melba, Lottie, Marion L., Harriet, Nell Louise, Bill, Lois, Dot, Marion W., Elizabeth, Bob, Helen Marie, and Margaret.....Miss Henry's smile.....Miss Jackson's remarkable ability to remember names.....Jim Martin's politeness.....the guy who has the fortitude to get up and ring the bell at 6:00 in the morning. .....the "okeyness" of Dave Campbell.....and the list that each of you would make.

There is one person on this campus who has our admiration more than any other we've ever known. She's a little sophomore with expressive eyes that perfectly match her dark hair and ever-ready smile. Once, when we were a freshman, we heard another girl say, "Oh, we don't know what she thinks; Shirley's so good she wouldn't say anything." That was our first impression, but later we saw Shirley Oshana lugging a tray through the dining hall, and she flashed a brilliant smile in our direction. Sure, lots of people can smile, but how many of them begin at 6:00 in the morning as they carry newspapers to the girls' dorms? How many keep on smiling as they wait a 7:00 breakfast table? Isn't that enough? Not for Shirley; she'll check the laundry for you and see that it's off. Day complete? Oh no, she spends the afternoons working at Niceley's Store. In case you're wondering, she does find time to attend classes. Major? Philosophy. She hails from Pennsylvania, and somebody should be told that she can sing. When she isn't smiling, she's singing. Shirley is "a peach of a gal."

Being a member of the opposite sex, we asked the advice of a Memorial resident on who should be considered as tops among the fellows. We had thought of one person, and the adviser verified the position. That's why we're writing about Harvey Overton. Says our adviser, "He's a regular fellow. We like him for his geniality, humor, and slow, easy manner." He's a Tennessean, and only recently a civilian. Speaking of his slow, easy manner, Dr. Orr said once that you get that way after you're twenty-five, and Harvey was seen nodding his head with approval. Of course, our adviser and Dr. Orr might not have been talking about the same thing.

Then there are the waitresses. Anyone who has experienced the "Monday morning scrub" can appreciate them. Yep, we'd like to give our flowers to waitresses like Lib Baird, Anna Sakaizawa, Ruth Ramsey, Betty Saint, Mildred Jones, Ilda Mosby, and June Montgomery.....But we can't leave the dining hall scene without wandering back to the kitchen and thanking Joe and John. These two men can tell you what is meant by the "early to rise" phrase. They don't come to the kitchen at an unearthly hour every morning just for the fun of it. And last let us doff our hat to Miss Ware. We don't particularly appreciate the extra pounds she has allowed us to acquire, but we'd gripe a heck of a lot more if we didn't have anything to eat.

Once in awhile we enter Carnegie, and, after talking casually with a few of its roomers, the hall seemed to be rather unanimously throwing bouquets to a girl in room 124. Her name is Dorothea Friedrick, and there's a reason why we're handing her the O.K. degree. She probably uses the words, "Can I do anything for you?" oftener than anyone on campus. Let somebody be ill and Dorothea sees that they receive attention, giving it herself. We first noticed her when she continued to come to the post office to carry other girls' packages to the dorm. Why? Why, just because she's Dorothea Friedrick, Helpfulness. Runners-up for this position in Carnegie were Ouida Newman and Margaret Hennemuth.

Theory Class Recital

On Thursday, May 9, at 4:30 p.m. theory classes 102, 303, and 202 presented a recital of original work. The program included four hymnal tunes with words by Dr. Isaac Watts. Tom Horst, Charles Huffman, and Mary Evelyn Johnson each composed one. Eleanor Hawley, Jane Martenis, and Dot Campbell each composed a waltz and Charlotte Harris originated an Alberti bass.

Sixteenth Century style arrangements were presented by students in Theory 303. Jean Keen presented Agnus Dei II from Mass in the Dorian and Frances Ashby presented Kyrie Eleison from Mass in the Dorian.

Theory 202 arranged pieces in 19th Century style. Mary Jo Bolin and Martha Barnwell chose folk-hymn settings (Sacred Harp Tune—Morning Trumpet); while Sonata-Allegro Forms were played by Mary Barnwell and Alice Newhouse.

Impressionist and contemporary style motivated Dorothy Vawter's Prelude on a Local Theme and Improviation for Flute and Piano and Marian Weiler's Kentucky Suite which included Night at the Turf's and Guitars.

Sophomore Recital

Alice Newhouse and August Hundemann will be presented in a recital, May 4, at 4:30 in the chapel. Both students are members of the sophomore class and are music majors. Miss Newhouse is from Cabden, Illinois and Mr. Hundemann is from Carteret, New Jersey.

thing so glorious in my life." solute pitch! I've never heard any-

The chapel in Athens was well attended by an understanding group who could look at us and realize "they're tired!" But the last stop at Etowah really pepped us up as we sang our message in song to the most appreciative high school group we had encountered. Even after the program they remained seated and called for each member of the choir as he walked out, ruffled robe slung over the arm. And they were indeed ruffled robes!

The warmth of the reception at each place truly inspired us to give forth in song what we had missioned to do. If ever anybody enjoyed singing for his supper it can well be said of the Maryville College Choir.

PRE-MED

Members of the Pre-Med club went on a picnic to the College Woods on May 9. Several games of softball were played. This was the last meeting for this year.

MOTHER'S DAY IS THEME AT YW

Mother's Day provides the theme for YW tomorrow in its last regular meeting of the school year. Pi Gamma, the organization for Maryville girls, under the chairmanship of Elizabeth Crawford, sophomore of Maryville, is to be in charge of the program to which girls will invite their own and other mothers as guests.

SCOT SPORTS

By ABBOTT KEMP

We Dream of "Scottie"

Very few of the students now enrolled at Maryville College have ever seen Maryville College engaged in a football game. Those fortunate few no doubt remember that the Maryville Scotties had a mascot in their last football season, which was in the fall of 1942. That mascot was a Scottie pup. "Scottie" served Maryville teams well and faithfully for three seasons. And then the war came and football became a thing of the past at Maryville. Although some of us have not seen M.C. in a football game, many of us have seen "Scottie" as she followed Miss Heron to and from school many times. And to see "Scottie" on those brisk fall days was to know that she was lonesome and eager to romp and play on the green turf under the bright lights on Wilson Field again. But that eagerness was never satisfied for "Scottie" was growing old, and in October of '44, the second consecutive football-less season at Maryville, "Scottie" died and has now gone, we believe, where the good doggies go.

Triangle Club Gets "Scottie" For College

"Scottie" was originally obtained through the efforts of the Triangle Club here on the campus. That club was composed of students from the states of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Having obtained her she was turned over to the local college president, Dr. Lloyd, in whose custody she remained for her freshman year. In her second year Miss Heron became her guardian and remained so for the rest of "Scottie's" college career. And quoting Miss Heron, "It cost a fortune to feed her." We don't believe Miss Heron was complaining at all about having been caretaker of our college mascot, but it is obvious that the upkeep of same should not fall on the shoulders of any one person, especially on the one who already has the job of looking after it. So if any of you present clubs get any such idea of obtaining a new mascot (and it would be a good idea if you did) please keep in mind that some method should be found for establishing a fund to cover the feeding and general living expenses of it. It would indeed be nice to have a new "Scottie" next year when M.C. re-inaugurates football.

Athletic Association To Be Active Again

Most of us heard for the first time the other day about the Maryville College Athletic Association when nominations were held in the chapel for members who will compose the Athletic Board of Control and thereby act for and as representatives of the Association. The main purpose and function of this Board of Control is the okaying and awarding of varsity letters in all of the college's major sports and also the supervision of point system and intramural awards. They also are in charge of electing student managers for all the varsity sports. Too they have general supervision and direction of the Pep Committee and all pre-game activities. They promote the election of cheerleaders and decide who shall be awarded cheerleader letters. When there is to be a football game at home they are in charge of decorating the field, and this function is usually taken care of by appointing some society or club to handle the decorations.

Tusculum Deals Defeat To Scottie Baseball Team In Two Contests

Highlanders Drop Opener 8 To 6

Tuesday afternoon, April 30, Tusculum College's baseball team outscored the Maryville Scotties 8 to 6 on the home diamond. It was the first inter-collegiate baseball game for Maryville since the 1942 season. The weather was bad; it was cold and threatened rain throughout the game and the final inning was played in a chilling drizzle of rain.

Tusculum got off to a good start in the first inning with Lady driving the ball down the left field foul line for a home run. White also had a homer for the visitors. Four runs crossed the home platter for Tusculum in the fifth for their biggest inning of the afternoon. The Scotties scored two in their half of the eighth to pull within four runs of the leaders. Ten in the last of the ninth with Tusculum using her third pitcher of the day Maryville quickly added two more markers and with the tying runs on second and third with one man out, the man on third was called out when he was obviously safe. The decision stood and the game ended with the Highlanders trailing by two runs.

Mat Cardella, first string catcher for the Scotties, was lost for the season when one of his fingers was knocked out of place in the second frame.

Maryville Fails To Retain Early Lead

Yesterday afternoon, May 10, at Tusculum the Maryville Highlanders' baseball team dropped her third consecutive game of the season and her second to the Tusculum nine. The final score stood at 10 to 7. The score of Maryville's last game with Tusculum, which was played at home, was 8 to 6 with Maryville trailing.

In the game yesterday afternoon the Scotties scored once in the first only to be tied as the homelings pushed across a run in its half. Maryville then put four singles and three walks together for five runs in the second inning, to hold a 6 to 1 lead going into the last of the second. The Highlanders' final tally came in their half of the fourth.

Tusculum scored one run in each of the first six innings at the end of which she trailed the Scots by one run. Then came the seventh which was fatal for the Highlanders. Four hits and an error at third base accounted for four runs and a 10 to 7 lead which Tusculum held for the remaining two innings.

Hollingsworth led the Maryville batters with two hits in five times at bat. Renfro smacked a triple, but was thrown out trying to stretch it into a home run. The Scotties again played a shaky ball game afield, committing eight errors while their opponents had only three.

Malone started on the mound for Maryville and was the losing pitcher. He was relieved in the eighth by Miller who retired the winners in order. Largen caught the entire game. For Tusculum Holt started on the hill, was replaced by Leopold in the second frame and Leonard came in during the fifth and received credit for the win. Fancher was behind the plate.

Scotties Bow To Eagleton Village

In a seven inning game with Eagleton Village on Thursday afternoon, May 2, the Scotties came out on the short end of an 8 to 3 count.

Smith started on the mound for Maryville and was relieved in the second inning by southpaw Dave Miller who pitched the remainder of the game. Bill Stewart caught for the Scotties until the fifth when he was replaced by Chandler. Eddington and Smith composed the battery for the Eagleton team for the entire game. The Scotties managed only three hits off Eddington with Mathis and Hollingsworth both getting singles and Largen slamming out a three bagger. Mathis' single immediately followed Largen's triple, coming in the fifth inning when the college lads scored two of their three runs. Smith and Miller only gave up four hits, but again the Highlanders managed to commit eight miscues while the opponents were only making four.

SPORTS SCHEDULE

Rain has made it necessary to postpone the tennis match which was scheduled to be played here at 1:30 this afternoon with LMU. The return match with Carson-Newman was rained out twice and has now been cancelled since their school is out. Baseball Monday afternoon at 3:30 on Maryvilles' diamond, the opponents being East Tennessee State.

E.T. State Nine Tops Highlanders At Johnson City

On Monday, May 6, the Highlander baseball squad journeyed to Johnson City, where they played the East Tennessee State Teachers College and lost their second game of the season 11 to 8. It was a sloppy contest with 17 errors being committed, 13 of which were marked up against Maryville.

The Scots got off to a fast start in the first inning scoring two runs; but the Teachers got them right back in their half. The Teachers added two more in the third, three in the fifth, two in the sixth and two in the eighth for their total of 11 runs. Maryville had two more in the fourth, two in the sixth and two in the eighth for their final score of eight runs.

The Highlanders outhit the winners eight to five, but their play in the field was the deciding factor in the outcome. Malone pitched well for Maryville allowing only five hits, but his teammates bungled 13 times. Ten of the 13 errors were equally distributed between the right and center fielders. Both Malone for Maryville and Ponder for the Teachers went the entire route on the mound for their teams. Each struck out six and walked four. Spence Renfro, Scottie first sacker, smacked a homer and double for the visitors. His homer was a long drive into right field. Harvey Hollingsworth also got his eye on the ball and rapped out three singles in five trips to the plate for the Highlanders. Maryville's lineup was as follows:

Maryville: Malone and Stewart, Chandler (2); State Teachers: Ponder and Buchanan.

Maryville: 200 202 200 8-8-13
Teachers 202 032 02x 11-5-4

Highlander Tennis Team Loses Match To East Tenn. State Netters

Doubles Matches Decide Victor

In their second match of the season with East Tennessee State the Scotties lost again by the same score as in their previous match, 5 to 4. The same matches as before were won by the Scots: numbers one, two and five singles and number three doubles. E. T. State was successful in numbers three, four and six singles and in numbers one and two doubles.

Bob Hunter was extended to three sets before winning from Britton of E.T.S., and had to hustle all the way against his never-say-die opponent. Their first set ended at 9-7 in favor of Hunter. Then Britton got hot and took the second set 6 to 2 only to be set back on his heels in the third and deciding set by that same score of 6-2. It was Hunter's third win in four singles matches, his only loss being to Cullum of Carson-Newman.

The number two singles match went to Kemp in two successive wins of 6-3 and 6-2 over Cutshaw of State. Cutshaw had moved up from number three position replacing Vest since Maryville met them on her home courts. It was Cutshaw's first loss of the season. Kemp has now won all four of his singles matches.

In the numbers three and four singles matches Harold Hunter and Tom Wheeler were stopped cold by their respective opponents, Vest and Ellis. Score between Hunter and Vest was 6-1, 6-3 in favor of Vest. Wheeler dropped consecutive sets to Ellis of E.T.S. by scores of 6-1, 6-1.

Dinges of M.C. and Connor of E.T.S. played three sets before Dinges finally emerged the victor. Connor copped the first set 6-4. Then Dinges came back fast to win 6 to 2 in the second set. Connor built up a 5-3 lead over Dinges in their deciding set only to be beaten in the next four straight games and thereby the set 7 to 5. It was Dinges' third victory in his four singles matches, his loss being to McDonald of LMU.

Ed Anthony, playing in his first intercollegiate match for M.C., lost his number six match to Adams in three sets. Adams took the first easily 6 to 2, but Anthony rallied to outclass him to the same tune of 6-2 in their second set. Adams, however, was best in their third set, winning 6 to 4.

In the number one doubles competition Britton and Connor beat Bob and Harold Hunter in two quick sets by the identical scores of 6-2, 6-2. Dinges and Kemp played three sets against Cutshaw and Vest of E.T.S. before succumbing in the final set by a 6-3 score. The first set went to State 7 to 5 and Maryville capturned the second 6-3. Wheeler and Motsinger teamed up in the number three doubles match to overcome Ellis and Tanowitz of E.T.S. in two sets by scores of 6-2 and 6-4. It was Motsinger's first intercollegiate match also.

FRENCH CLUB

French Club met Thursday night in Miss Wilkinson's class room. Miss Patterson, art appreciation teacher, gave a short lecture on Cezanne, modern French painter. New officers for next year were elected. Elsie Jean Cotton was elected to the office of president. Vice president will be Betty Lou Boyatt; secretary, Merrill Grubbs; treasurer, Al Docktor; and program committee is Mildred Orr and Elizabeth Crawford.

PI GAMMA

All members of Pi Gamma attended the luncheon held Thursday in the Y rooms. At that time committees for next year were chosen. It is the custom to have on each committee two girls, one from town and one from out-of-town. Mary Lou Laurell and Florence Housch were elected to serve on the program committee, and Jane Huddleston and Mary Maude Cunningham are the new social committee members.

WRITERS Workshop

Writers' Workshop elected eleven new members to the organization at the Wednesday afternoon meeting. Those chosen are: Mary Annis Beals, Jo Liddell, Anna Sakaizawa, Evelyn Anderson, Fred Wilson, Lonnie Richardt, Florence Housch, Harold Kidder, Elsie Jean Cotton, Bob Dockendorf, and Helen Sorenson.

Initiation of the new members will take place this afternoon at 4:30 at a picnic in the College Woods. The neophytes will be required to dress as members of the faculty at the age of six years. Each is to give a three-minute prepared presentation of the faculty member's childhood philosophy. A picnic supper will then be prepared and served by the initiates.

The governing board for the coming year was also chosen Wednesday. They will be Bill Grosh, chairman, Jean Tarwater, B. A. Showalter, and Dr. Hunter.

Six of the manuscripts presented through this semester were selected as the best to have been read. Olinde Ahren's "Humor Sketches"; June Gowanlock's "Blues"; Don Kent's "The Picture"; Peter Van Blarcom's "The Faultless Painter"; Robert Whitford's "Les Abbatus Contraires"; and Miss Wright's "Ghost of the Deep Draw" were those named.

The last readings of the semester were given by William Robarts and Alma Lancaster. Miss Lancaster presented "And I Have Come", three mood sketches on a theme. The sketches presented in modern style the influence of Christ upon three people who saw him, one at his birth, a second, during his ministry, and a third, on His way to the crucifixion. June Garland was critic.

"Pine Hill", by William Robarts, was a sketch depicting an atmosphere of hate in the household of a vanishing Southern aristocratic family. A stream of consciousness effectively carried the theme of the sketch through the minds of three characters. Mildred Waring criticized.

Miss Olinde Ahrens Chosen As Chilhowean Girl-Of-The-Year

Elected from the senior class by the editorial staff of the 1946 CHILHOWEAN as the most outstanding girl in the class as judged on the four qualifications of leadership, scholarship, character, and service is Olinde Kay Ahrens.

Because of the unavoidable delay of the yearbook at the printers, this new surprise feature of the CHILHOWEAN, not intended to be revealed until delivery of the books, is being announced now before the close of the school.

The CHILHOWEAN staff says of Miss Ahrens:

"If you should chance to meet this slender girl with short, dark hair and warm blue eyes, she would greet you with a cheery word perhaps or with a smile as cordial as a handclasp. In answer to your questions, her replies show interest and a real desire to help. The conversation turns to various subjects, each of which she discusses with the assured, but modest manner of a specialist. Something in that manner makes you know she is a leader. Something shows that she would listen quietly to a wrangling group; then speak wisely and impartially—and the group would listen.

"If you should ask what she has done to merit her position, some would say, 'She is dependable,' others, '...so practical'; they would cite her Student Council record or her fight for Student Government, her clever composition in the Echo or for Workshop; they would tell you that she mixes books and common sense in just the right proportion. But words cannot do her justice, not even thoughts—she is just 'our Linde.'

"Olinde is a philosophy major from Osborne, Kansas. She entered Maryville as a freshman in 1943, taking an accelerated course and attending summer school, thus enabling her to graduate this spring.

"Always active in extra-curricular activties, Olinde is this year serving as president of the Women's Student Government Association, which she played so active a part in founding. She is doing Honors Work and is one of eight seniors selected to represent Maryville in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

President Lloyd Addresses Seniors At Baccalaureate

One of the largest attendances since before the war marked the annual Baccalaureate service for the graduating class Sunday. President Lloyd delivered the sermon to the graduates.

In addition to the faculty, the choir, and the graduating class, those taking part in the processional and the service were the Reverend Thomas A. Graham, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church, Maryville, the Reverend John Y. Crothers of Maryville and the Reverend Alexander R. Batchelor, of Richmond, Virginia.

The subject of President Lloyd's address was "You Will Need Religion". He first told of the tradition of the Baccalaureate service and how it is in line with the religious program of the year.

President Lloyd gave three points in his sermon: In the world now there is a new sense of the need for religion. Religion, he stated, may be compared to a river. The river gives to the territory through which it flows what religion gives to people; refreshment, cleansing, illumination, productiveness, bouyancy for life, a harbor of peace and yet a source of adventure; it divides and at the same time binds together; it is always changing but it is always the same. Last, he stated that our religion must be a Christ-centered religion, with emphasis on giving.

Six Debaters Initiated; Garland Heads Frat

June Garland was elected president of Pi Kappa Delta at a special meeting of the group held recently to fill the vacancy left when John Shell resigned the position after being elected president of the student body. Other officers chosen at the meeting Tuesday night, May 14, are: Judy Turk, vice-president; Mary Mitchell Woolridge, secretary-treasurer; David Campbell, reporter.

New members, initiated into the fraternity at the same time, are Mary Annis Beals, John Briggs, David Campbell, June Garland, Janet Nisbet, Audria Stinger, and Mary Mitchell Woolridge.

Humorous speeches were presented to entertain the debaters, and refreshments were served.

Miriam Wickham, Judy Turk, and John Shell presided at this last meeting.

The second event of the day is a 3:00-5:00 o'clock reception for the alumni, the present seniors, parents of students, faculty, and other guests given at the home of President and Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd. The reception at the president's house is an annual event.

"The Church Related College," a moving picture made at Maryville and four other Presbyterian colleges will be given its second showing on Maryville campus as a part of the program. Many of the historical and campus scenes were made here last fall. Harold Kidder, junior music major at Maryville, was chosen for the leading role which is the connecting element in the development of the movie. A number of students assisted as stage crew.

Special guests from the fifty-year class will be honored in the evening at the annual Alumni Banquet given in Pearsons Hall at 7:00. They are members of the class of 1896, and the four, Roger S. Anderson, Shouse Hold Offices in Council

John Shell, junior economics major from Pine Bluff, Arkansas, was elected president of the student council and student body at the first meeting of the newly-elected and organized council Thursday, May 16.

Shell has been an active member of the council for two years and is a member of the Student-Faculty Senate. Manager of the Chatterbox for a year, he has also participated in intercollegiate debate and is a member of Pi Kappa Delta.

Ann Anderson, junior English major from New Jersey and Jayne Shouse, junior history major from Tennessee were elected vice-president and secretary respectively.

Each class elected new members to the council to replace graduating seniors and those whose terms had expired.

Of interest to all returning students is the fact that the Recreation Center will remain in Barlett Hall for the coming year. The hours will probably be changed to avoid conflict with the enlarged intramural program.

ECHO AND GUESTS PICNIC IN WOODS

The Highland Echo editorial and business staffs had a weiner roast in the college picnic grounds May 15. There were 35 people present, including guests. Dr. F. A. Griffitts, adviser, took pictures of the business staff and of the new editorial staff.

M.C. PLANS FOR 700 STUDENTS

Over 100 New Men Already Enrolled

Approximately seven hundred students are expected for the 1946 fall term. So far there have been three hundred thirty-seven applications received at the personnel office. Of this number two hundred five are women and one hundred ten are men. However, no women will be admitted for whom dormitory space is not available, unless they live close enough to commute. This limits the women living on campus to three hundred thirty.

Two hundred sixty men can be accomodated in the dormitory.

The number of men expected cannot be estimated because some are still in the service and may not be discharged in time. There is already a waiting list for fall admissions.

Dean McClelland Awards Prizes For Outstanding Records Saturday

MONDAY, MAY 20, 1946

OUR LAST WILL

The senior editors of The Highland Echo of 1945-46 of Maryville college, being of relatively sound mind, hereby make this known, our last will and testament, before we depart from this scholastic world into the great beyond.

To the entire personnel making up Maryville college we leave these, our dearest possessions:

ITEM I: We give and bequeath the understanding helpfulness of the man who seems always cognizant of what goes; who, as faculty adviser to publications, doesn't like to see his name in our print, Dr. F. A. Griffitts. He'd fire us for sure if we said that he has always been on hand when we needed him, and yet has never interfered, but we are going anyhow.

ITEM II: We give and bequeath our editor-elect, Thomas Parkinson, who has proved his qualifications for the forthcoming stress. May he continue to demonstrate the imagination, the business-like efficiency, the reserve of personal strength that has gained for him this responsibility. With most of the hair that we tore out early in the year grown back, (not all gray), we find ourselves quite mellow about the duties of editing a college weekly. With a slight Maletroitish sneer, we leave with Tommy the hectic dead-lines, the missing linotypists, the "no-story" slips in the wire basket.

ITEM III: We give and bequeath the staff of reporters with their eternal pencils and half-sheets of yellow paper, who will continue to dog you for information. Collectively, they have unusual intellect, efficiency, accuracy and memory. Let them exhibit with these qualities, that of getting stories in on time. We are proud to have known them. Be kind to them; their's is a hard lot; and when they ask, condescend to see that it be answered unto them.

ITEM IV: We hereby give and bequeath the services of Homer, the man who has printed our paper. We shall carry into the future life our wonder and gratitude for his patience and his often provoked, but unfulfilled threats of murder. Our thanks we leave with Homer.

ITEM V: We gladly give and bequeath with relief the program chairmen and their "uncompleted", "undecided", "cancelled", "revised", plans for your entertainment. We request that they meet and work out a code wherby "hike" always means "musical program", and not sometimes "skits and readings."

ITEM VI: We give and bequeath the fervent hopes and avid promises for a beautiful Speed Graphic camera for Echo pictures. Our one regret is that we cannot leave it slightly used.

ITEM VII: We give and bequeath happily something which we never had, and yet can leave to you—a promising sports schedule for the coming term. May the Scotties and the Highlanders keep the Echo filled with the big, black headlines of—— VICTORY!!

ITEM VIII: We leave with all of you our best wishes, our fondest thoughts.

The Echo has been an experience; if we had to do it over again, we would do it over again. Our last prayer is this: may future college generations produce a better and yet better paper, and at their apex may our Echos ring not too harshly in their ears. Our time is growing to a close. It has passed too quickly; already we would call it back. Of our future, we are uncertain. We are to enter the unknown, but whatever it is to be, whatever we find, you at Maryville may always know that our hearts are in the Highlands.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Not even "Personality" would help us finish this week of trials, tribulations, and temptations. We feel kinda like Jack Howard, who said that one exam was supposed to be easy, but "Oh, What It Seemed to Be", "Together", Hamilton, Sitler, and Ely suffered through the little organic quiz, while other similar small items have haunted E. J. Cotton, Eleanor Hawley, George Martz, and Hubby Doyle "Night and Day". Belle Alverson, Kitty Stidham, and Charlotte Harris took the despicable things "All Through the Day", having three in one day. That's too many! Tolerico's theme song to biology was "I Know a Little Bit about at Lot of Things, But I Don't Know Enough about You."

Right now we can think of better things, like a good "ole discussion" on the affairs of the campus. That reminds us, Skippy Jamison did NOT sing "Saturday Night Is the Loneliest Night of the Week" this past week-end. To top it off, she has a ring! Nice graduation gift.

The staff of this publication found a "Holiday for Strings" and strung out to the picnic grounds one rainy day last week. Barber sang "I Don't Wanta Set the World on Fire" and pleaded with the damp logs to cooperate in building a bonfire.....Then Ruth Williams was heard coyly asking, "Max, do you want onions?" "I don't know," answered House bravely. "Do you?"..... Janet Miller and Jim Black must have eaten a dozen weiners apiece. We had a wagonload at first.....Hoffman and Blanton helped clean up the mess and dumped the empty bottles in a hollow tree.....Watching Dr. Griffitts crossing the miniature Amazon, Gugger encouragingly yelled, "Doc, I don't see how your feet could miss the log!"

Ah! There are so many things we're going to miss "Day by Day"; we'll long for the dining hall "Shoo-Fly Pie", Eva Toro and Violeta Gomez, who will probably return to "Chico, from Puerto Rico", getting up at 6:00 A.M., the comfortable beds, the opportunity to sing (?) "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows", or, at least, the opportunity to tramp around in the ever-lasting downpour.....After today V. Sunday and V. Winslow can quit yelling, "Don't Fence Me In."....."It's the Talk of the Town" and of the college that Judy Heath, Rita Ketcham, Becky Davis, and oodles of seniors have visitors.

But now we're going to leave and H2O streams down our cheeks as we begin our "Sentimental Journey". Bob Thomson, Gwyn Williams, Muriel Crump, the Brunson girls, Tom Wheeler, M. Merlanti, Carol Fuller, and others are returning to the "Sidewalks of New York"; LaVonne Heard, Catherine Payne, and Carl Lazenby will be "Alabamy Bound", and Scapellati, Leister, Cornelius, Grubbs, and Leety will soon have the chance to attend a "Pennsylvania Polka". They can't out-do Pancoast, Hundeman, Bertholf, Lusk, and Whiting, however, for they'll be ready to teach the "Jersey Bounce". Then there's "Kentucky" and homeward-bound B. Whalen, M. Woolridge, M. Howard, K. Johnson, and M. Ball. Bolton and Nisbet are returning to "Deep in the Heart of Texas", while Theda and Dickinson will travel "The Oregon Trail", Theda going on to Washington. And we can't forget that next year's Echo editor will be taking that "Night Train to Memphis."

If "Moon Over Miami" took in more of the state, it would apply to Augusta Woodward, the Robarts, Ed Voorhees, Betty Ann Ward, and Audrey Dear. "Poor "Little Rhode Island" is without a representative; isn't it? But not so "Maryland, My Maryland", or should we say Vogel's and Anne Childress's Maryland? Showing "Dreams" in their eyes are Anna Knapp, Elsie Onifer, Janet Wilson, and June Montgomery, who have never stopped screaming, "I Wanta Go Back to West Virginia"; one even centered it in "Salt Pork, West Virginia".

Yes, friends (?), we're all taking either the "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" or other means of transportation and going to "St. Louis Blues" (Lonnie Richardt) enjoy the "Carolina Moon" (Georgia Cordle) "Beautiful Ohio" (Jean Wilkinson) live "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans" (Lil Conrad) "Chicago" (Grace Hildebrand). All in all, "It's a Grand Night for Singing"; school's out, and "That's What I Like about the South." Everybody will see everybody next fall, and then we can join the gang in "Seems Like Old Times". In the meantime, enjoy the summer, ya all, and may your wrath ever be cooled.

ECHO-HUMOR

THE CASE OF THE CYNICAL CATERPILLAR

Yesterday morning while walking home from the Baccalaureate service, I fell to thinking of the night I graduated from high school.

The speaker of the evening was somewhere in the doldrums of his address, and I was mentally reminiscing about my high school days. Suddenly I felt a lump in my throat, and tears came into my eyes. I'd swallowed my bubble gum.

"Well," I reflected yesterday, "with bubble gum at five cents a plug on the black market, I'm in no danger this year of being taken for a sentimentalist."

"A sentimentalist's tears are like salt-water taffy," a small voice beside me piped up, "salt water, but sweet and gooey. Bah!"

I turned and saw a caterpillar humping alongside me. He wore a white silk cap and gown.

"An honest looking little piece of jelly," I thought. I said to him, "You sound cynical."

"Ceremonies leave me cold!" he said. "I think they were originally a device created by second-rate caterpillars to get together on a log with first-rate caterpillars. The trouble is they insist on dragging a lot more of us along who'd rather be sleeping under a lettuce leaf somewhere." He sneezed as the tassel on his cap tickled his nose.

"But ceremonies exist today because tradition requires it," I said.

"And traditions exist because they absorb a lot of blame for various things that wouldn't otherwise be tolerated," he returned.

"But traditions are time-honored customs!"

"Traditions! Bah!" He pointed a little green antenna at me. "Tradition is the 'Missing Link' in a cap and gown."

"You're a fine one to make comparisons," I said. "Who ever heard of a caterpillar in a cap and gown!"

"I graduate soon," he said. "But I'm not going to cry about it."

"Me, too. We non-sentimentalists must stick together," I said.

Just then he started across the road and a car dehydrated him.

"Poor departed soul," I thought, and a tear came into my eye.

"Something wrong?" a paserby asked.

"Something in my eye," I said, and hurried on.

At the final meeting of Athenian on Saturday night, May 11, elections were held for next year's officers. Jim Black was elected to succeed John Shell as president. Black will be sophomore president next year. Ray Swartzback is the newly-elected vice-president. He is a rising senior and like Black is from Baltimore, Maryland.

'Pygmalion' Played To Capacity Crowd

Saturday night, a crowd of 700 saw George Bernard Shaw's play, "Pygmalion" presented by the Bainonian and Athenian societies in the chapel. Ginny Miller and Ray Swartzback had the leading roles in this story of a barely intelligible London flower girl, who, taught to speak and act as a duchess by a handsome young phonetics expert, found herself a misfit in any society. Supporting roles were played by Bill Grosh, Nan Wooten, Becky Walton, Max House, Marky Cross, Jim Black, Lois Thomas, Harriet McKeen, Bill Vogel, Dave Campbell, Elsie Onifer, and Ruth Williams.

SCOT SPORTS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Well, here it is at the end of the sports year as well as at the end of the end of the academic year, and this is the last chance to sum up this year's sports at Maryville. However this year it is not a very large order at all. Starting second semester with a basketball team Maryville had intercollegiate sports this year again after a three-year war time lapse. The sports this year have been just that: something to get sports started again.

That basketball squad consisted of five vets along with three non-service men, with only one man on the squad with any college cage experience. Only two of the squad were in college here before the Christmas holidays, so it is obvious that the squad had not had much practice together when they began their schedule, only one week to be specific. Later in the season they did begin to click together and managed to break even for the season, winning six and losing six.

Then this spring with Bob Hunter serving as number one man and coach, a tennis team was organized. They have played four intercollegiate matches, and although they were not victorious in any of them, in three of the matches they lost by one point.

And a baseball team was organized this spring. They were not very successful either, losing all of their four college games. However the players did get some experience which will stand them in good stead next year when it will probably be a great deal more difficult to make the team. None of the baseball men had had any college diamond experience at the beginning of the season.

Yes, this semester we have had some sports, but possibly the most encouraging thing was spring football. In keeping with the other sports there was a lack of experience in the ranks of the football aspirants, but also in keeping with the other sports things are beginning to look rosy for next year. The fifty fellows who turned out learned a lot of football and looked good in general. They are going to be a hard bunch to stop come next fall with the addition of a dozen or so hefty and experienced ex-service men and probably several freshmen. Personally we are very encouraged and even excited with the prospects for Maryville's first post-war football machine. It may look the same to the other school, too, but we tell you, the Highlanders are going to be tough and you can mark our words!

Another thing that looks good for next year is the planned change in the intramural sports setup, which has also been on a wartime basis for the past three years.

When there were more men in college the societies and various other organizations on the hill used to enter their own teams in the extensive and varied program. This naturally was conducive to much more spirit and enlivened competition than has been the case in the past years when it has been necessary to appoint or place men on teams in such a manner as to get the best match possible. The intramural managers have had quite a task in trying to keep up sufficient interest to have enough players out to compose a team. The year now ending has been about the worst yet. Ken Kribbs, who has been appointed intramural manager for next year, says that the plans are to return to the pre-war program next year.

Next year we should see what will be almost a typical peace-time year of sports at M.C.

Nine Players To Receive Intramural Awards

Grubbs Winner With 175 Points

Merrill Grubbs captured first place in the intramural athletic program for this year with a final total of 175 points. Some 29 points back in second place with a 146 total was Kenneth Kribbs. Rounding out the total of nine men who will receive intramural awards were the following: Lloyd Chandler, Bill Dinges, Wilbern Seymour, Willis Pribble, Harold Hunter, Bill Stewart, and Fred Richardett.

High-point man Grubbs is a sophomore math major from Fairview, Pennsylvania. He came in fifth in the program last year. He garnered most of his points by actual participation in the sports with only a few coming from his having officiated at some of the games.

Ken Kribbs, freshman from Orlando, Florida, won the second place medal with 146 points. A good percentage of his points were acquired by officiating for the various games.

The intramural program this year has included touch football, singles ping pong, singles tennis, basketball, doubles ping pong, doubles tennis, volleyball and softball. Next year Ken Kribbs takes over the intramural managership job. Max House has been running the program this year.

A list of participants who will receive awards and the number of points for each is below. First and second places receive medals and the remaining seven are to get monograms.

Grubbs—175
K. Kribbs—146
Chandler—131
Dinges—122
Seymour—122
Pribble—121
H. Hunter—121
Stewart—119
Richardett—119

REDWINGS BEAT LITTLE GIANTS

The Redwings defeated the Little Giants in a hardfought closely contested slugfest on Thursday afternoon May 4, on the baseball field. The final score was 15 to 13. Since that game the Little Giants have forfeited one and the Redwings have also forfeited once, each time because there were not nough players to compose a team.

Scotties Lose Last Baseball Game of Season To E.T.S.

Monday afternoon, May 13, on the Maryville diamond the Highlander nine ended its abbreviated baseball season with its worst walloping of the year. The opponent was East Tennessee State and the score read 14 to 7 at the end.

The outfit from Johnson City got a total of 14 base hits as compared with the 8 for M.C.F. They scored two runs in the first inning only to have the homelings tie it up in their half. Then the Staters got 4 in the second and 5 in the third frame to put the game on ice. They also added 2 in the 7th and another in the eighth. Besides their two in the first inning, the Scotties got 3 runs in the fifth and 2 more in the sixth.

Longest hit of the afternoon was by Spence Renfro, Maryville first sacker, who slammed out a roundtripper in the fifth inning with two mates aboard. Renfro also got a triple. Largen likewise contributed a triple to the Highlander cause. Williams, Campbell and Jones each hit triples for the Bucs.

Maryville committed 6 miscues, while the Bucs were making 4. A total of 14 Scotties went down by the strikeout route.

Following is the M.C. lineup:

Kemp Will Head Athletic Ass'n.

Group Reorganizes After 3 Years Inactivity

Results of the election of Athletic Association officers held last Wednesday, May 15, were as follows: Abbott Kemp, president; Ruth King Wood, vice-president; Merrill Grubbs, secretary; Miss Heron and Coach J. A. Davis, faculty representatives; Frank Kramer, Bob Hunter, Mat Cardella, Elsie Jean Cotton and Andy Anderson, student representatives.

President-elect Kemp will be the first to serve in that capacity since the school year of '42-'43 when Joe Suitor, then captain of the wrestling team, was president. Kemp, a veteran, is a rising senior from Acworth, Georgia. He was high-point man in the intramural athletic program in 1943-44, lettered in basketball this past season and was number-two man on the tennis squad this year.

Ruth King Wood, newly elected vice-president, is also a rising senior and her home is in LaFollette, Tennessee. She is a member of "M" Club, and has served for the past two years as assistant to Mrs. Queener, in charge of Point System.

Merrill Grubbs, rising junior from Fairview, Pennsylvania, is the new secretary. He was the winner in the intramural athletic program for this year, and was outstanding in the backfield in spring football practice.

Student representative Frank Kramer is a rising junior from Maryville, a veteran, a footballer and a member of the present Student Council. Bob Hunter is also a veteran and also from Maryville. He is a senior, a tennis letterman and he served during this past season both as coach and number one man of the tennis team. Mat Cardella is a rising junior and hails from Kenilworth, New Jersey. He is a member of the premed club and has beeen active in intramurals. He is also a candidate for the football team. Elsie Jean Cotton is a rising junior from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She is a member of "M" Club, and plays forward on the basketball floor. Evelyn Anderson is also a rising junior, was girls' tennis champion this year and is a member of "M" Club.

Miss Heron has been a member of the Athletic Board of Control several times during past years and was re-elected this year. Coach J. A. Davis, the other faculty representative, will return to his old coaching job here next fall. He has been on leave of absence during the war, during which time he served as coach at Central high school in Knoxville.

Next year will be the first time in three years that there has been an Athletic Board of Control on campus. During the war when Maryville had no major sports, elections were not held.

TENNIS TOURNEY PROGRESSES

In the doubles tennis tournament Parkinson and Overton defeated Motsinger and Stewart in two straight sets by identical scores of 6-3, 6-3. By virtue of their win they have advanced to the semi-finals where they will meet Chandler and Smith. Also in the tennis tourney Chandler and Smith defeated Mathias and Ken Kribbs in their match, but it took them three sets to do it. Kribbs and Mathias took the first set 6 to 2. Then Chandler and Smith managed to win the next two sets by the close scores of 6-4 and 7-5.

IRC Elects Tom Horst President

IRC met for the last time this semester on May 13. There was a short business meeting to elect the following new officers: president, Tom Horst; secretary, Ruth Broadhead; and treasurer, Lily Belle Gunn. After the business meeting, Mr. C. B. Fisher talked on Iran. Highlights of his speech were: (1) his announcement of returning to Iran this summer, and (2) the political situation in Iran today. "each day increases the intensity in Iran. Iran can and must be a bridge between Russia and the Anglo-American countries. Iran, a country of sharecroppers, is ruled by the rich landlords. No elections are held in the country and all officials are appointed from Teheran. When Russia got control of a zone in Iran, these landlords left. The Russians allowed the peasants to take over the land and elect their own officials, but of course only pro-Russians were allowed to vote. That was in 1942. Russian fifth columnists caused strikes and riots among cotton and woolen mill workers in the American zone. On the oil situation every problem in Iran smells of oil. The Am-Iranian Oil Company discovered oil in the mountains and when they found no way to get it down to the coast they tried to get a 50 or 75 year lease on it, but the landlords wanted the money from the oil now; therefore they gave the oil concessions to the Russians. The Iranians would have preferred to let us exploit their land because we pay more and are more reliable about paying. While we don't want the oil now we are taking the dog-in-the-manger attitude about letting the Russians have it.

The government is seething with internal disturbances. This situation is similar to the one our country faced during the Civil War. "The protecting hand of Russia will not let the revolters join back with Iran even if they (the revolters) want to."

A gift, a pair of pullman slippers, was given to Mr. Fisher as a farewell present.

After refreshments of cookies, Miriam Wickham, this year's president, thanked Betty Congleton, program chairman, Kitty Johnson, publicity chairman, and Janet Campbell, treasurer, for their cooperation and work this year.

VOLUME 32 — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, AUGUST 31, 1946 — NUMBER 1

President Ralph W. Lloyd Makes Trip To China For Church Study

To Be Gone Whole Semester

Having left for China and points east August 21, President Ralph W. Lloyd is absent from Maryville College upon its annual opening this fall for the first time in 16 years. President Lloyd is one of a deputation of five appointed last May by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. to study the Church's work in China and to make recommendations for the future work. They will probably return around Christmas.

Dr. Lloyd left Maryville the morning of August 21 for New York where he was scheuled to fly to London and thence to India, but when he reached New York the Board of Foreign Missions had secured plane seats from San Francisco to Honolulu for August 25. Thereafter he and his companion, Dr. Lloyd S. Ruland, flew from San Francisco and from there to Honolulu. His schedule beyond Honolulu was not definite, but the last word received from him before his departure indicated that he planned to be in Shanghai by today even with the expected delays.

Other members of the deputation are Dr. Ruland, Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions for China; Miss Margaret Shannon of the Board of Foreign Missions; Dr. William J. Barnes, of Englewood, New Jersey, formerly a medical missionary in China, and Rev. Dr. John B. Weir, of Dehra Dun, India, Secretary of the India Council.

PRES. RALPH WALDO LLOYD

Director's Action Puts Deans in Charge of M-C In President's Absence

To serve in the absence of President Lloyd, Dean Frank D. Mcclelland has been appointed the Administrative Chairman and Dean Edwin R. Hunter has been appointed Faculty Chairman of Maryville College by the Board of Directors of the college.

This action was taken by the Committees on Administration and Finance of the Board of Directors of Maryville College in a joint meeting held August 19, two days before Dr. Lloyd departed, and will be in effect until his return.

Also included in the Resolution of the Board of Directors in setting provisions for conducting the work of the college while Dr. Lloyd is absent was the following:

Judge S. O. Houston, Chairman of the Board of Directors, will serve also as chairman of the Committee on Administration.

Judge John C. Crawford, Recorder of the Board of Directors and Secretary of the Director's Committee on Finance, will continue to serve as Acting Treasurer.

Pi Kappa Delta Gets Big Start

Maryville's chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic fraternity, had its first meeting of the year on August 29 in Thaw Hall with the members of the freshman class who are interested in intercollegiate activities in debate, oration, declamation, extemporanous, impromptu and after dinner speaking.

From the freshman class there were 23 boys and seven girls who signed up for those activities.

Members of the fraternity have expressed their desire to urge any old students, transfers, or other freshmen who may be interested in the activities of the fraternity to sign up for speech 101 and to listen for further announcements about them.

Dr. Crothers Preaches At Opening Vespers

Dr. William H. Crothers of Maryville will be the speaker at the first vesper service of the year tomorrow evening, Sunday, Sept. 1, at 7:00 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. His subject is "The Supreme Teacher." The Vesper choir, under the direction of Richard W. Vine, will sing Hosanna Blessed Is He, Marryott, and Now Arise My Soul, Inprovitisia.

Opening Activities Include Sing, Mixer

Skits, Singing Feature Programs

All-campus student activities for the year 1946-47 started Wednesday evening, Aug. 28, at 8 with the Community Sing in front of Voorhees Chapel. The second program was the annual Student Mixer sponsored by the Student Council on Thursday evening in the gym.

Tom Wheeler acted as master of ceremonies for the Community Sing. After group singing, Barbara Blair sang two selections. Three skits were then presented and the evening ended with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Master of ceremonies on Thursday evening was Tom Parkinson. Jay Bishop sang two songs and then led the entire group in singing. Charlie Huffman and Bob Barlow contributed two musical numbers. The next selection was a song by Rush Lester and Jack Houdeshel. Rev. Thomas Graham added the "serious" note to the program with the dramatized story of Aunt Mehitable and her trip to Paris. Several of the state groups presented charades typifying their states. The program concluded with the singing of the Alma Mater followed by the serving of refreshments by the Student Council.

Nu Gamma To Begin

Freshmen girls are soon to find that Nu Gamma is planning an active season to acquaint the new students with Maryville. Tomorrow, the first Sunday, the Nu Gamma groups will attend Y.W.C.A. service together and will listen to the subject as given by Judy Turk, president of Y.W.C.A. Nu Gamma leaders are planning to take their groups to the college woods and the guest house during the coming Sundays.

Maryville Band Being Organized Under Mr. Hughes

Group To Perform At All Home Football Games

Under the direction of Mr. Curtis Hughes, a Maryville College Band is being organized this fall after three wartime years without one.

Mr. Hughes has expressed a hope that the band will consist of as many as 48 members. It will perform at all the home football games and probably make one road trip with the team.

Band rehearsals will be held each Monday and Wednesday afternoon at 4:30.

Tryouts for places in the band are scheduled for the athletic field beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Tryouts for drum major and drum majorettes are scheduled to begin at 1:15 this afternoon. Mr. Hughes plans to have one drum major and three majorettes.

Plans also call for the band to work out marching formations for the football games. Mr. Hughes hopes the band will be ready to march in the first game, scheduled for September 21.

YWCA Conducts "Sister" Party

The annual Big-Little Sister Party, which is a YWCA function, was held last night. Lottie Lavendar and Jean Messer Williams were in charge of the party which began with all "Big Sisters" taking their "Little Sisters" to the front of Thaw Hall. From there the girls divided into four groups at four different places on the campus around campfires.

Activities for the evening consisted of stunts and games within the various groups. Lottie Lavendar and Jean Williams each conducted one of the four groups. Ruth Broadhead and Loretta Nunn headed the other two.

One of the features of the evening was the serving of refreshments.

All juniors and sophomores interested in trying out for positions on the editorial staff of the HIGHLAND ECHO are invited and urged to come to the ECHO office in Thaw Hall at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 2.

Freshman tryouts will be announced later.

Student Vols To Meet

Student Volunteers will meet for the first time this year tomorrow evening after Vespers in the Y rooms in Thaw. The program will open with singing. This will be followed by the welcoming address and the introduction of this year's officers.

Changes Made In College Rules On Absences

New System Based Largely On Proposal By Student Council

In this year's edition of the M-C Standards and Requirments, the section of "absences" contains a definite change from last year's regulations. The new system of absences (or "cuts") is almost entirely the system proposed by the Student Council last semester which contained provisions for "allowed" or "free" cuts. The number of absences now allowed in each course varies according to the scholastic standing of the student. This variation is based on the belief that upperclassmen and honor students are better qualified to use allowed absences judiciously.

The following is the list of the number of allowed absences for freshmen and sophomores each semester to be used at their discretion:

Chapel, 3; Sunday School, or church or both, 3; one credit hour class, 1; two credit hour class, 1; three credit hour class, 2; four credit hour class,2.

Juniors and seniors are allowed absences each semester to be used at their own discretion as follows:

Chapel, 5; Sunday School or Church or both, 6; one credit hour class, 1; two credit hour class, 2; three credit hour class, 3; four credit hour class, 4.

The new system also provides for all students on the honor roll (B average) the preceding semester to be allowed one additional absence from each class.

Separate from, and in addition to, the allowed absences are "excused" absences, which are necessary absences due to illness, misfortune, or other emergencies; and "authorized" absences which are absences due to authorized activities by members of athletic and forensic teams, the choir and other organizations.

Last year the regulations on absences did not provide for any "allowed" absences.

Faculty Reception Scheduled Tonight

Tonight at 8:00 the annual Reception will be held in the college library. The purpose of the reception is to enable all students to meet the members of the faculty and staff and their wives. Judy Turk, president of the YWCA, will head the reception line, followed by Fred Wilson, president of the YMCA. Next will be Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, wife of President Lloyd, and the members of the faculty and staff.

All new and old students and the wives of students are invited to attend.

The reception will be formal. Light refreshments will be served.

Queener, Pieper, Davis, And Brown Return

Four faculty members have resumed their positions at Maryville College this semester following absences during all or part of the war period.

Dr. Verton M. Queener, Professor of History and Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences, has been on leave of absence in Federal Government service in Washington since May, 1943. He will have charge of debate. Dr. Queener has been a member of the Maryville staff since 1927. Mrs. Queener is Assistant Professor of Physical Education for Women.

John A. Davis, will return as Associate Professor of Physical Education following a two year leave of absence. During that time he served as athletic director and coach at Central High School, Knoxville. Mr. Davis has been associated with Maryville since 1940.

Mrs. Bonnie Hudson Brown, Assistant Professor of Biology, will return after a two year absence during which she taught biology at Maryville High School. She became a member of the faculty in 1929.

Assistant Professor of Political Science Archibald F. Pieper has returned to teach and assist Dr. Queener in directing debate. Mr. Pieper has been an officer in the Marine Corps since 1942. His service at Maryville started in 1939.

YMCA Pow Wow Offers Watermelon

Coach Mehl Speaks to Men on Intramurals

Featuring Intramural coach, Mr. Walter Mehl, the Y.M.C.A. held its traditional pow wow and watermelon feast in the college amphitheatre at 8:00 last night. Mr. Mehl spoke on the Scottie intramural sports and introduced the system to the "little brothers and orphans."

Other speakers were Kenneth Kribbs, YMCA representative on the Intramural staff and Charley Pepper, football letterman who spoke in the absence of Captain Martin Mitchell.

A general song session was led by Owen McGarrity. Bill Vogel and Fred Richardett took over for the pep squad in leading Maryville yells.

Iced watermelon was served to all.

Dean Hunter Gives Address at Annual Convocation

"This is a transition year," Dr. Edwin Ray Hunter, professor of English and Dean of Cirriculum said in the opening remarks of his address which marked the beginning of the 128th year of Maryville College. Although according to Dr. S. D. Wilson, every year was a year of transition, that is especially true this year, he elaborated, pointing out that the school now is back to its normal enrollment.

He then stressed the matters of here and now. "Here," he said, "is wherever you are, and that each of us are the center of our world. Here we are and here we shall be and here we shall settle down." He said that it is possible that we may not always want to be here, but then implied that the pastures usually look greener at some distant place. Although we are crowded we should have a spirit of endeavor in order to make this a happy and productive place.

Dr. Hunter then turned to the problem of now. "Now is all we have," he said, "and for many men it has a special emphasis because now should have been several years ago, but you left due to war and now you have had the courage to return. Now, 1946-47 is the time you have. Today will soon be yesterday"

He concluded with the thought that we must build a treasury within ourselves. "I am I, who else? Are you not also convinced of your identity? To be sure, we must grow. What you are is the result of what you store within you. Living is serious and responsible business for serious and responsible people and it is our duty to make good use of the here with us and the now in which we are situated.

Dean Frank D. McClelland presided at the Convocation Service, and Dr. Wayne Davis read the scripture and led in prayer.

"Y" Presidents To Speak

At the first meetings of the "Y" associations of the college tomorrow afternoon the respective presidents are to be the speakers.

Judy Turk will address YW in the "Y" rooms at 1:30 on the subject "Onward With Christ," which is the motto of the group for this school year.

Fred Wilson will speak to YM in Bartlett Hall at 1:30 on the subject "In Step With Him," which is YM's motto for the year.

Since all students are automatically members of either YM or YW, they are urged by the associations to attend the first meetings of the year.

Vine Announces Final Choir Tryouts

Assistant Professor Richard W. Vine, director of the college Vespers Choir, has announced final tryouts for places in the choir for Monday and Tuesday of next week. Tryouts for women will begin at 6:30 p.m. Monday, and tryouts for men will begin at the same time Tuesday evening. The place of the tryouts is the Fine Arts Studio in Voorhees Chapel.

Tale of Woe—or—We Need More Waitresses

Are there any more potatoes? Beets? Meat? Potatoes? Bread? Milk? Sugar? Potatoes — whirl, whirl, buzz—zipp—And the little girl with the white apron whizes by for retills for two tables.

As the days go by she gets thinner and thinner, paler and paler. Finally one day her skeleton collapses in a dismal dead heap.

The moral of the story is: Why be fat?—Help relieve the waitress shortage!

M-C Places Students In Rooms Off Campus

In the past six days the college Personnel Office's rooming service, staffed by Hal Lloyd and Jane Trotter, both M-C grads and located in the Alumni office in the Anderson Hall, has successfully placed over 60 students in rooms or small apartments off the campus. Most of the rooms are in private homes in Maryville, with a few in Alcoa or just outside the city limits to the south and east of town.

Rooms for a few single men and for couples who will take meals in the college dining room are still available. Students who need rooms are asked by the rooming service to complete arrangemnts with the office by 5 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Several weeks ago the college published a notice in the town papers that rooms were needed for many more students than usual this year. The response was large, and within a few days a good number of persons had offered spare rooms in their homes. The college has made these rooms available to incoming students.

Through the semester various rooming adjustments will be made. The staff of the rooming service has stated that they wish to encourage men to stay in the rooms which they have taken and to match courtesy with courtesy in the home.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1946

To Begin With—

Truly it is going to be a great year at Maryville! Everybody says it is; everybody knows it is. How can it miss being the best year yet? We have the men who we have missed so acutely the past three or four years—the men who are so very essential to collegiate "normalcy" . . . We have the genuinely friendly spirit that makes any place a happy place to live. . . We have glowing prospects for a successful football season, which goes an unexplainably long way toward making a successful college year. . . And finally, we have a "bigger and better" faculty and a progressive administration. Yes, that's right, we said "progressive administration." Ask any one who lost hours on that cut system last year if that change of rules on absences doesn't indicate progress.

To carry out the theme of a bigger and better year at Maryville this first post-war of "almost-normalcy," it is our sincere desire and solemn intention to give the campus a bigger and better Highland Echo. As for our policy (if the Echo has one), it is simply to echo the prevailing campus spirit, views and news.

It is our aim and objective: To make—our news accurate and reliable . . . our features interesting and possibly amusing. . . our editorials timely and readable if not informative and though-provoking.

Concerning editorials we shall strive to avoid their being traditionally dull as we would conscientiously avoid contracting the itch. At the same time we shall attempt to prevent their becoming too outspoken and radical. And if you chance to differ with us—or even agree with us—you are hereby and forthwith invited to tell us about it. Worthwhile contributions from any reader will be printed.

"Collector-of-Remarks" Views Opening Scene

By LORRAINE SWIFT

They stood in line to eat; they stood in line at the Personnel Office; they stood in line at Thaw Hall; they stood in line at the bookstore; they stood in line at the Treasurer's Office; they stood in line. Like someone wrote in a "Reader's Digest" article, they were extremely tired of standing in line; to tell the truth, they were extremely tired. Through it all they laughed, joked, griped, and thought other things, and now and then a few remarks floated over the campus reminding the old-timers that something new had been added. In the meantime, a "collector-of-remarks", who watched the amoeba-like movements of the various crowds, thought of the college newspaper.

The said collector wandered to Pearsons Hall one evening for the specific purpose of listening, but an uninformed freshman ordered her to the rear of the line. "Stand in line!" he yelled. "You're no better than anyone else". It wasn't such a bad idea, for there was seen the poor fellow who had asked at the post office for information about the place to get his mail. They had sent him to Pearsons, thinking he had said "meal". . . . In the distance was heard "Do you pass out when you get your ice cream?" And the answer—a loud "later".

Life was merry in Anderson—two lines of merry life. "You know," says one Kathie Theda, "I was working at Western Union once, and they told me to show some people around the building. I took them to room 400, which was marked 'employees only'. One lone girl kept looking at the sign. At length she asked, 'What would happen if more than 400 employees went in?'" . . . Amid the laughter someone yelled, "Aren't you married yet, Joyce?" "Nope," Joyce Jones answered, "but I've still got the man."

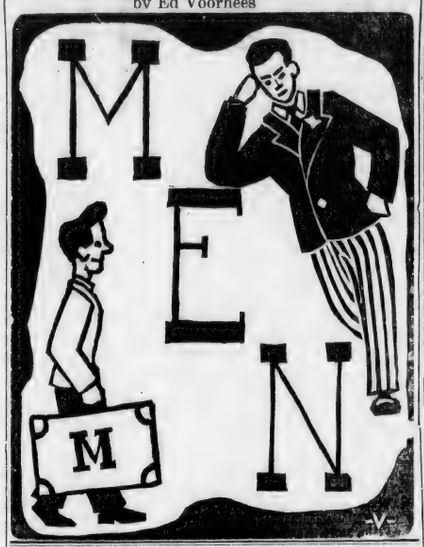
Poor tired freshman in Thaw Hall. She wanted to know if she could take the elevator to second floor. A tall blonde boy, however, had other things on his mind. Surveying the girl situation, he announced solemnly, "I wish I didn't already have a girl."

The bookstore line was a long one. Ask those who know, perhaps Don Barbour who went through it twice. "Second time for Miss Katherine Johnson," he explained. "I'm henpecked." . . . Simultaneously Max House was insisting that he be allowed to purchase the book entitled "A Guide Through the Romantic Movement."

A veteran leaned against the counter in the Treasurer's Office and sighed, "And I thought we came here for a vacation." . . . Always out for money, Ken Kribbs met each student as they emerged from the place that had just drained them of money. "Oh you cute kid, wouldn't you like to put a dollar down on your CHILHOWEAN?" . . . Then they stumbled into Houdeshel, who was criminally attempting to sell them chapel seats.

The trips through the lines completed, the tired students climb the respective dormitory steps to face a problem not entirely their own. Mrs. Snyder copes with too many girls and too few rooms by saying, "They asked me if it wouldn't be difficult to put ten girls in nine rooms, but I told them I'd rather put ten girls in nine rooms than to put nine girls in ten rooms." She might receive advice from King Saul. Everyone might get advice from someone. But from whom? Alas! There is always the hope that the future weeks will only require that students study.

Town people swear that it hadn't rained around here for a month before school opened. They cheerfully add that they knew that it would when MC did open however.



We wonder how Mrs. Lloyd will feel tonight being third in line without having Dr. Lloyd backing her up as number four for the first time in 16 years.

"Gone are the days when my heart was young and gay . . . " Scene: Student Mixer. Main character: Harvey "June" Overton. Comment upon hearing the above song: "That's my theme song."

So now you know where we stand. The year is now officially under way: we've written our first editorial of the term. Here's to a great year at Maryville College. Here's to a great year for the Echo.

SCOTLIGHTS

HALLELUJAH! — WHOOPEE! — HURRAH! — AND ALL THAT ROT! We just got word that Kilroy, Smoe, Gismot and Sad Sack have been discharged and are registered at M.C. this semester. And further more all their little sisters and brothers have joined the M. C. campus. Surely is crowded around here, isn't it? (We like it though!)

FULL SPORTS PROGRAM FOR M. C. THIS YEAR

Turning to more serious thoughts we are mighty happy over the fact that the Scotties of Maryville College will be back in full swing this year. They will be engaging in all the intercollegiate sports that they had before the war—darn Hitler (in this case we're not going to "put the blame on Mame"). Anyway, as we were saying, those intercollegiate sports will inelude football, basketball and baseball, which are major sports, and wrestling, track, swimming and tennis—minor sports.

Basketball, baseball and tennis were the only sports which Maryville engaged in last year. All of which came after Christmas, and all of which were abbreviated seasons. The Scotties (or Highlanders) had a fairly successful basketball season considering the fact that they got a late start and had no experienced players on the squad. They finished the season strong with three straight victories, which proves that they were definitely improving. In intercollegiate games the final standings read six victories for the Highlanders aganist four losses. The tennies season was cut short because of a late start and rainy weather. The Scotties played only four matches, losing all four by close scores. Here again experience was lacking, but they still had some pretty good matches. Baseball also had a short season, but this year we're going to have all the weather man will allow, because nothing else will be outside our command. (That's a joke, son.)

TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR AS HEAD COACH

Coach Lombe Honaker is this year beginning his 26th year as head coach at M. C. He is currently directing the efforts of our mighty heros of the gridiron. He doesn't let the poor guys stay still long enough to get sore. Ably assisting him are Coach J. D. Davis, who is back on the coaching staff after a two-year leave of absence during which time he coached football and basketball at Central High school in Knoxville, and Scot Honaker Jr., who is helping out while waiting to go to school to get his masters degree in physical education. Coach Honaker will be in charge of football, basketball and baseball; Coach Davis will head the wrestling and tennis teams.

WALTER J. MEHL IS NEW COACH

New Coach Walter J. Mehl will be the mentor of track and swimming, and will also be in charge of the new intramural program being set up by the college. Coach Mehl did his undergraduate work and also received his masters degree at the University of Wisconsin. He has recently spent three and a half years as an athletic officer in the Navy. At Wisconsin, Coach Mehl made an excellent record as a member and captain of the track and cross-country teams. He is the record holder for the two-mile run, both indoors and out in the Big Ten and National Collegiate meets. He was also the Big Ten and national champion and record holder in the four-mile cross-country run. He was the champion and holds the record in the A.A.U. for the metric mile. Besides these accomplishments Coach Mehl also won the one-mile championship in the Big Ten. After graduating he served one year as assistant track and cross-country coach at his alma mater. We feel that he will be a valuable addition to the coaching staff and the sports program here at Maryville.

STRENUOUS TRAINING BEGINS FOR 66 PROMISING M. C. GRIDDERS

Sixty-six men reported for football practice which has now been in progress for almost two weeks under the direction of Head Coach Honaker and assistants Davis and Honaker. Practice was held twice daily for the first week and the athletic field. Two hours in the morning and two in the afternoon. Only afternoon practices are now being held.

The first scrimmaging took place yesterday. The squad is taking shape, but it will probably be some time before any definite team is named.

The prospects point a good season. The line is heavy and shows plenty of power and drive and the backfield promises to rip off some long gains with the help of that forward wall.

There are 11 lettermen out who played for Maryville back in 1941 and 1942. They are: Chambers, Easter, Enloe, Herzberger, Hollingsworth, Honaker, Mitchell, Pepper, Spoars, Rogerville and Talbot. In this group there are three tackles, two guards, two ends, two wingbacks, a quarterback and a fullback. Captin of the team will be Marvin Mitchell, 240 lb tackle, who was elected at the end of the 1942 season.

Besides these lettermen there are 24 other candidates for the backfield and 31 others for the line.

Backs include: Baird, K. Berrong, Boring, Baldwin, Callaway, Campbell, Chumley, Cutshaw, Hamilton, Hatley, Lester, Mathis, Merriman, Miller, Murray, Pentz, Pickens, B. Smith, R. O. Smith, Willocks, L. Berrong and Anderson.

Line aspirants are: Beinart, Briggs, Burchfield, Clongínger, Cover, Dinges, Duggan, Garner, Handley, Heaton, J. Henry, H. Henry, Kramer, Largen, Major, McJunkin, McNeill, Mull, Newman, Pinner, Price, Proffitt, Roberts, Sharp, R. Smith, Snell, Walker, Wilson, Rock, Engdall and Kluth.

Managers for the team are Harvey Overton Jr., who is head manager and trainer, with Pribble, Martin and Henry assisting him.

The team will scrimmage again today and will continue practice on Monday.

"Tole fair" with the home folks. Match their sacrifice with youru diligence. Write to them, especially Mother, at least once a week. Your neglect will convict you of the crime of ingratitude.

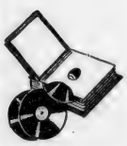
Cross Country To Begin Monday

Walter J. Mehl, who is the newest member of the coaching staff (story on page one) and who will coach track, cross-country, and swimming, has announced that practice for the cross-country team will begin on Monday, September 2. He reports that practice for the track team will not begin yet, but that he does want all men who are interested in trying out for either the track or cross-country teams to come by his office on Monday or as soon as possible afterwards.

Coach Mehl's office is on the first floor of Bartlett Hall, just inside the front door where the old intramural office used to be.

He will be there all day Monday up until about 3:30 in the afternoon when he will be out with those reporting for the cross-country team. Coach Mehl, who holds several Big Ten and National Collegiate records in long distance runs, is anxious for the cross-country practice to get under way early.

Coach Mehl is also making plans for the new intramural program which he will direct.



Spiritual "rickets" may be fashionable with some students but you cannot walk with undernourished legs. And walk you must to live, and live you must before you dare to die. So—go to church; not to please the school, but to refill yourself with strength, courage, and truth in order that you may perform with the greatest ability your life tasks as you see them cut out before you.

Writers (?) Take Brain Cells Out Of Storage For Annual "Feature"

by Gugger and Hoffman

Last year around about this time, the editor tapped us on the shoulder and told us to put our two heads together and give out with a "feature." We put our two brain-cells together. Somebody was covering the weather. (Dry subject at that time) One reporter was writing on the freshman girl who mistook her roommate for the bureau, and tried to stuff a sheet in her mouth. (Sophomore-ex, do you still has a loquacious roomate?) The only thing left of interest was the mail situation.

It's now 1946; someone tapped us on the soulders, demanded a feature. We took our braincells out of cold storage and what was left for us to discuss. but the male situation. Oh, so different! How we love this subject.

Walking into history class we were greted by a sea of faces on which there was a noticable absence of lipstick. (Glad we waited till this year to take history.)

We can't understand why there's such a shortage of waitresses, when Tom, Dick and Harry are on the receiving line instead of Sally, Irene and Mary. Another thing we can't figure out is why the girls head towards Carnegie. Is it through force of habit or the search for stray trunks?

This surely is a transition year. With the increased male population, any resemblance to Gravel Gerite and Nohope Hawkins (sister of Sadie) other than our initials is becoming less apparent.

So, girls, whether you're interested in mail or male, whether you stamp your mail or brand your male, it's all yours—collect it at the door or have him collect you at the door. Either way we wish you luck. And now may we put our braincells back in mothballs?

Have regular hours for study—and use them for study. Effective studying is partly a science and partly an art to be mastered by each individual through studying his own particular habits and needs.

College Student Struck By Car In Town Last Night

Frank G. Ladner Suffers Broken Leg In Accident

Frank G. Ladner Jr. suffered a broken leg when he was hit by a car last night at about eight o'clock at the corner of Broadway and Love Streets.

Ladner, who is a freshman from Pottstown, Penn. and a navy vet, was standing on the curb with his roommate,Tom Scott, and Charles Hoglan and their dates, taking advantage of the first "Town Night" of the year when the automobile struck him. According to bystanders, the car was going East on Broadway and attempted to turn South on Love Street (the corner where the Royal Jewelers store is located) when it apparently lost control and ran up on the curb, hitting Ladner.

Upon being taken to Doctor's hospital, it was determined that although the break was not compound, both bones in his leg were broken below the knee.

None of Ladner's companions were injured.

The two occupants of the car, a man and a woman, were taken into custody by Maryville Police.

Lodner is a campus student, living in Carnegie 300. He had been out for the Cross Coutry team.

New Intramural Physical Ed Program to be Inaugurated Soon

The new intramural program for the men of the college is scheduled to get under way soon, according to Coach Walter J. Mehl, director of the program. Competition in touch football, tennis and badminton is to begin on Sept. 16. Lists will be posted in Carnegie Hall and Monday, Sept. 9 for the purpose of signing up and entries will close on Sept. 14.

All men not classified as freshmen and not out for a varsity squad will be required to participate in either touch football or volleyball during the fall semester. They may participate in both if they so desire. During the period in which they are not playing either football or volleyball they will be required to engage in either tennis, badminton or swimming. Provisions will be made for those men who cannot enter into the regular program for physical reasons.

Freshmen will be permitted to take part in the Intramural Program in addition to their regular physical education classes, but this particular participation does not excuse them from P. E. classes.

During the year there will be tournaments in tennis, badminton, golf, and handball. There will be a track meet in the fall and spring, and a swimming meet in the winter. All men, including varsity and freshmen men, will be eligible to enter these events. There will be team competition in basketball and softball in the spring semester.

The regular cut system of the college will be in effect. One extra free-play period will be credited for each tournament participated in

A new system of points is going to be in effect whereby all students, including varsity and freshmen men, will have chances to win recognition and awards at the close of the year. A gold medal is to be given to the high point man of the year and the nine other high point men will also receive recognition. A trophy is also being planned for the club having the highest number of points.

A bulletin on the Intramural Program is to be given to each man in Carnegie Hall today giving the general outline of the program for the year. Town students are asked to pick up one of these bulletins at the intramural office in Bartlett Hall. The Intramural Handbook will be out around the first of October.

Watch the bulletin boards for further information.

Chattering Females Flock to Try To Get Ice Cream, and Cokes

by Ilda Mosby

Have you ever wondered where the Chatterbox got its name? Well, a visit between 9:45 and 10:15 p.m. any night might give you a fair idea. At ten till 9:45 the line is already long and vociferous. Every woman on the campus has apparantly become extremely hungry or thirsty. So, bedecked in P.J.'s robes, scuffs, bobby pins (with sox a very close second and curlers trailing far behind) and a face devoid of its usual more colorful film, they flock to the little white building behind Baldwin. (At this point we might say that the college has finally seen fit to make a path from Pearsons to the Chat since there wasn't much grass left anyhoo'. Once there, every one tries to get on the steps. By the time Judy Andy or Jo arrives, it's almost impossible to force a path through the feminine mob. The minute the door opens, the place is completely filled with a host of females. After a wait of 15 or 20 minutes, you may get waited on if there's anything left. (Why is it that girls who ordinarily diet sem to crave refreshment at 10 o'clock?—On second thought, why not let the football team practice going through that mob and omit scrimmaging?) By the time we make it back to our rooms it's almost time for lights out.

Near the end of each semester, there's a definite bottle shortage. The fact that each room is quipped with 12 or 15 bottles doesn't enter into the picture. An urgent plea from the Chat managers results in a few being returned, but by the end of the semester the accumulation is again complete.

No matter what time of day it opens, the Chatterbox always draws a crowd. That's the place where you see more people in 15 minutes than you ordinarily meet in a day, and you can hear all the latest gossip while licking a cone or drinking a coke.

Wilson, Murray Cotton, Campbell Elected To Posts

Committees Named In Year's First Council Meeting

BUSINESS DISCUSSED

Vacancies in the Student-Faculty Senate were filled at a special meeting of the Student Council on Thursday, September 5. Open positions in the various classes were filled by Fred Wilson, senior; Elsie Jean Cotton and Carl Murray, Juniors; and David Campbell, Sophomore. Those persons elected to two terms last fall and therefore holding position this year are Thomas Parkinson and John Shell, seniors; and Anna Sakaizawa, junior.

The Student Government constitution provides that the Senate should be composed of seven students and seven faculty members appointed by the president. Also according to the constitution, "It shall be the duty of the Senate to consider problems and proposals (the proposals often coming from the Student Council) and to adopt from time to time such regulations and such changes in existing regulations of the college as may be deemed wise and necessary."

Thorough knowledge of the Town Night regulations was stressed at the September 5 meeting. Provision was made for dormitory roll checkers and the presence of at least three members in town on Town Nights.

Amendment Passed

An amendment of the constitution of the Student Body providing that Women Student Government Association house chairmen should have membership in the Student-Faculty Senate, was passed by the council and will be presented to the Executive Committee of the Faculty, and the Student Body.

The Recreation Hall may be open for use next week, it was stated. It will be available after lunch and dinner and on Tuesday and Saturday nights.

However, it will not be open during the afternoons, because of the Intramural program. Class committees will be asked to clean the reading rooms and office; other rooms will be cared for by the Student Help office.

At the September 5 meeting, it was decided that the council would meet on Wednesday evenings at 8:00 in Thaw 212. Meetings are open to all students unless otherwise designated.

Women of the Council were asked to remain for a short meeting to elect a member to the Coordinating Council of the W.S.G.A. It was decided to postpone the election until freshmen women were elected to the Student Council.

President John Shell presided at the meetings.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1946

Student Council Goes Ahead

Did the meeting of the Student Body Thursday morning after Chapel seem unnecessary and a waste of time to you? Do you know the story behind that meeting? What all it represented?

Well, take it from us: it was not unnecessary and it was far from a waste of time. That yearly meeting for the approval or ratification of Town Night by the student body represents the result of a considerable amount of time, though, and work on the part of the Student Council; and a definite privilege on the part of the Student Body, as was ably explained by the president of the Student Council at the aformentioned meeeting.

For the past couple of years it has been the regretable fact that all too many Maryville students have not been sufficiently "Student Council Consciouus." As for what the Council is: It is a group of 22 students elected as representatives of the various class by the classes to serve as the administrative group of the student body. More specifically, the object if the Council is to furnish a responsible group of students who will represent accurately the points of view and the interests of the student body and to serve as a body which proposals arising from the students may be heard, developed, presented through official representatives of the Student-Faculty Senate for further consideration.

As for the record of the Council: the past few years have seen the Council growing in importance and influence. It seems to be accomplishing more each successive year. Apart from the classic examples of Town Night and the Recreation Center, which were projects of former years, last year the Council was largely responsible for the following: the new cut system, Women's Student Government, possibly indirectly for the new system of walks on the campus, indirectly for the new system of physical education which promises to be a good thing, and many other things of lesser importance.

As for this year: The Council is set for another good year. The officers are interested, capable and progressive. The same goes for the entire membership. They are lining up some important projects already.

As for each student: it is his duty to bear in mind the fact that the Council is a group of his representatives. When anything of interest or value arises that needs attention, don't gripe that nobody does anything about it, tell your Council representative. That's what they are for. Without the cooperation of all the students it is impossible for the council to accomplish anything. Remember the Council is composed of students; it is representing student views and interests.

OVER MY COKE

by Mary E. Hunt

We are being watched. Today people from all over the world are looking to us for the answers to their problems about starvation, peace and plans for a better world. Our own nation, too, is looking to us for the answers to the challenge of a better America. From our group—the students of today must come the thinkers and doers of tomorrow. From college groups such as our own must come philosphers, scientists, doctors, ministers, teachers, congressmen and women, and civic leaders for millions of cities and communities.

We cannot expect, however, that these abilities will suddenly fall upon us like gentle rain, and we will be fully prepared to face the grave responsibility of keeping a peace that many of us helped make more secure during the past few years.

Rather, our civic training and responsibilities have already begun. As educated citizens, we should begin our work by a study of our present government, its merits, and the defects which it has. We must make ourselves more familiar with the persons who hold public office. One of the main weaknesses that most of us have is that of not keeping up with the decisions that each government official makes, and the results of that decision. We have a duty to find out what our representatives in Washington are doing, and we must grasp that responsibility if we want to build a better world. Everyone agrees that the incident in a nearby college town, Athens, Tennessee about a month ago was unfortunate, but we must congratulate them on their efforts toward trying to clear up a thing that they believed was wrong, and in taking an interest in the government, and then setting out to do something about it. Do not think that I am avocating riots, for I am not. I am only saying that we must be interested and ready to take our place in voting for the better candidate, and in studying the experience and platform of that candidate. Not only must we support good candidates, but in many cases, we may have to encourage people who are well qualified to run for an office.

We must become interested in the problems and backgrounds of all peoples of the world in order to help shape the policies of the world. As church members and Christian leaders, many of us will have an opportunity to take part in the sending of missionaries, some will go to other countries either as missionaries, in offices of the government or as a representative for some American firm. Goodwill must be built up by all nations of the world before we can solve all the world's problems.

Opportunities to serve our country as better citizens will arise to each of us. We may never have great opportunities to serve our country. Maybe our greatest service has already been given during the war.

But none of us can deny the fact that we have a responsibility in keeping informed of international, national, state and local political situations.

All of us have the responsibility of determining what we consider the qualities of good citizenship and then trying to live up to them, and of trying to keep them before the public.

All he could do was laugh when he found his automobile (?) on the porch of the Chapel yesterday afternoon. For further information see a certain one of the faculty members in the music department.

Always wondered what China was really like. Guess we'll all find out after Christmas.

Next week the Echo is going to have fewer ads.

TALK OF THE WEEK.....

by Ed Voorhees

lunch. Every hour and every classroom is scheduled for the fall of 1946 with many classes without places to meet.

2. Because lack of space in laboratories, some students will have to postpone prerequisite science courses. This builds up a backlog which must be taken care of as soon as possible in order that the students may advance into the upper division or transfer to professional schools.

3. Many faculty offices are accomodating from two to five members at the same time. Some of the faculty is compelled to use classrooms for offices. At least 30 new faculty members now being employed will not have office consultation facilities, and many of the present faculty do not have a place to work and meet students.

Matron: Girls, let's move a little faster in line.

Girl: Oh, she's just an old crank.

Matron: If you don't have a self starter you have to have a crank.

To go without food for seven days makes one week.

All that bountiful Nature needs is a fair chance, and she will reproduce the forests in great abundance. A few scattered seed trees will "seed-in" many acres; protected from fire, the young trees will grow rapidly into merchantable timber.

Classroom Shortage Limits U-T Students

Even with limitations on the number of students attending the University of Tennessee this fall, the University will be faced with a serious shortage of classrooms, laboratories, and faculty offices, according to Acting Presiden C. E. Brehm.

Against the possibility of 7,000 students enrolling at U-T in September, a maximum capacity in classrooms and personnel for only 5200 to 5800 students is available. Priority principles recently established at U-T will favor Tennessee students and veterans.

Business Manager J. P. Hess has filed "justification of the needs" for added classroom and teaching facilities with the Federal Works Agency at Atlanta. Efforts already made to increase or improve educational facilities for veterans are:

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

MARYVILLE'S SCOTTIES have scheduled nine football games for this 1946 season. Any prediction on the outcome of any of these games at the present would be nothing but a wild guess—so, we make no predictions yet.

But we can give you a few figures on the records of Maryville against these teams in the past. The Highlanders have gained enough victories to make their performances worth witnessing, and they have sustained enough losses to do likewise.

Hiwassee, the Scotties first opponent, on the night of Sept. 21, has beaten Maryville only once in their past seven engagements and that was back in '32 by a score of 12-7. In the past six games Maryville has won by overwhelming scores.

Wesleyan Holds Edge

The story is a bit different with Tennessee Wesleyan. In the past 20 years the two teams have met 13 times. Wesleyan has triumphed in seven of those meetings while Maryville has been successful in five of them. One resulted in a 0-0 tie. In their last tussel in '39 Wesleyan was the victor 28-14.

The last word we have on a game between Maryville and Center College was way back in 1917 when Center was better than the Scotties by a 33-0 score. So, we're out for revenge on the night of October 5, 1946. Center's new coach this year is from the University of Indiana where he formerly was an assistant. Center, as Maryville, did not play during the war.

E. T. State is Tough

East Tennessee State is another team with which the Scotties haven't been overly successful. In eight previous games M.C. has been leading at the final whistle in two of them, with State taking the other six. In their last struggle which was in 1942 the Highlanders came out on the short end of a 19-12 count.

Emory and Henry Wasps versus Maryville College Scotties in 1941 ended with the Scotties batting the Wasps by the score of 20-14. However, in their only other record games the Wasps were superior by 7-6 and 24-0 scores. The battle will be resumed by the two teams on October 26 at Bristol, which is located on the Tennessee-Virginia State line.

The record stands even between M.C. and Middle Tennessee Teachers, each having won three of their last six games. The last meeting of the two teams which was in '39 resulted in triumph for the Teachers 20-7. Maryville had taken their previous engagement 13-7. The game this year will be played here on Nov. 2, which is Founders and Homecoming Day.

Sewanee Was Good Then

The only game (so far as we could find) between M.C. and Sewanee was played back in 1923. Sewanee won 20-0. Since that was before our time we have another little item on the Sewanee boys. Back in 1899 a squad of 15 men embarked on a 3,000 mile trip. They played five games in six days, won five—scoring 91 points to their opponent's none (zero, that is). The list of their victims includes the Univ. Texas, Texas A&M, Tulane, Louisiana State, and the Univ. of Mississippi. But that was several years ago.

Scotties vs Eagles—Gr-r-r-r

Carson-Newman, the Highlanders arch-rivals, are always tough competition. But Maryville holds the edge in games won in their last 15 contests. Nine victories for the Scotties against five for the C-N Eagles and one 6-6 tie, the records tell us. The Scotties boasted a 7-0 victory over the Eagles in their last skirmish in 1941.

The Pioneers of Tusculum College have been able to salvage only one game from the Scotties in 11 past games, and that was by the slim margin of 8-6. Maryville has 106 points to only six for Tusculum in their last five games. Maryville will wind up the season against the Pioneers here on Nov. 23.

Disregarding the records, whether good or bad, and taking a look at that huge hard-charging forward wall and fast hard-running backfield who will be wearing the orange and garnet this season—we're inclined to be optimistic.

Twenty Runners Out For Cross Country Team

Twenty candidates for the cross country team have completed a week of workouts under the guidance of Coach Walter Mehl. It is still too early to tell who will be the top men on the squad. However, Coach Mehl stated that although members of the squad are for the most part inexperienced, they are very enthusiastic about having a good team.

Maryville's schedule this year will probably consist of about six meets for which no specific dates have been set. There is a Home and Home engagement already agreed upon with the University of Tenn. Also, there may be meets with Georgia Tech. and the University of Georgia.

Coach Mehl pointed out that he is bringing the squad along slowly and that if there are any men who would still like to go out there is room for them. He asks, however, that they try to report before the end of this week. Practice sessions are being held five days a week at 3:30 p.m.

Following is a list of the men out for the team:

Bair, Scott, Gillette, Ladner, Kay, Downey, Barbour, Yambert, Wheeler, Orr, Preble, Barnes, Merlin, Chandler, Mulholland, Law Wilson, Houdeshel, Scheiber and Brunson.

Injuries Hit Scot Gridders As Hard Work Continues

Injuries have been hitting the football squad during the past week as practice continues at a rugged pace. At present eight men are on the ailing list.

Kramer, 185 lb. guard, has been out most of the week with a knee injury, but hopes to get back in practice by Monday. Pinner, promising end, has been slowed down by an injured shoulder. Hollingsworth, letterman wingback, has been out of the scrap due to a boil on his neck. Honaker, also a letterman, has been out of his quarterbacking spot with an ailing knee. Also out with knee injuries are Walker, a prospective looking tackle, Snell, end, Cover, who is out for the season. Rogerville, a letterman tackle, is also out for the season because of an old shoulder injury which was giving trouble.

All five teams took part in the game scrimmages Wednesday on the athletic field. Lack of defense was noted as the most glaring defect of the afternoon. But the boys are working hard and showing lots of spirit in ironing out those defects. Besides these scrimmage games on Wednesday the squad has been running plays, practicing blocking, tackling, punting and passing during the week. The squad will be scrimmaging again this afternoon. Besides regular practice from 3:30 to 5:30 each afternoon the team is receiving a lecture every day at 1:05 in Bartlett Auditorium. These lectures began yesterday.

Judging from the practice which has taken place thus far it looks as if the following will be playing quite a bit of ball for the Scotties this season: ends—Mull at 156 lbs., Talbot at 164 lbs., and Pinner if he recovers from his shoulder injury. Looking good at the tackle spots are Captain Marvin Mitchell, who weighs in at 230 lbs., Beinart, a 182 pounder, and Walker, 175 lbs. Guards showing special promise are Easter, 198 lb. letterman, Proffitt at 182 lbs., and Newman at 144 lbs. Centers will probably be Garner at 198 lbs. and letterman Still, weighing 185.

In the backfield King Berrong, 152 lbs., and Ross Honaker, 155 lb. letterman, are the most likely looking quarterback prospects. Wingbacks with a future are probably Pepper, 170 pounder, and Hollingsworth at 173 lbs. Both men are lettermen. Artie Spears, a letterman weighing 178 lbs., and Merriman, 167 pounder, are showing the most promise at the fullback position. The tailback spot promises to be crowded with Leon Berrong, Neff, Enloe and Cutshaw all showing special ability.

Point System To Begin Tuesday

Point system, or Maryville's athletic program for women, begins again on Tuesday, September 10, when all women interested in this activity will meet in Bartliett auditorium at 4:30 p.m. At this time the women will sign up as to the hours most convenient for them. Point system activities for this year include soccer, vollyeball, aerial darts, basketball, baseball and track.

After practice in each sport has been started and the participants well grounded in rules, teams are chosen to compete against each other. Point system also includes health rules that must be followed. Restrictions are placed on eating hours and types of food allowed. Reports are handed in each week giving data about amount of exercise taken and rules broken. Points are given for participation in sports and those earning 400 or over at the end of the school year become eligible to be members of M club.

A Fowl Story—Or Chicken Feed Is Hard To Get, Girls

by Connie Hawkins

The rumor comes to via the grapevine that there are two freshmen girls this year who are attempting to raise two chicks with the purpose of providing fryers for their table in the dim future; all of which reminds me of a story. I assume I have your permission to tell you the story. "Thank you!" (In the approved Martin manner.)

Once upon a time last Easter, four girls of my acquaintance formed what was known as a Chicken Corporation in the feed department of a neighborhood grocery store. Object: to buy and raise four of these cu. . ute colored chicks. Working capital: price of said chicks and some chicken feed (naturally they would have objected to any other kind of feed. Nothing but the best for those chicks!) Living quarters for chicks: ummm. . . there's where the trouble started! Now none of these girls were roommates, and, oddly enough all four of their roommates objected, but definitely, to sleeping with chickens. Wasn't that cruel? (I assume our freshmen poultry farmers are roommates?) The honorary president of the corporation was the girl whose roommate was forced to live and sleep with that characteristic odor which so constantly surrounds chickens. (Or had you noticed?) And may I warn you—chickens, if fondled too much, sicken and die. It was that fact which led to the failure of the Chicken Corporation in qusetion. The result of the efforts of the corporation: Dr. Isaac Anderson has two close companions in the college cemetery and Professor Walker has two more chickens on his farm.

I could also tell you of the chickens given to a freshman boy several years ago by his Boy Scout troop. Professor Walker has those too! And there was the cat across the hall who preferred the bed in the room next door to his owner's and who loved to roam the halls and scoot under other people's beds. He stayed all year. Dogs bark too loudly, though, and are too frequently discovered. I speak from experience!

Need I say more except. . . . good luck, chicken raisers. You'll need it!

Mary: "Why do you call your boy friend Pilgrim?"

Joan: "Because every time he calls me he makes some progress."

Oriental Theme Used by Theta as Rush Week Ends

Confusius Say Big Time For New Freshmen

Confucius say, "Theta Rush Week end with big bangup celebration tonight." At 8 tonight, in a quaint Chinese Restaurant on Alumni Gym Boulevard, a floor show will be given for new boys and girls of Maryville College. Among those in th program are John Runion, Jean Balch, Jay Bishop, Barbara Blair and Mavis Sykes. Program chairman for this affair are Marian Montieth and Edith Earle.

With an oriental theme the opening of the "Green Dragon" was held last Monday afternoon, September 9. Officers and old Thetas were dressed in Chinese costumes. Handsome Alpha Sigma waiters looked very gallant in their tuxedoes. A fortune teller was on hand to look into the future of the guests. There was a large attendance.

A treasure hunt was held on Thursday night. September 12. Boys and girls attended the hunt and tried to find the booty about which clues were written as Confusius quotations. A big time was held in the gym at the conclusion and refreshments were served.

And so with the end of the Rush Weeks, it is now for the new girls to give serious thought to picking out their society and becoming a loyal member of it.

Formal Opening of Recreation Center Planned Tuesday

The grand opening of the recreation center is slated Tuesday night during Town Night hours, Elsie Jean Cotton, chairman of the committee announced Thursday. The new equipment has not yet arrived, but the committee plans to make available the equipment which was left at the close of the term last spring.

Card games will again be available in the parlor, ping pong, shuffleboard, and badminton will be played in the little gym, and it is hoped that volley ball games can be played in the upstairs room.

The center will be opened daily after meals and on Tuesday and Saturday nights. As yet, no schedules for duty have been posted, but the committee plans to make a sign-up sheet available the first part of next week.

"Students are expected to pay for all equipment which they break or damage," Miss Cotton said."Last year the monitors and students grew careless about this rule, but the committee expects to rigidly enforce it this year."

The "Rec" center was begun by the student council, who is in charge of the program. It officially opened for the first time on February 5, 1945 with over 100 students taking part that first night.

College rules are enforced in the center, as well as certain rules which have been set up by the students.

It is understood that the host and hostess are in charge of the center as long as they are on duty. No shorts are to be worn there, and there is to be no eating in the designated rooms. Students are forbidden to enter rooms not used by the center. All students must sign for the equipment which they use.

The committee in charge of the "rec" center this year are Pat Horton, Bill Houdeshel, Marian Monteith, Ray Swartzback, Loretta Nunn and E. J. Cotton.

ALPHA SIGMA MEETS

Alpha Sigma will hold a business meeting in the Alpha room in Anderson at 6:15. This will be the first business meting of the semester. All old members are urged to attend.

Church Leaders From Asia Speak At Friday Chapel

Women From Japan, China, Philippines Address Students

An East Asia Missionary team composed of Mrs. Tamaki Uemura, a pastor in Tokyo, Japan; Miss Foh-Mei Hsiang, educator in Shanghai, China, and Dr. Josefa Ilano, physician in the Philippines were the guest speakers at the Friday morning chapel service.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. William C. Kerr, missionary to Japan, who also led the devotionals. She spoke of her own joy at being able to return to Japan this winter.

Mrs. Uemura was the first speaker. She told of the present outlook of missions in Japan opening with the statement that her country is trying to rise after destruction. She told how the faith in the old government has been shattered, and how the disillusioned thinkers are looking for something to take its place. Mrs. Uemura pointed out that in a country where atheism prevails, Christianity is a complete conversion.

Only 87 years ago the first missionaries came to Japan, according to Mrs. Uemura. At first they were unable to preach and were only teachers and doctors. But the young people were struck by their personalities and have learned of Christianity through them.

The Japanese people have been ambitious, but they never seriously tried Christianity. The missionaries must teach them what ambition means in the light of Christian principals. They are sorry for their wrongs. "We want helpers and I am grateful that you are sending back great missionaries," she stated.

In conclusion, she asked that the students pray and help and send and be themselves great dynamoes for the saving of such a country as Japan.

Student Vols Hold Tea for East Asia Mission Team

Miss Hsiang Foh-Mei, Mrs. Tamaki Uemura and Miss Josefa Llano were the guests of honor at a lawn reception sponsored by the student Volunteer Organization at 4:30 yesterday. Vice-President Betty Saint substituted for President Harvey Overton who was detained by football practice. Cold punch and cookies were served by Anna Sakaizowa, Nisei student and Maybelle Fong, Chinese American student. The informal afternoon tea was held on the lawn between Pearson's and Thaw.

Requested to visit this country to take part in the East Asia Christian Fellowship Mission by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, the women are Christian leaders in their respective countries—China, Japan and the Philippines.

Miss Hsiang Foh-Mei is the dean and head of the music department at Mary Farnham school, Shanghai, one of the highest ranking schools for girls in the Orient. As Sunday school teacher, choir director, deaconness, and now as elder of South Gate Church, and as an indefatigable Christian relief and reconstruction leader, Miss Hsiang is one of the outstanding Presbyterian leaders in the Christian church in China.

Veterans From All Theaters Form College Football Squad

When Maryville students in the stands cheer the football squad this year, they will be cheering a group of fellows who have seen the world during the last few years. The college has been without a team, but, having robbed the four services of their men. Coach Honaker is once again preparing to thrill Maryville crowds with 13 men from the army, seven from the army air corps, two men from the marines and 21 men from the navy. From the army come three men who spent their time in the Pacific theater of war. They are Alan Rock, Sgt.; Artie Spears, M-Sgt.; A. J. Wilson, Cpl.

Lavender, Richardette Titley, Sykes, Arant, And Vogel Selected

Lottie Lavender, Mavis Sykes, Kay Titley, Bill Vogel, Fred Richardette and Bob Arant were elected cheerleaders at the pep meeting held in the gym last night. Miss Lavender will serve as head cheerleader since she received the largest number of votes.

Sixteen persons took part in the try-outs which were held prior to the election. Nine of the try-outs were girls and seven were boys.

Miss Lavender is a senior home economics major from Washington College, Tenn. She was a cheerleader here last yar.

Miss Sykes, a sophomore, is from Wilmington, N. C. She was a cheerleader in her high school during her senior year.

Bill Vogel, a junior English major from Baltimore, Md., was also a member of last year's squad.

Richardette, a sophomore from Swedesboro, N. J., was a cheerleader in high school for one year before becoming a cheerleader here last year.

Miss Titley, who was also a cheerleader in her high school in Springfield, N. J. is a freshman home economics major.

Bob Arant is a freshman from Charlotte, N. C.

The pep committee announced at the close of the rally that they plan to have a pep meeting around a bonfire sometime before the first game next Saturday.

National Debate Topic Announced

"Resolved that Labor Should be Given a Direct Share in the Management of Industry," was announced as the national debate topic by Dr. Verton Quener at the society meeting of the Alpha chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic society, last Wednesday. The varsity squad will begin work at once in preparation for intercollegiate conventions throughout the year.

Sophomores and upperclassmen interested in debating or in other forms of speech are urgently needed and are requested to see Dr. Quener as soon as possible. Members of the Varsity team will be chosen from this group and the members of Pi Kappa Delta.

One or two hours credit is given for participation in the speech program. Credit is dependent upon how one attends the 1:30 class on Monday and the 7:00 class on Wednesday. If only one class is met each week, one hour of credit is given; if two classes each week are met, two hours of credit are given.

At the Wednesday meeting it was decided to begin the year by holding a party for prospective debators enrolled in speech. A unique program and refreshments will highlight the event which will take place within the next two weeks.

Member of Pi Kappa Delta are: Judy Turk, June Garland, Mary Wooldridge, Janet Nisbet, Paul Jamarik, John Briggs, John Shell and David Campbell.

Council Discusses Plans, Town Night

Town night violations were the chief point of business at the Student Council meeting last Wednesday. Loitering outside the dormitories has been the chief violation. Faculty comment was pointed out and after due discussion it was decided to enforce more effectively the clause in the Town Night provision, which provides that there shall be no loitering. It was agreed that additional explanation of that rule is necessary. The personal penalty involved for disregarding this rule is remission of Town Night privileges for a period of four months.

A brief resume of three successful Student Council proposals of last year was given. Those proposals are: The present absence system; the elimination of the eleven o'clock curfew for men; and the alteration of the physical education program for upperclass men.

Since football is in the air, the idea of obtaining a campus mascot, a Scottie dok, was discussed. Discussion was delayed, pending more information.

Sunday afternoon coed activities were also discussed. Jessie Lou Brunson, Tom Parkinson, Anna Sakaizowa and Virginia Gress were appointed to investigate such possibilities.

Letterhead stationary, it was agreed, would be an asset to the Student Council correspondence. Arrangements are being made by a committee of three; Carl Murray, Anna Sakaizowa and Fred Wilson.

Although the council will continue to meet on Wednesdays in Thaw 212, it was decided to change the time to 9:00 p.m. Meetings are open to all students unless otherwise designated.

President John Shell presided at the meeting.

Chilhowean Photos To Begin Monday

Individual sittings for Chilhowean photographs will begin Monday morning, September 16, at 9 o'clock in Bartlett Hall. In order that the pictures might be uniform, freshmen girls will be asked to wear light or dark sweaters and round collars; sophomore girls are to wear light sweaters and pointed collars, while junior girls will be photographed in dark sweaters and pearls. Requirements for seniors were decided in a class meeting.

The use of a camera has been made available for Chilhowean features, small group, and club pictures, which will be made throughout the semester.

Museum Holds Large Interesting International Shoe Collection

by Dorothy Vawter

Shoes—big shoes! little shoes! toeless shoes! heeless shoes, red shoes, black shoes, rainy shoes, sunny shoes. Why so many shoes? Just take a look around the campus any time you take a notion. You will see all kinds, but the best place to look, if you want to get away from everyday, prosaic shoes! is the Museum. Just take a peek in some day when you get bored with Mademoiselle or the Ladies' Home Journal and notice what some people have to wear. Huge shoes on thick wooden bases for the rainy weather in the Philippines, tiny silk ones two or three inches long for the tiny feet of the Chinese ladies, huge straw sandals that belonged to a Maharaja of India. The most interesting thing of all, however, is the donaters of these enteresting relics.

Most of the shoes from the Philippines were presented by Dr. and Mrs. C. N. Magill relatives of Miss Jessie Johnson, who were missionaries there before the war. Both were captured by the Japanese and both died during their imprisonment.

Dr. S. T. Wilson, former president of the college, presented to the Museum a great array of Persian shoes. Naturally, having been born in Persia, he had access to many curious types.

A collection of shoes from India came from Mrs. Sarah Redford, sister of Mrs. Wilson and graduate of the college. She was stationed in the native state of Kolhapur, the same one from which Martha Kincaid, one of Maryville's newest missionary daughters, comes.

A large group of shoes from China was presented by Dr. Edward Kidder, the most interesting being the aformentioned Ladies' silk sandal.

One of the most interesting donaters is Ernest J. Frei, one of the very few missionaries under the Presbyterian Church captured by the Japanese. Being a native of Switzerland, he naturally had the protection of a neutral country, but it seems that things got pretty hot for him when the Japs caught on to the fact that he was very familiar with the guerilla movement and food smuggling.

Please Don't Loiter....

It seems as though this college can go only so long without discussion, and then more discussion, of Town Night. This discussion of the subject carries with it a complaint, an interpretation, and a warning.

The complaint is that Town Night has not been working as well as it should. It was asserted at a recent Student Council meeting that many students have been guilty of the violation of "loitering" without realizing it and without any bad intentions whatsoever.

According to the provisions of Town Night, girls upon returning from town, are to go "into" their dormitories. Anything other than that is not legal and must be classified as "loitering." That interpretation includes not only sitting on benches around the campus after returning from town, but it also renders illegal couples standing around their dorms—even in front, even in the light! When one (or two) get on the porch of a dorm, they may be technically called being "into" the dorm. However, standing around the steps is not.

And the warning that is to be given is that loitering or the standing around the dormitories after the trip to town on Town Night IS going to stop—or be stopped. Town Night, we believe all will agree, is a privilege valuable enough to be preserved at any cost. It is the stated and understood duty of the Student Council to preserve Town Night by seeing that it works smoothly and that it is not violated either intentionally or otherwise. That is just the Council members say it, and they mean it when they say they are not policemen or gestapo agents. But someone must have th responsibility of Town Night and the Council certainly seems to be the most logical group for that.

Town Night is worthwhile; it is worthwhile to the extent that council members are determined to be strict and even severe if that is what executing their responsibility means.

So now you have been warned. These penalties seem very heavy sometimes. Suspension of privilege for four months for loitering. Don't be a violator; they are going to get stuck.

Get on "into" that dormitory.

Why there is so much enthusiasm from women about classes which ordinarily mean work; why Paul Yambert (a brain in Physics) has such a deep voice; if Lorrie ever found out the first name of her date; if Mrs. Butcher found bits of plaster on the floor of her room; if Ernest Cook can see without his glasses; just how Smartt, Hamberger, How Bennie and Rex are doing; if Lloyd Chandler is still singing "Has anyone seen my gal?"; How "Florida" and "Chicago" are getting along; why Owen McGarity wants his name left out of this column; if Rush Lester's first name has any significance particularly to his character; how much could be made by black mail?

WHEN TWO HEADS BUMP

Recently there has been considerable discussion among M-C students concerning a custom that was carried over from last year, namely that of "dressing up" for Thursday night dinner. In this column this week, we are presenting both sides to this controversial question.

PRO by Betty Harte

And then there are those who think Maryville iss perfect as is. Take some folks for instance who eat, sleep, work, play and casanova in T shirts. Great life! Shows the old college spirit!

Old college spirit is right. That idea went out with prohibition—and was just as good, as ideas go.

But of course the woman is always right. Come to breakfast, dinner and supper in curlers, dirty saddles, and the oldest sweater and skirt in a moth-eaten collection. That's "vogue." Let's be hep, Kid!

These dead heads who think a snappy figure as modeled in smooth clothing—they are all wet Personality is what counts. Nylons add no glamour to the leg; flowing thresses never aided romantic inspiration; and what does a well fitted dress have that a sloppy sweater and skirt doesn't have?

You tell me. I'm only a dumb blonde who thinks men look much more handsome with ties and jackets. (Besides, we need something to remind 'em of Sunday manners and the fact that a gal likes her chair shoved in for her once in a while.)

If you must be technical, chum, consider that we're supposed to be acquiring culture a la college. Who ever felt aristocratic in a T shirt and saddle oxfords?

To quote some fellow aspiring pelebians. Helen Sorenson—"Manners become so much better." (i.e. The beast becomes Man. And the air is cleared from flying bread, the oohs and ahhs resulting from tangled arms, and the grunts of females seating themselves.)

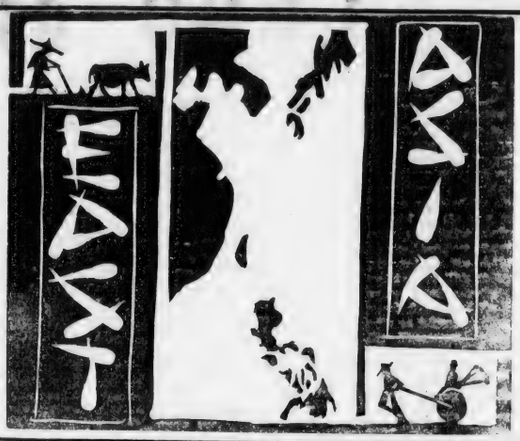
Ginger Claybough—"The average college girl tends to become sloppy in appearance. Dressing up keeps us on our toes. Adds a little exra spice to one meal during the week."

Go back to your hovel—Live like a house with its walls caved in. Do we care? Of course we do. We go to Maryville College too.

CON by Lorraine Swift

It isn't well understood who began this idea of "dressing up" on Thursday evenings; in fact, that is beside the point. The purpose of this article is to express the opinion of those who strenuously object, and who would like to see it discontinued. Numbered among the group are many of the students who work, often until 5:30 or 6:00 o'clock in the evenings. It is rather difficult—to say the least—to make a presentable appearance for the evening meal with such a short period for preparation. To put it plainly, it is an impossible act.

Several waitresses and waiters have voiced a definite stand. One has very aptly said, "You just don't wash dishes with your best clothes on."



An argument in favor of this weekly event, which has been carried over from last semester, might be the fact that the majority of the student body does wear their "Sunday best" on Thursday evenings. The truth of the statement is granted, but it must be added that many of them, particularly girls, cooperate unwillingly and do it only because they feel they would "look funny" if they did not.

It is obviously purposeless to choose one night out of a week and announce, "Tonight we're all going to dress up." Let the students wear their best when they feel like it!! Or better yet, give them someplace to go after the long 20-minutes of sitting in the dining hall. No one likes to be "all dressed up with no place to go." High heels are objectionable footwear in the library, but suggest some other place!

If there is to be a special time for special clothes—not that it is being advocated—then put it on a special evening. Sunday, for example. Or is it acceptable to all to be "dressed up" on Thursday evenings, while the dining hall displays an intermingling of high-heels, low-heels, dress coats, and T shirts on Sunday evening? You don't tell them what to wear on Sunday evenings! Why, then, on Thursday evenings?

Instead of Inspiration, Reporter Accidentally Finds Insomnia Cure

by Naomi Hoffman

At this moment, picture someone in deep agony, tossing from pencil point to eraser, from dictionary to encyclopedia, trying to find inspiration. (Dramatic, isn't it.) I'm convinced it's going to take more than Sherlock Holmes or Mr. Keen to help me find Inspiration. Is he one of the new freshmen or is he a member of the W.C.T.U. (We Can Try Union)? Well, anyhow, please understand that I'm in a pickle. (Sat. night special. Guess where? Same place you get the hot dogs.) I'm supposed to be able to write and I can't find inspiration. (I've been told that Memorial porch might furnish some.)

My mind is not in complete oblivion though. Little things (not termites) keep running through my brain. For instance, why is "Sun of My Soul" the most popular hymn in Pearson's at Sunday supper?

All right, so I can't carry a tune. A tune is an abstract thing and all anyone can carry is something concrete. Concrete—oh, my heavens, that would be too heavy. (If you have any lima beans we can make succotash.)

I've just finished taking a very important census in all lecture periods held between 8:30 and 12:20. The count showed that third period ranked highest. Highest for what? S.G. of course. Stomach growls—I'm working for the dept. of internal revenue.

This isn't getting me anyplace. Sitting in this closet size room is crampink my style. So—you say I haven't any style. I admit that this barrel I'm wearing doesn't fit too well, but with studies by day and town life by night where can I find time to wash clothes?

Oops—(time out while I see a few stars and say something that the funny papers put stars and various other signs down for. I'll pick up my heap of bones and untangle my leg from the banister.) If you're wondering what happened, I just happend to forget I had to go down steps to get to first floor. Too bad Isaac Newton had to discover all about gravity. Well, now that I'm down the stairs I'm headed in the direction of the book store. I too, am among those who have writer's cramp from taking so many notes in class. I can't sleep as well in lectures when I know what the professor says isn't in a book. But, according to Professor Walker, think of all the footpounds of work by the carrying of the little book that wasn't there.

If you want to see a place that is Times Square's double it must be the bookstore. By the time I work my way up to the glass case even all the Maryville stickers are sold out.

I wonder if I must wear my orange gym shorts all around just to prove I'm from Maryville?

P.S. Just found one good use for this article. Perfect for putting roommates to sleep.

When were you born?

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

SPORTS are definitely in the air at this time of the year. If you stop and think for only a split second you will realize that the World's Series is only a few days off, and also that the football season among the colleges of the nation will begin in even a fewer number of days. Maybe we are overly enthusiastic about our sports, but it seems to come naturally with the first light touches of fall.

Besides baseball and football you may have noticed that the national men's and women's singles tennis championships have just recently been finished Softball tournaments are very much in the news lately, winding up that season.

And "Mike" Jacobs isn't exactly asleep, as evidenced by the many title bouts which are scheduled to take place in the boxing field this fall.

Basketball isn't exactly in the headlines right at this season, but it's far from forgotten. Proof of that fact is that basketball has recently been admitted to regular Olympic competition for the first time since the game was first begun.

Seems that golf is also very much in the "eye of the public" along about now.

Yep, we will have to conclude that you are either sports-conscious or un-conscious on this the fourteenth day of September.

Back on football again—even the most radical critics are admitting that Alabama is the team to beat in the SEC this year. We hope we aren't being radical in saying that M. C. looks like the team to beat in East Tennessee (excluding U. T. of course).

Basketball Has Started—Unofficially

If you've happened in at the Alumni Gym lately you were no doubt surprised to see around 15 guys on the floor practicing basketball. And if you hung around for only a few minutes you were bound to conclude that some of them were plenty good at tossing that big ball through that big round rim. That long lanky red-head who was shooting them in with such amazing consistency was "Brick" Brahams, while his left-handed brother "Hap" (also a red-head) wasn't doing badly either. Another standout was probably Ray Lillard, who was an outstanding Scottie player before the war. There were others, whose names aren't familiar yet.

Lettermen of Other Years

We mentioned lettermen in a past issue. . . .but there were a few that we missed. Dr. Lloyd was a football letterman at M. C. back in his college days. He was a quarterback. He was injured in the first part of his senior year and was unable to play for the remainder of the season.

Dr. Briggs played right tackle for M. C. in '14, '15, '16 and '17. In one of those years the Scotties were unscored on, and besides that they beat Carson-Newman 99-0.

Coach Davis was a backfield man for the Highlander for four years from '25 to '29. The last three of those years he spent as a quarterback.

Mr. Pieper was "equally proficient at center and guard" according to the '34 Chilhowean. He lettered in '33, '34, and 35. ("Arch" Pieper, he was known as in those days.)

News About the "Scrubs"

The Boston Red Sox of the American League have received over a half-million requests for tickets to the World's Series games at Fenway Park in Boston.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds of the National League played a record-breaking 19-inning scorless-tie ball game last Thursday afternoon.

Bob Feller recently broke a record by pitching a baseball at the sped of 98.6 miles per hour from the pitcher's mound to home plate. He is still some 50 strikouts from breaking the 343 record now held by Waddell.

Joe Louis has recently opened a new resturant on 5th Ave. in New York. He has a title bout this month.

Temp Jarrell of Oak Ridge won the horseshoes tournament there a few days ago. He pitched 143 ringers out of 218 tosses.

"Miss America" of 1946 was chosen recently. She is Miss Marilyn Buferd of Los Angeles, Calif. We don't know her measurements, but she used to play ping pong.

Intramurals Begin Monday; Football Teams Organized

With actual play in the Intramural program for men beginning September 23, Coach Mehl and his staff of managers are being kept pretty busy answering questions, making out rules for play, and doing other preparatory work. Next Monday, September 16, has been set as the date for those men required to take Intramurals to begin their workouts. Any person who is not a freshman or a members of the varsity football squad must, beginning Monday, spend two hours a week in intramural activity of some kind.

Those men planning to play touch football will use next week to get organized and have two practice sessions. These will count as the week's intramural work. Actual competition between teams will begin on the 23rd. According to Coach Mehl, there has been a great member of the varsity football and there will probably be two divisions with six teams in each division. Rules for touch football will be distributed to the team managers next week.

Tennis and Badminton ladders will be posted today, and each man expecting to play in either one of these games is responsible for putting his name on the ladder, and for spending two hours on the court this next week. Matches for a higher position on the ladder will begin on the 23rd.

The senior manager for the program is Leonard Scheiber and the junior manager is Ken Kribbs. These two men will be assisted by Bob Hunter, who will graduate in December. Freshman and sophomore managers will be announced next week. Coach Mehl also announced that anyone, men or women, interested in lifeguard work at the pool should see him at their earliest convenience. The pool will probably not be open for about three or four more weeks due to the fact that it is now undergoing repairs.

Women's Sports Begin This Week

Point system began officially on Thursday, Sept. 12, with the fundamentals of soccer being taught to all. Approximately 75 girls have come out for point system, according to Ruth King Wood. The sports will be on a competitive basis with points given for all sports entered. Health rules are now in effect and reports must be turned in every week.

M-C GRIDDERS ROUNDING INTO POWERFUL OUTFIT; OPENING GAME SLATED SATURDAY

With the opening game of the season with Hiwassee only a week away, Coach Lombe Honaker's Scotties are really beginning to show their merits. Coach Honaker is directing the backfield candidates while Coach J. D. Davis, with the assistance of Cecil Tipton, who is a former Scottie, are guiding the efforts of the line. Scott Honaker Jr., who has been helping out with the coaching is now in school in Colorado working on his masters. He is also a former Scottie performer.

The squad is now down to 58 members. Of these 23 are in the running for backfield slots with the remaining 35 aspiring to line positions. Work during most of the past week has been on the running of plays. A scrimmage game was played on the main field last Saturday.

Mitch Looks Good

Captain Marvin Mitchell, 225-pound tackle, will probably be the largest man in the Scotties starting line-up. He is the mainstay of Coach Davis' forward wall. Strengthening that forward wall in the tackle spots will be Ted Beinart, 182-pound 17-year-old freshman, who played for Knoxville Central last year, Clarence Walker, 175-pound freshman who is also a Knox Central product, and John Briggs, 170-pounder who formerly played for Darlington school in Rome, Ga.

"Cotton" Easter, a letterman guard weighing 195 pounds, will bolster the line with the aid of Bill Proffitt, 183 pounds, Frank Kramer, 190 pounds, Bob Herzberger, 170 pounds and Lloyd Anderson as 193 pounds. Herzberger is a letterman and Kramer has had previous experience as a Scottie. Proffitt is a promising freshman from Maryville. Anderson is best known and is showing up well as a guard candidate.

Garner at Center

"Pie" Garner, 198-pound former Everett High and Milligan College star, will be filing the center position. Garner is 6' 3" tall. Backing him up will probably be Frank Still, 175-pounder from Johnson City and a letter winning member of the Highlander '42 squad.

At end Kenneth Talbot will be playing his third season for the M-C eleven. Talbot weighs in at 165 and hails from Maryville. Also at the end spot from Maryville will be Bob Mull, a freshman. Alan Rock, member of the '42 squad from Blue Island, Ill., and Tucker Pinner, freshman from Suffolk, Va., weighing 195, are also in the running for a starting berth.

Many Tailbacks

In the backfield tailback spot Winton Enloe, 165 pounds, from Pigeon Forge, Tenn., and veteran member of the '42 squad, looks like a definite threat for the opposition. Also running from the tailback position will be Bobby Neff, 18-year-old freshman who played for Sheffield High in Alabama. He weighs 159.Leon Berrong at 167 pounds, a former Everett High School performer will also be playing quite a bit for the Highlander as a tailback. Chauncey Cutshaw, from Knoxville where he performed for Rule High school is also a prominent prospect as a tailback. He weeighs 165.

Quarterbacks will probably be King Berrong Jr. who like his younger brother played for Everett and Ross Honaker, who has also been running some from the full-back spot. Honaker is a letterman of '41 and '52. Carl Murray of Maryville is also looking good as a 2-back as is Rush Lester of Birmingham, Ala. Berrong is a 155-pounder, Honaker a 160-pounder, Murray a 145-pounder and Lester weighs 155.

Lettermen Wingbacks

Wingbacks are letter men Charlie Pepper and Harvey Hollingsworth. Pepper is from Wausau, Wis., and weighs 170. Hollingsworth is from Alcoa where he played high-school football and weighs in at 175. Also at the wing are Stinnett, Hamilton, and Calloway of Maryville, Baldwin of Alcoa and Grubbs of Fairview, Pa.

Rounding out the backfield are Artie Spears, Hershel Merriman, Bob Boring and Pickens who are fighting it out for the full back position. Spears is the only letterman in the group. He weighs 179 pounds, and is a Maryville product. Merriman weighs 168 and is a former Everett High player. Boring is a freshman weighing 178. He was an all-state basketball player when playing for Friendsville High. Pickens weighs 175 and is also from Maryville.

Harvey Overton and helpers, Martin, Henry and Pribble, are still working hard and faithfully as managers.

Cross Country Team Continue Workouts; Distance Increased

With another week of strenuous running under their belts, the Cross Country Track Team is rounding into shape for its first meets. During the past week, the men have been running two miles each day. Beginning Monday, the distance will be increased to two and a half miles and the following week to three miles, which is the distance of most of the inter-collegiate races.

Coach Walter Mehl stated that since this is his first year here, and since he had to organize the team after the beginning of the semester, that it has been difficult to get outside meets. There will be three or four outside meets, however, along with some inter-squad races.

Coach Mehl named the following ten men as the best performers so far. Scott, Downey, Kay, Barbour, Gillette, Yambert, Baird Kencht, Orr and Mostinger.

er, opened her remarks with the statement, "We owe you Americans very much because you have played a large part in our educational system." She mentioned the mission schools and the Boxer indemnity fund.

"This education has brought on new thinking," she continued. "It has brought on a great desire to biuld a strong country as yours. But war has brought about a new view of life. They realize their responsibility is twice as heavy as youth of other countries."

She said that she believed that war had made the youth of China more serious. Daily they have seen only poverty, diseases, and death, and they have questioned why this is happening. What is the solution? Miss Foh-Mei said that it lay in the missionaries which we were sending.

At the presnt time, the Chinese youth seem to be interested in Christianity. This is evidenced by the large numbers which are now studying Bible in the schools, Miss Foh-Mei continued. Their responsibility is heavy and they need help, need people to train them. The future of the world depends on young people and the close cooperation between the people of your country and my country and of the world. This cooperation must be based on a common faith. God must be the basis of this cooperation, she closed.

Dr. Ilano concluded the program with a few words about the Philippines, saying that the Philippines have just become a nation, and they need Christianity as the basis of this new government.

She said that the field is vast and the work great, but the laborers are few, and they need us. She pointed out that most young people hear God's call during their college days and she hoped that we would answer God's call. We need Christ more than ever before to teach love and forgiveness.

Big Crowd Attends Pre Game Pep Meet

Coach Honaker Speaks at Rally

The football spirit has, after three long, "manless" years, returned to the Maryville campus. If in doubt one had only to be among the 600 present at Wilson Field last night and participated in what turned out to be the "peppiest" pep rally Maryville College has seen in many a day.

As an opener, Mr. Hugnes' newly organized 48-piece band made its "grande entreee" in single file and took their seats in the center of the bleachers. Their first selection, "Under the Double Eagle," drew such an ovation from the listeners that a second nuumber "On the Mall" was played and as equally well received.

After the crowd had partially subsided the newly elected cheer leaders, headed by Lottie Lavender, led the students in a few opening cheers. At this point on the program, Coach Honaker was introduced to say a few words. To those who are familiar with Coach's speeches they were "a few words" and very well chosen.

His opening statement expressing his excitemen was unnecessary since it remained evident to all present that he was as exited as the cheerleaders; he too has long awaited this opening game. The only words he cared about being quoted were "I hope to see the day in the near future when football at Maryville College will become a tradition." Also he reviewed with considerable brevity, ten years of Maryville's football history, during which time they lost only ten games and tied two.

In closing he complimented the student body for the fine spirit it has exhibited during the past years and extended his wish that it remain at this high ebb for the years to come, and that our motto for this season be, "Boast, don't boot your team."

As speehces were in order, Capt. Marvin Mitchell contributed his bit by saying "If the team has the same spirit tomorrow night, we will be sure to win."

Professors Attend Presbytery Meet

In his report. Dr. Orr stated that there were 6.000 members, composed of all the Presbyterian ministers in this area, and that $250,000 had been raised for all causes.

This Presbytery maintains general supervision over all Presbyterian Churches in the Presbytery, which include Knoxville, Athens, Maryville, Greenback, New Market and surrounding vicnity.

Missionary From Iraq Visits Daughter Here

For several years, Mr. Edwards was a missionary teacher in Persia. Later he met and married Mrs. Edwards and they went as missionaries to Iraq for 14 years. Their daughter, Peggy, was born in Hillah, Iraq. The Edwards also have three sons, Albert Jr., Ben and Dave.

Individual Pictures Taken for Annual

"Chilhowean pictures have been taken each day this week except today, and we plan to take additional pictures the first part of next week," Miss Elsie Onifer, editor of the yearbook announced. "S. H. George and Sons of Knoxville are making the pictures again this year," she added.

Freshmen girls are wearing sweaters and blouses with round color collars; the sophomores, sweaters with square collars, the juniors, sweaters with pearls, and all seniors are being photographed in caps and gowns.

Due to weather conditions, group pictures have not been taken yet, but plans for them are being made, and an announcement concerning them will be made sometime in the near future. Miss Onifer said.

Mr. Irwin Returns Following Illness

Ralph W. Irwin, night watchman for Maryville College, was operated on for appendicitis on the night of September 2, in the Doctor's hospital, Maryville. He is now recuperating from his illness, but he will be back at work tomorrow evening. Mr. Irwin has served the college continuously for 29 years. During his absence, his brother, James, served as the night watchman.

New Library Books Include Romance And Non-Fiction

Several interesting books, fiction and non-fiction, have just been added to our library shelves, and from those the librarians can give you a book to fit your personality. If you like swashbuckling romance, there is Captain from Castile, by Samuel Shellabarger, a student of the Renaissance, writes detective stories under a psuedonym. His ability to present his material dramatically is well-illustrated in this story of a young Castilian who is forced to flee Spain and who takes refuge in Cuba. Here he joins Cortes' campaign to invade Mexico, and meets again the girl whose society was forbidden him in Old Spain. These situations demand new standards, and our young Castilian in exile comes through as the ideal conquistador to return to Spain as envoy for Cortes. Shellabarger uses an authentic historical background and presents an exciting picture of the New World in Cortes' day.

Or if you like your romance straight, with plenty of jealously thrown in, Kate O'Brien gives your her most satisfying book, For One Sweet Grape. Here we have another novel centered around historical people. We are introduced to Philip VI of Spain and Antonio Perez, his minister of state, both of whom love Ana de Mendoza. Shortly after her husband's death, while in Madrid to be near Philip, she once again meets Antonio, who soon becomes her devoted lover. Jealous, Philip orders them imprisoned. And refuses to give up her lover in exchange for her freedom. You can take it from there.

Captain Harry C. Butcher has recently had published a book which those of you interested in current history might enjoy. He calls his day-by-day account of General Dwight D. Eisenhower's actions Three Years With Eisenhower. Captain Butcher, as Naval aide to the general, presents him as a very human man, who had the capacities and opportunities to help his country in war. There are enough things of the military to keep you

History of Student Volunteers Includes List of Missionaries

By MARY E. HUNT

The student volunteer movement on Maryville College campus is beginning its 42nd year this fall by setting its membership goal for the year at 150. Last year, they had almost 100 members to help carry on the missionary work which was begun by students here during the days that Bartlett Hall was being built, and the football team organized for the first time. It is significant to note that the first Maryvillian to go to the foreign field had gone 13 years bofer and that he had gone to China. Of the next ten that went out, five went to Japan. Eleven others had gone in the Mission field. So the missionary was not a new one on the campus. Nor was the movement new, for the first Student Volunteer was begun in Northfield, Mass eight years before.

During its years of existence, the college has had 164 former students to go out into 20 foreign fields. Among them has been Fred Hope, a name well known on the campus and in Presbyterian circles for his work in the Cameroon.

Harvey Overton, a ministerial student and veteran, is president of the organization this year.

Each year the group chooses a missionary project which they sponsor throughout the year. Sometime early in the year, three projects are presented to the group by some members who would like to see them chosen. A vote is taken, and the one chosen is remembered in prayers and by donations each semester.

Many missionaries and missionary's children are guest speakers of the group, each telling of his experiences, and of the need in his field.

"The group is not limited to those who plan to enter the missionary field. Instead, it is for all students who are interested in missions. Often, a student decides to enter the mission field as a result of having been a member of student vols," Mr. Overton said.

African Missionary Speaks at Chapel

Rev. John McClure, brother of one of our Bible instructors, Mrs. Margaret Cummings, was the chapel speaker Wednesday morning, Sept. 18. Rev. Mr. McClure, a missionary from South Sudan, graduated from Westminster College and went to Africa to work. He later returned to the United States and took his theological training at Pittsburg Xenia Theological Seminary in Pittsburg, Pa.

Mr. McClure began his message by saying that he has been interested in Maryville's vision in the missionary field. He went on to say that there is great opportunity to pioneer geographically and with the missions all over the world; especially in South Sudan where Mr. McClure claims "the sky is the limit." The savages there are the most primitive peoples, as yet untouched by civilization. Because of this, they believe the world is full of spirits, most of which seem to be evil, and their lives are bound up in fear of these, and in fear of other people with whom they live. Witch doctors are closely associated with this subject and play upon these ignorant peoples' superstitions in order to become more powerful. Mr. McClure mentioned several incidents which centered around witch doctors and peoples' belief in them. One of the stories dealt with the conversion of a very respected witch doctor of one of the communities who put a curse on one of Mr. McClure's helpers, and how this witch doctor gave up his witchery and became a Christian.

Rev. McClure closed by saying that he went to Africa to teach, and instead he was taught. There are many tribes yet untouched by missionaries, and he asserted that the people who never heard of Christ could be placed one foot apart and this line would go completely around the world. "Men," he concluded, "are needed over there to teach."

Student-Faculty Senate Elects Mildred Miller At Yesterday's Meeting

Mildred Miller was elected secretary of the Student Faculty Senate at the first meeting of the group this year in Dr. Lloyd's office at 4:30 yesterday.

The purpose of the group was stated by Dr. Frank McClelland, who has been appointed chairman in Dr. Lloyd's absence. "The Student Faculty Senate is a meeting ground between student organizations and faculty organizations and has legislative functions in that it can initiate legislation that can be inacted into college rules subject to ratification of both the student body and executive council of the faculty. It is a meeting place for improvement of college government in all its phases."

Informal discussion began with an inquiry as to the abolition of comprehensive examination proposal which was presented last year. Since the results of the study made by Dr. E. R. Hunter and his committee have not beeen given, it was decided to postpone further discususion until the total effect of the alumni questionnaire was presented.

Possibilities of obtaining a pasteurizing unit for college milk are being investigated by a committee composed of John Shell and Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of Home Economics.

Possibilities of moving refreshment facilities to the left basement of Thaw are also being investigated

"GET-ACQUAINTED" AT THETA TONIGHT

Theta is holding a get-acquainted program in Theta Hall tonight at 6:15. Each old member will be paired off with a new one. New pledges will be given the Theta pledge and taught the Theta song.

Hal Lloyd Preaches At Vesper Service

The Reverend Hal B. Lloyd, son of President Ralph W. Lloyd, will be the speaker at the vesper service tomorrow evening, Sunday, September 22, at 7 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. He has chosen as his topic, "A Man's Honor.". The Rev. Mr. Lloyd was graduated from Mc Cormick Seminary last May and was ordained in the New Providence Presbyterian Church on July 11. In the latter part of October, he will travel to the Philippines where he has been assigned as missionary for three years.

The speaker for last week was Rev. Doc. Colvin L. Hammock, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Maryville. Using as his topic, "When Life Says NO," Dr. Hammock said there are several things you can do when life says "NO." You can rebel outwardly, you can accept outwardly and rebel inwardly, or you can give up altogether. He went on to suggest a better way to face a problem. God may have a purpose when life says "NO." Three purposes he named are: to develop, to direct and to disillusion.

Clean-up Campus Campaign Planned

Advisability of sponsoring a Clean Up Campaign was discussed and confirmed at the September 18 meeting of the Student Council. It was generally agreed that the campaign of last year was successful in improving the appearance of the campus. The plan employed emphasizes the request that students use containers strategically located on the campus for disposal of orange peels, papers, and other paraphenalia.

Anna Sakaizowa was appointed chairman of the committee that will handle this project. Jesse Lou Brunson and David Campbell are also on the committee.

In the course of the discussion, tribute was given to Robert Butts, a town student, who on his own initiative placed containers by the college steps.

Recreation hall finances were also discussed. Elsie Jean Cotton, chairman of the recreation committee suggested that new equipment—such as ping pong tables, paddles and balls—should be obtained as soon as possible.

Possibilities of replacing Alpha Gamma Sigma, local scholarship honor society, with Phi Beta Kappa, national scholarship honor society were discussed. It was decided to investigate past action on the matter.

The council meets on Wednesday evenings at 9:00 in Thaw 212.

All meetings are open to the student body unless otherwise designated.

President John Shell presided.

Kickoff Scheduled For 8 as M-C Opens First Campaign In 3 Years

The Maryville College Highlander will blow the lid off their 1946 football season tonight at 8 o'clock when they meet the Tigers of Hiwassee here on Wilson Field. I will be Maryville's first game since November 21, 1942, when they ended the '42 season against Morehead State Teachers College. Both Maryville and Hiwassee suspended football during the war. Tonight will mark the first encounter of the season for both teams.

The Scotties have been practicing since August 20, and the squad is in top shape for their opener. There were as many as 70 candidates out for the team at one time, but the squad has now dwindled to a little below 60. They have lost a couple of men for the remainder of the season because of injuries and a few others are out temporarily with minor ailments.

Big Mitch at Tackle

There will probably be some five M-C lettermen in the Scotties starting line-up. Capt. Marvin Mitchell will be back in his old tackle spot which he last filled during the '42 season. "Big Mitch" is down to around 225 and will be the heaviest man in Maryville's line-up at the starting kick-off. Another '42 performer who will be wearing the orange and garnet tonight will be "Cotton" Easter, 198-pound guard from Loudon, Tenn. "Cotton" packs a lot of punch in bolstering the center of the Highlander line.

"Artie" Spears, 178- pound Maryville product and another former Scot, will be in there at the fullback position. The name of Spears will not be a new one in Maryville's line-up. "Artie" is a letterman and his brother, Oliver, who will probably be watching tonight, is also a previous star of the Scottie squad. If Spears does not get the starting bid, it will go to Hershel "Happy" Merriman, 168-pound freshman. Merriman is also a Maryville boy having played for Everett High School.

Berrong or Enloe

In the tailback slot will either be Winton Enloe or Leon Berrong. Enloe is a letterman of the 1942 team from Pigeon Forge, Tenn. Probably his greatest talent is his hard, powerful running while his punting and passing are definitely above par. He weighs 165 pounds. L. Berrong is another new-comer from Everett High School who will see plenty of action tonight and may be in there at the starting whistle. He weighs in at 167, is also a hard runner and punts and passes equally well.

Ken Talbott, who lettered on the '42 team, will probably be in the starting line-up at left end. He will be grabbing some of those forward passes which the Scots will be tossing. Howard Davis, who reported late for practice, will probably get the "go" signal at the left end spot. Frank Still, who earned his letter at center on the 1942 team, will see action this year at end, and might possibly start tonight. His playing will probably be largely confined to the defensive with Talbot taking over on the offensive.

Garner at Center

Robert "Pie" Garner is set to handle the center position for the Highlanders. "Pie" is 6'4" tall and weighs around 198 pounds. He is another Everett High product and lettered two years with the Buffaloes of Milligan College. He is rangy and promises to give the opposition plenty of trouble.

At the other tackle spot helping Mitchell wil be Fred Kluth, 191 pounder from Blueu Island, Ill. He will be in there aiding the Scotties' forward wall at game time tonight. At left guard will be Bill Proffitt, another Maryville boy. Bill weighs 182 and is plenty aggressive. His presence strengthens the center of the line were he will be helping to make it tough for the Hiwassee lads. The Scotts boast another very promising and powerful guard in Lloyd Anderson, 194-pound junior, who is playing his

Two Released From Infirmary; Clinic Hours Announced

Arlene Whiting, from Chatham, N. J., recently released from the college hospital, expects to return to classes Monday. Arlene is doing nicely after an emergency appendix operation and two weeks confinement in bed.

Shirley Jean Smith, Amsterdam, N. Y., also expects to return to work this week after a week in the hospital for a strep throat.

Frank Ladner, Pottstown, who received a broken leg September 6, was transferred here from the Doctor's hospital in town last Saturday. He expects to remain for a few more weeks before returning to classes.

Clinics will be held three days each week from four to five at the college hospital. A doctor for Monday has not yet been chosen. There will be an announcement concerning this later. Dr. L. C. Olin will hold the clinic on Wednesday and Dr. C. B. Lequire on Friday.

Miss Hall has also announced that treatments will be given from ten to eleven, from four to five, and after seven daily. Please come during these hours only.

Visiting hours have been set from 12:45 to 1:15, from 3 to 4, and from 6:30 to 7. Patients are allowed to have visitors only at these times.

Morning Watch Is Held Daily at Thaw

And God said, "Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night. . . . . the greater light to rule the day." And as the sun rises over the mountains with the air of a true king, a small group of students can be found on the steps of Thaw Hall taking part in the series of early morning services sponsored by the devotional committee of the YWCA and YMCA. These services, known as the Morning Watch, take place each morning, Monday thru Saturday, at 6:30, and at 7:30 on Sundays. When the weather makes it necessary to meet inside, they are held in the Philsophy classroom in Anderson Hall. The reverent mood of this quiet hour is captured in the program, which is directed by a different person at each meeting. It opens with a scripture, followed by a prayer. Mimeographed copies of songs are distributed. At the completion of the program, the participants scatter for a period of private meditation before being dismissed. All students are invited to attend.

IRC HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

The International Relations Club held its first meeting of the semester Monday night, September 16, with Tom Horst, presiding. The program consisted of all those present introducing themselves.

Plans for the coming year are in progress with the proise of many interesting meetings to be held during the folowing year.

There are no restrictions on membership. The president stated: "I cordially invite all those who are interested to come."

On Wearing The High School Letter

A great big orange "M" on a garnet (or white) sweater presents an extremely appropriate and noteworthy article of clothing on this campus—definitely a valuable addition to anyone's wardrobe. The Varsity letter means a lot; it is something of which any wearer can well be proud.

However any other "letters-on-sweaters" present an entirely different story. These high school letter that have been flashing around campus are out of place. Sure, you are proud of your high school achievements; wearing your h.s. letter was fine while you were still in high school. But this is college, and the high school letter is just not worn here.

If you really want to wear a letter, go out and "do or die—" for old Maryville. Don the orange and garnet. That is the only letter sweater that means anything on this campus. There is ample opportunity in several sports to win the Maryville letter.

As is recommended in the Holy Bible, let's "put away childish things." Let's put away that high school letter.

Just Being "Nosy"

By LORRAINE SWIFT

I think that I shall never see
A subject that's a snap for me—

Sherwood Coul has all the answers on the tip of his tongue. Asks Professor Walker, "If you're sawing wood, how do you save labor?" Answers Sherwood, "Use a two-man saw."

Miss Johnson is always interested in knowing when Bill Dinges has heard from his mother, since it is through his mother's wishes only that he sits in on the American Poetry class. He's concerned about French, though, and, fearing for the clean minds of his classmates, Bill seriously told Miss Wilkinson that he thought Gil Blas was too immoral for reading. Alas, she still makes assignments.

Forrester can readily explain the meaning of being "present physically, but absent mentally." In class, he was called on for a few seconds of recitation. Mr. Forrester was at that time catching up on a few seconds of slumber, unaware of the fact that he was promptly marked absent.

Out-of-place roommates,
Misplaced rugs,
Mosquitoes, and other
Belligerent bugs—

A freshman counselor sometimes receives the wrong end of the deal. Broadhead testifies that the advisees can do a good job of short-sheeting. Not that she would want to accuse anyone, but Ruth Heaps (from Pylesville) does look guilty.

Frank B. Still (Significant name; isn't it?) knows exactly what he wants to buy, but will some kind soul please help him explain it to the people behind the counter?

As I was saying to neighbor Sarah,
Pardon me, if I'm in error—

Julie Pancoast, missed seeing Valencia Sunday around this year. Last Wednesday she questioned Virginia Winslow about the absentee, to which Virginia answered, "Oh, she's going to Mary Washington." Already hearing the wedding bells, Julie screamed, "Really? Who's he?"

Mary Jane Tedford, recalling a mental picture of a lady from the dim past, remarked, "If I'm going to be like her, I have everything to gain and nothing to lose."

Sometimes, indeed, he may chance to be wrong.
But his devotion for me is uncommonly strong—

Raymond Packard does not like to inconvenience other escorts of Carroll Kennette. With a big heart he unfailingly announces, "I'll walk her home. I always walk her home."

For several days Bob Arant was disgusted because of the "lack of beauty" of the feminine students. But his morale has been heightened considerably by none other than a representative of the group Miss Margaret McNeill).

Miracle was here again last week-end and escorted Mitch Woolridge to the Theta formal. He's looking forward to enrolling at M-C once again.

Grace Ellen Cross couldn't go to town Tuesday night because of a sprained ankle, but Harvey Overton was an understanding friend.

Tell me not, in mournful numbers,
All the things which you have seen—

Mary Webb, poor girl, became lost in the woods during the choir picnic, and she wandered to the home of the Briggs family. Mary Webb, lucky girl, was led back to the picnic grounds by two brave boys (students), who room at Dr. Briggs' home.

Willett Hall foresees a bright future for the world. Says he, "There's going to be so much machinery around that everyone will have to be in the repair business."

Arline Whiting has returned to the dorm since her recovery from an appendectomy, but Shirley Smith and Frank Ladner are still visiting in the hospial.

"Life" magazine, Mrs. Newberry was explaining to the class, has everything in it. It has Russian, French and even has "teacher troubles." "Don't we all," Margie Newland said soberly.

Wishing. . . . that the weather were more considerate on Tuesday nights. . . . the football boys all the luck in the world for tonight. . . . . that we could see Janet Miller with that 6ft. 6 in. fellow we hear about. . . . that the societies had formals throughout the school year. . . . that someone else owned Hap Brahms ukelele. . . . that elevators could be installed for the aging women in Pearsons Hall.

Wondering . . . . . how so many people with red hair happened to come to Maryville. . . how the freshmen girls feel in class meeting that three boys to one girl ratio. . . . if Chuck Brusuon will have invented a mechanical eye-opener before his 7:30 physics lecture Monday morning. . . . if everyone has had a chance to look at the engagement rings of Jean Almy and June Touchstone . . . if Tucky Thomas is having a good time at home this week-end. . . If Brick Brahms really surprised the girl taking exercises in the Memorial lobby. . . if Allie Clayton enjoyed is prolonged vacation in India. . . how much money Ginny Peters has spent on snapshots. . . . if Coach Davis feels more at home on the football field than he does on the chapel platform. . . how far away from home Ed Vanderslice has been (Elaine Kern received an answer to that question) . .. who will be the barnwarming queen.

It isn't such a bad idea to study the works of Max O'Rell in these final words. He says "flirtation is attention without intention," Comprez vous?

Say! Have You Met...

ARIEL BADILLO

by Betty Harte

Called "Butch" for short, Ariel Badillo Anazagasty hails from a little town called Rio Pildra in the northwest of Puerto Rico. Butch explains that the name he ordinarily uses is simply Ariel Badillo since Badillo is his father's surname and Anazagasty is his mother's surname—it being the Spanish custom to use both in the full name. A biology major and pre-med student, Butch is a sophomore transfer from the University of Puerto Rico.

Volley Ball, which is a leading sport on the island, ranks high on Butch's list of favorite activities. Being a full-blooded islander, swimming is as natural to him as breathing. In fact, according to Butch, "Life Begins at The Shore." That's where all the fellows, or at least Butch, begin to "show their strength"—for the favor of a particular girl, of course. The male creature in Puerto Rico seems to be slightly different because at such times, 'they can't talk"—"are shy!"—"blush!"!

Maryville appeals to Butch because it "is a religious institute and very friendly. The students are very close in spirit." In fact, Butch dislikes nothing and likes everything. Take the girls, for instance. Despite a charming friend back home, Aurentina by name, Butch is being swayed by the friendliness and beauty of the Maryvillians.

Not to pun the words Mary and villain, here's a story about Butch, the villain, and . . . . Campusology being nothing new even in Puerto Rico, Butch has been on his toes while talking to a little blonde freshman from Harrisburg. 'I like to talk to you because I can learn English," smiled Butch. "Of course I could learn from the fellows, but it's so much more fun to talk with the beeyootiful girls." (Mascuuline version of Spider! Spider!—perhaps?)

On occasion Butch can be coy. The night of the serenade, he offered to sing a solo—until he discovered an audience of four or five hundred instead of four or five. But Butch was a very happy and nervous baritone the first time he serenaded his girl back home. Serenades there occur about midnight when three or four fellows with guitars and violins visit the home of each one's girlfriend.

Ariel has two sisters, Nilda, 16 and Aida, 17; and one brother, Jose, 19, who is a pre-med student at Tennessee Wesleyan. Ariel is 22.

Mayor of the town of Aguadilla, 1940-44, Ariel's father is an exporter of men's clothing. The family is staying in New York for a year while Mr. Badillo transacts business.

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

When the Scots take to the turf tonight to tangle with the Tigers of Hiwassee, it will be their first appearance in almosth four years. But all the faces will not be new ones out there on Wilson Field. In Maryville's impressive starting array there will be veterans who have emerged from four years of war as bigger and better footballers. The Highlanders forward wall will average 192 pounds per man while the average in the backfield will be around 165. Here's how they'll line up for the kick-off at 8 p.m.

Captain Mitchell at Right Tackle

"Big Mitch" was elected captain at the end of the '42 season. He is a 225 pounder, a veteran of the Army Medical Corps, with two years service in Europe. Mitchell has already had three years of football with the Scotties, and he lettered three other years at Everett High School. All of those six years have been under the coaching of Assistant Coach J. A. Davis.

Easter at Right Guard

"Cotton" Easter will resume his duties at his guard spot which he vacated at the end of M-C's last season of football. He is a Navy vet with 10 months in the Pacific, and weighs in at a little less than 200. He is a two-year letterman here besides playing four years of high school football at Loudon, Tennessee. "Cotton" had the honor of scoring the Scot's last touchdown of the '42 season by virtue of covering a blocked punt in the end zone against Morehead State Teachers College.

We'll Have "Pie" at Center

"Pie" Garner, standing 6' 4" tall and weighing 198 will fill the center hole. He is a veteran of the AAF with 18 months in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater. "Pie" had two years with the Milligan Buffaloes before the war and also three years at Everett where he and "Mitch" played together.

182 Pounds of Proffitt at Left Guard

Bill Proffitt, a Maryville boy, will be filling the gap at the left guard position. Bill is 5'11" and one of the main threats in the line. He broke his back some eight months ago, but that hasn't slowed him down. He was recently rejected for military service.

Fr Kluth promises to give somebody trouble at his left tackle slot. He is a vet having spent 22 months with the Army in Europe. Fred is a 191-pound 6-footer and was a member of Maryville's 1942 squad. His home is in Blue Island, Illinois.

"Hardy" Davis is a 185 pounder standing 6 feet tall and will be starting for the Scots tonight at left end. He is a Navy veteran with 19 months in the Pacific. He is a freshman from Seymour, Tennessee. "Hardy" played three years of football with Porter High School where he was a fullback.

Talbott at Right End

Ken Talbott has performed previously for the Scots back in 1941 and '42. He is back from the Army where he served 12 months in Germany. "Tal" is 5' 11" and weighs 165. Before college he lettered two years at Everett.

King Berrong Plays Quarterback

King "The Worm' Berrong got his nickname at Everett High School because of his diminutive size. He is 5' 9" and weighs 155. He is a veteran of 27 months with the Navy in the Pacific. Before going into the service he lettered three years on Everett's football team.

Leon Berrong at Tailback

"Breezy" Berrong, like his older brother, also is a product of Everett High School where he lettered for three years. He is 19 years old, 5' 9" tall and weighs 167. He will be the youngest player in the starting line-up. "Breezy" used to carry water for Mitchell and Garner out at Everett.

Spears at Fullback

"Artie" Spears, a letter man of '42, will be bucking the line from the fullback spot. He is a veteran of the U. S. Quartermaster Corps with which he spent two years in the Pacific. "Artie" weighs almost 180 and packs plenty of power in his line plunges.

Pepper Runs From Wing

"Pepper" Pepper will be pestering the opposition from his spot at wingback. He has played two years previously with the Highlanders. He is a veteran of the European theater. Coach Honaker calls him "Goatlegs" for an undisclosed reason. He will be the only married member of the Scot starters.

Kramer Out For Season

Frank Kramer, a member of the '42 squad, is out for the rest of the season with a knee injury. He hurt it first in spring practice last year, and was recently re-hurt. Frank's loss is a definite loss to the team since he would have been playing a lot of guard this season.

first year of football. Anderson is better known as a top-notch wrestler.

Filling the wingback position will be a two-letter man, Charlie Pepper. Charlie is a 170-pounder and hails from Wausau, Wisconsin. He is a good runner and a calm steady performer. Harvey Hollingsworth, also a letterman and a product of Alcoa High School, will take over the duties of the wingback in the absence of Pepper. "Holly" weighs 173 and is hard to tackle in the open field.

K. Berrong at Quarter

King Berrong, older brother of Leon, is due to get the nod as starting quarterback. He will probably be the smallest man in the Scotties starting line-up, weighing only 155. Ross Honaker will also see action in this position provided his knee has sufficiently healed from a two-week old injury.

The Highlanders have a wealth of reserves besides those already mentioned. They held their last practice yesterday afternoon, and practiced under the lights only once, on Thursday night.

Hiwassee reportedly has the largest squad in its history as does Maryville. It is also reportedly a good squad. They have an All-State tackle in Hansard along with several other former outstanding high-school players. Maryville will be favored to take the game, but it is definitely not considered to be a pushover as has been the case in recent years.

Band to March

The newly-organized 48-piece band directed by Mr. Curtis Hughes will be one of the main attractions of the game tonight. They will begin the activities of the day with a parade downtown this afternoon. Nelson Earnest will be up front and the galaxy of twirlers and majorettes behind him will include Bob Connell, Jimmie Lee Watson, Merle Henderson, Marian Henderson and Linnea Johnson. Their performances at half time will include not only the formation of letters but also a trick line-up and an extra stunt.

Spirit is high for the game; the cheerleaders are ready to yell, and the students can hardly wait for game-time. The players are showing plenty of life; Brownie was pushing a lawn mover up and down the goal lines the other day. And with the public address scheduled to be working, the prospects for a gala and successful re-inaugurating of football at Maryville College are unquestionably bright.

Women Intramural Plans Announced By Director Mehl

More Variety in Schedule For Second Semester

Coach Walter Mehl, director of the Intramural Sports for men and women has announced that the girls' sports program shall proceed as it has been. He says that beginning next semester, there are tentative plans for girls' intramurals to begin at 2:30 p.m., and if this system goes into effect it will be idontical to that of the men's program with the girls getting points for their activities, and a trophy being awarded to the winning team. Also he hopes to expand the program and have at least three sports at all times such as soccer, golf and tennis. These sports can also be organized or individual, depending upon circumstances. Then, too, an Intramural Handbook will be published for the women, as it is now for the men. The Intramural calendar for women for first semester stands as follows.

Sport	Tmnt. Begins
Soccer	Nov. 9
Volleyball	Dec. 7
Swimming

In the tournaments, one team shall be chosen from each of the classes to represent that class.

For the second semester, plans have been made for the following:

Sport	Tmnt. Begins
Basketball	March 10
Softball	April 28
Track
Tennis	April 21
Golf	April 28

Coach Mehl adds, "We are hoping to have much choice in activities next semester."

Lights! Action! Camera!—Or What Did You Expect In The Library?

by JANET MILLER

The scene is the campus of Maryville College which was founded in 1819. Ah yes, all 350 serene acres of land, partially occupied by buildings which are in turn occupied by "peoples." Students, that is to say. A building of particular interest to most is Thaw Hall. This imposing building which houses the Echo office, also houses Lamar Memorial Library. And now that we have the scene all we need are Lights! Camara! Action! Well, we've got the lights on the Alpha Sigma vs. Athenians tables (if they work) and the action at the tables but we don't have a camera. Oh, Dr. Griffitts—Hm-m-m-m-m——well, that's a different subject anyway, although the library does have books on photography, which reminds us: "Don't forget to have your pictures taken for the Chilhowean." (now let Editor Onifer say we never did anything for her.)

The time is early in the evening on 'most any week night except Tuesday in which event it seems that the 800 go to town and the 19 of us remain to study. Squeek—the door is opened; Blam, bang—the door just closed and pairs of eyes peer over books and study material to give the new-comer the once-over. However, if he or she is especially cute, that once-over may be multiplied by 'most any number depending, of course, upon acquaintanceship, fit of clothes and length of skirt. Also bring into consideration the amount of homework needing definite and immediate attention.

Tables make an interesting study and good material for research; that is to say, the occupants of the table. Usually it is a "7 come 11" proposition but since only eight can be seated there, that is out. The ratio is four to three with the fourth girl looking for a handsome fellow to sit beside her and the three men (and we use the term loosely) are rather hoping for another cute number to flirt with. And speaking of number, that one that just walked by certainly was adorable——see you later.

New Library Books

interested, for the history if not for the characterization of a great man, and enough of human incidents to keep you amused.

The World, The Flesh, and Father Smith, by Bruce Marshall, is one for all you who like to read about genuine people. Most of you have probably heard it discussed and said, "I'd like to read it." Well, here's your chance to read an unusual book about the clerical life of a Scottish Catholic Priest, who brought music and laughter into the lives of three generations of people. Bruce Marshall has a warmth of characterization which sets his character forth in a kindly way, a great gaiety and tenderness which take into account their weaknesses, and a faith and belief in basic values.

Other new books are The Black Rose, by Thomas B. Costain (a bestseller which gives you more historical background through Eurasia to China, this time). Delta Wedding by Eudora Welt (set in the summer of 1923 in Mississippi). Foxes of Harrow by Frank Yerby (Louisiana during the Civil War), and a non-fiction, Leland Stowe's While Time Remains, which is a discussion of world problems in making the peace.

Writer's Workshop Plans to Accept Membership Bids

Narrative Prose And Drama Read At Last Meeting

Writer's Workshop is entering upon its 20th consecutive year as an institution as Maryville College. The group is looking forward to a highly successful and beneficial year.

The purpose of the Workshop is " . . . to promote creative writing among the students and faculty of the college and to provide a medium for criticism of their writings."

Some of the members were graduated last semester, and others failed to return this year. The membership committee is at present considering application for membership; so if you are interested in becoming a member, and are in the junior or senior class, you are cordially invited to submit your name either to Miss Jesse Heron or to William Grosh. Faculty members are also eligible, and their applications are welcomed. Meetings are held currently in Dr. Hunter's class room each Wednesday at 4:30 p.m.

At the current meeting held on Wednesday, September 25, members of the Workshop conducted a very interesting program. Nellie Cuellas gave a play in three scenes —a fantasy. It was of the story of a girl who sought and found happiness in finding her "Self." There was much background—dances, music, and lighting effect. Dr. E. R. Hunter criticized. He commented on the symbolism all through the play. The conversation was "natural."

The other speaker was Vera Ross. She told in narrative prose the story of a Chinese child, seven years old, who was adopted by an American flier and brought to America. Miss Ross tells of the child's thoughts and life in the new world. Miss Jean Tarwater was the critic on the topic of the Chinese child

Chilhowean Payment Due October Tenth

Kenneth Kribbs, business manager of the Chilhowean, has announced that October 10 will be the absolute deadline for making down payments on the year books. Second payments will be accepted on the same date. A table will be placed outside the Student-Help Office in Anderson Hall all day.

Individual photographs taken for the Chilhowean have totaled 342 to date, 62 of them being seniors. The photographers were unable to return to the campus this past week as was formerly planned, but arrangements are being made for a later date. The editor, Elsie Onifer, urges that all students, particularly seniors, have their pictures made.

Theater Group to Present Plays in Bartlett on Friday

Mrs. Curtis Hughes To Be Director of This Year's Group

The first presentation of the Experimental Theater will be Friday night, October 4, at 8:00 in Bartlett auditorium. Mrs. Curtis Hughes will direct the plays with the assistance of Virginia Miller. Three plays will be presented: Sunday's Child, Patchwork Quilt and Beau of Bath.

Sunday's Child, by Elizabeth Welch was written while the author was attending the University of North Carolina in a play-writing class, and she recalls her own life as the daughter of a Methodist minister in Oklahoma. Life in a parsonage is a great drama, and Betsy Wells, played by Joan Hall, is a lovable child to whom prayer is as natural as breathing. The play appeals to all of us who have cherished the dream of youth and have desired one thing, whether it be a pink dress, a dog or a pony. Others in the cast are Bernon Hyde as her sophisticated beau. Earl Downey and Jean Childress are Mr. and Mrs. Wells. Bill Nish is the stolid Indian and Bonnie Mills is Betsy's loyal friend.

Virginia Miller, a senior in dramatic art, will read "The Patchwork Quilt."

"The Beau of Bath," a romantic fantasy, is located in Enland in 1750. Robert Arant has the title role with Shirley Wells as his "Lady of the Portrait" and Roger Cowan is his servant.

The Experimental Theatre is principally for underclassmen who are interested in dramatic art. The name is self-explanatory as the students practice what is learned in the classroom and in individual lessons about dramatic art and play production. There will be a series of 3 one-act plays given each month. The next performance being Nov. 7. No admission is charged

Preacher, Teacher, News Reporter Mr. Lea Conducts Unusual Class

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Anyone who strolls along the path between Thaw and Pearson Halls during sixth period on a sunny Monday, Wednesday or Friday afternoon will notice a group of students seated on a semi-circle of benches listening attentively to the problems of the world. The unusual class is conducted by an unusual teacher, the Rev. Mr. William S. Lea, appointed to the Maryville College faculty this fall. Teaching, however, makes up only a small part of the active life of this particular instructor, whose several occupations lead him in turn to the pulpit as rector of St. Andrews Episcopal Church, to the newspaper office of the "Maryville Daily Times," and, finally to the college campus as instructor in sociology.

Mr. Lea, born in Seattle, Washington, came to Knoxville at the age of six. During his school years, he was editor of the newspaper of a Knoxville high school, later serving in the same capacity at Davidson College in North Carolina. He graduated from Davidson in 1932 and entered theological seminary at the University of the South in Sewanee. Following his graduation from the seminary in 1935, he did graduate work in applied religion in Cincinnati.

His last church before coming to Maryville was Christ Church, located at Raleigh, North Carolina, and the largest church in the state.

While being questioned for this article, the rector revealed a few personal facts about his life. His wife, the former Miss Jean Emert of Maryville, "is much smarter than her husband," he announced. They met in 1937 when she was a student worker at the Tyson House, an Episcopal Student Center for students at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. Afterward, she earned her master's degree at Syracuse University, later becoming Assistant Dean of Women at the same university. The Lea's were married in 1940. They have two daughters, Ann, four years of age, and Jeanne, who is two years old.

Last summer, at which time he was rector of the church in Raleigh, Mr. Lea became seriously ill as a polio victim. It took him three months to recover, and he felt that he should resign. The family then returned to Maryville, and he was asked to temporarily fill the empty pulpit in St. Andrew's Church here in Maryville. At the same time he began newspaper work on the "Maryville Daily Times," acting as an assistant to the publisher.

He jokingly confessed that he has been a "jack-of-all-trades" in the newspaper line, having been everything from sports editor to managing editor. He now writes a regular column, "Our Town."

Mr. Lea was in Athens this summer during the election and subsequent uprising; he covered the story for the Maryville newspaper and some for the Associated Press. He related several interesting incidents concerning his work as a reporter, including an interview with the Grand Dragon, head of the Klu-Klux-Klan in the United States.

In May he was asked to become the official of St. Andrew's Church. This fall he joined the college faculty to teach a course called "Tensions in Modern Society." He rushes to the campus three times a week, teaches, then rushes to another job. Three hours a week, however, is enough time for the eleven students in the unusual class to become acquainted with and like the unusual instructor, the Rev. Mr. William S. Lea.

Carnegie Men Discuss Problems

Mr. E. E. McCurry, supervisor of men's residence, met with the men of the campus last Monday night in Voorhees Chapel to discuss various problems confronting them in connection with their living conditions here at Maryville.

The main topic of discussion concerned the purchasing of a new washing machine for the laundry in Carnegie Hall. Various suggestions were offered as to how one could best be obtained and it was finally agreed that each man should contribute one dollar. John Shell, Mr. McCurry's assistant, was put in charge of collecting the funds.

After the business had been settled, Coach Walter Mehl, who has an apartment in Carnegie Hall, gave a brief talk in which he sought the cooperation of all men in the dormitories. He extended a welcome to the men, expressing a desire that they feel free to call on him at any time.

Dean Frank D. McClelland showed his interest by attending the meeting, and in a few words expressed his desire that sometime in the near future that the dormitories would all operate under student government.

Mr. McCurry adjourned the meeting at the close of Dean McClelland's talk.

Council Increases Yearbook Space

Thaw Basement and Mascot Discussed

Enlargement of Student Council space to two pages in the Chilhowean was discussed and voted on at the September 25 meeting of the Student Council. Members agreed that individual pictures should continue to be a distinguishing feature of the Student Council section, with representative small group pictures on the extra page.

Due to added help in the college maintenance department, the Clean Up Campaign planned at the September 18 meeting is being postponed.

Possibilities of moving the Chatterbox to the left basement of Thaw were discussed. The Council has visualized a miniature Student Union with both the Chatterbox and recreational facilities included. If this proves to be a wise plan, much cleaning will be necessary, since the left wing of Thaw basement is used for storage.

Discussion of the Scottie-dog reappeared. Plans for financing the mascot were presented and it is hoped that the Scottie dog will appear in public before the end of the football season.

Results of the investigation about the possibilities of Sunday afternoon coed activities were presented. Faculty opinion seems pointed in the direction that no more social petitions from the Council will be considered until the obligations of other plans have been fulfilled.

Town night violations were again discussed. Loitering especially on the walk between Memorial and Court Street, brought strong notice.

Informal initiation of new freshmen members will take place at the next meeting. Plans are being made by Shirley Oshana and Mary Ruth Barber.

The Council meets on Wednesday evenings at 9:00 in Thay 212.

All meetings are open to the student body unless otherwise designated.

President John Shell presided.

Twenty Students Have Free Night As Wives Organize Gossip Society

The first meeting of the MRS club, an organization of the wives of student veterans, was held in the Y. W. rooms last Wednesday night. Instigated by the YWCA the first meeting was held under its auspices, Lottie Lavender, Judy Turk and Jean Williams of the Social Committee being in charge.

The twenty members presented chose Mrs. Molly Secrest President of the club for this semester. The purpose of the club is to satisfy one of the greatest of feminine appetites, the resire for gossip, under the guise of Sewing meetings, fudge cooks, devotionals and other types of meetings which will vary from week to week. The meetings are to be held in the Y rooms on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. After considering with various names (Mousies, Wives, Hewers of Logarithms, etc.) they finally hit upon MRS (em-ar-es) for their station identification.

It is reliably reported that another important bit of business was transacted. It seems that they were playing Musical Books in which the wife left holding the book when the music stopped had to tell how she met her lord and master, what her first impression of him was, and the delicious details of her courtship. Fate finally fell on Lottie Lavender, and rising dramatically to the occasion, she moaned that she was not married, was not engaged, didn't even have a prospect (!), whreeupon they unanimously voted to make her their special project for '46-'47.

Record Room Rules Stated

Miss Dorothy Horne, who is in charge of the record library situated in room 109 in the basement of the chapel, has issued the following regulations in regard to its use. All students, but especially music students, should take note of them.

The room will be open on Monday from 9 to 5:50 and on Saturdays from 8:30 to 12:20. The rest of the week it will be open from 8:30 to 5:30. However, it will be closed each day from 12:20 to 1:20. Under no circumstances will it be open on Sunday. It may be used at night with written permission from a member of the Fine Arts faculty.

Regular listening rooms have been provided. However, because of crowded conditions this year, people with listening assignments have first call on the record players. The rooms are 102, 116, Fine Arts studio, and at the base of the stairs on the left side of the Chapel. Theory 101 will use 102, and Theory 201 and the Appreciation class will use 116. The 11a class will use the Fine Arts studio.

Records for class listening will be left in the regularly assigned listening rooms and should not be taken from these rooms. These rooms are open in the evening and may be used until the building closes. Records must not be taken from the building. Records are occasionally lent for all-school entertainments, but permission must be obtained from Miss Davies at least three days in advance. Records or albums taken from the library must always be signed out in the day book and checked in again when they are returned.

Frances Ashby and Dan Winter are assisting Miss Horne in taking care of the record library.

Sue Cochran Leads Weekly Prayer Meeting

Sue Cochran, Bible major from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, led the message at the weekly prayer meeting held in the Y.W.C.A. rooms Wednesday evening, September 25, at 6:45 p.m. The service opened with a hymn, "The Touch of the Master's Hand," followed by a poem of the same title. Doris Cook presented special piano music and Earl Martin led the hymns.

Miss Cochran's message was a consideration of the scripture passages in reference to the various powers revealed in the touch of the Master's Hand. She prepared a worship center consisting of a violin, a cross and a picture of Christ, all set against a white background.

The service closed with a hymn, "Just One Touch."

Next week's meeting will be led by Bill Vogel, whose chosen topic is "Love—A Gift of the Spirit."

Rev. W. S. Lea to Speak

The Rev. Wm. Lea of St. Andrews Episcopal Church will be the guest speaker at Vespers September 29, 1946. Besides his duty as rector of St. Andrews, also teaches a Sociology class at the college and assists in the the Maryville Times office.

Pearsons Given Washing Machine

Pearsons women are now in the process of learning to wash the modern way following the installation of a Maytag washing machine in the basement laundry Thursday.

This washer was demonstrated Thursday evening to all girls who were interested in learning to operate the machine and yesterday a sign-out sheet was placed in the basement in order that girls might sign up for periods to wash during the following week. At the present time, there are only 66 available periods, so the privilege must be limited to one period each week, although girls may wash together in order to save soap and time, officials say.

The machine was given to the college several years ago by the maker of Maytag washers as an advertisement. At that time, the student-help office in charge used the washer. When this plan was discontinued, the girls who did the washing for the college used the machine. For the past few years, the machine has not been in use, but has now been made available for all girls who live in Pearsons Hall at the request of the company. They will pay for any necessary repairs on the machine.

In using the machine, the officers of the student government have announced that the college assumes no responsibility for accidents which may occur while using the washer.

Rules have been set up regarding the use of the washer, and failure to comply may result in the loss of the privilege for the entire year. Floor monitors are in charge of checking the machine twice daily in order to be certain that the rules are being kept.

PI GAMMA HOLDS TEA OCTOBER 6

Pi Gamma invites all college women to a fall tea to be given Sunday afternoon, October 6. The tea will be held in the YWCA rooms from 3:30 to 5:30.

Pi Gamma is an organization sponsored by YW and is composed of all town girls. Since its purpose is to promote friendship between dormitory and town girls, Pi Gamma welcomes both new and old students to its tea. A musical background of vocal and piano solos will be provided by the follow-

Miss Frances Massey Assumes New Duties Next Semester

Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Supervisor of Women's Residences and Head of Pearsons Hall, has recently resigned at Maryville College to accept a counseling position in Berryville, Arkansas. Mrs. Emma Worley, now Head of Memorial Hall, has been designated to serve as Head of Pearsons Hall, and she will also assume the duties of Supervisor of Women's Residence for the remainder of this semester. Before next semester, Miss Frances Massey, of Oxford, Alabama, will join the Maryville College faculty for duties which will include those of the present office of Supervisor of Women's Residence. Mrs. Worley, however, will remain as Head of Pearsons Hall.

Mrs. Snyder's counseling work is in connection with the new educational and vocational guidance program of the state of Arkansas. She will be directly associated with the school system at Berryville, but she will also work with the State Board of Education at Little Rock.

Mrs. Snyder completed a period of ten years at Maryville, and last spring she spoke of entering work which would allow her to spend a greater portion of time in counseling, the field in which she had been specially trained. According to the Personnel Office. It was hoped, however, that she would be able to complete the present semester at Maryville. Last week, because of present opportunities, she requested an immediate release, which was granted by the College.

Dean Frank D. McClelland expressed appreciation of Mrs. Snyder's efforts during her years here. "Mrs. Snyder has rendered a noteworthy service in residence supervision and in furthering the cooperation of students and College in administering the social life of the campus," he said. "Her efforts in this direction have paved the way for further progress in the years ahead. The good wishes of the College go with her as she enters upon the duties of a new and challenging work."

As soon as arrangements can be made to relieve Mrs. Worley of her duties at Memorial Hall, she will become Head of Pearsons Hall. Until that time Mrs. Pearl W. Butcher will continue to carry double duty, as she has been doing during the last week's.

Miss Massey's work will be similar to that usually associated with the office of dean of women. The title of her office, however, has not yet been decided upon. She will not serve as Head of a dormity, but will maintain an administrative office on the campus.

Miss Massey is a graduate of Maryville College in the class of 1934. Since graduation she has been an instructor at Anniston High School, Anniston, Alabama.

Recreation Center Being Remodeled

During the past week the Recreation Center has been closed for repairs. Elsie Jean Cotton, chairman of the Recreation Committee, announced that a formal opening will be held next Thursday evening, Otober 3, after the evening meal. Refreshments will be served and everyone is cordially invited. The center has been painted and the windows have been washed and new equipment and furniture have been added.

Those whose have helped the committee are Bob Butts, Jean Conkle, Jean Fell, Bob Eastman and Ray Kirby.

After the center is reopened, it will be open daily after meals and on Tuesday and Saturday nights. There will be opportunity to play card games, ping pong, shuffle board, badminton and volley ball.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1946

Personally we just can not quite bring ourselves to believe that it was anybody from Tennessee Wesleyan who did the paint-slinging job on our campus this past week cheering Wesleyan. It sounds a little too juvenile even for a junior college.

And if the unthinking—if not stupid or malicious—offender was someone from around here, it certainly would be worth a lot to know who the culprit is! !

Sure, it was a good idea at first, but here's hoping that the dining hall antics in celebration of "National Ruth Broadhead Week" are completely finished. She feels the same way.

Just Being "Nosy"

by JANET MILLER

Any reference in this column to persons living or dead is purely intentional.

Art Haaf claims he used to sneeze for a profession, and his motto was, "We Aim to Sneeze."

The operator tells us that someone from Carnegie called up Pearsons and talked for half an hour. WHO was in the office at the time and WHO was she talking to?

We're thankful for small favors and so it is that Bill Dinges has finally persuaded someone to do something, for he's dropped American Poetry and is now taking English Lit.

While in Economics the other day, Mr. Phillips said, "Miss Pancoast, how did you arrive at your figure?" That, plus the joke told in chapel on Thursday morning, makes us agree with Charles Hoglan who said, "Dr. Lloyd, come straight home from China."

Coming out of Carnegie on Wednesday night about 8 p. m. was Mary Margaret Robarts and Mel Castrodale. Coming down the steps from second floor Pearsons about 9:25 the same night, Mary Margaret and Mel. Any feeble explanations will be gratefully accepted.

Speaking of Pearsons, also on Wednesday night, we saw Dave Campbell go tearing up the stairs, followed by Bill Vogel, who said, "Goodnight, Marilyn. Thanks for walking me home!" And. . . . Tom Wheeler followed him. Gentlemen, WHAT is the attraction? ? ? ?

For information on the difference between snorking and smooching ask Sherwood Coul and/or his girl, Hammer-head.

Why does Brick Brahams insist upon putting tacks on unsuspecting victims' chairs? It's a vicious characteristic and also injurious—to the chair, of course. And along the same line, why do hair-cuts make some red-heads so durn hard to get along with?

And then there's the 15 Rah's for Broadhead. This was instigated by none other then Bob Arant because he dedicated his try-out cheer to her and got on the team. So Jean Blanchard, Sherwood Coul, Marion Lewis, Tom Wheeler, Tucky Thomas, and Bob had the National Broadhead Appreciation Week, ending Wednesday night with speeches by "Miss Broadhead" and all the appropriate trimmings.

Paul Kolter in describing the difference between his method of catching "specimens" for Zology and Footsie Housch's, said, "She brings them down and I pick them up." THAT could have a duel meaning.

Felicitations to Louise and Ernie on the engagements.

Thursday morning, a chapel step boldly announced, Yea! Wesleyan. Lorrie Nunn suggested a very apt change, the Y in Yea to a B and the ! to a t. When it was suggested that she make the changes, Lorrie said, "If I touched it, they'd probably make me clean the entire step off." Wise child . . . you certainly can tell who the upper-classmen are around here.

Resolved: Dale Motzinger shall henceforth be called the Firebug of Organic Chemistry Lab. If he doesn't stop, he'll force us to take out fire insurance, and we don't want to set the world on fire.

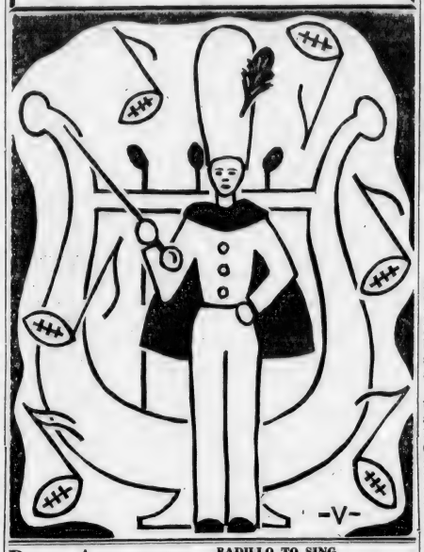
Mrs. Largen (Edith Merle Delaney) was playing soccer and after putting a few balls at the other end of the floor, came out with this bright statement. "Come to college to perfect your kick." Amen!

Bob Bruce and Willie O'Neill made their twin sweaters of green and yellow wool while in the Navy but ran out of wool before they got around to making matching socks. Incidentally, these two and Tom Eckart are roommates, having met in service and traveled overseas together. Then Bob talked the other two into coming to Maryville.

But the strangest case we've yet to hear of is that of some fellow here on campus who came upon the recommendation of an inebriated sailor who was an M. C. graduate—class of '35. Truth is stranger then fiction, by far.

And once again we're WONDERING:

If Betty Harte's table didn't have a really super birthday party. . . . .if Mel Malone works in the bookstore. . . . .whether Earl Martin's bike will remain together very long . . . . . who the tallest guy and the shortest girl are. . . . . .whether Joan Hall went home this week-end . . . . .why Nelson Ernest (drum major) has such a classic profile. . . . . whether hamburgs, potato chips, and cokes taste any better in Alcoa than in Maryville on town nights . . . . . If Don Buchanan will ever outgrow his attitude toward college and its students. . . . . if George Hopkins will ever gripe about any type of food after being forced to eat two bowls of brussell sprouts at one meal . . . . . if Gwen and John ever break rules . . . . if Walt Pence will soon find the right type "friend" . . . . .whether Helen Sorenson didn't start a fad with her new "tube" dress. . . . . why the people above us always rearrange the furniture after 11 p. m. . . . if Marion Weiler's typewritter would shake down apples. It does everything else . . . . .who the new Dean of Women will be. . . . . whether they bury all the malnutrition cases in the college cemetery?



And so, we close with this thought:

Kiss me cute and,
Kiss me cunning,
Kiss me quick,
The matron's coming.
Or as we German students say, "Bye now".

Did you ever see a more pronounced or a more amusing case of "microphone fright" as our head cheerleader had at last night's pep rally? ". . . you have. . . to-speak-real. . . slowly-on-this-thing," Lottie explains.

Dean Announces Names of Seniors Doing Honor Work

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, announced that five seniors, Betty Congleton, Leonard Schieber, Leroy Secrest, John Shell and Jayne Shouse, are doing honors work in their respective major fields. Honors work is an independent study of a subject offered to outstanding students in their majors. It is a special project including extensive reading and investigating and usually earns six semester hours credit for the student. At the end of the year, each of the five will take an oral examination from the professor who has been his supervisor throughout the year.

Miss Congleton, a philosophy major from Congleton, Kentucky, is making a special study of the life and philosophy of Immanuel Kant. She began her work last January and is under the supervision of Dr. Horace E. Orr, Chairman of the Division of Bible, Philosophy and Education. Miss Congleton will graduate this December.

Scheiber is one of two students doing work in physics. His study is in the field of nuclear physics. He is from Springfield Gardens, New York.

Secrest, a physics major from Bailey, Mississippi, is working in meteorology. He began reading material at the close of last semester and has recently placed several instruments at the top of Anderson tower. Both Scheiber and Secrest are supervised by Professor E. R.

MAYBELLE FONG

by Betty Harte

Known as "Mel," Maybelle Fong is an American born Chinese from Gramercy Park, New York City, New York. Although uncertain of her major, "Mel" is sure it will be either science or sociology since she is interested in medical work and social work.

Student Council, debate, and international relations were chief among her interests at Washington Irving High School, a school of 7,000 girls. Extra-curicular activities included Hiking ("on the plains of New York, not anything like the hills of Tennessee") bowling, roller skating, dancing—and of course George. George is a 22 year old engineer attending Brooklyn Polytechnic.

At Maryville Mel hopes to participate in debate, I.R.C. and (next semester) point system. She has had an eye on Maryville ever since 1942 when an M. C. graduate led a vocational Guidance meeting at her school. To quote Mel, "I came because I wanted to attend a small college with religious emphasis rather than a large school such as those in New York which do not have the religious and social emphasis." She is very pleased with campus life.

Buying a chapel seat was Mel's sole aim in life the day that great line was slated to form. Imagine her disappointment. She even had her money out!

However her horse sense held sway, when one day in town she saw someone's pocket being picked. The pickpocket didn't look as if he were the type to respond to reform.

Intending to find some girls who were traveling to M. C., Mel "met" a gang of fellows on the train. (Wonder what technique she used.) One of the fellows, incidentally, revealed that she had been very active in youth work in her synod.

As they say in China, her family consists of four brothers: Wah Quon, aWh Lup, Wah Fong and Wah Jack. Wah Quon, commonly known as Tom, was born in China and is preparing to return for his family. Wah Lup, alias George, is 24 and studying chemical engineering at Pratt Institute, N. Y. C. Wah Fong (Ed) and Wah Jak (Jackson) are 23 and 22 respectively. Mel is 18.

Hal Lloyd Speaks At Student Vols

Rev. Hal Lloyd will be the guest speaker at Student Vols next Sunday night. His general topic fill concern Christian world missions, his title being "Jobs Abroad." The devotion will be led by George Gillette with special music to be offered by Betty Saint. Her selection will be "My Task."

They are counting on a good attendance for this meeting since Rev. Mr. Lloyd expects to leave soon for missionary work in the Philippines.

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Maryville — 33, Hiwassee — 0 . . . This column couldn't begin this week without first giving 15 big rahs for the Honaker men who gave us our first victory of the football season last Saturday night. More than that we'll say—"Go get 'em" again tonight, Scotties. We'll be there whooping it up for you.

Plenty of Talent

There was more than a little bit of talent revealed on the Scotties' squad in their opener. We'll have to give a lot of credit to Captain "Big Mitch" who was in there playing a whale of a game (with his 225 lbs.) at right tackle. Remember the time he kicked off, then ran down the field, grabbed the sleeve of the ball carrier and started playing ring-around-the-rosies with him before three of his teammates came in and tackled the Hiwassee lad. Cotton Easter was giving plenty of assistance as he played well at right guard.

"Pie" Garner left little to be desired as he plugged the center hole. Besides strengthening that forward wall 'Pie' heaved his 6' 4" frame high into the air to take in a Hiwassee pass. Talbot and Davis played bang-up games at their end position. Honorable mention also goes to guards Proffitt and Anderson, tackle Kluth and end Still.

Numerous Backfield Standouts

Tailback Winton Enloe probably set a lot of hearts more at ease with his smooth, churning, locomotive 58-yard touchdown run on the second play after he got in the game. "Artie" Spears showed his worthiness with his power plunges from the fullback spot, and "Happy" Merriman, also a fullback, showed plenty of agility when he was carrying the pigskin.

Leon Berrong also made some long gains running from tailback. He passed perfectly to Pepper for one of the Scottie scores. Honaker played well at quarterback despite a slightly injured knee. He kicked three out of four extra points between the uprights. King Berrong also deserves mention for his performance at the blocking back position.

Charlie Pepper disappointed no one as he began his third year of football with M. C. He scored one of the Scotties touchdowns on a pass from L. Berrong. We're definitely satisfied with the performance of our wingback last Satuurday night.

Neff—Long Gone

"He's got the makings of a great back." That was the comment of sports writer of one of the Knoxville paper after Bobby Neff hurdled the line, darted left then right then left and right again before the Hiwassee backfield ca mein to get him. Tailback is one of the least of our worries what with such material as Berrong, Enloe, Neff and Cutshaw.

Of interest is the fact that all five of Maryville's touchdownns were scored by different players—Enloe, Berrong, Pepper, Merriman, and Baldwin each has six points to his credit, and Honaker has three to his for extra points.

Other Creditable Performances

Thanks to Brownie's crew for getting the field and stands in good shape. Thanks to Eleanor Kelly and her helpers for decorating the field. Thanks to the cheerleaders for losing their voices in all their enthusiasm. You did a good job, Lottie, Kay, Mavis, Bill, Fred, and Bob. Thanks to Cover, Kribbs, and Cowan for announcing the game. We hope everybody will be able to hear tonight . Thanks to Mr. Curtis Hughes and the band for their music and activities at half-time. Thanks to Earl Martin for being a real hustling water boy.

Beat Tennessee Wesleyan

Except for being destructive to property the pranksters who have been defacing the campus with "Yea Wesleyan" during the past week have rendered us a real service. There will be more spirit and fire in the Scot squad tonight because of these unfortunate occurrences.

We're glad to see that the wearing of high schoo' letters has just about stopped. That's the kind of spirit we like.

According to Marvin Minear of the treasurer's office the paid attendance at the game with Hiwassee broke all previous Maryville College records.

We'll take Maryville over Tennessee Wesleyan naturally , Army over Oklahoma, Notre Dave over Illinois, Tennessee over Georgia Tech, Alabama over Tulane, and we hope Georgia beat Clemson last night.

Scotties Trounce Hiwassee 33 to 0 In Season Opener

Enloe Opens Scoring With 58 yd. Dash In Second Quarter

The Maryville College Highlanders romped over the Hiwassee Tigers from Madisonville in a football game last Saturday night to the tune of 33-0. Before the game the predictions were that the score would not be nearly so large and that Hiwassee might even score an upset. But the Scotties with their wealth of reserves finally got started in the second quarter when they scored first as Winton Enloe, who had just replaced Leon Berrong at tailback, sprinted 58 yards off left tackle to mark up Maryville's first tally of the season. Honaker's kick was good. Maryville led 7-0, which was the score at half time.

Tigers Threaten in First Quarter

Hiwassee outplayed the favorites in the first quarter, their deepest penetration going to Maryville's 17-yard line where their advance was halted when Spears, M. C. fullback, intercepted a pass thrown by Thomas of Hiwassee. Shortly after the interception, M. C. made her first down as the quarter ended with the Tigers having played most of the quarter in Scottie territory.

19 Points in Third Quarter

After the Scotties had scored their only touchdown of the game in the second quarter by virtue of Enloe's run, they came back from the half-time rest to score three times and run their score to 26-0. Leon Berrong scored from the 2-yard line climaxing a 70-yard drive during which time Hiwassee was penalized twice for a total of 30 yards. Merriman missed the try for extra point.

Garner kicked off for Maryville; Thomas received the kick on the 12 and was tackled as he got back to the 23.After a try at the line Hiwassee quick-kicked and L. Berrong ran back to the 15 where he picked up the ball and ran it back 38 yards to the Hiwassee 47. After the Scots made it first down on the Tigers 30 with a pass play Leon Berrong passed to Pepper on the 15 and Pepper ran the ball over for the score. Honaker's kick was wide.

After an exchange of kicks and some three pass interceptions the Maryville lads had the ball on Hiwassee's 15 after Davis hauled down a pass by tailback Caton of the Tigers. Scottie fullback, Merriman, then smashed down to the 10; Neff, tailback, was thrown for a three yard loss. The score came as Neff shot a pass to left-end Davis over the line and Davis lateraled to Merriman who raced across for six more points. Honaker's kick was good.

Baldwin Counts on Reverse

After Jack Campbell moved the ball from the Hiwassee 23 to the one on an end-around play, Baldwin crashed over left guard on a reverse for the Highlanders' only score of the last quarter. Honaker's kick was good. Hiwassee did not threaten again. The game ended as Bobby Neff took a kick on the Hiwassee 45-yard line and ran it back 15 yards to the 30. Final score: Maryville- 33, Hiwassee-0.

All-College Track Meet Scheduled

Coach Walter Mehl has announced that the all-college track meet will be held on October 11, starting at 3:30 p.m. Any trial meets necessary will be run off on Thursday, starting at 3:45 p.m. All men of the college are eligible to enter the meet. It will be a streamlined, full event meet and should not be more than 1½ hours in length. Coach Mehl also said that the pits and track would be ready to use by today. Any men planning to enter this meet should try to get in some practicing in their particular event before the meet. Points for the meet will be awarded to individuals and to the team which they represent in the Intramural program. The points will count individually for the high point man trophy to be given at the end of the year. They will also count for the team or club trophy to be awarded at the same time.

Close Contest Predicted As Scots Meet Bulldogs Tonight

HERSCHEL (HAPPY) MERRIMAN

Tennessee Wesleyan will invade the campus tonight to attempt to tame the Scotties on Wilson Field, the game starting at 8 p. m. The Wesleyan Bulldogs boast a 6-0 upset over Austin Peay College last week. Wesleyan, a junior college, was the underdog going into the game against Austin Peay, which is a senior college. Each team will enter the fray tonight with one victory to its credit.

Bulldogs Have Good Backfield

The Bulldogs are stocked with several outstanding backs, one of whom played with Vanderbilt before the war. Coach C. Q. Smith also has a strong line, but it is not rated to be as good as his backfield. It is partly through connections with Oklahoma University that Coach Smith has been able to assemble a supposedly formidable team this year. Maryville, however, will be favored, but without odds.

Scottie Practice Intensified

Coach Honaker has intensified practice during the past week to get the Scotties in shape for tonight's tilt. Emphasis has been on running so they will be in better shape to play longer. Punting was a little off in the Hiwassee game, and has been receiving particular attention as has downfield blocking. The squad is now down to about 50 members.

Merriman At Fullback

The starting line-up for the Scotties will be the same tonight as in last Saturday's game except that Merriman will replace Spears at fullback. Spears has been out of practice most of the week with an ailing knee, and is not expected to see action tonight. Leon Berrong will probably begin at tailback again, or it might be Winton Enlee. Both will be expected to do a lot of gaining for the Highlanders.

Over 40 Scotties took part in the game last Saturday night; it is not expected that tonight's game will use as many.

The weather promises to be ideal for the game.

Cross Country Shows Promise

"Another week, another half-mile," those are the words of Coach Mehl's cross country team as they finish another week of tough workouts in preparation for Maryville's homecoming event with the University of Tennessee on Nov. 2.

According to Mr. Mehl, the men are coming along in good shape with Scott and Downey setting the pace. Since the start these two men have been well out in front, and it appears that these two places have been definitely taken. Of the late comers, Kiger has shown up very well.

Scott, who has been number one man so far, is an ex-sailor from Altoona, Pennsylvania, while Downey, a former coastguardsman hails from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. They are both members of the freshman class and are to be watched in the coming years.

At the present time, Kay, Barbour, Yambert and Gillette hold the remaining inside track; but any thing can happen before the first meet.

Due to late organization, Coach Mehl has found it difficult to secure as many meets as he would like to compete in this season, however he has hope that in the coming years, Maryville will have quite a notable cross country team. It is understood that outside of U.T. the nearest competion in this field is with Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Plans have beeen made to run several intra-squad meets in order that the team might become familiar with racing conditions, the first one to be run today.

POINT SYSTEM CONTINUES SOCCER PRACTICE

Miss Ruth King Wood, head of Point System announced that the girls will continue to practice soccer for four more periods, until Oct. 3, Thursday. On Oct. 8, there will be a test on the rules of the game and team practice will be on Oct. 10th. Following this will be the competitive soccer games between the 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. groups.

Coach Mehl pointed out that the inntramural teams will play on Friday instead of Wednesday from now on so as not to conflict with Band practice. Also, he announced that there will be an Intramural Football Manager's meeting in the Intramural office on Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

Following is a record of the touch football games played in the intramural leagues this past week.

Echo Printz Defeat Alpha Sigma—13-0

The Echo Printz team captained by Max House won a very hotly contested touch football game against Alpha Sigma last Monday. The game was played on a very wet and slippery field and the score would probably have been different for both teams if it had been play on a dry field. The game was filled with arguments, with umpire Kribbs usually coming out with the decision.

Choir Squeezes by Marauders 13-12

On Tuesday, the Choir team edged out the Carnegie Marauders in an overtime game 13-12. This was a very closely fought game and well played by both teams. The teams were tied 6-6 at the end of the game and each scored a touchdown in the overtime period. The Choir converted, thereby winning by one point.

Ministerials Win on Forfeit.

The team representing Athenian society forfeited to the Ministerials on Tuesday, because of lack of players at game time. The automatic score was 6-0.

Echo Printz Wax Athenians

Finally gathering enough players to put a full team on the field, the Athenians met more than their match in the alert Echo boys in a Wednesday game. Capitalizing on two intercepted passes, the Printz had two touchdowns before they even got the ball on downs. The Athenians never did get under way and found themselves at the low end of a 43-0 score at the end of the game.

Misfits Clip Raiders

On Monday, the Misfits won over the Bartlett Raiders in another close game 6-0. A short pass from Long to Mathis provided the winning margin. Bob Hunter was mainstay of the Raiders with his passing always a threat to the Misfits slim lead.

Misfits Tar and Feather Choir Boys—50-0

The members of the Choir team were singing just a little bit off key Wednesday night at practice due to a sound thrashing by the Misfits. The Misfits scored almost at will as they trampled the choir under an unstoppable offense.

Alpha Sigma Wins Over Ministerials

In the first game on Thursday, Alpha Sigma defeated the Ministerials in a close game, 6-0. Alpha Sig pushed over its lone score on an end around run. This one score proved to be the needed winning margin.

Marauders Scrape by Bartlett 7-6.

Also on Thursday, the Carnegie Marauders took a close one from the Bartlett Raiders, 7-6. This was a well played and hard fought game with the proverbial point after touchdown being the point that counted for the Marauders. This game was typical of many in this first week of play in that it was close and the teams seemed evenly matched.

Mr. Graham Leads Wednesday Chapel

The Reverend Thomas A. Graham, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church in Maryville, delivered the address at the Wednesday chapel service on September 25.

Mr. Graham opened his sermon with the statement, "You get what you go after, nothing more." However, he said, this was negatively true; the person who never strives, never attains, but when he does strive, he gets what he goes after and something more. And the thing he receives beyond what he wants, gives the most satisfaction.

There are two ways of looking at college life—one is through grammar and the other is through glamour. Despite the similarity in the sound of these two terms, there is a great difference in meaning.

Mr. Graham said that glamour includes associations, activities and such things, and that grammar includes all self-discpline, and the things which produce a controlled character. All students, for a well-rounded life, should have both.

Every worker should see beyond his one little task. He should realize he is producing something of great value. Only thus can he gain more than he seeks. Even our recreation, said Mr. Graham, gives us more than we ask when it calls us from our religion.

After the first World War, people demanded reparations. They got them. They also got World War II. Abraham Lincoln went after what he considered his duty. The rest came after.

May we today set our ideals as high as the heavens, was Mr. Graham's cry. Only thus can we change the world. Once we have done this, the approval of posterity will be the thing which is added. Jane Adams was just such a person. In her work, she labored not for honor and glory but for the betterment of the people she worked among. Many things were added to the honor of her name.

We ourselves have the choice of which chickens will come home to roost. Doing what we please brings about our downfall, if we don't set our ideals high. Therefore let us strive for the best we can; the rest will be added unto us.

Wednesday Sign-Up Day For Active YW Members

Wednesday was sign-up day for active membership in the YWCA. A call meeting was held after chapel Wednesday morning at which Judy Turk, president of the YW, presided. She explained that part of the activity fee paid at the beginning of the semester is transferred to the treasury of the YW, automatically making each girl a member. After the meeting, those who wished to become "active" members signed the YW pledge.

"Finding your place in the Y" will be the theme of the YW program Sunday afternoon. All officers and girls on the cabinet will give two minutes speeches explaining their duties on the cabinet. The new members will then choose the committee they would rather join.

Among the passengers on board ship during the war was a magician. On deck one night, he was stopped by the steward who asked him to demonstrate his powers. The magician asked what he would like to have him do. "Make this ship disappear," said the steward, "All right," the magician replied. Just as he started his rituals a torpedo hit the ship. As the heads of the two bobbed up the steward glanced over at the magician and remarked wryly, "I suppose you think that's funny."

He will also tell about things in and about Washington.

A salad plate will be served for refreshment by the girls of the Home Economics department.

Virginia Gress Elected to WSGA Post by Council

Virginia Gress, sophomore sociology major from Florida, was elected to the coordinating council of the W.S.G.A. by the Student Council at its meeting last Wednesday.

Two town night violations were discussed and penalties applied. Investigation of penalties for fellows involved in violations, is being made by a committee composed of Anna Sakaizawa, Fred Wilson and Jayne Shouse.

Advisability of establishing a student bank on the campus was discussed and dismissed as impracticle because of the economics involved.

Also discussed was the question of eating dinner in town on town night. Further investigation is being made.

Squire Kemp reported that the committee trying to obtain a scottie for college mascot, has been unable to secure a home for the dog.

Initiation of new members took place under the direction of Mary Ruth Barber, Shirley O'Shana and Squire Kemp. Two minute impromptu talks were given by the freshmen and refreshments were served.

Senate Discusses Varied Items At Regular Meeting

At the meeting of the Student-Faculty Senate yesterday afternoon, the problem of vandalism was discussed and condemned as childish. It was pointed out that although college property had been defaced on Wednesday night, Sept. 23, Wesleyan had suffered similar treatment Tuesday, Sept. 22.

Enforcement of the stop sign in front of Carnegie for safety reasons was also discussed. Painting the word on the street was decided upon as the first attempt in securing traffic cooperation.

Buses for the Carson-Newman game were recommended and the suggestion is to be placed before the executive committee of the faculty for consideration.

Need for health insurance for the individual student was pointed out and reviewed. An investigation is being made to secure information about what has been done in this line, if anything, and why it has not been acted upon.

Mr. Louis Black, director of maintenance had investigated thoroughly all the details of installing a pasteurizing unit, it was reported. Financing cost of the project is $2000. Methods of securing this sum are now being sought.

Dr. Frank D. McClelland, substituting for Dr. R. W. Lloyd, presided at the meeting.

Recreation Center Has Opening: Changes Made

The rec center was formally opened Thursday night after supper with facilities on the first floor available to students. Due to unavoidable circumstances it was impossible to use the upstairs gym, but plans are being made to use it as a ping-pong room as soon as new tables are available. The committee has done some painting in addition to cleaning up the rooms, and more plans are to be carried out as soon as possible.

A member of the Echo staff who was present at the opening gleaned some of the following opinions from students who were using equipment there, or who were relaxing in the lounge.

"We need more ping-pong tables . . . It's a grand idea. . . Gives you something to do between supper time and study," said two freshmen, Beatrice Siebald and Ruth Rogers.

"Pretty neat," according to Jack Gilmore, senior. "The people who worked on it did a good job."

"After realizing what has gone into the making of it, we ought to appreciate it even more" is the opinion of Anna Sakaizawa, member of the junior class.

Lillybelle Gunn's only remark was "It looks swell!"

The committee stated that they were always glad to hear comments and suggestions for improvement.

Presenting Keepers of the Hymnals Or, Chapel Rats Now Become Famous

By Dorothy Vawter

"I would rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my Lord, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."

Nobody knows the trouble they've seen, nobody knows but those poor, sometimes forgotten but necessary "Chapel Rats." From early morning till late at night theirs is the job of keeping a very large three story building in as nearly presentable order as possible, a big job when one remembers the great number of feet which tramp unceasingly across the porch and through the halls every day. Worst of all is the noise which accompanies them with every move of the dust rag or broom. But who else has the privilege of sweeping in rhythm to the tune of an amateur soprano singing and aria from somebody's opera or directing the feeble attempts of a prospective violins with a well-filled dust-rag?

And then there is the job of mopping the front porch on Saturday afternoon—obviously one of the few free entertainments on campus, judging by the enormous crowd it attracts. Molested by shouts of "You missed a corner, Dock!" "Where's the waterpower gone, Tom" the two persevering rats get the steps all clean for the next ambitious musician who must practice on north balcony and couldn't possibly go around or wait till the steps are dry.

But the two rats, not being the griping kind, go their own merry way making it pleasant for those who fail to appreciate it and making things hard for those who do appreciate it, namely, the rest of the rats and roaches that make the Chapel their place of abode!

Or as the rats themselves say, "It's sweeping us off our feet!"—Quoted from Thomas Alvin Horst and Robert Cummins Dockendorf, otherwise known as Chapel Rats, Inc.

Band Names Lancaster To Serve As Sponsor

ALMA LANCASTER, BAND SPONSOR

New Sponsor to March Tonight

At a meeting of the band held after practice Monday afternoon on the football field, Alma Lancaster was elected band sponsor for this year. Nominations were made from the floor, and a secret ballot was taken. Only senior girls could be nominated. Those nominated were Alma Lancaster, Jean Balch, Ann Anderson and Jessie Lou Brunson.

Miss Lancaster is from Hendersonville, North Carolina. After graduating from Hendersonville High School she entered Montreat College which was at that time a junior college. While there she was president of the Y.W.C.A., and was chosen May Queen. Since transferring to Maryville she has taken part in a great number of activities.

She is on the Y Cabinet, president of the All Girl Choir secretary of Bainonian, belongs to Disc Club, and works in the Parish Project. She also belongs to Writer's Workshop and has been on the Honor Roll the two semesters she has been here. She has already had one honor bestowed upon her because of her beauty and personality, that of Junior class Sponsor for Barnwarming last year.

Alma is a Bible major and plans to work after she graduates next spring.

The band's new sponsor will march with them for the first time tonight at the Centre game. The band itself has another new routine worked out for their performance at the half. The first stunt will be a telescope, which will be more easily understood when seen. This, plus a separated block formation, and a football framing the C and M promises to be an interesting exhibition. There will also be another surprise which will be revealed only at the half.

Lost Articles Seek Owners at Office

What have you lost? A ring? Pen? Bracelet? Keys? Drop by the Personnel Office and see if your lost article isn't one of the many which have been turned in there.

To date honest people around here have turned in to Miss Lightfoot 14 pens, kerchiefs, scarves, two pairs of sun glasses, four glass cases, one with a pair of glasses inside, bracelets, four lead pencils, and various other articles.

There are several carry-overs from last year, including one pair of tan gloves, one box of mending floss, several change purses, some containing money, and a couple of tie pins.

New additions to the store (which someone suggested should be auctioned off justto get rid of them) include pearls, one pair of pince-nez which fold up, and one very nice ladies Bulova wrist watch with a gold stretch band. There is also one man's raincoat which came in after it was called for. Will the owner please come for it again?

If you have lost or found anything, please go to the Personnel Office. This applies especially if you've lost anything, because the workers there would like very much to see your property returned to you.

Writer's Workshop Adds Members

Ray Swartzback, Mildred Orr, Shirley Oshana, Esther Cornelius and Nellie Cuellas were elected members of Writer's Workshop at the regular meeting last Wednesday. Miss Cuellas was elected as a faculty member of the ciub, having been a student member last year.

Dr. Edwin Ray Hunter, dean of cirriculum, read four newspaper editorials which he had written which dealt with the possibility of a third party in the next presidential election, the war criminal trials, white supremacy, and a "Prayer for the Bums" (prayers of a Brooklyn minister for the baseball team which have attracted much attention).

Ginger Claybough critized the editorials.

Alma Lancaster, senior religious education major, read three sketches on different sunsets. These were criticized by Miss Jessie Johnson.

Individual Photos For Annual Taken

Miss Elsie Onifer, Chilhowean editor, announced that the last individual photographs for the yearbook were taken yesterday, Friday, October 4. Proofs will be returned in approximately ten days. Any other students who want a picture made will have to go to the S. H. George and Sons studio in Knoxville; however, the students rate will still be offered.

Pictures of large campus groups were also made yesterday.

October 10 will be the last day to make a down-payment on the Chilhowean, Kenneth Kribbs, business manager, annuonced. A table will be laced in Anderson Hall all day.

Rev. Asa J. Ferry Speaks at Chapel

Reverend Asa J. Ferry, D.D., spoke on the subject "Following Jesus" at Wednesday chapel this week. Using as his text the verse, "No man putting his hands to the plow and turning back is fit for the kingdom of heaven." Dr. Ferry emphasized Christ's plea to take up one's cross and follow him. In so doing, Dr. Ferry elaborated on the difference between a burden and a cross—the burden being compulsory, the cross, voluntary.

Now retired and living in Ardant, N. C., Dr. Ferry is a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary and the former minister of the First Presbyterian church of Wichita, Kansas. Once a member of the General Assembly Commission on Evangelism, he participated in the mission program of Canada in his student days.

Musical Requests Sought for Recital

Mr. Curtis Hughes of the Fine Arts Department will give an organ recital Sunday afternoon, October 20, at 4:00 p.m. in the Chapel. He would like to have requests for numbers, popular and sacred, classical, or semiclassical.

Next semester, Mr. Hughes hopes to make these recitals a regular feature. However, this will probably be the only one to be given this semester because Messiah practice starts soon and the Chapel will not be available.

About Our Ears—

Maybe you don't even know what a newspaper's ears are. But if you will take the trouble to notice in the two top corners of page one of almost any newspaper—or even college paper—that's what you will find, the ears.

Now our ears are something extra special—they bring the football team good luck. It's our custom to change the thought or the wording each issue of the Echo, but since the beginning of the football season they have been the same ones. We absolutely refuse to change them as long as we are winning; who can say for sure that they are not bringing the Scotties good luck?

Go Get 'em Scotties. We're out to win this game.

Just Being "Nosy"

By LORRAINE SWIFT

. . . . Saw Muriel Headrick and Glen Smith together Monday.

But the fellows aren't the only subjects of the scarce information for this department. Edie Earle was telling us the other day that Alverta Fink and Janet Campbell together have several pairs of pink anklets. They washed a deep rose bedspread and then wondred whose pink socks they were finding in the washer. . . . . Don't know who Shirley Wells is, but they say she's a popular gal. Before each meal the pasing fellows offer to meet her outside. . . . Saw Muriel Headrick and Glen Smith together Tuesday.

Betty Wyrick thought she had the right answer when Mr. Phillips asked her to define economics the other day. Says our heroine, "Economics is the social science which explains men.". Buffie Carver, however, disagreed, "There ain't no science which explains men." . . . . Speaking of men, the girl's dorms heard of a recent Carnegie discussion and decision. What they didn't know is that the girls thoroughly agree with the final decision.

Marion Lewis, they tell us, has suddenly become irresponsible. . . . Did you know that Janie is here this week-end? Earl (Martin) took her to the U-T concert last night, accompanied by another couple from Washington, D. C. Elinor Goertz and Ben Sheldon.

Joe Jernigan has been doing "honors work," working on an experiment outside of his regular classes He personally confessed to us, though, that he hasn't had much success.

It must prove embarrassing to call your date Jim all evening, only to discover too late htat his name is Dick—or you might insert another pair of names. What do you think, Corky?. . . . Speaking along the same line and Vera Lusk. She breathed a sigh of relief when she finished her special report in philosophy class the other day. Falling in the nearest chair she began running her fingers through her hair, and—horrors!! Pin-curls! And she had only put her hair up so that it would look nicely combed for the speech.

Before we forget, let us remind all acquaintances of Paul Abbott to save their Echos for him. Poor fellow has been complaining that he hasn't received one yet. Take pity, friends.

Some remarks on campus are repeated so much they automatically identify the speaker—

Shoo-r! Natch! Corse! (Jack Verity)
Thank you. (Jim Martin)
Big Joke. (Corky Montieth)
I held the lantern once when Mom did all the work. (Cotton Easter)
Have you seen Jean? (Nelson Forrester)
He's so wonderful! (Carol Stovell)
Truman and the meat-eaters . (Rogerville)
How you? (Bill Dinges)

Did you ever wonder how many unusual names can be found at Maryville? There are eight Andersons, Ann Evelyn, Lloyd, Marie, Charlotte, Lynn, Bob and Bill. The Smiths outnumber them, however, with ten representatives, namely, Bill, Shirley, Glen, Cliff, Betty Jo, Roy, Ray, Dorothy, Robert and Mary. (Saw Muriel Headrick and Glen Smith out together Wednesday.) Next in line come the Wilsons, numbering six, Christine, Fred, Edith, Bob, A. J. and Carl. Then the Williams, Lawrence, Bob, Gwyn, Ruth and Jean—five of them. Same number of Campbells, too—Don, Dave, Janet, Jo and Jack. The Jones list is smaller than we expected. Only four, Dot, Carol, Carson and James. Three Whites, Doris, George and Mary, and three Woods, Ruth King, Mary Virginia, and Virginia Helen. . . . Poor kids. Too bad they couldn't have a plain old name like Herzberger, Meineke, Engdahl, Fouche, Goudelock, DeNagy, Ebelacker, Heinekamp, Kaltrieder, Krueger, Mulholland, Naundorf, Pusey, Renau, Schaumburg, Schweizer, or Tolerico.

Have you ever noticed . . . . Kitty Stidham and Winton Enloe . . . Chuck Brunson's nonchalance . . . The changeable weather . . . . the circle drive . . . monitors . . . . that gossipisan endless stream?

Saw Muriel Headrick and Glen Smith together all week.

"Over My Coke"

By BETTY HARTE

"What a wonderful chance to liberalize dear old M. C.", comes the gala laughter. "Rules were made to be broken! The hard cruel world will never be like THIS."

Not denying that some things are slightly imperfect, lets get a few things straight. Strange as it may seem, rules to have a method in their madness. Mr. Know-It-All to the contrary, the hard cruel world consists of a complex system of rules and laws.

What better way to learn to cope with the world situation than by learning the elements of self discipline and self iniative right here on campus? Discipline demands that we obey authority; iniative requires constructive criticism of authority.

Opportunities for discipline and iniative abound. For instance, there is much griping about no Sunday afternoon dating. Few people bother to question even themselves why it is so. A few have bothered —and have discovered that the objection lies in the fact that just plain old Sunday afternoon "mooning" is not in harmony with "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."

These folks are investigating possibilities of coed Sunday afternoon activities that are in harmony with the Lord's day—musical programs, religious drama, etc. By offering suggestions through the Student Council they hope to express themselves constructively.

And then there is discipline and iniative in the classroom. Everyone of us complains about one "boring" subject—at least. However the trouble lies not in the subject itself, but in the fact that we have found no practical application of the subject to our own lives. The so called brainy people are really not brainy. They are merely vitually interested in the subject at hand. Discipline? It's found by gritting the teeth and sticking to the' 'drudgery" until —imagination (often termed initiative) discovers a vital connection between us and the subject!

Each of us has his own personal gripe—it may be not being able to cut every class all year long, or it may be the various rules of campus life (which were formed in the first place for our benefit. Whatever the gripe may be, we must use our heads to discover objectively where the trouble truly lies —and then do something constructive to remedy the situation.

Student Council meetings and Student-Faculty Senate meetings are open to all of us. If we're truly interested in "oiling the gears"—the first step is to attend some of these meetings to find out what "oiling" is already in motion and the most modern technique.

"My history is the natural phenomena of all living things," laughed Miquel "Mike" Castro. "I was born, am growing, will reproduce, and will die."

Despite all joking, Mike's history includes a B.A. degree in agricultural engineering from the University of Chile in 1943 and two years of experience as manager-partner of his father's 1000 acre farm, in Arequipa, Peru.

Basketball, boxing, and English football (soccer), are his favorite sports. Admitted to Maryville as a special student, Mike's chief plans are learning English and more English—squeezing in such extra-ciricular activities as Spanish Club and Athenian. Later he plans to continue his studies of agriculture and economics at Iowa State College, Ames. Iowa.

Active in the political life of his country, Mike relates that student opinion in his country as in most Latin American countries, is very actively organized and influential in the life of the nation. Mike feels that perhaps it is explained by the fact that the students live at home where the national and international pulse is more keenly felt than on the more or less isolated campus life in this country.

Mike was the general sub-secretary of two -centers of Student Pelitics." (These are the political groups composed of representatives of the students of various colleges). His terms of office took place during his freshman year at the University of Peru and his junior year at the University of Chile.

Occasionally Mike wrote articles for "Noticias"—a magazine publishing the views of both the government and the farmers.

As advisor of the "Sociedad Agricola de Arequipa" he represented all the farmers of that area. He has been deeply concerned with the fact farmers are not being paid a fair price because they do not know how to compute the finances involved.

But even Mike gets confused! When he arrived in Miami on August 31, Mike had some peaches for breakfast—some very delicious peaches.

That evening he was eating some ice cream when he noticed a bottle of peach juice—at least it looked like peach juice. He tried it on his ice cream. Was it Chili sauce, Mike?

Humbert, a 22 year old brother, is studying veterinary medicine in Buenos Aires; while at home "doing nothing" are five sisters, Lelia, 25 (who is a newlywed to a lawyer), Chela, 24, Consuelo, 20 Luisa, 14, and Sara, 7. "At home—doing nothing?" — Humph — Little do these men know!

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Maryville—33, Hiwassee—0; Maryville—14, Tennessee Wesleyan—0. Unbeaten, untied, and unscored upon is the record now held by the M-C Highlanders. They will be the underdogs in tonight's game with the Centre College Prayin' Colonels. It will be Centre's initial contest of the season while the Scotties have the experience of two games tucked under their belts. Besides the advantage of two games experience the Highlanders have the added advantage of playing on their home field with the backing of a fine cheering section, and we'll be there tonight to "shake down the thunder from the sky" for you, Scotties.

Scotties Shine in Wesleyan Fracas

Although we are pleased with the showing of the entire team in the Tennessee Wesleyan game we would like to point out a few with whom we were especially pleased for the outstanding games which they played. Before getting into the game itself we must congratulate Assistant Coach J. A. Davis for his fine handling of the team in the absence of Head Coach L. S. Honaker, who was away due to the death of his father-in-law. Hershel "Happy" Merriman, who started the game at fullback because Spears was sidelined with an injury, was the mainstay of the Scottie offensive. Running low, he always found a hole and was seldom brought down short of at least a 5-yard gain.

Leon Berrong and Winton Enloe were both sparkplugs in the tailback spot. "Pie" Garner and Captain Mitchell played their usual good games in their respective center and left tackle positions. Garner had to leave the game because of a leg injury, but he was back in before the final whistle and will be okay for the starting line-up tonight. "Cotton" Easter plugged up the left guard hole, and we have no complaints. However, he will not be in the game at the start tonight because of an ankle injury. His probable replacement will be Lloyd Anderson.

"Goatlegs" Pepper played a good pass-catching game at wingback. Ends Davis and Talbot did good jobs of turning those end runs in. Bob Boring, in his first year of football, is improving at fullback. He plunged through the line for several long gains. Bobby Neff showed that he as well as Ross Honaker has an "educated toe" by booting flawlessly for the two extra points.

One-Armed Guard

A Cleanly Played First Half

The first penalty of Saturday night's game did not come until about midway through the third quarter when Maryville was penalized 30 yards on two successive plays for clipping and holding. The final tally showed M. C. lost 55 yards and Wesleyan 25 for penalties.

Carson-Newman—14, WNTC—6

We hear through the grape vine (with the aid of the Knoxville Journal and News-Sentinel) that the Carson-Newman Eagles got lucky in their opening game and won over Western North Carolina Teachers by a 14-6 count on September 27. The Scotties will meet them on the C-N home field on November 16, and if you like a good ball game you'll be there.

Brother vs. Brother

Coach Jim Renfro's Maryville High School Rebels defeated Coach Spence Renfro's Everett High Bulldogs last night in a very good game on the Maryville field 20-6. The half-time score was 6-all. Both Jim and Spence are former Scottie performers and graduates of Maryville.

100%—Now We're Bragging

In our preditions last week we scored six for six. Risking that percentage we're going to take Maryville over Centre in spite of what the big shots say. Playing safe we like Army over Cornell, Alabama over South Carolina and Notre Dame over Pittsburgh. We'll be unorthodox and take Duke over Tennessee, Mississippi State over L.S.U., and Oklahoma A & M (with Bob Fenimore) over Texas. Then we will be forced to take Georgia Tech over V.M.I. and Georgia over Temple. And furthermore we are willing to give odds that our percentage will be at least 50% when today is over.

MARYVILLE MEETS FAVORED CENTRE

Scottie Try For Third Win Tonight

Centre College's Praying Colonels will invade Wilson Field tonight at 8 to engage the underdog Scotties. It will be the first game of this season for the Colonels, while the Scotties boast two victories to date over Hiwassee and Tennessee Wesleyan in that order.

UP Sports Writer Favors Centre

According to William Tucker, United Press sports writer, Centre is favored to take tonight's tussle. they are a hard charging outfit, but the fact that they are favored is probably more on past experience than on present material. However, they are known to stress tall end and tricky passes. They have some outstanding high school players from Louisville, Kentucky, who are expected to give the Highlanders plenty of trouble. They also have three or four 200 pounders in their line and will outweigh the Scots considerably.

Scots Drilled for Tough Game

Coaches Honaker and Davis have been stressing defense for various formations which the Colenels might use tonight. Included are the cock-eyed "T" and the spread formation. Work has also been done on offense from the spread formation. Downfield blocking has been deficient in the Wesleyan game and has received special attention in practice. Extensive practice has also been done on pass plays. The Scots have a good percentage on completed passes so far, but have not played much in the air in their two previous games.

Starting Line-up Changed

The Scotties starting line-up will probably be the same as last Saturday night's game. Leon Berrong will be at tailback with Winton Enloe ready to take over any time. King Berrong will be in his starting position at blocking back again with Ross Honaker as his first replacement. Ross missed the last game as did Coach Honaker because of a death in the family. Pepper will run from wingback as usual; Merriman will probably be the starting fullback because of his sterling performance in the Wesleyan game. The same line as in the other two games will be in there except that Lloyd Anderson will replace "Cotton" Easter at left guard. Easter has a bad ankle, but will probably see action before the game is over. Otherwise the line will be as follows: Davis, left end; Mitchell, left tackle; Garner, center; Proffitt, right guard; Kluth, right tackle, and Talbot, right end.

Then the Highlanders have their impressive array of reserves inshaw, fullbacks Spears and Borcluding tailbacks Neff and Cuting, wingbacks Hollingsworth and Stinnett, blocking backs Murray and Bob Smith, ends Still and Rock, tackles Pickens and Engdahl, guards Anderson and Newman, and centers Holsey and Dinges.

Highlanders Down Wesleyan Bulldogs By 14 to 0 Count

The Maryville College Scotties, led by the sparkplug play of fullback Hershel Merriman, trounced the Tennessee Wesleyan Bulldogs to the tune of 14-0 here last Saturday night for their second victory of the present football season in as many tries.

The Highlanders scored once in each of the first and second quarters, while Wesleyan never threatened the Scot goal line seriously during the entire game. The game was not as close as had been expected. Although the score was not large, the Maryville lads outplayed the Bulldogs completely, and should have won by a larger margin.

Maryville had 15 first downs to 10 for Wesleyan and completed two out of five forward passes for a total of 35 yards while the Bulldogs only connected on one of six forward pass attempts for eight yards.

Berrong Scores From 18

The first score of the game came about midway through the first quarter when the Scotties gained pay dirt driving 50 yards for the score. After Charlie Pepper gathered in an 8-yard pass from Leon Berrong on the 18, Berrong crossed the zero stripe on a brilliant run around his own right end. Bobby Neff came in for L. Berrong and booted for the extra point. The score stood at 7-0 as the first quarter ended.

Enloe Passes, Runs For Score

Winton Enloe replaced Leon Berrong as the second quarter began. Wesleyan took the ball after a 40-yard punt by Enloe. Wesleyan's attempted kick on fourth down was blocked by left end Davis, but the Bulldogs recovered. Jumper then attempted a quick-kick for the Bulldogs on first down. The strategy failed as the kick carried only 18 yeards to the Wesleyan 43. On the first play Enloe started around right end, jumped high and shot a pass to Pepper complete on the 16 for 27 yards. After going for six yards around left end to the 10-yd stripe, Enloe skirted wide around his own right end for the Scotties final tally. Neff replaced Enloe and split the goal posts to run the score to 14-0, which stood until the final whistle of the game.

Maryville threatened several times in the last half, but were never able to get across for another score. Their deepest drive carried to the Wesleyan 7 yard line where they lost the ball on a fumble on fourth down. Another penetration expired on the 18.

Charlie Burger, an Everett High School product, who played left half for Wesleyan, "Ace" Adams, end, and Tom Pemberton, guard, were outstanding for the Bulldogs.

Final score: Maryville— 14; Tennessee Wesleyan—0.

Alpha Sigs 45-0. Playing heads-up ball from the first, the Printz were always on the go. The Alpha Sigs threatened only once on a long pass. Hap Brahams and Mat Cardella along with the rest, pulled off a couple of nice runs to help put the game on ice. Another high scorer for the Printz was Bob Connell, who tallied for 12 points. The Printz are undefeated, untied and unscored on in the Orange League. If and when the Printz and the Misfits get into a play-off, it ought to be very interesting.

'Frankenstein' of Dining Hall Draws Wrath of Annonymous Waiteress

By A Waitress

Fall may come and fall may go, but Frankenstein will remain—dear creature that he is.

Frankie is quite a boy, especially in the dining hall. He takes sadistic pleasure in torturing all occupants and particularly his waitress. Favorite pastimes include: Shoving the empty bread plate under the waitress' nose—after she has just completed three trips for refills and has sat down to enjoy her cold potatoes; occasionally varying the program by dishing all the food out on every dish but his waitress' and having ALL the dishes ready for refills. Lo! His waitress discovers that in two dishes out of three, there are no refills.

Breakfast is that fascinating meal when Frankie nonchalantly uses 2½ spoons of sugar for his coffee and 1½ for his cereal. Three days later he scorches his waitress with fiery looks of reproach because there is no more sugar.

When kicking under the table his feet invariably miss the aim and fracture his waitress' shin in one more place.

Hoarding may have been associated with the wartime period, but Frankenstein believes his good idea should be eternally before the public eye. So he daintily takes half the butter, places it tipsily on the outside rim of his plate—and doesn't eat it. (Does he believe in feeding pigs super-good garbage? Here's where half the student body takes up residence at the college farm!)

Frankenstein? There's one at every table! Heaven help him, cause the Waitress Union—if it doesn't have a mental and moral collapse—has him on its BLACK blacklist.

"Fall of House of Usher" Given at Joint Meeting

Athenian and Bainonian will meet jointly in Bartlett hall beginning at 6:15 tonight. The program will be the dramatization of that Edgar Allen Poe chiller-thriller, "The Fall of the House of Usher." with a cast composed of Jim Black, Max House and Tom Wheeler and supported by a cast of Bainonians. Also an important announcement will be made about the initiations of new members.

Last Saturday night the Athenians had a short but important business meeting, after which "The Monkey's Paw" was presented.

The same evening Bainonians had Ariel Badillo sing a medley of songs.

Spanish Club

Spanish Club will hold a hamburger fry in the college woods Thursday, Oct. 10. Lois Lehr is general chairman. Katie Carpenter will be in charge of the program. New members will be initiated. The group will meet in front of Pearsons at 5:30 p.m.

Freshmen Students Summoned Home

Preston Mulford of Paterson, N. J. and Betty Seagraves of Milford, N. J., members of the freshman class, were each called home recently due to a death in the immediate family.

Preston was notified Sunday night, September 22 of the death of his mother. He left by plane for his home and has now returned here to resume his work.

Betty left Monday morning, September 30, for her home after receiving word the night before of the death of her father. Her mother is also in very poor health.

Both students were attending student vols when the messages came.

Theta Epsilon

Theta Epsilon will meet tonight at 6:15 to have a freshman program. It will consist of a jitterbug dance and a duet by Cookie Wyman and Bob Connell, and some piano solos and voice solos also by freshmen.

Orange Team Wins Cross Country Meet

Despite Scott's easy win in last Saturday's Cross Country meet his Garnet team lost to Downey's Orange by a one point margin, 52-53. Getting off to a good start Scott held the lead during the entire three miles, coming in 50 seconds ahead of Gillette, who was second. Third and fourth places were taken over by Kiger and Orr, respectively; the latter showing marked improvement over the last week. Baird, who has come a long way since the start of the season, showed up exceptionally well in placing fifth. He was nosed out in the finish by Orr. Downey, a usual second in practice, did not run up to par in Saturday's meet, however, at this writing he is back among the top three.

Coach Mehl selected two captains and they in turn chose their team from the remaining 14 men. Scoring in the meet was arranged so that first place counted one point, second place, two points, third place, three points, etc.

This was the first of the three intra-squad meets to be held this season, the remaining two to be spaced approximately three weeks apart.

Although nothing definite was established Saturday it gave Coach Mehl, as well as the individual team members, an idea what each man could do under racing conditions.

Another 1-4 mile has been added to the present course, making a 3 1-4 mile round trip. The average Cross Country course run in intercollegiate meet is about four miles.

VOLUME 32 — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, OCTOBER 19, 1946 — No. 7

New Curriculum System Scheduled For M.C. Includes Extensive Change Dean Announces

'Man Who Came to Dinner' Comes to Maryville Stage

Cast For Production Is Announced by Theta Alpha Phi

The Maryville College chapter of Theta Alpha Phi has announced that the first play of the year, to be given sometime in November, will be "The Man Who Came To Dinner." All members of Theta Alpha Phi are taking part in the production, and at a business meeting Saturday, October 12, with the aid of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, former associate professor of dramatic art, the play was cast.

Invitations to participate in the production of the play have been issued to various people on the campus who have shown an interest in the Dramatic department. All invitations have been accepted, and the play went into rehearsal on Tuesday, October 15.

The cast is as follows: Whiteside, Max House; Jeff, Fred Depue; Mr. Stanley, Ray Swartzback; Mrs. Stanley, Lois Thomas; Lorraine, Jean Balch; Maggie, Virginia Miller; Beverley, Jay Bishop; Miss Preen, Jean Williams; Dr. Bradley, Jim Black; Banjo, Ken Kribbs; June, Elsie Cotton; Richard, Bob Thompson; Harriet, Marion Scott; Mrs. Dexter, Harriett McKeen; Mrs. McCutcheon, Mildred Miller; Sandy, William Grosh; John, Dave Campbell; Sarah, Mary Mitchell Woolridge. Other bit parts are still to be assigned.

Marion Pope, sophomore from Etowah, Tenn., will be assistant to the director.

ALMA LANCASTER LEADS CANDLE LIGHT MEETING

Prayer meeting was held October 16 in the YW rooms. The candlelight service was lead by Alma Lancaster. The pianist was Eleanor Kelly. Earl Martin lead the singing.

The next meeting will be held October 23 at 6:45 p.m. Ben Sheldon will lead the devotionals. The text will be "Fruit of the Spirit."

Understaffed College Maid Shop Continues Production of Uniforms

Maryville's College Maid Shop is quite a thriving industry. It is located in the basement of Thaw Hall and employs 22 college girls at the present.

"We are badly understaffed now, however," says Mrs. J. R. McMurray, manager of the Maid Shop. "We could very easily use at least 50 more girls in the shop."

At present the girls are making nurses' uniforms and caps. At the first of school they made gym suits for the Freshman girls. Last week a shipment of maids' aprons was sent to Miller's Department Store in Knoxville.

The nurses' uniforms which the Maid Shop girls have been making are made to individual measurements and are sold directly to the individual instead of through a firm. A nurse wishing a uniform sends her order and her measurements to the shop. From then on her measurements are kept on permanent file and in order to get other uniforms after the first order, she has only to order them.

The first Navy nurses to go to sea on the U.S.S. Relief were College Maid customers. Each nurse on board had at least one College Maid uniform.

On every hospital ship during the war, the College Maid Shop was represented by at least one nurse wearing College Maid Shop was Nurses in other branches of the service as well wore College Maid uniforms and these nurses were stationed all over the world.

Lt. Commander Ann Bernatitus of the Navy Nurse Corps, the only Navy nurse to escape death or capture on Bataan or Corregidor, has been a College Maid customer since March 1, 1938.

The teachers and supervisors of the Maid Shop are: Mrs. J. H. McMurray, manager; Mrs. L. L. Williams, assistant manager; Mrs. Emily McKelvey, teacher and inspector; and Mrs. Doroy Long, spector; and Mrs. Dorothy Long, cutter.

Rev. James Davies Speaks at Chapel

Reverend James F. W. Davies, former congregational minister at Waukegan, Illinois, was the guest speaker at chapel Wednesday morning.

The Reverend Mr. Davies spoke on the error of putting ourselves first on the trinity of God, earth and man. Referring to the precarious state of world affairs today, Mr. Davies said that fear "keeps us from being our own masters; therefore the ensuing confusion is a product of our inner chaos. As a result we are found placing ourselves and earth before God. We are unable to realize that the earth is still the same; and that it is our own nature which causes the turmoil."

Summing it up, Mr. Davies pointed out that the creator is greater than the created and again cautioned the student to put God first, always.

Pres. Lloyd Writes Of Experiences In Tsinan and Peking

In a letter written byDr. Ralph Lloyd, he stated that his business trip now took him to Tsinan after visiting Shanghai. His letter was written on September 25, but was not received by Mrs. Lloyd until October 11.

The following lines are quotations taken from the President's letter:

"On Sunday morning, September 15, I preached at the Community Church, in Shanghai, to a rather impressive and certainly a representative and internaiontl congregation.

"On the following Monday we traveled by plane to the city of Tsinan, which is about 250 miles south of Peking. We remained there from Monday noon until Wednesday noon. I was at the home of the acting president of the University —one of our missionaries, Dr. Lier Among the interesting events was a dinner with the Chinese Governor and Commissioner of Education of Shantung province and the Mayor of the city."

Dr. Lloyd Visits Peking

"The Presbyterians have two centers in Peking—known locally as the Second Street Compound and the Drum Tower Compound. I am staying at the former. The city was divided up among the Mission Boards years ago and this was the part which the Presbyterians drew. The Drum Tower is a great Chinese building or tower which once hung a great drum used to sound warning.

"We have been at the Methodist and Congregational Compounds, to various schools, including Yenching University. On Sunday I preached in the Union Church of Peking, corresponding to the Community Church of Shanghai where I preached the Sunday before.

"I have been interested to note that Chinese people are rather fluent in speech. The educated Chinese speak well in public—in Chinese. Each main section of China has its dialect and people from Canton have trouble talking to those of Peking. Our missionaries usually speak Chinese well."

Relaxtion and More Touring

"We visited the 'Temple of Heaxen' where the Emporer sacrificed on stated occasions; and then the 'Forbidden City' with its vast network of buildings, palaces and courts. It is a whole city in a city —the Emporer was never seen by the public.'

"We have two more days here. Then to Nanking."

Freshmen Have Decided Greatest Good In College — More Sleep

By BARBARA WALLIN

By now most Freshmen have already made up their minds as to what is the best and the worst feature of life as a Maryville College student. There's no end to the list of best features—new friends, dormitory life, rush weeks, town night, football games, oh, any number of things. The list of worst features is much shorter—rain, early classes, tests, getting up early, rain, early classes, tests, getting up early—getting up early.

Oh,that terrible feeling that you get when you hear a faint tinkle of the bell and begin to hear people stirring around in the halls. There's no worse feeling than being all comfortable and nice and warm and all the while knowing that sooner or later you have to get up and struggle into your clothes and grops your way drowzily across the campus to the dining hall.

Some people say it's easy to get up in the morning, but I've never found it so. Isn't it a splendid feeling to lie there in bed, open your eyes slowly and gaze at the horizon in the distance and know that you don't have to rouse yourself for ten whole minutes? As you lie there, all the rising resolutions that you've ever made slip slowly, slyly from you as you rub your weary eyes and dream those wonderful, drowsy, day dreams. Then suddenly you're roused from your wonderful misty, dreams by that first breakfast bell warning you to be on the double. Oh gee, how I hate to get up in the morning!

Some industrious souls actually make it to breakfast before the last bell rings. But that usually only lasts the first two or three weeks. After that, they aren't quite so adventuresome. After the first few days, the freshmen begin to notice that quite a few upperclassmen don't even try to make that long trek to the breakfast table for some odd reason. Pretty soon the freshmen begin to discover that late hours and early hours just don't mix. Then they begin to ponder that ponderous question: "Which is better, more sleep or more breakfast?" It doesn't take them long to figure that one out. More sleep of course. After all, it doesn't seem to be proper aroun,l here to sleep through classes, and as for missing a meal—there's al ways the Chatterbox. Ah yes, the Chatterbox, the answer to a sleepyhead's prayers for more sleep!!

Sleep is a wonderful thing—but for some strange and usually unknown reason, most people just don't get enough of it. There really should be some reason, though. It couldn't be because you stay up too late studying—no, that only happens during test weeks. It couldn't be because you stay out too late—that just doesn't happen. So what does cause it? Now we're getting right back where we started from. We still don't have an answer. So I guess we'll just have to say that we just don't get enough sleep whatever the reason may be.

How do you feel today? I'm sleepy.

Artist Series Shedule For This Year Announced

Pennario Gives First Concert On November 1

The three programs planned for the artist series this year are Leonard Pennario, "A Night in Old Vienna" and "Grisha Goluboff." Egon Petri was booked for the first program but because of illness is unable to fill the engagement. His place is being filled by Leonard Pennario, brilliant young pianist who gave two recitals here at the College this summer during the Maier Music Festival. He won wide acclaim throughout the United States before his newly launched career was interrupted by three year's service in the United States Army. He gave many concerts in the India, Burma and China theater and was a favorite among the soldiers stationed there. He has now resumed his brilliant concert career and plans to give a Town Hall concert November 6. He will appear here November 1.

"A Night in Old Vienna"

The second concert will be January 25, 1947. It is an entirely new production under the management of Charles Wagner who has staged most of the operas which have been given here. It is called "A Night in Old Vienna" and is made up of five young Americans who have already made a name for themselves. Mona Bradford, contralto, and John Gurney, basso, have already appeared here at the College. The other three are Laura Castellano, soprano, Richard Gordon, tenor, and master of ceremonies; and Eduardo Rael, baritone. Giuseppe Bamboscheck is musical director. "A Night in Old Vienna" is purely concert program given in costumes. Its present accompaniment is piano, but plans are being made for an orchestra, which may be a part of the outfit by the time they appear here. They have three entire programs. The first part of each is made up of songs taken from Gluck, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven and Schubert. The second part is a light opera given in concert form with dialogue. The last part is songs from later day Vienna. This outfit has been organized only a few months but has already been received with enthusiasm wherever is has performed.

Violinist in Feb.

The last program will be February 24 and will present Grisha Goluboff, a young violinist. He is now 22 years of age and has just resumed a concert career after six years of retirement. His first public performance, at the age of six, was with the Los Angeles Philharmonic under the direction of Artur Rodzinski. He made his Carnegie Hall debut in 1931. When he was nine years old he announced a prodigous program for his last Town Hall concert. The house was sold out; as the World Telegram's music critic put it, "Musically speaking, David slew Goliath." After six years of self-imposed retirement for further study he now reappears on the concert stage with an even wider repertoire and more prodigous technique.

DR. J. A. VANCE TO PREACH AT VESPERS

Reverend Dr. Joseph A. Vance, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church in Detroit, will be the speaker at Vespers Sunday night.

The Reverend Dr. Vance, who has previously held the office of moderator at the U.S.A. General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, is a native Tennessean and at present is on a brief visit in East Tennessee.

S.S. Maryville Goes To Navy 'Boneyard'

Radio Operator Writes Dr. Lloyd

Before leaving for China, Pres. Ralph W. Lloyd received a letter from E. L. Bloomfield, ex-radio officer of the S.S. Maryville Victory. The ship is one of a group of 40 named in honor of the 40 oldest colleges in the United States; it was launched in February, 1945.

Bloomfield writes as follows "I thought you'd be interested in knowing that the S.S. Maryville Victory arrived in Norfolk on the 18th (of July) completing voyage number four. The vessel is now being withdrawn from service and will be placed in the 'boneyard' in the James River.' The boneyard, according to some veterans, is similar to a storage house for furs. Since Bloomfield was leaving the ship, he was unable to send any more information in regard to the ship, but he states that he left a memo in the filing cabinet of the radio room for the next man who operates the ship.

Since April 17, 1946, when the Maryville Victory departed from Seattle, it has been to Vancouver, Wilmington, Calif., Balboa, C. Z., Cristobal, C. Z., Ceinguegas, Cuba, and London, returning to Norfolk July 18, 1946.

The electrical engineer who had been aboard the ship called from the airport on his way home to Georgia, having left the ship at Norfolk.

Council Votes On Senate Amendment

Baldwin and Pearson's W.S.G.A. house chairman are to be members on Student-Faculty Senate, was the amendment to the student body constitution passed by the Student Council last Wednesday.

Discussion was continued on two other amendments concerned with equalizing the responsibilty for Town Night to reach male and female students, and providing for identification of students by the council.

At the Oct. 9 meeting the council voted to continue the election of Seniors to "Whos Who In American Colleges and Universities."

After discussion, it was decided that sign-out sheets would be put out at 5:00 on Town Night for the benefit of those wishing to eat in town.

Student ?—In Biology Lab Tries Unheard of, "Scientific" Methods

By LESLIE WEBB

Biology lab period has always been D day for me. This has never discouraged my interest in the subject, however, for I remain convinced that I posses the soul of the true scientist. I am always ready to conduct an experiment, particularly with my biological drawings. Miss Kelley, our capable laboratory assistant, would probably tell you they couldn't get any worse, no matter how much I experimented, but this point of view reveals nothing but a lack of realism.

It was only a short while ago that I almost had an entirely new system perfected. I had tried various methods of drawing my sketches and had found them lacking in that certain quality that separates B plus from Plain D. I had to quit tracing from the book after I got my chapters mixed and drew something that resembled a cow instead of a paramecium.

I used only the most ultra-scientific methods in evelving my process of Microscope Artistry Technique. Experiments proved that the best results were obtained by closing both eyes and using a 4H pencil in the left hand. If you're left-handed, of course, reverse the hand. If you get tired holding both eyes shut, you can always look in the microscope with one. Or, if you feel that way, you can wink at somebody. Using your pencil briskly, you make a few strokes in any direction. After that, open your eyes and draw competely through the figure; first in one direction; then the other.

When I completed my first drawing of this type, I bravely handed it over to Miss Kelley. When she scrambled back onto the chair she'd been sitting on, and found her voice, she inquired acidly what "that" might be.

"That's my sketch of the Morning Glory. Spermatophytra Angiospermae Dicotlyledon," I assured her scientifically.

"Your WHAT?"

"Perhaps you have it upside down," I suggested defensively.

"There's no difference," she retorted. "My advice to you is to find a surrealist art gallery and hang this in a prominent place. You might name it 'Sunrise'," she added.

Biology lab is still D day—Not even D plus.

Gen. Requirements, Special Studies, 4 Hour Courses are Major Points

The curriculum system which is scheduled to be put in effect at Maryville College next fall, and which includes extensive changes in the curriculum plan now in effect, was recently revealed in a release to the Highland Echo by Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, dean of curriculum. The basic principals which are to be considered are (1) maintenance of a strong core of general requirements, (2) redistribution of courses all stuso as to make all studies of four ourh extent, and (3) provisions for a special studies program for all students during their second semester of their junior year and the first semester of their senior year.

According to Dr. Hunter, it will probably take two years for the program to be instituted fully, but during that period no one will be penalized by any changes in requirements.

General Requirements

The general requirements for graduation in the new plan are to consist of the following:

Bible, 8 hours; religion and religious education, 4 hours; philosophy, 4 hours.

History, 4 hours, seeking to supplement rather than duplicate history taken in high school.

Science, 8 hours—one year of biology, chemistry, mathematics, or physics—seeking to avoid duplication of high school work.

English, 16 hours—8 hours of written and oral composition, including the essentials of the traditional "systematics," 8 hours of English-American and world literature.

Fine Arts, 4 hours—a survey history and appreciation of the master works in music and the plastic arts.

Foreign language, foreign language stipulation is to be made not by the college but by the major department, if a language is begun in college it will be continued for 12 hours (3 semester), if it follows two years of high school study in the language, 8 hours (2 semester).

Social science survey, 8 hours—survey course (elements of government, economics, and American social institutions).

"Major" and Total Hours

The major sequence of each student's course of studies will include 24 hours, including course considered as second year or "200" courses, plus 6 hours of "Special Studies," plus related courses as may be decided upon.

Under this plan the total of hours required for graduation, exclusive of physical education is 126. The general requirements plus the major courses and related courses will vary from a total of 86 to 106.

All Courses 4 Hours

The second general factor in the new plan is the redistribution of courses so as to make all semester courses four hours extent. The nor-

Postponed YM-YW Hikes To Be Held This Week-end

The YWCA and YMCA hikes which were supposed to take place last week-end and were postponed because of rain will be held this week-end if the weather permits. Loretta Nunn, who is in charge of the YW hike reports that 126 girls, three buses, are planning to go on the hike. The buses will leave Pearsons about 1:30 and take the girls to Montvale. Members of the facuity who will accompany them are Mrs. Peiper, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Brunson and Mrs. McArthur. Katherine Carpenter is in charge of the program and Jean Cobb is in charge of equipment. Ella Mae Thompson, head of the food committee. The girls will climb to Look Out Rock in the afternoon and then after supper will have a program around the bonfire.

The YMCA will take two buses to the Chimney Camp Grounds Saturday afternoon. They will leave at 1:30. John Shell is in charge of all arrangements. There will be no climbing in the afternoon, but there will be a campfire after supper. Sunday morning they will divide into two groups, one of which will climb the Chimneys and the other will climb Mt. Leconte. They will return Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Clara F. Cate Steadily Improving

Mrs. Clara Franklin Cate, assistant to the head of Carnegie Hall last year, is improving steadily following an operation several weeks ago. Mrs. Cate, in a letter to the old Carnegie girls, expressed her appreciation to everyone for the flowers and for the interest taken in her during her illness. The latest word received is that she expects to leave the hospital this week or in the early part of next week and will convalesce at her daughter's home in Knoxville.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB BEGINS PRACTICE

Mr. Curtis Hughes, of the Fine Arts Department, has announced the recent organization of a men's glee club.

At present there are 50 members. The glee club was organized by popular request, and members were not required to compete for their positions. Voice tests for the purpose of placement were given in the early part of the week.

This is the first men's glee club at Maryville since the spring of 1944. Despite this fact considerable interest has been shown on the part of the men.

The first practice was held in the chapel at 6:45 Wednesday evening.

Applications from Freshmen for work on the Business Staff should be made in writing to Ruth Williams or Dr. F. A. Griffitts.

About Bulletin Boards

We once knew a man who said he could never live on a college campus—swore that the disgust he would feel upon seeing persons that mature—that old at least—continually act like darn fools would be more than he could stand.

Now we think we know what he meant. He was probably referring to certain poor, misguided college men trying to display their ingenuity by writing fictitious, would-be humorous names on various lists on the dorm bulletin boards—or more ridiculous yet, showing their great nerve by snatching said list from the board.

Aren't we big boys now?

About This Student Govt. Full Cooperation Imperative

By JESSIE LOU BRUNSON and LORRAINE SWIFT

Student Government is misunderstood. It is an organization for the girls of our college and an opportunity to acquire those things we desire most, but the lack of cooperation displayed by some students is not an example of progress. This situation must be improved or Student Government will be a failure. Our future is to be determined by us.

It is acknowledged by those in charge that it is more difficult for upperclassmen to make the change from strict rules to the Student Government system, for upperclassmen did not have to live under the rules enforced in the past. Evidentally, the habit of avoiding such a disliked system has become part of the philosophy of upperclassmen, and admittedly has no place in Student Government. We do not pretend that this newer idea is perfect, but it cannot be denied that it is far superior to that of the past. The light privilege alone is more than upperclassmen as freshmen ever dreamed would be granted for our use. In addition, ironing boards have been placed on the dormitory floors in Pearsons and Baldwin; however, third floor Pearsons ironing board is not ready for use since it still lacks a covering The washing machine in Pearsons is a far advance from the rub-board, and we regret that the other dormitories do not have the same advantage.

Parlor dating is also a privilege, though little used. The fact that it is not overused seems to us to be ten points in favor of Student Government. Junior and senior girls are able to have parlor dates at any time with the requirement only of signing for the use of either the Theta or Bainonian room. Freshmen and sophomore girls are allowed four dates a month in their dormitory parlors.

In general the system has worked exceptionally well, but at times there is something lacking. It's the spirit of the thing. We asked for Student Govern ment, and with the approval of most outsiders we acquired Student Government. It must work. Otherwise we are admitting our own defeat and our inability to accept responsibilities. Little things add up to big things which in turn are reported to the faculty—little things like being too noisy during study hours and being in another's room after lights out. Such incidents are the cause of the present gig system. It is certainly too bad that girls of our ages should be under a gig system. Why not show that it is unnecessary? Without cooperation—100 per cent cooperation—we will fall back where we were, tramping down the stairs to an inadequate laundry, groping in the dark after 10:30 p.m., even stocking up on candles. Small things? Yes, they are, but we'll have more. In fact, it is the aim of the Student Government Association of the future to have girls practically on their own by the time they are seniors.

Some students have been wondering about the possibility of changing certain regulations. There is a possibility, providing we have the cooperation necessary among ourselves. For instance, the faculty has been petitioned for Sunday afternoon dating, an extra town night for juniors and seniors, and dancing, but these petitions will not be considered until we show that Student Government is a complete success. How can it be otherwise? It Can be a complete success! It must be a complete success! It is up to each individual. It is up to us as a group. What are we going to do?

TALK OF THE WEEK

By ED VOORHEES

Recreation Center Needs Support

At a recent interview, Elsie Jean Cotton, chairman of the recreation center, reported that a number of improvements have been made on the center, but that unless the members of the student body roll up their sleeves and get to work the rec. center will not come up to all expectations. Comfortable modern furniture and some paint has added to the appearance of the center but there is still lots to be done.

The biggest task is to keep the center open. So far, only a few students have volunteered to serve as host and hostess. Far too much of a load is upon these few. Everyone is urgently requested to lend a hand.

Another big item is donation. The center needs lamps, furniture, games, playing cards, and other equipment in addition to what it has. Any one with such equipment in good condition is urged to donate.

Another item lacking is ping pong tables. The plywood has already been obtained but the tables need re-enforcing and painting. Anyone who can do this sort of work is urged to get in touch with Miss Cotton.

The recreation center plays a big part in our campus life, so to make it better, we all must help. If everyone digs in, the work will be that much easier.

Disc Club

The Disc Club met Thursday evening at 6:45 in the music rooms. The program, Les Preludes and the Mephisto Waltz by Liszt, was presented by the commentator, Charlie Huffman.

NEW CURRICULUM . . .

mal student load, therefore, is four courses or 16 hours. By the same token, teachers' loads are four courses instead of five.

The principal here sought is for greater concentration of attention than is possible when the student is occupied with five or six subjects.

It seems rather clear that this plan will enable the college to operate classes on a five-day-a-week program rather than the present six.

"Special Studies"

The most revolutionary item in the plan is that providing for "Special Studies." This is a program in which all individuals in the second half of the junior year and the first half of the senior year work under the supervision of a teacher on a topic of special study, on which, no doubt, will come to be called a senior thesis, or even something less dignified.

This has the value (1) of putting the student to a considerable degree on his own resources, (2) of bringing teacher and student into contact in an experience of working together, and (3) of giving to the maturing student the discipline of formal written method.

"Special Studies" is not to be thought of as research or original investigation. Its objective is to remain on an undergraduate level with the ends in view: the familiarization of the student (1) with

Say! Have You Met...

MARTY KINCAID

by Betty Harte

Arriving at Maryville from Kodoli, India on August 26, Marty stated when asked what thing constantly amazed her, that it "seems queer not to be queer. Not having natives all around, I am no longer the 'exception to the rule'."

Marty's folks are home for a year furlough, are looking for a home in Pittsburgh, Pa. She has a brother, David, 15 and a sister, Nell, 10. Her father was the principal of an elementary-junior high school in Kodoli.

Several Indian women have been quite worried because Marty's mother hasn't "made her wedding, yet"—as is the Indian custom when a girl is in late childhood or early teens. Upon being questioned when she was going to have it "made," she replied, "Oh, I'm not! I'm going to be an Old Maid; perhaps a Lama in Tibet!" (She must be joking—This is the States. . and she's a tall willowy blonde!)

Scorpions and snakes are old pals to Marty. Take the time she was going to bed with a squeazy kerosene lamp to light the way. She felt something squash and then a prick—a scorpion! "A scorpion bite, while not fatal, HURTS."

Since kerosene was rather scarce during the war, the family was gathered around one oil lamp. Sahib Kincaid was reading when one of the children noticed a Cobra under his chair. The children were sent from the room and the aid of the cook was sought. (According to Marty that was the cook's chief duty—killing Cobras. "He was good for little else—except supervising his seven kids who helped him in the kitchen.")

Marty firmly denies the Hollywood version of a glamorous Maharaja or Maharani. She has met the Marahani of Koltpur State and describes her as "short, stout and fond of chewing 'pansupari—a red nut(ground into powder, with lime added, and then wrapped in a leaf. It's chewed like tobacco; and the more lime, the better the spit. It's very impressive!"

Christian status was another point Marty brought out. "Anyone with any caste is dropped from that caste—austracized—has no contact with home, family, or loved ones."

At M-C, Marty participates in the activities of Point System, Y.W., and Theta Epsilon. She plans to participate in college dramatic productions also.

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Maryville- 33, Hiwassee-0; Maryville-14, Tennessee Wesleyan-0; Maryville-19, Cenrte-0; Maryville-25, East Tenn. State-2. Well, now we've been scored on though it was no fault of the opponents that they were able to amass those two markers, but we can still boast an undefeated and untied record for the season. Emory and Henry are next on the list—next Saturday night in Bristol, Tenn.-Va.

Round Four Was Most Excitiing

That was a rough afternoon the Scotties had back on Oct. 18, 1946, when they played the E.T. State Bucaneers on the Bucs' field. The fourth quarter presented a boxing match with at least every other play. "It was a tough fight, but we won." As my memory has it Hershel Merriman, hard-charging, hard-tackling Highlander fullback, was the outstanding man of the day. With a bloody nose and mouth he kept up his stellar play. Also with a smashed up mouth, Leon Berrong kept driving from his tailback sliot. With such men as Mitchell, who was captain of the team and weighed over 225 pounds, Garner, our 6' 4" center, Anderson and Proffitt, rugged guards, and Davis, Talbot and Kluth in the line it was indeed a rugged afternoon for the "T" formation of the E.T. Staters. Our injuries were numerous, but our reserves were more than equal to the tasks which resulted for them. The Bucaneers had two points at the end of the game which came as a result of a gift safety. Our total for the season stood at 91 points to our opponents' two.

Centre Hurts Predictions Percentage

Next time a certain UP sports writer (namely, William Tucker) sees that Maryville is to play some supposedly good team he will probably think twice before he makes his prediction. Our Scotties hurt his record by trouncing the Colonels 19-0. Just a few reasons why the Highlanders were superior; the quarterbacking of King Berrong, Merriman's smashing tackles as line backer and his interception of two Colonel passes, Lloyd Anderson's excellent play in his debut at right tackle as shown by the hard tackles he was executing, Garner's stellar performance at center plus intercepting two more of Centre's passes, one of which he lateralled off to end Talbot (the other one he ran back himself some five yards after desparto). Of special note was the punting of Leon Berrong to). Of special not was the punting of Leon Berrong who had an average of 41 yards per kick in four punts two of which went out of bounds on the Centre 8 yard line. He gave the crowd another thrill when he intercepted a Colonel pass and eluding tacklers spurted 42 yards down the sideline to the opponents' 18. He scored on the next play. Then there was Davis' juggled catch of Berrong's pass in the end zone. "Big Mitch" was doing his usual bit at tackle. In fact, the whole team played a bang-up ball game (apparently they don't like the underdog role).

Note to the Faculty

The Student Council is out to get a Scottie pup for our mascot and hopes to have it by the time the homecoming game rolls around. But the main difficulty is finding a home for him. Some of the students have offered to keep him in their rooms, but he's got to have a home the whole year. You get the idea; so, if you're the one, well, let us know.

We still see a few high school letters around, but for the most part everyone seems to have caught on.

The pep rally at the send-off for the team yesterday was timed almost perfectly—only the slower ones got the benefit of the shower.

We Predict

With our season's average down to 80% we like Alabama over Tennessee in a close rough one, Army over Columbia(for her 23rd straight), Texas over Arkansas, U.C.L.A. over California, Illinois over Wisconsin (sorry, "Goatlegs"), Michigan over Northwestern, Tulane over Auburn in a comeback and as usual we think Georgia will win over Oklahoma A&M, and Georgia Tech over L.S.U. (against our better judgement) Then we predicted that Scotties would top the Buccaneers of E.T.S. by a 20-6 count. We'll wait until next week to predict that Maryville will outscore Emory and Henry at Bristol.

Athenian

The Athenians this evening will be entertained by Paul Woodbury and his colored slides, featuring peoples and places of distant parts of the world, and even Maryville College. Jim Black states that a very important business meeting is to be held.

Last Friday saw the Bainonians and the Athenians on a "moonlight" hike to the picnic grounds, where story, song and vanilla ice cream entertained them.

Scotties Crush E. T. State

Merriman Scores 3 Touchdowns As Maryville Takes Rugged Game 25-2

Continuing their winning ways the M-C Scots downed the East Tennessee State Bucaneers yesterday afternoon in Johnson City by a 25-2 count in a vicious game which saw three Scottie quarterbacks and one end receive injuries, which may keep them out of next week's fray with Emory and Henry. It was the hardest game of the season for the Scots despite the one-sided score.

Maryville's strong hard charging line was the difference as they made it impossible for the Bucs "T" to operate efficiently. Anderson, Garner, Mitchell and Davis were the big boys in the line who kept inflicting losses as the Bucs tried to get started, but never could. The backfield was in there playing good games, too, led by Merriman and Leon Berrong. Pepper played a very good defensive game.

Scotties Score First

"Mitch" kicked off for the Scots to the Bucs 10-yard line. The receiver ran straight back up midfield and almost got away for a TD before being tackled on the 45. The Bucs fumbled on their first pplay and Merriman of M-C recovered. The Scotties drove to the 14 where E.T.S. took over and after losing four yards and two plays kicked out on their own 35. The Highlanders then bolted over for a touchdown in six plays, Merriman carrying the ball over from the two. Honaker missed the try for extra point.

Bucs Handed Two Points

The Scotties were scored on for the first time this season late in the first quarter when with Enloe standing in punting position, Garner centered the ball over his head from the 26 yard line into the end zone. As Enloe retrieved the ball and turned to run it back he slipped and his right knee touched the ground. Thus the Bucs were given their only two points of the game. Half-time score was 6-2.

Merriman Scores

After about five minutes of the third quarter had elapsed the Scots drove deep into the Bucs territory, but they dug in and held and took over on their own1-yard line. They kicked to their 33 from where M-C drove to their second touchdown in eight plays. The longest gain came on a pass to Talbot who lateralled to Merriman coming around left end. The Buc line again dug in but Merriman finally went over from the 1-foot line. Honaker's kick was good, but there was a penalty and his second attempt was wide.

Merriman Scores Third

About midway through the fourth quarter Pepper intercepted a Buc pass on the Buc 40 from there the Scots drove to the one on runs by Berrong and Merriman. Merriman scored his third straight of the afternoon as he darted over from the one. This time it was Neff who fizzed the try for extra point.

Largen Over On End Around

With some five minutes left to play the Scots, substituting freely, again drove into enemy territory by virtue of Enloe's runs and Borring's smashes through the line. Also a 15-yard penalty helped put the ball on the Bucs' 10-yard line From here Largen went over on an end around. Honaker's kick was good and the Scots led 25-2. The game ended two plays after the kick-off.

Costly Victory

The cost of the victory was high: King Berrong was hurt after about four plays and was out for the remainder of the game; Honaker replaced him and promptly hurt his previously injured shoulder, but was able to remain in the game. Dick Hamilton then replaced Honaker and played most of the second quarter and about half the third before he received a painful injury on a touchdown play. He was carried from the field and from there by a stretcher to the hospital where the injury was diagnosed as a muscle hemorage. Rush Lester saw action as quarterback for about half the last half, and was the only one of the four to escape injury.

Penalties in this game were much more numerous than in any others this season, with many of these coming because of unnecessary roughness and slugging.

NEW CURRICULUM . . .

books, and (2) with current literature in the field, and (3) with the method of the scholarly paper.

Result of Careful Study

The curriculum changes are the results of over two years of thorough restudy of the Maryville College curriculum by the entire faculty and staff, and especially by the Central Committee composed of President Lloyd, the Deans, the Division chairmen, and the Assistant to the Dean of Students.

This group has been guided by current trends in the field of liberal arts education, a careful consideration of the function of such a college as this, and whatever may be of light on educational methods and aims coming out of the experience of the War.

Last April, the curriculum plan was presented to the faculty who approved it unanimously. At the spring meeting of the directors, the program was approved and further study was authorized.

Work in regard to the program is continuing, and details of the plan are now being worked out. The faculty is busy in many conferences having to do especially with readjusting our present courses to fit into the four-hour plan and it is planned to have the final program ready for publication in the 1947-48 catalog next spring, Dean Hunter stated.

DRILLS BEGIN FOR '47 BASKETBALLERS

Varsity Basketball aspirants reported to Coach L. S. Honaker Monday night in the Alumni Gym to begin working out for the coming basketball season. About 30 men turned out, a number which does not include those men still out for football. They will report when football season is over. There is a great deal of material for this year's team and it should be a good one. The emphasis is being put on conditioning and fundamentals of passing, breaking, and shooting so far. Practices are being held on Monday night at 7:15 and Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 2:30. Any men interested should report to these practice sessions.

Highlands Swamp Favored Colonels

Enloe, Davis, Berrong Score TD's In Upset

An inspired underdog Scottie eleven romped through and passed over an out-of-shape Centre team here on Wilson Field on Saturday nght, Oct. 5, by a 19-0 count. It was Centre's first game and they were obviously winded before the game was half over. The Scotties racked up their third consecutive victory and retained their unscored on record.

Colonels Favored

The "Prayin' Colonels" of Centre were favored by the United Press sports writer, William Tucker, but they failed to even threaten the Highlanders. Their deepest penetration came late in the last quarter when their reserves drove to Maryville's 33 where they missed a first down by a small fraction of an inch. The Scots capitalized on five interceptions of Colonel passes the last of which resulted in the Highlanders last score.

Anderson Outstanding

Lloyd Anderson filled in at right guard for Cotton Easter who was out with an injured ankle. Anderson repeatedly broke through the Centre line to make several hard tackles. Having been a subsitute left guard in the past two games and having only one day's practice at the right guard slot Andy's play was superb. Easter got in for only a couple of plays before hurting his ankle, and had to be helped from the field.

Enloe Scores From Eight

After a scoreless first quarter which found the Colonels playing with their backs to the wall most of the time, having to kick from their end zone twice, the Scotties came back to score in three plays at the beginning of the second period. Enloe carried from the 15 to the 10; fullback Merriman bucked to the eCnrte 8-yard line. Then Enloe carried the ball over. Honaker's kick was good and the Scotties led 7-0, which was the halftime score.

Davis Scores On Pass

The Scots took the second half kick-off and immediately drove 68 years for their second score, the tally coming on a 20-yard pass from Leon Berrong to Davis in the end zone. L. Berrong took the kick-off on his own 10 and returned it to the M-C 32. Pepper on a reverse carried 26 yards to the Centre 42. Merriman bolted to the 38, Berrong to the 35 and Merriman made a first down on the 31. L. Berrong made four more to the 27. Then Talbot made another first down on the 21 on an end-around play. Then Berrong passed a long one to Davis who juggled it but held on in the end zone. Honaker missed the try for extra point.

Leon Berrong Scores

Late in the fourth quarter L. Berrong intercepted a Colonel pass and after eluding two would-be tacklers made a beautiful 42-yard run to the Centre 18-yard line. On the next play he took a pass out to the right from Merriman and raced the remaining 18 yards for the score. Again Honaker missed the try for the extra point.

Students Reminded of Dining Guest Rules

Pearsons Dining Hall has already reached its seating capacity, and has no room for guest tables. While all guests are welcome in Pearsons Dining Hall, places for the guests must be arranged for by students. Many of the campusites are able to go away for weekends, thus leaving empty places. Guests are welcome to fill these vacancies, but a special effort should be made to see Miss Suzana Ware, manager of the dining hall. The guest fee which is 30c for breakfast, and 50c for all other meals with the exception of Sunday noon, that being 65c should be paid to Miss Ware. Cooperation will be appreciated by all students who eat at Pearsons.

MESSIAH PRACTICE BEGINS TOMORROW

First practice for the "Messiah", Maryville's annual Christmas oratorie, will be tomorrow, October 27, at 2:45. All organized vocal groups will take part in it and all other students interested are invited to take part, too.

Practices will be each Sunday afternoon until the cantata is presented on Sunday, December 15. Each participating student is allowed only one cut from the practices. More than one cut automatically eliminates that student from singing in the "Messiah."

First orchestra practice for the "Messiah" will be Sunday, November 10.

Dr. Horace Orr To Speak at Vespers

Dr. H. E. Orr, Chairman of the Division of Bible, Religion, and Religious Education of M-C, will be the speaker at Vespers this Sunday evening. Dr. Orr is a graduate of Maryville College, and of Lane Theological Seminary. He received his M.A. from U-T and an Honorary D.D. from his Alma Mater, and has been at Maryville College since 1920.

The choir this Sunday is to present two anthems by F. M. Christiansen: "Vistas of Song," and "Love and Grief," the second verse of his "Grief to Glory Suite."

CHILHOWEAN PROOFS TAKEN

Representatives of the S. H. George Photography Studio were on the campus last Thursday to collect the proofs. All those who failed to hand in their proofs may return them to Elsie Chiffer sometime before Monday night, October 28.

Miss Jane Hays Named To Faculty

Miss Martha Jane Hayes of Beaver, Pa. has been named Instructor of Home Economics and will arrive in time to begin her work on October 28, President Lloyd's office announced recently.

Unnecessary Bedding, RAIN, Corny Jokes On Eventful Y. M. Hike

By ABBOTT KEMP

Gad! What a night. The only thing that was taken on the Y.M. hike last week-end that wasn't needed especially was the bedding. A guy could have gotten just as much of that stuff which even the psychologists haven't explained yet, namely sleep, if he had rolled up in a pile of leaves or better still found himself a bear nest.

But having lugged the bed rolls with them they spread them out and everybody was more or less comfortably settled (maybe a few were even asleep) when about 2 a.m. the stars had disappeared from sight and it began to sprinkle rain—oh so softly and gently. A few dismayed souls quickly arose and began to make plans for the retreat to the bus some 200 yards down the road.But lo and behold it had stopped raining and the stars could again be seen through the trees.

Later—a look into the sky—dark clouds— no stars—3:30 and all is—not well. This time the rain had set in as if it might not let up until about noon the next day (the same day, that is). The retreat to the bus was made by some 60 bleary-eyed, sleepy-eyed, not-too-eager hikers. You guessed it—about the time McGarity reached the bus (he was muttering over and over again "hello, hello, hello—" when obviously he wasn't speaking to anyone) the rain stopped.

On the way back to camp someone could be heard singing "Revive Us Again." He hadn't lost his sense of humor yet. On reaching camp there was a group gathered around the sputtering fire with every eye fixed on it as if it were a book (not a text book), and the choir members were practicing for one of their songs for the next night which oddly enough was

Mr. Pieper Talks on Russia's Policy

Mr. A. F. Pieper, assistant professor of political science, spoke at the Monday evening meeting of I.R.C. on the topic "Russia's Foreign Policy."

In his talk, Mr. Pieper emphasized that Russia, a vast country of large population, is trying to spread her influence through-out the world; and the United States and Great Britain are resisting her efforts. The Russians are a practical group of people who want to gain in world power and wealth without going to war. However, she is anticipating the fall of capitalism and the spread of world-wide nationalism.

Russia has already begun to exert her influence toward revolutionizing government in other countries. Through-out Europe in the small countries Russia is trying to install pro-Communistic governments.

Russia's foreign policy is based on her philosophy and on nationalism. Communism shew no favoritism among races. In order to set up a Communistic government, Russia will try to install a dictatorship for the lower classes.

After Mr. Pieper's talk, a general discussion ended the program. Mr. Pieper is the faculty advisor of I.R.C.

Lutheran Students Form Association

The Lutheran Students Devotional Association of Maryville College was formally organized on Wednesday, October 23 at a meeting in the YWCA rooms at 7:30 p.m. The Reverend Doctor Rudolph G. Schultz, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Knoxville, was the speaker of the evening. Hhis topic was "Youth and the Church."

These meetings were organized by St. John's Parish to serve Lutheran students attending Maryville. Devotional meetings will be held the second and fourth Friday of each month.

Plans include a joint devotional meeting with the University of Tennessee students in the near future.

The advisor is Richard W. Vine, Assistant Professor of Music. Chairman, pro tempro, is Harry Merrill. The Rev. Dr. R. G. Schulz is Chaplain.

DR. C. E. BARBOUR IS CHAPEL LEADER

The Reverend Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, spoke at the Wednesday morning chapel program.

Dr. Barbour spoke on the Bible ats the word of God. He asked his audience to consider the Bible as a letter addressed "to whom it may concern." He cited the need of every individual for the help of the Eternal; then upon quoting three passages of scripture, he said that these words should be the concern of every person.

Last year, Dr. Barbour was scheduled to lead the February meetings on the campus, but due to a broken hip he suffered from a fall last spring, he was unable to hold the meetings.

In his opening remarks he said that he was glad to see freshmen "back on the shelf" in the chapel.

YMCA Announces Topics for Series

Beginning Sunday, October 27, the weekly 1:30 afternoon services of the YMCA in Bartlett Hall will feature a program of three meetings, developing the topics, Friendship, Courtship and Marriage.

Dr. David H. Briggs, of the Faculty, will speak on the first topic, Friendship, at next Sunday's meeting. Different speakers will be obtained for each of the two following Sundays, when Courtship and Marriage, respectively, will be the subjects.

Everyone is invited to these services, and since the topics are being treated as a series, it is important to be present at all three. Each service will be of individual value, however, for the benefit of those who may not be able to attend the complete series.

Juniors, Sophs and Frosh Plan Parties For Hallowe'en

Three class parties have been arranged for Thursday night, October 31, in celebration of Hallowe'en. These will be given by the junior, sophomore and freshman classes. The seniors have the choice of going to any of the three parties.

The junior class Hallowe'en party is to be held in Bartlett Hall at at 8:13 p.m. It is under the direction of Janet Rich, class vice-president, with Kitty Johnson and Andy Anderson in charge of the program and Jean Blanchard with decorations. Mary Gene Lawson has the refreshments. The theme of the party is "Paradise Lost."

The sophomore party will be held in the basement of the First Methodist Church at 7:30. A "horrible time is in store for every one" No one is expected to leave the building alive. No chaperones will be required for the walk from campus to the church.

The freshman Hallowe'en party is to be held in Alumni Gymnasium. The festivities will begin at 7:30.

A program of entertainment is planned which includes some of the best talent in the class. A skit will be given by a group of freshmen boys; a dueat will break out with some mountain meloday to give the party a bit of singing. The Rev. Thomas Graham will be there to direct games during the party.

Refreshments for the occasion will consist of cider and ginger snaps.

Everyone is advised to wear their jeans.

Echo Survey Lists Sanctioned Cafes

Due to the students' request and in order that further confusion may be avoided, the Echo has made inquiries and compiled a list of the sanctioned eating establishments here in Maryville which the college students may patronize.

According to theStandards and Requirements of Maryville College no restaurant which sells alcoholic beverages of any kind may be patronized by the students.

Listed below are the sanctioned cafes within the central shopping area of Maryville; Cates, G&F C&L, Coulter's, Broadway Cafe, and Capitol Cafe.

Students are permitted to visit any of the local drug stores within bounds.

Maryville Guest Works To Improve Sunday Schools Throughout Nation

Saturday, October 12, Miss Lena Smith who was living in Pearsons guest room, arrived on Maryville's campus to begin her work of bettering Sunday schools in this area Her work according to William Ralph Hall, director and guide of all field work, is that of a "floater" or person who goes from place to place, collecting ideas from one place and using them in another when it is practical. She observes what materials are available and then makes suggestions, showing what has been done by other Sunday schools. Miss Smith carries with her a good-sized display of booklets, and cloth articles conducive to better worship that children in various areas have made. On one table was an open Bible with the three words; God, Jesus and Life on one side and Others, Church and Bible on the other. These, she explained, are the six words which are the goals of Christian education.

At present Miss Smith is working in the synod of mid-south but after Christmas she expects to be sent out west. Miss Smith has been in Christian education work since 1919. She attended Coe College in Cedar Rapids, I., which a nervous breakdown was the outcome. She felt the call in college while listening to a missionary from China.

She decided against it but finally talked with her father who was a minister. He told her that "if God's got something for you to do, you'd better get busy and do it"; so she did. Taught school for nine years and in 1919 started as a children's worker in Iowa. After five years of this, there were two years of school, followed by 13 years of work in Florida, in which she covered all phases of Christian education.

Miss Smith met Dr. Lloyd down there when he went down as director of conferences about every three years. In 1941, Miss Smith left Florida and has since been working all over the United States in her present capacity. She is the only one of this type in the entire field but it has proven so successful that more workers will soon be added.

Miss Smith has been to Maryville twice before for conferences and though she travels, her real home is in Nevada with her sister.

Having been in this work a long time, anywhere she goes she finds someone she knows or who knows her. "It's fascinating work," Miss Smith said, "and this way instead of having three children if I'd married, I have 10,000."

Ever Hear Anything Like This Before?

By BETTY HARTE

Darkness hugged every nook and cranny of the tomb-like dormitory. Every nook and cranny—save one, where a candle fluttered and flickered, casting eerie shadows on the drawn blind and the barricaded door. Dimly revealed was a haggard face lined with a look of painful determination as chemistry formulas wobbled on the shadowy page. The door knob gently turns! Then a soft tap! Quickly the candle is snuffed out . . . and locks and barricades defend the occupant from the intruder. Silence reigns until muffled footsteps are heard slowly receding.

Bleary-eyed the outlaw offers a blank look to the matron's questions the next morning. And another chemistry test bites the dust.

Priscilla, clad in her smartest frock, trotted up to Maggie, who was abstractly eyeing the falling leaves.

"Hello, Essie," she said, "Doing anything tonight?"

"Same as usual," Essie smiled wryly, "Study and more study."

"How about a double date—in town? Sound good to you?" Priscilla said in a soft excited tone.

Esther's eyes lighted up. . . but she paused, thinking how thickly and quickly demerits were handed out after the first encouter with the disciplinary committee. "Wel111. . . thanks just the same, Prisy, but I think I' just go right on not seeing city lights until vacation time."

"Play safe and be thwarted. . . What a motto!" Priscilla laughed flippantly tossing her head.

Up and down, up and down. . . . slowly her eyes scanned the dictionary. Would Will never arrive? Again her eyes travelled the page. Another girl came up, so Mahitabel abandoned her position and meandered over to the pencil sharpener, then the magazines, finally the newspapers, and back to the dictionary again. Just as she had read for the fifth time that "boa-constrictor" is a powerful snake which kills by constriction, Bill walked in the library door. He nodded and motioned toward the magazine rack. Nonchalantly she sauntered over to the rack.

"Hi, Sweet Stuff."

"Interesting magazine you have there."

"Uh-huh. . . Young lady, don't you know that ladies belong beyond the bookcases in THAT direction?" Will stated, pointing tothe east.

"Don't give me that blarney, young man—for you're strictly out of bounds, too," Mahitabel said in mock sternness.

"May I walk you home at 9:30, madam," Will murmured half bowing.

"I'll consider it," Mahitabel said half turning—for the central desk was sending warning signals, "But if we get demerits—ta, ta, ta!"

Fellows on the beds, the windowsills, the desk, the bureaus, the floor—a bull session!

"Students never get a chance to have any say so about campus life."

"Yeh! We're ruled and regulationed this way and that. . . . supposed to be 'seen and not heard.' Hang on to Momma's apron strings!" a sarcastic second shot forth.

"But what can we do about it? Our hands are tied," someone wearily remarked.

"Well, what's Student Council for?"

"Oh, it's a beautiful thought—'The Voice of Students In Campus Government'!" another cynically commented.

"Why don't we try to strengthen it?" interspersed a fiery reformer.

"Ah, take it easy, Bub. Souppse we could get a series of improvements through the council—like, Ohhhhh. . . nights when we could date in town. . . (Here, loud long laughter ensued). . . Suppose we got all these reforms and MORE too. What's to say that future students wouldn't abuse such privileges? It ain't worth it.

Just Being "Nosy"

By LORRAINE SWIFT

The week-end seems mild in comparison to our next one. With Hallowe'en parties, the Artist Series, and the football game all in view for three successive nights, no campusite should feel that he lacks a place to come next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. If we were all like Kay Titley we wouldn't cherish such worries, anyway. She's dated up at least three weeks in advance. Sure, there's more than that in being a cheerleader. Just think; you can fall backwards into Richardette's arms, too, Leaving the cheerleaders, though, there are other roles to be enacted on this campus, some of them easily introduced by songs of our times. Lend an ear and eye, for—

Rumors are Flying, and Glen Smith felt the result of one handed to him by Dr. Briggs. Happily, for Glen, it proved to be just a rumor, so he wasn't called into Dean McClelland's office for dating too much, after all.

My Sugar Is So Refined, and that must be the reason some of you waitresses hide half a bowl of sugar in another dish. Put it on the table, not under it, Megaw, Wedell and Blount.

From This Day Forward, means things have changed since the old days. We know, 'cuz we've been told. Meineke hasn't pulled the stunt of putting a test tube in his back pocket since his return. It wasn't that it broke; he just bent over too far and the test tube had been filled with sulfuric acid. . . George Calahan, character that he is, has failed to live up to his misdemeanor list of the past. Seems that he has his mind on other things.

Surrender!! You who turned all the campus benches on end may now profess your guilt. Why did you put the blame on Elsie Onifer; hasn't Mame been around lately? Or do you realize that we're addressing this paragraph to you and accomplices, Betty Harte?

All the Things You Are won't be difficult for someone to list if Lloyd Chandler makes two dates for the same Tuesday night again. It so happened they both lived in Memorial and luckily straightened things out between themselves.

Five Minutes More. Speaking of the old days again, someone told us that Scott Honaker once started off the football field seeking advice. "Hey, where you goin'?" the referee yelled gruffly. "Just over to talk to Pop a minute," Scott answered, as he headed straight for Coach.

Buttermilk Sky, and some people gaze at its breath-taking beauty during the height of its loveliness—right after supper, that is. (Dinner to the aristocrats and home economics students.) The best view is from the circle drive, or that's what they say—name of Grace Ellen Cross and Harvey Overton, Betty Dearing and Sherwood Coul, Kitty Stidham and Winton Enloe.

Tell us; what's in a name? . . . . Pepper, says Dr. Williams, is the spice of the football team. . . We've heard of Egon, but Verl Washington Petree is a new artist on our campus. Artist along a different line, we might add. . . "Oh my darlin' Clementine." Her first name is Jeanette and her third name is Headrick. . . Then there are the representatives of the clergy, Marguerite Prieste, Lorrie Nunn, and Marian Pope. . . Maybe Violet Summerville and Dan Winter could define the happy medium. . . Jack (John) Spratt could eat no fat—not at Maryville, anyway. . . Verity, Verity, I say unto you (Jack from California) . . . Benjamin Franklin was great, but he didn't have Erastus for a middle name; did he, Sheldon? . . . What does Abt. stand for between Paul and Yambert? . . . We've wondered about possible combinations. Mae Short-Ben Long. Lou Ann Cook-James Housholder. Joan Hall-Max House. Craig Fisher-Artie Spears. Lilybelle Gunn-Harold Hunter. Winifred Fly-Bob Bird (They were born with wings!). Doris White-Jim Black. Margaret Stone-Alan Rock. Ruth Broadhead-Earvil Whitehead. Al Head-Virginia Hand-Helen Hair.

The mystery of the library at present concerns silverfish. "Why", wonders Miss Grierson, "did the silverfish prefer fiction to non-fiction?" They devoured 150 volumes.

Mary Mills and Helen Miller, lucky gals, went to Helen's home in Rogersville this week-end and dashed over to Knigsport to see the Maryville team play football.

Sarah Durant had a birthday party and an orchid. The orchid was nice. The party was nice, too, except for the carrot decorated cake and the gift of a doll, christened Harrietta Bunn.

All of Vonore, Tenn. is enrolled at Maryville. Well, at least ten are here. Speaking of Lorene Summitt (Hats can fall off in church, even when accompanied by date Bill Hall. He accompanied Lorene, not her hat!) Betty Moser and Red Black (This makes two years for them), Peggy Russell, Johnnie Mae and Henry Howard (brother and sister), Ken Marshall, Charles Niles, Della Ellis and Lawrence Williams.

Fourth floor Memorial monitors are having a meeting tonight about a serious situation which has recently developed. . . Bonnie Mills is moonshined. His name is Charles Something-or-Dther. . . Bea Rogers is engaged. . . Can't forget that Jean Heaps refuses t ochange her name and has become engaged to Malcolm Heaps. . . Baird insists that he has been asked to lead public prayer so much he automatically begins the Lord's Prayer when he hears his name called. . . Smartt Ramsey admits his high mentality.

. . The cocks are crowing. Let us bid adieu. . . Afterthought: Any individuals who begrudge an item mentioned in this column are heartily welcomed to discuss the matter with our kind lab partners, "Cotton" Easter and "Big Mitch" Mitchell, who will be only too happy to make amends at the criticiser's inconvenience.

CRAIG FISHER

Peggy, Glee Club, tennis and newspaper "cubbing" are Craig Fisher's main pasttimes. A freshman pre-med student from Hamadan, Iran, Craig arrived in the states August, 1944.

At Lawrenceville prep school, N. J. Craig participated in track, tennis, soccer, choir and glee club. (He's a baritone) He was associate editor of the school newspaper and editor of the Literary Magazine.

Maryville seems to be quite a tradition in the Fisher family—Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are graduates, and Mr. Fisher taught history here last year; a 26 year old brother John, is also a graduate, has his Phd, and is teaching English at NYU; Mary a 22 year old sister, studied at M-C two years before going into nurse training; and Peggy, 13, is back in Teheran where Mr. Fisher is the principal of the American school.

Teheran immediately brings to Craig's mind visions of the American Army sergeants for counselors, army equipment supporting it, army trucks for excursions, army pre-release movies, army jeeps for touring the camp—all were part of the scout program. One of the counsellors, Lt. "Mickey" was the aide in charge of the stenographers at the Teheran conference. It was "Mickey" who obtained an American Boy Scout charter for the cosmopolitan group—through the personal help of President Roosevelt!

Gangland warfare reigned even in the Mission compound!! The battle started over a map of the compound. Someone found it and took it. First one side had it, then the other. Craig's roommate was on the other side. They hadn't been speaking for weeks. One night Craig rifled his roommates belonging and found two maps! The other side had finally drawn up one of its own.

On the trip "home" to the States, Craig suffered an attack of malaria. From another ship in the convoy, a doctor had to be eased over the water on a rope held taut by the teamwork of the sailors.

Maryville is strictly tops according to Craig—and as for the women. . . well, he prefers blondes!

Carnegie Men Learn To Use Washer As Fingers Are Mashed In Rollers

By CRAIG FISHER

A howl of anguish issues from the downstairs bathroom, and there's a rush of feet to the disaster. There an incoherent amateur is discovered leaping dizzily about the room shaking some fingers which the rollers mistook for a shirt. Yes, wash-day has come to Carnegie; for now the boys have a washing machine to defy those "seven day" wonders in town, which seem to take so keen a delight in shredding your laudnry and sending it back with that pleased little admonition to "cheer up".

To the gals (except Pearsons) we say "Sorry you don't have one too." But look at the experience the boys are accumulating. They are becoming as familiar with the pressure release lever as they were with the old gear shift, and pat the agitator handle with the same reassurance they showed toward the steering wheel. No longer is the soap-flake shortage material for radio gags. No sir, brother, you'll find them running just as hard as any femme to a drug store rumored to have a new shipment of soap. And not only that. Blotchy white shirts will teach them to put the socks through the last thing, and a sprinkle of rain at night will give them the same panic as a veteran house wife.

So when you see a fellow on his knees studying the directions telling which levers where to turn when, don't laugh. You might find yourself there some day, and after all, isn't college education for life? A few hints to novices might not be amiss at this point (being a veteran of one wash I feel qualified to talk).

(1) Go steady. You will then have someone to iron your shirts, and to provide expert advice on the do's and don'ts of Clorax and blueing.

(2) Don't try to crowd two weeks washing through in one period. Your professor, lacking the vital experience of having put through a laundry, will not appreciate your excuses.

(3) Hang your clothes with care and you can eliminate ironing on everything but collar shirts. And for Pete's sake, clear your stuff off the line when it's dry.

(4) Don't brag too loudly of your accomplishments with the washing machine, especially if you are planning to marry the girl.

Small children are sometimes like canoes—they need a paddle before they will move.

Mike: "I have a cousin who has three feet."

Zeke: "Why, that couldn't be."

Mike: "Well, I had al etter from Aunt Sarah today saying that Johnnie had grown another foot in the last year."

If a fellow tries to kiss a girl and gets away with it, he's a man; if he tries and doesn't get away with it, he's a brute; if he doesn't try but would get away with it if he did, he's a coward; but if he doesn't try and wouldn't have gotten away with it if he tried, he's wise.

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Maryville's Highlanders will be seeking a fifth . . . consecutive win tonight against Emory & Henry at Kingsport, Tenn. They have compiled 91 points to their opponents 2 in their first four games against Hiwassee, Tennessee Wesleyan, Centre, and East Tennessee State. They will be favored to take tonight's tussle, but it will be no pushover for them without the services of King Berrong at quarterback and Ken Talbot at end.

Coach Davis Scouts

Middle Tennessee State played Cumberland University last night at Murfreesboro, Tenn. Watching the game was our Assistant Coach, J. A. Davis. The Mid. Tenn. Raiders won 28-0. Coach Davis' comment on the game was that the Raiders "have the best small college team I have seen in ten years." So the Scotties may find the going extremely rough in our homecoming game next week.

Scot Comments on Bucaneer Game

Winton Enloe, Scottie tailback, commenting on their game with E. T. State last week had this to say, "Well, Garner and I finally scored on the Scotties." It was the combination of Garner's high - sailing pass from center and Enloe's slip in the end zone after retrieving the ball which gave the Bucs their only two points of the game, these being the only points garner—ed by the opposition to date.

Frank Still, end, is certain that, "The whole school came around my end once with president carrying the ball." Incidentally, Still's home is in Johnson City, and while he was there after the game this week-end he says he didn't wear his Maryville football letter. We are inclined to believe he did right since we wouldn't like to see them swarm over Still as they attempted to swarm over one of the referees after the final whistle of the game. Truly, it was far from the best exhibit of sportsmanship that we've seen so far.

Everett High to Maryville College

- On glancing over the roster to see where our football players—heroes, that is, come from we find that quite a number of them don't come from anywhere—they were already here. Meaning that if you will take a look at our starting line-up before injuries took a toll of two you will see that six of them are former outstanding players of Everett High School here in Maryville. They were all good, too, as high school gridders. Captain "Big Mitch" Mitchell and center "Pie" Garner played plenty of ball together at Everett before graduating in '39. Talbot is a graduate of 1940. King Berrong was through in '43 and his brother Leon finished two years later. Fullback Hershell Merriman also finished in '43. Besides these first stringers we have Campbell, Burchfield, and Harold Henry also Everett High grads.

Maryville High men who are now Scotties are Stinnett, Willocks, Heaton, Hamilton, Calloway, Proffitt, Honaker, Spears, and Smith. Proffitt is the only regular varsity member of the group, but the others have been adding plenty to the Highlanders' success.

Wingbacks Hollingsworth and Baldwin and guard Newman are Alcoa's products now performing for the orange and garnet.

Of the eleven men, out of over fifty, who are from out of the state three of them have been starters this season. Pepper is from Wausau, Wisconsin, Kluth comes from Blue Island, Illinois, and Anderson hails from Richmond, Virginia.

Cummings Defeats Wilson

Both finalists played some good tennis Thursday afternoon in the Intramural championship tennis match, with Cummings winning a deuce game to decide the match as darkness was about to halt play. Congratulations to you, Don, for winning and to you, Bob, for making it a good match.

We aren't sure who won the soccer games this week, but from the looks of the crowds who were watching them, we must conclude that Maryville lassies like a good shin-kicking contest.

This Week We Like. . .

Maryville over Emory and Henry, E. T. State over Carson-Newman, Army over Duke, Tennessee over Wake Forest, Penn. State over Colgate, Arkansas over Mississippi, Texas over Rice, Notre Dame over Iowa, Alabama over Kentucky in a comeback, Georgia Tech over Auburn, and Georgia over Furman in a breather, as the syndicate boys say.

Welcome Students!

Scots Tackle Wasps Tonight

Highlander Line-up Changed by Injuries

Maryville's four-times-victorious Scotties journey 115 miles north to play the Emory and Henry Wasps from Emory, Va., tonight at 8 o'clock at the Kingsport High school field in Kingsport, Tenn. Kingsport reportedly has one of the best high school footboll fields in the state.

The Wasps have been successful in only one of their five games to date. They defeated Tusculum last week. They have lost to Milligan, Guilford, Carson-Newman, and East Tennessee State. Their game with E.T. State was played on a muddy field, and they lost by only one score, 6-0.

Injuries Plague Scots

Despite the Scotties impressive 25-2 victory over E.T. State, who defeated the Wasps, they suffered the loss of a quarterback and an end for tonight's game. King Berrong received a hip injury only a few plays after the beginning of last week's game with the Bucaneers. He will not be in the line-up tonight, but should be ready for the homecoming game next week. Also injured was Ken Talbot, first string end, who sustained a broken collar bone early in the third quarter when he was tackled as he lateralled to Merriman after taking a pass in the left flat. Hamilton and Honaker were also hurt in the State contests, but will be able to see at least limited action tonight.

"Cotton" Easter will be back in the scuffle tonight after missing the most of the last two games with an injured ankle. He will probably not be in the starting line-up, but will play if his ankle feels okey.

Squad Scrimmages

The Scots have been drilled all week for a tough game tonight, with most of the time being devoted to scrimmaging. Coaches Honaker and Davis have been preparing the team for various forms of defense, including the five-man line, and also an offensive spread formation which the Scots may use tonight for the first time this season.

Starting Line-up Different

Tonight's game will find a new starting quarterback and left end, with possibilities for the two-back spot being Stinnett, a converted wing-back, Hamilton, or Honaker. Still will be taking up starting left and duties replacing Talbot. Anderson will start again at guard in place of Easter, and otherwise the line-up will be the same with Leon Berrong at tailback, Merriman at full, Pepper at Wing, Garner at center, Mitchell at right tackle, Proffitt at left guard, Kluth at left tackle and Davis at right end.

The attack on Spain was led by Mexico and Belgium and backed by Brazil.

Soviets Dismantle Reich Plants

Reports of the dismantling of a number of German factories, their shipment to Russia, and the removal of some 2000 expert German technicians to Russia have resulted in American officials asking Russia for a full report. Some executees are said to have signed five to ten year work contracts with the Soviet Union while other have been given neither choice nor warning. The factories include the famed Zeiss optical works in Jena and the Junkers aircraft plant in Dessau.

Atlee Attacks Russia

Britain's Prime Minister Atlee charged Russia with building a "wall of suspicion" between the Russian people and the rest of the world, in a speech at Brighton October 24 before the annual convention of the British Trades Union Congress. The speech, claiming misrepresentation of facts to the Russian people by the government, parallels Churchill's "iron curtain" assertions.

Price Control

Rapid fire removal of price controls have freed ten million workers from wage controls. This is due to the fact that freeing of commodities from price ceilings automatically removes wage restrictions. The commodities decontrolled include most foods, cosmetics, some rubber goods, chemicals, drugs, lumber products and paper items.

YM Hike . . .

"Lost in the Night."

A stray newspaper gave the weather report saying "Storm breaks up off coast."

A comment from somewhere, "A beautiful moon, isn't it?" From elsewhere someone whose esthetic senses were noticably dulled by the events of the night replied indignantly, "It is not."

Some promising young man then pipes up, "Let's join YW—after all a girl's place is in the home, isn't it?"

Next a joke—a negro preacher from the city went out to preach in a country church one Sunday, and he used some powerful big words which some of the bretheren didn't quite understand. The next day a couple of the congregation decided to ask their own pastor what those two words, "modernistic" and "fundamentalist", meant. "Well," said the reverend, not knowing, himself, but not wishing to appear so, "the modernists say 'There ain't no Hell' and the fundamentalists say 'The Hell there ain't!'"

By this time it was getting late (about 5 a.m.) and time to start breakfast. Shell barked out, "Let's have a volunteer—you, freshman, you'll do—go get some wood."

INTRAMURAL DOPE

Don Cummings Wins Tennis Championship

The men's fall intramural tennis tournament came to a climax today as Don Cummings won over Bob Wilson in the finals in four sets, 3-1.

To get into the finals, Cummings had to beat J. Hathis in the semi finals and Wilson had to beat D. Motsinger. The match for the championship was very close and well played by both participants. Cummings aced a good number of serves to help him on his way to victory. Wilson came back with many fine lobs to the back court that kept Cummings pretty well at the back of the court. The first set was probably the best as Wilson came from behind to win 7-5. Cummings came back fast in the second set to take it easily 6-1. Cummings' serve showed up especially well in this set as he got most of his points on the first shot. The third set was a see-saw affair with Cummings taking it 6-4 after they were even up at 4-4. Cummings started out with a bang in the fourth set taking the first two games. Wilson then proceeded to tie it up and took the next three-out-of-four to win the set and match 6-4. Many of the games went from duece to add to duece many times before they were finally decided. The net play of both players, for the most part, was very good. It was an exciting match to watch and a fitting ending for a fine tournament. Cummings' name will be inscribed on the Intramural Tennis cup as winner.

New Tennis Courts (?)

Coach Mehl announced today that a plan has been proposed to the college whereby there would be two hard surface tennis courts built behind the football field for all-weather play. Also included in this plan would be two outdoor basketball courts and two volleyball courts. These added facilities would make it possible for more people to participate in intramurals without the crowding of courts. No official action has yet been taken, but it is hoped that at least part of this plan can be put into effect.

Trophy Case be Placed in Pearsons

Coach Walter Mehl announced that an Intramural Trophy case will be placed in Pearsons Hall lobby next Monday. This case will contain medals for intramural managers, medals for league winners and individual awards that will be given to the winners of tournaments and other activities. Also there will be a bulletin announcing coming intramural events and probably some pictures of outstanding men in the program. Miniature footballs are going to be given to the winner of the intramural football championship at the close of the season. Medals and trophies for other events will be given as they are placed in the future.

Band to Present New Formation at Homecoming Game

Girl's Glee Club To Help With Newer And Larger Routine

The Maryville College band with the assistance of the Girls Glee Club will present a full 15 minute performance at the half of the Homecoming game. Coming on from both ends of the field they will meet and give a welcome to the alumni. The traditional letters for each school will be formed and then both groups will leave the field in a novel way.

The band has 48 members and the choir has 56, making a total of 104 on the field which is enough to do larger formations than the band alone has been capable of doing.

Nelson Earnest is drum major and Bob Connell and Jimmie Lee Watson are twirlers. Majorettes are Linnea Johnson, Merle Henderson and Harriet Perry, who is taking the place of Marion Henderson

Several people on campus who have seen other band performances this year have remaked that the College band gives as good and sometimes better performance than those of several nearby universities and colleges. The band is an organization the school can be proud of and the only thing needed to give it a litte courage is some enthusiasm from the student body.

Players to Give 3 Plays Friday

One Written By Maryville Freshman

Experimental Theatre will present its next group of plays Friday, November 8, at 8 p.m. in Bartlett auditorium. Mrs. Curtis Hughes will be in charge of production. The three plays to be presented are Nobody Sleeps, Printer's Ink and Four Portraits.

Nobody Sleeps is a comedy of pure nonsense concerning the troubles of a burglar named Spike. Spike stalks into the Busby house the hardest way—through a locked door. As a burglar he is a complete failure. Nobody Sleeps is a refreshing bit of nonsense with an ending that is quite surprising. Spike is played by Tom Eckert. Daisy, Ada and Glory, three sisters who get Spike very confused and overthrow his good works, are played by Betty Seagraves, Carol Hall and Alice Davenport, respectively. The part of their mother, who is very gushy and an author of mystery stories, is played by Maybell de Nagy.

Printer's Ink is the story of a conscientious newspaper editor who insists on printing the truth even if it does concern his own family. This truth-loving managing-editor is portrayed by Craig Fisher. Bob Watkins plays a reporter. The stupid new reporter is played by Everett Sykes. Betty Harte plays Mrs. Worton. The theme of the play can best be stated in the words of Weston when he says, "I have to print it—print it straight. The news isn't mine—Tomorrow a death may take the central place; the next day may be an international wedding. But what is news today must be printed—truthfully—regardless of who it hurts." This play is a transcription of life and the characters are real.

Four Portraits is an original radio play written by Ben Paxton, a freshman from Detroit. It is a gripping mystery story. It deals with mystery, intrigue, murder, suicide and anything alse which a mystery should have—including thunder and lightning. Agatha is played by Margaret Newland; her brother, Jeff, by Bill Nish and the newspaper reporter, Paul, by Glen Knecht. The others in the cast are played by Helen Hair and Ruth Thompson.

"The Experimental Theatre is happy to have an original play to give and wants to encourage a variety in its programs," stated Mrs. Curtis Hughes, director.

Scribe Views Alumni and Wonders About Chapel Services "Back When"

By MACK CASEY

Seeing all these old grads wandering around on campus today, Founder's Day, makes a fellow think, in a way, doesn't it? Seeing a student of 20 years ago examine this old campus, looking for things that are left as they were in his student days bring to our mind thoughts as to whether we shall be able to recognize many places or customs when we return to homecoming at Maryville 20 years hence. Wonder how many things this present crop of alumni are finding the same. . . Bet that regular, morning chapel service is one thing that hasn't changed much.

Every morning Tuesday through Saturday you go to the same chapel service and sit in the same chapel seat. Did you ever stop to think about the many other persons, in times past, who did that very same thing and sat in the very same seat that you sit in now?

Twenty years ago the person who sat in your seat came to chapel just as tired and sleepy as you do each and every morning now. That same fear, which dominates your very being of being late or missing chapel entirely, haunted him just as it does you. Monday mornings without chapel (if they didn't have chapel every day) meant 45 minutes extra sleep in those days.

The student of 1926 paid just as much attention to the chapel speaker (probably less) as you do every morning. The chapel period was used by some people as a period for serious thought or in some few instances unserious thought. Thoughts of home, the girl sitting next to you, and of the football game Saturday night, have always received the attention of most cha-

Railroad Ad Creates Interest In "Books" On THE SOUTH

Anybody got a spare author they're not using right now?

If so, the Southern Railway System would be very glad indeed to give him a red hot tip.

In its current nationally-circulated magazine advertisement, captioned "This Story Comes in Two Volumes," the railway describes the many industrial opportunities in the South it serves and uses a drawing of two books to help put the story across.

The artist did a masterful job with his brush, creating two imaginary "books" and labeling one of them "The South, It's History and Traditions," and the other "The South—Its Economic Growth."

Growing lyrical, the text allowed as to how "Volume One" was a delightful romance with the "fragrance of magnolias rising from its pages . . heroes and heroines sauntering through quiet streets that knew the tread of pirates. . ." while "Volume Two" was the "exciting story of industrial growth. . "

President Ernest E. Norris said he'd known all along that folks were interested in the South, and now he has proof.

Ever since the advertisement came out the phone has been ringing and letters have been coming in from folks who'd like, please, to order both volumes!

REV. R. B. CROTHERS SPEAKS AT VESPERS

The Rev. Robert B. Crothers will be guest speaker at Vespers Sunday evening. This wil be Mr. Crothers' second visit to the campus this year. He was Vesper speaker on October 5.

Dr. H. E. Orr of the Maryville College faculty spoke at Vespers last week.

Team to Discuss Atomic Energy in Chapel Wednesday

On Wednesday evening, November 6, two representatives of the University of Tennessee faculty, Dr. J. Wesley Hoffman and Dr. W. G. Pollard, will conduct a discussion and open forum on the subject "Atomic Energy." This is an extension service of the University, and these two men, working as a team throughout the state, have received high acclaim.

Dr. Hoffman is the head of the Department of History at U-T, and is well qualified to treat on the international aspects of Atomic Energy. Dr. Pollard, a professor of physics at U-T, will discuss the technical aspects of nuclear fission. Following these two discussions an open forum will be held, in which the students will be invited to ask any question which may arise.

Sadie Hawkins Day Approaches M-C

Members of the Girl's Choir will begin late next week to sell tags at one cent (1c) apiece to all girls who want to tag their date "He's Took" for the Sadie Hawkins Day activities on Saturday, November 9.

The Sadie Hawkins Day is sponsored by the Girl's Choir, who plan to have a square dance in the gym, Bingo tables in front of Thaw, an authentic fortune teller and a refreshment stand somewhere on campus for all the girls and their dates. They also hope to have the shuffle board courts beside Pearsons Hall open.

All the girls are asked to dress as Daisy Mae and the fellows as Li'l Abner. At the end of the evening the girl and the boy most in character will be selected.

The fun begins at 7:30, so come on girls, pick your man and be sure he's tagged!

Juniors, Sophs and Frosh Hold Parties For Hallowe'en

Methodist Church Campus Gyms Afford Setting

Hallowe'en night, October 31, the junior, sophomore and freshman classes each held all-class parties with the seniors invited to them all.

The freshman class Hallowe'en party began in the Alumni gym at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 31. In a completely backed-out gym, participants were shown the rope and told to follow it, Brains, eyes and the general intestinal fortitude of man were supposedly touched along the way. Following the rope out one door and back in the next, people were given glass jars with candles in and told to wipe the bottom of their jars and rub their faces. The person showing how it was done had no soot on the bottom of his jar, but the rest of the jars were quite sooty. A few minutes later, however, the soot had been transferred to many freshmen faces. Following this Hap Brahams sang two numbers with Jack Verity accompanying him; Bonnie Mills read the modern version of Cinderella and Paul Yambert read two ghost stories. Then everyone danced the Virginia Reel and a square dance. Refreshments of cider, apples and doughnuts were served and then the freshmen initiated their own entertainment of a human crack-the-whip which included a tearing down process of the decorations. Bales of hay were scattered over the gym and strips of half orange-half-black paper showered from the middle to the sides. Corn stalks were also scattered around. The chaperones were Mrs. Brunson, Mrs. Edmundson and Mr. Reber.

Water-Gunning Sophs

The Sophomore party was held at the First Methodist Church in Maryville at 7:30 p.m. With Dave Campbell acting as outside doorman and Bill Houdeshell on the inside, the sophs were led thru inky-black corridors onto a balcony where water was squirted in the eyes, and violent explosions kept occuring. Down stairs, still in the dark, obstacles in the form of springs were placed in the path. At the end of the stairs they followed a long corridor and came to a room. Inside the room they were allowed to touch the brains, intestines, and guts. Then, still in the dark, they were asked to go through a door which gave them a shock. A small peephole with a a sign saying "Do Not Look in Here" caused the curious to look and receive a squirt of water. Ducking for apples, apples dangling from strings, games of all sorts, and fortune telling were part of the party with Bob Thompson telling a ghost story as the climax.

And Jack-o-Lanterns

The decorations were similar to those of the Frosh, but in addition there were jack-o-lanterns and cats and witches all over the walls. The chaperons were Marvin Minear and Dr. Briggs. Refreshments were cider, doughnuts and apples.

Rinso-White

The junior class party started at 8:13 p.m. in Bartlett gym with games of various types. Scott McClure then introduced a contest in which four fellows led one song each and the one who did the best job with animated antics won the prize which was a box of Rinso. Ray Swartzback won with his son, "John Brown's Flivver Had a Puncture in the Tire"; the other contestants were Owen McGarity who led "When You Were A Tulip", Bob Dockendorf with "Around the Corner," and Nelson Earnest led "My High Silk Hat". Judges for this contest were the two male chaperons and a junior class member. In complete darkness, a ghost with two candles appeared and read Poe's "Raven" from the balcony while it was acted out in pantomine by candle light down below. E. J. Cotton read, Andy Anderson took the part of Poe, and Footsie Housch was the

Men's Glee Club Has 50 Members

The newly formed Male Glee Club, directed by Mr. Curtis Hughes, now has approximately 50 members. The choir is purely voluntary. Mr. Hughes says that so far much enthusiasm has been shown by the members and that if such cooperation continues the chorus has great possibilities. They have practiced once with the Girl's Choir and plan to do this several times in the future in order to give both choirs a chance to do four-part singing. As yet the Glee Club has no definite program planned but they are working on several numbers in preparation for an appearance later in the year.

New Library Books Feature Music

New books recently added to the library shelves are centered on the music department. For anyone interested in teaching music there is the book Music in the High School by Harry Robert Wilson. The book tells of the modern trends of secondary education, both singing and instrumental. Then there is School Operettas and Their Production by Kenneth R. Unfleet. The costumes, scenery, organization, dancing and rehearsals are elaborated on.

Preparation and Presentation of the Operetta, by Frank A. Beach gives in details such subjects as the selection and training of the chorus, scenery, make-up, costumes and other properties of the operetta.

The Glee Club and Chorus by Van A. Christy is among the collection of music additions. It tells of the organizing, conducting and maintaining of the chorus.

Leaving the field of music, Shod With Flame, by Helen Topping Miller has its scene set in East Tennessee. It is a "rootin', tootin', bang up" story or raiders and foraging parties. However, overlooking the blood curdling parts it is a story of war-crossed love told with skill and feeling.

In the history department is My Three Years With Eisenhower, written from the personal diary of Captain Harry C. Butcher, USNR.

Such personages as Pythagoras, Plato, Plotinus, William Blake, Brother Lawrence, St. Bernard and Fra Angelico are discussed in the new book Men Who Have Walked With God, by Sheldon Cheney.

An older book, Silent Bellion Speak has been put on the library shelf. It is by Frank C. Lauback, missionary. Dr. Lauback attended the Paris Peace Conference, and because of his ability to teach languages easily he went to Hollywood to make short subjects to teach the soldiers the language of the Pacific.

Stage Committee For Play Chosen

It has been announced that Gib Weiss, senior from Alabama is to be business manager for the Theta Alpha Phi play "The Man Who Come to Dinner." Miriam Pope, sophomore from Tennessee, is assistant to the director. Virginia Clabough, senior from Tennessee, has been chosen as publicity manager. She will be assisted by Katherine Johnson. Doris White and Jane Witt are in charge of costumes, Edith Earle and Virginia Thomas of properties. Dick Moore is stage manager.

Rehearsals are going well and a good production is expected.

Council Secures Transportation For C-N Game

Transportation for students to the Carson-Newman game on November 16 has been arranged for by the Student Council. Totaling $2.15, the fee includes admission to the football game as well as transportation.

Leaving here at 12:00, the train will arrive in Jefferson City at 1:30. Classes at the college will begin at 8:00 a.m. and last for 45 minutes, with five minutes between periods.

Scheduled to leave Carson-Newman at 5:15, the train will return at 6:45. Arrangements are being made to supply access to food since supper will be over.

Several weeks ago the council secured permission for students to attend the game if adequate and uniform service could be provided to and from Jefferson City. Investigation of various facilities resulted in arrangements with the Southern Railway Co. However all money must be received before the company can assure transportation.

At the meeting of the Student Council last Wednesday no Town Night violations were reported.

Commercial entreaties to secure Student Council keys were considered and rejected. The council felt that since it is an elective office there would not be the usual signifigance of having "attained" something through previous service in that body.

Every Wednesday at 9:00 in Thaw 212, the Student Council meets. All meetings are open to the public unless otherwise designated.

President John Shell presided.

KILROY TRAMPLED TO DEATH IN MINN.

By HERBERT McCALLUM

Headline: "Kilroy Buried by Minnesota Students."

Yes, at last, Kilroy, of "Kilroy Was Here" fame has found his final resting place. After traveling with GI's all over the world and half through hell, Kilroy was laid to rest in Minnesota

The story goes that Kilroy suffered an accidental death. He was a veteran under the GI Bill attending the University of Minnesota.

One peaceful day he was trampeld to death by an on-rush of coeds coming from a science hall. The next day a funeral with full military honors was given this legendary traveller of the world.

Kilroy's passing marks the end of one of the most adventuresome soldiers in the army. He was literally omnipresent on the war fronts. The slogan, "Kilroy Was Here!" marked his presence.

Now, Kilroy is no longer rambling; he rests beneath a simple monument bearing the inscription: "Kilroy Is Here."

P.S. Kilroy has been resurrected and a sign was left saying "Kilroy Jr. Was Here."

"Rhapsody in Blue" to Be Given by Orchestra

The first orchestra concert of the year is scheduled for November 15. The main feature of the program will be Gershwin's "Rapsody in Blue," in which Marian Weiler, junior piano major from Harlan, Kentucky, will be soloist. Other numbers on the program will be "The Huldiguns—march" by Grieg, and the first and third movements of Beethoven's Fourth symphony. The entire program will be announced at a later date.

Chooses Brother To Serve as Escort

Jessie Lou Brunson, senior psychology major from Pine City, New York will be crowned queen of homecoming before the football game (about 7:45 p.m.) Saturday on Wilson Field.

Attendants to the queen will be Katherine Stidham, junior English major of Corinth, Miss. and Mary Margaret Robarts, senior Sociology of Lake City, Fla.

Charles Brunson, brother of the queen will serve as the queen's escort.

Football Captain Marvin Mitchell will perform the coronation.

Miss Brunson is president of WSGA, a member of BG, student council, choir and orchestra, and served as treasurer of Bainonian last year.

This is the first time that Maryville has celebrated homecoming since the fall of '43.

Russia Continues Armament

Russia has been charged with working her war plants 24 hours a day at the same time her UN representatives have been demanding disarmament. The accusations are made by the Rev. Leopold Braun American Catholic priest recently returned from Russia, at a meeting of the Knights of Columbus in New Bedford, Mass. on October 31. He further states that winter and lend lease—not the Russians—were responsible for defeating the German eastern armies.

We Have A Good Band

We have heard that a football game is merely the preliminary and anti-climax of the half-time during which the band puts on a show. That may or may not be true; however, it does seem to be a fact that oft times the halftime musicians, the band, does not get the credit that is due it.

The Maryville Band has performed brilliantly at all our home games this season. Brilliant especially in the sense of the variety of formations they learn and execute so well in such a short time. We have seen the band performances at the M-C out of town games this season, as well as other college and university bands. And we have yet to see a band put on a better performance than ours does. . . . and does consistently. And we dare say that other college bands do not have any more troubles trying to find time to rehearse and with other such problems.

Yes, thus far the Maryville band has done an excellent job, of which the student body can well be proud—and is proud. Yet some of the ones who have been watching practice for tonight's show tell us that the best is yet to come.

If it's a good band you are looking for, we have it!

GUEST EDITORIAL

From the homecoming issue of the WHEATON RECORD with Maryville replacing the word, Wheaton.

Hello, Alumni. We're really glad to have you back on campus, even it it's only for a week-end. This sounds like the usual courteous line, but we really mean it, and we'll tell you the reasons. There are at least two.

First, we need to meet you and find out more about the Maryville from which you graduated. You know that the last few years have seen great turn-overs in the student body, what with people leaving to get married, go into the service, and other such callings. And this year we have had one of the greatest influxes of recent years.

We need to know more about the traditions and forgotten things that have been dropped by accident from our college life today. How about the school spirit that prompted those rousing pep rallies before every game with the then Prexy leading cheers? And it seems to some of us that a lot of the polish that Maryvillians used to gather while at Maryville is somehow passing us by today. We'd also like to know about the family and spiritual kinship which used to tie the student body together.

Then there's another reason why we're glad you're back. We want to show you what we're like. We want to prove to you that we will not be satisfied with the lowering of any of Maryville's standards. We want to show you that we're doing our best to hold up the old traditions and to set new marks in the academic, sports and religious worlds.

So, you see, we're really glad you're back. You can be a real help to us by infecting us with something of the old spirit over this week-end, and we hope that you will go away with renewed faith in us and Maryville.

Just Being "Nosy"
By JANET MILLER

Spring ain't here,
The grass is frizz;
I wonder where
My woolens is.

Thursday and Friday seemed to be the days when the women of the various dorms were busily at work at ironing boards, laughing and chattering all the while. It's the first time we've ever seen enthusiasm like this for ironing. Could it have been the preliminary for Friday night's pressing engagement?

Bob Lavelle sent a huge bouquet of flowers to Doris Cooke for her birthday. The most unusual part of it was that he sent a mixed bouquet because he didn't know the color scheme of the room.

Physics lab is a pretty good place to meet people, especially when the ratio is two men to one gal. Divida McGaha seems to agree with this as of Wednesday night. How about it, Bob Nevins???

Frank Ladner has initiated the Caste system lately or has anyone seen the autographs that he's acquired? Also Ginny Peters mentioned a Frank Ladner Club and was quite secretive about the whole affair. Inquiring further, it seems Ginny is the only one who knows about it yet. SHhhhhhh!

We've found a sequel and an equal to Lloyd Chandler! Bill Anderson asked two girls to go to the opera but one refused. Careful Casanova.

It looks like it's Hand's off on Floyd as far as Ginny Hand and Paul Floyd are concerned.

Corky Montieth and Marion Scott (Scotty) went to Pennsylvania last week-end for the Penn-Navy football game at Un. of Penn. Scotty claims she didn't get to see all the football plays and we'll bet she's not sorry. From the looks of things she's walking around campus with her feet on Tenn. soil and her head in Pa. clouds.

Joan Hall writes her "Jimmy" two and three letters a day. What we'd like to know is what does she have to say after the first letter and when does she find time to say it?

There once was a pious young priest
Who lived almost wholly on yeast.
For he said, "It is plain
We must all rise again,
And I wanted to get started at least."

For an even better limerick having to do with the church, see Bill Vogel. . . . which reminds us, Bill, how does it seem to hold hands with your own ring on another hand? Which in turn reminds us that "her" parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hartpence came down from Ohio last week-end. Hmmmmmmmm? We have yet to find out what the dowry is.

Whats Alan Rock got beside a too-close hair-cut that other people don't seem to have? More Baldwin-ies are singing Rock of Ages.

The guest book at the Chilhowee Club is rather active this year. From the looks of things, your gues(t) is as good as mine.

When a member of one of the soccer teams was injured on the field, Coach Mehl walked over, and picked her up, and carried her off, cave-man style. As he did so, he commented, "This is the type of thing known as handling your team."

We nominate Ginger Clabough for Miss Powder Puff of 1946 after that hair-do (or don't) as of Tuesday night. Since a wirlwind couldn't have done that well, the only storm we can think of is a brain-storm and those can be both serious and damaging.

Judy Turk's shower must have come as a compete surprise, and a big success,too. Carolyn Ulrich Sue Cochran and Judy Garland certainly worked hard enough to make it so.

Tobacco Road had a long run in New York and from the looks of our Carnegie steps, it's not doing too badly for itself here at M-C . . . 'n all the lipstick too.

Mary Jane Blizzard says that the only difference between going steady and being married is that when you're married you're going steady permanently. That's what always happens to Home Ec majors.

Tall, blonde and good-looking Don Ely is coming to see his sister, Ruth, this weekend. Can it be to see sister Ruth or sister's roommate, Carol Jones?

Eleanor Kelly went to Washington, D. C. at 5 a.m. Friday morning to see Jim. Some people are eager beavers. Wayne came down to see Ginny Miller, Jean Cobb went home to see Dan, and Evelyn Vaughn went home to South Carolina for similar purposes, so we hear.

Bob, Paul or Harry
Which one should Lorrie (Swift) marry,
They all use Kreml.
And then there's Gene, but he uses Vitalis.
And while we're in the poetic mood, let us cease with;

He kissed her in the garden
It was a moonlight night
He was a little tight.
She was a marble statue,
And so we go to Latin class reciting our adjectives, hic, haec, oh heck.

PEGGY EDWARDS

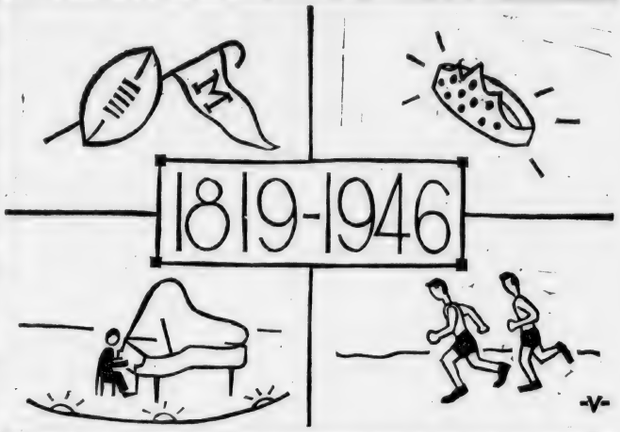
Cosmopolitan is the word for Peggy Edwards, freshman from Iraq, Brazil and the U.S.

Idiosyncrasies are few and far between, but they are strong. When she slips into Cockney English and says kike for cake—and well. . . . There's Craig, too.

Peggy viewed her first football game this fall. Craig had to explain all about it. Sounds like fun, doesn't it?

Often seen dashing madly across campus—particularly right before lunch—Peggy has athletic experience to explain that fleetness. (She's a waitress.)

All kidding aside, Peg indulges in swimming, tennis, cricket, track and hockey. She paints a little with water colors and oils. And she has a mania for collecting spoons.



Spoons can be plain pieces of brass—or they can be beautifully and uniquely designed pieces of silver. Peggy prefers the latter. Spoons headed with semi-precious stones; vari-colored Japanese wooden spoons hundreds of years old; an old Dutch spoon with the head of an elderly Dutchman engraved with ancient engraving methods in the "shovel" end of the spoon—are but a few of an interesting collection.

Mischievous is Peggy's middle name. For instance when she was small: Mother had locked her in her room for disobedience and gone to visit the Russian family for tea. When Mother returned the house was in flames. Peggy had put the light on the bed (supposedly for reading purposes) and to quote Peggy, "Sniff, sniff! And there were little flames in Grandmother's quilt!"

As head prefect of her dorm at St. Pauls co-ed school—a British boarding school—Peggy's duties entailed responsibilities similar to that of the House Chairman of an M.C. dormitory. The only difference being that Peggy had power to mete out any punishment she chose—and had special privileges besides!

Brother Ben, 21, is a sophomore at Yale preparing for diplomatic service; also in Yale, Al, a 19 year old sophomore, is preparing for the ministry; a third brother, Dave 16, is attending Stoneybrook prep school, Long Island, N. Y. At the present time her father is also attending Yale, doing graduate work. Incidentally Peggy is going home for the Princeton-Yale game!

M-C Engages U-T In Cross Country

The Highlander cross country team will make its inter-collegiate debute today against the U-T tracksters. Although inexperienced Coach Mehl believes that his men will make a good showing against Coach Wilt's men. The workouts over the past week have been comparatively light with emphasis placed on speed and striding. Time trials were held last Monday over the same 3¼ mile course which is to be run today.

This meet will be a renewal of rivalry between the two Coaches, since they have previously met in Big Ten track competition.

The seven men designated by Mehl to score are; Scott, Gillete, Downey, Kay, Kiger, Baird and Barbour.

Affectionate pie: The crusts are stuck on each other.

Stout Lady: "Really, my dear, when one looks at you one would naturally think there is a food shortage."

Thin Sister: "Indubitably my dear, and to look at you one would know what caused it."

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

FLASH ! ! !

This Morning Tom Scott led the Maryville cross country team to victory over the University of Tennessee team, by a 27 to 32 score. The Scots placed first, second and third with Scott, Gillette and Downey crossing the finish line in that order. Scott's time in the three-mile run was 16.4.

HI GRADS!!! Welcome back to your old stamping grounds. This goes especially for you who were Scottie footballers way back when. . .Although Maryville can hardly boast any national championship teams, she has always had a team on the field fighting to the finish whether winning or losing. We particularly hope, and believe, that you alumni here this week-end who are Scottie football lettermen will not be the slightest bit disappointed in the current edition, either because of their pig-skin abilities or sportsmanship. The Scotties will be out for their sixth consecutive win of the season and will probably be rated the underdog against a considerably heavier team.

"Pie" Garner Says...

In a recent edition of the Maryville Times there was a picture of our star center, "Pie" Garner. Included in the story below was a quotation from Garner in which he said, "We've got a mighty good team and will probably go undefeated this season. I may be sticking my neck out, but this team is made up of great guys and it's a fine team to workwith." Those are our sentiments exactly, "Pie", but we hope you're keeping in mind that one of the worst enemies of any team can be overconfidence.

Little All-America, Take Note

We don't know exactly how they go about choosing members of the Little All-America team, but from our observations it seems that we have two who are good enough to deserve that honor. Namely, they are center "Pie" Garner and tackle "Big Mitch" Mitchell. Garner received honorable mention on the team before the war when he played two years at Milligan College, and he is probably considerably better now than then. We've seen the Scots in all their games to date, and no opponent has had men who were equal to these two Scotties.

Strike—For More Play

Tennessee Wesleyan's football team, whom the Scotties beat early in the season 14-0, went on strike last week in protest of a cancelled game. They are expected to be ready to resume play for their next game, Nov. 9, since the school is seeking to schedule another game in the place of the cancelled one.

Beat Carson-Newman

These words in a recent issue of the C-N school paper, "Maryville College plans to put on a big show during the half, when they meet the Eagles here on November 16. They are bringing their band over for the occasion. We hope we can have something that is equal to their half-time show. We know our team will be more than equal to theirs, but we cannot let them surpass us in spirit." Well, Eagles, we are inclined to believe that you will be disappointed in every department on that fateful day. Besides winning the game and putting on our half-time show we may even have more rooters there than you. You'll see what we're talking about when that Southern train comes rolling into your station. Coach Frosty Holt of the Eagles is probably shaking in his shoes already at the thought of the impending invasion of the Honakermen.

Sewanee Next Week

The Scotties are to play Sewanee next week on the Sewanee field some 20 miles out of Chattanooga. The team will leave Friday night.

Georgia over Alabama

In the game of the week in the South we pick Georgia's Bulldogs to lick Alabama's Crimson Tide in what should be a great ball game. Again we're prejudiced in picking Georgia Tech over Duke. Then for the sake of helping the season's average we like Army over West Virginia, and Notre Dame over Navy. Further, Penn. State over Fordham, Rice over Texas Tech, and North Carolina over Tennesse (we haven't picked a Tennessee game right but once this year, so why change now?) And naturally we believe the Highlanders will win over the Raiders. Season record—28 right, 7 wrong, 1 tie for average of 77%.

SCOTS FACE TOUGH TEST TONIGHT

Middle Tenn State Has Heavy Line Dangerous Backs

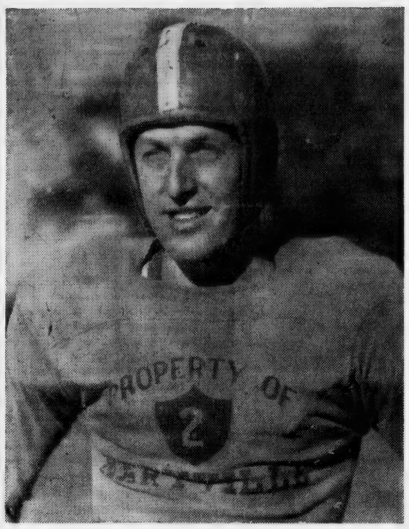
Middle Tennessee State will invade Wilson Field tonight at 8 o'clock to attempt to halt the Scotties victory string which now totals five games. It is to be the Scots' homecoming tilt and the crowd is expected to be swelled by the many M. C. graduates and former students. The Highlanders boast victories this season over Hiwassee, Tennessee Wesleyan, Centre, East Tennessee State and Emory and Henry.

M. T. State Undefeated

The Blue Raiders of M.T.S. will bring an impressive team with an equally outstanding record to Maryville for the game. They began the season with a victory over Alabama State Teachers College. Millligen then played them to a scoreless tie in their second contest. Since then they have outscored Union College, Austin Peay and Cumberland University in succession. Their pre-game record will stand at four wins, no losses, and one tie.

Heaviest Team to Date

With a line which averages exactly 200 pounds per man and a backfield whose average is above the usual backfield scales record at 188 pounds per, the Raiders will be the biggest team met by the Highlanders this season. They have a set of backs with a record of being good ball-handlers, using their offensive tool, the diamond "T" formation. Two of their backfield standouts, Stagg and Nesbit, are being watched for Little All-American honors. Fullback of the M.T. Raiders crashes the line with his 215 pounds and will probably be a pain for the Scots all night.



Highlanders Set

Head Coach Lombe Honaker and Assistant J. D. Davis have been drilling the Scots intensively all week for tonight's scrap. The squad has been scrimmaging some, but most of the time has been given to stopping the Raiders' plays which they run from their "T" formation.

King Berrong, quarterback who was out of last week's game with a hip injury, will probably be back in the starting lineup tonight. Also out of most of last week's contest were Leon Berrong, Merriman and Pepper. The latter three saw little action against Emory and Henry. They will probably constitute the Scots line-up at initial-whistle time tonight.

Scotties Swamp E and H Wasps With Score of 19-6

Maryville's Highlanders continued their winning ways taking their fifth straight game last Saturday night at the football stadium in Kingsport, Tennessee, by over-powering the Emory and Henry Wasps 19-6. The Scotties started with a backfield of Enloe, Boring, Hollingsworth and Stinnett and scored once in each of the first, second and fourth quarters while the Wasps marked up six points late in the second quarter. It was the first touchdown scored on the Scots this season. Previously they had given up two points to E.T. State by virtue of a safety.

Wasps Get Breaks

The Emory & Henry boys got all the breaks at the beginning of the first quarter recovering two M-C fumbles and one of their own. The first series of plays with the recovery of Maryville's two fumbles carried the Wasps to the M-C 32. After recovering their own fumble on the 40, they kicked out of bounds on the Scot 18 and the Highlanders got the ball for the first time of the night.

Enloe Goes 45 Yards

Going off left tackle on the Scots' first play from scrimmage Enloe romped 45 yards before being stopped on the E&H 37. Merriman crashed the line for seven yards. Enloe then made it a first down on the 20. Hollingsworth reversed to the 16; Merriman bucked to the 15 and then to the 8 for a first down. Enloe got to the 5, Merriman to the 2, and then fullback Merriman bolted over for a score. Honaker's try for extra point missed after a five-yard penalty for too much time.

Leon Berrong Scores From 13

The second Scottie score came in the second quarter when tailback Berrong, who played only a few minutes of the game, passed from the E&H 44 to Pepper on the 17, Boring made 4 yards to the 13 and then Berrong scampered off right tackle and cut back for the score. Honaker's try for extra point was blocked.

Wasps Drive 64 Yards

Emory and Henry scored the initial touchdown of the season against the Scots as the Wasps received the kickoff and then drove 64 yards from their own 36 for the initial crossing of the M-C goal line. The actual score came on a pass by La Vanche from the Scottie 23. Their attempt at conversion failed as the kick was blocked.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By BRICK BRAHAMS

TOUCH FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

The undefeated Misfits and Echo Printz, having already cinched their respective league titles, will play a game to decide the Intramural Touch Football Championship next Thursday night at 7:00 p.m. The game will be played under the lights immediately following the pep rally. This should be the top game of the Intramural Football season and is expected to be a very close one. Neither of the teams have met a common opponent or each other, and therefore it would be hard to even give a rough estimate of the outcome. For the Misfits, Mathis has probably been the outstanding player. His shiftiness when running, along with his ability to hit a nail on the head with a pass will make him a definite threat to the Echo hopes of winning. As his receivers he has Bill Long and Meineke who have turned in very fine performances. The Misfits also have a rugged line that will give the Printz a rough evening.

The Printz will counter with Hap Brahams and Mat Cardella in the backfield and Parkinson and Kemp on the line. Parkinson is the high scorer for the Orange League and will give the Misfit backfield a bad time as he receives passes well. The game is being played on a bigger field and that will probably make some difference. However, to counteract that is the fact that it will be played at night and so far none of the men have participated in a night game. It should be a fine game from the point of view the spectators and any and all are welcome to watch.

A week from this afternoon, an All Star game will be played with the participants being picked from the teams of the two leagues. Each player picks his all-opponent team within his own league and from this ballot will be chosen the men to represent the Garnet and Orange leagues in this game.

Bartlett Edges Marauders 14-13

The Volleyball Leagues will begin play on November 18th inaugurating the play for the second half of the first semester. The same teams now playing football leagues may play in the volleyball leagues, and some teams may be added. However, anyone wishing to organize a new team may do so. The squads will consist of ten men and the number of men that will participate in each game will be announced later.

Baldwin Girls Get Hallowe'en Party

Climaxing campus Hallowe'en activities, girls rooming in Baldwin Hall were entertained with an adventure sponsored by Baldwin's WSGA committee. On pretense of a house meeting the girls were assembled. All lights in the dormitory were extinguished; then a door creaked open. A figure in flowing white, holding aloft a candle, led the crowd to the basement. Greeted by eerie music, the girls sated themselves, until—a tramp forced his way in from outdoors and began telling them about THE MONKEL'S PAW.

Marion Pope, the figure in white and Ray Swartzbach, tramp participated in the program.

Miss Mary Hallock furnished a bushel of apples for refreshment.

pel goers. One thing the boys in the supposedly "good old days" didn't have to worry about was that date for Town Night, because they didn't have any Town Night and not very much town in those days.

One big advantage of being in chapel 20 years ago was the comparatively few announcements. Announcements about the women's soccer tournament, parking spaces for cars, and the camera club would probably have been very much out of place. The Student Council probably never submitted any announcements or warnings concerning loitering on the way back from town.

The freshman even that far back had to be content to sit in the balcony or under it. The seniors exercised that same privilege of being the first to leave the chapel and the freshmen had that same joy of standing and waiting until everyone else was out of the building before they started to file out.

Chapel has been and will continue to be a part of the daily lives of every student of Maryville College. Twenty years from now, just as it was 20 ago, these same things will be happening.

One thing is certain, if some of the seats aren't repaired soon, no one will be sitting in them even next week.

Troubles Of A Feature Writer, Or It's Not Worth It All, Bud

By SMARTT RAMSEY

Anyone coming into my dimly lighted room this wild night, would be startled out of recognition at the sight of a staring, convulsed face. Any sane normal person gazing up on so twisted a countenance as this would immediately beat a hasty retreat; and then, waking in the middle of the stormy night, recall that tortured look.

As I sit here, my bloodshot eyes seeing no immediate object, and each numb finger in the still, motionless hand fighting to keep a firm hold on a freshly sharpened pencil, I sigh despairingly to the four accusing walls. Long since had a weary roommate leaped into the inviting arms of Morpheus. Long since has the untiring town clock tolled out a last warning chime of eleven. Still I labor on.

Thoughts, like the rapid descent of the windblown rain threatening my windowsill, batter down upon this hollow brain only to run off in malignant rivulets of frustration. Grasping here, there, everywhere for just one small sentence to capture some side-splitting thought and imprison it for posterity(?), my feeble mind is triumphantly trouncing upon a brilliant idea, when backed by the steady staccato of rain a soulful clarinetist directly above bursts forth unmistakably into "The St. Louis Blues."

But all is not lost! One link still remains of that masterful chain of thoughts; and perhaps the criticizing student will contribute a healthy snort to the wit in this unborn feature article. The torn fragments of thought knit back slowly but surely and my feverish brow is finally slipping back to normal—suddenly from the upper stories of heaven (?) and on the wings of music (?), there floats to me the second Harry James' torrid trumpet version of "The Dark Town Strutter's Ball."

Now all is quiet. The insistent tinkling of the tired old piano (sign says, "No more jive after seven p.m.") has at least ceased. A saucy mouse runs across the floor, stopping long enough to give me Ye Olde Horse Laugh. Even the pattering rain has slowed down to a casual drip. At long last the great moment has arrived. The mind writery gracefully condescends—gives forth to the pen, and as the raven. Then the junior class male quartet composed of Tom Wheeler Merrill Grubbs, Jack Gilmore and Mel Castrodale sang an introductory piece and two others. Lois Thomas and Mr. Lea each told a ghost story and then refreshments were served in the balcony which represented Heaven. Decorations consisted of bales of hay to sit on and a black kettle in the middle of the floor while around the edges of the gymn were tombstones of well-known campusites with their epitaths.

The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Mehl.

Refreshments were cider, doughnuts and apples.

Few Students in M-C Hospital Now

Maryville College students are few and far between at the hospital lately.

Peggy Edwards, freshman, sustained a severe burn while doing laboratory work; she was immediately taken to the hospital, but was not detained.

Frank G. Ladner Jr., freshman who broke his leg at the beginning of the semester, is still steadily improving; but it is doubtful that he will be able to use it before the second semester.

Remaining on the roster with only minor illness are Lois Jean Deobler, Eleanor Struble and John D. Reid.

Visiting hours run from 12:30 to 1:15 p.m. and later in the afternoon from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. instead of 3:00 and 4:00 as previously announced. Also, the ailing students may be seen from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at night.

Looks like rain today, doesn't it?

Yes, but it smells like coffee.

U-T Professors Lecture on Atomic Energy in Chapel

Social, Technical Aspects Discussed By Team Wednesday

At the regular Wednesday morning chapel, Dr. J. Wesley Hoffman and Dr. W. G. Pollard held a discussion and open forum on the subject "Atomic Energy.' These two men, representatives of the University of Tennessee faculty, talked not only of the social and political implications of the atomic bomb, but also the technical points of nuclear fission.

Dr. Pollard, professor of physics at the university, who discussed nuclear fission, was the first to speak.

Atomic or Nuclear Energy

Explaining the meaning of atomic energy, Dr. Pollard told of the force required when protons and uetrons which compose the nucleus of an atom cambine with the protons and uetrons of other atoms. "This nuclear reaction," pointed ou Dr. Pollard, "can be compared to the progress in the formation of atoms into molecules, except that the nuclear reatcion is many times greater than the molecule."

Also, the similarity can be seen in relation with the atomic bomb to the ordinary bomb. The importance of realizing that nuclear reaction is not new, was greatly stressed by Dr. Pollard.

Chain Reaction

"In 1939," said Dr. Pollord, "the production of neutrons in a free condition was discovered; this allowed nuclear reaction to cause other explosive reactions, throwing free other nuetrons, which in turn cause still more reactions. This series of effects is called a "chain reaction." He also showed that in an atom bomb a series of chain reactions are controlled by the quantity of the element used.

In this concluding words, Dr. Pollard agreed that there were many uses of atomic energy in peaceful development, but "there is also danger of using it as an aggressive means."

How to Control Atomic Energy

Dr. Hoffman, head of the history department at the university, began his talk by emphasizing the point that there is no defense against the atom bomb. Reminding us of the difficulty in controlling the atom bomb. Dr. Hoffman stressed the need for international cooperation. Such organizations as the Atomic Energy Commission at Moscow, the five man commission in the United States, and the Department of State's committee for control of atomic energy were enumerated by the speaker as the first three steps toward the control of the atom bomb. He also mentioned the Baruch report in connection with constructive and destructive factors in the regulation of atomic energy.

"The next war will be an atomic war," warned Dr. Hoffman and again accented the urgent need for international cooperation.

Open Forum Held

After the official discussion had ended, an open forum was held for the benefit of those students interested in further questions.

Dr. Hoffman and Dr. Pollard compose a team which has been visiting various schools and colleges throughout Tennessee.

Al Capp, Creator of L'il Abner Interviewed by Maryville Student

By JANET MILLER

Wednesday afternoon from 3:50 to 4 p.m. Al Capp, originator and creator of L'il Abner, spoke over station WNOX. Immediately following this, he had an interview with a few persons.

The first thing that we noticed were his chubby baby hands, the fingers of which are thick at the base and taper out to the ends. He was dressed in a light grey suit with a white shirt and white handkerchief in his breast pocket, a navy blue bow tie with red polka dots, maroon socks and brown shoes. He had a light, gay and carefree manner about him and laughed easily. Although shorter and stockier than Li'l Abner, the facial resemblance of the creator to his character is amazingly similar. Mr. Capp would not admit outright that he patterned Abner after himself but he did say that cartoonists have no time for models and "your own face is bound to have some hideous effect on your work," he said.

Achieved His Goal

Mr. Capp is one of the few cartoonists who started out in life with the desire and ambition to do nothing but cartooning.

He said he was attracted to the profession because, "you're your own boss and you are outrageously well-paid. Also you have the chance to write as well as draw."

Born in Conn.

Capp was born in New Haven, Conn. but his present home is in New Hampshire. His studio, however, is in Boston. He studied Art at the Academy of Fint Arts, like any other type of artist, cartoonists never cease studying and are constantly trying to improve their style. As a boy of 15 or 16, Capp had the mistaken idea that Memphis, Tenn. was rather close to New Haven, Conn. and therefore decided to hitch-hike down to see the South. It so intrigued him that he constantly returns. Right now he is traveling over the country side taking in Sadie Hawkins' Days in various parts of the country. A few places he mentioned were Chicago, New York, Detroit, Philadelphia and Washington.

Does All the Work

Capp does the entire strip himself—story and script. As he says, "I'm the creator, originator, and the guy who takes the rap for everything Abner does." The strips which take less than a minute to read sometimes require six to eight hours work before the creator is satisfied. These strips are completed six to eight weeks in advance of being printed for they must first go to the engravers. Capp has never drawn any comic character other than Abner and the other Dogpatch characters. His hobby is not drawing.

True Yankee

It was difficult to pin Mr. Capp down on some points because, being a true Yankee, he countered questions with questions. And so the origin of Abner is still a mystery. It seems that Abner has been "idiot enough to run away from as luciou- a creature as Daisy Mae for 13 years now" and when asked if Abner would be unmarried indefinitely, Capp replied, "You never can tell. I don't think I could be a stinker enough to keep them apart forever, but I don't know."

Characters

He parts Abner's hair closest to the reader because without the

Pennario Received Well by Full House At First Concert

Leonard Pennario, pianist, performing before a packed-house in Voorhees Chapel last Friday night, November 1, in the first of this year's Maryville Artist's Series, revealed the remarkable technique which has made some critics acclaim him as one who will someday be listed among the top artists. He had a well-chosen program, including compositions by Scarlatto, Bach-D'Aibert, Chopin, Milhard, Dohnanyi, Debussy and Rachamaninoff. The audience felt his poetic sense of Chopin during they playing of the preludes.

The high-light of the program was, some critics say, Mr. Pennario's enterpretation of Rachamaninoff's "Prelude in B minor'. He played it with a fine musical understanding. In addition, the second movement of the sonata was a demonstration of his facility in velocity.

His encores included two of his own compositions, "The Dance of the Lunatics" and "Midnight at Newport". These entirely different numbers proved the versatality of this young composer. By the continued demand of most of the student body, Mr. Pennario ended the evening with a boogie-woogie number.

Elections Set Wed. For Barnwarming Queen, Sponsors

A queen and class sponsor for Barnwarming will be elected next Wednesday after chapel. It is not decided as yet whether the senior class will have a sponsor as well as the queen. There is also a question as to whether a king should be elected. The decisions for both questions will be announced next Wednesday.

Barnwarming is one of the outstanding programs of the year, and is usually the most entertaining celebration of the first semester. It is always held on Thanksgiving Day in the Alumni gymnasium. Besides the crowning of the queen and the main program, there are booths, food and elaborate decorations.

Barnwarming is sponsored by YWCA. It is one of the few programs on campus to which admission is charged, and all profits go to the World Student Services Fund.

Ruth Broadhead and Marion Montieth are in charge of Barnwarming this year. Miss Broadhead says, "Everything's going fine and with all the able assistance we have, it should be the best Barnwarming ever."

Senate Discusses Varied Business

Seventy-five cent admission tickets to the Carson-Newman game are available for faculty and the wives of married students, it was announced at the Student-Faculty Senate yesterday.

Results of the questionnaire about comprehensives which Dr. E. R. Hnuter sent out last year, were presented. Faculty decision to continue comprehensives rests upon the overwhelming majority of returns from graduates which favor the plan.

Application for a Phi Beta Kappa will again be made upon Dr. Lloyd's return, it was decided. Application was made several years ago, but no results have been obtained.

Rewiring of the dormitories was discussed and it was pointed out that the faculty has been thinking of such a possibility, but until materials are available nothing can be done.

Also discussed was the possibility of establishing a tradition of electing a homecoming queen. It was suggested that a special council committee be appointed by the president of Student Council.

Advisability of painting the inside of the Alumni gym was also discussed and is being considered.

Meetings of the Student-Faculty Senate are held the second and fourth Friday at 3:30 in the President's Office.

Faculty Banquet Held Mon. Evening

At the faculty banquet Monday evening, November 4, Miss Cowdrick read a 22 page work on Romanticism in French and Spanish Drama. A copy was made for each member of the faculty enabling them to follow her as she read. Earlier in the evening, a fish salad and fruit dessert were served and Dr. Orr introduced the speaker the evening.

At the December meeting of the faculty, Mr. Vine will read a paper prepared on Christmas music.

Mrs. Hughes Ill: Plays Postponed

Mrs. Curtis Hughes, of the Dramatic Art Department, has been confined to the college hospital with virus pneumonia. Her condition is steadily improving.

Due to her illness the Experimental Theatre program scheduled for Friday evening was postponed until next month.

Dr. E. G. Seal Speaks At Student Volunteers

Student Volunteers will meet this week at the usual time and place: 8:00 p.m. Sunday in the YW rooms, but an unusual program is in store for those who attend. Everyone is invited.

Dr. E. G. Seal, returned missionary from Columbia and Chile, will be the guest speaker. An interesting account of mission field experiences is expected.

Devotions will be led by Bob Frost. Chet Phillips and Katherine Franklin will sing "In the Garden" as a duet.

IRC Plans Picnic For Next Meeting

Members of the International Relations Club will put aside discussions and hike to the picnic grounds on November 11, at 5:15. The picnic will last until about 7:00

The regular meeting will be on November 18, when Stanley W. Philips, B.A., M.A., Assistant Professor of Economics at Maryville will discuss the "New World Bank."

To all students who would like to keep up with current events, the International Relations Club offers the classroom edition (without advertisements) of Time magazine for the price of eight cents per copy; for the entire college year it will be $1.76, averaging about 20 copies of the magazine.

Al Lesnick to Lead Prayer Meeting Wed.

Ray Holsey, pre-ministerial, led the worship program of the November 6 prayer meeting. His topic was "Goodness." He took his theme from the painting "Prayer at Gethsemane' by H. Hoffman. Earl Martin led the singing and Alma Lancaster accompanied on the piano.

Next Wednesday Al Lesnick will lead the worship service. His theme will be "Faith".

Dr. John H. Gardner Will Lead February Meetings

'Man Who Came To Dinner' is Slated For November 23

Regular rehearsals for "The Man Who Came to Dinner", a delightful three act comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, the play chosen as the Theta Alpha Phi production for the year, are being held in preparation for presentation in Voorhees Chapel on November 23.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" played on Broadway in the 1939-1940 season and was said by critics to be the comedy sensation of the year.

The difficult role of Sheridan Whiteside is to be portrayed by Max House, junior from Cato N. Y., who is remembered for his outstanding work in "Junior Miss" and "Guest in the House."

Virginia Miller, senior from Kennett Square, Pa., takes the part of a secretary, Maggie Cutler. Miss Miller has had leading roles in "Guest in the House" and "Pygmalion."

The chief supporting roles of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, Bert Jefferson, and Lorraine Sheldon are to be taken by Ray Swartzback, Lois Thomas, Fred DePue and Jean Balch.

Mr. Swartzbach can be be remembered for his leading roles in "Pygmalion" and Lost Horizon," while Miss Thomas has taken parts in not only society plays, but also numerous Experimental Theatre presentations.

Fred DePue, who has just returned after three years of service in the European theater, took part in "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Abe Lincoln."

Jean Balch is chiefly remembered for her leading roles in "Angel Street" and "Guest in the House."

Miss Nita West is directing the play which now lacks only two weeks until production.

Dr. J. D. Buchanan Is Vesper Speaker

The Reverend Doctor J. Dales Buchanan, instructor of Bible, will be the speaker at the Vesper service on Sunday night, November 10. The All-Girls' Choir, under the direction of Mr. William Curtis Hughes will sing "Lift Thine Eyes" and "Give To My Restless Heart, O God."

The Reverend R. B. Crothers, of Maryville, was the speaker last week.

Council Approves Town Night Visits In Dorm Parlors

Half hour periods of visiting in dormitory parlors on Town Night upon returning from town or the recreation hall, were approved by the Student Council at its regular meeting last Wednesday. The plan was suggested through the combined efforts of a council committee and the Dean of Students. Initiated on a trial basis, its permanence will be determined by its effect on dormitory quiet.

Persons not having bought train tickets may do so at the ticket office of the Southern Railway Co. it was announced. The company has ample seating provisions in the eight coaches chartered by the council. 347 persons are scheduled to attend the Carson-Newman game in Jefferson City.

One violation of Town Night rules due to oversight was presented and the penalty applied.

The council meets every Wednesday at 9:00 in Thaw 212. All meetings are open unless otherwise designated.

Trials Slated For Varsity Debaters

Trials for the varsity debate squad will be held Wednesday, November 13. Twenty-one freshmen in the debate classes and eight upper-lassmen who were members of last year's debate team will participate in these trials.

Each entrant will have ten minutes for his debate. The classes will be divided for the contest with one-half of the class taking the affirmative and the other the negative side of the issue. Freshmen will debate against other freshmen in the trials and varsity members against others of their group.

Ten Will be Selected

The varsity team for this year will consist of ten people to be selected by the judges at the debate trials Wednesday. This varsity squad will paritcipate in intercollegiate tournaments next semester.

The subject for debate in the trials is "Resolved that labor should be given a direct share in the management of industry." This topic will be debated by both the freshmen and upper-classmen who enter the trials.

Judges for the debates have not been announced.

The trials will begin on Wednesday afternoon.

Fans Chew Fingernails, Pull Hair, Suffer Broken Ribs—Enjoy Game

By GUGGER and HOFFMAN

Wen went to all the pep meetings, saw the band practice, saw the football players scrimmage. We thought we were ready for the big event. We put on our orange and maroon beanies, got some methyl orange from the lab and dyed our last pair of white sox.

We're in line shortly after supper—no comment—maybe no food to comment on. We spent the next half hour in getting from the bookstore to the stalls; in the meantime people slapped us on the back, stepped all over our orange sox, knocked our beanies over one eye(maybe both, all we can remember is seeing stars.) Finally we're pushed through the stall, our cards were punched making a total of 50 punches received thus far—however, only one was on our card, the other 49 were inflicted by the jubilant crowd.

"Glad to see you at the game, Frank." Ah—one seat, but maybe the two of us can squeeze in (It was a pretty big space and maybe we could inhale.)

"Pardon my ribs. Are they crushing your elbow?" We finally got ourselves seated. We stood up for the kickoff; we turned our head to watch the ball go sailing by and got a punch in the nose as someone handed some candy down about four rows. Believe us, the taste test for punch is better than the nose test.

At the first down we stood up. (Had to let the team know we were behind them.) Which reminds us when we went to sit down there was more than air between our bench and—well, anyhow, the team knew we were behind them. We complimented each other on our duet as our "Yeah team" echoed through the stands.

As the opponent started to reach our goal post we shouted "Hold that line!" Somebody must have thought we were the line 'cause someone grabbed us—it seems in our excitement we were trying to stand between the crack in the bleachers. As our four chins (you figure that one out) came up to the level of everyone elses' (well not quite; we're a little shorter than you lucky, lucky people), we again went through the ordeal of finding our two square inches of seating room.

Time is called: cheerleaders are waiting to lead us in a yell. The

On To Carson-Newman

Next Saturday we are going to take that trip over to Jefferson City to see our gridiron heroes do battle with the forces of Carson-Newman. Such a large number of the student body making arrangements to follow the team certainly shows fine school spirit; there is none better.

Likewise Maryville is noted for its fine spirit of sportsmanship. Our point here is that we want to be especially on guard at Carson-Newman to maintain that spirit; it would be so very easy to forget in such an enthusiastic crowd away from home, in the heat of the conflict.

"If you can keep your temper when all those about you are losing theirs. . ." If you can refrain from booing, when you feel definitely that the time is opportune for it. If you can refrain from cheering or showing pleasure over another's misfortune even though he be a foe and a dangerous one. . .

Then you will be a true son of Maryville, and all those about you will know it and admire you for it.

Just Being "Nosy"

By LORRAINE SWIFT

We kept a diary this past week, and, as our little brothers once told us, diaries were meant to be shared.

Friday, November 1—

Big night tonight. . .Flowers, flowers everywhere . . . Laverne Helton never would have been ready for that date with Rock if Jean Moore, Charlotte Laster, and Mary Maude Cunningham hadn't pitched in to help. Emily Letty's worries were over when she learned that Ray Kirby had ordered flowers to match a pink formal instead of a blue one. . . Did you see all those stags? Beninati, Dave Gulick, Mat Cardella. . . And how about Pennario's boogie-woogie?

Saturday, November 2—

Dr. Orr and Dr. Griffitts philosophized during the football game. Their conclusion was that the "only future for youth is old age" . . . Unlike most football crownings, Mitch failed to kiss Queen Jessie Brunson. Guess he decided that Brother Chuck and Boyfriends Lloyd together would outweight him . . . Harriet Perry did a good job of substituting for Mussy Henderson, and Bob Connell didn't disappoint the alumni. Band Sponsor Alma Lancaster looked pretty, too. . . Jean and Ruth Heaps were back in time for the game. . . Members of the crowd kept worrying about Pie Garner's late appearance. . . Sorry Lottie Lavender had to take off Nelson Forrester's corsage while leading yells.

Sunday, November3—

Corsages still floating around, reminders of Friday and Saturday nights. . . Dick Smilie said that after he had seen Jean Cobb's corsage for the football game (from Richardette) he wondered if she were the band sponsor. . . Liked Jean Hunter's remark in S.S. this morning that "too many people want to tell other people where to go and when" . . . The Knoxville Journal wants to know how the horse got in Carnegie Hallowe'en night. . . Other people want to know why Ralph shot at some student . . . Miss Mieselwitz told us of her "unique experience" of going down the bowling alley with the ball. . . Hap Brahams kept wishing Ralph would find him walking the town girl through the campus after Vespers.

Monday, November 4—

An evening spent in the library as far as we're concerned is an evening wasted. We're too observant of people, which fails to further the educational side of college life. Lorrie Nunn, with head on book, was using the process of oxnosis. Dan Long was waiting impatiently for Helen Sorrenson's arrival, while Rogerville, too, surveyed the tables hopefully. Dan Eveland nonchalantly read the Maryville Times, and Smitty, "per usual", draped himself over the library desk engaging Lil Conrad in a foolish conversation. Patient Jean Magill only wanted information about a book. Don Cummings, wearing a yellow shirt with black and pink suspenders, was unaware of the fact that George Hipkins was moving his lips as he read "silently". Laura Crawford, business-like behind the reading room card file watched the Darrell and decided that "love must be grand". Earnest Nelson Earnest studied earnestly in spite of the fact that Cork Montieth went tripping across the floor, breaking the already unnoticed silence. Kitty Johnson continued blinking her eyes at Don Barbour and embarrassed Ed Trundle stared politely in his book. Buddy Post, the intelligent type, sought refuge behind the row of New English Dictionaries.

Tuesday, November 5—

Professor Walker said in lab today that in his school days Maryville students didn't feel that they were supposed to go steady. . . Town Night tonight . . . Had a timely ad at the movie. . . The C&L was jammed will college kids afer the show . . Saw Marian Lewis, Bud Engel, Jean Blanchard, Howard Cameron, Betty Wyrick and Bob Hunter.

Wednesday, November 6—

Eleanor Hawley led the procession of late-comers down the aisle at chapel this morning. During the first song she, one of the Berrongs, Herzberger, Grosh, Miss Green and others all found their places. Evidently, none of them sat in Dr. Briggs' section, where three tardies means an absence. You never see Mary Smith or Seymour late. The hour of Mr. Lea's (sociology teacher) arrival was disgraceful! My! How the floor-boards did creak!

Thursday, November 7—

Learned that Superman isn't such a big guy after all. Ken Kribbs of this year out-does the Shirley Oshana of last year. He rings the college bell, waits a table, is business manager of the Chilhowean, is in Parish Project, writes for four newspapers, covers football write-ups for five schools, works at a restaurant, finally getting to bed about 2:00 o'clock every morning. He's studying for a part in a play, and we're told that he's enrolled here in college. . . Today makes three years of going steady for Grace Hildebrand and Bernard Welch . . . Bob Watkins made a good "Avaibiable Jones" . . . Eunie Billings, congratulate us on not printing what we overheard near your table in the dining hall tonight. . . Sorry we can't be the tool of revenge for one of Miller's victims. We found a pagan prayer. Miller stole the last half, so it will be finished next week.

I pray thee, make my column read,
And give me thus my daily bread;
Endow me, if thou grant me wit
Likewise with sense to mellow it.
Save me from feeling so much hate
My food will not asimilate
Open my eyes that I may see
The world with more of charity,
And lesson me in good intents
And make me friend of innocence.

"Over My Coke"

By BETTY HARTE

'Got to reading some '45 Echoes the other day and ran across some interesting material by Juanita Hinson, the editor that year. Quote:

"Over a century ago, when Tennessee was a part of the 'Great Southwest,' a young minister, Isaac Anderson opened a log 'academy' of which he was the sole professor. At the beginning of the civil war, the growing institution, which had moved to the Hill, had three buildings. The venture had established roots. Maryville College had already made strides. The school had many enthusiastic and generous friends interested in promoting education where their had been great need, but little opportunity. Students, too, were caught in the fire of this enthusiasm for the ideals and principals of the school.

"One night in February, 1877, three earnest young men discussed the problem of building character at college. From that session came plans for a campus Y.M.C.A. None of them had belonged to a Y.M. None of them had ever heard of a college 'Y', but they worked to establish one of the first such organizations in the world.

"To show his gratitude to the college and the church, a young Japanese graduate proposed in 1895, to secure a building to house Y.M. He supervised the making of bricks and solicited for funds; he worked two years on his project, watching the structure grow wall by wall.

"These men gave of themselves to their school.

* * * *

"Plans for a new swimming pool had for 20 years been discussed and considered and laid aside for more urgent needs, when the students took the matter in hand in 1915 and offered to raise $1500 of the necessary funds if the college would take over from there. The college would. The $1500 was somehow managed, and a swimming pool was added to the campus.

"They sacrificed for their school.

* * * *

"The college needed a paper, the students decided. The students decided and the students acted. The first edition of the Highland Echo was published November 4, 1916.

"Again they had achieved a goal, not for themselves, for their school.

* * * *

"In 1923, through the efforts of interested classmen, the first constitution of the student council was drawn up. Student-body members could now meet faculty members on the same ground, could discuss prevailing problems, could, together, work out solutions."

(Here I glanced over at an article by Tom Parkinson printed in the same issue—) ". . . it is the opinion of many persons that during most of those years following, the body did not accomplish much. In the past two years (now three) with added talk about Student government circulating, a new spirit has gotten into the council. . . The Council points with pride to, and takes full credit for, the institution of the Recreation Center. That undoubtedly is a worthwhile thing; no one argues that. And without the Council pushing it, it is quite conceivable that we would not have anything like what we do have, now or ever. Maryville College existed and prospered 125 years without a Social Center, and she could and perhaps would have gone another 100 the same. . . Town Night, too, is a fruit of Student Council effort. . . ")

"Long after we have gone from the Hill, the influence of our college generation will remain. We are determining that influence.

Say! Have You Met...

JOHN BAIRD

Lib Baird's brother is a dignified pre-med student? Anyway he's a pre-med student.

Not implying that John Stockton Baird is anything but the perfect gentleman at all times—but did you know the boy lettered in boxing at Tennessee Military Institute? And then there's the morning in Korea when the fellows were having a pillow fight in a room underneath the room of the principal of the boarding school. The principal came down to investigate, entering the room only to receive a stray blow on the head. We're not saying who dunnit, but—

Collectively considering John's two years at T.M.I. and final year in a regular high school, he participated in boxing, track, an operetta "My Maryland," the senior play "Our Town' and the school choir. (He's a tenor)

At Maryville, John is going out for track (cross country at present) and belongs to Athenian. (He's also going out for wolves' work! Speeling a line about being married, in the same breath he reveals his partiality to blondes, brunettes and red-heads.)

Having lived in Korea for approximately 11½ years, John has many interesting tales to relate about. . . . The scar on his face from a fight with a Korean. . . . Sitting on the floors in the Korean churches . . . . His dad preaching with three or four kids playing around his legs. . . . Acquaintanceship with a few fellows from the Japanese military school situated across from the mission compound . . . . and on into the night.

"Custer's last stand"—and John's first dates with his first major crush. He went to ask her for a date. But couldn't. As soon as he got home he telephoned while his dad teased him from the top of the stairs.

Obviously the freshmen have some faith in him however for he was appointed to their finance committee. To quote John, "You can tell I lead a pure and innocent life —just look at my kindly, benign face."

Be that as it may, his friends gave him a rattle for his birthday.

Alpha Sigma

The Alpha Sigs will hold a business meeting tonight in their meeting room at 6:45. Following the busniess meeting, a musical program will be held, announces Fred DePue, program chairman.

Bainonian-Athenian

Tonight the Bainonian and Athenian societies will have a joint meeting at the Voorhees chapel at 6:45 p.m. Virginia Miller and Tom Wheeler will give sentimental readings accompanied by Mr. Curtis Hughes on the organ.

Theta Epsilon

Theta will meet tonight at 6:15 in the Theta rooms. The program is to be a Freshman variety show consisting of acts by freshman Theta girls. Ginny Schwarz is in charge of the program.

Spanish Club

Spanish club will meet Thursday evening at 6:45. Nellie Cuelas and Mike Castro will present a program of Spanish records and will comment on dances from the Spanish countries.

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Bowl bids, Bowl bids—sun, gator, etc.—Well it makes good material for newspapers and campus conversation anyway. But the only bowl Head Coach L. S. Honaker has heard about is the Burley Bowl, and what he heard about that bowl was not a bid. It seems that the people who will be in the vicinity and may attend the Burley Bowl in Johnson City, Tenn. are not satisfield with the Smoky Mountain Conference Champions, Milligan College, as one of the contestants in the post season game. Milligan has lost two and tied one this season. Since Maryville has a much more impressive record, there are some who would like to have M. C. play Milligan to decide who will play in the Burley Bowl. This doesn't make sense to Coach Honaked who figures that even if the Scots should go undefeated through their regular season the law of averages is sure to catch up sometime and the proposed Milligan game would be just the right set-up for such. Besides that, bowl teams just aren't usually chosen that way, but rather on the basis of the team's record in its regular season games. As for playing Milligan on the 22nd of November, the date of the Tusculum game, Coach Honaker says, "I'll admit we're pretty good, but we can't start playing double-headers yet."

Knox Journal and Sentinal Ignore M. C.

It took the Scotties six straight wins to finally get a reasonable amount of publicity in either of the Knoxville papers. Sunday's sports section of the Journal had nothing about Maryville's homecoming game. The Sentinel carried a story of the game with a small headline on about page 8. The big headline on page 8 was about Oak Ridge High School, which hasn't won a game all year — in fact they havn't scored a point.

We were glad to see that the Maryville Times saw fit to give us plenty of publicity for the homecoming tilt. The people of Maryville will become more interested in us if they know more about us and the daily paper is probably the best way.

Merriman Too

Of course it's the team that wins the game and not the ability of any one player player, but we believe that Hershell Merriman, Scottie fullback weighing about 168 pounds, is about the best fullback in this vicinity. He is unquestionably better than any fullback the Scotties have played against this year. He runs low and hard and has an uncanny ability of finding the slightest hole which his teammates open up for him. He's our third candidate for the Little All-American team.

Scotties Point For Eagles

Some 348 train tickets have been sold already. Add that to a few more to be sold, plus the team, plus several private cars and you'll have about half the Maryville student body at Carson-Newman next week for the all-importon Scot-Eagle fracas. The Eagles are our arch-rivals and we'll be out to conquer them again. We will have some statistics on Scot-Eagle games of the past next week.

Army-Notre Dame

Army faces its toughest test of the last three years today against a powerful Irish team which boasts an almost unlimited supply of reserves. Army weak in reserves, still has its powerful first stringers, and we believe the Touchdown Twins, Davis and Blanchard, will be too much for Notre Dame for the third straight year. And Pennsylvania over Columbia, Vanderbilt over N. C. State, Tennessee over Mississippi, Alabama over L. S. U., Norhtwestern over Indiana, Arkansas over Rice, U.C.L.A. over Oregon, Georgia Tech over Navy, Georgia over Florida, and Maryville over Sewanee's Tigers. Season record: 35 right, 8 wrong, 1 tie—Average, 81%.

Undefeated Highlanders Engage Sewanee Today

Undefeated and untied in their six games this season the Scots left yesterday morning for Sewanee Tenn., where they will be playing for their seventh win, the game to begin this afternoon at 2:30. The "Football News', weekly paper predicting games over the nation has established the Scotties as a 14-point favorite.

Sewanee has only played three games this season winning only one, which was a victory over Hendrix College at Conway, Ark. last week 25-0. Previously they lost to Mississippi College 20-6 and Presbyterian College 12-7. Sewanee will have the advantage of having scouted the Scotties twice whereas the Scots have not seen any of Sewanee's games. It is expected that they will use the Tennessee system since their coach, W. C. White, was an assistant at the University of Tennessee last year.

Garner Ready

Maryville's first string center, Pie Garner will be okay for today's game. He had to be carried from the field in the third quarter of the Middle Tenn. State game with an injured leg. Holsey completed the game at center playing well. The Scotties held their last practice here as they practiced in the rain Thursday afternoon. They were scheduled to have a light work out yesterday afternoon after reaching Sewanee. Ken Talbot is still out of the lineup because of the broken collar bone received in the E. T. State game. Otherwise the Highlander starting lineup will be the same, with Still playing the end position left vacant by Talbot.

Maryville's probable starting line up is as follows:

Still	LE
Kluth	LT
Proffitt	LG
Garner	C
Easter	RG
Mitchell (capt.)	RT
Davis	RE
K. Berrong	QB
Pepper	WB
L. Berrong	TB
Merriman	FB

Scots Deal Defeat To Strong M.T.S.

Merriman Scores Two Touchdowns

Led by consistently good line play which the Scottie backfield has been blessed with all season Maryville fought its way to a 20-6 victory over the Middle Tennessee State eleven here last Saturday in the Scots' homecoming game. The outstanding factor on the Highlanders' line play was the recovery of three State fumbles by Lloyd Anderson, a Scot substitute guard. Anderson's first two recoveries set up Maryville's first two touchdowns.

Scots Fumble Twice

The Scotties got off to a bad start on the first play of the game when Leon Berrong fumbled the ball on the M.C. 42 and the Raiders fell on it. The Highlanders got the ball again after State failed to make a first down and kicked on fourth down out of bounds on the M. C. 31. After rolling up three straight first downs advancing to the State 34 Merriman fumbled and M.T.S. again recovered. The first quarter ended without a score

Anderson Recovers

State took the ball on their own 30 to begin the second quarter as Enloe kicked the ball out of bounds On their first play Anderson broke through the Raider line to break up the hand-off play and cover the fumble which resulted from his immediate presence in the Raider's backfield. Taking the ball on the 25 the Scots proceeded to push over their first score of the night. Pepper was stopped at the line of scrimmage on a reverse. Merriman then crashed through to the 19 and then to the 16 just short of the first down. Then on fourth down Merriman flashed through left tackle, cut back to the right still running hard and went over standing up for the counter. Honaker's kick was good.

Merriman Scores Again

Again late in the second quarter it was the combination of Anderson's recovery of a Raider miscue and Merriman's charging gave the Scotties the score. Andy recovered on the 20. Berrong reached the 10, then the 8, and was stopped cold at the 8. Merriman came in from the sidelines and on his first try streaked off right tackle for his second score of the quarter. Honaker's kick was good and M. course was 16:4.

Coach Mehl was not only proud of his team's win but was also pleased with the fine attendance and spirit displayed by the student body. In connection with this large turnout, Coach Mehl remarked that "the result of the meet was in part due to the excellent student response."

Maryville's greatest weakness in last Saturday's meet lay in the lack of a "fifth" man. However, this situation is expected to be remidied before their next encounter with U-T, which will be held in Knoxville on the 23rd of November.

Maryville Defeats University of Tenn. Cross Country Team

Paced by the consistant running of Scott, Gillette, and Downey, the M-C cross-country team defeated the U-T tracksters by a 25-32 count before a huge crowd here Saturday morning.

The entire race was "nip and tuck" with the Tennesseans leading upto the final ½ mile; at which point the Highlanders took command and went on to score the first three places.

Tom Scott was the outstanding performer of the morning in finishing a considerable distance before the remaining 20 contestants. Scott's time for the 3½ mile

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By BRICK BRAHAMS

It was decided yesterday that the touch football championship game between the Echo Printz and the Misfits which was rained out Thursday night will be played on Wilson Field Monday afternoon at 3:30. Both teams are undefeated and winners in their respective leagues.

Final standings in the Intramural touch football leagues.

Orange League	W	L	Pct.
Echo Printz	12	0	.1000
Ministerials	6	6	.500
Alpha Sigma	5	7	.417
Athenian	1	11	.083
Garnet League	W	L	Pct.
Misfits	12	0	.1000
Bartlett	5	7	.417
Marauders	4	8	.333
Choir	3	9	.250

The Echo Printz came thru with another win over Alpha Sigma, 13-0 to remain undefeated and untied. The Printz in taking the Orange League crown piled of 339 points to six for their opponents. The Misfits also won a makeup game to take the top spot in the Garnet League with no losses. They garnered 318 points to the opposition's 26. The Ministerials and the Marauders won the other two makeup games to take second and third respectively in their leagues. The Ministerials probably were the most improved team in the Orange League as they finishd fast to nose out the Alpha Sigs for second place

All Star Teams Chosen

This week's all-star touch football teams were chosen to represent the Garnet and Orange Leagues in an all star game to be held next Thursday nite at 7:00 p.m. under the light on Wilson Field. Each team picked an all-opponent team and it was from these votes that the all-star teams were picked. As would seem logical, the Misfits placed four out of eight on the Garnet League team. However, in the Orange League it was a little different as the Printz placed three. Bartlett placed two in the Garnet League, while the Ministerials, runner-up in the Orange League placed three. The teams will have two or three practices as a unit and have as their captains, Don Cummings for the Orange League and McClure for the Garnet League representatives. The referees will be Brand, Easter and Mitch, as in the Championship game.

Following are the rosters of the All-Star teams.

Garnet League	Team
Schwartzback	Bartlett
Long	Misfits
Ezell	Misfits
Meineke	Misfits
McClure	Choir

part, he claims that it doesn't look like Abner. All his characters' names are usually two-word character-sketches of the persons. Moonbeam McSwine, for instance. Moonbeam, because there is nothing more beautiful and McSwine because she is filthy. When asked where he got some of his ideas for the figures of some of his women, Capp replied, "Research! Things I've seen or wish I could have." He also assures us that he has never seen any one that looked like Tobacco Rhoda. Available Jones was created because he always wanted to have someone handy like that around.

Hates Turnips

When trying to conceive some delicacy for Pappy Yokum, he finally hit upon turnips, mainly because as a child he hated them since they were always being forced down his throat.

And having decided upon turnips as the delicacy, he could think of nothing more pointless than to preserve them. However, rarely does a week go by without having some thoughful housewife send him a jar of preserved turnips, asking him how he likes them. So he sends out these hypocritical letters thanking them for something he thoroughly despises. Incidentally he says, "it tastes like old rubber boots."

Made It Up

There is no real Dog Patch after which he patterned his Dog Patch and therefore any thing that is in the strip about the place is authentic since Capp originated Dog Patch exclusively. The language, too, is his own but occasionally even though he knows Dog Patch by heart, he admits that he contradicts himself.

Lena the Hyena

Lena the Hyena was created because Capp had to get much of his work done ahead of time in order to go to England, and so he hit upon the idea of this horrible character who was so ghastly that people turned old at the sight of her. He never felt he could draw anything to match the horror that he had described and so upon his return from England, the contest was held with Boris Karloff, Frank Sinatra and Salvidore Dali ("men acquanited with horror") as the judges. Capp thinks that in this contest they chose the loser rather than the winner.

The people Capp slanders are usually his friends and most of the time he gets their permission before he goes ahead with it. He didn't, however, in the case of "Gone With the Wind" and soon had the choice of a 76 million dollar suit on his hands or a public apology in his strip. He chose the latter, but Mammy and Pappy Yokum upheld his honor for him by talking thereafter about people who got their feelings hurt easily. Capp states that "People are usually proud to be made fun of in a wierd sort of way. And the nice thing about it is that public figures make such good cartoons."

After he left the studio at 4:45 p.m., Al Capp had three engagements from 6:30 on that night, and already his nerves were beginning to feel the strain for he smoked one cigarette right after the other.

will be ten men on each squad, and at a later date the number which will compete in a game will be announced. The present football teams may play as a team in a volleyball league, but other teams may organize and it is not necessary for the present football teams to stay together. Leagues and schedules will be posted at a later date. All entries should be turned into the Intramural office by the person who intends to manage the team.

whispers we heard reminded us that some people yelled as if they had an alma that didn't mater.

We were in a crucial spot. Only 50 yards to go and our opponents would get a touchdown. Some eager beaver grabbed our hand and wanted to know if he could bite our nails as his were all gone. Now we're looking for gum to chew.

Well, there was more or less yelling at the game. We more, others less. We for amusement and for the others, amazement. For us, we like to yell at a football game. We think it's a lot more fun that way. If we bother you, there are two solutions: Knock us out or yell along with us. If you knock us out our voices will be saved for recitation in classes (We're just kidding, Profs); if you yell you won't hear us.

We advise you to yell though—less energy—as we're hard nuts to crack.

Scots Deal Defeat . . .

C. led 14-0 at the half.

Each Score in Fourth

About midway through the fourth quarter the Raiders scored on a 59-yard march from their 41. The score came as Stagg took a pass from Burkett on the M. C. 15 and eluded Scottie tacklers the remaining distance to the goal line. Then B. Burkett of the Raiders missed the try for extra point. It was his first miss after 15 straight conversions.

With about three minutes left to play the Highlanders took the ball on the kick-off and drove 72 yards for their final score. The drive appeared to bog down on the State 10-yard line, but on third down the Scots came out of the huddle with their offense deployed to the right. The pass from center to tailback Berrong was followed by his pass to Pepper who had slipped into the clear out to the left over the goal. Honaker's kick was wide. Final score: M. C. 20—M. T. S. 6.

Statistics for the game:

	M.C.	M.T.S.
First downs	9	11
Yards rushing	257	130
Av. distance kicking	33	36
Passes attempted	5	14
Passes completed	2	5
Passes intercepted	1	0

VOLUME 32 — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, NOVEMBER 18, 1946 — NUMBER 11

Highlanders Wallop C-N 33 to 7

Soloists Named For Messiah

Mr. Vine Selects Eight Vocalists

The 14th annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" here at the college will take place December 15 in Voorhees Chapel. Mr. Richard W. Vine, who will direct the performance, recently announced this year's soloists.

The soprano soloists are Margaret Howell, Elizabeth Hall and Rella Anderson. All are junior voice majors. Miss Howell and Miss Anderson are both from Maryville, and Miss Hall is from North Carolina.

Barbara Blair and Catherine Franklin are the contralto soloists. Miss Blair is a junior voice major and Miss Franklin is a religious education major. Both are from Knoxville.

Three Men

Tenor soloist is Owen McGarity, senior Pre-Ministerial who will graduate at Christmas. Bass soloist is Jay Bishop, junior Philosophy major from Detroit. Robert Barlow, sophomore voice major from Bridgehill, Pennsylvania, is baritone soloist.

Chorus Numbers 215

Miss Katherine Davies will be organist and Miss Dorothy Horne, concert mistress, Miss Garnet Manges, a Maryville musician, will be pianist for the tenth year. Mr. Curtis Hughes will be cellist. This year's chorus totals 215 members, composed of 81 sopranos, 61 altos, 27 tenors and 46 basses. The Vesper Choir and the Girl's Glee Club are both required to participate. The rest of the chorus is made up of interested students and town people. The oratorio will be accompanied by the Maryville College orchestra which has 48 members.

Disc Club Observes Tenth Anniversary

The 10th anniversary of the Disc Club will be observed on Friday, November 22, 1946, in the philosophy class room in Thaw Hall at 6:45 p.m. The commentator is undecided but the program is to be a special treat using "The Nutcracker's Suite" as the theme.

The present Maryville College Disc Club had its first meeting at the home of Miss Katherine Davies in November, 1936. The faculty advisers were Dr. R. S. Collins and Miss Katherine Davies. This nucleus of the present Disc Club laid the foundation for the future Disc Clubs to come. The plan for conducting programs was (1) Symphonies and operas might be played with a few minutes of explanation made for the important themes (2) An operettic study might be made of the Metropolitan Operas being broadcast at the time (3) Three meetings might be devoted to these operas alone; ten minutes of each being given to the explanation of the opera to be broadcast.

Each year a chairman and program committee have been selected and the program for the coming year planned with a definite place for meetings selected.

Largest Number of Students Come From Tenn., Penn., and New Jersey

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Two and a half years ago in his welcoming address to freshmen, Dr. Lloyd remarked that in ordinary times the Maryville student body had represented as many as 45 out of 48 states in the Union. To that incoming class—now brilliant juniors—his statement seemed unbelievable, for it was difficult to find people from more than 25 states during that wartime year. This year, however, the effects of reconversion to ordinary conditions is plainly shown in the list of states the Personnel Office has made. Beginning with Alabama, the alphabetical list goes through Wisconsin, with a total of 37 states. In addition, there are representatives of four foreign countries.

As would be expected, Tennessee claims the largest number of the 833 members of the student body. This home state of Maryville College has sent 303 of its students to the College—granting that a few others might be attending U-T. First place in the opposite direction is shared by seven states, each with only one representative; they are Margaret Rock from Weiser, Idaho; Jeanette Wemmer from Princeton, Kansas; Helen Wedell from Fierro, New Mexico; Chester Phillips from Fargo, North Dakota; Lorraine Swift from Tulsa, Oklahoma; Jean Burke from Greenwood, Rhode Island, and Wayne McAffee from Mobridge, South Dakota.

Pennsylvania Second

Pennsylvania has sent the second highest number of students, 98, while New Jersey ranks third with 56. Florida and New York run a close fourth and fifth place, with 44 and 41, respectively.

Bill Nish, freshman, and Lil Conrad, junior, are the only two from Louisiana, while Marjorie and Katherine Theda dared to venture far from the state of Washington.

Six from California

It is surprising that as many as six students travelled all the way from California. Geneva Jo Robertson, senior, is the only girl from that state. The five boys are Harry Brahams, freshman; Raymond Brahams, sophomore; Jack Verity, freshman; Curtis Barnett, freshman, and Robert Butts, junior

Students from other states number as follows: Alabama, 26; Arkansas, 5; Connecticutt, 4; Delaware, 3; District of Columbia, 9; Georgia, 20; Illinois, 26; Indiana, 3; Iowa, 3; Kentucky, 20; Maryland, 23; Massachusetts, 3; Michigan, 10; Mississippi, 10; Missouri, 8; North Carolina, 34; Ohio, 29; South Carolina, 3; Texas, 4; Virginia, 15; West Virginia, 6; Wisconsin, 5.

The four foreign countries are represented by Evelyn Anderson and Lloyd Anderson, Belgian Congo; Craig Fisher, Iran; Nellie Cuellas, Puerto Rico, and Miguel Castro, Peru.

STUDENT RECITAL SET FOR TOMORROW

Tomorrow at 4:30 p.m., students of the Fine Arts Department will present a program consisting of piano, voice, organ and violin numbers. Eighteen students will take part.

Piano numbers will be played by Dan Miller, Charles Huffman, Sarah Durant, Dorothy Crowson, Eleanor Goetz and Bill Diehl.

A two-violin concerto will be played by Maurice Ottinger and Dorothy Stater, accompanied by Harry Merrill.

Alma Lancaster, Peggy Cummings and Helen Underwood will present organ numbers.

Voice students who will participate are Peggy Howell, Bob Barlow, Betty Hall, Jay Bishop, Barbara Blair, Rella Anderson and Ruth Ramsey.

On Tuesday, November 12, a similar recital was held in Voorhees Chapel, with 11 different participants providing vocal, piano violin and organ music for a good audience.

LaVonne Heard, violinist, accompanied by Dan Winter, played Canto Amoroso by Sammartine-Elman. Interno All' idol mio by Cesti was rendered by Gelolo Kell, accompanied by Jean Fell, and Janet Rich followed on the piano with Told at Sunset, Op. 51, by MacDowell. Mary Robarts then sang Non, je n'irai plus au Bois by Weckerlin, accompanied by Katherine Franklin. Bob Hunter followed this with The Lost Chord by Sullivan, accompanied by Raymond Babley. and Frances Ashby succeeded him with an organ number, Toccata and Fugue in D Minor by Bach. She was in turn followed by Paul Woodbury on the violin, Juanita Johnson accompanying, with Ave Maria, Bach-Gounod. Hamblen's Nightfall was then sung by Jean Fell, accompanied by Elinor Goretz. and as a highly applauded conclusion of the program, John Runion, pianist, performed Shostokovotch's Polka from "Golden Age Ballet".

Rev. Paul Martin Speaks Wednesday

Reverend Paul Martin, newly installed pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, will be the speaker at the Wednesday, November 20 chapel service. The Reverend Mr. Martin very recently took Rev. Mr. Hardin's place in the Broadway Methodist pulpit, from whence he will come to Voorhees Chapel to first become acquainted with the student body here.

Last Wednesday, Reverend Earle W. Crawford, Associate Pastor of the Knoxville Presbyterian Church, spoke on the profanity of Essau as applied to the present day. The Rev. Mr. Crawford is a graduate of Maryville College, Class of '35, of the Louisville Seminary and of the Princeton Seminary, where he received his M.A. He served as a chaplain during the war, and was installed this fall as Associate Pastor of Dr. Barbour's church in Knoxville.

Quoting an authority on the New Testament as calling Esau a profane man, meaning a man concerned wholly with secular things, irreverent and not recognizing the holy places of life, he went as a popular, happy-go-lucky extrovert, noted neither for his studiousness nor for his regard for money, a good leader but not amenable to discipline, a hearty, rugged man with a love for the out of doors and hatred for confinement.

He then went on to show that

Students Nominate Barnwarming King Queen, Sponsors

Ann Anderson, Lottie Lavender, Joan Liddel and Mary Margaret Robarts were nominated as candidates for the Barnwarming queen at the student body meeting following chapel last Wednesday, November 13. A secret ballot election was held immediately after the nomination, and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes will be the 1946-47 Barnwarming queen. The candidate receiving the second higest number of votes will be the senior class sponsor.

At the same meeting Bob Hunter and Howard Meineke, both seniors were chosen as nominees for king of Barnwarming.

Miss Anderson is an English major from Woodbridge, New Jersey; Miss Lavender, home-economics major, is from Washington College, Tennessee; Miss Liddell, from Washington, D. C., is an education major, and Miss Robarts is a sociology major from Miami, Florida. Hunter, physical education major, is a resident of Maryville. and Meineke is a biology major from Cincinnati, Ohio.

The sophomores met in Thaw Hall, nominating Marion Pope, dramatic art major from Etowah, Tennessee, and Betty Wyrick, Knoxville, for the class sponsorship Meeting in the chapel, the freshman class nominated Shirley Wells from Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania, and Carrol Kennette from Ridley Park, Pennsylvania.

The identity of the queen and sponsors will be revealed at Barnwarming, an annual Thanksgiving event held in the gym. Under the sponsorship of the Y.W.C.A., the theme of the evening is always kept secret, but it can best be described as similar to a school carnival. The gym is always gayly decorated with booths along the walls. Barnwarming is completed with a final program of Maryville talent.

Miss Ruth Broadhead, senior, and Miss Marion Montieth, junior were appointed to be in charge of the program. They began making plans before the close of the school year last spring, appointing committees, choosing a theme, and making other preparations.

Barnwarming is well-attended by Maryville residents, as well as college students. The money goes to the World Student Service Fund.

College Orchestra Presents Concert

Maryville College Symphony presented a concert last Friday night, November 15 in Voorhees Chapel at 8 p.m. A varied program was given which began with variations on the Alma Mater by Hall-Perine and arranged for the orchestra by Charles Huffman, a member of the orchestra. This was followed by "Rhapsody in Blue" by Gershwin with Marion Weiler as piano soloist. Miss Weiler played very well and was well supported by the clarinet and tympany. Following intermission, "Herswunden" by Grieg, "Huldigungsmarsch" also by Grieg from the "Orchestral Suite' from Sigurd Jorsalfer and Beethoven's "Symphony No. 4 in B flat major", "adagio and allergo vivace" were played.

Many persons in the audience noted a vast improvement of the orchestra over the past two years. The audience was estimated between four and five hundred.

Mr. Richard W. Vine is the conductor.

Hi Cost of Living Hits M-C Students

Board Bill Raised For Next Semester

The price of board will be increased $20 for next semester, Dean McClelland anounced today, thus making the cost of room and board raise from $135 to 145 depending upon the room occupied. Board for those living off the campus will be $110 for the semester.

The following comment was announced by the president's office: "The Faculty and Directors regret the necessity of increasing the price of room and board but the reasons for it are obvious. Living costs had risen greatly between the time the Catalog was published last spring and the time college opened in August, but it was hoped that in spite of this the college could make ends meet without raising the price. However, prices have continued to rise since August, spectacularly in the case of some foods, and it is now evident that in order to avoid an over-whelming deficit at the end of the year the price of board must be increased.

"This increase is not to provide any change in the meals served in the dining hall but solely to maintain the standards now followed; it will not enable the college to cover and deficit incurred this semester, but will merely allow the dining hall to come nearer 'breaking even' in the second semester."

M-C Band Parades At C-N College

Maryville College band performed at the Carson-Newman football game in Jefferson City Saturday, November 16. The complete band of 57 members, and Mr. Curtis Hughes, director, made the trip on the special football train.

The Maryville band had ten minutes of the half time at the game and used several maneuvers including the formamtion of "C N" and "M".

"We really appreciate the backing and the appreciation shown by the students," says Mr. Hughes. "This means a lot tothe band for if they know that the students are behind them, they don't mind working so hard to perfect their numbers and formations."

The trip to Jefferson City was the only trip the band has made this year.

One Victory Needed For Perfect Season as Scots Outclass Eagles

Urged on by the special trainload of rooters which followed them to Jefferson City, the Maryville College Highlanders romped to an easy victory over Carson-Newman Saturday afternoon 33-7. This leaves the Scots with only one more victory to attain before they can finish the season with an unbeaten and untied record for their nine games. The game was highlighted by Charlie Pepper's 92-yard runback of the second half kickoff for the Scotties fourth tuochdown. The Highlanders held the upper hand in every department of play in the traditionally hard-fought contest between these two arch rivals.

Merriman Shines

Scottie fullback, Hershell Merriman, scored the first six points of the game, and has now scored at least once in every game this far except in last week's nerve-racking game with Sewanee. Maryville won the toss and elected to kick since the field was damp from earlier rain and it was still sprinkling intermittenly. The first quarter rocked along without either team making much progess until late in the period when Leon Berrong took an Eagle punt on his own 30 and returned to his 40. Here the fireworks started as Merriman burst through left tackle and down the left sideline for 31 yards to the C-N 24. Three plays later Pepper had a Scot first down on the Eagle 6. Merriman piled over on fourth down after L. Berrong had carried to within an inch on the goal on third down. Honaker's kick was wide.

Davis Recovers Fumble

The second quarter had hardly begun when Davis, M-C lads end, fell on a C-N fumble on the C-N 27 thus setting up the next Scot score. In four plays the Scots had a first down on the 16. Four more and a first on the 3. On the next play Enloe passed wide to Pepper who gathered it in on the edge of the end zone. Honaker's kick was good and the score stoo at 13-0.

With the seconds to go in the half Bobby Neff came in at tailback for the Scots. He couldn't find a receiver on the first play and was thrown for a one-yard loss. His next pass was in the arms of wingback Benny Baldwin on the two and he stepped over for the score. Neff's kick was low. The half had ended and the score was 19-0.

Pepper Does It Again

Charlie "Goatlegs" Pepper took the second half kickoff on his own 8-yard line and was off on a 92-yard jaunt for his second long run in as many weeks. Last week it was for 70 yards on an intercepted pass. As he received the punt his teammates backed up and set for the charge. He went up midfield to his own 40, cut back to his right eluding tacklers as he followed his blockers well. End Alan Rock grounded the last Eagle on the C-N 40. Honaker's kick was good; Score—26-0.

Eagles Score on Pass

The Eagles lone tally came on a 15-yard pass which Jennings took on the M-C and then raced diagonally across the field for the TD. The conversion was good and C-N had done her do for the day.

Scots Drive 66 Yards

After Baldwin took the kick-off to his own 34 the M-C lads drove 66 yards in four plays for their final score. Davis took a pass on a sleeper play which was good for 31 yards to the Eagle 35. Following an incomplete pass Leon Berrong passed again this time to Pepper who was downed on the 7. Berrong then went wide around right end for the marker. Honaker's kick was good.

"Man Who Came To Dinner" Ready To Play Saturday Nite

With November 23 just around the corner, the Theta Alpha Phi production of the Broadway and Hollywood success, "The Man Who Came to Dinner", will go into its last week of rehearsals today.

The sensationally hilarious play, which touched off an atomic blast of raves from the critics, not only has been on the Great White Ways, but was also turned into a very celebrated Warner Brothers' movie with such well known stars as Bette Davis and Monty Wooley.

Max House, junior from Cato, N. Y., will portray the leading roll of Sheridan Whiteside, supported by Virginia Miller, senior from Kennet Square, Penna. as Maggie Cutler. Students will remember these two, who top the list of a cast whicth has participated in such past performances as Angel Street, Guest in the House, Pygmalion, Junior Miss, and numerous others.

Miss Nita West, director of the production, assures that it is "as funny as Arsenic and Old Lace, the perfect farce, and should bring a good laugh."

John Beninati, Glenn Knecht, Willis Pribble, Jim Leister, Fred Richardette, Bill Nish, Bill Anderson, Bill Cover, Earl Downey and Leonard Schieber have been assigned the final bit parts and the cast now stands complete.

Virginia Clabough, publicity manager, has announced that a few short skits will be presented at the Maryville and Alcoa High Schools a day or two before the play.

Stage Manager Dick Moore declared that "work is progressing very favorably and excellent cooperation has been given by all."

Singing by a choir will be included in the performance.

Fred Hope Drive Set For Nov. 27 Long History of Fund Related

November 27 has been set as the date for the Fred Hope Drive this year. This drive is held each year to raise money for the Fred Hope Fund for foreign missions. It is the one time in the year that the College holds such a campaign and is the only opportunity for the students and faculty as a college to contribute to such a fund.

This drive is one of the traditions of Maryville College. Its history goes back to 1900. in the Maryville College Monthly for January, 1901, there is published the YMCA president's report, in which he says that "through the efforts of Mr. Fred Hope, $50 have been raised by subscriptions from the factulty and students to support a native Christian missionary in China," and the YM treasurer's report in the same issue lists "Special subs. for Chinese native worker —$50." In the June, 1092 issue, in his report to the directors, President Wilson says in speaking of the YMCA, "I have for two years supported a native missionary in China at an expense of $50." The YM treasurer in his report lists $50.75 under the special heading "Mission Fund."

Dr. C. J. Gillingham, who is now retired and living in Maryville, recalls that in one of the years about this time, before the opening of the college in the fall, he, Fred Hope, and Fred Schell camped at Sheep Pen Cave and discussed YMCA matters. That was probably the first YM Retreat. Out of their talks came the idea that the YM should contribute regularly to foreign missions and an item of $50 for China was put in the budget.

The March, 1903 issue of the Maryville College Monthly quotes from a letter read at the joint missionary meeting of the two Christian Associations, Sunday, February 22nd. The letter was from R. W. Post, of the Class of 1899, who had "met and talked with the native worker whom the YMCA has been supporting for the past three years. In speaking of him he says in part: 'He has charge of a chapel near a ferry. Just across the river is a densely populated farming country, and the farmers must pass the chapel on their way to market. Miss Silver (a missionary) in that district tells the men and women that there is one of their own countrymen on their way to market who will tell them what Jesus did for him and what

VOLUME 32 NUMBER 11

If a time should come when you are inclined to belittle the work of the student council, if you find yourself about to growl something like "no good policemen", take time to think what body it was that made possible that mass pilgrimage to Carson-Newman. The student council is entirely responsible for that project. It conceived the idea and furnished the time and effort necessary to work out the plan—and a lot of work it was too.

Definitely another feature in the collective hat of the student council!

If you chance to hear anyone ignorant enough to "gripe" about the hike in our board bill next semester, be good enough to refer him to any of these veterans' wive who are shopping for their own groceries. Better yet, consult the vets themselves, the payers-of-the-bills.

We still don't see how Miss Ware and Co., manages to feed that size crowd at any price.

"Over My Coke"

By BETTY HARTE

Saturday-afternoon cokes breed many ideas. Especially when the day is brisk and cold, illuminated by a too bright light, and one is tired. . . .

Football! Puffing out the chest because we have a team that knows how to play WELL and HARD. . . Wondering what thoughts Big Mitch thinks as their team tries a new trick. . . Gloating over such players as Pepper and Garner. . . Touching the place where lungs used to be. . . before Merriman made his spectacular dashes through the ranks of the foe. . . Football! This is glory, win or lose.

. . . Visualising pompous, self-righteous persons and reminding myself that Christian ideology is based on love for all. Though "helping others" isn't all it's cracked up to be; still, selfish consideration—I tell my utter distaste—must go.

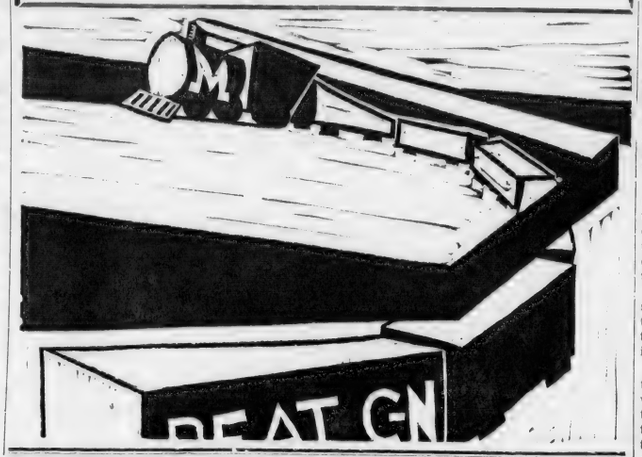
. . . . . Wishing the choirs would get together and give an operetta next year.

. . . . Remembering a non-student declaiming the excessive noise and shouting in the dining hall.

. . . . . Recalling Miss Johnson's words in systematics that "it is not good to repeat oneself by putting the idea into other words"; and hoping that folks, (especially preachers-to-be) will note that the general idea is not against clothing basic ideas in different words, but against repetition of obvious things.

. . . . Laughing at Ed Vanderslice's statement that girls are shy. That was Sadie Hawkins day. On other occasions, how many girls are bashful? Their mothers warned them about the wolves.

. . . . Humming, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas"—and trying to collect enough courage to go back to the dorm and study. . . . Dr. Briggs says morons don't need to study. . . most teachers say its the genius. . . . But I'll remember that when I take psych.



. . . . . Contemplating the unused balcony space in the bookstore, and wondering if it could be made into a small gift shop which could also handle books other than text-books.

. . . . Reiterating the student council report that ½ hour parlor privileges on Town Night, lasts only until 10:00.

Finally I sipped the last of the coke, pushed away my thoughts, and mustered up a smile—'cause Hays and her latest were headed my way to discuss weighty matters such as the friction caused by drinking a coke.

TALK OF THE WEEK . . .

By JEAN ALMY

Socks May Come and Socks May Go, But Mine Are Gone Forever

by ILDA MOSBY

"Where's my other red sock?" Anxious rummaging through the bureau and dresser drawers, in the jewel box, desk drawer, a dash downstairs and out to the laundry line, back to the room, and a quick look in the sewing box, and still no sock. A final desperate drawer plunge and then the realization that you just aren't going to find it. A quick switch from saddles to loafers so socks can be omitted, and the sound of the breakfast gong in your ears. A mad race to the dresser to comb your hair — still "up"—and guess what? Your red sock is dangling gracefully over your left ear.

Back from breakfast, you decide to exchange your red sweater and navy skirt for a pink dress. The chapel bell rings and you sort of pin yourself together and run wildly out of the dorm. As you trip forth from chapel, you hear two girls behind you murmuring something about "pink dress — red socks", and look around to see who the fashion unconscious is. S'funny, there doesn't seem to be one. Wonder who it was? She certainly must be a drip; even a moron wouldn't do a thing like that. On towards Thaw Jane comes by and compliments you on your dress. You rather like it yourself; it's such a pretty shade of pink—pink? Pink dress? Ohhh, no, it can't be. Well, then why don't you look at your feet? Not afraid, are you? Is anyone else looking? Good. A quick glance—it's true! YOU are wearing red socks—red socks and a pink dress! Oh, the agony of that first hour class. As though the red socks aren't enough, your face does a chameleon.

Second period, let's see, phys ed. Back to the dorm for a quick change to an orange gym suit and shoes. Three minutes to go, so you streak out the back door, across the lawn, past the book store and Fayerweather, and — no! You're still wearing red socks. Right about face; back across campus, in the building, up the back stairs, down to the far end of the hall—and you have no clean white socks. Well, maybe your roommate won't mind your borrowing her last clean pair. After all, there isn't much difference in the size of your feet. She wears an eight and you only wear a ten. "Clang, clang, clang," went the bell.

Two free periods before lunch should be sufficient time to rinse out a few pair of socks. And where might they be? Well, lets see. Socks—Oh, yes, there's the three pair under the bed, a pair in each pair of shoes, a couple behind the register, one on the doorknob, and, yes, several under the dresser. Twelve twenty-nine and the last drop of H2O has been squeezed from the last sock.

Just one more period and then freedom. (Still in roommate's white socks). Now would seem the ideal time to play some tennis. Hmm. Those wool socks aren't dry yet, but little water never hurt anyone. Five minutes till dinner and Roommate seems a little upset. Strange, she just glared and spake not a word when you told her where her socks were (the white ones). Very unfriendly of her.

Tis bed time and once again you search for seven socks for your hair. Roommate is still glaring. Oh, well, she'll get over it.

The bell, already? Ahh Choo! For sub undown readon your hed fields sliding stuffy. Now where did I pud dad sog?

Rev. Martin . . .

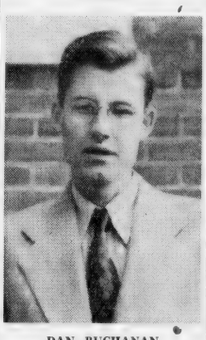
this materialism and self sufficiency led first of all to his being entirely earth-bound, incapable of communion with God. Also, it distorted his sense of values, and caused him to pursue the immediate and transitory pleasures in negligence of the eternal values. And finally it left him with an undisciplined life, untamed desires, an unharnessed temper, a childish lack of self control.



And so, concluded Rev. Mr. Crawford, when this Esau turns to his father pleading, "Hast thou not a blessing for me, even me, O Father?" the Father will answer, "Depart from me, O sinful man. I never knew thee."

William Seag's Art Being Displayed

An exhibition of opaque water colors, drawings, and commercial designs by William T. Seag, will be on display in the Elizabeth Goudy Baher Memorial Gallery from Monday, November 18, through Friday, November 29.

Mr. Seag is a progressive young Chicago artist who excells both in commercial art and in painting. He started his career as a cartoonist and advertising artist in Springfield, Illinois, where he obtained much practical background. During this period he attended the University of Illinois where he studied under LaForce Bailey, prominent water colorist. Later, upon moving to Chicago, Mr. Seag studied under Constatine Pongialis, famous Greek-American painter and instructor at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Say! Have You Met...

DAN BUCHANAN

Born in Osaka, Japan, Dan Buchanan arrived in the States with his missionary parents in 1941. Rumors have been flying that Dan is kin to Dr. J. D. Buchanan, Bible professor. However, this is not so. Dan's parents live in Bethesda, Maryland, where the senior Mr. Buchanan is connected with the State Department.

In high school, Dan participated in the glee club, several plays, and newspaper reporting. At one time he collected stamps as a hobby. Sailing and swimming are his favorite sports.

One sailing race in particular is memorable to Dan, not only because it was the first of the season, and he and his brother came in second—but also memorable because as they were docking, freinds were waving from the shore, the boys were exhilerated, and—SPLASH—Dan stepped off the gangplank into the water.

Majoring in History, Dan is a member of Athenian, Pre-Ministerials, Glee Club (He's a first tenor), Y.M. and Student Vols. He is uncertain what vocation he will enter although he is considering teaching and the missionary field.

For a few years between high school and college, Dan worked for the Department of Commerce and the office of International Trade in Washington as a clerk.

While vacationing in Ocean City one year Dan wrote home about visiting the jail. "Only VISITING though" he wrote. Several days later however, because of accusations of disturbing the peace, the whole boarding house full of boys was transported tothe jail.

Plastered walls and two-story houses are rather common in Japan according to Dan. Although the houses are very small and close together, modern heating equipment such as we know it is not in evidence. However the Japanese culture has employed for many generations the Hibachi. This is an urn or a pit in the open part of the room in which burning embers are kept at times.

Then too, collapsible walls may be a new trick in American interior decorating, but the Japanese have been using sliding doors to make one room two and vice versa, for a long time.

Dan has two sisters and one brother: Katherine, 20, a senior at Wellesly College in Massachustetts Margaret Ann, 17, a senior in Washington, D. C., and George, 24 in his third year as a medical student in John Hopkins.

YWCA PROGRAM GIVEN BY SOPHOMORE GIRLS

A group of sophomore girls presented the program at the meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Sunday afternoon.

The three speakers were: Barbara Eggleston, Eloise Gaston and Rita Ketcham. "Laying Our Foundation" was the subject taken by the three speakers.

Just Being "Nosy"

By JANET MILLER

No doubt you've been waiting with baited breath for this column since collaborator Swift stole and printed the first half of a poem last week. Can't be mean enough to keep you in suspense any longer, so—

Make me (sometimes, at least) discreet;
Help me to hide my self conceit;
And give me courage now and then
To be as dull as are most men,
And give me readers quick to see
When I am satirising ME.

We have finally found something that both the students and faculty seem to enjoy. Fritos, dear friends, is the answer. (and we're not getting paid for this space taken, either.) At least Miss Jackson, Miss Cowdrick and Miss Henry were happily munching them on Tuesday. On the same afternoon we heard Miss Henry enthusiastically humming snatches of Lohengrin's Wedding March. "And it isn't even Spring."

We've often heard the old adage, "A dog is man's best friend," but dogs can't talk sense when in need of help. Therefore, we've found a remedy. "Katie Carpenter is a gal's best friend." Ask the people who know.

Bowling has withdrawn his membership! (ask him for further information.) The only plausible reason is that it must be getting to cold to walk that far.

Last Wednesday night, Jean Blanchard really got mixed up while applying make-up. We can't figure out what was on her mind, but who ever heard of putting lipstick on the bottom of a nose?

People haven't heard much about Jim Torrey, Bill Fritz, or Jerry Collins, but they'll soon be enlightened. Tory lives too far from campus to get around much: Fritz collects hats rather like some women collect scalps; and Collins does and says the most unusual things.

Will the mince meat at Thanksgiving be spiked this year, we hope?

Mac looked rather lonesome the early part of this week without Faye Condry, who's been sick. These two met in the Marine Corps and Fay told Mac about Maryville, so it doesn't take much artistry to draw your own conclusion. Sadie Hawkin's Day brought quite a few things to mind: Mainly the fun Margie Newland and Art seemed to have had, then there was Ralph's bewilderment followed by retreat to destinations unknown but not unimagined, the air of expectancy caused by the fortune teller, and last but not least, "Li'l Abner, don't marry that gal."

The week-end also seemed to have definitely relieved the "dry spell" that some Carnegie-ites have been suffering from. Mommy, what's a hangover?

Tucky Thomas went to "Caintucky" this same week-end and that pink cloud she's beeen sporting doesn't come from home-cooking but it certainly is becoming.

Bea Siebold is being very secretive about these letters sh'e been writing and she even goes to town to mail them.

Eleanor Struble and Elaine Kern in Room 47 were nearly knocked out of bed the other evening by noisy "mice" on the other side of the wall.

The college station wagon really looks snappy, and Seymour has geen receiving many envious glances since the students have seen it. Why was the radio removed?

Glad to see Bob Dockendorf out of the hospital again.

Harriett Perry and Alan Rock, Edie Earle and Fred Kluth really took the short cut to their seats in the show Tuesday night. From the looks of thinks, they must have been practicing this act for years. Such grace and poise!

Chemical dangers are constantly lurking (especially if the partner is Dale Motsinger) and now there is a physical danger, too. Corks and Oranges have become animated and have a wicked aim when directed by Dave Gulick. Splat! Get your Orange-Crush here!

Bonny Mills and Nelson Forrester certainly did get acquainted in a big hurry. Wonder what the "Chicago Line" is?

Cookie seems to find time to knit her own sweaters along with her various other activities. Must be nice to have the time and talent!

There's no kind of transportation that Corky and Scotty didn't try on their journey around the country-side last week.

Paul Keller and Elsie Onifer have been seen together lately. Speaking of the Onifers, it's difficult to tell who will be wearing that rose sweater next, Elsie or Wanda?

The French Club almost had some very interesting decorations, contributed by Lorrie Nunn. Speaking of organizations, once a mason, always a mason. Once a week's enough.

Fred Hope . . .

he will do for them. Surely you have a right to feel that your money is well spent.'"

Dr. Gillingham recalls also that about 1911, at another YM Retreat at Sheep Pen Cave, which he attended this time as the faculty counsellor, it was decided to enlarge this appeal for foreign missions. Dr. H. E. Orr, then a student and an officer of the YM, made a speech in chapel presenting this proposition and several hundred dollars were raised. The next year Dr. Gillingham of the faculty made the presentation.

Sometime between Fred Hope's graduation in 1906, and 1911 the Fund was named for him and was designated for his work in Africa, and has been maintained in this way ever since. Last November, just a few weeks before his death, Fred Hope spoke in the chapel in connection with the Drive and told something of his work and of what the Maryville College gifts had meant through these years.

Students who have visited the museum in Thaw Hall have undoubtedly noticed the many gifts sent by Fred Hope. There are valuable elephant tusks, native speers, stuffed birds and animals and insects from Africa. In the Art Gallery in Anderson Hall is the beautiful table sent by Dr. Hope in 1945. It is made of Ovon, considered one of the finest woods in Africa.

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

(Foreward: It was necessary to write this column before the C-N game, so'if it sounds screwy you know the reason why.)

The Athletic Committee of the college met last Tuesday morning before chapel and decided for several good reasons not to accept the bid from the Burley Bowl to play Milligan on Thanksgiving Day. The football team indicated that it was in favor of the action taken. This does not mean that there are not other bowls to be filled, but the first task to be completed now is to BEAT CARSON-NEWMAN and Tusculum.

We Were Lucky

Although we still find it hard to believe, the Scotties did win from Sewanee last Saturday and are still undefeated and untied this season. As Coach Davis so aptly put it, "We were flatter than a flitter last week." Add to that a determined Sewanee ball club and then to that the luck of the Scottie squad and the result is the extremely close call we had in our seventh win.

After beating our brains(?) out trying to explain the Highlanders' poor showing last week we've finally figured it out.Sewanee, Tennessee, is 1,885 feet above sea level. Maryville is only 1,025 feet above the salt water. It takes water longer to boil at higher altitudes (or so they tell us). Conclusion: The Scotties just didn't have time to get hot up there on that mountain.

After Four Years—Still the Same

In this column of the Nov. 1, 1941 issue of the Echo, which was the last time we played Carson-Newman, the following words were written by Ted Pratt: "Perhaps one of the keenest and longest rivalries in this section of the South is our own Maryville-Carson Newman series. The Eagles and the Scots have been at it since 1905 when a heavy Highlander 11 steamrolled the helpless Eagles 45-0. But in recent years the contests have been intense and scores have been close. The 1941 edition of the Carson-Newman Eagles appears to be a potent power and the game tonight should be one of the best." The next issue of the paper revealed a 7-0 victory in that game for the Scotties in these words: "With only six minutes to go in the last quarter, (Oliver) Spears whipped a 30 yard pass to end Gordon Webb who pranced 30 yards more for the tally."

Maryville 14 — C-N 7

Of the 21 games played by these two teams the Scots hold a 14 to 7 edge in games won. There has never been a tie. Following is the record of those 21 games:

1905, M-C 45, C-N 0; 1913, M-C 3, C-N 17; 1914, M-C 0, C-N 3; 1915, M-C 99, C-N 0; 1918, M-C 12, C-N 0; 1921, M-C 5, C-N 0; 1924, M-C 7, C-N 10; 1926, M-C 10, C-N 6; 1927 M-C 26, C-N 0; 1928, M-C 18, C-N12; 1929, M-C 12, C-N 0; 1930, M-C 14, C-N 0; 1931, M-C 7, C-N 0; 1933, M-C 6, C-N 27; 1934, M-C 7, C-N 6; 1935, M-C 0, C-N 6; 1936, M-C 0, C-N 26; 1938, M-C7, C-N 0; 1939, M-C 19, C-N 6; 1940, M-C 13, C-N 27; and 1941, M-C 7, C-N 0. The total points of the games were; M-C 317, C-N 146.

Tennessee-Ga. Tech.

The University of Tennessee cross country team which was defeated by the Maryville team here on Nov. 2, journeyed to Georgia the following Saturday and dealt defeat to the Techsters by an overwhelming score. The winner of the Tenn-Tech meet came in sixth here.

Predictions—You Might Say

Maryville over Carson-Newman by 26-0, Army over Pennsylvania, Boston College over Tennessee (here we go again), Georgia over Auburn, Georgia Tech over Tulane, Wake Forest over North Carolina, U.C.L.A. over Montana, and Northwestern over Notre Dame.

Highlanders Take Sewanee 7-0 For 7th Straight Win

Pepper Runs 70 Yards With Interception To Eke Out Victory

Charlie Pepper and "Pie" Garner saved the day for the unbeaten Highlanders Saturday afternoon, Novmeber 9, as the Scots maintained their unblemished record with a 7-0 win over the University of the South. Late in the third period, with Sewanee driving down the field as they had done all afternon, Pepper intercepted one of Sewanee's Flowers' 18 passes on his own 30 yard line and dashed 70 yards down the right sideline for the score. "Pie" Garner made the score possible as he blocked one would-be tackler and screened off another on the Sewanee 40. Two other Tigers chased Charlie the remaining 40 yards, but their's was a losing race. Honaker's kick was good and the Scots managed to hold their lead through that and the final quarter.

Highlanders Outplayed

The Tigers held the upper hand throughout the entire contest except for the 8 to 10 seconds which were required for Pepper to make his dash to pay dirt. In the second quarter the Tigers recovered an M.C. fumble on the Scots 21. On first down they lost 7 yards to the 28. Then came three incomplete passes two of which dropped dangerously near the intended receivers in Maryville's end zone. The Scottie pass defense again proved equal to the situation as the half drew near and the Tigers drove deep into their territory to the 18. An incomplete pass, a ten yard loss and two more incomplete passes followed.

"Same Song, Second Verse"

The Scotties got a lecture during the half, but the Tigers must have gotten a lecture for they came back at the beginning of the third quarter to drive to the M.C. 5 yard line after returning the kickoff to their own 31. The line held here for two downs with the aid of a flying tackle by Pepper. Berrong kicked after trying the line on one play for no gain. Again Flowers started his passing attack. He missed again and this time Pepper got it and was gone for the score.

Sewanee wouldn't give up and as the game ended she was driving again for the Scottie zero line. At the sound of the final whistle they were on Maryville's 25 yard line on a drive that started on their own 20.

Statistics show that the Scotties were lucky to win:

	Sewanee	M.C.
First downs	7	5
Total yardage (net)	177	128
Passes attempted	18	5
Passes completed	7	3
Ave. dist. punting	38.4	28.4
Fumbles	1	2
Fumbles recovered	3	0
Penalties	20	35

The dress is worn, the man is gone.
But the old installments go on and on.

Basketball Game Scheduled Dec. 2

Although football still has the top spot, that time of the year when basketball is "the sport" of the time is quickly drawing near. Coach L. S. Honaker announced that Maryville will have its first basketball game here on the 2nd of December. The opposition will be furnished by Johnson Bible College which is just outside of Knoxville to the north. Following that Maryville will play Union Carbide of Oak Ridge, here on Dec. 7, Hiwassee here on Dec. 12 and Union Carbide there on Dec. 14. These games will be the only ones played before Christmas. The first game after vacation will probably be on January 16. These first four games should be very good ones and should given an indication of how the Scotties will fare in basketball this year. With three or four weeks of practice under their belts, the Scotties are beginning to round into shape. It would be very hard to even hazard a guess as to who will do the playing for Maryville this year, since the men out for football have not been out for practice yet. They will report after the last game on the 22 of November. Practice drills and light scrimmages have taken up the major portion of the practice sessions so far.

This should be one of Maryville's best basketball years if a conglomeration of lettermen, All-State players and new material mean anything.

MARYVILLE WOMEN PLAY VOLLEYBALL

In the intramural department of Women's sports, each class has been having inter-class volley ball tournaments. A picked team is to be selected by each class for the tournament which begins December 9, 1946. Recently some of Coach Mehl's classes have added swimming to their course.

Point system girls are practicing for the volley-ball tournament which begins November 19, 1946. Both the Chillies and the Howies are composed of two teams each which play first in order to eliminate two teams, leaving two teams to play for the championship. Three games will be played with the winner taking two out of three.

The captains and managers are as follows:

CHILLIES

Captains—E. J. Cotton and Barbara Berthoff.

Managers—Loretta Nunn and Lois Miller.

HOWIES

Captains—Jinny Wiest and Mary Jane Tedford.

Managers—Jane Witt and Barbara Wells.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By BRICK BRAHAMS

Misfits Win Touch Championship 7-6.

The mighty Misfits, Garnet League representatives in the Intramural Touch Football championship, edged out the Echo Printz of the Orange League on Tuesday afternoon 7-6. The winning point was made by John Mathis after the Misfits had scored. He booted a perfect point after touchdown that proved to be the winning point.

The Misfits received the kickoff and brought it back to the 30 where they began their offense. The first play was a long pass that was intercepted about mid-field by B. Brahams. The Echo then began to roll, but bogged down on the Misfit 18 yard line. After one running play, the Misfits pulled the best play of the game when they quick kicked to the Echo 10. The Printz, after two unsuccessful attempts to gain, moved into punt formation. Max House backed into and blocked H. Brahams kick and the Misfits took over on the Printz 18. After three downs the Misfits were still ten yards from pay dirt. On fourth down Mathis faded and with Printz coming in from every side, looped a pass into the end zone to Bill Long for six points. Some of the Printz thought that Mathis had been tagged before the ball was thrown but they made the error of not playing until the whistle blew. Mathis then stepped back and split the uprights for the extra point. The Printz threatened to score just before the close of the first half, but were stopped on the Misfits 15 yard line.

In the second half, the Echo began to roll with short passes to Tom Parkinson. They finally scored as Harvey Overton threw to Brick Brahams for the score. On the try for the extra point, Overton's pass was a little low and the score stood at 7-6. The rest of the second half was a more or less see-saw affair with neither team threatening to do much damage. The defensive line play of Cardella was especially good as he caught the Misfits for large losses at various times. For the Misfits, Ezell and Long were the best linemen, as they broke up Echo running plays and hurried the passers. The Printz made five first downs to the Misfits one on the statistic side. However, on the scoring side where it counted the Misfits had the edge. It was a very close game and showed how evenly matched both teams were. The Intramural Football season was a big success and a great deal of credit should go to Coach Mehl and his staff of managers who helped to make it that way.

GARNET LEAGUE ALL STARS WIN OVER ORANGE LEAGUE ALL STARS

On Thursday night under the lights on Wilson Field, the Garnet League All Stars won the All Star Touch Football game over a fighting Orange League team 13-9. The Orange League kicked off and the ball was returned about 10 yards. The Garnet team failed to gain and kicked out to the Orange 20. On the first play, the Garnets intercepted a pass and were set up for their first score. They scored on a pass from Mathis to Bob Hunter. Mathis then attempted a kick and seeing he couldn't get it away elected to run. He was stopped short of the goal and the score stood 6-0 in favor of the Garnet League team. The Orange team took the kickoff and after failing to make a great deal of yardage punted to the Garnet 15. From there the Garnet team finally punted but the punt was blocked Jernigan of the Garnet team and rolled back into the end zone. Bob Hunter fell on the ball giving the Orange team 2 points. The half ended shortly after this with no more scoring taking place. The Orange team got the ball on their own 20 after an exchange of punts. On the first play of the series they ran around the Orange right end and with good blocking went all the way with Mathis carrying the ball. The conversion pass was good and the score was 13-2. The Orange team, not to be denied, roared back after the kickoff and in successive plays went from their own 8 to the Garnet 30. The pass that netted the score was from Cardella to Parkinson who caught the ball just before going into the fence out of the end zone. A pass, Cardella to B. Brahams netted the extra point and the score was 13-9. In the last quarter the Orange team, inspired by their previous third quarter touchdown again marched deep into Garnet territory. The drive started on about the Orange ten and on a series of long and short passes to Brahams and Parkinson ended up on the Garnet 18. The Orange team finally connected on a blocked pass that was picked off by Martin who carried it to the 2. The play however, was called back as the referees ruled Cardella was tagged before passing the ball. Meineke intercepted a fourth down pass and brought the ball back to the Garnet 15. After three attempts the Garnet team punted and the game ended as the Orange team lined up for the next play. Again outstanding was the line play of Ezell for the Garnet team who kept the Orange team from circling his end. Bob Hunter did some nice punting for the Garnets to keep the Orange team bottled up. His brother in return got off some nice ones for the Orange team.

Cardella turned in a fine game for the Orange team on both offense and defense. The smaller Orange team fought hard and made it a much closer game than was expected. This makes a clean sweep of the championships for the Garnet League, as the Misfits won 7-6 and the Garnet League won 13-9.

Volleyball Starts Monday

On this coming Monday, Nov. 18, the Intramural Volleyball Leagues will get under way. Teams are now being chosen and there are sign-up sheets in Carnegie for those who are not yet on a team. These men will be told what teams to play on or will be picked by managers who do not yet have enough players for their squads. A poster explaining the rules for the number of players on a squad and the number of paritcipants that will play in each game is posted in the lobby of Pearsons Hall.

A beginners swimming class for upper-classmen will begin this afternoon in Bartlett pool. The schedule as announced by Coach Mehl will be as follows:

Women—Mondays and Wednesdays at 3:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Men—Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Classes for the freshmen will begin next semester.

I.R.C. to Hear Mr. Phillips Tonight

IRC meets tonight with Mr. S. W. Philips, assistant professor of economics at Maryville, speaking on "The New World Bank."

At a business meeting after the picnic last week, president Tom Horst reported that 45 students had subscribed to the classroom edition of Time. He said that the subscriptions would begin with the November 18th issue.

The club received a letter from Dr. Wesley Hoffman, professor of history at U-T, who spoke on atomic energy in our school last week. In his letter, Dr. Hoffman expressed his interest in the International Relations Club and stated his pleasure of speaking before the student body. He sent a gift of five dollars to promote the work of the IRC on the campus.

Amo Peridítus Species at Dusk—"What Beautiful Eyes You Have"

By KENNETH OLSEN

The Amo Perditus is a species of animal belonging to the Humanus family whose peculiar traits make them entirely different from any of the other families. A study of the species will reveal a large source of scientific phenomena.

The Amo Peridítus species appears to have the same general characteristics as the other members of the family but differs in reaction to forms of light.

Around dusk or a little after both the male and female of the species seem to become intoxicated with a new exurbance—especially if there is a full or harvest moon. Instead of basking in the moonlight as the turtle does in the sun, the Amo Peridítus hibernates in the darkest regions and begins moving slowly in circles. At this point the observers note that there appears to be two types classified by their tendency to murmur. One variety seems to make no sound while the other makes little noises sounding like: "My, what beautiful eyes you have!" "Mm, what soft hair you have!" or—"Oh! You wolf!"

N. W. Nolove, Ltllwh*, Lsmft* recently stated in his book Two More Yesterdays that the Amo Peridítus has many peculiarities which might not be explained without the L'Amour theory. He goes on to state, "The species is by no means rare. Every evening one can observe excellent examples strolling on the circle drive."

*Ltllwh—Let's take the long way home.

*Lsmft—Lucky stiff makes fine time.

TWELVE MAKE WHO'S WHO

"Atlantis" Theme For Barnwarming Program This Year

Barnwarming, annual Thanksgiving program and one of the highpoints of the first semester, will be presented in the Alumni Gymnasium Thursday, November 28. The theme this year is "Atlantis".

The doors will open at 7:30 p.m. From that time until 8:15 booths and refreshment stands will offer entertainment. The main show will start at 8:15.

Webster defines "Atlantis" as a traditional island in the west, beyond the Pillers of Hercules, mentioned by Plato, Pliny and other ancient writers, and said to have been sunk beneath the ocean by an earthquake. Its rediscovery, until this time, has been kept secret, but will be revealed in true Barnwarming fashion on Thanksgiving night. Emcee for the evening will be Ray Swartzback in what is intended to be a recognizable shape or form. Everything will be included from Davy Jones locker to mermaids who can't run away. The fish who did go astray will take the shape of Rush Lester.

The revealing of the queen, king and sponsors will as usual be the big event of the evening and will be done in a novel way in keeping with the theme of the evening.

Ruth Broadhead, senior political science major, and Marion Montieth, junior English major, are in charge of the entire program. Jayne Shouse, Earl Martin and Paul Yambert are planning the program. The rest of the preparations are in charge of the following committees.

Booths: Merrill Grubbe and Virginia Gress.

Decoration: Johnnie Johnson, Dick Moore and Belle Alverson.

Publicity: Jean Almy and Hedy Nabholtz.

Tickets: Virginia Thomas and Tom Wheeler.

Electricity and Labor: Leonard Shcieber, Bill Cover and Willis Pribble.

Costumes: Helen Sorenson, Mary Jane Blizzard, Mary Mills, Kitty Cooley, Mary Ruth Barber, Sara Bnice, Arline Whiting, Alverta Fink.

This is the first year for several years that the faculty has not taken part in the program.

Barnwarming is sponsored by Y.W.C.A. and all profits go to the World Student Service Fund.

National Field Sec'y To Speak at Vols

Student Vols will meet at the YW rooms at 8:00 p.m., after the Vesper Service, on Sunday night. Arthur Peterson, Maryville Alumnus who is now Field Secertary of the National Student Volunteer Association, will be the principal speaker. A large crowd is expected to hear Mr. Peterson. Everyone is cordially invited.

The devotional program will be led by Mil Castrodale. Special music will feature Dorothy Vawter, Sara Jo Kiger, Mary Barnwell and Virginia Wood in a French Horn Quartet number. This music was scheduled for last week's service but had to be cancelled due to the illness of one of the quartet.

Honor Climaxes College Careers Of M-C Students

Twelve of Maryville College's senior class have recently been notified of their election to the 1946-47 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges by the Who's Who editor in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. They are Lloyd Allen Anderson, Jessie Lou Brunson, Robert Cummins Dockendorf, William Ranck Grosh, Alma Lee Lancaster, Harvey Reed Overton Jr., Ralph Thomas Parkinson, John R. Shell Jayne Moss Shouse, Raymond Howard Swartzback, Mary Julia Turk and Frederick Russell Wilson.

Selection is based upon character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and poteniality for future usefulness to business and society. The method of selection differs with the college. At Maryville, students are nominated by the student council and the college faculty. After approval by the national office for the publication, each student is notified by letter of his election.

Lloyd Anderson, biology major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, was president of his freshman class president of the Athletic Association, secretary of Athenian, on the YM cabinet, the Student Council, the Student-Faculty, a member of the French and Pre-Medical Clubs. He lettered two years in wrestling. He left college for two and a half years to serve from January, 1944, to June, 1946, in the Navy. He plans to study medicine after graduation.

Jessie Lou Brunson, psychology major from Pine City, New York, is serving as president of the B.G.'s and of the Women's Student Government Association and on the Student Council, where she also served last year. She has been a member of the Vesper Choir for the past two years and of the orchestra for the past four. Miss Brunson was recently crowned Homecoming Queen for 1946. Last year she was treasurer for Bainonian and a May Day attendant. Although her plans for work after college are not definite, they will probably include teaching.

Bob Dockendorf, English major from Riverdale, Maryland, is a member of Athenian and has served as its treasurer one semester, of Ministerials and was its vice-president for one semester, of the YM cabinet for three years and its president for one year, of Student Volunteers and on its cabinet one year, of the Student Council for two years, of the Student-Faculty Senate for two years, the Social Committee for three years. He is a member of Writer's Workshop, has been on the honor roll, a May Day attendant, and a worker in the Parish Project. He plans to go into the ministry.

William Grosh, philosophy major from Maryville, is a member of the Ministerial Association, Athenian, and Writer's Workshop. He has participated in Parish Project, in dramatics, and was a member of the 1941 track team. He served from July, 1942, to November, 1945 in the Naval Air Corps as pilot of a carrier-based torpedo bomber. His plans for after college are to attend Union Theological Seminary in preparation for the Episcopal ministry.

Alma Lancaster, Bible and religious education major from Hendersonville, North Carolina, is sponsor of the band, a member of Writer's Workshop, of the Student Volunteer and YW cabinets and is secretary of Bainonian. For the last two years, she has served as co-chairman of the Girl's Choir and in Parish Project. Last year she was sponsor of the junior class. Miss Lancaster graduated from Montreat Junior College in 1945, after participating in many activities there. After graduation she plans to do work as a director of religious education, probably in a local church.

"Man Who Came To Dinner" Given Saturday

The curtain rose Sat. night at 8:15 when the Elizabeth R. Voorhees Chapel played host to a tremendous Broadway success, "The Man Who Came To Dinner", staged by Maryville College's Theta Alpha Phi dramatic society.

Max House in Stellar Role

The play which originates in modern times starred Max House enacting the striking role of Sheridan Whiteside, a man described as follows by John Anderson of the Journal-American: There has never been a character so full of the carbolic acid of kindness, no one with the enthusiasm, ruthless wit, disarming prejudice and relentless sentimentality of this man so carefully undisguised, as the hero of "The Man Who Came To Dinner."

Most of the hilarity which graces the scenes really emerges from this grouchy, outspoken "Man's" complicated situation.

Talent is Prevalent

The director of the production, Mrs. Nita West, who directed the first play to be presented at M-C, and has piled up success after successs in the following years described this cast as "the cream of the dramatic crop at Maryville College."

Talent bursts forth in untold quantities from the cast with, as an example, Virginia Miller portraying Maggie Cutler, who is Mr. Whiteside's secretary, a very business-like young woman of 30.

Then, there is Ray Swartzback as, Mr. Stanley, solid, substantial—the American businessman. It is in his home that the fateful accident occurs. Together with Lois Thomas who is Mrs. Stanley, a slightly fluttery, small town matron, they contribute greatly to the humorous complications.

Fred DePue as Bert Jefferson, an interesting young newspaperman and the winner of Maggies affection; plus Jean Balch in the role of Lorraine Sheldon, a glamorous actress who is a siren of no mean talents, provide, with the help of a star-studded supporting cast, that extra something which should seem to sum it up as an acknowledged success.

All of these performers have held the leading roles of past Maryvill hits.

The Plot

It is in a small, quiet Ohio town that the play opens. Sheridan Whiteside, a famous critic, wit, and radio orator slips and breaks his hip on the front steps of his hostess, at whose small town home he is lunching while on the annual lecture tour. The noted lecturer is forced to spend an unlimited stay at the home of his bewildered but secretly-joyed hostess. Then it happens. The grouchy, outspoken personality of this hero so completely affects the lives of each person in the house and every person with whom he comes in contact that it is difficult to decide who is the landlord and who is the boarder. Entagled events and laugh provoking situations are the result.

Public Well Informed

In an avid, advertising campaign, climaxed by a commercial jingle in Chapel Thursday morning, the publicity committee for "The Man Who Came To Dinner" hurled splashes of color and excitement into the already high tensioned campus with a bagful of posters, signs, and decorations. On the steps of various buildings can be seen numerous rhymes praising the merits of the play. Signs on trees, Burma-Shave style, arouse the interest of students galore, while Pearson's fairly bulges with decorational enticements.

Difficult Properties

Many differnet properties are to be procured by those in charge. Perhaps the oddest were an Egyptian mummy case and a pair of handcuffs. With no luck in picking up a stray mummy case around here, one was promptly ordered to be made. Leonard Scheiber and Bill Cover are the carpenters. The handcuffs were finally acquired.

Furniture to Come Saturday

The stage committee for the play announced that the furniture, which is usually donated for the performance by the downtown stores, would be here the afternoon of the play. When it has arrived, the committee will get to work immediately on the stage.

Taking part in the work of the stage committee are, Ruth Broadhead Elsie Onifer, Jessie Lou Brunson, Willis Pribble, Leonard Schieber and Charles Hildreth.

Cooperation Commended

Several of the people which take part in the presentation have boasted of the excellent cooperation by all concerned.

Mrs. West announced, "The cooperation between everyone is wonderful."

Dress rehearsals took place on Thursday and Friday nights.

Tickets went on sale in Pearson's lobby at lunch Thursday; the price is 45 cents. They were on sale at the door.

Garland, Wheeler Will Speak For Fred Hope Drive Wednesday

Miss June Garland and Tom Wheeler will be the speakers at the Chapel Service next Wednesday, November 27, opening the Fred Hope Drive. Harvey Overton, president of the Student Volunteers will preside.

A history of the fund was published in last week's ECHO with something about its purpose. It provides an opportunity for all those at the college to give something to others instead of constantly receiving from others. Miss Clemmie J. Henry is the faculty member in charge of the drive.

Last November when Dr. Hope was here, President Lloyd discussed with him the future of the fund. It will always be known as the Fred Hope Fund, but he agreed that the money should not always be sent to Africa. It will probably be rotated among the various mission fields. This year China has been chosen as the field, thus going back to where the first gifts were sent. No special object, such as the Frank James School in Elat, which for so many years received the fund, has been selected; but Miss Henry and the Student Volunteers committee hope that when Dr. Lloyd returns he will know of some special institution or project to which the fund can be given.

BALDWIN GIRLS PLAN TO BUY WASHER

Mildred Miller, chairman of Baldwin Hall, announced this week that plans are being formed to have a washing machine for that hall. A dollar will be collected from each girl and it is hoped that all will contribute so that the machine will be open to the entire house for use. It not, a schedule will have to be made out for only those who have contributed. The Maytag company has promised that if at all possible, Baldwin should receive one around December or January when the new shipment is expected The new machine will be an 18 gallon washer, very similar to that of Pearsons, with the wringer and it costs $97.50 meaning that at least 98 women in Baldwin will have to have a share in this new project in order for it to go through

Dr. Jarvis Cotten To Lead Vespers

Reverend Jarvis M. Cotten, D.D., a Maryville graduate, Class of '21, and father of Elsie Jean who is a member of the junior class will be the guest speaker at Vespers this Sunday. He spent Friday and Saturday interviewing students interested in the ministry, counseling them and advising them on their choice of seminary.

Dr. Cotten received his honorary D.D. from Washington and Jefferson University in 1945. Formerly a pastor in the Waverly Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh, he became Director of Field Work and Extension of the Western Theological Seminary, from which he graduated.

Big Day Planned For Thanksgiving

No Classes Slated For This Thursday

Maryville college students will turn thei rthoughts from the intellectual pursuits long enough to give thanks and enjoy a program of fun on Thanksgiving day. No classes will meet Thursday.

Returning to the traditional date this year, students are anticipating the holiday in the usual Maryville way.

Activities for the day will open with breakfast at 8:00 No prayer meeting will be held on campus again this year, but students are invited to join in the community service which is to be held at the First Baptist Church at 10:00 a.m.

Dinner will be at 1:00. The menu will consist of baked hen, dressing, gravy, mashed potatoes, peas, celery, olives, cranberry sauce, mincemeat pie, ice cream, rolls butter, and coffee.

There will be no evening meal in the dining hall, but students will be given a bag containing fruit and cookies to eat in their room, and all students may go to town until time for barnwarming.

Theatres and cafes in town are usually open on Thanksgiving day. The bookstore will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. and 5:00 to 5:30 p.m., and mail will be delivered as usual.

Barnwarming will be the closing event of the holiday.

Students are reminded of the rule concerning class absences for two days before and after the holiday.

Student Council

The main discussion at the meeting of student council last Wednesday night concerned the provisions of the new system of visiting in the dormitory parlors on town night. It was pointed out that students should not stand around outside the dormitories or on the dorm porches. Likewise students are urged not to stand around in Pearson's lobby.

The place for the half hour visiting period is in the dormitory parlors. It is up to the various couples to end the visit after the 30 minute period, and leave the dorms by 10:00 p.m. even though the visiting time has not run out. Cooperation is urged by the council to avoid unnecessary penalties.

No town night violations were reported by the council last week.

IRVING McARTHUR TO LEAD PRAYER MEETING WED.

Irving McArthur will lead the November 27 worship service of prayer meeting. His topic will be "Self-Control, A Fruit of the Spirit."

The service for November 20 was lead by Bill Grosh whose subject was "Meekness". Earl Martin led the singing and Alma Lancaster accompanied on the piano.

Bowl-Bound Scotties

In the paper the other day we noticed a syndicated story about a little college in the East, Thiel College, with one of the very few undefeated football teams in the nation. The gist of it was that they were in the market for a bowl bid; they want to show the cock-eyed athletic world that a small Christian college on a non-subsidization athletic policy can compete on even terms with squads from much larger schools with less Simon-pure policies.

We haven't heard of their getting a bowl bid yet, but ole Maryville College just about exactly fits that same description, and we have gotten the bowl bid—without asking for it in any way, too!

Unbeaten and untied—including victories over bigger schools and schools that do not mind paying their athletes. Maryville College can well be proud—and is proud—so very proud. It's a great team with a great spirit. The boys like to play football, and they go out there to fight clean and hard. . . and win.

Now the Highlanders are gonig to the Citrus Bowl—certainly a well earned trip and a nice one.

The entire school spirit has been great this year from cheerleaders on down. From what we hear the school spirit is yet to reach its peak—the band is doing all it can to work out a way to go to Orlando!

Here's hoping it does turn out to be possible—and here's hoping it is possible for many, many M-C students and followers to go along too. Every bit of enthusiasm and support helps.

Let's BEAT CATAWBA now and make it perfect!

Just Being "Nosy"

By LORRAINE SWIFT

You've already seen the pictures and story about those seniors chosen to be in the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges this year. We always have our own ideas of qualifications about such honors, and never select seniors to hold the positions. If we were making up this list we would choose:

Mavis Sykes—anyone who has ever been at one of our football games couldn't have missed "hearing" her. One spectator remarkqed that she certainly had a healthy pair of lungs. When Sykes is around silence may be golden, but it never reigns . . . BENEFITING

Smitty—one of the Smith boys, Bob, that is. He is known for his deceiving bashful appearance and his line a mile long. Girls never know—or do they? . . . THOSE

Grace Gugger and Naomi Hoffman—the mere mention of their names causes all sorts of comments. What one doesn't say the other one does. They share and share alike; what is Naomi's is Grace's and what is Grace's is also Naomi's; But they do take turns about studying for the weekly biology exams. .WHO

"Mitch" Mitchell—he not only attends Maryville and captains the football team; he's part of the institution. He swears on a stack of physics books that he came before Mr. Black, and he only sits in the sophomore section because he's a monitor. One year, so he claims, he was carrying fifteen hours, and by the end of the year he had overcut so much he owed the college seventeen . . . REQUESTED

Julie Panacoast and Footsie Housch—they have the key to the Rec Hall. In fact, Footsie says they own half the place. They are hostesses at the center every Tuesday night and will be until the middle of March. Their story is that they've seen all the movies, but the story behind the story is that the student coucil has kindly but firmly requested that they stay on campus every Tuesday night for four months . . . CARL

Bill Nish—the little guy "whut ain't" so small. He's the character who always has the wrong remark at the right time. Recently he was wondering if the football boys ever got to "see Wanny". Another time he was overheard saying, "I guess I can take this medicine for minor irritations since I'm under 21." To top it off, though, when the lights went out in the joint Bainonian-Athenian meeting Nish's shrieking voice rang out in motal fear, "Broadhead! Turn me loose!!" That red glow in the center of the crowd was a girl's embarrassed face, namely Ruth Broadhead's . . . BELL'S

Muriel Dickenson—her inclusion in this list is on the condition that our source of information is reliable. (Informant: Johnny Beninati). This freshman girl, so Johnny reports, had dates with four different fellows in one afternoon. That, he thought, was O.K., but she should have learned the name of at least one of them . . . ADDRESS

Tom Cecil—his utter disregard for all that goes on about him is amazing, to say the least. From all visible signs he walks, talks occasionally, and eats. It has been said, though, that he's a "good neighbor" . . . . ITS

Art Haaf—if for no other reason, because he always tips his hat when he speaks. Even if he doesn't have a hat on he goes through the motions . . . . ROUTE 8

Johnny Baird and Harold Hunter—we nominated them last Sunday night at Vespers. Johnny because he wanted to hold Harold's hand, Harold because he persistently jumped up at the first chord of the organ and managed to gaze impatiently at every other person in the chapel as if to say, "Well, you idjits, why don't you get up?" Both of them because they didn't keep a straight face for one single minute. . . MARYVILLE

Well, that completes our list. All of us would probably differ. But it's time to speak of other things now . . . Bill Dinges wants to offer a "thank-you" to Lawrence Major who always brings home the food after a week end trip home . . . Overheard Jean Cobb the other night, "Oh, those eyes," she was sighing. "They're so bloodshot!"

Noticed that the advertising committeee for the play have done a super job. . . George is here visiting Elaine Kern. Home is New Jersey . . . Someone was here to visit Jinny Peters a couple of weekends ago and he may be coming back. . . Keep wondering who the Barnwarming queen and sponsors will be . . . . The days are getting shorter now. Isn't it dark after supper? . . . Incidently, Don Barbour gave a hair-pulling demonstration in the ECHO ffice Thursday night while trying to make out the College Calendar for Friday of next week. Giving up he finally decided to say that there will be a circle drive promenade. This will be a special one, so everyone get you date ahead of time. . . Right now it's time for you all to get ready for the play.

"Over My Coke"

By BETTY HARTE

Nine or ten girls hustled into a drugstore booth and settled down to crushed ribs, many cokes, and an interesting conversation . . .

"Yeah Maryville! It hardly changes from year to year—especially the date situation," a sarcastic comment came flying.

'Oh, don't be so hard on the fellows," a mellow voice interspersed, "They're just bashful."

A cutting voice queried, "Since when is bashfullness a manly attribute?"

"My dad used to tell me the man is NATURALLY the pursuer," added a laughing voice.

Another dismally pointed out, "Evidently they don't even believe in friendship. . . "

The girl with the cynical twist to her eyebrow, caustically agreed, "You have something there kid. Either they're serious about their studies or they're serious about no one but gals whom they think they'd like to marry."

"Or else they're sitting back to see how many girls will chase them."

"Yeah! And do some of us lick their boots. Maybe they do need shining, but after all . . . "

"Sadie Hawkins day is okay once a year—but not as a habit."

Bitterness and a shade of irony colored the tones of one coed as she stated, "Boy are we suckers. Lots of us wouldn't date; we were waiting till the vets got back. We're still waiting."

'They're too eager for the girls to make the first advances," asserted another.

In fiery tones one girl objected, "Yes, and the girls are too eager to make them. I sympathise with the vets."

One or two murmured, "Tell us more, Miss Anthony."

"Well, it's only natural that the fellows will have a little adjusting to do," she went on. "They aren't used to college girls. They haven't got us sized up. Besides lots of them have girls back home; or else they want to make their college years count, intellectually speaking.

This statement served to arouse affirmative assertion, "Maybe you're right there. Another thing in their favor is the fact that some of them at least try to open doors, help put on coats, etc., but we're too quick. We aren't re-adjusted either. They have a lot to put up with."

"That's all well and good; but when they do date, why do they have to date one girl and only one girl? Why in the world don't they shop around?"

Murmurs of agreement rose from the group.

"That brings us back to the point of friendship again. Some of them act as if they thought girls wouldn't want to date them."

"That reminds me of X——. for the past three week, R—— has been screwing up courage to ask her to the play. The other day he got some friends to make sure she would be around after chapel. At the last minute, he lost his courage. He smiled as he walked past," a sorrowful voice related.

Righteous indignation welled up in the group.

They're the queerest bunch I've ever seen" was one bald statement.

"Maybe we're not Lana Turner's but we CAN be fun."

"I don't even want any Clark Gables. Just someone with a slight knowledge of the English language."

The girl with laughter in her voice wailed, "I feel neglected."

Blonde tossed her head, and said defiantly, "Well it makes me MAD.'

"Here drown your anger in the rest of my coke."

"Oh nuts."

"What's the matter—not bashful are you?"

The group burst into laughter and turned to more optimistic subjects, like Nylons.

TALK OF THE WEEK . . .

By JEAN ALMY

TUSCULUM THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER BARNWARMING

Age Of Alphabetical Abbreviations New Reaching Height of Glory

By HERBERT McCALLUM

This is the age of alphabetical abbreviations. Let me tell a story to illustrate exactly what I mean

One GI, who was drafted by the SSS, had to take orders from his CO. He went AWOL while in training and was put on K-rations for a week. Then he went to OCS. After being commissioned a 2nd lieutenant, he sailed for the ETO on an ACA; on D-day he landed in France on a LCI. While in France he drank coffee supplied by the USO and received the DSM for bravery under fire. Having been captured by the German, he became a POW. After being released on V-E day, he flew home with the AAF and landed in the USA on V-J day. The VFW got a new member; next the vet applied to the VA for his leave pay, which was sent to him in the USM via RFD from the PO.

P.S. He used his leave pay to go to Washington, D. C. to get a job with the OSRD, which is under the authority of the ACC.

The newspapers are always full of these abbreviations. You would be surprised to know how much they face you on the printed page. The fad is growing by leaps and bounds. In government circles the ABC agencies are the by-word of the administration.

A certain individual in Washington back in 1933 started a new alphabetical craze. He caused the RFC to be created which gave this certain FDR power to institutes the WPA and numerous other agencies unheard of before FDR's time. The NRA was an important act which the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional. Other agencies which have not been declared unconstitutional are the FHA, CCC, NYA, REA, TVA, FSA, ICC, AAC, and the FTC.

ABC agencies sprang up by the dozens during the war. Housewives are glad to hear the OPA is dying. The WPB, WMC OWM, OCD, and the OWI were dissolved soon after the fighting was over. Their jobs were taken over by the NLRB, CPA, BPD, WAA, and NWSB.

FDR had his troubles with his agencies. His successor, HST, has troubles too. The GOP is sending him a new set of Senators to the USS to help him solve these problems. The problems include difficulties arising from the actions of the UMW, CIO, AFL, CIO-PAC, the NAACP, and the KKK. The less important agencies of the government include the USES and the USED. The administration is faced with drastic reductions in the budgeta, which may cause funds to stop flowing so freely to such departments as the USDA, USDC, and the NHA.

The end of the war caused a few international ABC organizations. The USSR has had much friction with the UNO. The AMG is governing part of Germany now. The UNRRA is trying to prevent famine on the continent, while the ITO is trying to revive trade among the nations.

Of course, some alphabetical jumbles are most efficient such as ASPCA for the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. With the simple ASPCA you have said two or more mouthfuls of words with just one short breath.

We are not immune to alphabetical jingles here on the campus of M-C. We order our day according to EST, which was recently changed from EWT. A girls' organization is known by the letters BG. There's a MRS club started this year. On Sunday we go to YWCA or YMCA. We may meet with IRC on Monday. When we listen to the radio, we tune them to stations going by call numbers like WNOX, WBIR, or WROL. These respective stations are connected with the national networks, CBS, NBC, and ABC. Incidentally, all these networks and stations are under license from a board called FCC, whose members are slected through the CSC.

When the holidays roll around, some lucky people may fly home via AAL, EAL, TWA, or PCA. Thase going by rail may go on a L&N, GM&O, NYC, or a AT&SF train.

By the way, how's your IQ? Dr. Orr says HS is more important anyway.

Chilhowean Girl Elected by Staff

Miss Elsie Onifer, editor of the 1947 Chilhowean, announced that the Chilhowean Girl of the Year has recently been chosen by the yearbook editorial staff. Votes were cast by the three staff members, Miss Onifer, Miss Rebecca Maddux and Miss Lorraine Swift, and the unopened ballots were given to the faculty adviser, Dr. F. A. Griffitts, who announced the winner to the group.

Introduced in the feature section for the first time in last year's yearbook, the Chilhowean Girl of the Year is chosen from the standpoint of leadership, scholarship, character and service. Her identity is not revealed until the yearbooks are issued. The girl selected last year was Miss Olinde Ahrens, a senior philosophy major, who, in additiaon to other outstanding accomplishments, was one who, in addition to other out-of the present Student Government system.

Number of Pages Increased

The Chilhowean this year will have 156 pages, an increase of 25 pages over last year's yearbook, this being made possible by the enlargement of the student body and subsequent increase in the sale of books. Approximately 11 of these pages will be added to the feature section. Fifteen pages will be used for the athletic division, which includes women's and men's intramurals.

Scotties End Unbeaten Season With 41-0 Win; Accept Bid To Play Catawba In Citrus Bowl

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Maryville finished her regular season last night with its ninth consecutive victory to remain undefeated and untied. Here's the way the season progressed:

Sept 21	Maryville—33	Hiwassee—0
Sept 28	Maryville—14	Tenn. Wes.—0
Oct. 5	Maryville—19	Centre—0
Oct. 16	Maryville—25	E. T. State—2
Oct. 26	Maryville—19	Emory & Henry—6
Nov. 2	Maryville—20	M. T. State—6
Nov. 9	Maryville— 7	Sewanee—0
Nov. 16	Maryville—33	Carson-Newman—7
Nov. 22	Maryville—41	Tusculum—0
Totals	Maryville—211	Opponents—27

P. A. T. Percentage Goes Up

The point-after-touchdown artists of the Scots had their best night of the season last night in making five out of six trys. Four were booted between the uprights and another was carried across after the kick was blocked. The season's average on extra points was only 59 per cent.

The Scotties found the going easier while traveling south on Wilson Field this season. They crossed the south goal a total of 11 times while getting beyond the northern zero line only eight times. Extra points were eight for the south goal and five for the north. What puzzles us where does that leave the Mason and Dixon line?

Best M-C Passer Under Coach Honaker

"Shorty" McCall, a former Scottie in the early years of Coach Honaker's stay at M-C, was at the Scot "skull" practice session the other day after lunch and gave the team a short pep talk. "Shorty" is described by Coach as "the best passer and one of the best backfield men ever to play for Maryville College." "Shorty" is from Loudon, Tennessee, which is "Cotton" Easter's home. "Shorty" emphasized tath "I don't mean to be bragging, but what made me into a good football player was hard work. I used to be out on the field in the afternoon passing and punting just as soon as I could gulp down some food."

Catawba Was Here

There happened to be two scouts here from Catawba College last night looking over their opponent in the Citrus Bowl. They also happened to be in the same partition of the press box as this writer, and, believe me, they were having a terrible time keeping up with all the Scot substitutions and plays. They were complimentary of our team and amazed at the size of our Roy Smith.

M-C Was the Whole Show

In the Carson-Newman game Maryville provided the whole show. Besides winning the game by an overwhelming score, 33-7, the Scot Band put on the only show of the half-time. Maryville's cheering section is to be congratulated on its fine job, especially with the seating space provided for it. The Eagle playing field wasn't the best the Highlanders have played on this season, but we have no room to elaborate on that matter. The greatest amount of credit, however, goes to the Student Council committe which provided for the transportation.

Tomorrow's Papers Should Reveal . . .

Georgia over Chattanooga, Alabama over Boston College, Kentucky over Tennessee, Tulane over Notre Dame, Northwestern over Illinois, North Carolina over Duke, Mississippi State over Mississippi, and Southern California over U.C.L.A. On the Maryville-Tusculum we predicted a Scottie win by about 39-0. Season record—48 right, 13 wrong, and 2 ties. Average—79 per cent.

Tusculum Bows To Highlanders in One-Sided Game

Maryville's Citrus-Bowl-Bound Highlanders showed they were worthy of the honor last night in their final game of the season by routing the Tusculum College Pioneers 41-0. The game was played in "Lombe Bowl" which is more widely known as Wilson Field. Every player on the Scottie squad participated in the Scots highest scoring game of the season. Leon Berrong was the sparkplug of the Scottie attack running 45 and 64 yards for two scores and passing for another.

On the fourth play of the game after Maryville kicked off, "Pie" Garner blocked a Pioneer kick and his left end, Davis, scooped up the ball on the 20 and carried it over for the score. King Berrong booted the extra point.

Merriman Scores

Late in the first quarter the Scots made their second score as fullback Hershell Merriman shot through left tackle breaking away from tacklers hanging onto him and covered 32 yards for the counter. Honaker's kick was good and the score was 14-0. The Highlanders threatened twice in the second quarter, but were unable to score.

Berrong Lopes 45 Yards

Leon Berrong went off his own right tackle in the first play of the second half and coasted 45 yards unmolested for the next Scot score. Again Honaker's kick was good for a 21-0 score.

A few plays later the M-C lads were off again for a score after receiving a bad Pioneer kick on the Pioneer 40 and running it back to the 27. First Berrong passed to Pepper who ran into the end zone, but Still was offsides and the play was called back. On the next play the Scots started wide around right end; then Berrong stopped and whipped a pass across to the left side of the field which Honaker took on the 20 and carried over for the TD after neatly sidestepping a would-be tackler. His try for conversion went wide.

64-Yard Gallop

Still in the third quarter the Scots got the ball on their own 15 after intercepting a pass. They made it first down on the 29. Two downs moved the ball to the 36. Third down and again Leon Berrong was off on a touchdown jaunt. He was chased for the last 50 yards of the run, but all the chasers got from the chase was the exercise. They never reached Leon. King Berrong attempted the conversion. Th kick was blocked but Benny Baldwin picked up the ball and ran it over for the point. Score 34-0.

Enloe This Time

The final tally came early in the final quarter when the Scots drove to the Pioneer 22 and then Tailback Winton Enloe squirted through for th remaining distance to score. Honaker's kick was again good, and the final score read 41-0.

Satistics for the game:

Move Over and Make Room, Son, It's Father's Turn To Be Educated

By LESLIE WEBB

The pendulum appears to be on the back-swing these days, with children more and more being responsible for the education of adults than the time-honored vice-versa. It is entirely fitting that the scene of action should be set on the stage of that great reservoir of knowledge, the American college. The old saw about the boy of 18 thinking his dad was dumb and then being amazed, at 21, at the amount the old man had learned in three years, no longer holds. Our enlightened younger generation moves onto higher and brighter conquests in the college atmosphere.

To a stranger who wanders casually through, the college campus may resemble one of the better tenement districts, or perhaps a huge kindergarten. But when a child of four comes along and informs him that he is not allowed to trespass on the vegetations, and he gets the idea that the little darling (?) means keep off the grass, he begins to realize that a special case exists here and he finally remembers that daddies with families are going to college these days right along with the younger boys and girls.

As the child grows up, the problem presents its different aspects: Daddy comes in after a hard day in the classroom, and settles down for a quiet study period. His book flies out of his hand and thumps against the wall, from whence it falls to the floor. It isn't Johnny's fault. He was only playing war and that book was target for tonight.

The climax always comes the day before the big exam. When Daddy arrives home, intent on some feverish study he just may as well stop kidding himself and get ready to go to the dentist. Little Mary has a toothache and there won't be any rest for the wicked or the righteous either until she gets that tooth pulled. So Daddy just pulls his hair, if he has any left, and goes quietly insane.

Managers Meet

All intramural Managers will meet in the Intramural Office at 1 p.m. on Monday for their regular meeting. Please be prompt!

Conquering Scots Get Post-Season Game In Orlando

Maryville College has accepted a bid to play Catawba College of North Carolina in the Citrus Bowl in Orlando, Florida, in the first New Year's Classic in which the Scots have been invited to play. The Athletic Committee voted to accept the bid after they had recently rejected a bid to play in the Burley Bowl in Johnson City, Tennessee, on Thankagiving day. The game will b ethe climax of the Highlander's first undefeated untied season in her entire history of football under Coach L. S. Honaker. The 1941 Scottie football season was almost as successful as the present one, when they won eight and lost only one, that decision going to a strong King College eleven.

Catawba Has Good Record

The Catawba College Indians have had a successful season in spite of having lost two games. They opened their season with a 29-7 win over Cherry Point College. Then Virginia Military Institue stopped them with a 21-7 victory. Then followed five straight triumphs for the Indians over East Kentucky Teachers, 9-7, High Point College, 19-7, Wofford, 46-0, Appalachian, 28-6, and Elon College, 40-0. Presbyterian College then came through with a one-point victory over the Catawba eleven, 13-12. Newberry College then dropped a 6-0 decision to the Indians, and last Saturday while we were running through Carson-Newman the Cats were subduing Guilford, 28-0. Lenoir Rhyne will furnish the competition for the Indians in their last game on November 28.

Highlanders To Be Ready

Having finished their regular season with nine victories over Hiwassee, Tennessee Wesleyan, Centre, East Tennessee State, Emory and Henry, Middle Tennessee State, Sewanee, Carson-Newman and Tusculum, the Scotties will be ready for their initial bowl game. End Ken Talbot, who has been out since his collar bone was broken in the E. T. State game, will be available by game time. He has already started light work-outs.

After last night's game with the Pioneers the team is going to be off for a couple of weeks or more before they resume actual practice for the game. Their only work-out will be on their own to keep in shape. Some will be out for basketball and wrestling and will be able to stay in shape that way.

More than 12 years ago, the idea of a national publication recognizing outstanding students in American colleges was conceived. After several years of study and invesigation as to the need and possible use for such a publication, the first edition was compiled and printed for 1934-35. It then listed 250 colleges; it now lists 650.

The purpose of the volume is two-fold. First, it serves as an outstanding honor for students on the basis of merit and success in college; second, it establishes a reference volume of authoritative information on the large body of leading students in American Colleges.

This is the first time in several years that Maryville has had 12 representatives. During the war, she was allowed only eight, due to a greatly decreased enrollment.

Fire Causes More Than $6,000 Damage To Chapel

Not All Damage Included in Sum

Originating in the Dramatic Arts Studio at a point of faulty electric wiring and sweeping swiftly up into the attic, a fire on Thanksgiving night caused damage to Voorhees Chapel assessed at $6,000. This estimation did not include large amounts of damage to equipment belonging to the Dramatic and Music Departments and other breakage, caused chiefly by the haste and disorganization of their removal. This was the second such fire in three years in Voorhees chapel.

Students Aid Firemen

Within minutes after the alarm was given at 8:48 p.m. the Maryville Volunteer Fire Department was on the scene, and shortly afterward students returning from the Barnwarming swarmed to help man hoses, carry out pianos and other equipment, and otherwise help the firemen quench the fire.

The entire attic over the rear of the chapel was destroyed, the roof collapsed, and timbers seriously weakened. Water seeped through all the floors to the basement, badly damaging an organ, but spared the main organ and caused no other serious damage. In the basement extensive damage and loss was incurred by the misdirected salvage of music and equipment.

Defects Disclosed by Fire

According to several authorities the fire could be attributed to faulty wiring. Lack of heavy enough wire and proper insulation were the chief defects. Another factor was the lack of system in using the students to the best advantage.

It has been suggested that if the student body were assigned specific duties to perform in case of fires and the remainder retained as a cordon around the building, a future fire could be more readily controlled and damage reduced.

Mrs. F. W. Wallace Donates to Library

Mrs. Frances Wilson Wallace, of North Carolina, has donated to the library a nice collection of standard works of fiction. Mrs. Wallace was a recent visitor on the Maryville campus where six generations of her family went to school. Among novels not hitherto in the library were Bennett's Hilda Lessways, These Twain, Howell's A Chance Acquaintance, Holmes, The Guardian Angel, Smith Colonel Carter of Cartersville, Chekhov Nine Humorous Tales.

Among recently added books are a number on sports: Neumeyer Leisure and Recreation, Mitchell's Sports for Recreation, Laveaga's Volleyball, Frymir Team Sports for Women.

The Man in the Kitchen goes in for cooking-by-ear, as he calls it. He tucks the measuring spoons behind the clock and covers the face of the clock with any convenient dish towel. Here is a book that explains how the average man can cook painlessly and agreeably with every prospect of success. The running text constitutes a sly and mirth-provoking commentary on the American home.

Players To Give 3 Plays Friday

Program Postponed From November 8

Experimental Theatre will present the group of plays originally to be presented on November 8 on Friday, December 6 at 8 p.m. in Bartlett auditorium. Mrs. Curtis Highes will be in charge of production. The three plays to be presented are Nobody Sleeps, Printer's Ink and Four Portraits.

Nobody Sleeps is a comedy of pure nonsense concerning the troubles of a burglar named Spike. Spike stalks into the Busby house the hardest way—through a locked door. As a burglar he is a complete failure. Nobody Sleeps is the refreshing bit of nonsense with an ending that is quite surprising. Spike is played by Tom Eckert. Daisy, Ada and Glory, three sisters who get Spike very confused and overthrow his good works, are played by Betty Seagraves, Carol Hall and Alice Davenport, respectively. The part of their mother, who is very gushy and an author of mystery stories, is played by Maybell de Nagy.

Printer's Ink is the story of a conscientious newspaper editor who insists on printing the truth even if it does concern his own family. This truth loving managing editor is portrayed by Craig Fisher. Bob Watkins plays a reporter. The stupid new reporter is played by Everett Sykes. Betty Harte plays Mrs. Worton. The theme of the play can best be stated in the words of Weston when he says "I have to print it—print it straight. The news isn't mine—Tomorrow a death may take the central place; the next day may be an international wedding. But what is new today must be printed—truthfully—regardless of whom it hurts." This play is a transcription of life and the characters are real.

Four Portraits is an original radio play written by Ben Paxton, a freshman from Detroit. It is a gripping mystery story. It deals with mystery, intrigue, murder, suicide and anything else which a mystery should have—including thunder and lightning. Agatha is played by Margaret Newland; her brother, Jeff, by Bill Nish and the newspaper reporter, Paul, by Glen Knecht. The others in the cast are played by Helen Hair and Ruth Thompson.

Mr. Vine Sings For Faculty Club

The Faculty Club met on Monday night, December 2, in the Home Economics rooms at 7:30 with Dr. H. E. Orr, chairman, presiding.

After salad and dessert, which were prepared by the Home Economics department, Mr. Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, took charge of the program. He sang, as part of his Christmas program, "O Little Town of Bethlehem", by Scott, "The Shepard's Madrigal", by Fritz Kreisler and Geraldine Farrar, "Christmas Carole", by Elinor Remick Warren, and "The Carol of the Cricket and the Star", by Alfred H. Johnson.

An octet of students—Peggy Howell, Betty Hall, Barbara Blair, Katherine Franklin, Owen McGarrity, Tom Wheeler, Jay Bishop and Bob Barlow—sang "We Three Kings of Orient Are", "Deck the Halls", "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen", "Cantique de Noel", "Good King Wenceslas", "Angels We Have Heard on High" and "What Child Is This".

Prayer Meeting

The mid-week prayer meeting in the "Y" rooms this week will be led by Carl Wilson.

His subject is "The Fruits of the Spirit." This is the concluding message from the text of Galations 5:22-23, which has been used during the past series of prayer meetings.

Last week Irvin McArthur spoke on "Self Control, a Fruit of the Spirit." Eleanor Handley was pianist; the song leader was Ray Holsey.

Lavendar and Meineke Reign Over "Atlantis" at Barnwarming Program

King, Queen, Class Sponsors Revealed

Out of the darkness came light and a huge pink shell filled with the court of King Neptune. From the momentary darkness in the Alumni Gym last night at approximately 8:25 came this year's Barnwarming royalty. Atop the royal throne sat Queen Lottie Lavendar and her King Howard Meineke, better known as "Red". Miss Lavender, who is a Home Economics major from Washington College, Tennessee, was dressed in a white gown made on classic lines.

The senior class sponsor, Mary Margaret Robarts, was dressed in green. She is a sociology major, and her home is now in Miami, Florida. Jean Cobb was the junior class sponsor and was dressed in blue. She is a Home Economics major and is from Gaffney, South Carolina, Betty Wyrick, Home Economics major from Inskip, Tennessee, was sophomore sponsor, and Shirley Wells, from Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania, was freshman sponsor. They were both dressed in orange.

The court was introduced by a fanfare played by Dick Rowley, who was dressed as a page and who was the finishing touch to a very satisfactory presentation of the 1946. Barnwarming rulers.

All the girls carried large bouquets of chrysanthemums, and these plus the various colored gowns helped make the court beautiful. Special mention should be given the costume committee for their work in making the dresses worn by the members of the court.

Singing, Dancing Entertain Audience

When the doors of the Alumni Gym were opened a few minutes after 7:30 approximately 650 people entered the imaginary ocean to witness the annual Barnwarming on Thanksgiving evening Thursday, November 28. They found themselves covered by a ceiling of blue waves, and surrounded by the depths of the sea. A ship, Atlantis, was painted on one wall, with only the portion beneath the water shown. Rocks, aquatic plants, and even a treasure chest were found on the bottom of the ocean, and various fishes were painted at different altitudes on the walls, giving the effect of the swimming in the sea. Everything lended to the carrying out of the previously announced theme, "Atlantis."

In a booth behind the painted ship, the curious of the crowd turned sight-seers and discovered skulls, a treasure chest and other things. The end of their journey was rewarded by each receiving a cold drink.

King, Queen, Sponsores Revealed

The main program, much shorter than it has been heretofore, began at 8:30 with a complete blackout in the gym. When the lights were again turned on the Barnwarming queen and king were seated on a white throne before the background of a large seashell. They were surrounded by the four class sponsors, and all were put in the spotlight as their identities were revealed.

The emcee, Ray Swartzback, appeared in the role of a deepsea diver who was witness all that went on beneath the surface of the ocean. He first saw a group of pirates led by Ray Helsey, who sang a solo. At the close of the number two girls, June Holsey and Jean Balch, accused of "eating the royal seeweed", were brought to the king and queen by the pirates. Mrs. Holsey redeemed herself with a soprano solo, but Miss Balch was devoured by a slow-moving octopus.

Three mermaids, Barbara Blair, Florence Housch and Betty Hall, composing a trio of voices, presented the next two numbers and stayed onstage throughout the remainder of the program. Sam Broyles, as Popeye, found their company pleasant, but turned aside when Olive Oyl, Katherine Carpenter, persuaded a sailor, Tucker Pinner, to give her some attention to inspire jealousy in her comic hero.

Seven girls in blue evening dresses next made a semi-circle on the floor of the gym. Seven boys dressed in tuxs entered, and the group of 14 gave a dance performance.

Quartet Gave Three Numbers

Instantly changing the mood of the crowd, a quartet of boys, Jack Gilmore, Merril Grubbs, Tom Wheeler, and Mil Castrodale, entered in a submarine. They gave three song numbers, followed by a comical skit given by six girls representing tuna fish and conceited catfish of the sea, played by black faced Rush Lester.

The trumpeter called forth the bearer of number 30, the number having been received by the owner Miss Shirley Ballard, before the main event. She received a gift from the queen.

The entire cast ended the program with a chorus of "Anchors Aweigh".

Register Now For Second Semester

Registration for the second semesters began November 26. Seniors registered from that day till November 29; juniors register from November 30 through December 3, and sophomores will register from December 4 through December 9.

The registration of all students now in attendance is required before the close of the first semester. Those who do not register within the designated period for each class will be charged the late registration fee of $2.50.

Freshmen schedules will usually be a continuation of the first semester courses, but necessary changes will be made at the time of registration, which is between December 10 and December 18.

Schedule changes for all classes will be after registration on Monday, January 20. The Student-Help Office will be open during registration for those who wish to make arrangements and sign their notes before vacation.

DR. G. E. DAVIES VESPER SPEAKER

Reverend George E. Davies, D.D. father of Miss Katherine Davies of the Fine Arts Department was speaker at Vespers on Sunday night, December 1 at 7:00 p.m. His subject was "Playing the Game," and he will talk about the rules of the game of life.

Rev. Dr. Davies graduated from Baker University and McCormick Seminary. He did post-graduate work at Lake Forest College and received his doctorate at McCallester College in St. Paul. He has had five pastorates—the last one being at Pittsburgh.

Although he is now retired, the Rev. Dr. Davies has been quite busy the last two years helping with the service of any churches needing help.

Art Club to Exhibit LeQuire Paintings

On Friday, December 6, at 4:30, the Art Club will open an exhibit of paintings by Mrs. Virgil LeQuire with a tea, to which all interested are invited. Mrs. LeQuire is the art teacher at Monroe High School, Rochester, N. Y., and a graduate of Ward-Belmont and Peabody College. She is the daughter-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. LeQuire of this city.

The exhibition includes a colorful assortment of water colors and drawings done in Guatamala, providing, says Professor Bernard, an unusual opportunity to observe not only the technique of painting, but to see first hand impressions of an exotic tropical land. The exhibit will be open during the following week, Monday through Friday, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Fred Hope Fund Mounts to $1614.05

Four hundred ninety-six persons pledged a total of $1614.05 the Fred Hope drive held last Wednesday under the auspices of the Student Volunteer Movement.

This total is the largest amount ever subscribed in the annual drive since its beginning during the days when Fred Hope was a student here, Miss Clemmie Henry said.

Harvey Overton, senior ministerial student and president of Student Vols was in charge of the service. Tom Wheeler, junior English major, presented the history of the drive, and June Garland, senior Bible major, explained the plans for this year.

Rev. James R. Smith To Speak Wednesday

Reverend Mr. James R. Smith, pastor of the Graystone Presbyterion Church at Knoxville, will speak at Chapel Wednesday morning.

Mr. Smith serves in the capacity of Alumni and Public Relations Secretary to Maryville College. On his visit he will give forms to all new students, which are to be filled out in connection with Puplic Relations.

Mr. Smith was in general charge of the program for Founder's and Homecoming Day.

Student Council

The Student Council had a short meeting on Wednesday afternoon, November 27. The main business was to discuss Town Night violations. The limiting of parlor dates on Town Night to 9:30 was particularly emphasized.

Handel's Messiah In 14th Year At M. C.; Mr. Vine Directing Oratario For 4th Time

On December 15 the 14th annual Maryville College presentation of Handel's oratorio "The Messiah" will be given by singers from the college and the community. For the fourth time Mr. Richard W. Vine will direct. A chorus of 215, accompanied by a 48 piece orchestra, will perform the oratorio.

Composer Born in Germany

George Frederick Handel, composer of the "Messiah", was born in Germany. He wrote the oratorio for production in England approximately 200 years ago. It became popular immediately, was performed 31 times during his lifetime, has become the most popular oratorio yet written, and is an inspiration to millions each Christmas season. The text is in the words of the Bible with music designed to carry the various moods and meanings. The text is taken mostly from Isaiah, the Gospels and the Psalms.

It is divided into three parts: I. Prophecy and fulfillment: II. The Passion and the triumph; III. Faith and the victory. Ever since the King of England rose to his feet in respect and admiration for the magnificent "Hallelujah" chorus, it has beeen the custom for the audience to rise and join in with the performers if they so desire.

First Presentation in 1933

The "Messiah" was first presented at Maryvile College 13 years ago under the direction of Miss Frances Henry, then Instructor in Voice and Director of the Choir, and now teaching music in Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. There were 100 voices in the chorus that first year and the accompaniment piano was played by Martha Henry Burchfield. The solo parts were sung by students and guests from the community. Miss Henry was the Director for three years. In 1934 and 1935 the solo parts were sung by guest artists from Knoxville accompanied by Mrs. Shugart, with the general piano accompaniment played in 1934 by Charlotte Upp, a student and in 1935 by Mary S. Snelson, of Maryville.

For the six years from 1936 to 1941, the Director was Ralph R. Colbert, who succeeded Miss Henry on the music faculty in 1936. The accompaniment was by orchestra and piano for three of these years and has been by orchestra, piano and organ for the past six years.

Vine Director Since 1942

Mr. Vine succeded Mr. Colbert in 1942 and since that time has been the derector except for one year. In 1943 Mr. Philip O Jones, at that time a member of the faculty, directed.

The presentation of the "Messiah" has become a custom at the college, and has become so well-known in this section that it draws people from much of the surrounding territory and has, at times, been broadcast in part by local stations.

Some Who Helped At Fire Lost Their Heads

The Chapel Fire (II) is history now, and it may seem unnecessary or useless to criticise conduct at said event. However, there certainly was a tremendous amount of damage to the Chapel Thanksgiving night that was not done by the fire nor by the fire fighters—damage that was entirely unnecessary

If there ever is another fire on the Hill, we certainly hope some students do not competely lose their heads and smash windows and doors when there is absolutely no reason. There were even some unlocked doors smashed; doors that could have been opened by the simple expedient of turning the knob, but the well-meaning, evil-doing persons were too excited for that.

Likewise there was a terrible amount of damage done to pianos and other musical equipment by unnecessary haste and excitement. The act that really "took the cake" was someone snatching the electric clock off the wall in the main chapel. Yes, snatched the clock off the wall without any need and left the the thing hanging right there.

Of course, the student body did help a great deal. Students did an invaluable service both in carrying things out of the chapel and in fighting the fire. And in a fire the natural tendency is definitely towards excitement.

But we ferverently hope that the next fire we have that many persons will manage to keep their heads better than they did this time.

Just Being "Nosy"

By JANET MILLER

Before starting our "weakly" dribble, we'd like to have a one-sided word or two with our readers. Part one: We (I) as the party of the first part refuse all legal responsibility of things mentioned in this column unless our name is directy beneath the heading. Part two: As the party of the first part, all seeming bitterness is usually in fun even if you don't think so. The bark is "twice as worse" as the bite.

Warning to fellows whose dates live in Baldwin. Thoroughly scan the landscape before saying good-night. The reason is that Mrs. Franklin intercepted a kiss on Baldwin steps the other night. Incidentally, she o.k.'ed his technique.

What did Kitty Stidham and Joy Stewart find so interesting in a white envelope in Bible class? Never saw anyone enjoy eating paper before. What unusual gastronomical tastes some people have!

Wish we could have gotten Dr. and Mrs. Cotton and Miss Johnson together for a "ripping" reminiscence of the good ol' days when they were here together. From the sound of things, it should have proved very enlightening.

We suggest that Mary Jo Bolin and Marion Weiler for the Happiest Little Morons of Third Floor Pearsons, left wing.

Jim Frost doesn't seem to want to circulate on or around the campus particularly. We've never tried gopher-gazing, but it seems to have its fascination for some people.

Ed Pancoast says that he feels that enough has not yet been said about Tom Cecil. What else, you mean there's more?????

Dan Long was hospitalized for a few days. Doctor's diagnosis: Nerves. So, adding fuel to the fire, Helen Sorenson faithfully took her knitting over during all visiting hours. What kind of a sure-cure was that?

Some people, seniors to be more specific, seem to be plugging for demerits before the year is out. Accumulating ten demerits in one semester shouldn't prove too difficult if one really tries.

Overheard Miss Heron saying, "Will you ride up to my cabin in my car on Saturday?" to a football player. Seem's she's throwing a party at said place for upperclass members of the football squad.

If rumor is true, Muriel Dickerson and E. J. Cotton have joined the ranks of J. Pancoast and F. Housch in the Rec Hall on Tuesday nights for a while. Aim for 10, not 10:17 p.m.

We are thinking seriously of selling space in this column to those who wish to air grievances. Gentlemen, what am I offered?

Bob Huber called Carolyn Ulrich on Thanksgiving. Seems that possibly Jo 'n Tommy and Carolyn are being married in the chapel on Graduation Day. One couple in the morning, the other in the afternoon.

Not only artistically speaking do Green and Black seem to blend quite well together or has anyone noticed????

Bob Snell and Andy Anderson seem to enjoy each other's company and please don't hand us that old line. "But we have so much in common".

The Dining hall tables certainly showed originality and that "expert touch" on Thanksgiving. Tables were pushed together and table-cloths were on, some of them were lace, even! Then—leave it to Kluth and Swede to find Miss Ware.

Congratulations to the heads of Barnwarming—not only for the job done on the program and gym but also for keeping the knowledge of the chapel fire under cover smoothly enough to allow the audience to remain blissfully unaware of outer excitement and enjoy the program. Barnwarming brings a few thoughts to mind. First we keep wondering how that fish got in the telescope and if its a permanent home. Also, who had numbers 113 and 125? Will those who decorated ever catch up on lost sleep? Last, but definitely not least, wishing the audience could have been better-mannered and more attentive during the darker moments of the program.

To mention all the visitors on campus would take up too much space so we'll try to narrow it down to persons the majority of the students know or remember. Bob Whitford and Bill Robarts returned for a short visit as did Helen Marie Wilson (Fred's older sister.) Katherine (Pinky) McCaleb and Clara Bailey are here from Mercer College down Georgia way. Louise Henry is home from Chicago for a few days. Jim Carson decided last night that every time he's here, there's a fire in the chapel; Becky Davis received a big ovation from the students upon her return last week; and Janet Wilson is here from West Va. for a few days. How she can remain away from Jackie for that length of time is beyond our wildest stretch of imagination.

And so, as the grave digger said, "Guess I'll be shoveling off."

No Bucket Brigade—No Hatchets, But Screwballs Help To Save Chapel

Boy, are we exhausted. From water scene to fire scene, or Barnwarming to chapel warming.

We hustled from the top bleachers, out the side door in the direction of our dorm (That heel just had to be turned in the sox.) But everyone else was hurrying too. Mighty unlike the couples to speed it up. Then we saw the smoke. It looked like Baldwin—and ah, that sweater—a whole semester's work—we just finished.

It was the chapel!! Thoughts of our petty knitting were put aside. We thought of the organ, music instruments. Then came that Maryville spirit.

The next thing we knew everyone was regimented into action. We tripped across the two hoses. Then we went hunting for violins that had already been removed and ended up rescuing a piece of rosin Someone threw about 10 men's suits into our arms. What a feeling! Ah! With one of the arms around our neck we proceeded to the perch of Baldwin—passing many of the inhabited suits standing with their arms wrapped protectively around the weaker sex—but the question is "Which were the weaker?"

We tripped (drat that hose, not nylons either) back to the windows and an organe crate of books was lifted into our arms. (Boy, were we ever glad for that well fed feeling backed by that Pearson's banquet.) Got the orange crate to Baldwin and someone tapped us on the shoulder. "Hey, you dropped this," and handed us a small box which must have fallen from the slats.

We scurried back again (missed the hose.) Really getting places.

By this time the fire was over. We commended the Maryville firemen for their excellent job. Reviewing the scene, we saw that the pianos were being carried back into the chapel. Things were being picked up from the lawn. A mirror was there, face up—eek—worse shock of the night. We located two snapshots in our right pocket. Females, or we might have been tempted to use them for pinups.

We heard later: Some people were trying to mop up the two feet of water on the second floor. (They should have had umbrellas too.)

Some of the fellas that helped had a hard time finding their dates. "Did you see Helen?" and "No, where's Skip?"

Must something always try and outdo Barnwarming? Last year it was snow—We all agree we'd rather see snowmen than firemen.

"Girls, get to bed!" (Guess who)

"Yes, Ma'am."—no argument tonight—we're exhausted.

Rather Die Young Than Exercise; Physical Ed Class Loved By None

By ILDA MOSBY

One, two, three, four—creak, crack, grunt, groan—oh, for the day we are classified as Softs—pardon me, please—Sophs. Just think, no more calisthenics!

Each Monday and Wednesday we trek to Bartlett for that delightful hour listed in the catalogue as "required physical education activities". Class theoretically starts at 1:30, but by the time the waitresses dash in, a good ten minutes has passed. Then there's always the "right, dress" routine that seems to be just a little too complicated for freshman minds. How can we be expected to remember to point our thumbs to the front and our eyes right? And then, after Mrs. Queener has evidently decided that we'll never do it right, she gives the command, "Right, dress", and we all turn left. Of course, there are a few lost souls who do turn right.

Somehow or other (mostly other) we manage to march around the gym without too much confusion and only a half dozen orders to be quiet. Next comes, "Face, march"; that is, when the sixth person can count and still have enough presence of mind left to mumble it incoherently.

Exercises follow with the usual reminder that creaking joints are signs of poor condition and the future will be very stiff unless we get loosened-up now.

Naturally the addition of push-ups and pull-ups leaves us in a state of perfect health—till next morning. By then we've decided we'd rather live our old age as infirm creatures, than die as young Amazons.

We all wait eagerly for the day when we'll join the rest of the college women in their intramural sports and can sprain our ankles and have our faces smashed in soccer or our wrists dislocated in volleyball.

Carnegie Couples Club Or—It's the CCC Again!

When CCC is mentioned at Carnegie, it's a sure thing that someone is talking about the Carnegie Couples Club. This club was formed at the beginning of the Semester and is composed of the married couples living in the basement of Carnegie Hall. The groups meets on each second and fourth Monday evening in the large dining room downstairs in Carnegie.

Last Monday, Nov. 25 a Pot Luck supper was given with Thanksgiving decorations adding color to the scene. A business meeting followed the supper.

The final meeting of the semester is scheduled for Monday, Dec. 9th. For this meeting a special Christmas program is planned.

About 14 couples belong to the club. Don Kribbs is president, Mr. and Mrs. James Newman are the Social committee, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Abernathy are the House committee. Coach Mehl, who was instrumental in forming the club, is Faculty Adviser.

Writer's Workshop

The readers at Writer's Workshop last Wednesday were Jo Liddell and Anna Sakaizawa. Jo Liddell read a series of letters entitled "Bill", letters written from a soldier overseas to his unfaithful sweetheart. Anna Sakaizawa read three of her poems: "Symphony", "Stars", and "An Evacuee's Prayer", a poem written several years ago at her evacuation from Calif. Their respective critics were Helen Sorenson and Florence Housch.

Readers next week are Ray Swartzback and Esther Cornelius, with their respective critics Shirley O'Shana and Mildred Orr.

Camera Club

Mr. David E. Bernard, art instructor, will speak at Camera Club Thursday evening at 6:45 in Thaw 207. His subject will be "Composition and Make-up of Good Photos."

There will be no business meeting this week.

At a recent meeting it was decided to take a half-page in the Chilhowean. The group pictures will be announced later.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet Thursday evening, Dec. 5 in Miss Cowdrick's classroom.

A special Christmas program will be presented and will be given entirely in Spanish. A story from the Spanish Bible will be read and followed by Spanish games and Christmas carols.

Lois Lehr is in charge of the program.

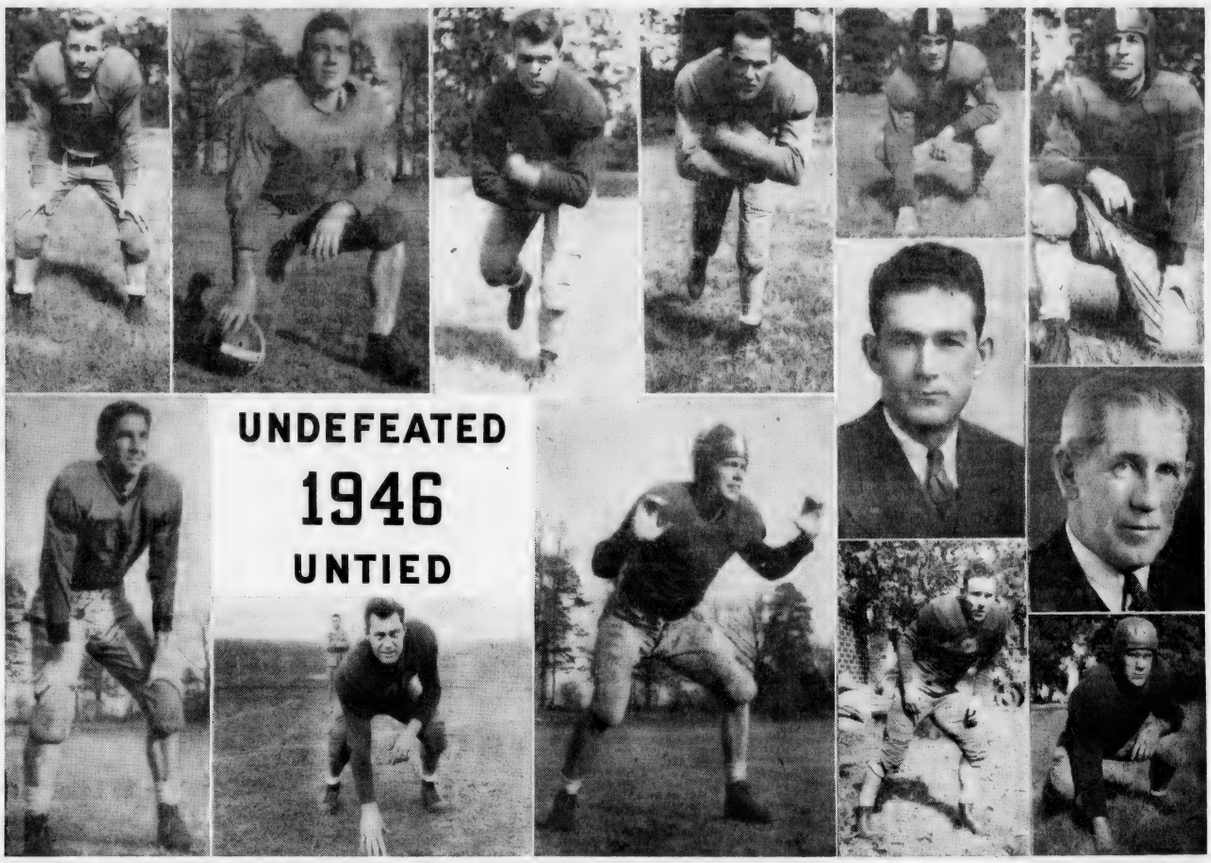
Prospects Bright For Highlander Basketball Forces

Basketball season has begun and over 20 prospects are now practicing daily. Around 35 players originally reported for try-outs for the team, but the squad has been cut to the present number. The first game was played Monday nite Dec. 2 against Johnson Bible College. Practice began about six weeks ago for those who were not playing football. The end of the regular football season has added eight new members to the squad.

Outlook Bright

Possibilities for a successful season look good with the array of big and fast players including former high school aces and some who have had college experience. Ray Lillard is a pre-war Scot star and promises to spark the attack this season, probably at the center slot. He lettered his freshman and sophomore years; he is a junior now. Ray stands 6'2". "Pie" Garner, 6'3" center of the football team, also has two years of college experience when he played with the Milligan College quintet before the war. "Mike" Miracle is a letterman of last year who has just returned from an abbreviated hitch in the army, and will be shooting from the forward position again this year. Squire Kemp, guard, is another letterman of last year.

High School Aces



Bob Boring heads the list of former high school stars who will be playing for the Highlanders this year. He was an All-State performer two years while playing for Friendsville High School. Hugh Hamil, a teammate of Boring's at Friendsville, also looks like a good prospect for the team. He has been working out at the guard position.

"Hap" and "Brick" Brahams are the two red-head prospects hailing from Laguna Beach, California. Hap is a 6' lefthander; Brick is 6'3" and has had some college experience at Occidental College in California.

Jim Lillard, Ray's freshman brother, is another local lad who has looked good in early practices. Bob Connell comes from Meridian, Miss., where he played high school ball. Others who have been working out regularly with the squad include: Vernon Hyde, Charles Roberts, Jack Buckley, "Tubby" Wilson, Lloyd Walker and C. A. Jones.

Footballers Show Promise

Other footballers who have been looking good in the short time they have been out are: King and Leon Berrong, who did their high school competition with Everett high school; Benny Baldwin, an Alcoa product with plenty of speed and shooting ability; Howard Davis, ex-Porter High ace; football captain Marvin Mitchell; Winton Enloe, who is shooting well with so little practice and Jack Campbell, another Everett boy.

SOME OF THE HIGH FLYING HIGHLANDERS WHO WILL BE SEEING ACTION AGAINST CATAWBA IN ORLANDO COME JANUARY 1

Despite Tom Scott's win, the M-C cross country team lost last Saturday to a highly improved U-T team by a 39-21 score.

The three mile course, which Scott covered in 15:48.1 minutes, was quite different from the rugged terrain to which the Highlanders have been accustomed, being, for the most part, a straight-away and slightly uphill.

Scott, Gillette, Downey, Kay, Kiger placed 1st, 6th, 9th, 11th and 12th respectively for Maryville College.

Coach Mehl accredited the initial loss out of the season's two starts to "lack of experience and not enough inter-collegiate competition."

Following the meet Maryville's 10 man squad attended the U-T-Kentucky game at Shields-Watkins field.

Walker Dethroned

Knoxville dethroned her much-discussed Mayor Cas Walker in a recall election, which was very decidedly against him.

Lewis Fined

John L. Lewis stuck his neck out just a little too far and received a $10,000 fine for contempt of court in the coal strike action. The United Mine Workers also felt the fury of the court when it was fined $3,500,000. The present crisis was denounced as a "monstrous thing" affecting the government and the welfare of the people. By Dec. 5, however, the CIO had announced its decision to back Lewis in his appeal to the court.

Coal Strike

President Truman will speak to the nation in a broadcast Sunday, Dec. 8, at 9:30 p.m. EST. He is expected to ask the miners to resume work over the union leaders' protests, stressing patriotic grounds. Already hundreds of thousands of workers are idle and the railroad freight embargo is expected to affect several million. Peace feelers have been forthcoming from the unions since the fining of Lewis and the union.

"A" Control

Baruch warned the United States on Dec. 5 that delay in adopting some measure of control to relegate the use of atomic power to peaceful pursuits and outlawing it for warfare will be fatal unless something definite is done immediately.

Iran Tank Clash

Tank-led Iranian government troops have launched a new and much bigger attack on the forces of Premier Pishevari and the Azerbaijan autonomist government. The attack has been denied by a military spokesman who refers to it as a brief skirmish.

GM Cancels Plans

Unsettled labor conditions and general economic uncertainty have caused General Motors to cancel orders for dies for 1948 models of Chevrolet, Pontiac and Oldsmobile cars. There will be concentration on present models to attempt to satisfy present public needs. This will mean no radical changes in the cars produced in 1948.

Nylon Plant for Chattanooga

Permission for the Du Pont De Nemours Co. to construct a $3,000,000 plant for the production of nylon yarn was granted at Chattanooga, Dec. 5.

Dr. by Plane

Heliocopters have been suggested for transporting doctors over impassable roads as one method of improving health conditions by the Research Council for Economic Security now meeting in Chicago. Also suggested were mobile health clinics and teams to work public health routes on a plan similar to that of our postal system.

Europe's Food

Next year's food prospects are much brighter in Europe. Reports indicate that those with money will have little difficulty in securing necessary food in the coming year. The wealthy can even look forward to a prewar selection.

Anniversary

Five years ago today the United States was attacked by Japan at Pearl Harbor.

M-C SECURES TWO CARLOADS OF COAL

It has been announced by the Office of Maintenance that Maryville has been fortunate in being able to secure two carloads of coal which will carry us through the rest of the semester unless something unforseen ("like zero weather for 10 days") arises. However, the problem of heating the dorms for the football squads and the veterans is yet to be met. Plans for the future re-opening of school are indefinite, due to the uncertainty of heating the buildings.

Christmas Music Set For Vespers

A special program of Christmas music will be given in Voorhees Chapel at Vespers, Sunday, December 8.

An annual tradition, this Sunday's Vespers will contain numerous and beloved carols which have tossed skyward the American Christmas spirit for many decades.

The candle-lighting ceremony will initiate an evening of performances by the college Vespers Choir and the All Girl Choir intermingled with organ solos and congregational hymns.

Among the various numbers presented will be a group of anthems by the Vesper Choir under the direction of Mr. Richard Vind. The All Girl Choir directed by Mr. Curtis Hughes will offer a collection of carols.

Favorite carols heard during the hour will be "Joy to the World," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "The First Noel," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "Silent Night."

The invocation and benediction will be given by Dr. H. E. Orr.

Athenian-Bainonian Variety Show Tonight

A variety show will be presented at a joint meeting of Athenians and Bainonians at 6:15 tonight in the chapel. The show will have as master of ceremonies, Bob Dockendorf, who will be assisted by Bill Houdeshell and Dave Campbell.

"The Beating Heart" by Edgar Allen Poe will be dramatized in addition to the variety show at the joint meeting. The players in this dramatization will be Bob Thompson, Max House and Jim Black.

Play Chosen for Next Semester

The play committee of Athenian-Bainonian has announced that the play to be presented next semester by the societies has been chosen. Since the play needs a large cast, all interested members of the two societies are urged to be at try-outs which will be held next week.

The time for the try-outs is to be announced later.

Due to some unforseen happenings, the Athenian minstrel show, which was originally scheduled for the last of October, has been postponed indefinitely.

Sixteen Students Chosen for M-C Varsity Debate

Sixteen students from the college debate classes were chosen Wednesday, December 4, for the varsity debate team. Out of 29 entrants, ten men and six women were chosen.

The men are as follows: John Briggs, David Campbell, Roger Cowan Robert Eastman Carl Lindsay, William Nish, Stuart Saul and William Smith.

Upholding the women's voice are Peggy Cummings, Ann Cook, Geneva Robinson, Ruth Thompson, Barbara Wallin and Mary Wooldrige.

Of those selected five were members of last year's debate team, those being John Briggs, David Campbell, Ann Cook, Geneva Robinson and Mary Wooldridge Claude Sheil and Paul Jamarick were also voted in; but, because they graduate at the end of the semester, they will not be available

Judges for the tryouts were Miss J. K. Johnson, Dr. V. M. Queener, Mr. A. F. Pieper, Dr. R. T. Case and Dr. D. H. Briggs.

Poem "Altar Smoke" Printed by Request

"Altar Smoke", the poem read by Dr. Leber at the close of his Founder's Day address in chapel Nov. 2, was written by a seventeen -year old student in Brooklyn. This poem won first place in the annual New York City Inter-High School Poetry Contest. At the request of many students it is printed here.

ALTAR SMOKE

Somewhere inside of me
There must have always been
A tenderness
For the little, lived-with things
A man crowds upon his worn fistful of earth;
Somewhere inside of me
There must have always been
A love
Made to feel the square aggressiveness of new-cut hedges,
And feed the pursed green mouths of baby leaves,
A love made to understand
The way grass cuddles up to porch steps leaned upon by time,
And why dandelions nudge the stones along the walk;
A love for garden hose curled sleeping in the noon hush,
Coolness trickling lazily from its open mouth,
For shingles starched and saucy in white paint,
And an old rake rusty with dreams of tangled grass and butterflies.
A love
For candle flames, like pointed blossoms on their ghostly stems,
And frost-forests breathing wonder on the parlor windows.
Somewhere inside of me
There must have always been
An altar of hewn stones
Upon which my love casts these—
Burnt offerings—
To make a sweet savor
Unto my soul.
Give me the strength, my God,
To scatter my fires and tumble the altar stones in confusion;
Give me the strength to raise my eyes,
So that hard and sharp across my heart
Like shadow on mountain rock,
Will fall the frozen agony of sunset—
So that I can see.
The swept laughter of clouds spun
So that my soul can reach out into the blue web of infinity,
And melt in the sweep of forever

PAY PHONES INSTALLED IN WOMEN'S DORMS

Something new has been added to Memorial, Pearsons and Baldwin. A pay-phone has been installed in each dormitory in order to relieve some of the traffic on the office phones and to afford the matrons a breathing spell from leaving the office everytime some body uses the phone. The regulations for the phones are that all outgoing calls, both long distance and local, must be made on the pay-phone; however, all incoming calls are still being accepted in the office until a system can be worked out.

Approximately 60 guests viewed the pictures which are watercolors and sketches, depicting scenes and people from Guatemaula.

Those who have not seen the exhibit are invited to view them at the Mary Gowdy Baker Galleries in Anderson Hall.

Vet, Wife Solve Housing Shortage Combat Rain, Snow, Low Ceiling

By CRAIG FISHER

Some evening when, drawn by the irresistable magic of Circle Drive, you arrive opposite Pearsons Hall, take time to look over to your right, and there you might see squattin near a lonely campus light Dave's and Eunice's solution to the housing problem. A lot of folks have asked about it; in fact I was so curious myself that I went over to find out more, and here is what I learned.

I rapped on the door and stepped boldly in. Something struck me a treacherous blow from above, and as I nursed a stunned and bewildered head I could not but note that everything else was in proportion to the height of the ceiling. Dimly I heard Eunice telling me that this was the dining-room-study-kitchen-bathroom-storeroom, and incredulously I paced it off—just four paces one way and two the other! "Saves me a lot of walking," she cheerfully remarked.

"How," I asked, "can you live here?" For answer she pointed to the "range," a coffee percolator which, at the moment, was percolating mashed potatoes, and a hot plate which, she explained took care of the rest. . . three meals a day. I gave the ceiling another belligerent look before probing further, and there above me was a ventilator. She told me that it ventilated in all kinds of weather, and added that the windows too seemed quite impartial toward sunshine and rain.

"And in there?" I queried, "Oh, that—that's our bedroom," she said, drawing aside a curtain and disclosing a couch which could be collapsed at night time for a bed. Three advantages were immediately apparent; it had an inner-spring mattress, a full length mirror, and when the bed was fixed there was no chance of falling out without first pushing the wall away.

"Hmmm. Very comfortable," I mused. "Very," she solemnly agreed. I turned around and my elbow struck the handle of the ice box. Food, too! I gingerly swung it open, and an empty ice tray laughed out at me. She answered the question in my eyes, and told about the ice man. It seems that when the electrician finished wiring the trailer. Through some oversight, he left the wire grounded to the frame. Thenceforth every pipe and faucet had a surprise in store, and when the floor was wet it even had a way of coming through the linoleum. One day the ice man was bringing in a cake of ice when he too met the electrician's error. He has studiously avoided the trailer ever since.

Dave and Eunice were getting along fine two months ago in a rented apartment, when the landlady's nephew caught the chicken pox and they had to leave. Desparation and a splash of pioneer blood provided the solution in the form of a trailor, so in they moved, and have since been improving upon its shaky self until, by the time the snows come, they hope to be quite comfortable.

They hail from Edinboro, Pa., from whence Dave entered the army for a two year stretch. At present he is studying to be a missionary doctor, and, looking at it over my pipe, if they make good in that trailer, they'll make good anywhere!

Senate Discusses Various Business

At the meeting of the Student-Faculty Senate yesterday, December 6, making bundles for the federation for under privileged children was discussed. This will probably be done after the Christmas holidays.

Discussion of a safety warning on the Court Street steps for the students was approved. Especially since the resurfacing of Court Street, cars go by at a speed which endanger the safety of the students.

A suggestion was made that the fire escapes should be checked. Since the chapel fire, much emphasis was placed on a fire protection organization, especially in the girls' dormitories.

As a final point of discussion it was annouced that pledges for the Fred Hope Drive are still being turned in and that the fund has almost reached the $1,700 mark.

F. Melius Vine Leads Choir Through Comic Routines—Result, Good Music

By DOROTHY VAWTER

Off comes coat and tie; shirt is unbuttoned; fingers run through hair just to loosen up a bit, a loud "okay" and thus begins one of the most entertaining sessions on the Hill. Mr. Richard Whitney Vine in the better known guise of F. Melius Vine begins another Vesper Choir rehearsal.

Being far from serious-minded, the choir goes through much (we won't say what) to obtain the quality needed for the excellent performances they are now famous for. It takes more than mere repetition and mechanical working out to give a choir what is needed for a successful program. There must be no obvious appearance of many personalities, and it is impossible to subdue them; therefore there must be a blending of all into one. A successful blending makes for unity within the organization, and most of the responsibility for obtaining it falls on the conductor.

Methods of the Vine

Mr. Vine uses many methods, most of them strenuous. That's why so much preparation has to be made. One gets rather warm when one's activities range from pulling one's hair and stamping one's feet to playing a monstrous but very obvious violin.

And then of course there are the outstanding personalities of the choir itself—such as, Art Haaf and his verbal agreement, which for the initiated means "no engagement" and is probably a good way to avoid any likely breach-of-promise lawsuits. And also there is Mr. Vine's objection to the Philadelphia accent which destroys any sectional feeling which might have been inherent in that group. And then there's Christiansen.

Mudpies to Pancakes

It would be a sin of ommission to forget Mr. Vine's illustrations and demonstrations. The familiar ping pong ball probably never before sounded like a staccato scale to you. And the biology lab sacrificed a skeleton head to show the tenors how they should sing (and look?). Everybody knows how a mud-pie hits the ceiling and then slowly and gooily falls.

And then there is the prime example:

"Ice is gone from all the rivers"
—Choir.

"Like a pancake that swoops up to the ceiling with a bang and immediately falls,"—F. Melius Vine.

Army Surplus To Add New Buildings

Applications for two temporary buildings which can be erected on the campus to relieve present crowded conditions were approved by the government agencies in Washington, Dean Frank D. McClelland announced recently.

The two buildings will be used as a gym and an office building. Both the buildings and the equipment will be part of an army surplus now being released. They will be demounted from their present locations and rebuilt here. The gym will be located near Bartlett Hall and the alumni gym, and the office building will be near Anderson Hall.

At the present time, it is uncertain when these buildings can be secured and made ready for occupation.

Student Council Enjoys Social

Student Council members enjoyed a social on December 4 at 8 p.m. in the Practice House. They were entertained by Mary Ruth Barber, Home Economics Major and Student Council member.

At 9 p.m., a short business meeting was held. The necessity of limiting visiting hours to 10 o'clock on Town Night is still being stressed.

Plans for chartering buses for the Maryville students homeward-bound for the Christmas holidays have been put in charge of Margaret McNeill.

A report was given by Fred Wilson and Carl Murray on the possibility of having half of Thaw basement for the Recreation Center.

The 18 men and women of Maryville's senior class who graduate this December will be honored at a special service on Wednesday, December 11 in Voorhees Chapel. Shell Jr., Mary Julia Turk, and Gilbert E. Weiss.

The service will be in charge of Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, who is acting in the absence of both Dr. Lloyd and Dr. McClelland, who is Dean of Students. After the regular features of the chapel service, Dr. Hunter will call each student's name and give a few remarks concerning him.

He was a member of the casts of Charley's Aunt, Wuthering Heights, Arsenic and Old Lace, and The Man Who Came to Dinner. After graduation, DePue plans to attend the University of Stockholm in Sweden and then plans to go into government work.

Wallace Easter, sociology major from Washington, D. C., attended the University of Maryland in 1940-41, Maryville College in 1942-44, and Princeton Seminary from 1944 to 1946. Bob Hunter, physical education major from Maryville, was in the service from June 1943 to November 1945. He has been a member of the Vesper Choir for three years

By LORRAINE SWIFT

A whole gang of us got together one night last week and tried to relate the latest of everything to one of our ex's, Janet Wilson, who breezed in last Saturday night. We started with the undefeated football team and told how Miss Heron was giving a banquet for them that evening up at her cabin. Only one gal crashed the party, Gertie Largen. And how the businessmen of Maryville were giving a banquet this past Thursday at Whittle's. Whittles!!

Anyhow, Wilson began to sight changes for herself by spying Edie Earle and Don Whatshisname strolling in front of Pearsons. Incidentally, Edie, Kay Stout and Emily Leety have joined the ranks of visitors at the Rec Hall on Tuesday night. Everyone else can hold his breath, but don't get in a taxi or come in late on the second night of the week.

Talk about visitors, they've been plentiful enough the last couple of weeks. Mildred Jones is here, and Servicemen Bill Stewart and Ken Boram came to enjoy the sociability of the campus. Jo Pribble spent almost a week here, and Brother Noble took her back so he could be home for the "hunting" season. Couldn't find out just what he was hunting.

We had to tell the visitor about the funny request we received last week from a junior guy, name of Dick Smilie. "Say," he said, "how about advertising for me a wife?" So we answered Mr. Smilie with—Hey! Wait a minute! Who's that over there? Chris Gilreath and Joe Jernigan! Buzz-buzz-buzz.(Isn't this just like a small college? We hate gossipers, too.)

Weren't those games sumthin' Monday night? Pardon us while we yawn. Those were the kinda games to play, but not to watch. Smitty stayed the whole evening, but only 'cuz Kay Titley was cheerin'. Speakin' of cheerin', how did that gang down at the other end get permission to leave JBC?. . . . Remember the guy with the bandanna? Hollingsworth kept tryin' to decide whether he was a pirate, or an imitation airplane. Kept his arms outspread.) All he needed, so someone said, was a propeller. Or was that Hollingsworth who said that? Oh well, that's irrevelent, immaterial, and does not pertain to the subject. . . .He reminds us of the Henderson twins, and that reminds us that a guy named Paul was around with Mussie not long ago. . . .Darned if we can remember that crack Stidham wanted us to make about Mussie eatin' Wheaties.

Could the Student Council do sumthin' about making the C&L larger on Tuesday nights? There just ain't enough room—period. Have you ever tried six to a booth? But the juke box is there, kid, and "Sooner or Later" you can insert the nickel, just so you don't stay "After Hours"; otherwise, "To Each His Own" comes a time when that same Student Council says at 10:15 "I Guess I'll Get the Papers", and Town Night amazingly becomes "Passe". Then you sing the "September Song" with hopes for next year. Ah, Tuesday night, but "Why Does It Get So Late So Early?". . .While we were still at the C&L Nelson Earnest stood outside with his nose in a book. Discovered he was doing his "outside" reading in history. . ."Hold Me, Hold Me, Hold Me!" After that outburst Lottie Lavender shut Forrester up. She told him that "Love doesn't Grow on Trees"; besides (in there, there was "Stomping Room Only". . .Personally, we'd rather hear Bishop sing "Star Dust". . . Shuddup a minute, and let us tell you about overhearing Bill Hall asking "Where Did You Learn to Love?" No answer. His next approach was "If It's Love You Want, Baby, That's Me". Nearsightedness is an awful handicap sometimes. We didn't see the gal. . .Even in the C&L we thought about our not-to distant "White Christmas", "And Then It's Heaven". Santa Claus, please bring Paul Woodbury Jr. "A Gal in Calico" to especially pose for pictures. . . Why does Earl Martin keep playing "The Girl That I Marry"? "My Isle of Golden Dreams" lies west of the Missisippi, eh Wedell, Theda, Nunn and Billings. . .Wondered about Nish getting his giggle-box turned upside down. We admit that the guy who says that "I Cover the Waterfront" must be a pretty big fella. . ."Ole Buttermilk Sky", don't cloud up; we gotta get home. Whatta cold night! If we were home we'd be smudging out in the orange groves." (Hap Brahams said it.) We've heard it called everything else. . ."Rumors Are Flying", but in this paragraph "I Didn't Mean a Word I Said", and what do I say "After I Say I'm Sorry"? Don't blame us. We just looked at the list on the juke box too long.

Memorial celebrated something with a weiner roast the other night. . .But au revoir. Seventeen more shopping days till Christmas.

"Over My Coke"

By BETTY HARTE

Sally tossed her head and yawned. Mike had been looking at the snapshot album for a good hour and a half—when he wasn't making some witty remark, that is. They had gotten back from town at 9:30 and he was still going strong.

All over the dorm the lights flickered out one by one. Sally rubbed her eyes with a rather exaggerated motion. But Mike blithely rattled on, "Nine out of ten girls are pretty—here's the exception," (pointing to her toothless grin at the age of seven.)

Much as she hated to do it, she interrupted his gay banter in a sad tone, "The sun's beginning to rise! And I've got classes till 3:30 tomorrow. Would you mind if we both retired to a bear beauty nap?"

"But, Sally, " he coaxed, "It's only 11:30!"

"Nix, Sir Gallahad," she laughed, sliding the album from his hands. "Nightie, night!" She blew him a kiss, turned and walked quickly from the parlour.

However, dreams will get us no where! This is the year 1946 and ALL TOWN NIGHT PRIVILEGES END AT 10:00.

* * * * *

It's been said before, we're growing complacent. Scenes like the above (disregarding the hour for a moment) are illustrative of our warm, happy and well-fed companionship. A roof over our heads, three meals a day, ice cream and pop, a home and family, and warm clothing. This is our wealth.

And what is wealth compared to that of the girl or boy—who could have been YOU—of student age in a famished country!

This Fred Hope drive will be worth at least 20 times what it is worth to us—because in China the American dollar is worth $20. (That was last year—inflation has probably made it even more.)

Are you internationally-minded? Help the Chinese through the Fred Hope Drive! A Maryville project connected with no particular denomination—ALL money will aid the Chinese—and not some white collar worker in this country The war is over. The Peace is challenging us.

Say! Have You Met....

DONALD CUMMINGS

Most vividly remembered as the Intramural tennis champion, Don Cummings hails from Fyzabad, India. A biology major and pre-med student, he is interested in surgery—and blondes.

Dramatic art also intrigues him; especially the mean and ornery villain in a mystery. In high school he participated in the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Yoeman of the Guard" as well as basketball, pole-vaulting, tennis and photography (for the yearbook).

Don's only comment in comparison of the U.S. and India was that life in the U.S. "is not as nice as the outdoor life of the Himalayan mountains."

On week-ends he and several chums would go 30 or 40 miles into the Himalayans to camp. Mostly they would trap for pheasants.

One day they rounded a bend—to face a bear walking toward them! Slowly they walked backward until they came to a downhill slope. It seems bears can't go downhill very well!

Another favorite sport was killing monkeys and skinning them. It was nothing unusual to wake up in the middle of the night and see a panther or leopard at the fire's edge; or to wake up in the morning to greet a Cobra curled at the bottom of the bed.

Memorable as an exciting and dangerous incident was an adventure which occured when the boys tried to kill a Languro mountain monkey. These monkeys are about as big as men and travel in herds of 10 or so. The monkey refused to die—even with four shots in

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Judging from the newspaper reports that we've been seeing recently, we are now playing in the Tangerine Bowl, which we suppose is just one branch of all the Citrus Bowls. The entire bowl system we prefer to call the Finger Bowl System since almost every school seems to have its finger in some sort of bowl. To avoid any further confusion as to which bowl the Scotties are to play in, we add that the newspaper reports are correct in calling it the Tangerine Bowl.

Coaches See Catawba Win

Coaches Honaker and Davis were present on Thanksgiving Day to see the Catawba Indians defeat Lenoir-Rhyne in their final game of the season. Their report is that they will probably be heavier than any team the Scots faced during regular season play. The coaches had high praise for Catawba's ends, and report that they have a potent passing attack which the Highlanders must stop.

Football Team Wins No. 10

"Big Mitch" reminded us the other day to remind you that the pig-skinners won their 10th straight last Monday night when they beat the Ex-Rebels under the light in the Alumni Gym. "Mitch" was the start of the evening sinking no points, and guarding his man every time he happened to come within his range.

Cross Country Team Deserves Credit

Our cross country team has been more or less snowed under by the success of our football team this fall. But we want to take time out right now to point out that they worked hard and faithfully from the beginning of the semester to succeed in obtaining only two intercollegiate meets, both with U-T. They defeated the U-T harriers here on Nov. 2, in their first meet 27-32 with Scott, Gillette, and Downey coming in one, two, three in that order. But in their return meet with the Vols on the 23rd U-T got revenge wih a 21-39 victory. Scott again came in first, but his mates could do no better than 6th, 9th, 11th and 12th. It is firmly believed by Coach Mehl that Scott might defeat Auburn's star, Overton, who won the SEC cross country title. Coach Mehl says that "if Scott continues to improve as he is during this year he has a good chance to become one of the best runners in the country." It was also pointed out that Earl Downey has good possibilities, and that Gillette is doing okey too. The guys who deserve the recognition are Baird, Barber, Downey, Gillete, Kay, Kiger, Knecht, Mulford, Mulholland, Orr, Pribble, Saunders, Scott, Seymour, Yambert, and Ladner (who broke his leg early in the semester, and served the remainder of the season as the inspiration of the squad.)

More "Forgotten" Men

Then there are those people who actually enjoy being managers, and at the same time do a good job of it. We refer to Head Manager Harvey Overton, whom we nominate for "All-American Manager of the Year" because of the fine job he has done and is still doing with the football team. He is also to manage the wrestling team this year. And he has had able assistance from the other managers, Willis Pribble, Earl Martin and "Bo" Henry. We also boast an efficient trainer in Bud Ready-With-the-Tape Engle. But then you might suspect that good managers and trainers would be on hand where there is good team.

"Litkenhouse" Kemp to Predict

With our season's record standing at about 74% by virtue of 52 correct and 18 wrong predictions we will give you the probable outcome of some of the major bowls in the next issue provided we can get the editor, the sports editor and the press to working at the same time. The Tennessee Vols and Notre Dame managed to come out with good records respite our predictions. The Irish are through, but the Vols still have one more test, and after we find the answer with the "slip stick" (slide rule to you) we'll let you know if we think they learned how to "throw Rice at the wedding which they have been asked to attend."

Maryville Quintet Steamrolls JBC In Opening Game

"Football Five" Out-Fox Ex-Rebels To Tune of 37-25

"Brick" Brahams and Ray Lillard both exhibited some smooth floor work with Brahams one-hand shot accounting for 21 points to make him high point man of the evening.

In the other fracas the "football five," made up of members of the varsity eleven, didn't have as quite an easy time in checking their opponents; never-the-less, they were at least three points in the lead at the end of each quarter and showed the fans that the had basketball talent among them.

The Ex-Rebels were paced by Don Hurst, who was the top scorer with 10 points.

Basketball loosened its lid here at M-C last Monday night in a double header which saw the varsity over power a scrappy Johnson Bible College quintet 75-22 and the "football team" subdue the Ex-Rebels. composed of ex-Maryville High stars, by a 37-25 score.

In the varsity tilt Ray Lillard found the hoop first for the Scotties in the openng seconds of play and, from then on, Maryville dominated the play, allowing their opponents to score only one field goal to their 12 in the first quarter.

Using reserves freely, every combination seemed to click and Coach Honaker's boys racked up a 43-7 score at the close of the first half.

Scots Set For Trip To Orlando For Bowl Game

Team to Resume Practice Dec. 18

Thirty-four Scotties will appear on the scene in Orlando, Florida, on New Year's day seeking their tenth consecutive victory, when they encounter the Catawba College Indians of Salisbury, North Carolina, in the Tangerine Bowl.

The squad is to leave for Florida on the morning of December 26, at about 7:30. The plans are to spend that night in Valdosta Georgia, and then to arrive in Orlando on December 27, in time for a work-out that day. While there the Scotties are to stay at the San Juan Hotel. The Catawba team does not plan to get to Orlando until Dec. 29. Coach Honaker reports that "we are going down to win a ball game, but we also want everyone to enjoy the trip." The team will start for home on Jan. 2, "provided there isn't some sightseeing which is more urgent."

Present Workouts Light

The team has been through only light work-outs recently after a week's lay-off at the end of the regular season. The players are staying in shape either by practice on the athletic field or through participation in basketball or wrestling. Regular practice will begin on the 18th, or after the players have finished their final exams. Lectures will begin on Monday, Dec. 16, at 12:30 with the session to end before lunch.

The game will climax Maryville's only undefeated untied season during Coach Lombe Scott Honaker's 27 years as head coach. It is Maryville's first football team since the 1942 season. The Highlanders amassed a total of 211 points to their opponents 21. The opposition did not manage a single score through the Scots forward wall. All three scores came on aerials. One safety and an extra point brought the total to 21.

Talbot Ready

Ken Talbot, Scottie end who missed most of the season due to a broken collar bone which he got inthe E. T. State game, will be okay and ready to go on the first. His presence is expected to strengthen the line considerably.

The Bowl squad will consist of: backs—Charlie Pepper, Leon Berrong, King Berrong, Hershell Merriman, Bill Stinnett, Ross Honaker, Bobby Neff, Benton Baldwin, Chauncey Cutshaw, Bob Boring, Artie Spears, Winton Enloe, and Harvey Hollingsworth; ends—Davis, Talbot, Miller, Campbell, Still and Rock; tackles—Mitchell, (captain), Kluth, Walker, Pickens, Pinner, Engdahl, and Smith; guards—Easter, Profitt, Anderson, Newman, and Willocks; centers—Garner, Holsey and Dinges.

Advance ticket sales indicate that Maryville will have a good crowd of supporters on hand for the contest.

Ministerials Elect New Club Officers

On Thursday evening at 6:15 the Ministerial Association held a meeting for the election of officers for the second semester. The following were elected to the newly vacated offices: Bill Vogel, president: David Campbell, first vice-president; Bob Williams, second vice-president; Irvin McArthur, secretary-treasurer.

Athenian

Athenian will meet in Bartlett at 6:15 tonight. The purpose of the meeting will be to elect officers for the coming semester.

"Hattie Carnegie Specials" Seen at Frosh Style Show

Against a background of soft Christmas music, the freshman sewing class presented an exclusive style show on December 9. Admittance was by invitation only. After the show homemade fudge, cookies and punch were served.

Girls paraded down a white strip to a pine-decked platform in the Home Economics lecture room. And while lights twinkled merrily on the Christmas tree, Annabelle Gilliam introduced the models through clever use of "make-believe" letters.

The following are a few of the highlights of the show.

"Dear Jane—You should have heard the oh's and ah's from every side when Catherine Helms and Bobbye Jo Ragan came out wearing real Japanese silk blouses. Both were made along soft simple lines, with long sleeves. Bobbye Jo was wearing her blouse with a beautiful dark brown bolero suit in Botany wool georgette—

"—And there was Hilda Roberts in a medium blue, wool outfit consisting of a pleated skirt and a sleeveless vest—an interesting threesome composed of Agnes Ross, Mimi Leake, and Kay Titley also appeared. They wore dresses made in the same style with slight variations and in different materials and colors. Agnes wore a soft grey wool with a self-material belt; Mimi's was gold aralac-and-rayon mixture in a herring-bone weave with a black belt; and Kay accented her blue wool flannel with silver accessories—

"—Doris Naundorf (you should have seen hubby, Charlie, beaming all over) and Betty Lou Walker were striking in chartreus, and black, respectively.

Doris' dress had that fashionable key-hole neckline—but it was really the way the color accentuated her own rich coloring that made everyone sit up and take notice. Betty Lou's dress looked like a Hattie Carnegie original with its sleek becoming lines—

"—Tall willowy Martha Kincaid was wearing aqua in a beautiful sheer wool. Because of Martha's blonde hair it's really her best color—

"—Mary Lou Burleson was charming in a simply tailored, green aralac dress—

"Spider! Spider," I cooed in admiration when Joyce Hampton entered in a black cotton eyelet blouse with cap sleeves, round neck, and back opening—

"—Kitty Cooley and Martha Mc. Clure were showing off the dresses they had worn on their New Year's Eve dates. Martha's was a soft wool in a deep rich cherry shade with those new deep-armole sleeves and a round neckline—She looked her usual lovely self. And Kitty's dress was of a beautful black crepe with long fitted sleeves fastened with a small covered button—really smooth.—

"—Catherine Helms and Ellen Collins received a round of applause when they entered wearing white flannel nightgowns made by the same pattern. However Catherine's was outlined at the yoke and around the neck and sleeves with a tiny tiny pink ruffle; Ellen had her name in green letters on her gown. MMMMM—

"—Love, Suzie."

Traditonal Maryville Spirit Helps Frank Ladner Overcome Handicap

By CONNIE HAWKINS

Maryville's friendly spirit is not yet dead. If you doubt it, ask Frank Ladner, who had over 200 names on his second cast when it was taken off. Both bones in Frank's left leg were broken and splintered when he was hit by a car last September 6, the first town night of the semester.

In the weeks (almost 12) since his accident, he has not missed any of his school work. He was assured by Dr .McClelland, dean of students that he would be able to do the work outside class. Ladner's professors and fellow students helped him in doing this. All of his instructors made regular visits to the hospital to give instructions and the students carried assignments and helped him by explaining work done in class. He started back to class on Monday, November 25, and is fitting into regular class work easily. He has had very little trouble and will take examinations according to the regular schedule.

Ladner, whose career on the cross country team was interrupted by his broken leg, expects to be able to run next fall. Meanwhile, he hopes to do some work with the track team next spring, although his leg will probably not be entirely well until February.

The accident, which occured only ten days after Ladner reached Maryville, had its brighter sides. He knew no one, but the traditional spirit of Maryville asserted itself and many people from the student body and faculty came to see him and offer their help. When interviewed, he said, "I'd like to thank all the students and everybody else for their kind thoughts and deeds which helped lighten the burden which I did carry."

Before coming to Maryville, Frank served for 39 months in the naval amphibious forces, in both the Euro-African and Asiatic-Pacific theaters. He recently completed, including service as electrician's mate in the navy and three years work during high school, his ninth year of electrical work. He hasn't definitely decided on a major field yet, but will probably fulfill his requirements in either biology or English. After college, he plans to go into the ministery.

Bainonians to Have Christmas Program

The Bainonians will provide a Christmas program this evening at 6:15 with Catherine Franklin, Footsie Housch and Lois Thomas working in the Yuletide spirit.

Catherine Franklin and Footsie Housch will sing some Christmas songs with Mary Barnwell accompanying, and Lois Thomas will give a reading. Following, an election of officers for the second semester will take place.

The skit contest which was planned to be finished this semester will be concluded next semester due to unavoidable circumstances.

Miss Grierson Gets Advanced Degree

Miss Ruth Grierson, Librarian at the college, this past week received her diploma representing the M.S. in Library Service from the Library Service School of the Columbia University. Actual work on the degree was finished earlier this year and it is issued as of October of this year.

She did her work on this degree at Columbia in four summers. For the past two summers she worked on her thesis, which was on Cataloging Method.

Miss Grierson, who did her undergraduate work in Alma College in Michigan had previously received the B.A. degree in Library Science from the University of Michigan.

Doubting Child Goes Backstage— Finds Santa at Christmas Premiere

By LESLIE WEBB

Yes, Virginia, there is still a Santa Claus. I don't blame you for asking, though. If the street and magazine and department store copies are fair samples, then the name of Santa Claus is Legion, And a pretty degenerate Legion, I'd say.

But don't pause at the Santa Claus of the cigarette ads or the jangling hawker's bell, Virginia. We have a long, long way to go, if you really want to settle all the questions that have risen up to trouble your little heart. We must go back, far back along the descending path of Time. Are you still with me? I know it's dark but have patience. Soon, if you will be very still, you will begin to see the first Christmas pageant this old world ever witnessed.

For a moment let's invert the scenery of the sky and see what's happening backstage. There, now it's in focus. Yes, a Father is grieving for His lost and wandering children, who have left the light and warmth of His presence and have gone off into the dark and cold of the night. He calls but there is no answer; only a weird echo. Something must be done, and quickly. The night is heavy with danger. But wait,—the Father has a plan,—it is coming to life. Turn the sky over again; the performance is about to begin.

Look, Virginia, a star is drawing closer to the earth. See how it twinkles and glows and burns! There's an angel, too, and a heavenly choir. Now there is light everywhere. The children can find their way home from all the dark places of the earth, if they will follow the light of this Star.

Yes, it's all written down in the Gospels. You can still see the Star, even in our own late time, but there is so much tinsel and glitter that it sometimes appears dim. That's why I took you with me back to the premiere showing. Don't ever forget the true beginning of Christmas, Virginia.

"Over My Coke"

By BETTY HARTE

"Things without all remedy should be without regard" said Lady Mac Beth. But this month the Experimental Theatre wiggled its ears at the old lady and the Bartlett productions experienced a revitalization. Tom Eckert and Mrs. Hughes were the chief innovators—Mrs. Hughes was responsible for the royalty plays and the all-cast party which was held after the show; and Tom's vision and hard work created props worthy of a much bigger play.

While orchids are being scattered, let us not forget our Queen of the Kitchen—Miss Ware. No other person in our acquaintance would so cheerfully give of her energy in the interests of 640 hungry, grumblesome people. Her job is not a game of tit-tat-toe. It's an exacting task and well performed.

And then there's the Student Council—In response to student opinion, it is pushing a program for fire drills and other fire precautions. Which just goes to show that we have an alert Student Council, ready to act on any specific, constructive suggestions offered by students.

When all has been said and done and Christmas looms gay and bright—Let's not forget that band of football heroes who are going to fight for Maryville's honor and right to fame. They're grand fellows and superb as a team. Are we behind 'em? YEA MAN! (Speaking of fame—The Stars and Stripes of Saturday, Nov. 23 printed articles anouncing the forthcoming Tangerine Bowl game.)

Lest we forget—There is a Maryville tradition that the entire Student Body would gladly destroy.

It seems to be a unanimous opinion that there is no reason for the line situation which has existed in past years—no reason except lack of organization to handle the situation.

When larger colleges and universities are able to register their students, money and all, in two hours—it's time we sat up and took notice. (Editor's note—Which large university?)

To: Santa Claus
Topic: Christmas Gifts
Dear Santa Claus:

Since we haven't been having very cold weather lately, it is best that we first confer with the weather man as to the elements around December 25th. Be back in a minute . . . . Whew! Guess what, Santa? He says it is to be cold and snowy down here 'bout that time. Aren't you glad???? An' now we think it's time to get down to business.

This year, Santa, we have been taught that it is more blessed to give than to receive and so, imbued with the true Christian Christmas spirit, we want you to give these things away to the really deserving people on the campus of Maryville College.

First of all, we want you to give Art Santmier a complete new set of car brakes. Santa why do people drive distances with their brakes on and then think there is something drastically wrong with the motor until the smell rubber burning?

Then there's Mimi Leake. She needs a radar set pretty badly—and especially on these dark mornings when one eye is still closed. Maybe she should dye all her shoes black? But one brown and one black one just won't do, even for breakfast.

Please bring Andy Anderson a small motor for those angel wings she has on that white sweater.

Mary Ramsey, Joan Hall, "Pergy", P.B., Margie, Wanda, Barb, in fact all of third floor Memorial needs a boat, a couple of comfortable pairs of walking shoes and some asbestos clothing to get from Heaven to You-know-where-but-it-isn't-allowed-in-this-paper.

As a very special favor, we want you to look after Joe MaGill and Bob Wilson and bring them some lovely gals to go with. It just doesn't seem right for two nice college boys to have to walk around on campus in broad daylight holding each other's hands.

We hope you can get Peggy Peters a pair of orange and garnet sleeping togs so that when Mrs. Queener tells her class not to dress for gym and Peggy takes her literally, it won't be such a shock.

Mrs. Brown needs another round-trip ticket to Nashville and a reporter to get her story upon her return in order for us to pass Bacteriology. She threatened to flunk us, Santa, honest she did—just because we didn't interview her, too.

A few reams of paper, a typewriter, plenty of erasers, and a dictionary will do nicely for Bill O'Niell and Paul Kolter who think that they could stand on Pearsons steps after supper, eavesdrop on conversations, and write a book.

Give the football players plenty of What-ever-it-takes to win the bowl game on New Year's. Also give Coach Davis some sort of a distinguishing mark so we can tell the back of his car from the front at a distance. Very confusing to the uninformed.

Please give Ralph an undetachable set of chains for all his suits and a radiance that never seases so that we may all see the light. And while we're on the subject, let us wish those who dole out punishments a very special Merry Christmas. They have a nook all their own in our heart.

We think Janet Rich needs a bit of patience and a lot of luck during the Christmas holidays so that her plans will work out o.k.

Oh yes, Santa Claus, we can't think of anything you could bring Tom Cecil other than a long switch and a piece of coal. However, you can forget about the coal if other people need it more—and there are some who do that we know of.

Please bring Margie Newland a new doll. We think Lulu needs a rest and recuperation period. It must be tough to be a silent condifent along certain lines.

Ernie Cook needs a new pair of glasses and plenty of patience and fortitude if he's going to room with Art Haaf next semester.

Please leave some stockings for Footsie. And if you can, find a design that will match the one on her right leg. And make sure the toes are in these, please.

Say, Santa, how 'bout some Kleenex spread liberally around the girl's dorms. If you don't the sleeves around here are going to take a beating.

TALK OF THE WEEK . . .

By JEAN ALMY

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
"The Highland Echo,"

As many students were aware, some person of low character used th epanic conditions of the fire in the Chapel on Thanksgiving night as an occasion for helping himself to more than $50 in money which was dropped on the campus when by personal belonings were being moved to Baldwin Hall.

Inasmuch as the insurance did not cover such losses, and since the college officials did not feel any responsibility to replace the money, it was indeed the act of a "Good Samaritan" who anonymously placed an envelope containing $40 in my desk drawer on the following Sunday evening. I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to you, "Good Samaritan", (whoever you may be) and hope that this message will reach you. Your generosity has helped me immensely to feel that there still remains some poeple of good will in this world which, in times of need, seems filled with those who have but little feeling for the misfortunes of others. Although you prefer to remain anonymous, I hope that you will feel rewarded for your kind act in knowing that you were a real friend meeting a real need.

Most Sincerely,

A. Thomas Horst

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

M.C. - 33, Hiwassee - 0

After a three year lapse the Scots were off to a flying start in their opener. Winton Enloe started the parade with a 58-yard touchdown run early in the seconde quarter after Hiwassee had outplayed the Scots in the initial period. Leon Berrong, Pepper and Merriman added three more tallies in the third period and Benny Baldwin another in the finale. Three extra points by Ross Honaker brought the total to 33 for the Scots.

M.C. - 14, Tennessee Wesleyan - 0

In the Wesleyan fracas Leon Berrong ran 18 yards to pay dirt in the first quarter, and Winton Enloe skirted right end for the final ten yards and the second tally, which came in the second period. Bobby Neff booted both extra points. Head Coach Honaker and quarterback Ross Honaker were absent from the game due to a death in the family.

M.C. - 19, Centre - 0

Centre's favored eleven were treated rudely by a superior team of Scots as they fell before the bruising attack of the Highlanders. Enloe scored at the beginning of the second quarter after a scoreless first period. Honaker added the point. Taking the second half kick-off, the Scots marched 68 yards for their second score. Howard Davis, end, took a 27-yard pass from Leon Berrong in the end zone for the talley. Merriman passed wide to the right to Leon Berrong who covered 20 yards for the last score near the end of the game.

M.C. - 25, E. T. State - 2

Merriman plunged over for the Scots first tally early in the game. Then the Bucs scored the first points of the season which had been re-registered against the Scots on a safety in the first quarter. Half-time score stood at 6-2. Early in the third quarter fullback Merriman chalked up his second TD on a plunge from the 1-foot marker. Merriman scored again in the fourth period and substitute end, Bill Largen went over for the last marker. Honaker converted. First string end, Ken Talbot, was lost for the season as he received a broken collar bone.

Scots Score Often In Scond Half to Trounce Hiwassee

The Maryville basketeers downed a scrappy Hiwassee quintet Thursday night on the home court by a score of 49-34. The first half of the game was closely contested and neither team was ahead at any time by a sizeable margin. The Scotties, by virtue of several good free throws, lead at the half by a score of 20-16. The second half of the game was a different story with the locals dominating the entire play.

Brick Brahams went on another scoring spree and chalked-up 20 points for Maryville. Ray Lillard accounted for 12 points to be the next high scorer of the game. Cantrell of the Hiwassee quintet was high point man of his squad with eight points. Squire Kemp was the defensive star of the game. He intercepted numerous Hiwassee passes which directly resulted in baskets for the Scots.

Kemp Opens Scoring

Kemp, Maryville guard, opened the scoring with a long field goal from the side. Poe of Hiwassee evened the count shortly after Kemp's shot. With seven minutes to play in the first half, Hiwassee found the bucket three times in succession to knot the score 12-12. Boring broke the tie when he dribbled the length of the court and made a lay-up shot. From this time on the Scotties held the lead.

Scotties Get "Hot"

Morrell, Hiwassee guard, opened the second half scoring with a shot from the corner. Ray Lillard followed for Maryville with a lay-up shot and from this point on it was the Scots ball game. Brick Braham's one-hand shot from the corner accounted for a great part of Maryville scores in the final half. The visitors were held to 18 points in the scond half while the locals amassed a total of 29. At one time the Scotties scored five straight field goals.

Maryville "Bees" Win

The Maryville "B" team out classed the Defoe Lumber Co. independents in a preliminary game by a count of 39-16. "Big Mitch" and Davis were the top men for Maryville with 11 points each. Sparks was the top man for the independents with six points.

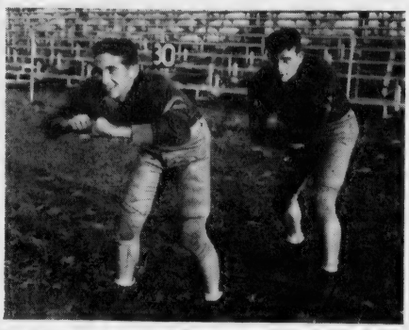
The Maryville Scotties basketball squad had their first real test of the season Monday night when they met the strong independent Carbon Carbide quintet on the home court. The locals came through with a 53 to 30 win.



Ray Lillard paced both teams with 12 points. Brick Brahams tallied 8 points while Boring and L. Berrong countered 7 points each. Dykstra, huge center of Carbon Carbide was top man for his squad with 8 points.

The Scotties were behind at the end of the initial period by a count of 13-11, but they overcame this slight margin to lead 23-18 at the half. The second half was Maryville's ball game all the way; the locals having scored 30 points while holding their opponents to 12 markers.

Coach Honaker substituted freely throughout the entire game. His starting line-up was as follows. H. Brahams and B. Brahams at forwards, Kemp and Wilson at guards and R. Lillard in the center shot.

The starters for Carbon Carbide were. Koteski and Whipple at forwards, Hale and Grisham guards and Dykstra center.

Playing on a wet turf the Scots took their fifth straight win as Merriman tallied first in the initial period on a 2-yard line buck. Leon Berrong scampered 13 yards in the second period, and Pepper rounded left end for 7 yards in the last quarter. Honaker added the point. The Wasps scored the first touchdown of the year against the Scots on a 23-yard pass play late in the first half.

M.C. - 20, M. T. State - 6

Maryville's homecoming game was highly successful as its forward wall continued its outstanding play featured by Lloyd Anderson's recovery of three State fumbles. Captain Mitchell and center Garner contributed their usual stering performances. Hershell Merriman ran 16 yards for the first score in the second quarter, and then again late in the same period streaked over from the eight. Honaker converted both extra points. Following a scoreless third period the Staters came back to score on a pass play which covered 22 yards. Maryville's final score came as Leon Berrong passed 10 yards to wingback Pepper in the end zone.

M.C. - 7, Sewanee - 0

An outplayed Highlander team managed to emerge victorious by virtue of a pass interception and a 70-yard run by Wingback Charlie Pepper with the aid of Center "Pie" Garner who took out two would be tacklers who attempted to halt Charlie's gallop. Honaker added the point.

M.C. - 33, Carson-Newman - 7

Maryville's traditional rivals were no match for the Scots as Merriman bucked over in his usual style for the first score in the first period. The second period found Enloe passing seven yards to Pepper for a score and Bobby Neff passing 26 yards to Baldwin for another tally. Honaker booted the point after the second score. Pepper took the second half kickoff and pranced 92 yards for a six more points. Honaker booted the point. Then came C-N's lone score on a pass play which carried 55 yards to pay dirt. The try for point was good. Tailback Berrong added the last marker on a 7-yard run around right end. The kick by Honaker was good.

M.C. - 41, Tusculum - 0

End "Hardy" Davis scooped up a blocked punt and carried it 20 yards for the Scots' first score. King Berrong added the point. Merriman plunged 32 yards and Honaker booted the point for seven more in the first period. A scoreless second period followed. Leon Berrong opened the third quarter with a 45-yard run to the double stripes. Honaker made 21-0. Berrong then passed to Honaker on the 20 and Honaker went the remaining distance for the score, and then missed the try for extra point. Again in the third quarter it was Leon Berrong running, this time for 64 yards, to pay dirt. Baldwin picked up the blocked kick and ran for the extra point.

Winton Enloe had the honor of scoring the Scot's first and last touchdowns of the year as he dashed 22 yards for the last score against the Pioneers. Honaker's kick was good.

Pres. Ralph W. Lloyd Arrives Home After Extended Trip Around World

President Ralph W. Lloyd arrived at the airport last night on the 9:05 plane from New York City, his arrival thus terminating an extended trip in the Orient which began with his departure last August 21.

He landed in New York Thursday morning at 3:20 o'clock. Met by his eldest son, who is studying at Yale University, Dr. Lloyd spent the rest of the day with the Vernon Lloyd family. He returned to New York City on business yesterday morning, Friday, after which he boarded the 4:00 P. M. plane for Knoxville. His arrival was delayed by almost twenty four hours because of fog in England and Ireland.

Since he left, Dr. Lloyd has made a trip completely around the World. Being one of five men appointed last May by the Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. to make a survey of the Church's work in China and to make recommendations for future work, he left by plane for New York on the morning of August 21. His passage from there was directly to San Francisco, later to Honolulu, and finally to China. He continued his trip westward by coming home by way of England.

President Lloyd was met by his family at the airport and by a large gahering of students upon arrival at his home.

CHILHOWEANS TO COME OUT BEFORE END OF SEMESTER

Miss Elsie Onifer, editor of the Chilhowean, announced this week that the Chilhowean will come out by the end of the school year unless something happens at the printers to delay it. Miss Onifer stated that most of the engravings are in and that the manuscript is almost complete. The deadline for all copy is February 14.

Ken Kribbs, business manager, reported that final payments must be made before the end of school. A booth will be set up outside the Student Help Office on February 10 to accept payment.

Writer's Workshop Selects Best Work

Five writers were elected on Wednesday, Jan. 22, by Writer's Workshop as having presented the five best pieces of work for the past semester.

Fred Wilson's short story, "42-X", was included in the group. Also chosen was an unnamed descriptive piece by Evelyn Anderson. Three poems, "Symphony", "An Evacuees' Prayer", and "Stars" written by Anna Sakaizawa were chosen. Dr. E. R. Hunter's group of four editorials about the possibility of a third party in the next presidential election, the war criminal trials, white supremacy, and a "Prayer for the Bums", the prayer of a Brooklyn minister for the baseball team, were among those selected. The play, "She Found Her Self", by Miss Nellie Guellas, completed the list of the five best writings of the semester.

January 29, Ruth Kaye and Joan Liddell will be the readers, with Alma Lancaster and E. J. Cotton as their critics.

Maurice Pedersen To Give Recital

Maurice Douglas Pedersen, A. A.G.O. will present a recital Sunday afternoon at 4:00 in Voorhees Chapel. Mr. Pedersen is now piano and organ teacher in the music department in the absence of Miss Katherine C. Davies. His program is as follows:

Several more Sunday afternoon concerts by various persons are planned for this semester by the Fine Arts department.

Science Dept. Gets Surplus Materials

A shipment of war surplus materials arrived at the chemistry and physics departments on Monday morning. These supplies are part of a program of the U. S. Office of Education designed to route Army, Navy, and Air Corps. war surplus scientific equipment to the high schools and colleges. Before Christmas Maryville College applied for some of this material through the branch office in Nashville.

The shipment included such valuable and useful equipment as radio parts, transformers and other elecrical apparatus, and physics and analytical chemistry apparatus which, if purchased new, would be very expensive.

The professors of the Physics and Chemistry departments reported that most of the equipment would be put in use as soon as possible. A number of the heavier parts will be used later when space is available.

An effort is being made to make an inventory of the shipment.

Miss Davies Takes Leave of Absence

Miss Katharine C. Davies, Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts, is on leave of absence this semester for further study. Having received her Master's degree in music in 1938, Miss Davies is doing graduate work in piano and musicology at the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester, Rochester, New York. Miss Davies expects also to spend some time visiting other colleges which have fine arts divisions.

Miss Dorothy D. Horne has been appointed Acting Chairman during Miss Davies' absence. The class in music appreciation is being taught by Miss Ruth Duggan and Mr. Maurice Douglas Pedersen is teaching private lessons in piano and organ. A native of Warrensburr, Missouri, where he attended high school and the State Teachers College. Mr. Pedersen is organist and choir master at St. John's Episcopal Church, Knoxville. The first tournament in which part of the squad wil participate will be held at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute at Cookeville, Tenn. on February 20 and 21.

Maryville Alumna Named New Dean Of Women at M.C.

Miss Frances Massey, Dean of Women at Maryville, began her work here at the opening of this semester. Miss Massey is a native of Oxford, Alabama, and a 1934 graduate of Maryville. While here she was active in YW and Dramatic Art, was a biology assistant, did Honors Work in biology, and was elected to Alpha Gamma Sigma. While a junior, she was Maryville's student representative at a national convention of the DAR. Before coming to Maryville, she taught at the Anniston High School in Anniston, Alabama.

As Dean of Women she will have supervision over all women's dormitories and their staffs, and all matters touching the lives of women students. Under the college's plan of organization, she is directly responsible to the Dean of Students.

Miss Massey will live off the campus, and will not be directly responsible for any one women's dormitory. Her office will be in Anderson Hall, as close to that of the Dean of Students as possible, although the exact locaiton has not yet been decided upon.

ART CLUB SPONSORS 23 COLOR PRINTS

Under the auspices of the Art Club, an exhibit of twenty-three color reproductions from the American Federation of Arts will be presented in the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial Art Gallery in Anderson Hall. The first exhibition is to be held on Wednesday, January 29, and will be continued from 1:30 to 4:30 on every Monday, Wednesday and Friday thereafter until February 14.

This collection includes examples from both the old and modern masters. Since color is the one element which makes the greatest appeal, the predominating portion of the exhibition is in color.

The reproductions of Japanese prints widen the appeal beyond the Western Art. Among these works, the older figures masters have been given preference to those more popular landscape artists who have already become familiar in this country. Both as to artistic rendering and reproduction, the Japanese prints in this collection are superior to those already well known to our schools and colleges.

Combined Glee Clubs To Give "Holy City"

The Men's Glee Club will cooperate with the All Girls Choir in the rendition of "The Holy City" at the college chapel on Palm Sunday, Mr. Hughes has announced.

Practice was begun last Wednesday evening and will continue until the program is presented.

Ruth King Wood New YW President

Ruth King Wood, senior religious education major, has assumed the duties of YW president following the graduation of Judy Turk, former president, in December.

Miss Wood served last semester as vice-president of the organization. Last year she was president of the M club, vice president of YW, a member of the Daisy chain, and has been active in point system throughout her college career.

The vacancy caused by Miss Wood's moving to the presidency has not been filled.

Vesper Choir To Sing At Oak Ridge

Vesper Choir, under the direction of Prof. R. W. Vine, will go to Oak Ridge Sunday, February 2 to present a concert. The concert is sponsored by the United Church and will be presented in the high school auditorium at 4:00. The program is as follows:

Members of the Choir will also participate in the evening program to be given at the regular church service. A few solos from the "Messiah" as well as an anthem by the Choir will be included in this service.

TOTAL ENROLLMENT DECREASES TWENTY

The enrollment of students at Maryville college for the second semester has decreased by twenty students, yet there are two more men than there were the first semester. The enrollment for the second semester totals 813 students, 383 of which are women and 430 men (umpteen of which are married). New students number 48, with women totaling 5 and by rapid calculations mentally that leaves 43 men.

The total for first semester was 833; women numbering 405, men, 428. 27 women and 41 men left school during and at the end of the semester. This totals 68. Now 48 new students subtracted from 68 that left leaves us with a deficit of 20. Now 20 subtracted from 833 leaves 813 which, amazingly enough, is mathematically correct. Dear me.

Tuesday Violators Punished By Student Council

Town night violations took the spotlight at the initial meeting of the Student Council for the second semester. The serious matter of these violations was stressed at the January 22 meeting, and heavy penalties were applied.

There was one addition to the Council this semester. Scott McClure, biology major, replaces Frank Kramer as one of the junior representatives. Kramer, an economics major, became a senior at the end of the first semester. The new member was elected by the junior class in a special meeting Wednesday morning.

It was decided that there would be no Student Faculty Senate Meeting until the return of President Ralph W. Lloyd.

Plans were made for the official opening of the Recreation Hall which should take place sometime next week. Elsie Jean Cotton is in charge.

Discussion concerning the moving of the Chatterbox and Recreation Hall to the left wing of Thaw basement was brought to a close with the promise of immediate attention at the first Senate meeting following President Lloyd's return.

A committee of three composed of Jayne Shouse, Fred Wilson, and Anna Sakaizawa was formed for the purpose of rewriting a provision pertaining to Town Night regulations.

Miss Jackson On Convalescent List

Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Assistant Professor of English at Maryville College since 1935, underwent an operation at Doctor's Hospital on December 27. At the present she is improving rapidly at Miss Clemmie J. Henry's home where she has been living for the past few years.

Upon her return to work Miss Jackson will continue with her regular schedule. Her classes are temporarily being carried by Dr. Hunter, Miss Heron and Miss Johnson.

Miss Jackson's unexpected illness interrupted plans she and Miss Henry had made to make a motor trip to New Orleans on January 3.

MORNING DEVOTIONS IN THAW HALL RESUMED

Early morning devotions have been resumed under the title of "The Morning Watch". This organization, which began last semester under the supervision of the devotion committees of the Y. W. and Y. M., has at the present about thirty-five regular attendants. Each morning at 6:30 they meet in the philosophy classroom in Thaw Hall. Leaders for devotions are entirely voluntary.

Five Artists In Musical Show

Tonight at 8:15 p.m. the Maryville College Artist Series will feature "A Night in Old Vienna", a musical show filled with variety and rich entertainment. Five young American artists, Mona Bradford, contralto; Laura Castellano, soprano, Richard Gordon, tenor; John Gurney, basso; and Eduardo Rael, baritone are the singers of the company. Warner Bass is musical director and piano accompanist .Miss Bradford and Mr. Gurney have each appeared twice before on the Maryville College stage, once in an opera once as soloists, and are favorites of the Maryville audience.

Old Fashioned Concert Company

"A Night In Old Vienna" is an attempt to recapture the flavor and spirit of Vienna in the time of Emporer Franz Joseph. These five artists have been fused into an old-fashioned "concert company" to present a varied and entertaining program of Vienna's most beloved melodies. Veteran impressario Charles L. Wagner, a name well known to Maryvillians, is manager of the company.

Highlights From "Martha"

From the wealth of Viennese song literature, Mr. Bass selected Johann Strauss' "Voices of Spring" as an opening number. Highlights from von Flotow's opera comique, "Martha" are then presented by the entire ensemble in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the premiere of "Martha" in Vienna. After the intermission, Johann Strauss will again be represented by a group of highlights from the ever popular "Rosalinda" (The Bat); and the program wil conclude with Mr. Bass' arrangement of more modern Viennese favorites by such composers as Kalman, Lehar, Strauss and Stoltz.

Now in Second Season

"A Night In Old Vienna" now in its second season appears well on its way to becoming an annual favorite on coast-to-coast tours. All five of the artists have distinguished themselves in opera before becoming as members of the group. Miss Bradford and Mr. Gordon hail from the Chicago Opera and Mr. Gurney has long been a favorite at the Metropolitan. Miss Castellano and Mr. Rael, while newcomers, have both established their fame with leading roles in touring opera productions. Warner Bass, distinguished young composer, conductor and pianist has been graciously released as accompanist by Jan Peerce so that he might become musical director of "A Night In Old Vienna."

Carnegie Couples Club Has First Meeting

The first meeting of the semester for the CCC, or Carnegie Couples Club, was held in the basement kitchen of Carnegie Hall on Monday, January 20, at 8:00 p. m., with Donald Kribbs presiding.

Election of new officers was discussed briefly, but because of poor attendance it was decided to postpone voting until the next session. Only about six couples were present. The Club will meet again on Monday, February 3rd. Eight p. m. in the basement kitchen will be the time and place.

DR. RALPH T. CASE TO BE VESPER SPEAKER

Dr. Ralph T. Case, associate professor of Sociology, will be the speaker at Vespers January 26, 1947. The Vesper Choir will sing a three part motet "Blessing and Glory and Wisdom" by Bach and "The Anusvei's Day" by Kaliniof.

POTENTIAL REPORTERS?

All students desiring to try out for positions on the editorial staff of the Highland Echo are requested to be present at the staff meeting in the Echo office in Thaw Hall on Mandov evening at 7:20. There are vacancies for members of the junior, sophomore and freshman classes.

Ever Wonder Where We Do Our Printing? Ask "Dock" About Anderson Basement

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Dr. Barker, Mr. Vine, and other faculty members begin their Tuesdays at chapel handing out printed honor slips, totaling approximately 835 each week. With 16 weeks in a semester, the sum of honor slips enters a new light of enormity. . . You attend a student recital given by Dorothy Vawter, Frances Ashby, and Betty Hall. Upon entering the chapel you receive a printed program. . . Before you came to Maryville College you received a bulletin mailed in a brown, almost square printed envelope and letters printed on college stationery . . . You attended the Artist's Series, the "Messiah", and plays, seldom realizing that each program and ticket, in addition to the honor slips, envelopes, stationery, and letters, probably had its origin in the basement of Anderson Hall.

For years, before Miss Henry was here and before Dean McClelland was a student, there has been a printing machine in operation on campus. The past several years it has been located in the basement of Anderson Hall, in front of and below the Treasurer's Office. The work is supervised and proofed by Miss Clemmie J. Henry, a faculty member, but the actual work is done by students. Although it was not used last semester, it was operating during the last school year and will be put into operation again soon.

Dockendorf Sets Type

The student who ordinarily sets type is Bob Dockendorf, a senior whom Miss Henry praises as being quite good at the work. Each letter is set by hand, and "Dock" can usually set up a small page in one and a half hours. That pertains to a solid page such as is in the yearbooks of Maryville women's groups, which are often printed at the college.

In Use Before 1914-15

"Dock", however, is not the first student to set up such type. Harold Hunter worked on it last year, and long before him, in fact, in 1914-15, a sophomore student by the name of Frank McClelland did the entire operation for ten cents an hour. At that time it was located in the officer of Professor C. H. Gillingham, then a professor in Bible and the college registrar. (Dr. Gillingham only recently retired from teaching at the college. He resides in Maryville.) His of-

'Taking Stock of Ourselves'

Not that it's very close to the beginning of the calendar year any more, for it is not; and not that this is the beginning of a school year, for it is not; but we feel, as Dr. McClellad said at the first chapel of this semester, this is an extremely good place to pause and "take stock of ourselves."

In the first issue of the ECHO this past fall we said editorially, "Truly it is going to be a great year at Maryville!" And from here it s clearly seen how correct that prediction has proven. We here maintained all our highly admirable ideals and traditions, such as the friendly atmosphere, despite a greatly enlarged student body. Moreover we had a great record in some activties that we had missed so badly for so long. We had a great, or near great, football squad which furnished all the desired athletic entertainment. School spirit was good and individual attitudes were good. It was a good semester.

And now we have begun another semester which should be even better in many ways. It is a wonderful opportunity to start anew, and on the right track, to put first thnigs first—"to do that studying when it should be done." And as far as the athletic outlook, it is even brighter than was last semester's. We have a good basketball squad, which deserves a lot of support. We have an outstanding wrestling team which shows promise of doing great things with a great schedule. And later we will have our first real postwar baseball outfit—the sport in which Coach Honaker shows his greatness, as well as bright track prospects. . . and tennis.

Yes, it looks like a busy semester. But personally we feel a great deal of pride in the fact that Maryville is the kind of school where First things come first, no matter how many or how enticing the activities seem. And we are referring to the fact hat here each year a whole week is set aside for the sole purpose of emphasizng that which is too often crowded out in our disorderly, cluttered schedues—the spiritual. Maryville's valuable February Meetings. Truly it's going to be a great week at Maryville. Truly, it's going to be a great "rest-of-the-year" at Maryville.

Welcome Home President

Those who were in charge during our college president's absence have done a good job, a heroic job. But we are sure that they would be the first to say it's good to have him back with us. At Maryville we need Dr. Lloyd; things just don't go as well with him away. It is good to have our president with us once again. Welcome home, President Lloyd.

One Year Ago Today

One year ago today——the women of Maryville College elected officers for the Women's Student Government Association which they had accepted four days before and which went into effect one week later.

When we remember an anniversary such as this, our first question is naturally, "How has it worked?" We decided to find out.

Dean McClelland and the dormitory staffs feel that the association has made excellent progress, and that the majority of the girls have assumed a large amount of responsibility for their own actions. The plan is improving and is increasing in strength; there have been some noble efforts to make it work.

The students feel that the girls are old enough to assume responsibiliy, and that they have already done a lot. The plan has improved the school and made the life of the girls more pleasant.

They feel that, although the WSGA has made a very good showing so far, the plan isn't perfect. They state that there are some girls who should take more responsibility. Admitedly, the plan is not perfect, but it is only a year old, and we are just now seeing our mistakes and becoming able to see where we can profit by them and make changes to correct them. The students and faculty alike think the association lacks everyone's wholehearted cooperation and that the girls don't seem to realize that duties go along with the privileges.

Dean McClelland states the solution to these views this way—"I think the secret of effective self-government is the recognition of the part of each individual of his or her personal responsibility toward good government."

Last January the editorial page of the Echo carried an editorial which asked "What does this (the inauguration of student government) mean for Maryville College?" It has meant greater training in citizenship and the making of more resonisble students. Its failure to do either of these has been our failure. Our WSGA is what we have made it.

What will it be on its second anniversary?

Just Being "Nosy"

(By Dr. Echo and Mr. Hide)

Number pul-leez—Baldwin 44.

"Hello, Hide, Where are you? Miss Hallock bolted the door 15 minutes ago."

"Yes, well Miss Grierson bolted the library, too and I'm between the book ends. I was lookin up "blotters" in the Encyclopedia Brittamericana and the subject was so absorbing that they closed the library with me on the inside."

"Pull up a book and sit down while I pour out some gossip over the lines to keep you up with the times. Speaking of lines—what's this about Bill Anderson's white turtleneck sweater from Germany? And there's been some comparing of notes on Bertholf's line. There have been quite a few diamonds sparkling since Christmas: Jean Childress, June Burns, Annebelle Gilliam, Anne Anderson, Kitty Johnson, Elinor Goertz, Bea Rogers, Max Willocks gave Neysa Ferguson (grad of '45) a sparkler. Bob Reeves has diamonds in his eyes flashing for Shirley. (Courtesy of his roommate.)

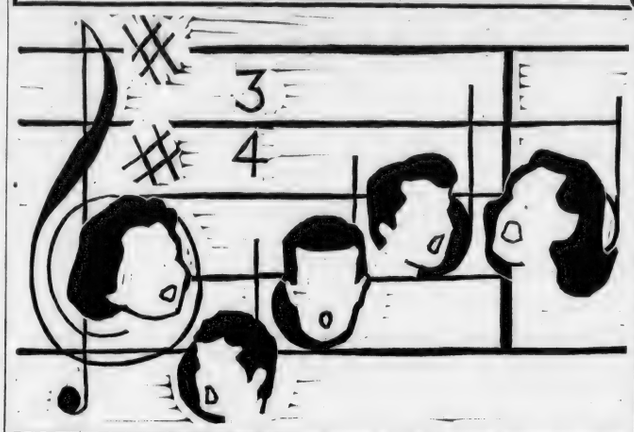
Orchids to——Mrs. Cate, who has made a splendid recovery; Mr. and Mrs. Webb on the arrival of a son; John Shell on his splendid definition: "Philosophy enables one to be unhappy more intelligently;" White orchids to Sandy Smith, who plays boogie for Baldwin gals despite protests. Sidner was noble, too. Proved the age of chivalry is not dead. While Hap played basketball Eunice was gallantly escorted by Bill to see "Easy to Wed".

Dandelions to——Tom Lang's table—with their conversations—tsk, tsk. Dot Jones with her naive questions in sociology class. Taylor's blackmailing Tarell about someone back home.——And, lest we forget, dandelions, to those who wrote "Dear John."

Pertinent questions: Why did the two matrons who keep each other company all day suddenly shake hands in the dining hall? Who was that who yelled, "Hey, Frank." on Iwo. Couldn't have been B. S. Watkins could it? Why is Smilie going stag to Artist Series? Why is Nelson Earnest a confirmed batchelor? Why does Baxter say he's footloose and fancy free. (He's all Cross-ed up.) Why did everyone in Dr. Orr's class laugh when he read the roll: Engel, Lewis. . . " Does Carlson plus Miller plus Nabholz make a triangle or circles? (This is one problem we bet Dr. Sisk can't solve.) What attraction does Knoxville have for Janet Miller to keep her there from Monday night to Wednesday morning? Incidentally don't come to us for the answers.

Wondering: If Ginny uses Woodbury lipstick? Why John Briggs likes things lukewarm. Wonder if Long was really serious when he asked Helen Sorenson about flirting. Wondering if Malone comes in from seeing Jane every night at 1:00. Why so many freshmen brought hot plates with them this semester.

We have only a few other comments (comments' to Herr Reber students.) Margaret Newland is now going with Jerry—Art didn't know exactly and sorta—shall we say—serenaded her. Then we don't know if Ann Cress roller skated home for her Christmas vacation. She had a certain matron in Memorial thinking she was loco. Pie is Rich.



Stew and Corky stay true to Shirley and Bebe, respectively. (Bebe writes every day, reciprocal too.) Fred Depue came to see Scottie. Rumor has it, Southland is opening a branch in Maryville. (It will save so much bus fare.)

By now you all must be like the whole congregation who stayed when the preacher announced there's to be a meeting of the Board after the service. . . . .

Immediately yours,
Dr. Echo and Mr. Hide
(We'll both be hiding after this one.)

TALK OF THE WEEK . . .

By JEAN ALMY

Printing . . .

fice was where the Personnel office is now. Frank McClelland, better known to students as Dean McClelland, says that he often printed the college stationery and football programs.

There have been several machines used by the college since the first one installed before World War. I. The present machine is a multigraph operated by electric power. Miss Henry, under whose supervision the machine has been for numerous years, explains that all work done for college organizations is done at the actual cost of the printing, sometimes one-half the prices quoted elsewhere, thus saving money for both the college and the students.

In case you're wondering about the plentifulness of those Tuesday morning honor slips, Miss Henry says that they print about 20,000 a year, four on a page, later separated by the use of a paper cutter.

New Department Formed

When the machine goes into operation again this semester, it will be under a new department which has recently been formed. Miss Virginia Cates, who joined the faculty last October, will head the department and will be in charge of all printing and mimeographing done at the college.

Green, Black Wed On December 30.

Miss Susan A. Green and Louis B. Black were united in marriage on Monday, December 30, at the bride's home. In the presence of a few close friends and a setting of candelabrae and a fern-banked fireplace, Reverend Thomas A. Graham, assisted by Dr. George F. Davies, solemnized the ceremony without the use of the Bible.

The bride was appropriately dressed in a dark green suit with black accessories and wore a corsage of white flowers.

A wedding cake which "came from somewhere or other" was topped with the traditional figures of the bride and groom. After cutting the cake, the newlyweds tried to duck out the back door, but were hastily informed by Miss Davies that it was bad luck. So, midst a shower of rice, they departed via the front door, to spend their honeymoon in Knoxville.

Mrs. Black admitted that Mr. Black carried her over the threshold and also added that the weather was with them. It rained Sunday, and poured Tuesday but Monday it was clear.

The couple is residng in Mr. Black's home.

I. R. C.

The I. R. C. opened the semester with its first meeting of the year Monday, January 20, 1947. Current news reviews were discussed. They were: "Portal to Portal Suits" led by Jean Blanchard; "Democratic President With Republican Congress" led by Marjorie Prall; "Byrnes, Man of the Year and his Accomplishments"; "U. N. and its Accomplishments" led by Bill Sidner and "Is Indonecia Ready for Antonomy" led by Tom Horst.

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

Maryville College intercollegiate sports competition made it necessary for the sports section of the Highland Echo to report only one losing event in last semester's issues. The football team presented us with nine straight victories, and the cross country team split victories with U-T in the only two meets which they were able to arrange during the season. That second cross country meet was the only intercollegiate event lost by M. C. The basketball team contributed one intercollegiate victory, winning over Hiwassee.

HERE'S HOPING THE SPORTS PAGE WILL BE REPORTING MOSTLY VICTORIES THIS SEMESTER.

Football Banquet

The football banquet on Wednesday night will mark the end of football activities until spring practice begins. Except for a slight mishap on New Year's Day the Scotties boast a perfect season. Nine victories against one setback is good in any league.

Four Scots End Careers

"Big Mitch" Mitchell played his best season for the Scots this year as he served well as captain of the team. It was Mitch's fourth year as a Scottie, and he will be ineligible for further participation. Mitch got the ball used in the Carson-Newman game as his parting souvenir.

Wingback Charlie Pepper will graduate in May and thus has wound up his play for the Highlanders. Coach Honaker praised Pepper as one of the most improved players on the squad this season. Charlie was a dependable pass-receiver and especially capable on the defensive, being noted for his hard flying tackles. Charles has the ball used in the Sewannee tilt which he dashed 70 yards with an intercepted pass to score the lone touchdown of the game and give M. C. the game 7-0.

Bob Herzberger also wound up his career as an orange and garnet performer as he graduates in May.

Donald B. Campbell graduated in December after finishing his first year with the team. Donald B. served as manager in his sophomore and junior years.

Full Sports Semester Ahead

Basketball has begun and the team has won five and lost one so far this season. The squad had an off night the other day when they met E. T. State after a strenuous day in which they were involved in a wreck and were forced to stand around in the cold for some time in the afternoon before the game. But this is no excuse column: the E. T. State lads were hot as a firecracker that night and couldn't seem to miss, while the Scots looked just vice versa. Tusculum will be tough Monday night when they invade with their unbeaten record.

When the Scots get such guys as Ray Lillard, Brick Brahams, Bob Boring, Hugh Hamil, Hap Brahams, and Leon Berrong who can shoot and move like those guys can when they get warmed up it's going to be a tough night for the opposition.

Besides basketball and wrestling we have baseball, track, and tennis to look forward to before graduation time rolls around.

Baseball prospects are bright with King and Leon Berrong leading the way and such other rookies as Bob Boring, Bob Neff and other who will be making themselves heard from when the baseball call comes in the spring.

Coach Mehl is already on the job getting his track plans ready for the approaching season, and although we can't as yet mention any specific names there seems no reason to be glum about the outlook.

Tennis outlook is the most uncertain of all with last year's only real performer graduating this Christmas. But we can always hope that some outstanding freshman will show up to relieve the situation. So far they've done pretty well.

Wrestling was inaugurated last night when the Scots met Georgia Tech in the Alumni Gym as the M. C. squad won their first match 26-10. Chattanooga is next on Friday night here. Only comment on the matches we heard was from an M. C. wrestler after his match. Quote—I'm about to die—Unquote.

Scotties Come Out Second Best in Tangerine Bowl

Maryville's first post-war football eleven tasted defeat at the hands of a powerful Catawba College team in the initial Tangerine Bowl game on Jan. 1, in Orlando, Fla. Final score was 31-6 with the Scots bringing up the rear. The Indians line outweighed the Scots with a 201-lb. average per man to a 191 average. In the backfield the N. C. lads had the edge by 178 to 165 pounds. Also Catawba used reserves freely while Maryville found it necessary to overwork the first team.

Scoreless First Period

Maryville took the kickoff and after getting to their own 40 kicked out on the Cat 28. A quick kick put M. C. back on their 16. A holding penalty and two unsuccessful running plays and Berrong kicked from the end zone to the 50 yard stripe. The ball was returned to the M.C. 39. Following an M. C. time out King Berrong intercepted Bowen's pass on his own 25 and ran 32 yards to the Cat 43 almost getting away for a score. Three plays later Catawba intercepted Leon's pass and proceeded to roll off their first first down of the game after which Bowen kicked out on the M. C. 12. Catawba had began substituting freely and the Scots still were using their starting lineup. After Berrong kicked to his own 47 the Indians began to move running and passing for three first downs getting a first on the M. C. 2 as the quarter ended.

Bam-Bam-Bam!—18-0

The Scotties' line put on their best exhibition of the day as they held off the hard charging Indians for three downs before they finally pushed across their first tally from the 1-yard line. Bowen inflicted the damage as he barely got over on fourth down.

A few plays later Bowen passed for a second tally after the Cats right end blocked Enloe's kick on fourth down. Dorton missed again on the try for extra point.

Bowen intercepted Leon Berrong's pass on the M. C. 40 late in the period and sprinted untouched for another marker as the disastrous second period ended two plays after the kickoff.

Bowen Again

Early in the third quarter the Cats began a 58 yard march to pay dirt which culminated in a lateral from Georgiana to Bowen who went the final 23 yards. Dorton converted for his only successful try in five attempts for the afternoon. Score 25-0.

Late in the third period Davis blocked a Cat punt which M. C. recovered on the enemy 14, but they were only abled to make six yards in four attempts and the Indians took over.

Spears Scores Lone T. D.

End Alan Rock blocked a Cat punt about midway through the fourth quarter and the Scots took over on the Indians 41 from where they proceeded to score their only touchdown of he day. Enloe hit the line for no gain. Honaker passed incomplete to Pepper. Honaker passed to Pepper for 19 yards and a first down on the Cat 22. Enloe picked up two yards rushing. A 5-yard penalty on Catawba put the leather on the 15. Artie Spears crashed through for a first down on the 11. Ken Talbot made four yards to the 7 on an end around play. Spears made another first getting five yards to the 2. Then on a fullback spinner Artie went over the double stripes. The Catawba line swarmed in to block Honaker's try for conversion.

A few minutes before the game ended the Cats intercepted a Scot pass on their own 15 and started a march which ended in a touchdown as Bowen passed to Green in the end zone from the 11. The game

Football Banquet Slated Wednesday

Maryville's annual banquet will be held Wednesday evening, January 29, at 6:30 in the college dining hall. All members of this past season's Highlander squad, which went through the regular season undefeated and received the bid to meet Catawba in the Tangerine Bowl, will be guests. Mr. A. F. Pieper, member of the faculty and former Maryville footballer, will serve as toastmaster. Speakers will be the football coaches and the president of the college.

At the banquet the lettermen for the past season will be announced, and next year's captain will be elected.

Cagers Beat E&H; Lose to E. T. State On Eventful Trip

The Scottie cagement returned from a road trip this week with one win and one loss to their credit. The locals overcame Emory and Henry by a margin of 38-54 and dropped the game with East Tennessee Teachers by a count of 35-52 for their first loss of the season.

The loss to East Tennessee may have been greatly due to the over-excitement of the day. The station wagon in which the team was traveling was involved in what might have been a serious accident, but the occupants escaped injury. The Scottie team lost a lot of valuable rest time due to the mishap.

Scotties Swamp Emory-Henry

Brick Brahams was again the high point man for Maryville with a total of 13. Parrish of E&H matched Brashms' total to be the top man for his squad. The Scotties scored a total of 25 points in the first half while holding their opponents to 13 markers seven of which were charity tosses. The game was never in doubt for the local hoopsters.

The E&H squad began to hit the hoop in the second half and whitled down the margin held by Maryville. The Scotties, however, were never found trailing and they went on to win easily.

Scotties Bow to E-T

The lack of sufficient rest showed on the Scotties in the game with East Tennessee. The E-T squad started fast and held a 11-2 margin midway on the first half. Substitutions enabled the Scots to come from behind and hold a 24-21 lead at the half time.

The E-T aggregation completely dominated the play in the second half and left the Maryville quintet

MC Wrestlers Open Season With Big Win over Ga. Tech.

Maryville College's wrestling team opened the first season since 1942 last night as they thoroughly trounced Georgia Tech 26-10. Coach J. D. Davis' men took four of the eight matches by the fall route and two more by decisions. They lost only two and they were by falls.

Two exhibition matches were both won by Maryville men giving them a total of eight wins in ten matches. Oustanding man of the evening was "Tubby" Calloway who pinned Andrews of Tech in 45 seconds of the first period. Captain Lloyd Anderson, two year letter winner and undefeated in collegiate wrestling downed Larcen of Tech in 2 min. 14 seconds of the first period. Ken Ross, another two year letterman, gave a very good exhibition of how to do the job when he dumped Georgia's Harrison in 1 min. 50 seconds of the first period.

This was the first match of the year and the first intercollegiate experience for seven of Maryville's men. Summary of winners in last night's matches and their weights and time of match are as follows.

1500 Students To Attend Convention

Work began last week for the students of the University of Chicago and others over the nation who are drawing up plans for a gigantic national convention of college and university students to be held during the summer of 1947. Jim Smith, new president of the temporary committee for the summer convention and also president of the Students' Association of the University of Texas, predicted that at least 1500 delegates representing at least 800 campuses will attend the meeting, which will probably be held during the month of September.

Wayne University of Detroit and the University of Wisconsin have already offered their facilities, and other universities of the middle west region will be contacted in order to select the best possible location for the large gathering, Smith announced.

Business: Drafting Constitution

The 475 delegates representing 300 universities and colleges attending the Chicago Student Conference, December 28-30, decided that the University of Chicago will be the site of the offices of the temporary commitee, and that the convention will be called for the coming summer. Main business of the convention will be to draw up and adopt a constitution for a National Students' Association, following which the convention will plan the activities of the Association for the 1947-48 year.

Purpose:

Promotion of Common Aims

At the Chicago Conference, delegates held panel discussions on the need for a national association to promote common aims which all students of the United States share, such as the extension of systems of international student exchange and travel, the extension of wider systems of publication of advances of knowledge in the pure, natural, industrial, and social sciences, the establishment of democratic forms of student government on all campuses on the basis for training in democratic principles and practices, the elimination of racial, religious, or other discrimination in educational opportunity, and the promotion of the widest possible understanding and good will between students, both within the United States and between the students of the various nations of the world.

Other panel sessions discussed the form of the proposed National Students' Association and the work of the temporary committee set up to plan the summer convention. The delegates to the Chicago Conference were selected by the student bodies which they represented, either through elections or student government selections.

Thirty Regions Set Up

Thirty geographic regions were set up within the United States, the Chicago delegates from each region forming a regional committee to disseminate information on the Chicago Conference and stimulate increased atendance at the coming convention. Nineteen national student organizations participating in the conference, including the National Intercollegiate Christian Council of the YMCA and YWCA and the National Catholic Youth Council, will be represented at the summer meeting, on a ratio of approximately 25 student body delegates to one organizational delegate.

The Chicago Student Conference was called by the United States delegation to the World Student Congress, which was held in Prague, Czechoslovakia last summer. At the Conference the following officers were elected: Jim Smith, of the University of Texas, as president: Russell Austin, University of Chicago, as vice-president; Clifton Wharton, of Harvard University, as secretary; and John Simons, of Fordham University, as treasurer. In addition, four people from colleges and universities within 150 miles of Chicago were elected to serve as the Staff Committee. In addition, 30 regional chairmen were selected, who will serve as members of a National Executive Committee. The University of Chicago was the post for the Conference. Most of the meetings were held at the Reynolds Club, on the University campus and most of the delegates and observers stayed at university dormitories during the Conference.

Easter Elected '47 Football Captain

LETTERMEN NAMED

Ronald "Cotton" Easter, popular member of the Highlander football team, was elected captain for the 1947 season at the Football Banquet held in Pearsons Hall on Wednesday evening of this week. Easter is a three year letterman and an outstanding guard. Ken Talbot was elected as alternating Captain. Talbot is also a three year letterman and plays end.

Many were the compliments of all who attended the banquet on the excellent dinner that was provided. Feeding on baked chicken with all the trimmings, the men really got their fill. Acting as Toastmaster for the evening was Mr. A. F. Pieper of the History department of the college. Speakers of the evening were the two coaches, L. S. Honacker and J. D. Davis. A few words of greeting were also given by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, President of the college. Beside the electing of a captain, there were letters awarded to 25 of the squad members.

Heading this list was Marvin "Big Mitch" Mitchell, Captain of this year's Scottie squad, who received his fourth letter. Big Mitch was a standout at tackle and an able leader for the Scotties this year. Big Mitch turned over the captaincy to Cotton Easter at the banquet. There were two seniors who received letters. Bob Herzberger and Charlie Pepper will have completed their studies before next year and will not be playing for the Scotties in the future.

Harvey Overton, competent manager for the Maryville team received the manager's letter. Overton and the two coaches each received a gift from the team members. Other men who lettered are listed below. In this list there is predominance of Freshmen and Sophomores which should give indication of a good team next year.

James Holsey, Bob Garner, Bill Proffitt, Lloyd Anderson, James Newman, Sam Pickens, Fred Kluth Howard Davis, Allen Rock, Ken Talbot, Frank Still, King Berrong, Ken Stinnett, Ross Honaker, Harvey Hollingsworth Bennie Baldwin Leon Berrong, Winton Enloe, Bobby Neff, Hershel Merriman and Bobby Boring.

DR. R. W. LLOYD TO SPEAK AT FACULTY CLUB DINNER

On Monday night, February 3, the faculty club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Home Ec. room on third floor of Fayerweather. Salad and dessert will be served by the Home Economics students. Inter-Class Clash Due February 15

Thar's trouble a-Brewin', my fran'. I heerd those seniors and juniors at Maryville College are out scalp-hunting among those whipper-snappers of sophomores and freshmen. Seems that a frosh insulted a senior by making the mistake of thinking he was only an underclassman and he made the fatal error of letting the senior know it.

So this hyar senior called all his pals in for a pow-wow and they collected their junior frans' for good measure and they're a-aiming to settle this dispute. When the frosh got word which way the wind was a-blowin', he gathered all his freshmen pals around and called in the sophomores to even things up a little.

So thar you have the two opposin' factions. The juniors and seniors are practicing up, holding councils of war and so are the sophs and frosh. Seems they're a-planning to settle this, all, any, and sundry disputes in a basketball game, come February 15.

Beware, fran's. Walk easy. Gather 'round yore clan and prepare for the big clash scheduled for two weeks from today.

Watch yore paper for latest communiques, storm signals, war bulletins and reports from the reconaissance squad concerning this fracas of the campus-ites.

STUDENT VOLS

Sunday, February 2, President Ralph W. Lloyd will speak to Student Vols. His talk will be about some missionaries on the foreign mission field. He will tell of some of the missionaries he met and the work he saw in China.

Last Sunday the meeting was a report on the World Mission Conference.

Dr. C. H. Gillingham To Speak At Vespers

Rev. Dr. Clinton H. Gillingham, retired Maryville College Professor of Bible, will speak at Vespers Sunday, February 2. Dr. Gillingham graduated from Maryville College and received his D. D. at Louisville Presbyterian Seminary in 1908. He taught at Maryville College from 1907 to 1929 and returned for one year in 1945 as Visiting Professor of Bible. He is now living in Maryville.

The All-Girl Choir will sing "Lord Jesu Christ With Us Abide", by Bach, a bi-choral number, and "Lead Me, O Lord" by Peery.

Dr. Lloyd Speaks On China in Chapel

Traveling eight thousand miles through the interior of China during three months, gave Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd first-hand information for his Wednesday morning address, "New China and the Forces Making It."

In discussing various situations with the Chinese people, Dr. Lloyd observed that several important factors must be reckoned with before a new China can be developed. For nine years the Chinese had fought Japan to prevent an extension of Japan in China; and even though many recognize the value of these progressive ideas, it will be very difficult to eradicate customs and traditions of thousands of years.

Forces Making New China

Population, geography, history, education, and politics, are the main forces to contend with. Approximately one-fifth of the people in the world live in China. Dr. Lloyd's first impression was the tremendous number of people in Shanghai, China's largest city. Three-fifths of this over-whelming mass of humanity live not in the city, but in the rural sections. Food, health, and unemployment problems must be coped with for all these people.

China, with its mountains, plains and rivers seems, in general, very much like the United States. The oldest culture in the world has great variety, area, and possibility with much room for continued growth and expansion.

The roots of China are so well grounded in the ties of family tradition that it is doubtful how soon circumstances can be changed to make for a unified government with a sense of oneness. Thirty-five years ago Sun-Yat-Sen inaugurated the Republic of New China.

The Problem of Education

The main problem of education in China is the lack of money and teachers. Fifty to 70 per cent of the older men and boys are illiterate and at least 95 per cent of the women cannot read and write. There are 270,000 elementary schools, 3000 middle schools (paralleling American high schools), and 125 colleges and universities. These institutions of learning are crowded because the sense of need for educatoin is a new sense grow-

Leo Wu Arrives at Maryville to Study Is Interested in Athletics, Debating

A native of Shanghai, China, on his first visit to America, Leo Wou arrived at Maryville Wednesday afternoon, January 29. He sailed from Shanghai on the General Gordon January 21, after waiting one month and one week before he was able to obtain his passport and student's visa. From San Francisco, where the ship docked, he went to Philadelphia to visit friends, spent one night in New York, and then came on to Maryville.

Leo plans to stay at Maryville one or two years, then transfer to an architectural school. His major in Shanghai was electrical engineering. He'd like to stay in the United States after he finishes school, but isn't sure he'll be able to have his visa changed. Meanwhile he has signed up for several art courses, history, Bible, and dramatic art.

Baseball and debate especially interest Leo, because he's had training in both, but he feels reluctant about debating in English He would like to learn to swim, and intends to learn all the other sports he can while he has the opportunity.

Traffic conditions impressed him as much better than in Shanghai, where one can get where he wants to go much faster if he walks than by any other method, even automobile.

Leo likes America and American people. He thinks they're very friendly, though he admitted he had one bad moment on his train trip here from Philadelphia. During his sixteen-hour trip, he exchanged not one word with any of his fellow passengers, but he heard some of them talking about him—"That Chinese boy. . .bet he can't speak English at all", in tones which sounded suspicious. But he ended the trip in fine shape and is already becoming well established at Maryville.

'Night in Vienna' May We Have More

By DOROTHY VAWTER

Adance notices sometimes promise too much and lead to disappointment. Such a thing has even happened here, but it did not happen in connection with the Saturday night program. Every prediction and promise came true and every wish was satisfied, except of course the somewhat vociferous request for more. It was the first time in the memory of most of us that no encores were granted. It was a long and exacting program however and probably good strategy on the part of the performers, because we certainly do want more

It was a program entirely different and yet not too different, because there is no one who does not love the lilt and refined gayety of Viennese music. The last group seemed to be the favorite of the audience, as was to be expected. The fact may be contributed to the informality of the singers and the familiarity of the songs. The whole company was in tip-top condition but were better as soloists than group singers, which is to be expected since each is fairly well up in the concert world in his own right.

It is necessary to say a word of appreciation for the pianist and director, Warner Bass. Although he received less attention and glory, he was the guiding hand that led the performance through to success. Conducting and accompanying at the same time is a very exacting job and is becoming a rarity in the music world.

Scenery and costumes lent much to the performance, especially to the presentation of "Martha" which was done extremely well under the limitations which accompany a concertized version of the opera. The spirit of the opera might have been lost without the carefree acting of the singers.

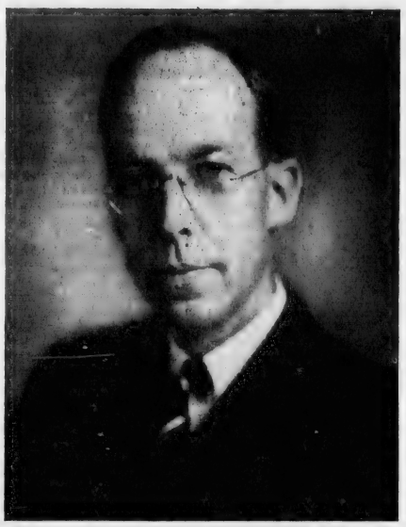
A good performance well presented—may we have more of them.

Council Discusses Rec Center, Scottie

With no town night violations to cope with on its second meeting, the Student Council opened its business with a report from Elsie Jean Cotton concerning the Recreation Center. She reported that the freshly varnished gym floor of Bartlett will prevent enthusiastic volleyball players from enjoying this well attended sport. Discussion then centered around the possibility of having the volleyball court upstairs where the ping-pong tables are. It was finally decided that the subject would be brought up at the Student Faculty Senate's next meeting.

The acquiring of a scottie dog to serve the purpose of a Maryville College mascot was among some of the old business carried over from last year. As the canine would represent Maryville at next year's gridiron contests, the final decision was to have the matter brought up by next year's Student Council.

Approvement of the opening of the swimming pool on Town Nights now rests solely on the faculty. The Council has obtained Coach Mehl's approval and the student body soon may have a new Town Night feature.



It was announced that, due to President Lloyd's absence Friday, there would be no meeting of the Student Faculty Senate. The next meeting will be held Friday, February 7.

"All members of the student body may attend open meetings of the Student Council" said President John Shell.

The International Relations Club will meet Monday evening at 6:45 in Thaw 214. There will be a brief current news discussion on Georgia. The main program will be a discussion on the topic "India" given by Virginia McArthur and Ed Voorhees. Miss McArthur will present the viewpoint of the Indians on Independence and Mr. Voorhees will present the viewpoint of the English.

71st. Series Of February Meetings Begins Wednesday

Dr. John H. Gardner

Dr. J. H. Gardner To Lead Services

Dr. Stringham Leads Music for 25th Year

Maryville College will open the seventy-first series of the February Meetings at the 9:45 chapel service next Wednesday morning, February 5. The Rev. Dr. John H. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, Maryland, will lead the services which will be held twice daily, at 9:45 a. m. and 7:00 p. m., through Thursday morning, February 13. No services, however will be held on Saturday night or Sunday morning.

The Rev. Dr. Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the New McKendree Methodist Church, Jackson, Missouri, is returning to lead the music for the twenty-fifth time in the past twenty-six years.

First Meetings in 1877

Originating on the second floor of Anderson Hall in 1877, the February Meetings have grown to be considered an important part of the school year, emphasizing the necessity of Christianity for character building. The speaker, always one of the best in the Church, usually carries out two themes, one for the morning services and the other for the evening services. Each time public prayers are given by students and faculty members. After the first day, there are opportunities for regularly scheduled interviews with both Dr. Gardner and Dr. Stringham. Group prayer meetings are held, and there will be forums if they are requested.

Morning Class Schedule
February 5 to 12

a period— 8:00- 8:45
b period— 8:50- 9:35
chapel— 9:45-10:40
c period—10:50-11:35
d period—11:40-12:25

The speaker this year, Dr. Gardner, is the pastor of one of the oldest churches in the East. In addition, he is a member of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education and of the Boards of Directors of Maryville College and Hamilton College; the latter is in New York.

Graduate of Hamilton College

Born and reared in Upper New York, near the St. Lawrence river, Dr. Gardner graduated from Hamilton College. There he was a Phi Kappa and a varsity athlete. Later he attended McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago.

He began his ministerial career as a lay assistant at the Fort Street Presbyterian Church in Detroit, followed by a year as chaplain of the 75th Infantry, 13th Division, of the United States Army in World War I. Other churches at which he has been a pastor are the First Presbyterian Church, Anna, Illinois, and the First Presbyterian Church, Urbana, Illinois. He spent ten years at the latter church, before he went to Baltimore, where he has also served for ten years.

Active During World War II

During World War II, Dr. Gardner was Chairman of the Presbyterian Committee on Camp and Church Activities, which directed the Presbyterian work for service men. He was also a member of the Presbyterian Committee on Chaplains, in addition to being Technical Consultant of the Federal Commission on Welfare and Recreation. He had two sons in military service, one a Navy pilot and one an infantry officer. The latter was killed in action in Germany in 1945.

As in other years President Ralph W. Lloyd will preside at the services. Athletic contests and other such events will be suspended during the Meetings except on Saturday nights. Classes will be shortened to meet the need of extra time for morning chapel.

Interviewer Gets Dr. Lloyd's Views On World Travels

By CONNIE HAWKINS

"In traveling, I find that the world is very big, but that people are pretty much alike everywhere", Dr. R. W. Lloyd, Maryville's president, said when interviewed last week. And certainly he is qualified to speak, for on his recent lap around the world, he saw many lands and many peoples.

Dr. Lloyd left Maryville August 21 last year as one of a deputation of five from the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. to study the church's work in China and to make recommendations for future work. Dr. Lloyd and his companion, Dr. Lloyd S. Ruland, made a special study of schools and the church's educational work. From Maryville to Shanghai, via New York, San Francisco, and several islands in the Pacific well-known from war years, Dr. Lloyd traveled a distance of 10,785, all by air.

From Shanghai, the deputation went north to Peking, to make a study in the vicinity there, then to Nanking, Hankow, Canton, and back to Shanghai.

Dr. Lloyd's three months became five when he asked to be allowed to make a further study of conditions in the Philippines and India. He went to Manila, and after a stay there, returned to Shanghai, to leave from there for Burma. After that, he spent one month in India.

On the return journey, he flew from India across Arabia, Palestine, Egypt, across the Mediterranean to France, then to London and finally New York.

All the colleges which were forced to move west during the war have all returned to their original sites, and have all reopened except for a few in Communist-held areas. They are all very crowded and have more students applying than they can possibly handle. Equipment is meager, especially text books and laboratory equipment. Some schools had buildings destroyed by the Japanese, but this difficulty has been overcome in part by the use of tents obtained from the army. But Dr. Lloyd believes they are doing a successful job, considering these things. The Christian schools among these have a large influence and are one of our greatest evangelistic agencies.

China's people appeared to President Lloyd as very friendly, courteous, and generous, with good mental ability. The young people are interested in education, and are responsive to the Chris-

Players to Give Comedies, Drama

The Experimental Theater is in rehearsal for three plays to be presented at eight o'clock on Monday evening of February 3. The program will include an historical drama, The Last Curtain, a comedy, In A Garden, and an amusing problem play, Clean Linen.

The story behind The Last Curtain is the behind-the-scenes events which culminated in Lincoln's assassination; a tense drama powerfully written, with a proper blending of the dramatic and the humorous. The cast includes Shirley Wells as Jeanie Harte, Bill Carter as John Wilkes Booth, Maurice Ottinger as "Peanut John", (the theater's handyman, Dorothy Holverston and Tim Sykes as Effie and Sam Evans, and Ruth Ellen Crews as Kate Trueman.

In A Garden, a delightful comedy with Jean Childress and Bob Arrant, will have to be seen to be believed.

Clean Linen takes place in the office of Aiken's Hand Laundry. When the girl who does the finest handwork won't speak to the most industrious fellow on the route, something is certain to happen. The situation is further complicated by the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Phineas G. Tolliver (Al Lesnick and Ruth Broadhead). The solution is surprising and amusing. Other members of the cast are Dorothy Stater as Jennie the counter girl; Carroll Stigall as Mr. Aiken; Helen Hair as Mayme Kelly, the fine laundress; Jimmie Conners, driver of Route number eight.

Limited Facilities Found at Rec. Hall

Limited facilities only are available at present in the recreation center pending the arrival of a prefabricated building, Elsie Jean Cotton, chairman, has announced. Only those wearing gym shoes are permitted to play volley ball on the gym floor. Ping pong will be available as soon as the proper lighting has been secured. The main rooms are available for card playing, she added.

As soon as the weather permits, volley ball and softball will be played outdoors. Even with the arrival of the new building there may not be any indoor volley ball unless the beams in the building can be replaced by steel girders.

The cooperation of all students desiring to use the facilities will be necessary under the existing conditions.

To Underclassmen On "Activities"

Possibly no one person ever enjoyed his "activities" in college as much as we have, and far be it from us to cry out against extra curricular projects.

However, and, underclassman, lend us your ear, recently it has been forceably brought to our attention that there are other worthwhile things in college. Those of us who are rapidly approaching the end of our undergraduate days and who are thinking and planning about next year will vouch for the value of a good scholastic record. That is what they ask about on the various application blanks we have been filling out. Surprisingly enough the prospective employer or graduate school (especially the latter) is just as much interested in what the instructors thought of your term paper as he is in what the readers think of your editorials in the college paper. . . if not more so.

Yes, we still maintain that all the many "activities" are valuable and justifiable. There is time for both to be done and done well. The point is this—in the excitement and interes of the out-of-class programs, do not forget your studying. A good scholastic record will prove to be valuable.

Meetings Next Week

Next week for the 71st time the student body and faculty of the College will put books and lectures in the background for a while and give attention to the spiritual side of life, that side which is so consistently neglected in the bustle and worry of every day existence. This year's Meetings should be of great interest and help to the veterans because the Reverend Gardner has done a great deal of work not only with veterans but also in Army camps and hospitals. He understands and is very much interested in all phases of this work.

February Meetings are sometimes taken casually, specially by freshmen and others who have never experienced them. Those who have attended them know what a help and lift they are and consider them a necssary part of the College year. They become an incentive and a stabilizing factor in their lives. This year's Meetings will preserve the standard that has been set and should prove a valuable part in the life of every member of the place in the leadership of the world. —DHV

College Students Behind?

Is it true that the average college student is lost in a haze of books, lectures, and clubs—so swamped with what is near that he forgets that which is distant and yet as important? Classes, lectures, recitations, and studying is what we are here for, but is it all? A recent survey conducted by Fortune magazine concerning college education and conducted among college students, graduates and faculty as well as the general public proved among other things that a person goes to college to fit himself to take his place in the world, not to get another A.B. to "hang on the family tree." But just how is a student to prepare himself for the world if he doesn't know what is taking place in it?

Almost every student who goes to college graduates wih a great deal of knowledge concerning the arts, literature, and sciences. This gives him an excellent cultural background and fits him for a place in the world—but what place? A place to teach the next generation the arts, literature, and sciences? Yes, of course, and such a place must be filled, but what about the governmental situations, business offices, and contact wih the world in general? This is where he college graduate is sadly lacking.

Part of this situation is a result of inadequate systems providing public-relations programs. Colleges are standing by, letting the rest of the world pass without playing its part in leadership. Maurice T. Price of the Department of Sociology of the Universiy of Illinois says in an article in the January 25, 1945 School and Society: "To many alert college and university administrators, it is coming as a distinct par that the widespread upserge of interest in modern world perspectives, which legitimately should have drawn its outlook from the schools and colleges, it virtually, at the present moment, bypassing those institutions. The implications of this call for immediate action."

Once upon a time there was a college student. But that was a long time ago. The 1940 census showed that the college population has multiplied six simes since 1900. The United States has more colleges per capita than any other nation in the world. This fact should show immediately what an important part they play and also what even more important part they might play. If the administration won't do it, then it is up to every college student to wake up himself and make an effort to wake up everyone else to world affairs, national affairs, and community affairs and to enable the colleges and universities—education—to take their rightful student body and faculty. —DHV

By LORRAINE SWIFT

(This column is dedicated to Silly Bidner and Cat Mardella, with our sincerest gratitude for their helpful complaints.)

No! No! Say it isn't so. But yes, they tell us that it's true. Eome Memorial residents are inludging in the games of hop-scotch and rope-jumping. Joe Jernigan and Gene Cardin have been seen with them, but far better that than to be Downey knittin' socks. We witnessed Helen Sorenson teaching Bob "Smitty" Smith the art in chapel one day, but that was a joke, son.

Here's handin' the "Echo Medal of Honor" to Winton Enloe, whom Kitty Stidham describes as the bravest man on campus. We're inclined to agree, but must refrain from printing the incident that proves it. There's another story, though. The other day Kitty took 2 1-3 year old Sherry Proffitt to watch basketball practice. Cherry, recognizing Winton, began calling him and—didn't the basketball fellows think that was very nice and very funny?

Tuesday night. . . . mad dashing to the movie. . . .Lottie Lavender and date sitting on the balcony steps. . . Harriet Perry's giggling drowning out Barbara Stanwyck's dramatic speech. . . Brick Braham's sweltering in the balcony. . . Mavis Sykes in her glory. . . Gelola Kell and Bill Carter, the perfect lady and gentleman. . . Irvin McArthur with somebody other than. . . the crowded C. & L. . . Janet Nesbit and Bob Thompson at a table. . .Lil without Bill.

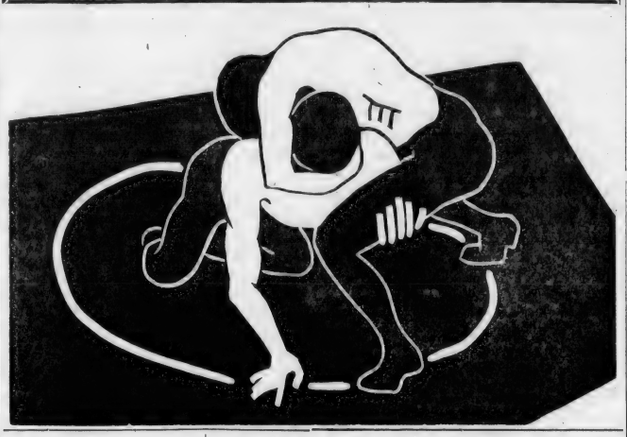
We're not sure what went on inside the dining hall Wednesday night, but from the sounds drifting to 4th floor Pearsons, something turned everyone's giggle box upside down every once in awhile. Dr. Lloyd spoke three minutes, and Coach Honaker spoke ten times that long. Be it wise or otherwise, we wonder if they mentioned the Florida game. Surely the loss can only be accredited to the fact that, "Scotch" as we are, there weren't enough rooters there weren't enough rooters therre to "get that quarter back." But the banquet was the end of a good year, and by now we should realize that we can't have every thing our way.

These remarks were made by Emily Leety, Verl Petri, "Mitch" Mitchell, "Footsie" Housch, Dr. Lloyd, and "Cotton" Easter. It's up to you to figure out who said what. . .'Til have you know I'm a student now. For the past three semesters when I came in this bookstore they had my books ready, 'cause they knew I was takin' the same courses again.". . . "I don't know how we're 'spose to work in physics lab, but one of us has got to move so him and me can work together. . . "Ah, the game of basketball! Come on kids, let's get to studyin' so we can pass—this ball". . . "Being elected football captain for next year is the nicest thing that ever happened to me.". . . "After hearing Coach speak, I feel sorry for his wife." . . "Another Tuesday night that I can't go to town chalked off the list."

Mystery of the Week: She uses pale blue stationery, nice-smelling powder, and black ink. She spells Gulick with an o. G o u l i c k, and writes anonymous letters to Dave. Who is she? Any clues would be deeply appreciated by the puzzled recipient.

Here's hoping these facts are straight. Janet Blackmore usually goes with Bill, but before Bill got around to asking her for a date, somebody else had already done it, and she had accepted. Not to be outdone, Bill asked her best friend, Ellen. Just as Janet was going to meet her date in the Memorial lobby, the buzzer rang for Ellen. Scared, Janet dashed back up the stairs, and a few minutes later she and Ellen made a grand entrance together. Believe it or not, the story did have a happy ending.

By tomorrow the whole school will be exhausted by this week-end of wrestling and playing basketball. Methinks that no one works harder than the audience during a wrestling match. Don Walker was the only one in our vicinity who didn't bat his brains out in anticipation of a victory. That's a possible explanation of non-brainwork around this institution, and did you read in the Journal about that man who had part of his brain removed and how he can think much faster? Jayne Shouse and Ruth Broadhead are convinced that they have the same trouble. Not too long ago, Barbara Wells heard over the radio that a comet or something was nearing the earth, and from some other source she heard that it might hit the earth, and with that information somebody concluded that this old world was nearing its end. Babs, out in the dorm hall, yelled, "Hey, is the world comin' to an end?" "Heavens no!" was the answer she received. "Well," said Babs, re-entering her room, "I guess I'd better study for that psych exam, after all." Which is all a bit far from the subject we started ou on in this paragraph.



By the Way: Marion Lewis received that beautiful diamond from Bud just before the Artist's Series Saturday night. . .Best-dressed girl at the concert was "Cookie" Saxon. . . Proud parents are Leslie Webb. . . . Yep, Chris Gilreath always sings in psych lab. . . "Theysatlikethisuponaseat". "Marriage is like a three ring circus, engagement ring, wedding ring, and suffer-ring.". . . .

To make bad matters worse, a local poet writes:

O Maryville—Ah Maryville—
Long I'll remember thee,
For on thy campus I long did work,
And still ain't got no degree.

TALK OF THE WEEK . . .

By JEAN ALMY

Ministerial Association

The Ministerial Association will have a meeting sometime during the February Meetings with Dr. Gardner as their guest speaker. The meeting will be open to everyone as well as members and their dates. Watch for further announcement concerning this meeting.

Bill Vogel, president of the group, desires to see any students who are not members of the club and who are preparing for the ministry. He asks that these students talk with him as soon as possible.

At a meeting on January 23, committees in the work of the association for this semester were announced.

BAINONIAN

Bainonians will continue their clipper trip tonight by stopping over in France for a preview of hats of the future. There will be a group of hats modeled by beautiful Bainonians and styled by Dily Lashe and Co.

"The program should be a great success and we want all loyal Bainonians to come out for the fun," said Barbara Eggleston, program chairman.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma will meet at 6:45 tonight in the Alpha Sig room in Anderson Hall. Installation of officers will take place and a formal business meeting will be held. Current business and aims for the semester will be discussed.

Last week's pre-concert tea was well-attended and highly successful, officers of the organization stated.

NO PRAYER MEETING SCHEDULED FOR WEDNESDAY

Weekly prayer meeting was held last Wednesday at 6:45 p. m. in the YW rooms. Bob Williams was the speaker. Looking ahead to the February meetings, he discussed the necessity of reconsecrating our lives to Christ.

There will be no prayer meeting next week because of the February services.

DISC CLUB

Using "Gilbert and Sullivan" for the theme, the Disc Club met on Thursday evening, January 30. Katherine Franklin was in charge and chose five selections from "The Mikado"; some of which were "A Wand'ring Minstrel I", "Overture", and "Brightly Dawns Our Wedding Day".

DIRECTORS MEET MONDAY MORNING

The annual Directors' Meeting of Maryville College will be held on February 4, at 10:30 a. m. in Anderson Hall. This meeting was postponed from last November because of the absence of President Lloyd.

Officers will be elected at this coming meeting. The present officers are Judge S. O. Houston, chairman; Dr. J. M. Broady, vice-chairman; Judge J. C. Crawford, recorder.

Dr. Lloyd was especially interested in the programs given for the deputation, and in the feasts they were invited to. The programs were given usually by about 1000 students and featured bands, songs, and plays. A Chinese feast consists of from fifteen to thirty courses and is very likely to make one ill for quite some time.

As the interview ended, Dr. Lloyd said, "We must find out what can be done to strengthen Christian work around the world. America has an obligation to furnish the Christian leadership and the gospel of Christ which is necessary if we are to have a united world."

SCOTLIGHTS

by Abbott Kemp

You might say that the week just past has been Sports Emphasis Week. Monday night there was a basketball thriller in the Alumni Gym between the Scotties and the Tusculum Pioneers, Tusculum winning by the scant margin of two points. Wednesday night was filled with the football banquet. Thursday afternoon the basketball team traveled to Harogate, Tenn., where they played Lincolm Memorial University and dropped their second close one, the score being 43-40. Last night the wrestling team overpowered the Chattanooga U. matmen by the score of 18-16 to take their second victory of the season.

Following the wrestling matches last night was a basketball game between the Highlander Varsity and Vanderbilt University's "B" team. Final score read 41-40 with Vandy the victor.

Tonight the series continues with a basketball game between M. C. and Carson-Newman getting under way at 7:30, this game to be followed by wrestling between M. C. and Vanderbilt. So, get your tickets (activity) and come out to help round out a full week of sports.

Can't think of any intercollegiate sport that took place on Tuesday night, but there was probably some intra-collegiate activity taking place—a la student council.

Easter, Talbot Elected

The 1946 football lettermen, elected earlier in the day by the A. B. C., cast their votes Wednesday evening at the fooball banquet and thereby chose Ronald "Cotton" Easter to be the captain of the '47 M. C. football edition, with Ken Talbot filling the post of alternate captin. "Cotton" has just finished his third year at the guard post for the Highlanders and Ken also finished his third year at end. In answer to repeated calls for "Speech, Speech", Easter commended retiring captain Marvin Mitchell for his good job this year, and concluded by saying, "If I can do the job just half as well as 'Mitch' has done I'll think I have done well."

Speakers at the banquet, which was toastmastered by former M. C. footballer and now professor in the social science department A. F. Peiper, were President Lloyd, and Coaches Honaker and Davis. Dr. Lloyd congratulated the team for their fine season and spoke of receiving news of their success as the season progressed. Coach Davis spoke about the success of the season and the outlook and plans for spring practice and next season, and Coach Honaker spoke about 25 minutes. Captain Marvin Mitchell also added a few words before he presented each of the coaches and also the team's manager, Harvey Overton, with a gift.

Cross-Country Lettermen Announced

The cross country preformers were awarded letters by the A. B. C. on Wednesday morning. Tom Scott, George Gillette and Earl Downey were the receivers of the awards. The team only had two meets during the fall, but it is hoped that it will be possible to obtain more competition next year. Scott came in first in both meets and Gillette had a second and Downey a third for their best performances.

Intramural Basketball Draws Spectators

With the increase of competition in intramural basketball the interest of some of the student body has been drawn to their games, and each day either in the Bartlett or Alumni Gyms a crowd of rooters gathers to watch what may be a rough and tumble affair, but which sometimes turns out to be smooth interesting game of basketball. The Eight Balls and Keltics seem to be the best in their league, with the best team in the other league not having definitely proven iself yet.

Highlanders Nosed Out by Tusculum In Thriller, 52-50

The Scottie basketball team sustained their second loss of the season at the hands of a strong Tusculum five by a count of 52-50 Monday night. The game was as closely contested as the score indicates. The game was played roughly, a total of 53 fouls being called. The Tusculum squad made their charity tosses count when they hit 17 out of their total of 30. The Scotties were slightly less accurate with their free tosses having made 10 out of 23.

Waddle, center of the Pioneers, opened the scoring with a turn-around shot under the basket. Brick Brahams followed Waddle's tally with three straight field goals. Hap Brahams added a marker and Kemp made good a charity toss to give the Scotties a 9-2 lead. The visitors were not long in overtaking the Scots and the half ended with Maryville 27 and Tusculum 25.

Crowd Goes Wild in Second Half

From the time Ray Lillard opened the scoring in the second half the crowd was almost wild when the Pioneers would match the Scotties almost point for point. The Pioneers made good the majority of their free throws in the final half to keep pace with the Scotties. Mid-way of the final half the score was tied at 35 all and at the four minute period the Scots led 49-47. Because of the last minute uproar of the crowd, there was a misunderstanding about the whistle and the Tusculum team got a basket easily when the Scots relaxed their defense for the moment. The visitors tallied one more basket and Brick Brahams made good a free throw to end the scoring and the game.

Brick Brahams was high point man for the Scotties with 17 and Waddle with 16 was high man for the visitors. Hap Brahams played his best game to date; he was a defensive threat all evening and he contributed some excellent floor-work.

"B" Team Wins Opener

In a preliminary game the Scottie "B" team dropped the Friendsville Farmers independents by a comfortable margin of 33-14. Several of the B Team saw action in the varsity line-up.

Scotties Get 40; L.M.U. Scores 43

The Scottie cagers dropped their second game of the week on Thursday night when Lincoln Memorial University downed them by a count of 43-40. The game was played at Harrogate and the small playing court slowed the Scottie attack.

Ray Lillard was the high point man for the Scots with 15 and Bryant of LMU, led his squad with 19 points. Lillard made most of his ponits by long set shots and Bryant boosted his total with numerous free throws.

The first half of the game was played on almost even terms with the Scotties holding a slight lead most of the way. Before the half had ended the Rail Splitters had pulled along side the Scotties and the score stood at 18-18 at half time.

L.M.U. Fast in Second

Perry of L.M.U. set the pace for his team mates and a few minutes after the second half had begun they led the Scotties 30-21. Ray Lillard began to hit the bucket for the Scots and mid-way of the final half the Scotties had pulled up to within two points of their opponents. From this point each team matched the other almost point for point and the game ended with L.M.U. 43 and Maryville 40.

Point System Girls Practice Basketball

The point system girls have begun practicing basketball in preparation for their future games this season. This week they have been practicing passing and scrimmaging.

Approximately 50 girls are on the two teams—the Chillies and the Howies. The first game of the year will be on February 18.

"We have two excellent teams this year and we're expecting good results from the coming games," said Ruth King Wood.

She: "Sure. You're about to run out of gas."

Vanderbilt "B's" Drop Scotties

The Scotties continued a losing streak Friday night when the Vanderbilt B team dropped them by one point the score being 41-40. In three games lost by the Scots this week there has been a total difference of only six points.

Ray Lillard was the top man for Maryville with 12 points and Jarrel of Vanderbilt was high for his squad with 11.

After Ray Lillard had opened the scoring with a free throw the Vanderbilt boys scored 11 straight points to lead 11-1. The fast break of Vanderbilt seemed to be more than the Scotties could handle in the first half and the visitors led 20-11 at the half. The Scotties were able to score only three field goals in the first half with the remainder of the points being made by charity tosses.

Vanderbilt Leads in Second Half

The Vanderbilt squad started fast in the final half and went on to hold a comfortable margin in the first few minutes of play. Ray Lillard narrowed this margin with three straight field goals and the score stood at 25-19. With four minutes left in the game the visitors held a lead of 40-29. The players and the crowd went wild in these last few minutes of play and with ten seconds left to play the Scotties had tied the score at 40-40. In the over-rough play of these last few seconds a Vanderbilt player was fouled and he made good the free throw to win the game.

'Jerk His Arm Off! Bash His Head In! They Scream....'But How In ---- Do They Score Those Wrestling Matches

(Dut to the present day need of the following information, we are prining the following feature from the HIGHLAND ECHO of February 7, 1942)

By LESTER BOYD

At last I have done it. After weeks of diligent research, hours of pouring over figures and records, and a ten minute interviey with "Woody" Everett, I have become an authority on the fine art of scoring a wrestling match. Formerly the entire process was as clear to me as the sparkling waters of our one Pistol Creek. In comparison th esweet mystery of life was an open book. But now when the sweet young thing by my side asks, "Why did we win (or lose) that match?" I, with all my comprehension of near falls, reversed positions, and time advantages, shall not take the question rhetorically as I have been forced to do in the past, but I shall authoritatively enter upon a discourse that will not only inform the lady, but will impress her with my knowledge of affairs.

Fellows, you too will be able to impress your dates, simply by cutting out and taking with you to the match tonight, the little table that I have prepared for our benefit. The table lists all of the possible ways of scoring and they will be more-or-less explained below.

	Points
Take-down	2
Reverse position	2
Near fall	2
Break away	1
Time advantage	1

Get it? That's all there is to it.

To start at the beginning, the match is divided into three periods of three minutes each. At the beginning of the match the wresters start in an "up" position and attempt to score what is known as a take-down. A take-down is the act of forcing an opponent down off his feet and gaining an offensive position. (Stop me if Im getting too technical; I'm just telling you what "Woody" told me.) Therefore when the two men in the ring get their heads together and waltz around, they are not whispering sweet nothings or inquiring about the blonde in the third row (or are they?) Each is trying to force his opponent down into a position from which a pin hold can be affected.

A reverse of positions can be explained simply and in a few words by an expert. I shall explain it the other way. To reverse positions, the man in the defense position; the one onthe bottom to you—must, through some trick of the trade, gain the offensive position—the top one to you. Then the referee gesticulates toward the man who has gained the advantage and waves aloft two finger to signify that a score has been made. Immediately 400 voices are raised in approval (or disapproval)—silence—and then 200 females voices say, "What's that for?"

Let's see if I can explain a near fall more clearly. A fall, usually called a pin, is the result of forcing the shoulders of an opponent to the referee says "One-thousand-one; one-thousand-two." If the referee only has time to say"one-thousand", or "one-thousand-t—", or "one-thousand-tw—", before the victim raise his shoulders breaks the hold, turns over, slides off the mat, or is saved by the whistle, it is only a near fall and counts but two points for the frustrated pinner. I hope that I make it clearer to you than it is to me.

Now it really starts to get complicated. If a pin can be made within the first three-minue period the match is terminated and the pinner wins five points for his team. If the pin does not come until the second period, that period come to an end and the third one is started. If the pinner of the second round repeats, the match is over; if not the full three minutes is played out.

(Don't stop now, Les, you've just started.) In case the victim of the pin in the second period scores a pin over the pinner of the second period, the winner of the match is determined by the points he has accumulated. If there is a fall in the second period and none in the third the match is awarded to the lad who achieved the pin. The official time for the match in that case is the time taken for the fall. Get it? Or am I making myself indistinct. In other words never mind. That's as well as I can do.

The break-away can be explained easily, even by me. When the man in the defensive position is able to break away from his opponent and gain his feet, completely free, he is awarded one point. I wish that they were all that easy to elucidate, to use a word I found in the dictionary. I hope it's used right.

The time advantage is the point that causes the most perplexity of the fair faces of our companions. A wrestler is given one point for each minute that he can keen the offensive position. He can only be awarded two time advantage points in a match.

A man winning a match by a decision (a majority of accumulated points) is given three points toward the total of the match. A man winning by a fall is given five points toward the team total.

There you have it. Don't blame me. I didn't invent the method of scoring; I only murdered it.

ing out of the war. The natives feel that education can lift China to a place where it can approach a democracy. It is developing additional opportunities, which is a good thing; but a doubtful procedure is the setting up of rigid national laws for education. These laws lay upon the schools so much government regulation that no room is left for Christian growth. The Chinese want more mission schools because they are patterns for Chinese schools.

Four main political parties are now recognized in China. The most important one is led by Chiang-kai-shek. He is still a great figure to the Chinese but most of them feel that the party for which he stands has become soft, inefficient and lost its idealism. The second great party is the Communist, claiming 20,000,000 members, with an army of 1,000,000. This party is centered chiefly in North China. The Youth Party and the Democratic League are the other two parties. There is a definite need for leadership in the ruling party with progressive ideas to strengthen the government.

All of these things are important, and they all have their part, small as it may seem, but permeating each force is the force of religion. It will be the dominant factor in the building of New China.

'Truth About Famous Kiger's Kow,' Or, How To Disrobe A Rumor

By CRAIG FISHER
(and ALLAN KIGER)

At the beginning of last semester a notice appeared on the Carnegie bulletin board: "I am going to buy another cow if I can find enough people who want milk. Allan Kiger." (Sympathy) Smoe, Clem, and other victims of undernourishment sprang to the opportunity with Kilroy heading the list. Thus reassured, Al made another check up and bought the cow, a fine black job with a tank that went two gallons to the day.

But soon the trouble began. Theories vary. Smoe and Clem had airtight alibis every time and Kilroy was never available, but some conpectured that it might be a gremlin raid from Knoxville way. At any rate a notice appeared on the board one night: "Kiger's kow has been lost. Has anybody seen it? A cow was reported going down Gay Street in Knoxville yesterday contributing to the milk fund drive."

But the spirit of wit did not rest there. Hardly a day had elapsed before its public was informed that "Kiger's kow has been found in Pennsylvania. . . in a dray state."

These episodes were pigeon holed and nearly forgotten, when within the first ten days of this semester a cradle roll notice appeared announcing that "Kiger's kow has just delivered a fine 38 pound calf. Mother and child are both doing spendidly. Suggestions for names should go below." What an undreamed-of opening! "Waldo, F. Melius Christenson, Ferdinand (b. or g.?), and Eulie" are whiffs of what I mean.

But here's where my article begins. These rumors, inthe interest of truth and accuracy, must be spiked. The cow has not just had a baby. It did not get lost. I might add it was never found. It is a well trained bovine with no inclinations to wander, knows its sequences in the milk line (with one other cow which just went dry) and is not overly careless with its horns.

All questions concerning state of health, etc. of cow should be referred to Alan Kiger, proprietor.

U. S. In Portal Case

The United States government has entered the portal to portal pay claims dispute on the side of the defense, represented by the Mt. Clemens Pottery Co. Federal Judge Frank Picard, of Detroit, Michigan, is presiding on the case.

Attorney General Tom Clark is requesting dismissal of the Mt. Clemens' suit on the grounds that time involved for which pay is claimed is trivial. It has been pointed out that workers receive much time on the job for personal privileges for which no recompense is made to employers.

Problems Discussed In CCC Meeting

The CCC met on Monday, February 3, at 8 p. m. in the basement kitchen of Carnegie Hall. President Don Kribbs presided at this second meeting of the semester of the Carnegie Couples' Club. Problems arising from the use of the washing machine and the sweeping of the halls were discussed. Persons using the washer were advised to be sure to deposit a nickel in the collection box for each use. The difficulty of keeping the halls clean will be greatly eased if room trash is swept well into the halls away from the doors, it was decided.

Election of new officers was again postponed because of poor attendance.

Next meeting of the group will be on February 17.

Coach Lombe Honaker Honored upon Completion of 25 Years Service

Lombe Scott Honaker, head coach at Maryville College who has just completed his twenty-fifth year here, was given recognition Monday night at the regular meeting the faculty club.

In connection with this twenty fifth anniversary, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd pointed out the fine work which Honaker has done and emphasized the impressive record which he has made, mentioning that Coach Honaker is recognized as one of the most successful coaches in the south. Dr. Lloyd's address is as follows:

There is a birthday which we wish to recognize tonight. It really came last September when Coach Honaker completed twenty-five years on the faculty of Maryville College.

In the President's files is a carbon copy of what is evidently a newspaper release (dated 1921) by Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, then President of the College. Let me quote part of that release:

"The College authorities have found a man who, they are sure, will be eminently successful as a coach and physical director. Athletic Director Lombe S. Honaker, of the Southwestern University of Texas, is the man. Dr. James H. McMurray recommended him very enthusiastically, for Mr. Honaker was in charge of athletics at Lincoln College while Dr. McMurray was president of that institution. . . ."

The release continues: "Mr. Honaker is — years old, and has eight years successful experience in directing college athletics. He has held the position of athletic director in Lincoln College (Illinois), Baldwin Wallace College (Ohio), and the Southwestern University, and has won an enviable reputation in being able to 'mould raw material into a perfect working human machine,' as the Megaphone of Southwestern University puts it in a recent issue. He puts out compact and winning teams. The men 'have confidence in his judgment and ability,' while 'his general agreeableness and strong personality make him liked by the boys, and they work under him willingly.' Maryville College is very fortunate in securing the services of Athletic Director Lombe S. Honaker."

Here endeth the quotation. Thus wrote Dr. Wilson 25 years ago. Since that time Mr. Honaker has coached the football, basketball, and baseball teams, and served as Athletic Director at Maryville College. It is of interest now to look back at the win and loss record of his first Maryville football season in 1921: playing a schedule of nine games, he won 7, tied 1, and lost 1. The loss was to the University of Tennessee and the score was 7-0. The tie was at 7-7 with Cumberland College, the week after the Tennessee game. The games won were with Knoxville High School (remember Maryville had preparatory and college students on the team then) 27-0, Milligan 54-0, Roanoke (Coach's Alma Mater) 16-0, Cumberland University 47-7, Carson-Newman 5-0, Emory and Henry 34-7, and University of Chattanooga 34-0. For the season Maryville scored 224 points to 28 for her opponents.

After twenty-five years and three years suspension of football, Coach has completed another season, beginning football here again, with a regular season schedule of nine games again. This time Maryville won all nine games with a season's totals as those of twenty-five years ago. Between there have been many other good seasons in football, basketball, and baseball, and some not so good. It is an impressive record and Coach is widely recognized as one of the most successful coaches of the South. He is even attaining the title of "grand old man", a title hard to agree to when one observes the youthful appearance of Mrs. Honaker who has been his companion and, I assume, his advisor throughout this quarter of a century.

The College has valued Coach's services, not chiefly because he develops winning teams out of limited material, but because of his all around ability and his loyalty to the religious and moral ideals of the institution.

Coach, your colleagues extend congratulations concerning the past twenty-five years and best wishes for the next twenty-five years.

Council Discusses Important Items

Dating during the February Meetings is permissible it was announced at the regular Student Council meeting Wednesday night. The same dating regulations will be applicable to the meetings as those for Vespers; that is, the girl must be back to her dormitory within fifteen minutes after the service.

An important discussion was held over the present fire situation in Carnegie Hall. Slit hoses, empty extinguishers and locked doors constituted the most needed adjustments. A committee was formed to join Mr. McCurry in remedying these hazards.

The committee report on Tuesday night dating showed that parlor privileges on Town Nights will be allowed until nine o'clock. This privilege will become effective on the approval of Miss Massey, Dean of Women.

Due to the scarcity of good seats at the last Artist Series, the Student Council has decided to recommend to the YM and YWCA, which sponsor the Artist Series, that, as an experiment, no one shall be given preference of the seats at the concluding Artist Series of this year. Also in the recommendation, it was decided to contact those in charge of the ticket sales for the purpose of recommending limiting the number of tickets sold, to only four per student.

In the category of old business, the problem of procuring a Scottie mascot has been brought up again, and President John Shell picked a committee of two for the job of a thorough investigation.

No town night violations were reported.

Faculty Women To Honor Miss Massey

Miss Frances Massey, Dean of Women, will be honored at a tea given by the women of the faculty, February 14 from 3:30-5:30 in the parlors of Baldwin Hall. All women students and wives of students and faculty are invited to attend. The purpose of the tea is to give all campus women the opportunity to meet Miss Massey, who assumed her new duties as dean of women at the college at the beginning of this semester.

HAWKINS NAMED MANAGING EDITOR

Constance Hawkins, Bible major from Canton, North Carolina, this week was appointed managing editor of the Highland Echo by editor Thomas Parkinson. She has served two years on the Echo, and was editor of her high school paper, the Mountain Echo of Canton High School. Connie succeeds Betty Harte, who did not return to school this semester.

The new managing editor is also president of the German Club and secretary for Student Vols.

College Directors Select Officers

The semi-annual meeting of the Board of Directors of Maryville College was held at 10:30 a. m. on Tuesday, February 4. This meeting was originally scheduled for last November 19, but was postponed due to President Lloyd's absence. Officers were elected and committees appointed to serve for the coming year.

The Board re-elected Judge S. O. Houston, of Knoxville, chairman; J. M. Broady, Birmingham, Alabama, as vice-chairman; J. C. Crawford, Maryville, as recorder and as acting treasurer. These officers are to serve until next fall or until their successors are elected.

C. E. Barbour, H. R. Crawford, C. J. Henry, and Thomas McCroskey were appointed to the Committee on Administration. There are also three ex-officio members on this committee. F. E. Barkley, J. C. Crawford, J. C. Gamble, A. E. Mitchell, C. T. Murray, and R. W. Lloyd (ex-officio) were appointed to the Committee on Finance.

Reports were received from President Lloyd and the treasurer on the business of the preceding year and on the progress of the present year. The Board also approved a revised budget for the present year. The report by Dr. Lloyd included reports from the officers of the college and the faculty committees. Dr. Lloyd also gave a brief report of his trip to China.

The spring meeting of the directors will be held on May 21. They will vote degrees to the seniors and approve faculty and staff appointments at this meeting.

After the meeting Tuesday, the directors were guests of the college at lunch in Pearsons Hall.

Big Occasion Slated For February 22!

Washington's Birthday isn't the only thing that happened or will happen on February 22! Watch for announcement of a gala event on the Maryville Campus that date!

Women To Receive Oration Prizes

This year the T. T. Alexander prize will be awarded to women. Dr. H. E. Orr, who is chairman of the Bible and philosophy department and in charge of the contest, reports that so far ten people have shown an interest in the contest this year.

The contest is held in alternate years for men and women. Last year it was for men and this year is open to all women of the College.

Two contests are held. The preliminary contest is given before the memebrs of the staff of the Bible department. At this time all but two participants are eliminated and these two people then give orations in a special chapel service. At this time they are judged by a committee chosen from people outside the College. The one who in the opinion of these judges presents the best speech receives 60% of the award and the other person receives 40%.

Subjects that may be chosen for the contest are the following: The Deity of Jesus Christ; Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection; and Salvation Through Faith.

The T. T. Alexander prize was established by a friend of the College, who wishes to remain anonymous and have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries.

Upperclassmen! Beware of Revolt

Have you ever longed to openly display your resentment towards those lordly Seniors and Juniors? Have you ever wanted to put the underclassmen in their places? Have you ever wondered if certain faculty members, namely—Case, Pieper, and Davis—had a sports past? Have rumors of the famous Maryville Smith Brothers, reached you? And have you ever wondered what basketball used to be like? Don't miss the Junior Class Party. It's only a week off now. The climax of the upper vs the lower classmen clash will take place at the Pulp Mill—otherwise known as the Alumni gym, Saturday, February 15.

Admittance to this evening of fun (a la massacre) will be by those color togs you will be wearing, indicating whose team you are backing. If you are an upperclassman, hope that a similar creature checks you in at the proper door and vice versa. If you land in enemy company—Brother, beware!

"India Independence" Discussed At IRC

Meeting at 6:45 Monday p. m. on February 3, 1947, the International Relations Club had a short business meeting before the program. On the program were Ed Voorhees, Elizabeth Boele, and Virginia McArthur. A news discussion on Georgia's two governors was given by Elizabeth Boele. Virginia McArthur and Ed Voorhees discussed "India Independence", with Miss McArthur taking the Indian point of view and Mr. Voorhees the British views.

Recreation Center Main Topic at SFS

Plans concerning the possibility of a new Recreation Hall led the dicussion Friday afternoon at the first Student Faculty Senate meeting since December 6, 1946. Propositions, formulated at previous Student Council meetings, were presented for consideration. The suggestion of cleaning out Thaw basement and turning it into a combined Rec Hall and Chatterbox competed with that of obtaining a government surplus recreation building. Dean McClelland pointed out that, in an effort to get a government surplus recreation building and an auxiliary gym, the gym was granted; but a small office building was offered instead of the one intended for recreational purposes. As the outlook for one of this type is very dubious, it was finally decided that a financial estimate should be taken of the Thaw basement project and a report made sometime in the near future.

Also on the agenda was a request for the admission of Maryville College into the Pi Kappa Delta, national honor society. Some years ago, Maryville College attempted to secure the recognition of this widely known honor society; but, because only a certain number are allowed membership at a time, Maryville was refused admittance. "Today" President Lloyd said, "the situation is much the same, and it is doubtful if anything more can be expected." The president went on to say, however, that inquiries would be made into the matter.

After settling a few minor problems the meeting was adjourned. The Senate's second meeting will be held next Friday.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd presided.

Debate Teams Now Organized

The varsity debate squad, coached by Dr. V. M. Queener, has been assigned to teams and is continuing work each week-day night on the Pi Kappa Delta debate topic. Each team prepares both a negative and an affirmative case. The teams are: John Briggs, David Campbell; Bill Nish, Carl Lindsay; Bill Smith, Stewart Saul; Margaret Cummings, Ruth Thompson; Ann Cook, Geneva Robinson. Two other members of the team, Roger Cowan and Barbara Wallin, have been assigned to do extemporaneous and oratorical speaking.

On Friday, February 7, four members, John Briggs, Dave Campbell, Margaret Cummings and Ruth Thomnson went to Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City for a non-decision debate.

Workshop Hears Essays On Football, Microscope

Writers' Workshop met at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday, February 5, 1947 in Thaw Hall. Miss Jessie Heron read a familiar essay entitled "My F. B. I." which described her interest in football. She was criticized by Ruth Kaye. An informal essay entitled "A New Journey" was read by Jean Tarwater. It dealt with new discoveries found under a microscope. Miss Tarwater was criticized by "Footsie" Housch.

Dr. Gardner To Close Services Thursday Morn

The Rev. Dr. John H. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, Maryland, opened the seventy-first series of the Maryville College February Meetings with his address in Voorhees Chapel last Wednesday morning, February 5. He is assisted by the Rev. Dr. Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the New McKendree Methodist Church, Jackson, Missouri, who has returned to lead music during the services for the twenty-fifth time.

Introduced by President Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. Gardner announced that his theme for the morning services would be "How The Gospel Relates Itself to Individual Life", and in keeping with that, his theme for the evening services would be "How the Gospel Relates Itself to the Christian Community."

Pointing out in his opening address that the primary law of a spiritual life is written in Psalm 24, Dr. Gardner selected a passage from the Psalm as his scripture. Referring to it, he emphasized that "the King of Glory can never enter where the gate is not large enough." He believes that American people tend too much toward a humanistic philosophy with the feeling that religion is "putting everything together that sounds fine." He added that religion is really opening the heart enough to receive God.

The old gates described in the 24th Psalm, he continued, were not large enough. Similarly, neither are the gates of the human heart when religion is kept too small. Using music as a further illustration, he said that symphonies give an inspiration, yet some people refuse to listen. Too, people deprive themselves terribly by refusing to listen to God.

At the close of his address, Dr. Gardner urged that all students be open-minded throughout the week. He finished with the quotation, "Ask and ye shall have, and if you will seek someday you will find, and if you knock the glory of God shall be open."

The Church's Answer

Using as the theme of the evening services the idea of the gospel in action or the place of the church in the world, Dr. Gardner chose as his first topic in the series a verse from the second chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews. "But now we see not yet all things under His feet."

He pointed out that we must see Jesus if we hope to solve the problems of this world. In this way, he emphasized, we as a church can find the answer to the problems which are pressing the church in these present days when the world seems to be torn apart.

During the opening minutes of the sermon, Dr. Gardner told of various questions and answers which the world gives in regard to the present confusion, and suggested that the person interested in the welfare of the church can never be satisfied with the answer that the smart-aleck gives. But an answer might be found in the words of the writer of Hebrews, he suggested.

"Once we had faith in the idea of progress", Dr. Gardner said, "but this faith has now been shattered." In the coming days, the church has a mission which is rather startling, and he asked if the church had the answer, venturing to suggest that the writer of the book of Hebrews had the answer—"But we see Jesus."

Dr. Gardner then asked if it were possibe that the writer might have known Jesus during His earthly ministry. He pointed out that we cannot allow Jesus to be left in the Book without seeing Him for lack of imagination. By seeing Jesus as He worked—as He walked the roads with the people and bore the cross for the people,

Dr. John Gardner, VII, Reveals Liking For Maryville Singing, Presbyterian History

BY DOROTHY VAWTER

Dr. John H. Gardner, when asked how he became interested in Maryville College, replied that it was through his acquaintance with Dr. Lloyd, a statement which led to several interesting topics of discussion. His first visit to Maryville was in 1932, when he came as commencement speaker. Since then he has been here several times and for almost two years has been a member of the Board of Directors. He says that his most recent and enjoyable impression of the College is the enthusiastic singing of the student-body.

History Is Hobby

Dr. Gardner is interested in Maryville not only for its own value, but also for its value in connection with the early history of the Presbyterian church of America, for his hobby is historical research, especially Early American. He is particularly interested in the Presbyterian contact with the formation of the country and hopes someday to publish the material which he has collected.

"Seventh son of the seventh generation, born under the 'double veil' is a fairly exact description of Dr. Gardner's ancestry, for he is the seventh John Gardner in direct succession. The 'double veil' is the emphasis that has been placed on religion and medicine in his family. Through several generations it has included many ministers and doctors.

Dr. and Mrs. Gardner are now the proud grandparents of a baby girl born September 19, 1946 to their son and daughter-in-law, who live in Chicago, where the son is in business.

War Activities

During the war Dr. Gardner was released for one-half year from his church to organize the Presbyterian work for servicemen. After getting this work organized and under way he helped his church to arrange to offer overnight lodging on week-ends to service men in their gymnasium. During the five years of the war at least 25,000 men took advantage of the service. Also in Baltimore there is a large hospitality house under the church committee which housed over a half million men.

Interesting Church

The First Presbyterian Church of which Dr. Gardner is pastor is one of the oldest and most beautiful churches in America. The building itself is in Gothic style, and was designed by N. G. Starkweather, English architect. In the back of the church is a small chapel which is in Tudor Gothic style. The church is filled with memorials and through the years several rare historical items have become a part of it. One of the very rare "Vinegar" Bibles is there, and the pastor's staff which Dr. Gardner uses today is one that was given to the first pastor by George Washington.

Dr. Dr. Gardner is a quiet and very modest man, and in his very quietness is that strength which makes him capable of leading us through a valuable and enlightening series of meeting.

This Flower Custom

There are several persons on our campus who would be glad to see broken the custom of sending flowers to girls on the occasion of every artist series concert. It has been pointed out that the practice has become traditional to the extent that some men, who find themselves without the necessary money (and corsages do come dearly), are prevented from taking a date to the concert merely because of the social pressure demanding that a fellow furnish flowers for that occasion.

That matter has been brought up twice in the past three years in the Student Council. However, the council has wisely refrained from trying to take any action on it. Besides being an individual or personnal problem, it is an extremely controversial question with a great deal to be said on both sides. But it is not our intention to list the pro's and con's here.

Our purpose in mentioning it at all is to cry out against anyone feeling so bound by that social custom. At Maryville, happily, the money you have is not what you are judged by. And it is our firm conviction that we have a very understanding bunch of girls around here. They like for you to take them whether you can afford the flowers or not. If a girl lets the fact that she won't have flowers keep her from accepting a date, she is not worth the trouble of taking anyway. So go ahead and ask her; have a little backbone; explain the situation. She will admire you for it. It's not something that has never been done. It happens often, and it has been done that way for a long time. We have personally seen many girls at an artist series concert without the flowers (yes, even in evening dresses) who seemed to be enjoying the whole affair as well as their neighbors. . . .

We are not condemning the custom of sending flowers. We are condeming the idea or feeling that sending flowers is a necessity. It is not imperative to send your date flowers for the Artist Series or for any function at Maryville College.

Town Nite and Parlors

Due to the fact that there has been considerable misunderstanding about the combined rules and regulations of the Student Government Association and the Student Council in relation to Tuesday night dating, it seems only proper that some effort should be made to explain just how the two student associations are co-operating.

The Student Council says that girls are permitted to bring their dates into the dormitory parlors for not more than thirty minutes upon returning from a date in town. This rule seemingly nullifies the W. S. G. A. statement that girls may have parlor dates for any length of time between 7:15 and 10:00 o'clock on any evening desired. Doubtless, there would be very little conflict in Memorial and Baldwin, since freshmen and sophomores are allowed only four parlor dates a month. Few girls would choose Tuesday night for such a date.

In Pearsons, however, girls are allowed an unlimited number of parlor dates, and some have chosen Tuesday night, and there is no necessity that this choice should oppose Student Council regulations. Parlor dates in Bainonian Hall or Theta Hall are to be between 7:15 and 9:00 o'clock. Any girl desiring the private use of these rooms has the privilege of signing up for either hall; however, they are to be open for other students after 9:00 p. m.

Girls and their dates returning before 9:00 o'clock may go into the front parlor, but the fellows are to stay only thirty minutes, regardless of the hour of their arrival. If, perchance, Theta or Bainonian is not in use at that time, the girl may sign up for a parlor date just as she would on any other night, and any couple having a parlor date does not necessarily have to leave at 9:00. On the contrary, their date may be until 10:00 o'clock, but they do not have the exclusive use of any hall after 9:00 p. m.

Apparently some students have not realized that all dates are to end at 10:00. Because many do not have watches, the Council has decided that lights will be blinked in each of the women's dorms at 10:00 o'clock on Tuesday nights. This oversight, in addition to couples standing in the lobby of Pearsons, has proven to be the greatest source of trouble for the Council. Although town night is ours, college rules have to be observed, and there is a college rule stating that there shall be no loitering in the lobby of Pearsons.

Mrs. Worley and other house-mothers are plainly trying to leave Tuesday night in our hands, so let's understand the rules and abide by them.

Just Being "Nosy"

Do Vacuums Have Densitites? Or Confine Baldness To The Outside

BY GUGGER AND HOFFMAN

Having successfully gotten D's in every subject we decided to C if we couldn't get A better average. Why B dumb?—that takes no skill.

First we must review the things we've learned up to date. (We use this word in all due respect to Town Nights.)

In orientation we learned to appreciate our alma mattress. (Did not have to go to Simmons U. for that.) Had it pretty soft until the prof started springing questions on us. But our math course was educational. Found out that LXXX doesn't always mean love and kisses.

Some senior gave us hints on how to pass physics.—It's much easier to split Adams if you take your hat to class.

Our history was rather hard. We never could remember in which battle General Wolfe (don't feel self conscious, fellas) cried, "I die happy."—Just for the records it was his last battle.

In chemistry we were at the height of our density. Or do vacuums have densities? We sat next to the most interesting fella. Pet(e) Roleum. Then one day Kerosene him and he ain't benzine since. Never shall forget the time we missed a heavy date on account of chemistry—didn't get the nitrite. We had more fun-nel. But it always fell through.

To make our education more liberal (Would the discipling committee approve of this word or is our vocabulary outmoded?) we took art. Found out that Green and Black is still Black.

Summing our philosophy up into four little lines:

On mules we find two legs behind
And two we find before
We stand behind before we find
What the two behind are for.

Suppose you wonder how we got to be sophomores? Cooperation solves many problems. For instance, if freckles get together they'd make a good tan. But. . . .

Our one gem of knowledge: A bald head is no disgrace if the baldness is confined to the outside. Which takes us back to our efforts to change D's to A's.

SCOTLIGHTS

By MACK CASEY

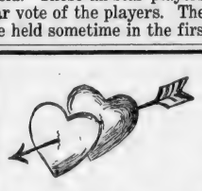
The sports program here on the hill has slowed down this week after a full schedule last week. Two basketball games and one wrestling meet were scheduled this week. In the first basketball game, played on Tuesday night, the Scotties downed Tennessee Wesleyan by a comfortable margin. Tonight there is a double feature scheduled for the Alumni Gym. The basketball team will take on the East Tennessee Teachers quintet and the wrestling team will compete with the Auburn grapplers.

Cagers Break Losing Streak

The Scottie cagemen broke a five game losing streak Tuesday night when they over-ran Tennessee Wesleyan by a score of 53-38. The Scots were luckless in basketball competition last week having lost four games with a total difference in points being eight. The Scotties woke up Tuesday night to thoroughly trounce the Wesleyan aggregation. They played a faster and greatly improved game. The Scots' chances for a win over the East Tennessee Teachers tonight were greatly strengthened.

The East Tennessee Teachers and the Scots will meet tonight for the second time this season. The Teachers came out on top in the first meeting when they out-pointed the Scotties 52-35. The Scots were a bit off their game at E.-T. because of a traffic mishap earlier in the day when they were all shaken up a bit. The advantage of playing on the home court and the extra rest this week may give the Scotties just the boost needed to knock off the Teachers tonight.

Wrestlers Face Tough Opposition



Maryville's undefeated wrestlers will be out for their fourth consecutive victory tonight when they meet the Auburn grunters. The Auburn team is expected to put up more opposition than the Highlanders have faced to date. The Scots looked good in their victory over Vanderbilt last week, despite the absence of several main stays from the line-up due to minor injuries. The Auburn team is especially strong in the heavy weight class and the Scottie lightweights may be the factor to pull Maryville through with another victory.

The interest in wrestling has increased with every match and now a great many fans know just what is happening with each grunt and hold. One highlight of all the matches thus far is the good sportsmanship displayed by the fans. There is always a notable amount of applause for the visitor when he wins a match and appreciation for him when he loses.

Intramural Play Continues

The Intramural Basketball teams continued to show increased competitive interest in last week's play. In the Orange league the Eight Balls established their supremacy by downing a fighting Keltic team 33-25. In the Garnet league the Echo continued its undefeated string of victories by squeezing past the Misfits by a 26-25 count. There remains only one undefeated team in each league now and these two teams have a good chance to remain undefeated in their league play.

At the end of the Intramural season there will be a play-off between the two winning teams of each league. This play-off will consist of only one game. Two all-star teams, one from each league, will be held. These all-star players will be elected by popular vote of the players. The basketball play-offs will be held sometime in the first part of March.

Scot Basketeers End Losing Streak By Whipping TWC

The Scottie cagemen, after a losing streak of five, got back in to the winning column Tuesday night when they swamped Tennessee Wesleyan 53-39. The Scotties played a much faster and greatly improved brand of ball to oust the visitors.

Brick Brahams was high point man for the Scots with 12 while Boring and Ray Lillard followed close behind with 11 each. Payne, center of Wesleyan, was top man for his squad with 15 points to his credit.

First Half Is Close

Bob Boring scored the first six points in the game to put the Scots out front. Wesleyan began to find the range and narrowed this margin in a few minutes of play. The Scotties held a slight margin throughout most of the first half. Baker, forward of Wesleyan, brought his team within two points of the Scotties with two long field goals and the score stood at 20-18. The half ended with the Scots leading 26-23.

Scots Hold Edge

Boring opened the scoring in the final half, and after a bucket by Wesleyan Brick Brahams tallied two straight field goals. From this point on the Scots continued to hit and left the visitors in the background, the final score being 53-39 in favor of Maryville.

Every man on both squads saw action with frequent substitutions throughout the game. The Scotties divided their points almost equally among the starting line-up. The rebounding of Garner and Boring kept the visitors at a loss. Payne, center of Wesleyan, was the outstanding player for his team.

Individual Scores

Maryville 53		Tenn. Wesleyan 39
B. Brahams, 12	F.	Baker, 6
R. Lillard, 11	F.	Perkinson, 2
Garner, 3	C.	Payne, 15
Boring, 11	G.	Brown, 7
Hamil, 6	G.	Carr

Substitutions: Maryville—Davis 7, Berrong 3, Kemp, Roberts, H. Brahams, and Baldwin. Tennessee Wesleyan—Irwin 1, Kelley 8, Hill, Hinds, Brakebill, Williams, Godwin, Edgert.

NO Y.W. TOMORROW

There will be no meeting of the YWCA this Sunday, February 9, due to the February meetings. However, the scheduled meeting will be held next Sunday, February 16.

Scot Cagemen, Wrestlers To Engage Strong Foes Tonight

Tonight brings another big double header to Alumni Gym when the Maryville basketeers meet E. T. S. and the matmen tangle with Auburn. The basketball game will begin at 7:15 and will be a revenge battle for the Scotties. The Scots were given their worst beating by E.T. to the tune of 18 points. The Scots with high scoring Ray Lillard leading will be out to even the series.

The Groaners will have their toughest meet of the year tonight with Auburn according to Coach Davis. The Auburn team boasts a win over Vanderbilt in which they took every match. They will be led by a 260 pound heavy weight who will outweigh his Scottie opponent by at least 70 pounds.

Scot Wrestlers Trim Vanderbilt

The Vanderbilt grapplers, the third stop on the schedule of the Maryville wrestlers for this year, were easily defeated last Saturday night, 21-9. Coach J. D. Davis had to use an alternate line-up against Vandy as three of his starters had injuries which kept them on the side lines.

The outstanding match of the evening was that between Richards of Vandy and Willocks of Mayrville. Although out weighed 39 pounds, Willocks was never pinned. Willocks was decisioned by seven points, but the big Richards was not able to get him into pinning position.

Tubby Calloway continued his fine performance with a pin in one minute and 56 seconds of the first round. Nobody has gone 2 minutes with Calloway this season.

Summary—

121-lb-Class— Heaton (M) decisioned Judgens 9-7

128-lb.-class Curry (V) decisioned Brewer (M) 8-2

136-lb-class Ross (M) pinned Dillon 1:21 of 2nd.

145-lb-class Calloway (M) pinned Reynolds 1:56 of 1st.

155-lb-class Hawie (V) decisioned Cardella (M) 9-4

165-lb-class Merriman decisioned Hill (V) 5-1

175-lb-class Briggs (M) pinned Wilson (V) 2:22 of 1st

Heavy weight—Richards 207 (V) decisioned Willocks 168 (M) 9-2

Scots Lose To C.-N. In Torrid Tilt

The Maryville hoopmen went down before the visiting Carson-Newman quintet last Saturday night by a score of 43-41.

Hamil was the high point man for Maryville with 11 and Wigginton of the visitors matched Hamil's total to be the top man for his squad.

Scots Lead At Half

The game started slowly with neither team scoring for several minutes after the starting whistle; the scoring was opened by Boring, of the Scots, with a lay-up shot made from an out-of-bounds play. After Wigginton of C.-N. had sunk a field goal and a free throw, Boring scored again on the same out-of-bounds play. The remainder of the first half was played on almost even terms with the Scots holding a 23-21 half time lead.

C.-N. Goes Out Front

The Scotties with baskets by Garner, Lillard, and a free throw by Davis held an early second half lead of 28-21. From this point on the C.-N. squad took over and had soon tied the score at 28-28. The visiting aggregation continued to pull away from the locals and the score, with four minutes left to play, was C.-N. 40, Maryville 35. The Scotties played fast in these final minutes and before the game ended they had come within two points of the visitors total. The final score was 43-41 in favor of Carson-Newman.

The Scotties showed a definite improvement in the free throw department by sinking 17 of their charity tosses. The visitors made good only 7 of their free tosses.

This week, which marked the third round of games, had some decisive games as far as standings are concerned. The Eight Balls, undefeated in the Orange League, knocked the Keltics out of top rank. Then the Keltics humbled the Bombardiers with a 51 to 24 score.

The Echo outfit managed to hold top place in Garnet League standings by taking a very close game from the Misfits. The Ex-Scrubbs were defeated by the Buzzards, who previously had been downed by the Moonshiners, a team which the Ex-Scrubbs had beaten.

The mighty Eight Balls had to put on the steam in order to overcome their closest rival, the Keltics. This victory for the Eight Balls gave them an undisputed lead in the Orange League. This was the Keltics' first defeat.

Future Alumni, Inc., Seeks System To Save Frosh From Cruel Ordeals

By LESLIE WEBB

We have decided, out of Christian charity, to organize a Pre-Maryville Club. This club will be composed of prospective students of Maryville College. We can call it Future Alumni, Inc. Too long we have stood idly by and watched our freshmen be led as lambs to the slaughter.

Our purpose will be to prepare the poor souls for the ordeal facing them immediately after matriculation. The first problem to be dealt with will be Chapel. And here the program will take an optional turn. If the candidate has insomnia, he will be equipped with earphones. If he's going to be awake anyway, he may as well hear what's going on from away up there on the shelf. If he's a normal human being, he will simply be taught to arrive a couple of minutes after the bell has rung and make a lot of noise getting to his seat, like everybody else. But the noise won't matter, for our future student will be equipped with sound-proof ear cotton. This will enable him to sleep tranquilly from the first announcement right up to the opening hymn, and during all ensuing intervals of comparative quiet.

Since English is a required subject the pupil should be taught the general principals of diagraming. This can best be done by finding an energetic White Leghorn hen and observing the scratch marks made on the ground as she digs for food. The design can be varied with a few games of tit-tat-toe.

Then will come the supreme preparation. We will train the student to exist on campus dining room diet. And pray that he won't be like the old Scotchman's mule, which was being trained to live without eating. Just about the time the mule learned to get along without food, he died. (Editor's note: This provision is included purely for the sake of humor(?). It is our opinion the M.C. dining hall does exceedingly well under present conditions.)

Join us in this enterprise, all you progressive seniors, and future generations of Maryvillians will rise up and call you suckers.

The crowd was afraid
This brave fellow would die,
But his suit was of Ivory
So he floated by.

He'll always be careful,
And he'll stay secure
If he'll wait till he's 99 44/100 per cent sure.

the Church may answer the questions, the speaker said.

Finally, he remarked, the writer of Hebrews remembered seeing Jesus. Applying this to ourselves, he said that if we would remember Christ's gifts to the world, we would let nothing keep Him from our sight.

The minister concluded his message with the thought that all things are not yet under His feet, but we see Jesus.

". . . Live In Empty Room"

In the second of his series of morning chapel addresses, Dr. Gardner used the theme "Trying to Live in an Empty Room", taking his scripture from the 12th chapter of Saint Matthew and beginning with the 43rd verse.

Comparing the man who figured in the scripture to a traveler of our everyday life, Dr. Gardner said that the man discovers that he has too many distasteful habits, like a modern traveler has too much baggage, and he becomes determined to rid himself of it. "Then he makes a fatal mistake," Dr. Gardner continued. "The man has not decided just what is going to occupy the inner recesses of his mind." Further in his story, he recalled to his listeners that the devil which has been cast out returns and brings with him seven others which are worse than the first one.

Dr. Gardner stated his belief that the only reason so many people live such lives of failure is because of the way they have attempted to fill the empty recesses of their minds. "We must fill our minds with those things that are right," he said, and in concluding his sermon he suggested that "within the recesses of the human heart everyone ought to have a shrine of worship."

History and Christianity

Thursday night the series of evening services continued with the thought, "When Christians read History".

Explaining that each person reads history in terms of his own interest, the speaker said many persons feel that walls insure long life and security.

dure, Dr. Gardner said, it should be built upon the purpose of God.

He pointed out that one of the first prerequisites of life is that of the individual learning to distinguish between the temporary and parmanent things of life.

In order for the church to en- To do this, you must go out and do the things that you believe to be the purpose of God through faith in Him.

He closed his message with the challenge, "If there is anything that you can possibly do to devote yourself to carrying out God's purpose in you and through you, do it."

"Jesus and the Man on the Street" became the theme for the third of Dr. Gardner's morning addresses, for which he used the story given in the 19th chapter of St. Luke. In an effort to illustrate the fact that Jesus and God desire to associate with everyone, including the "man on the street", he cited several incidents relative to the same idea.

The Christian gospel is more effective through association and an actual glimpse of its working power than it would be by the mere reading of what has happened. Quoting John Rankin, Dr. Gardner said that he would prefer having the opportunity to see and to be with a great man for a few days than to have access to a book containing all that the same man ever said or did. Likewise, seeing and hearing a great orchestra is more inspirational than listening to records. Christianity is similar to these, for it brings out the "touch of one personality on another."

Returning to his scripture reference, he said that Zachaeus was an average man, who, like all men, was in need of an association with Someone greater than himself. He was a success in one phase of life only, that of being a Roman tax-gatherer. "Down deep neath everything else in life, I am sure that Zachaeus knew he had not been right with God, and that is what he wanted more than anything else". Dr. Gardner concluded. "Jesus didn't try to belittle Zachaeus. What he said was 'Zachaeus, I am going to go down to your house.' So a child of God was called back to his Father's home."

Adversaries of the Church

Continuing with the theme of the place of the christian church in the world, Dr. Gardner chose as his text for Friday night a verse from the writings of Paul: "For a great door is open. . .unto me and there are many adversaries."

He suggested that the adversaries of Paul might also be the adversaries of the church today and classified them into three types, the uninformed teachers and preachers, the idea of superstition, and the pressure of commercialism.

The speaker pointed out that when we dedicate ourselves to meet such adversaries, we will find the open door to the new life in Christ.

Scholarship Established In Memory 'Chuck' Dunning

On December 30, 1946, Mr. and Mrs. Preston M. Dunning of New York established at Maryville College The Lt. Charles W. Dunning Memorial Scholarship as a tribute to their son who was killed in action April 27, 1945.

Charles Dunning, familiarly known as "Chuck", entered Maryville College in September, 1940. He received his high school training at Newton High School in Elmhurst, Long Island, New York. He was here for three full years. He became interested in track and wrestling.

Interested In Art

"Chuck" was also very much interested in art and dramatic art. He became a member of Theta Alpha Phi and was treasurer of the organization in 1942. He took part in such well-remembered performances as "Arsenic and Old Lace". His great talent for art is evident in his clever "Talk of the Week" in the 1942-43 issues of the Echo.

When the Chatterbox was moved on the campus in 1941, "Chuck" took an active part in its management and activities.

At the end of his junior year, he was called into active duty in the United States Marine Corps. He entered the Officers Training Corps and was commissioned in November 1944.

Early in 1945 the First Marine Division sailed for the Pacific and landed on Okinawa April 1. Lt. Dunning saw action on this island for 27 days. On April 28 he was instantly killed in action by a Jap sniper.

Scholarship Fund

The memorial fund which Mr. and Mrs. Dunning have established was their own idea, which was sent in a proposal letter to Dr. Lloyd December 9, 1946. The fund has been set up as they requested.

The fund is for $1,000 and bears the name The Lt. Charles W. Dunning Memorial Scholarship Fund. The income from the fund is to be used as a scholarship grant during the second semester each year and will be awarded to some young man, preferably an upperclassman, whose "ability and general record for the first semester is satisfactory to the College, though not necessarily excelling, and who has proven his need by doing some work to help pay his own college expenses during the first semester of that year." The gift was received by the College on December 30, 1946.

Bible Class Meets Each Tues. Night

Since the third week of September of last year, a group of students have gathered each Tuesday night in Anderson Hall for an hour of singing, reading of the Scriptures, and for Christian Fellowship. This gathering became known as the "Tuesday Night Bible Class."

The group has no formal organization. All members voluntarily deny themselves other pleasures in order to participate in the activities of the group. The devotional hour has been led by Carl Wilson.

Other Activities

Besides the Tuesday night meeting, the activities of the members include the carrying of the Gospel to the patients at Doctors' Hospital and the inmates of the county jail through a program of visitation. The program of visitation to Doctors' Hospital has been carried on since the first week of November.

In connection with the Tuesday Night Bible Class, a prayer meeting has been held daily at 1:00 p. m. since the start of the second semester.

At the last meeting of the Tuesday Night Bible Class on Feb. 4, there were 24 people present.

In a statement of one of the founders of the class, he emphasized that the group invites all students who are interested to attend any of the meetings.

The Class will meet in room 22 on the second floor of Anderson Hall at 6:45 on February 18 for its next meeting.

British Crisis Gets Worse

Blackout conditions reminiscent of wartime, return to the British Isles as the fuel crisis showed no signs of improvement. All householders in the Isles, with the exception of a few in Northern Ireland were given orders to pull all power switches for five hours daily. The power blackout, according to Prime Minister Attlee has already saved 78,000 tons of coal in three days, but the situation remains very critical. Only 9 1-2 days supply of coal remain in the Isles. It is estimated that more than 5,000,000 Britons have been thrown out of work by the fuel shortage.

Lilienthal Opposed

Opposition mounted against the Senate confirmation of David E. Lilienthal, President Truman's nominee to the post of Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. The opposition was originally led by Senator McKellar of Tennessee. A number of Republican leaders have since joined in the right to keep Lilienthal from occupying this key position, because of alleged Communist affiliation.

Truman Opposes Cut

President Truman has announced that any attempt to cut his budget figures will jeopardize current and long term missions of our Armed Services. President Truman's budget was set at $37,500,000,000. Republicans planned to slice this figure to 31,500,000,000. More than 1 1-2 billions will be cut from Armed Services' appropriations, according to Republican figures.

Stringent Labor Laws Predicted

Republican Senator Taft of Ohio, Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, has predicted that arguments over new labor laws will result in measures similar to those contained in the Case Bill, which was vetoed by the President last year because he said it was too harsh. A number of bills are now up for consideration in Congress.

U. S. Arms Plan Adopted

The United Nations Security Council has adopted the American plan for world disarmament. Russia is opposed to the plan but made no attempt to use the veto power, registering disapproval of the adoption by abstaining from voting. The vote represented the most critical test yet given of the Big Five agreement not to use the veto in grave emergencies. This agreement was made verbally, and was not strictly binding.

Newsmen See Tojo

American newsmen have been taken on a tour of Tokyo Sugamo Prison where Pearl Harbor Premier Tojo and more than a thousand war crimes' suspects are being kept. Newsmen were not allowed to speak to the prisoners but saw Tojo writing as he sat in his 5 by 10 foot cell. Other prisoners were either writing or sleeping on the floor. All are awaiting trial on war crimes' charges.

Baker Memorial Gallery To Exhibit Donor's Work

Portraits by Elizabeth Goudy Baker will be on exhibit next week, February 17-21, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 1:30 to 4:30 in the Elizabeth Goudy Baker Memorial Gallery in Anderson 24. The exhibition is sponsored by the Art Club. These paintings are the permanent collection of portraits by Mrs. Baker. The portraits are but a few of the many done by Mrs. Baker during her lifetime. They reflect her interest in portraying personalities and the strong character of her draughtsmanship. The watercolor technique gives the portraits a transparent quality which is startling in its vitality and lifelikeness.

Miss Massey Honored At Tea By College Women

A tea was held in the honor of Miss Frances Massey, Dean of Women, Friday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30, February 14 in Baldwin Hall. In the receiving line were Miss Jessie Lou Brunson, Miss Massey, and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, wearing corsages of white carnations. The centerpiece, a gift from Mrs. Lloyd, consisted of tulips, jonquils and gladioli. A group of faculty wives assisted in serving the refreshments which were appropriately carried out in the theme of St. Valentine's.

All women of the college were invited. Music in the background was provided by Miss Lanfear, Miss Garnet Manges, and Miss Dorothy Horne.

STUDENT VOLS

James M. Carr, Regional Director of Religious Education for the Synod of Appalachian, will speak in Student Vols this Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock. His subject will be the ways in which the church can use college young people during the summer.

Juniors Sponsor Basketball Night With Class Clash

In harmony with the flavor of the current sports season, the junior class is sponsoring "basketball night", featuring cage conflicts between faculty and married men, under and upperclass girls and a parallel boy's clash, an expose of old time basketball, and finally refreshments. It is to begin at seven-thirty tonight, and spectators will enter through prescribed doors, the only requirements for admission being the wearing of the colors and of rooting for the correct team, i.e. the team which represents your stratum.

Faculty tackles married men

The evening will open with what promises to be its highest point, the brawl between the "Faculty Five Stars" otherwise known as "Pieper's Pals", and the "Ball and Chain" club. Coaches Honaker, Davis and Mehl, and Mr. Philipps will bolster Prof. Pieper's opposition, to be opposed by Secrest Broiles, Huffman, Hogue and Taylor. The "Pals" are to wear red and the spouses white.

Interclass Clash Featured

The inter-strata strife will then burn to life with a tussle between underclass girl all-stars vs. upperclass girl all-stars, the unders calling themselves the green and yellow "Bouncers", and the uppers the black and blue "Bruisers". Sandwiched between this and the boys' match will be a demonstration of old time basketball purported to be entertaining.

The boys' match will be a conflict between representative all-stars, gleaned from the best intramural teams to champion the cause of their respective classes.

Poland is to captain the "Bouncers", and Pepper the "Bruisers". When the issue is finally settled, all will retire to refreshments.

Professor A. F. Peiper Speaks On Palestine

Professor A. F. Piper of the Political Science department will be the speaker at the meeting of IRC to be held Monday evening, February 17, at 6:45 in 214 Thaw. His subject is Palestine. Mr. Clyde B. Emert, local editor scheduled to speak at this meeting, is unable to do so as he had an out-of-town business meeting.

Young Violinist To Perform Feb. 24

Eddie Katz, young American violinist, will perform February 24 in Voorhees Chapel as a regular feature of the Maryville College Artist Series. Grisha Golubkoff, who a few years ago was the outstanding violin prodigy of the world, was billed for this performance but is unable to fill the engagement. Mr. Katz has already achieved fame in the musical world and shows capability of giving a very good performance.

In 1942 Mr. Katz made his New York debut in Town Hall. His performance of the Miaskovsky Concerto in d minor was especially well accepted. The New York Herald-Tribune described his playing as "tasteful and well schooled". The New York Journal states that his rendition of the Concerto showed "feeling and musical comprehension." The comment by the New York Sun at that time was: "At the moment his most useful assets are a plain gift for playing the violin and a sound schooling in the lore of the instrument."

Miss Davis Gives Part Of Library To College

Miss Ethel Davis of the Fine Arts faculty is presenting to the College library a large part of her own private music library. The collection includes several choral works of which two are very rare editions. These are a foreign edition of Schumann's Paradise and the Peri and a little known American edition of Hadley's Merlin and Vivian. Also included are Song of Praise by Mendelssohn, Bohemian Girl by Balfe, and the librettos of ten operas. The rest of the collection is made up of standard piano works of Bach, Chopin, and Beethoven.

Miss Davis is instructor in organ here at the College. Before coming here she was a member of the faculty at Wilson College. She has had extensive training in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City and at the New England Conservatory. She received her Bachelor of Music degree from Missouri Valley College, and is now a member of the American Guild of Organists.

Miss Davis is a sister of Dr. E. W. Davis, Professor of Greek and Latin.

Maryville College Of 20 Years Ago Really Had Rules and Regulations

BY KEN OLSEN

Say sophomores, do you know that there was no Chatterbox in 1927? And do you frosh know that Ralph Waldo Lloyd hasn't always been president of M. C.?—If you don't believe me, look it up in the Chilhowean of 1927. It's all there. If you keep your eyes open you'll learn a lot (my professors keep telling me as I wake up from forty winks.)

For instance, did you know that Athenian, Alpha Sigma, Theta Epsilon, and Bainonion were originated as literary societies? Of course by '27 they were having joint meetings, but they still were emphasizing the cultural subjects like debate, drama, art, etc. Speaking of joint meetings.

Rules and regulations today are really different than the ones of '27. In the "Twenties" the girls could only leave campus twice a week, and then they had to obtain permission. No girls were allowed off campus after dark, even to visit friends in town or spend the night with relatives. In the dorms they had to have permission from the floor matron to go to any other room than their own during study hours. The fellows were comparatively free, but they had to take a "monitor" with them if they went on Sunday afternoon walks. Dating was allowed at Vespers, Artist Series, and church. No mixed groups were allowed on campus during class hours. After lunch was "Moonshine hour" when couples were allowed to sit on benches between Pearsons and Anderson.———At least they had time to get their homework done.

M. C. had quite a football team that year———state champs, winning 7 out of 10 games. That was in Lombe Honaker's early coaching days. The college had a fair basketball team too——winning 9 out of 17 and putting up a good fight against superior teams. Coach "J. D." Davis was a guard that year on the basketball team and also played football. One of the big games of the year was with Carson-Newman. Ask Coach Davis about "Slim" Brown, the seven foot-two man at C.-N. The girls played basketball too. In one game with Tusculum the "Highland Lassies" were behind at the half 16-4. During the last half they scored 16 points to take Tusculum, 20-16, allowing them exactly no points scored in the second half.

Familiar faces? There were quite a few. Mr. McCurry and Mrs. Worley were heads of two of the dorms. Miss Green (now Mrs. Black), Dr. Griffitts, and Professors Howell and Walker held down the science department, while Dr. Hunter and Miss Heron were in the English department. Miss Wilkinson and Miss Bassett were teaching language and Dr. Queener and Mr. Kiger were in the history department. Dr. Orr was teaching religion and Mrs. Queener was in the physical education branch.

A lot of things have changed here at M. C. in the past twenty years but it still upholds the traditions and principles that it was founded on. The old timers have said for years that the younger generation is going to the dogs. In twenty years from now we will probably say the same for the student body that takes over after us. They will probably laugh at the clothes we wear and at the rules we have. And so it will go on, generation after generation, but old M. C. will always be the same place to each one of us

1947 February Meetings Concluded by Dr. Gardner

The last sermon in the 1947 series of February meetings was delivered Thursday morning, February 13, by Dr. John H. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Baltimore, Maryland. He concluded his talks with the subject "What Makes Sacrifice Reasonable?"

There follows a summary of the sermons given by Dr. Gardner since the last issue of the Echo.

Continuing the series of February Meetings, the Rev. Dr. John Gardner, gave his seventh address to the Maryville College student body in Voorhees Chapel on Saturday morning, February 8. Selecting a passage from the fourth chapter of Matthew, he discussed "The Temptation of Jesus".

Avoiding temptations is one of the greatest difficulties of life, he said. If one continually works toward an ideal it is easier to cope with ever-present temptations. Youth, Dr. Gardner continued, has the advantage in that young people can see an ideal more easily than can older people who have been disillusioned. When people fix their eyes on the height, they do not see the long path through the ravines that must be travelled.

Jesus was faced with three great temptations known as the human temptation, the wonder-worker appeal, and the chance for power. But Jesus didn't see the nations in terms of exploitation. He wanted to help the people.

Closing his sermon, Dr. Gardner emphasized that God can do interesting things with men even though heredity and environment are against them. A virtuous person is one who can view both sides and choose the high road.

Repent Ye

Sunday night Dr. Gardner chose as his topic "The Urgency of the Time", based on the verse "Repent ye, for the kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

Pointing out the great responsibilities that America has at this time in trying to hand out supplies to the war-torn nations, and the even greater responsibility of pointing the direction for the world, he compared these times with the time of John's ministry. John's preaching was important, he said, because it prepared the way for Jesus' work, and we are wrong if we think that which has preceded this time has not been for some purpose.

He then expressed a sense of the need for persons who can look out upon the world and not lose their sense of imagination.

Dr. Garner closed the message with the thought of what the word, repent means. He stated that repentance is a changing of the direction which one is travelling. He elaborated by stating that the Kingdom of God is within the individual and that we should learn this and repent in order to meet the urgency of this time.

The Unpardonable Sin

Beginning the second week of his series of addresses, Dr. Gardner choose "The Unpardonable Sin" as the theme for his Monday morning sermon. He read the twelfth chapter of Matthew for his scripture reference, from which he took the story of Jesus healing a blind and dumb demoniac, after which the Son of God was accused of being able to work miracles through the power of Satan. Jesus answered them by saying that whoever blasphemed the Holy Spirit, which they were doing, would not be forgiven.

The speaker, repeating the thought of the scripture, asked if Jesus really meant that there was one sin for which no one would be forgiven. "The only way that God can reach you is when you accept Him". Dr. Gardner said, answering his own question. "Sin makes us incapable of laying hold on God."

In closing, the minister reminded the college students that civilizations die first at the center, and the center is in the spiritual life of the privilege minority.

"I lay these words before you because you belong to the privil-

Council Discusses Fire Hazards

Fire hazards existing in the buildings about the campus was the chief topic at the regular meeting of the Student Council Wednesday night. Aware of some evidently obsolete fire-fighting equipment located in the various buildings, a detailed report of these conditions was heard, and suggestions made as to the bettering of them. Committees were formed from Council memebrs in their respective dormitories in order to thoroughly check the equipment.

Rec. Hall Discussed

Also discussed was the immediate problem of the delayed opening the the Recreation Hall. Since only card games are available for after dinner visitors, closing the Rec Hall was seriously considered. Adding to this was the fact that the proposed lighting, which was to be installed for playing ping-pong on the second floor above the volley ball court, had not been put in.

It was announced by one of the members, however, that the lights should be in working order in a day or two; in that case, the Recreation Hall should be officially opened sometime around the first of next week.

Among the business to be brought up before the Student Faculty Senate at their next meeting was the question of the Thaw basement project concerning the new Rec Center, a new hospitalization program, and fire drills for the different dormitories.

President John Shell presided.

World Day of Prayer To Be Observed Here

The first Friday in the Lenten season, February 21, will be observed by the United Council of the Church Women, representing all denominations, as a World Day of Prayer.

On this day services are held in communities all over the United States and other countries. There will be one in Maryville, held at the First Methodist church at 2:30 p. m. The a capella choir of Maryville College will sing and guest speaker will be Dr. Clovis Chappell of Charlotte, N. C.

The National Group of Women will broadcast over the Columbia network at 5:45 p. m. on February 21. The speaker will be Miss Mary Chanon, secretary for the Women's Work of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. She was a member of the Deputations Council of China. The service of worship written for this day is by an Indian woman from Allabad, India.

Dr. Lloyd To Present Report On Missions

The board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States will hold a two-day meeting next week in New York. The purpose will be to consider recommendations made by those who visited the Far East during the past months.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd will give a report on the educational work in China. This meeting will make it necessary for Dr. Lloyd to be gone from the Maryville campus from this Saturday till Wednesday.

Hospital Reports Mumps, Measles and Earaches

The college hospital isn't too crowded this week. Only a few light cases of flu and mumps.

Ruth Broadhead and Ben Sheldon are both recovering from the measles; Ann Mitchell has an earache; and Florence "Footsie" Housch has the flu. Marty Kincaid was dismissed this week after a case of mumps.

Visiting hours are the same as last semester—12:30 to 1:15 p.m.; later in the afternoon from 4:00 until 5:00, and in the evening from 6:30 until 7:00.

Town Nite and Rec Hall

Because the Recreation Hall in Bartlett Hall is to be reopened soon, it is necessary that some changes made in relation to Tuesday night be printed once again, changes which have arisen with the opening of the Rec Hall and since the printing of a similar editorial last week.

If you remember, it was mentioned in last week's paper that there had been considerable confusion regarding parlor dates and thirty minute dates on Tuesday night. Even a complete understanding of the rules of the two student associations in charge has not completely solved the situation, for everyone admits that there just is not enough space in any of the parlors of any of the women's dormitories for all girls and their dates on Tuesday night. One could easily place an SRO sign at the entrance of each dorm.

This situation continues to be confusing and there has been another solution offered, one which has worked in the past and one which everyone feels certain will help matters in the future. The Recreation Hall is to be reopened at long last, and the opening date will probably be next Tuesday night at 7:00 p. m. Hostesses and hosts will be in charge as they have been in the past, and the hours will be from 7:00-9:55 o'clock on Tuesday nights. In view of the fact that the Rec Hall will be open, the hour that girls may bring their dates into the dormitory parlors has been changed from 9:00-10:00 to 9:30-10:00. Couples returning before 9:30 and wishing to continue their dates will go to the Rec Hall.

This change brings up the question of signing in immediately upon returning from town, a rule which heretofore has been rigidly enforced by the Council. It has been decided that signing out on the town night sheet will now indicate that the girl is going either to town, to the Rec Hall, or both places, a decision which will undoubtedly result in less confusion in the dorms.

This discussion would not be complete without mentioning Tuesday night parlor dates. Once again because the Rec Hall will be open, girls will not be allowed to sign up for parlor dates upon returning from town. Such dates are to be prearranged as they are on any other night.

In mentioning the Rec Hall the person most responsible for reviving it canot be forgotten. Elsie Jean Cotton should be commended for her work. It is because of her efforts that the Hall will be open not only on Tuesday nights, but will have a regular schedule from 12:50-1:20 in the afternoons, and from 6:30-7:10 in the evenings.

—L.Y.S.

This program the juniors are putting on tonight is certainly the best publicized Saturday night program we have had on the Hill for many a moon. It promises to be good from start to finish, too. "That's the way to go", juniors. Good work.

The victorious Auburn wrestlers wrote one of our co-eds requesting copies of our college paper that contains the account of their match here (this week's Echo). Perhaps they wouldn't have been so eager had they known of that three column picture of same on page 3.

Did you ever wonder what kind of organization B. G. is? Watch the next issue of the Highland Echo for a feature article telling something of said organization.

Our basketball squad has started clicking again. Our prediction is that the Highlander cagers will not lose another game the remainder of this year's schedule. They're hot enough to give all opposition fits in any sort of tournament if they go to one.

Not that it makes any world shaking difference, but we have noticed recently that good candy bars are once again getting on the market. Without any trouble we bought a Milky Way and a Butterfinger this past week.

Maybe the war is over at long last.

Just Being "Nosy"

BY LORRAINE SWIFT

We know that we shall never see
A column fine that's writ by we.

A column, which, when sent to press,
To us won't seem like such a mess.

A column which would always share
The best of life found anywhere.

For columns are good by others you see,
But some are writ by fools like we.

Sherwood Coul has solemnly declared this national debt week, a long overdue declaration in the mind of some poor souls, and we do mean poor. Jean Blanchard, for instance, says that she wishes the person who owes her 82 cents would stop going down the backstairs to avoid her. . . George Hipkins says he owes somebody a nickel, but he can't remember who it ist. . . Squire Kemp wants everybody to pay their Chatterbox debts, so that he can balance the books. . . . Ginny Peters wishes to remind Jean Cobb that she paid a nickel for a hairnet for the latter one day. . . Wheeler owes Coul 80 cents and Coul threatened our lives if we printed it. Seems that he wants to remain friends with the guy. . . Will the person who broke out the pane of glass in the front door of Pearsons please report with money in hand to Mr. Black. . . Elsie Onifer says a freshman boy owes her 70 cents and has since last semester, 35 cents of it for the sheet music "She's Some Ugly Child" and 35 cents for a phone call. . . And speaking of owin', did you know that Owen came to see Lois Thomas this week. . .

There are certain acts of kindness that we're sure some people would appreciate. Professor Walker would like a list of breakage, please. . . . The four boys reprimanded in Bartlett Hall are kindly requested to report to Mr. Mac as soon as possible. . . . All who have cut campus recently are asked to please report your name to Mr. Irwin in person. . . . All girls guilty of running in the halls on fourth floor Pearsons should admit their guilt to Mrs. Butcher without further delay (Whup! That hits home!) .. . Couples loitering in front of Memorial Hall should be conscientious enough to report themselves. . . The least some people can do when they take sick cuts is to remain sick after 3:30.

Glen Smith says that each Bartlett boy has been acting like a man when someone comes up to him asking "Got a dime?" After the dupe digs in his pocket for the thin coin he hears "You have just contributed a dime to help Richard's roommate buy a key to open the door himself!" As if that weren't enough, the tormentor continues with "Now don't you whine; you get your dime just the same as I got mine". . . Which reminds us of the fight we heard about on the campus the other day. They say that Kilroy tried to make Richard open that door. Personally, we'd like to see a cold slab of stone erected in yon cemetery on the hill marking the grave of both Richard and his song.

Maybe Kilroy didn't win his fight, but Lloyd Anderson did and became the talk of the campus. . Anybody know the name of the guy who was stood up Thursday night, while Jinny sat calmly in the library.

Did you know. . . . that Bob Boring is 21. . . that Leo Wu got that black eye wrestling. . . that Cookie Saxon and Swede Engdahl announced their engagement as of Thursday night. (Congrats!). . . that Shirley Ballard and Bob Reeves announced their engagement as of two weeks ago Thursday night. They called her folks and he popped the question. . . . that having classes all day on the last day of the February Meetings is the only known tradition this school ever broke. (Editor's note—Who said it is a tradition?) And oh, how it did mess up some people's plans. Mrs. Howell was afraid some of that housecleaning wasn't going to be done after all. Several Baldwinites had made extra plans. It seems that some people "took off" anyway.

Dr. Sisk's surveying class has taken it upon themselves to explain the Scots' undefeated football season. Say they, the field is shorter than it legally should be. Don't know how much, maybe an inch or so.

Now everyone knows why a certain Baldwin miss has been campused. That is, everyone who was in a mile radius Thursday afternoon when she was leaning out her third floor Baldwin window announcing it. Sorry, we missed the name of the second party.

Laverne Helton and Charlotte Laster are talking about going to Oklahoma A. & M. next year. . There's going to be a variety show on campus February 22. . . But tonight there will be "a hot time in the old town tonight" concentrated in the big gym. . . . And who were those Pearsons girls who can't distinguish between a laundry tub and a bath tub? Could be Balch and Kelley; in fact, it was.

Jerry Collins is now spared the necessity of having to be the last boy to vacate the dining hall, which has all happened since Margy Newland does not work there this semester. . . Smart Memorial residents had a fire drill the other night. . .

Reprint from an 1894 Maryville College monthly: The campus contains 250 acres. The location is very healthful. The community is noted for its high morality. Seven churches. No saloon in Blount County. . . The Tuition is only $5 per term, or $10 per year. . . Room-rent in Baldwin Hall (for young ladies) and Memorial Hall (for young men) is $3 per term. No incidental fees. Vocal music free. . . Board at Co-operative Boarding Club only about $1.20 per week.

That last paragraph made us yearn for the "good ole days" for the first time. Since it can't be, allow us to wish you a happy Valentine's day for yesterday.

Wonder what the total number of clubs or student organizations is on this campus. The number would be surprisingly large if all were included. There are some we would consider very hard to justify.

TALK OF THE WEEK . . .

By JEAN ALMY

February Meetings . . .

eged. You have a heritage to the devotion of the truth of Christ, and out of your college will go forward as an influence." He urged his listeners to accept God so that God could reach them.

God's Work Must Be Done In His Way

Dr. Gardner chose as his theme for the Monday night service the story of Elijah as is found in the 19th chapter of 1 Kings. In this passage, Elijah acts as a fierce man for God, killing four hundred priests and then fleeing to the mountain of God. There he hears God's voice which bids him to stand at the entrance of the cave as a miracle takes place. God punishes him by taking from him his place as the prophet.

Applying this to the life of the individual and the church, he pointed out that we cannot know the future, but that unless we learn to do the will of God, we cannot succeed. We must not depend upon our conscience to show us which way to go, because too often we do not train ourselves to meet God's will. But none of us can be worthy of the name of Christ until we fully learn to submit ourselves to God's purpose for us.

What To Do

"What Shall I Do Then With Jesus, Which Is Called Christ?" was the theme taken from Matthew 27, and used by Dr. Gardner for his Tuesday morning address. He began by saying that the question eventually becomes the dilemma of every man.

Pilete, he continued, was faced with the question centuries ago. He felt Jesus' innocence and tried to evade the issue. In an attempt to avoid making a moral decision, he successively tried mock psychology, placing the responsibility on Herod's shoulders, appealing to popular good will, and finally publicly disavowing all responsibility. People of this day and time are faced with the same question, the minister said, and he urged each person to curb impatience and to prepare himself for his individual task. "If you can make up your mind what you are going to do, it will be your great answer to all life", he concluded.

Foundations

Tuesday night Dr. Gardner chose as his topic "Christian Foundations for the Church." He opened the message with the thought that just because a church may add members, it does not necessarily follow that the church is doing anything to help the Christian community. He also suggested that economic security, social reform, and ritual observance could not be used as the basis of a Christian church. Dr. Gardner then pointed out that Christ dealt with human natures, not wealth or stones. These people had emotions which He relied upon in order to make His work worthwhile. In the life of the Christian, this operates in two ways, self discipline and in the Christian out reach. The only basis of the church must be through Christ, the foundation which is laid by God.

Scots Trample C-N In Walk-away Cage Contest, 44 to 28

The Scottie cagemen journeyed to Jefferson City Thursday night where they met the Carson and Newman hoopmen. The Scotties got their revenge for an earlier defeat at the hands of C-N by outclassing them in every department of play and racking up 44 points to 28 for their opponents. This victory gives the Scots three straight wins.

Ray Lillard, who was out of practice most of the week due to two cracked ribs sustained in the East Tennessee State game last Saturday night, was the top man for the Sotties with 16 points. Bob Boring was a standout in the Scottie line-up with 9 points and some excellent work in all the other departments of play. Hugh Hamil was close behind Boring with 8 points. Durham, forward, was the high point man for C.-N. with 6 while Duncan, a substitute, and Wigginton had 5 points each for C.-N.

Scots Always Out Front

The Scotties played such an effective zone defense that the C-N cagers were almost completely befuddled. The C-N quintet were able to score only 7 points in the first half while the Scots had 23 to their credit.

The C-N aggregation matched the Highlander in points in the final half having made 21. The Scotties almost completely overshadowed the C-N squad in all other departments however. The game was controlled throughout by the Scots. Every man on the Maryville squad saw quite a bit of action.

Auburn Edges Out Scottie Grapplers

Anderson Thrills Crowd In Match's Final Bout

Maryville College's wrestling team suffered its first defeat of the season last Saturday night at the hands of the Auburn Plainsmen by a score of 19-13; Auburn copped five of the eight matches. Two of these were won by pins and the other three by decisions. Ed Heaton, Tubby Calloway, and Capt. Lloyd Anderson were the winners for Maryville. Heaton won by a default when he injured the arm of Sargant of Auburn. Sargant was forced to withdraw from the match and Heaton was given the decision. Tubby Calloway had more trouble winning over Keller of Auburn than he has had with any other opponent. The decision was decisive enough, 8-4, but Tubby could never get his man into a position to pin him. Keller is the first man who has stayed over two minutes against Calloway.

Lloyd Anderson, Captain of the Maryville squad, gave the fans the thrill of the evening when he pinned Pate, Auburn's heavyweight, in two minutes of the third period. Anderson was outweighed sixty pounds, but after wearing Pate down he was able to pin him. Pate had not previously been pinned in more than three years of wrestling.

Mat Cardella gave his best performance to date, losing a close decision to Woodham of Auburn 6-5. An exhibition match between Ross of Maryville and Bartley of Auburn was won by Ross on a decision. This match did not count toward the team scores.

Coach Davis announced a match with Vanderbilt at Nashville for tonight. The Scot grapplers easily defeated the Vanderbilt team when they met here at Maryville.

Lillard Leads MC Cagers In Revenge Win Over E.T.S.

The Scottie basketball squad added another victory to their list last Saturday night when they downed the East Tennessee Teacher quintet 56-49. The game was a revenge battle for the Scots, the Teachers having handed them their first defeat of the season with a 52-35 lacing. The visitors were heavy pre-game favorites for their second tilt with the Scotties; however the locals upset the Teachers by playing their best game of the season. The game was a close contest all the way with neither team holding a big advantage at any time.

Captain Ray Lillard led the Scots with 16 points. Bob Boring and "Pie" Garner played strong defensive roles besides contributing 12 and 10 points respectively. Derrick with 18 and Vest with 13 points paced the Teacher's attack. Ray Lillard suffered two cracked ribs late in the contest and he may not be able to be in this week's line-up.

ETS Holds Early Lead

Derrick of ETS sunk two quick field goals to give his squad an early lead in the game. Lillard sank a field goal and a free throw to put the Highlanders in the contest. Midway of the first half of the Scots had gained a 17-10 lead, but the Teachers almost closed this gap and the score at half time stood 26-25 in favor of the Scots.

In the first half play the visitors held the edge on field goals

SCOTLIGHTS

By MACK CASEY

Maryville's wrestling team has created quite a bit of interest in the sport since the opening of the current season. The present team already has victories over Georgia Tech, The University of Chattanooga, and Vanderbilt University. The team has suffered only one loss this season and that was with Auburn last Saturday night. The score in this match was 19-13. The team did score a real victory in the Auburn match when Lloyd Anderson pinned Pate Auburn's huge heavy-weight. This was the first time in 3 years of wrestling that Pate had been pinned.

This year's team has an abundance of talent in returning letter winners and several outstanding freshmen. Wrestling teams here at Maryville have always been among the best in the South and this year's team should measure up favorably with any previous team.

Wrestling History Is Good

Wrestling had its real beginning here at Maryville in 1933 when it became an intercollegiate sport, but wrestling started on a lesser plane in 1926. In the years between '26 and '33 wrestling was looked upon as a minor sport. After its rise to a higher status Maryville has held a number of records.

The Highlander wrestlers were state champions for four consecutive years 1933 through 1936. These state championship teams were under the direction of Coach Thrower. From 1936 until 1940 the Scots were not able to capture any titles.

Southern Champions

In 1940 the wrestling team, under Coach Davis, went the entire season undefeated to capture the Southern Championship. This team, according to Coach Davis, was the best in Highlander history. The team had five experienced wrestlers who contributed greatly to the success of the team. In 1941 and '42 the Scots were tied for the State Championship. In '41 the tie was with Vanderbilt the Scots having lost one and won one mateh wth the Vandy grunters that year. In the match lost to Vanderbilt not a single bout was lost by a pin. The Scotties lost one match to the University of Tennessee in 1942 to tie them for the state championship. In the second meeting with U. T. in '42 the Scots won by an overwhelming margin. The Highlanders have never lost but one match to the University of Tennessee.

Coach Davis' teams have lost but three matches since 1940 and one of them was this year's loss to Auburn. In December of '42 Coach Davis entered the army and Woody Everett took over the coaching duties and coached the last two teams before intercollegiate sports were dropped. The last team before the present one was in '43. The prospects for next year's wrestling team are very bright with all the squad members expected to return. Wrestling has a fine record here and, with Coach Davis on hand, the indications are that the future will be equally as good for wrestling.

Scots Swamp C.-N.

The Scotties turned in another win Thursday night to give them three straight victories. Two of these games were revenge battles for the Highlanders, because they had lost to both teams previously. The Scotties overcame East Tennessee State by a comfortable margin and completely overshadowed C.-N. by a count of 44-28. Next week the Scots will have another chance for revenge when they meet Lincoln Memorial University Tuesday night in the Alumni gym.

ner chose to discuss the most characteristic sign of the Christian faith, "The Cross", reading the scripture lesson from the first chapter of 1 Corinthians. Early Christians would have been surprised at such a symbol, he said, but since that time it has been in considerable use. Some have misused the sign of the cross to ward off evil, for they somehow thought that an outward symbol had some magic power.

Others, Dr. Gardner continued, believe that "by the preaching of the cross there is salvation." The cross has in its meaning the spiritual relationship of people to God. "If we measure our own lives by the standard of God, we are sinners incapable of salvation. Only God can forgive. . . . . On the cross was exhibited that perfect love of God," the speaker said, and pointed out that it is through the cross that we can reach God for salvation. He concluded by adding that until people dedicate themselves to God and His Son, they will not know the power of the cross.

Final Night Service

The final evening service of the meetings was on the theme, "The Kind of a Church I believe Our Saviour would Want Us To Have". The speaker chose as the basis of this sermon a verse from the fifth chapter of Ephesians.

He then pointed out that three important characteristics which the church of Jesus Christ should have are holiness, universality, and apostolic succession. Finally, Dr. Gardner concluded, the church of Jesus Christ should be composed of Christians of all times, and of all lands who would meet together and feel a sense of true brotherhood.

Sacrifice

Choosing as his final topic that of sacrifice, Dr. Gardner closed the meetings with the thought, "What Makes Sacrific Reasonable?" Based on the scripture in the twelfth chapter of Romans, he stated that God wants us to present our bodies as a living sacrifice, wholly acceptable to God which is our reasonable service.

The speaker then pointed out that sacrifice is reasonable when it satisfies the soul's disquiet, when it helps other people, and when it has a great goal.

The last service was closed with an opportunity for all students to note on a card the resolutions and dedications reached during the meetings.

having made twelve, to ten for the Scotties. It was six free throws sunk by the Scots which gave them the half time lead. Five of these charity tosses were contributed by Bob Boring.

Scots Pulled Ahead

Derrick, State forward, opened the second half scoring with a free throw to knot the score 26-26. Shortly after Derrick's tally Lillard cracked down with long set shot to put the Scots out front, but a few moments later State held a one point advantage. The score was always close in the final half and was tied several times, but the Highlanders managed to keep the lead most of the time. With four minutes left to play, the Scots were in the lead 53-45. In these last four minutes the Scots registered one field goal and one free throw while the Teachers made good four charity tosses to boost their total score.

The teams were about evenly matched defensively but the Scots managed to out point the visitors in the scoring department. Maryville led in the percentage of charity tosses with 16 out of 26 while State was close behind with 13 out of 24. The Teachers tallied 12 of their free throws in the final half, but were held to a minimum of 6 field goals.

Gov't Approves Two New Buildings For MC Campus

Two new buildings have been approved to be given to Maryville College by the Federal Works Agency. Although five were applied for, funds were available only for a gym and an office building, with equipment. The gym will be set up behind Fayerweather Science Hall in the area where cars were formerly parked. It will be 60 feet by 85 feet in size and contain a maple hardwood floor. The playing floor will be 59'x76' and the rest of the room will be taken up by two store rooms, an office and the vestibule.

The office building will be 25 feet by 45 feet and stakes have been driven into the ground where the walks from Fayerweather to Carnegie and Memorial to Anderson cross. It will be partitioned into six rooms.

These buildings will be mounted on cinderblock foundations and will be finished in a few months, weather permitting. They are Army buildings coming from Camp Forrest, Tullahoma, Tenn. The buildings will be cut into sections and hauled up to the campus on trucks, a derrick will help in their erection. These buildings are only temporary, according to Dean McClellan, and he further states that they will not add to the beauty of the campus, but they will be serviceable, and will help remedy some of our crowded conditions. Johnson and Williard of Knoxville are the contractors.

Budget Cut Voted

The House of Representatives has voted to lop six billion dollars from the national budget for the next fiscal year. The vote was 239 to 157. Twelve of the majority votes were Democrats. Otherwise, the voting was strictly along Party lines, with Republicans holding the edge in numbers. The issue now goes to the Senate.

The proposed slash would cut Army and Navy funds as well as other government expenditures.

Universal Military Training

President Truman has renewed his plea for universal military training as a measure of national preparedness. The Chief Executive expressed himself in favor of a comprehensive youth training program at one of his recent news conferences. The President has intimated that he will not ask Congress to extend the present Selective Service Act which expires March 31.

New Weapon Being Developed

American scientists are working on a fantastic new means of chain reaction in the crust of the earth, according to Columnist Drew Pearson. The project is described as a hydrozen chain reaction in which the surface of the earth would be made to burn in a slow but steady stream Mr. Pearson reveals. Such a reaction would sear everything in its path including mountains, ice and snow. (Such destruction would seem almost to be taken from Revelation: "The third part of trees was burnt up, and all

Coach Mehl Takes Track Coach Post At U. of Tennessee

Athletic Director Robert Neyland of the University of Tennessee has announced the appointment of Walter J. Mehl as U. T. Track Coach. Mr. Mehl, at present Track Coach and Intramural Director at Maryville College, will join the U. T. staff at once.

Dean McClelland, Chairman of the Athletic Council at Maryville, stated that Coach Mehl would finish the year at his present position, but would spend enough time at U. T. to coach the track team this spring.

Mehl graduated from the University of Wisconsin where he captained the Track and Cross country teams. While at Wisconsin, he won Big Ten and National Championships in the Mile, Two Mile and Cross-country runs, establishing Conference and National records in the last two events. He also set a record in the 1500 meter run when he defeated Glenn Cunningham for the National AAU Championship in 1940.

After graduation and upon returning from service, Mr. Mehl served as assistant to T. E. Jones, Track Coach at the University of Wisconsin. Mehl served three and one-half years as an Athletic Officer in the Navy, spending 16 months over-seas.

Coach Mehl came to Maryville this past fall.

Homecoming Queen Planned

At their regular Wednesday evening meeting, the Student Council discussed the irregularities and misunderstandings of Town Night. After much deliberation, a committee composed of Jayne Shouse and Anna Sakaizawa was formed in order to clarify and codify the regulations.

Also discussed at the meeting was the annual election of a Homecoming Queen. By-law No. 3 to the Constiution of the Student Body concerning the regulations accompanying the election, was submitted for approval. The Council was unanimous in its passing.

Because of the inability of President Lloyd to be present, it was announced, the next meeting of the Student-Faculty Senate has been postponed until the first Monday in March.

No Town Night violations were reported.

Dockendorf Suffers Broken Arm Tuesday

Bob Dockendorf, senior, suffered a broken arm when a bicycle he was riding to town Tuesday morning threw him.

The mishap occurred in front of Doctors' Hospital on College Street. As Bob applied the bike's brakes to stop for an intersection, the brakes locked: the resulting sudden stop threw him forward over the handlebars. Upon landing his left arm was broken and he received minor scratches.

After the arm had been put in a cast at Doctors' Hospital, Dockendorf was able to be on his way.

The owner of the bicycle, Noble Pribble, reported no damage to the machine as a result of the accident. Pribble explained the cause of the accident by saying "The brakes had a habit of locking when you quit pedaling."

Celebrating the tenth anniversary of Disc Club, a program was presented Thursday evening, Feb. 20, at 6:45 in the chapel. The program was the same as that presented at the first meeting in October, 1936, Tschaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite". Ruth Freeman was the commentator. In addition to the regular recordings of this work, a record of part of the score "a la Spike Jones" was played to show the trend of music during the past decade. This program was originally scheduled for last November but was postponed due to conflicts in schedules.

Miss Katherine Davies was the first faculty sponsor of the group and Calista Palmer was the first chairman. The original purpose of the group was to present the best in recorded music to all interested students and faculty. Meetings were held bi-weekly with a commentator giving the origin, history, and interpretation of the music presented. Preceding each Artist Series Concert, the meeting was devoted to a study of the program of the artist.

Tom Horst is the present chairman with Gelola Kell, Betty Saint, Charles Huffman, John Ferris, and Mary Ruth Barber as committee members. Miss Lanfear is the faculty adviser.

'Wimpole Street' Scheduled To Play On March 7 and 8

Tentative dates for The Barrets of Wimpole Street, by Rudolph Bieser, which has been chosen as this year's Athenian-Bainonian play, have been set for March 7 and 8. The play is being directed by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, former member of the Fine Arts division, and will star James Black, Virginia Miller, and Ray Swartzback.

The Barretts of Wimpole Street is set in the London of 1845, at 50 Wimpole Street, the home of Elizabeth Barrett, who later became the wife of Robert Browning. The play is based on the life story of these two people, and Robert Browning's courtship of Elizabeth in particular.

The play was first produced in London. During its run there, Catherine Cornell read a review of it while on a boat to Panama. She was so interested that she and her husband bought it and took it to the United States. He both produced and directed it, making it a successful play.

Release for general use was made not long ago and this production here is one of the first showings outside the legitimate stage.

What Is This B. G.? Whatever It is, It Has Much Tradition Behind It

Among the various clubs and societies on the campus, B. G. stands heavily in deep tradition. Originally founded as a girl's hiking club, sister to the men's hiking society known as the Hi Trail Club, the B. G.'s gradually took on different activities. Due to an increase in the campus social life, the hiking trips became more difficult to arrange; and, thus, a social organization has evolved.

Composed of only eight members; three seniors, three juniors, and two sophomores, the end of each year finds two freshmen and one sophomore elected to take the place of the outgoing seniors.

The new members are picked from "Thetas, Bainonians, Debaters, Music graduates, M-Club Girls, home-ec girls, social workers, or in short, all kinds of Maryville girls". One policy of B. G. is "to never take in a girl just because she may be a special chum of one of the members." In fact, it is usually to be avoided. Following this declaration as outlined in the constitution, B. G.'s are resolved "never to become a clique."

The initiation of the "neophytes" takes place usually about four days after the Bainonian and Theta rush week; then, and not until, are the initiates told what B. G. stands for. This name, B.G., is revealed to no one besides its members and the faculty.

Officials of the organization are the three seniors who obtain the positions of President, Business Manager and Activity Chairman. This year's officers are Jessie Lou Brunson, Ann Anderson, and Lottie Lavendar, respectively. Mrs. Brown, who was one of the club's founders, is the faculty adviser.

Dr. Martin is in the South to lead a conference on the New Life Movement in Knoxville, Tennessee. He is on the Commission of Evangelism for the Presbyterian Church and is leading the conference in that capacity.

Dr. Martin has been a Moderator of the Synod of Illinois. His pastorate includes an outstanding youth program that is well known.

Dr. Martin will also speak to a joint Y.M.Y.W. group next week and to the Ministerial Association of the College Thursday night.

STUDENT VOLS

Sunday night, February 23, Tom Wheeler will be the speaker at Student Vols. He will tell of the caravan that he made last summer.

Last Program of Year's Artist Series

Monday night at 8:15 in Voorhees Chapel the last performance in the current Artist Series will take place. As has already been announced, Eddie Katz, young

EDDIE KATZ

American violinist, will replace Grisha Gobuloff who is unable to fill the engagement because of sickness. Mr. Katz is rapidly gaining fame in America. His first two New York appearances, separated by approximately two years in the Army, were widely acclaimed in press comments.

At his debut in Town Hall, November 9, 1942, his playing of the Miaskovsky D minor Concerto was approved by such comments as "he revealed a nice technique—especially in the difficult Miaskovsky concerto—and musical sensibility" by the New York Herald Tribune and "he invested Miaskowsky's D minor Concerto with feeling and musicianly comprehension" by the New York Journal-American.

In his second appearance in Town Hall, October 14, 1946, he played old composer Alexander Gretchaninoff. The press comments concerning the concerto, for which Mr. Katz has exclusive performance rights, in the New York Times said, "At the close, Mr. Gretchaninoff, who will be eighty-two years old on the twenty-fifth of this month, arose from his seat in the audience and shook hands with Mr. Katz and his able colleague at the piano, Arpad Sandor, and then acknowledged the round of applause that greeted him."

The program Mr. Katz will present here Monday night is as follows:

Sonata in E maior—Handel
Adagio cantabile
Allegro
Largo
Allegro non troppo
Concerto—Aram Khachaturian
Allegro con fermezza
Andante sostenuto
Allegro vivace
Intermission
Havanaise—Saint-Saens
Improvisation—Kabalevsky
Lullaby—Eddie Katz
March from "Love for Three Oranges"—Prokofieff-Heifetz
Aubade—Ialo
Hora Staccato—Dinicu-Heifetz

Mr. Katz' accompanist is Sidney Stafford.

WSGA DISCUSSES CHANGES AT MEETING OF WOMEN

Thursday night, Feb. 20, Jessie Lou Brunson called a meeting of all women on campus for purposes of studying a proposed change in Student Government which states that monitors will be placed in all halls to keep the dorms quiet and the rules effective. After a lengthy discussion, in which all phases of Student Government were discussed and grievances aired, the meeting was adjourned and individual dorm meetings will be held to finish the discussion

Let's Have Spring Holiday

Most of us are forever complaining that we need a little time just to catch-up with studies, exercise, or sleep. At any rate, about the first of April we all start wishing for a day-off. None of us have any desire to lengthen the semester by adding a week of vacation, but would like one or two days to catch our wind. There are a number of arguments against such a plan. Some students from a distance would not have enough time to go home, but still, most of them would be willing to see the students from close by journey homeward so long as they had a change of pace. Even one day of change would revitalize us and give us a new outlook. Another negative idea is the cost. Suppose we did have one or two days added to a week-end, would the cost disrupt too many budgets? Well, after all, quite a few students trek home for the week-ends. Why not give them a chance to get their money's worth? The next Question is, when? The logical time would be Good Friday or the Monday following Easter. Even if such a plan is impractical, how about Good Friday free? Amen!

—I.M.

The Student Council avoided a lot of grief for future councils this past week by setting up a written by-law governing the annual election of a homecoming queen. Heretofore, there had been no stated regulation providing for that, and at the last minute each year the Council has been called upon to decide what to do and how to do it, in connection with getting a homecoming queen.

Did you ever wonder if dogs have personality? It is strange the things that are brought up in a philosophy class.

The social committee this semester is really "on the ball". We are getting good Saturday night programs these past few weeks.

Incidentally, those new buildings announced on page 1 of today's Echo will be new only in the sense of being new to this campus. They are really Army buildings that have been declared surplus. Both are to be temporary (however long that may be.)

They will do more in the way of serving to give much needed office and gym space than they will in adding beauty to our campus, according to Dean McClelland. Still we are lucky to be getting them.

Wonder how many seniors have started studying for their comprehensive examinations. Why did we have to mention that?

The Athenian-Bainonian play, "Barretts of Wimpole Street" is certainly getting good advance publicity. According to the grapevine, it should be one of the best dramatic productions given here in many a moon.

It's always good to see snow come, but it's better to see it go away.

Just Being "Nosy"

The student gets the paper;
The school gets the fame;
The printer gets the money;
The STAFF gets the blame.

Dear Readers, (We hope we have cause for using the plural.)

We (yes, it's your dear friends) dedicate this column (ahem!) to those few who have had the courage and stamina to remain foot loose and fancy free when all about them have—you take it from here we're left without words. (It happens to everyone occasionally, you know.)

Speaking of words——if the new idea of Women's Student Government takes effect there will be less and less from the students and more and more from the monitors. We think it is a good idea to take some of the individual responsibilities off the few in the responsible positions. Our only hope is that if we ever do get a job we have sound proofed offices so we can think. But if silence is to reign, Johnson and Johnson better keep on making adhesive tape—we'll be their best customers. (We also hope that when we leave this earth for the life hereafter the cause of our expiration will not be from shock caused by a pin dropping.)

We thought Miss Massey's speech Thursday night was very apropos. In expressing how glad she was to be back at Maryville, she said she had already met many of us individually before the meeting. What could this mean? ? ?

We've heard some stories this past week which remained right with us through our perennial state of confusion.

Dale Motsinger, out of force of habit, signed out one girl on the town night sheet and then escorted her roommate to the movies. We wonder if the first girl felt like a dual personality when later looking at the sheet she saw she was signed out with two dates. And we can't even get one—the whole semester that is.) A charming visitor came to see Jane Witt last week. We marvel at Jane's super sales resistance in the face of such an array.

Dave Merlin is trying to disprove the old adage that "three's a crowd." Forced to get a date or accept the consequences of that bet, he shared his best friend's gal. If many people follow Dave's "trick" we'll just have to petition the town council to widen the sidewalks.

Going down town last Thursday, followed by a barrage of snow balls we met Paul Kolter. Shlosh-ing along in front of him were six of the huskiest canines we've ever seen. Paul explained he was just giving his sleigh dogs a little work out before his big night. He planned a trip to Knoxville to collet stars in his eyes as usual. (Incidentally he didn't explain the latter part of his statement.)

That snow on Thursday certainly started the balls rolling. In fact one rolled right through a window of Pearson's lobby. Will one of the 150 present at the time kindly "fess up." Mrs. Butcher came down the steps three at a time and vowed to "get her man." We hope that she has better success than we seem to have had up to date. Yes, we still retain this last word in our vocabulary although it applies only to our calendar.)

Our utmost sympathy goes to Glenn Knecht's roommate. Imagine being given a wild hay (or our mattress-es filled straw?) ride while your mate in the bottom bunk has night mares in which he is caught under a falling ceiling and in a desperate attempt to escape kicks at the ceiling to keep "those walls from tumbling down."

Leaving our stories—we are wondering——If Leo Wu has any relations here. Or have you heard of Pitching?

No week would be complete without some orchids being awarded to. . . . all those who made last Saturday night's junior party such a success. Mr. Peiper played an excellent part in the basketball game. Everyone was sorry it was of such short duration due to an old injury. Not being prejudiced, all the cheerleaders were wonderful. So original! . . . . Kiger's kow. . . Mitch and Cotton (Did they go to Arthur Murray to become so nimble footed. My what Hollywood missed!) Then we don't know if Hollingsworth's haircut deserves an orchid, but he does for bearing up under those stares. (Harvey, do you carry your Comb-a-trim with you?) We all agree George Hipkins deserves an orchid for his picture of Andy pinning Pate.

Now comes the time for us to run off for that shindig tonight. Taking Sarah Enloe's and Bugs Watkins's advice (you know them from that Sadie Hawkin's act at Wednesday night's ball game.) We're going to trip over to see the big show.

Due to the inspiration caused by celebrating birthdays this month of such great men as Lincoln, Washington and Jack Benny we purposely refrain from awarding dandelions and the art of prevaricating.

Some cause happiness wherever they go; others whenever they go. So goodbye now.

TALK OF THE WEEK . . .

By JEAN ALMY

Now Where Did I Hang My Coat? Or, The Tale of a Lost Scarf

BY JANET MILLER

The bell buzzes, madly you grab your books and paper, throw everything together into one big lump, stash them under your arm, grab your coat and, looking neither to left nor right, dash wildly out of the building headed for your next class. Half-walking, half running you take the steps three at a time and arrive at your destination slightly winded but flushed with triumph. You—Yes—you are the lucky possessor of an empty coat hook. Naturally, being an eager beaver, you are thinking only of keeping your coat looking nice. This is a misleading idea, however, for when class is over you, whose coat is on the bottom, must wait for the seven top layers to be removed or paw through the approximate area of hooks, looking for your coat. Thus you are late to the next class and throw your coat on top of the rest and the vicious cycle starts all over again.

Even so, we know of one freshman girl here (shall we call her Wanda?) who has worn other people's coats as often as she has her own. Wanda claims she just can't remember which coat she wore or where she left it. (Nice racket?) This is a mild form of kleptomaniacy but still just a bit bewildering to the owner of the coat she has chosen.

In the dining hall, history repeats itself double or nothing! After all the hooks are buried under three coats (a mild estimate) coats are thrown up over the top. This is bad for appearance' sake but even worse for the coat. (Maybe the college has part interest in a dry cleaning establishment?). When someone wants a coat which is usually on the bottom, he pulls. The desired coat,—— and 15 others——come tumbling down like the walls of Jericho. And the floor gets a dry mopping in the bargain.

To illustrate this, some weeks ago Jimmy got to lunch too late to find a hook so he threw it across the top with his scarf. After lunch he skillfully extracted his coat from the mess, but his scarf resisted stubbornly. Finally in desperation he pulled, and as if he had yanked the ripchord, all coats broke loose and, standing knee-deep in the middle of a pile of coats, jackets, mufflers and mittens, he held up the desired article and said pitifully, "I only wanted this."

So there you have a situation that needs changing. The only solutions or remedies that we can offer are:

(1) Along with other requirements in the catalog, they should add to the list of sheets and bedspreads, etc., 5 or more coat hooks with names, or—

(2) start putting your coat on the floor in the first place, 'cause that's probably where you'll find it anyhow. Why wear a clean coat? Nobody else does, and last—

(3) transfer to a school farther South. Then you won't need a coat to begin with.

SCOTLIGHTS

By MACK CASEY

The Scottie cagers after losing five straight games have reversed that procedure and won five straight. The Scotties' last victim, at the time of this writing, was the powerful Lincoln Memorial University Rail Splitters. The Scots had lost to three of these last five opponents earlier in the season and it has been sweet revenge for the Highlanders.

The two remaining games of the season are with Emory and Henry, and Tusculum. The Scots downed Emory and Henry in their first meeting but dropped the tilt with Tusculum. The only other team which has downed the Scotties is the Vanderbilt University "B" team who won by a mere one point margin. The Scotties will not get a chance to even the count with the Vanderbilt quintet since there was only one game scheduled with them. The Basketball season will end February 26 when the Scotties meet Tusculum on the Tusculum home court.

Spring Sports Begin Soon

With the basketball season almost over and even with snow on the ground a large number of athletes are looking forward to baseball, tennis, track, and spring football training. Meetings have already been held for the track and baseball prospects. Spring football practice is slated to begin soon after the basketball season is over and suitable weather for tennis should not be too far away.

Baseball To Start Soon

A large number of baseball men were present last week at a meeting with Coach Honaker, for the purpose of finding out the number of men trying out for the baseball team. Coach Honaker suggested that conditioning should start as soon as possible especially for the pitchers and catchers. Practice sessions will begin immediately after the basketball season is over. For the first week or ten days workouts will be held in the gym and after that time outdoor practice will begin as soon as the weather permits.

Baseball is Coach Honaker's speciality; in 25 years at Maryville his teams have won approximately 75 per cent of their contests. Besides the regular Smoky Mountain Conference competition, Coach Honaker's teams have met such big name schools as the University of Indiana, Michigan State, the University of Cincinnati, Vanderbilt, and the University of Tennessee. In 1942 the Scotties won two games from the University of Tennessee, the last contest by a score of 17-4.

Baseball, along with wrestling, has always beeen one of Maryville's outstanding sports. Coach Honaker is recognized as one of the South's best baseball coaches. He has sent twelve or more players on to the big leagues, which in itself should give a good example of his capabilities in the sport.

Track Men Hold Meeting

Last Wednesday Coach Mehl met with all the men who are interested in coming out for the track team. He was pleased with the large number of men who showed interest in trying out for the team. There were about forty men present at the meeting, and a list of training rules was given to each man by Coach Mehl. Organized practice will not begin until about the first of March.

Scots Run Win Streak To 6

Top E. & H. 58-46 In Tilt Last Nite

Playing their last home game of the season last night, the Scottie cagers came from behind in the second half to down the Emory and Henry quintet 58-46. The first half of the game was exceptionally close with the lead changing hands a number of times. The visitors managed to hold a three point advantage at the half, the score being 27-24 in their favor.

Brick Brahams hit the bucket for 14 points to be the top scorer for the Scotties. Ray Lillard and Bob Boring were close behind with 12 points each. Parrish was the big gun in the visitors line-up and the top scorer of the game with 23 points. He racked up 20 of his total in the first half, but he was held to 3 points in the final half.

First Half Is Close

Captain Ray Lillard opened the scoring with a field goal and Garner added another one shortly for the Scots. Wikle hit the bucket first for the visitors with a free throw then big Parrish added a field goal for his mates. The visitors began to pull ahead and soon held a 14-7 lead, but the Scots tied this score within a few minutes with seven consecutive points. After the Scotties had tied the score the remainder of the first half was very closely played with the lead changing hands frequently.

Scots Get Hot

The Scotties began the second half fast with a free throw by Lillard and baskets by Boring and Hamil. The Scots tightened their zone defense and held the Emory and Henry aggregation to a total of 19 points in the final half while they racked up 34 markers. Lillard, B. Brahams, and Boring were hot in the last half and scored a majority of the Scottie' points among them. At the four minute period the Scottie second team took over and were holding heir own when the final whistle sounded.

The two teams had about the same record in the free throw department. The Scots hit 12 out of 23 and the Wasps had 12 out of 22 charity tosses.

"B" Team Wins

In a preliminary game the Scottie reserves downed the Norris High School quintet by a count of 43-23. Wilson with 13 and Enloe with 11 points were the top scorers for the Scots.

M. C. Wrestlers Whip Vandy Again

Maryville's Wrestling Team defeated Vanderbilt University for the second time this season 27-3, in a match held at Nashville, Saturday afternoon, February 15. The Scotties took every match but one in downing the Commodores by a lop-sided score. Willocks, and Captain Anderson were the only Scottie men to score on pins. Willocks pinned Neal of Vanderbilt in 1 minute of the first period, and Anderson pinned Wilson of Vanderbilt in 2 minutes and 40 seconds of the first period. Vanderbilt's lone winner was Curry who decisioned Marvin of Maryville in the 128 pound class. Coach Davis stated that Maryville gave an improved performance and that the squad balance was better.

Tonight the Scotties tahgle with Appalachian State at Boone, N. C. Next week they will meet Georgia Tech. on Thursday and Chattanooga on Friday. Both of these matches are away. Following is a summary of the Vandy matches:

Scotties Down LMU Railsplitters In Revenge Match

The Scottie cagemen came out of one of the most exciting games played this year, Tuesday night with a 46-42 win over a strong Lincoln Memorial University quintet. The Rail Splitters downed the Scots in their first meeting earlier in the season 43-40.

Brick Brahams was the top man in the scoring department for the Highlanders with a total of 13. Garner and Hamil made 10 each to be the other top men for the Scotties. Bryant of the visitors led his team with 17 points and Huskey was next in line with 10.

L. M. U. Leads Early

The Rail Splitters took an early lead in the game with two long set shots by Brown and Beasley. Hamil scored first for the Scots with a free throw but Bryant followed with a free throw for the visitors to put them ahead 5-1. The Scots took the lead with two baskets and a free throw but Bryant tied the score with another charity. With four straight field goals the Scotties held a 14-6 lead, the biggest margin held by them during the entire game. Bryant and his team mates came back with five straight field goals to gain a two point lead. Lillard hit the bucket for the Scots to tie the score again, but Bryant added another free toss to hand the visitors a one point lead. One field goal and two charities put the Scots ahead but the Rail Splitters added two field goals and three charities while Garner added one charity for the Scots. The Scotties were trailing at half time 21-24.

Second Half Is Close

The second half was even closer than the first and the lead changed hands constantly. Boring, Scottie guard, fouled out shortly after the second half began and Baldwin replaced him in the line-up. Kemp also played well as a replacement in the guard position.

Garner opened the second half scoring with a field goal and Brown followed shortly with a bucket for L.M.U. Hamil made a charity throw and the visitors came back with a field goal and a charity toss. After Lillard added a free toss the Rail Splitters added five more points to go ahead 34-25. The Scots took over here and with five field goals and one free toss went ahead 36-34. The visitors tied the score with a field goal but the Scotties added five points to hold a 41-36 lead. Bryant added a marker and after a charity by Garner, Huskey added two free throws for L. M. U. to knot the score 42-42. At this point there remained only three minutes of playing time. A basket by Garner, and two free throws, one each by Hamil and Kemp, ended the scoring with the Scots ahead 46-42.

The fifth week of the season found a series of play unprecedented in the first half.

In their first game of the week, the Keltics nosed out the Yokels. The Ex-Scrubbs trounced the Misfits, while Echo in a close fight came out ahead of the Buzzards.

The Eight Balls continued undefeated, running over the Yokels by a scant margin and obliterating the Devils earlier in the week.

The Harriers made a vain attempt to overcome the Fancy Dans, lacking only four points to even the score.

The Moonshiners again took measure of the Machines. Choir won a game over Alpha Sigma

Results of the week:

The Bombardiers made a decisive victory over the Crescents, having a 29 point lead at the close of the game.

Echo retained their Garnet League lead by downing the Buzzards, who gave Echo plenty of opposition in the game. Score 19 to 12.

Choir in the first game of the week upset the Alpha Sigs to gain their first victory of the season. Score: 35 to 27.

The Ex-Scrubbs, who boast only two losses thus far, took their third successive win by setting back the Misfits for the second time to the tune of 21 and 12.

The Keltics out-did the Yokels again to bolster their second place lead in the Orange league. Final Score: 28 to 20.

The Eight Balls used two potent teams to steam-roll the weak Devils in chalking up the highest score of the season. The score was an unbelievable 141 to 17 with Reynolds alone getting 72 points to be high point man.

The Fany Dans put it over on the Harriers who showed more strength in their second meeting. The Harriers went down 13 to 17.

Echo rolled over Alpha Sigma to compiete their tenth game, 38-13.

The Eight Balls found game in the Yokel outfit: they had a struggle to out-score them. The score was tight all the way, being 16-13 in the Eight Balls' favor at the half. Final count was 28 to 23.

The Machines were stopped by the Moonshiners with an 8 point margin. In their previous meeting, Moonshiners nosed by on a one point advantage 19-18. This time it read 32 and 24

NEXT WEEK:

The Buzzards vs the Ex-Scrubbs make a good combination for competition in the coming week. The Misfits will get a shot at Echo in the Garnet League schedule.

The Bombardiers confront the Eight Balls and the Keltics, respectively, next week. The Fancy Dans and the Yokels will be out to overcome the other for a close battle in the Orange League.

Portal Pay Bill On Way

A bill to outlaw nearly six billion dollars in portal pay claims has been approved by the house. It may be introduced to the Senate next week. The famous case of the Mt. Clemens Pottery Co. has been thrown out of court by Federal Judge Frank Picard. The Judge made it clear, however, that he did not intend for his decision to be an influence in the settlement of other portal to portal pay claims disputes.

'Babies Are Human Beings'. . . . Is Serious Understandment Pop Declares

By LESLIE WEBB

A learned doctor has written a book called Babies Are Human Beings. When I first casually read this title, I agreed with the doctor quite readily. Since then I have had occasion to study the subject in more detail. I am now ready to credit the good doctor with a serious understatement.

Nothing but a young Human Being could ever yell like babies do. About the first thing babies yell for is a bottle. I refuse to carry that thought out to its logical conclusion. Some babies get over that. Very soon, though, a baby learns any number of things to be unhappy about. Although we are told that a baby sees only very dimly, he soon leaves no doubt he intends to see what there is to see. If you don't believe it, try turning out the light when Baby has his eyes open. Stop your ears, though, if you don't want to hear a loud wail.

Another thing Baby soon learns he can register disapproval of is turning off radio music. It makes no difference if you want to hear the latest news report. Baby is listening to Kay Kyser whoop it up and you'd better leave that on if you want him to remain quiet.

I have barely tapped the surface on the variety of ways that Baby can be a Human Being. An exhaustive study would include such matters as crying to be picked up, kicking the cover off and crying because of the cold, crying just to be crying, and many others.

To preclude undue hardship, though, let's take a break for now. After all, did you ever try to write with a light right in your eyes, a radio pouring out hot swing music and a baby just daring you to turn either off, and standing on your head. But don't give Baby all the credit. Standing on my head was my own idea.

Highlanders Take Hiwassee 55-43

The Scottie Hoopsters continued their current winning streak Monday night when they over-powered Hiwassee 55-43 on the Hiwassee home court to make it four wins in a row. The game was a walk-away contest for the Scots.

The Highlanders got off to an early lead of 17-1 and held the upper hand for the remainder of the game. The Hiwassee quintet was outclassed in all departments of play. After the Scots gained this big lead they began to relax their defense and the half time score was 24-30 in the Scotties favor.

Scotties Keep Ahead

The Scots scored 25 points in the second half of play and the Hiwassee aggregation garnered a total of 21. The Maryville reserves played a large part of the time in the final half. Even so, the Hiwassee quintet could not overtake the Scots in the scoring department. The game was never in doubt for the M. C. squad.

"Pie" Garner was the top scorer for the Scotties with 13 points. Cantrell with 11 was the top man for Hiwassee while Hatley was close behind him with 10 markers. Boring with 9 points, Hamil and Hap Brahams with 8 each were the other top men for the Scotties. The rebound work of Boring and Garner was a highlight of the Scotties play.

Maryville Takes Two First Places In Forensics Meet

Wallin and Cowan Win Championships In State Tourney

Two first places, three second places, and two third places in state championships were brought back by the debate team after participating in the state debate tournament held at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute in Cookeville, Tennessee, two days of last week, February 20-21. Barbara Wallin and Roger Cowan, both freshmen, won first place in women's oratory and after dinner speeches, respectively. Miss Wallin took second place in women's extemporaneous speeches, and Cowan won second place in men's extemporaneous speeches. Cowan also won third place in men's oratory.

Three Maryville teams, Peggy Cummings and Ruth Thompson, David Campbell and John Briggs, and Bill Smith and Stuart Saul, debated both sides of the question, "That Labor Should Have a Direct Share in the Management of Industry". Misses Cummings and Thompson won third in women's debate, and Campbell and Briggs tied for second place in men's debate.

Mr. Archibald Peiper, assistant professor of political science, accompanied the group to serve as a judge of contests in which Maryville students were not entered.

Four other debaters, Geneva Robinson, Ann Cook, Carl Lindsay, and Bill Nish, will attend another tournament to be held in Hickory, North Carolina during March 7-8.

Trouble Expected

As delegates to the United Nations Economic and Social Council prepared for the opening of their fourth session today, new trouble on old economic issues appeared imminent. The issue involves the proposed creation of a special economic commission to work out the economic development of Europe. A similar commission has been proposed for Asia and the Far East. The plan was opposed by Russia when it came before the Council last fall. The United States and Great Britain are sponsoring the program.

The Russians have recently caused surprise in international circles by indicating their approval of the request by the United States to be granted sole trusteeship of former Jap-minded islands in the Pacific.

Germany Needs Food

Former president Herbert Hoover has recommended that the United States allot nearly half a billion dollars for food for German civilians. This amount is needed over a period of eighteen months, beginning last January 1st. Mr. Hoover declares this to be an essential contribution to peace and order in the Western Hemisphere. If the proposal is adopted, it would be stipulated in all peace arrangements that the money is to be repaid from any future German net exports before other payments of any kind to other nations.

Living Costs Decline (?)

The Bureau of Labor Statistics has announced that the high and rising cost of living has slowed down. The Bureau reported food prices went down about one-tenth of one percent as of January 15th. All other costs of living items such as household furnishings and services, fuel, electrical appliances, and clothing continue to rise. Wholesale prices covering about nine hundred food and non-food items reached a record level last week. This is expected to be reflected in higher retail prices shortly.

Variety Show Well Received Saturday

Musical numbers played by the swing quartet with Howard English and his trumpet, Sandy Smith at the piano, Roy Smith at the drums, and Roy Cox and his bass fiddle, opened the Variety Show which entertained over four hundred students in Voorhees Chapel last Saturday night, February 22. Sponsored by the social committee, it has proven to be the most entertaining student program of the year, featuring vocal and instrumental solos, a women's trio, two men's quartets, and a dance.

Mary Holly Webb, freshman was the first soloist, singing "I Love You". Mil Castrodale, Jack Gilmore, Tom Wheeler and Scott McClure used a comical skit to produce their quartet numbers, which were followed by Florence Housch's vocal solos, "Sonata" and "Temptation". Jean Balch gave a dance number after which the faculty trio, Miss Johnson, Mrs. Newberry, and Mrs. Cummings, sang two numbers. Anna Sakaizawa chose for a violin solo the familiar "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life", and Bob Connell sang "Somewhere in the Night". The faculty quartet, for which the voices of Mr. Vine, Dr. Williams, Dr. Sisk, and Dr. Case were combined, concluded the talent show of the evening.

As a finale, the March of Time movie short, "Music in America" was given. Refreshments were later served in the basement of the chapel.

THETA

Theta will meet with Aloha Sig at 6:45. The program will be skits by groups representing both clubs.

O'Neill Play And Negro Shakespere Slated For Tonight

Tonight in Bartlett Hall at 8:00 p. m., the Experimental Theater will present its next performance. The program, teeming with ghosts, people falling into washtubs and numerous other attractions, will be one of the most varied to date. It consists of 3 plays.

Opening the night's performance is Eugene O'Neill's "Where the Cross is Made" with Glen Knecht, Bob Arant, Margie Newland and Dave Merlin in the principle parts. The play is steeped in mystery and supsense which is handled deftly by the playwright. The plot deals with the growing insanity of an old sea captain and his son, concerning a buried treasure.

Shakespeare would certainly never recognize his balcony scene which is presented in blackface by Juliet Washington Lee (Betty Absher) and Romeo Pickens Jackson (Carroll Stegall).

The third and last play of the evening will be "In the Suds". This is a translation of a Medieval farce; it is completely exaggerated throughout. According to Mrs. Curtis Hughes, who is directing all of the plays, it is not to be taken seriously. Those taking part in the last play are Jeanne Dennis, Vernon Hyde, and Marjorie Prall.

Fiction Collection Of M. C. Library Greatly Increased

The fiction collection of the library has been greatly improved and enlarged recently. A survey has been made of American, English, and Continental novels and more than a hundred of these have been purchased. Among the Continental novels is the biography of Stendal, noted 19th century writer, whose works were popular in France during the resistance. Other works are Dmitrii Merezhkovskii's The Romance of Leonardo da Vinci, Anton Chekhov's The Stories of Anton Chekov, Emile Erckman's The History of a Conscript of 1813, and Heinrich Mann's Young Henry of Navarre.

Several volumes of a portable library have arrived which include Faulkner, Ring Lardner, and Fitzgerald. This is the first portable library that our library has ever had.

Among the faculty favorites which are to be added are: Screwtape Letters, by Clive S. Lewis, favorite of Dr. Barker; The Eyes of Faith by Paul S. Minear, favorite of Dr. Lloyd; and Angel Mo' and Her Son, Roland Hays by MacKinley Helm, favorite of Mr. Vine.

For the mystery fan twelve dozen detective stories have been ordered which include the works of Ellery Queen.

'The Barretts of Wimpole Street' Set To Play Friday and Saturday

Pleasing Program Presented By Katz At Final Concert

BY DOROTHY VAWTER

"Pleasing performance", "nice tone", "pleasing program", "nice presentation" were some of the comments heard after the program Monday night—all of which were true and yet say nothing. The program was a pleasant one, well presented, but, as is reflected in the comments, was not extraordinary or anything to make critics rave. Mr. Katz' technic shows hard, concentrated work and practice but he gave only a preview of what he may be in a few years.

The Handal Sonata was delightful and showed an understanding of the traditional style. It was an interesting and awakening way to start the evening.

The Concerto by Khachaturian was a long way removed from the Sonata chronologically and would have been almost too great a contrast had the themes not been somewhat folkish and singable. The andante movement especially showed superb concentration on tone quality.

The last part of the program won for Mr. Katz the hearts of the entire audience, because it was pleasing, well played, and much warmer than the first part. The march from "Love For Three Oranges" was especially delightful.

One thing which perhaps detracted from the musical performance, even though it isn't supposed to matter, was the rather cold and detached attitude of both Mr. Katz and his accompanist. This may have been due to the fact that this concert was attended by fewer people than either of the other two performances this year. It isn't very encouraging to an artist to look into approximately three hundred empty seats. The redeeming factor was the fact there was no feeling of strain on the part of the listener. One had the feeling that Eddie Katz knew what he was doing and needed no help in getting it done.

How To Win Two Tickets to "The Barretts of Wimpole Street"

On Friday and Saturday, Feb. 28 and March 1, a contest is being held with a prize of two tickets for the winner. On those two days there will be a jar of beans in the lobby of Pearsons Hall. The object of the contest is to guess the number of beans in this jar. If you are a math. major, get out your math book and compass, go get all the measurements and see just what you can do in this brand new contest. The contest will close Saturday night at 6:00. Be sure and make a guess. Who knows, that one guess may save you ninety cents.

Student Council Clarifies, Revises Town Night Rules

Additional information aimed at a more clear and concise interpretation of Town Night regulations has recently been posted in each dormitory by the Student Council. This list has as its objective to clear up any doubts which have been entertained as to the true meaning of Town Night regulations. These codifications and slight revisions will be in effect this next Tuesday night. The Student Council emphasized that students will be responsible for knowing them. They are as follows:

Time Limits

Special permission has been obtained from Dr. McClelland so that hereafter, Town Night privileges may be considered in effect beginning at 5:00 o'clock instead of 6:00.

Girls are reminded again to aim at the official time limit of 10:00 o'clock instead of 10:15.

Use of Parlors

The two society parlors in Pearsons may be secured for dates on Town Night in the usual manner. However, the parlors shall be opened for general use after 9:30 for the benefit of those returning early from town or the Rec Hall. (This does not necessarily mean that parlor dates must terminate at that time.)

The main parlor in Pearsons, like the society parlors, shall not be available for general use until 9:30.

Dates must leave the women's dorm promptly at 10:00 o'clock.

Loitering

On Town Night there shall be no loitering whatsoever. This applies to all students whether signed out on the Town Night sheet or not, and includes going to and from town, and the library, on campus, dormitory porches, and Pearsons lobby. Since dormitory parlors have been opened to eliminate this, all loitering will be subject to the usual penalty of 2 months suspension.

Rec. Hall Sign Out

Girls shall sign out for the Rec. Center on the Town Night sheet if they plan to be there after 7:15. Failure to do so will be subject to the usual penalty of 3 weeks suspension.

Those planning to go to the Rec. Center as well as to town may so indicate at the time of signing out. This will make it possible to go directly from one place to the other without returning to sign in and out again.

Special Permission

In those exceptional cases when special permission is granted on Town Night, it must be reported to the president or the secretary of the Student Council ahead of time. Girls should take it as a personal responsibility to see that their permission is properly reported.

If this is not done, any special privilege, regardless of who grants it, will be considered a violation

Original Etchings By Kasimir To Be Displayed Here

Eleven original etchings by a noted Austrian, Luigi Kasimir, will be on display Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:30 in the art classroom commencing this week. Among the etchings are scenes of London, Paris, Hamburg, California and Princeton University.

Kasimir and his family have not been heard from since the beginning of the war and it is uncertain as to their fate, at the hands of the Nazis. He studied at the Academy of Art in Vienna and, after reaching artistic maturity, etched for The Standard Oil Company and the White Star Line of Hamburg, in New York.

Kasimir expresses his personality through his etchings to a marked degree. That his scenes are taken from places widely separated shows him to be a man of strength and vigor. He is endowed with an eager and driving temperament, and critics endow him with good judgment and wonderful technical strength. He is a very rapid worker, unswerving in his draftsmanship, and in his art there is significance and individuality even where signs of restlessness are present.

These etchings are shown under the auspices of The American Federation of Arts in Washington, D. C.

Sophomores To Perform At Recital Tuesday

Two sophomore students, Misses Jane Martenis and Ruth Ramsey, will participate in the student recital scheduled for 4:30, Tuesday afternoon, March 4, in Voorhees Chapel. Harry Merrill will be Miss Martenis's accompanist for the six compositions she will sing. Miss Alma Lancaster will accompany Miss Ramsey for her seven selections.

The program will be as follows:

Council Sponsors Town Night Swim

Life guards will be on hand next Town Night to open the swimming pool, it was announced by the Student Council at their regular Wednesday evening meeting. Making an additional pastime for students, swimming hours will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Having received the faculty's and Coach Mehl's approval, the motion was passed unanimously.

Supplementary information concerning Town Night, which had been compiled by a special committee, was brought before the Council; and it was decided to have several copies made for posting in the various women's dorms.

One Town Night violation was reported, and the usual penalty was applied.

STUDENT VOLS

Student Vols will hear Mrs. Thomas Husk of Atlanta speak on leners at the meeting tomorrow evening at 9:00. Dorothy Vawter will play a piano solo.

Famous Drama Has Many M. C. Stars

The curtain will rise both Friday and Saturday nights, March 7 and 8 for the Bainonian-Athenian play, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street". The play which Katherine Cornell made a hit on Broadway boasts a host of Maryville College stars. Virginia Miller as Elizabeth Barrett heads the cast. Robert Browning is played by Ray Swartzback. Jim Black is Edward Barrett, father; Jean Williams, Henrietta Barrett;, sister; Betty Seagraves, Arabel Barrett, sister; Harriet McKean, Wilson; Virginia Clabough, Bella Hedley; Bill Grosh, Dr. Chambers; Max House, Henry Bevin; Roger Cowan, Octavius Barrett, brother; Julian Gresham, Septimus Barrett; Al Lesnick, Alfred Barrett; Ben Paxton, Charles Barrett; Harvey Overton, George Barrett; Bob Frost, Henry Barrett; Jim Martin, Capt. Cook; Bill Anderson, Dr. Ford-Waterlow; Flush, Elizabeth's (dog), is to be played by a newcomer to the Maryville stage.

Poet's Life Shown

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street" was written by Rudolph Besier, English dramatist, in 1878. It is based on the life of the poetess Elizabeth Barrett, her struggle against sickness and the tyranny of her father. The scene is set at 50 Wimpole Street, London, in the year 1845. Elizabeth is confined to her bed and is unable to move about without help. Edward Barrett rules the family with an iron hand, which only increases Elizabeth's melancholy state. A ray of light comes into her life when she reluctantly gives in to the constant requests of Robert Browning and allows him to visit her. Elizabeth falls in love with Browning and over a period of time regains her health. The situation becomes complicated when Robert asks her to marry him, for her father is dead set against any of the girls getting married. And since Elizabeth is the light of his eye she doesn't dare tell anyone in the family, let alone her father. What she finally decides and what she does provides a thrilling climax to a wonderful love story.

Committees Working

Publicity and advertising for the play is being handled by a committee headed by Barbara Eggleston, assisted by Margaret Rock, Barbara Bertholf, Julian Gresham, and Ruth Heaps. Ruth Williams, chairman, and Rebecca Maddox are handling the business end of the play. Willis Pribble is acting as stage manager. The stage crew is composed of Bill Cover, Dick Moore, and Fred Richardette. Electrician is Leonard Schieber.

Properties are being arranged by Tom Eckhert, Rebecca Wlton, and Martha Brindley. Gwyneth Williams is chairman of the properties committee. Her assistants are Arlene Whiting, Marviane Blizzard, Sarah Enloe, Mary Ruth Barber, and Jane Huddleston.

Tickets are to go on sale Monday, March 3. They will be sold before and after both lunch and supper Monday through Wednesday in the lobby of Pearsons Hall at $0.45 a piece.

Debaters Get Stuck In Snow Among Other Things On Recent Debate Trip

BY BARBARA WALLIN

"Over hill, over dale, as we hit the dusty trail; and those caissons go rolling along." Those words are quite descriptive. However, changing a few words makes them describe an entirely different scene. Let's do it and see what happens.

"Over hill, over dale, as we hit the snowy trail, and the debaters get stuck in the snow." There you have it. Last Thursday morning bright and early—well not too bright, but at least early—eight sleepy debaters fell out of their snug little beds and started on their first debate trip.

The weather was wet to say the least. But that didn't stop Mr. Peiner, Dave Campbell, John Briggs, Stewart Saul, Bill Smith, Rosar Cowan, Peggy Cummines, Ruth Thompson, and vours truly. Soon after Bill had finally made his appearance—late as usual, the bus rolled in and we were on our way to Knoxville where we hoped to grab a bite of breakfast before shoving off toward Cookeville, Tennessee where the Tennessee State Debate Tournament was being held. Plans were thwarted though, and we only had time to get our tickets and hurry on. Lucky, lucky people.

Just as the bus pulled out of the Knoxville station, little flakes of snow began to flutter down. We all started exclaiming over the snow as it began to snow harder. The other people on the bus probably thought we had never seen snow before—but who cares? We are all just kids at heart, you know.

Little did we know as we drove along and saw the snow getting deeper and deeper that before long, we, too, would be gracing the landscape on the side of the mountain a bus stuck firmly in the snow and mud. Of course this little escapade slowed us up just enough so that we missed one train from Crossville to Cookeville and had to wait for the next one.

Have you ever waited in a little one-room train station for two hours and a half waiting for a train that seemed an eternity in arriving? If you haven't, you

About These "Corny" Chapel Announcements

Quite often in our morning chapel services, we wonder if there are any outside visitors, hoping there are none; for anyone who doesn' know better might easily get the impression that we are junior high school rather than of a college level. And naturally we refer to the period of daily announcements. Those rhymed, or un-rhymed, hardly ever rhythmical, announcements are getting pretty bad. To say the least they are unnecessary, and we can very happily get along without them.

Now we are not an expert on advertising psychology. But we think the desired information can be presented in chapel without all the "corn". It does not seem that the chapel announcement is the proper medium for each of the many campus organization to put on their promotional activities.

It is a fact that the same type of wording in the announcements day in and day out gets tiresome. Some variation and originality is desirable. And some few of our "corny" announcements are good. But when they get to the point where they are the usual thing rather than just a change, they show no originality and are more boring than just the plain straight facts. It seems to us the tendency has gone too far in that direction already.

It is time to do something about it. Of course, the poor deans whose sad lot it is to read the student notices could put an end to it by simply making a rule against that type announcement. And no doubt it has been contemplated. However it would be far better for the persons who write them to make the limitations themselves.

Let's have not so steady a diet of "corn" in chapel. That's too early in the day for it anyway.

Just Being "Nosy"

BY JANET MILLER

. . . . Haply the watchful young men saw
Sweet doorway pictures of the curls
And curious eyes of merry girls,
Lifting their hands in mock defence
Against the snow-ball's compliments,
And reading in each missive tost
The charm which Eden never lost.
Snowbound by Whittier.

The ghost of Isac Anderson in form of a snow man was erected in the college cemetery by three college maids—Ginny MacArthur, Marge Prawl, and Lois Thomas.

And while we're still on the subject of snow, the college woods was infested with students on Sunday, some of whom were enjoying it, others of whom were glorying in its majestic beauty. The faculty thinks it's the forest prime-evil—'Snow fun, is it?

When we returned borrowed property the other day, we noticed a pipe on Marion Lewis' dresser. Is she acquiring that Tennessee habit some women have? Reminds us of the irregular conjugation of the Latin verb; Ptuius, Ptuari, P*tui, Splash!

What fellow is trying to buy part interest in the tables at Cates? Trying to edge in on some guy's goldmine, huh?

Mrs. Black has a black coat with a green lining. Lest we foget!

Mrs. Peiper does too have a diamond. See for yourself.

Bob Wilson has been seen in Pearsons waiting a Strange Woman. Even his best friends won't tell him, but he didn't ask 'em.

Does Mr. Horton have a loose right arm? The way he throws it around while explaining things is fascinating.

Jo Liddell's mother was here visiting last week end. Tommy didn't look the least bit perturbed.

We wish Jean Heape' room-mates wouldn't treat her quite so roughly, for her eye was even swollen.

Who put that dead crow in Don Lehman's bed? And why did you?

Why do they call Swartzback Gigi?

Bet the barber will need a scythe to get within 2 feet of the scalps of the male cast of The Barretts of Wimpole Street. You've heard of Stonewall Jackson, well, this is sideburn (Bill) Anderson. Jim Black met one of the faculty in Knoxville who said, "I see you're letting your hair grow for the play." Jim replied, "Yes, and what's your excuse?"

Bill Carter and Janet Blackmore found a very neat little place in the library to study (?), Wednesday night.

March 1st. . . . and it seems to be holding to tradition of coming in like a lion and going out like a Lamb or is it Lamp?

This Artic weather has brought many hardslips, but you should be thankful that the black and blue spots don't show. For proof, or example, there was E. J. Cotton who pinned Martha Grace Brindly on the walk to chapel Friday morning. Maybe E. J.'s seen too many wrestling matches and it's the subconscious coming out.

Ernie Cook's beard was all right for Sunday school but it must have gotten too long by church time. Can't decide whether it was too early or too lae for that 5 o'clock shadow.

Why is Sarah Durant always the last one out of the dining hall after all meals. . . .or maybe he's slow?

Lost and Found Dep't: Will the person who snitched Jim Torrey's Analytics book please return it to the lobby of Pearsons.

Along a similar vein of thought, while leafing through the March issue of Better Homes and Gardens, we came across an article entitled, "You, too, can HOOK a rug.' Is this the Maryville influence? The article did not tell where the novice could hide it once it's been hooked! All of which would lead us to believe that maybe crime doesn't pay, after all.

We had always been told that Hair could stop off Flood but now we've actually seen it happen. Helen (Tommy) Hair and Charlie Flood, that is.

Dr. Case was patiently explaining to his Bible class that God made man in his own image. He had not had a chance to complete this statement when Elaine Kerm leaned over and whispered enthusiastically, "the 18th of June." Wonder if the historians agree with this date?

There are two kinds of corn (we have just recently been informed by MaMahon). One is the vegetable, the other Herb (McCallum).

From Kentucky through gales of snow and bitter weather, Mac braved it down to see Faye Condry and before he left, they were engaged. While the fellows sang to them in the dining hall, Coons ate saltines. Pretty crumbly trick!

Una Jordan sits calmly and placidly along side us in Bible and tells us that this pink affair she's been knitting is for a two-year old but we could get no more from her about it? In fact, most of second floor Pearsons is knitting one thing or another, but nothing pink and for a two-year old. Come clean, Una, we won't tell anyone.

Joke:
Marilyn Hartpence told it:
Man: Did you say he was shot in the woods?
Doc: No! In the lumbar region.
End of joke.

Couldn't dig up anything printable about Lorraine Swift or Grace Gugger except that the former's activities are very interesting to observe and the latter's threatened to put a patch on the other side of our cheek if we so much as mentioned her.

Dave Gulick received word on Thursday that he had been accepted by Temple Med School. Congratulations.

Is Charlie Pepper fashion conscious. . .or is he conscious at all? Under his sleeve-less sweater, he wears a T shirt that's a dickie. Such a broad expanse of back showing. Ask the back row, consisting of Elsie Onifer, Jean Cobb, Janet Campbell and Ruth Plyler.

Which of the two Coaches would we prefer for leading chapel?

And so to leave you with this touching (dual meaning) thought: Confuscious say: He who on ice hurries to be first will fall behind. (how else?)

M. C. and Conferences

Many persons around here have been asking recently about the athletic conference that Maryville is in. At present Maryville College is a member of no conference whatsoever. No matter how many times you have seen Maryville grouped with the members of the Smoky Mountain Conference—in Dunkle's ratings. . . . on the Carnegie bulletin board. . . . in a Knoxville paper, M. C. is not in the S. M. C. fold.

Formerly Maryville was a member of that group. In fact, many years ago when he first came to Maryville, Coach Honaker was one of the main figures in the organizing of the said Smoky Mountain Conference, and naturally Maryville was a charter member. However, it was in 1940, after many successful sports years in the loop, that this college decided that the conference had become so over-run with subsidation and "athlete recruiting" that it should drop out of further formal league competition.

Within the three following years, with the coming of the war and the going of the men, that conference completely dissolved. Although it was an inevitable death, SMC was a war fatality. And so we did not miss too much by leaving our conference when we did.

Still No Conference Here

Now that sports have been completely re-established here, Maryvile is still an independent; our Highlanders are without any conference affiliation.

It seems to us that is an advantage, for any college to be in an athletic conference if there is a suitable and practicable one available.

What Are The Possibilities?

As for a suitable and available conference for us to join now, there are two or three possibilities that we know of. For one, there has been considerable talk as well as some publicity and one or two steps taken around Middle Tennessee toward the formation of a Tennessee State Collegiate Athletic Association. Especially was this talked (maybe is still being talked) in connection with plans for a tournament to determine a state basketball championship.

Another possibility—and so far that is all it is—is that several colleges in the South of the same general size and type who profess similar "pure" athletic policies will ge together and form a conference to suit themselves. Such a loop would include Maryville, Sewanee, Centre, Mississippi College, Southwestern, and one or two others. We have not seen any publicity of this proposed plan nor concrete steps.

The other group we could join—rejoin, that is—is the Smoky Mountain Conference.

"What To Do?"

That State conference doesn't seem to hold a great deal of promise. We don't have much faith in it. In the first place it may never be organized. Big plans like that quite often have a way of not working out. And if they did, the policies and activities of some of the most interested and leading schools of the proposed organization are worse than any institution that was ever in the S. M. C. or that caused Maryville to get out. Besides those would-be-member institutions of West and Middle Tennessee are a long way from here.

Many of the same troubles would be found in any sort of league formed with Sewanee, Centre, Southwestern, Mississippi College, et al. They are just too far apart for profitable competition between schools that are not putting a great deal of money into athletics. When a football squad travels some thousand, or twelve hundred miles for a gime it means something, financially and scholastically. And again there is no proof that these schools that have announced a non-subsidation policy will maintain such attitudes over a period of years, as far as that angle goes. They found it advisable once; they may again.

Let's Join The S. M. C.

The Smoky Mountain Conference has reorganized since the war. It now promises to be a successful and beneficial loop, as it was for many years before the war. The member institutions are anxious for M. C. to come back into the group. That is where Maryville really belongs.

It consists of colleges that Maryville has athletic relations with anyway, with one exception. Right now the members are Carson-Newman, Tusculum, Emory and Henry, L. M. U., and Milligan. They are colleges of our general isze and they are the closest colleges to Maryville.

By not getting back into the conference, or some conference, we are hurting no one but ourselves. We are missing that added appeal of fighting for some kind of championship, which always adds much interest. We are missing the various tournaments that a conference would sponsor. Quite possibly we could have won the college tournament of the S. M. C. that ends tonight. This year we had a team of championship caliber. By not being in a conference they were denied that recognition. We would have been conference football champs in any league we had been in this past fall; we were denied that honor.

Perhaps we do not like the methods of some of the schools. Still over a period of years Maryville, without such methods and practices, has had as much success in athletics as have had the "bad schools." We should get along with our neighbors, even if we don't like them all, for our benefit as well as theirs.

Being a member of a league is desirable. Let's rejoin the Smoky Mountain Conference.

Cagers Show Good '47 Record

Scots Win Twelve Out of 18 Games

The Scottie Cagers ended their basketball season last Wednesday night with a 37-40 loss to the strong Tusculum quintet. The game went into an overtime period when the score was tied at 35-35 at the end of the regular playing time. The Tusculum squad is the only team which can boast two wins over the Scotties. The Vanderbilt "B" team is the only quintet besides Tusculum which the Scots did not defeat at least once. However, the Scotties met the Vanderbilt squad only one time and dropped that game by a mere one point margin.

Statistics Are Good

In playing eighteen games the Highlanders were victorious in twelve of these engagements but dropped the other six games by very close margins. The total point difference in these six games lost by the Scots was only 28, less than five point average per game. The Scotties started the season with six straight wins then dropped the next four games. The losing streak was broken when the Scots trounced Tennessee Wesleyan and continued to win for the next five games. The six game winning streak was broken in the final game of the season when Tusculum downed the Scots last Wednesday night. Besides the regular varsity tilts the Scottie "B" team turned in several wins over local independent teams.

The Highlanders were far ahead of their opponents in total points for the season and in average points per game. The Scotties racked up a total of 878 points for a 48.8 average per game while their opponents had a total of 721 points for a 40.1 point average per game.

Lillard Top Scorer

Captain Ray Lillard led his team mates with 194 points for the season giving him a 11 point average per game. Brick Brahams was next in the scoring department with 172 points and a 9.6 point average per game.

Individual Statistics for the season are as follows:

Player	Games	TP	Aver.
R. Lillard	18	194	11.0
B. Brahams	18	172	9.6
Garner	15	82	5.5

Chillies Win Point System Basketball

Winning the fourth game of the basketball tournament by a score of 35-25, the Chillies emerged as the champion team in point system. This gave them a record of three wins and one loss.

Next Tuesday, March 4, the group will begin an aerial dart tournament. This will be an individual tournament.

Maryville To Meet Alcoa Tonight For H.S. Championship

Tonight in the Alumni Gym the finals of the Seventh District Girls' and Boys' high school tournament will be played. The boys' championship game will be played between top seeded Alcoa and Maryville quintets. In the girls' division the finalist will be Walland and Porter. The girls' game will get under way at 7:00 and the boys' game is scheduled to begin at 8:00. An over capacity crowd is expected.

In the first game played last night in the semi-finals the Walland girls came from behind in the last minute of play and dropped the Everett sextet 39-38. The game was closely contested from the opening whistle until the very last second of playing time.

The Alcoa boys came from behind in the last thirty seconds of play to down the Friendsville Academy five by a 25-24 score. This was the best game of the evening and up until the final seconds of play the Friendsville team looked like a winner. The Alcoa team was considerably off and missed numerous shots.

The girls game between Porter and Townsend was another close contest. The Porter girls managed to come out on top of a 34-30 score.

In the final contest of the evening the Maryville boys outpointed the Friendsville High quint by a count of 39-31. The Maryville team started fast and held an early lead over the Friendsville team and continued to lead throughout most of the remainder of the game.

The semi-finals last night were played before an over flow crowd even standing room was not available a short time after the opening whistle. An even larger crowd is expected to turn out for the finals tonight.

Scottie Wrestlers Trimmed at Boone

Maryville's Grapplers lost their second match of the season last Saturday night when they were overpowered by Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone, North Carolina, by a score of 28-5. Maryville won only one match as Tubby Calloway remained undefeated. He won on a default when his opponent was injured and was forced to withdraw from the match.

A summary of the macthes follows:

121 Class Jenson A) dec. Heaton (M)
128 Class Wilson (A) pinned Marvin (M) 26 sec. last per.
136 Class Cobb (A) pinned Ross (M) 3 min.

Overtime Loss To Tusculum Is Finale

Playing their last game of the season last Wednesday the Scotties lost a close decision to the Tusculum cagers. The game went into an overtime period when the score was tied at 35-35 at the end of the regular playing time. At the end of the five minute period the Tusculum aggregation had scored 5 points and the Scotties 2 and the final score stood at 40-37.

Bob Boring and Hugh Hamil, two of the regulars on the Maryville squad had trouble on the road and did not arrive on the playing court until midway of the first half. Kemp and Baldwin started the game in the place of Boring and Hamil.

Garner Top Scorer

Garner was the top point man for the Scotties with 9. Brick Brahams was next for the Scots with 8 points. Jones with 16 and Waddle with 14 were the top scorers for the Tusculum quintet.

Score Always Close

The score was always close in the ball game, the biggest difference was in the first half of play when the Tusculum squad held a six point advantage over the Scotties. The Scotties speeded up and at the end of the first half they had overtaken their opponents and held a one point advantage, the score being 17-16.

The second half of play was much the same as the first in the closeness of the score. At one time the Scotties held a 5 point lead, but they allowed the Tusculum quintet to tie the score by the end of the game. The Scotties were off and missed numerous shots which would have put them out front in the scoring.

Life Saver's Courses Beginning Monday Night

Swimming instruction designed to give students Red Cross Senior Life-Saver's rating will begin next week in the college swimming pool. Students with Instructor ratings will teach the course.

The class has been divided into two sections, with one group meeting on Mondays and Thursdays and the other on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The hours for each session are 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The course requires fifteen hours work. There will be two instructors for each class of approximately fifteen students. Anyone still desiring to enroll in the course is advised to see Coach Mehl immediately. The time was arranged purposely so that class hours will not conflict with open night on the pool, which will be on Tuesday nights.

Immediately following the Senior Life-saving course, classes will begin for instructor's ratings. This class will run the same number of hours as the first course and will be climaxed by a week of intensive training of three hours each night, beginning on April 28. Mr. Anderson, of the Red Cross will supervise this final week of preparation for instructor's work.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By HERBERT McCALLUM

Basketball

Upsets marked the next to last lap of the intramural basketball season this week.

The Eight Balls, here-to-fore leader of the Orange League, were given their first set-back by a fighting Bombardier squad. This knocked the props out of Eight Balls' lead in the Orange League, making it a hotter race among the three high teams in the league.

The Machines pushed Alpha Sigma under in their second meeting. The Fancy Dans lurched ahead of the Yokels to divide the laurels of victory between the two teams in their contests.

As this column was being written, the Ex-Scrubb vs Buzzard affair had not been settled; it seemed likely to lead to an upset in the Ex-Scrubbs' favor. Also, the Misfit-Echo game might lead to an upset for the Misfits, further complicating Garnet League standings.

Next Week

The final run will find plenty of competition among the present leading contenders for the respective league championships.

The Eight Balls meet the Keltics in a game that will probably decide the top team of the Orange League.

The Misfits face the Buzzards in the final heat of the Garnet League race.

The last round will find Echo and the Ex-Scrubbs tangling in a game that may be the climax of the race for the Garnet League title.

Handball

A handball tournament is to be held Monday, March 10. Last day to sign-up for this event will be noon, Saturday, March 8. Sign-up sheets will be posted on the Carnegie bulletin board and at the Intramural Office. All men are eligible and special experience in handball is not necessary to enter the meet. Intramural points for individual scoring will be recorded for all participants in the tournament toward intramural awrds.

Softball

Entries of softball teams will not be accepted at the Intramural Office until after the basketball play-off game is over, Coach Mehl announces. The Play-off game is slated for the 16th of March; therefore softball will not begin until after this play-off game.

Basketball Results This Week

—Wednesday—

The Bombardiers gained revenge over the Eight Balls, 27-24. Forrester with 12 points and Henry with 11 accomplished the task for the Bombardiers in a hard fought game. Pepper spattered the Eight Balls by sinking 9 points.

Echo, led by Bell with 5 goals, routed the Moonshiners, 24-13, Jernigan landed 7 points for the losers.

The Fancy Dans mastered the Yokels, 29-25 to settle for a previous loss by one point, 33-32 in their first meeting. House of the Fancy Dans tied with Abbott 11-up to take scoring honors.

The Machines downed Alpha Sigma, 36-25 to make up for their previous loss at the hands of Alpha Sigma. Miller tallied 10 points for the Machines while Schleber and Burchfield each took 8 points for the losers.

The Crescents, sparked by Rettke's 10 points, outscored the Devils, 28-10. Wilson put in 2 goals for the Devils.

The Misfits made putty out of the Choir opposition to mold a victory and put Choir at the short end of a lobsided score, 45-4. Cecil added 12 tallies to the Mis-

M. C. Trackmen Have Long, Successful History; Look at Highlander Records

BY BRICK BRAHAMS

With the return to post-war athletic programs and the advent of spring, sports fans turn their attention to the prominent spring sports of which track is one. Although track is somewhat overshadowed by football, basketball and baseball, Maryville has done very well in past years in this the sport of the individual. In 1933, Maryville College was the Southeastern A.A.U. Champ, and winner of the Smoky Mountain Conference title. In 1934, 35, and 36, Maryville placed second to University of Tennessee in the State Meet. In 1939 Maryville won the State Meet. They also won the Conference Championship and defeated Tennessee, Chattanooga, and Vanderbilt in dual meets. Since 1939 there is no record of Track accomplishments.

This year there are over 40 men out for track under the guidance of Coach Walter Mehl. With this large number of men interested in track, there should be some interesting meets and results.

The most important thing to a track man, next to winning, is to do the best he can in his particular event. The ultimate season goal is to break the existing record. All fans who go to a track meet want to know what the record for the event is and when the race or field event is over they will compare the time or distance to see if a record has been broken. Maryville College trackmen will be aiming at the existing records in all events this year. If the cross country season of this year is any indication, the records most likely to fall are the mile, two-mile, 880, and 440. It is hard to say what other records are in danger because not much is known about the abilities of this year's squad. Although we respect the prowess of former Scottie trackmen, it is hoped that many records will be broken this year so that Maryville will keep its name as one of the best track schools in the State.

Alumni Forms Filed By Senior Class Members

Senior class members had a meeting Wednesday, February 26, after chapel. Invitations were shown and plans were made for taking orders for them. Irvin McArthur, chairman, presented the plan to the class. Mr. James Smith secretary of the Alumni Association explained some forms which have to be filled out by all seniors. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for collecting pledge cards to the college endowment fund.

Further plans will be announced later.

DR. LLOYD TO SPEAK TO I. R. C. MONDAY

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of the college, will be the speaker at IRC on Monday night at 6:45. The meeting will be held in Thaw 214. Dr. Lloyd will speak on the subject of "Politics in China". There will be a discussion of the IRC Convention which will be held in March at Randolph Macon College in Virginia. There is a possibility that Maryville will send two representatives to this conference.

Marine Captain To Visit M.C. March 17 To Enlist Reserves

Nashville, Tenn., Captain James C. Short, USMC of the Marine Corps Schools in Quantico, Virginia, will visit Maryville College from Monday, March 17, through Wednesday, March 19, 1947, in the interests of Marine Corps Officer procurement through Platoon Leaders Classes.

Marine Platoon Leader Classes are open to freshmen as well as sophomores and juniors. Students selected for the program are enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve (Inactive). As reservists, they are subject to call to active duty only during a state of National Emergency, unless they request such assignment.

Members attend either one or two, six week periods of summer military training at the Marine Corps Schools in Quantico, Va. Students enlisted when freshmen or sophomores attend two summer training periods prior to graduation, while juniors attend only the advanced summer training period. No military training is required during the academic year of enrollment.

For the first summer training period, students are Marine Corporals and are salaried at $90.00 per month. During the second period, they are Sergeants and receive pay at the rate of $100.00 per month. All platoon leaders are quartered, subsisted, clothed, and furnished medical attention and transportation from their homes to the place of training and return.

Requirements for Platoon Leaders Classes state that students must be male citizens of the United States, between 17 and 25 years old, must not be married and must remain unmarried until completion of the senior course of military training, and must be exempt from induction under the present Selective Service Act.

After successful completion of the required periods of military training and after graduation from college with a baccalaureate degree, Platoon leaders are eligible for appointment to the commissioned rank of Second Lieutenant, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. A limited number of Platoon Leader graduates may be commissioned in the regular Marine Corps dependent upon the qualifications and desires of the individuals concerned and the vacancies existing in the regular establishment for such appointments.

DEBATE TRIP . . . .

don't know what you're missing—and take my word for it—you should be glad you don't. It isn't the most pleasant pasttime in the world. There was one consolation to spending that time in the station, however, we did get our feet thawed out. Mr. Peiper also found time to catch a few cat naps, too.

Finally we arrived in Cookeville about 4:30 after 9 long hours on the way. What is that old expression—tired but happy? We were both. But I think we were more tired than happy because we were not looking forward too happily to the debates and speeches before us.

However, we plunged right into the task ahead. Thursday night the poor debaters kept debating and rebutteling until after 11:00. Then we slipped and slid our way sleepily over the icy sidewalks back to the hotel and to bed. At least most of us did. We still wonder what happened to Roger until 1:30 the next morning? He kept murmuring something about Oak Street, but that didn't help us very much.

The next morning after more debates and more speeches we sat around biting fingernails and pacing up and down waiting for the results to be announced. Finally after much beating around the bush and going around Robin Hood's barn several times the chairman announced the results. Whew! That was a relief. As a whole we didn't do so badly. We had good experience and had a swell time. Besides—those judges just seemed to be against us. I guess they just didn't like our looks—or something.

On our way back we made pretty good connections and made it back in 6 hours. All the way back we kept hearing echoes of words and phrases which had pounded their way into our memories during the trip. As I sat back enjoying the ride, all around me I could hear mutterings. "Should I should or should I shouuldn't?" came from John's direction. Roger kept saying Mother! !" over and over. I heard Bill mutter "I still rise to a point of order". Stu kept wondering out loud. "Did we look too bad?" Peggy and Dave were too interested in each other to say anything. I don't know whether I muttered anything or not, but I dare anyone to mention "little or no competition" to me again.

Mr. Peiper slept peacefully on.

"BARRETS OF WIMPOLE ST." REPEATS TONIGHT

WSSF Campaign To Begin This Mon.

Miss Pat Caruthers, head of the World Student Service Drive at the University of Tennessee, will be the speaker at chapel Wednesday morning, March 12. This program will be part of the campaign conducted by Maryville in its effort to secure $1,111, the amount set as the goal for our WSSF drive. Students and professors all over the country have been asked to contribute a total of $600,000.

WSSF was established in 1937. Its purpose is to help in the rehabitation and restoration of students all over the world to health, to self-assurance, and to study. These students have suffered immeasurably during and since the war.

WSSF is the American branch of the World Student Relief Fund organization with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. Students and professors of fourteen lands contribute to WSR. It is a non-governmental, international organization working impartially with all creeds, races, nationalities, and religions. Included in its aims are spiritual and ethical as well as intellectual rehabilitation. Through it many students are aided directly while others are helped indirectly by self-help opportunities.

War Time Activities

During the war WSSF was active in 33 countries in prisoner of war camps where educational and recreational programs were conducted. Evacuee students in Europe and Asia were given clothing, supplies, and food.

Chinese Cooperation

WSR is only one of the cooperating agencies in China where the government and local student committees assume responsibility for part of the program. There is in addition to the government subsidies, self-reliance programs through which the government provides students with labor. Funds sent to China are used extensively for nutritional aid and the necessary school supplies. Here, too, is the problem of relocating displaced students. Student centers providing food, baths, drinking water, study rooms, libraries, cultural and recreational facilities are one of the most important services. The need is expected to continue for five to ten years.

Similar programs are in force in the Philippines, Burma, India, and Indonesia in the Far East. In the Philippines many of the colleges and universities have been completely destroyed.

Conquered Countries

Japanese students will be helped under the plan wherever occupying forces will permit. This is in conformity with the principles of WSR. Relief for German students has not yet been authorized by the occupying authorities, but preliminary work has already been started.

Europe's students are receiving direct relief. Many of them are sharing their meager supplies. Students and professors were deported, exiled, persecuted, enslaved, and executed. This has resulted in both mental and physical ill-health.

Our Chance

Maryville College students and faculty will have the opportunity to aid those students in other countries where war has deprived them of adequate educational and living facilities by contributing to the World Student Service Fund drive next week. Beginning Monday a committee headed by Al Lesnick and Evelyn Bunch will do person to person canvassing. Each student will receive a pledge card which may be turned in at any one of the numerous tables that will be located in various places all over the campus. Mary Ruth Barber is chairman of the committee which is composed of: Mr. Peiner, faculty; Connie Hawkins, Student Vols; George Gillett and Leo Wu, YM; and Joy Stewart and Jeanne Blanchard, YW. Headquarters will be in Pearsons where all questions will be answered.

What Happens To "Deskie" In Library Tuesday Nights Shouldn't Happen ....

BY ILDA MOSBY

Why don't some people go to town on Tuesday nights? Why? In order to make life even more miserable for the library desk assistants. Six days and four other evenings doesn't give them sufficient time to haunt the poor souls. No, they must be waiting at the door at 6:59 p. m. in order to dash into the library before the lights are turned on to harry the deskies. Have they ever turned them on? No. When the librarian shows you which switches to throw, she cautions you not to touch anything except the handles and then only one at a time. In this wild scramble to unlock the Echo and Debate room doors (the writers and speakers must gain admittance at once) and illuminate the main library, grabbing two switches at once happens before you know it, and the resulting shock is far from pleasant, and the deskie quakes all evening. By then somebody is too hot and the windows must be lowered. Experience doesn't seem to help here, and a loud crash can be heard as the pole hits the window. Miracles do happen and none have been broken—yet.

Before the evening is over some dozen people request the renewal of books they've forgotten, or want to check out reserve books an hour early.

According to the manual, the attendance in the library is to be counted each hour. Do people cooperate? No, you count them once on the reserve side, cross to the magazine alcove, count them a second time, and add them in a third time when you proceed farther and find them talking to a friend in the reference end. Naturally some are considerate enough to keep just one move ahead of you and they never are included in the total. Cryptic comments concerning the counter's ability usually accompany this task.

From the numbers of unpaid fines it would seem that most students are broke all the time. Returning books when due or having them renewed is beyond the comprehension of sophomores, juniors and seniors. Only freshman do that. (One sophomore girl brought back a book dated Feb. 14 and after combining both her and her escort's cash, couldn't quite make seventy-five cents. A fine card was made out and the deskie found that the book had been renewed—without being brought in

Lewis Conviction Upheld

The conviction of John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers Union for criminal contempt of court was sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States. The personal fine of $10,000 against Lewis was upheld and described as clearly warranted by the high tribunal. The fine against the Mine Workers Union was reduced from three and one half million to seven hundred thousand dollars on condition that the Union comply with Judge Goldsborough's order to withdrew the notice cancelling the Miners' wage contract with the Government and inform its members of this action.

Governor Disputes Argued

The State Supreme Court of Georgia is hearing arguments on the constitutitonality of the election of Herman Talmadge, son of the late Eugene Talmadge, as Governor of Georgia. Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson also claims to be Governor of the state. Talmadge was elected by the state legislature after his father died, before assuming office. Thompson, who was elected Lt. Gov., based his claim to the office on the law of succession. The Court is expected to render a decision within the next week.

U. S. Attacks Russian Policy

The United States Government has accused Soviet Russia of attempting to overthrow the democratic government and set up a dictatorship in Hungary. A note to this effect was dispatched to Moscow by Secretary of State Marshall. Marshall charges that the arrest of Bela Kovacs, member of the Hungarian parliament was unwarranted and that accusations of his having formed anti-Soviet terror groups are false.

Secretary Marshall is now enroute to Moscow to represent the United States in the Big Four Peace Conference.

New "Brain" Demonstrated

The technical research group of the University of Pennsylvania has developed a new electronic mathematical "brain", which is little short of sheer magic. Consisting of a maze of coils, tubes, and wires, the device adds, subtracts, multiplies, and divides. The machine is said to "memorize" a thousand ten digit numbers.

Greece Problem Faced

President Truman is expected to make an announcement shortly regarding American intervention in Greece. The British Government has requested miltary and financial help in administering the internal affairs of the Greek government.

Herrick B. Young, Ph. D., secretary of the Department of Missionary Personnel of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, will speak to the student body during the regular chapel period on Tuesday, March 11. He will then be available for interviews until noon in Dr. Lloyd's office.

A former dean of a college in Persia, Dr. Herrick has relationships with many youth organizations and other groups in the United States.

Joining National Student Organization Discussed

The Student Council met last Tuesday night, March 5. It discussed at length the question of entry into the now-forming National Students' Organization. This attempt to unify college students all over the country invites Maryville to send a delegate or delegates to the caucus of the Kentucky-Tennessee district held at Lexington, Kentucky. After considerable discussion it was finally decided to postpone the reply until further investigation.

In the old-business department it was reported that the danger sign to be placed at the foot of the steps will soon display its warning to students who cross Court Street.

A favorable report was made concerning the first trial of the Council-sponsored Town Night Swimming.

Student-Faculty Senate was announced scheduled for 3:30 p. m. Friday, March 7.
